Ike Schlank, the newly elected president of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, is more than pleased with the volume of business which has accrued here in the past week, since its reorganization and the announcement of its new policy. "Unicorn is on the map to stay," said Mr. Schlank, in discussing the rush of business, "and our policy has proven that exhibitors everywhere are anxious to get the very best in films. At the present time we are releasing 21 reels a week, the features embracing one and two-part dramas, comedies, and western photoplays of the highest character. I would like to impress upon the exhibitor that each feature that is put out by Unicorn, and which bears the Unicorn endorsement, has been selected by a jury of capable men.

During the past week reports from the twenty-eight branch offices of the Unicorn Film Service indicates that business is booming. At the present time Unicorn, through its exchanges, covers the entire territory of the United States, and each branch manager is enthusiastic over the volume of business that is rolling in. In fact, it can be said that judging from reports received, that business so far as Unicorn is concerned, was never better.

ESSANAY ENGAGES HARRY WATSON, JR.

George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, is planning a strong line of one and two-reel comedies to be released on the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service. Harry Watson, Jr., is the first comedian to be engaged for this work. Negotiations practically have been completed for several other of the best comedians of the world to work for Essanay in putting out comedies for this service.

Mr. Watson already is at the Essanay studios in Chicago and will begin work on the floor at once. The "Mishaps of Musty Suffer" will be continued. Mr. Watson has a brand new line of comedy, however, which is declared to be better than anything he has yet produced.

Mr. Watson has had a long stage and screen career and needs no introduction to the motion picture public, being known from coast to coast. He was born in West Bay City, Mich., and began his stage career when quite young in "Me, Him, and I." He was with Ringling's circus for a time and later with the "Ziegfeld Follies," and with Anna Held in vaudeville.

He has recently been engaged with George Kleine in the production of the "Mishaps of Musty Suffer."

Unicorn Announces New Pictures

Billy West Said to Be a Good Screen Comedian—Other Dramas and Comedies.

THE newly elected president of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, Ike Schlank, announces that he has had the good fortune to discover a new comedian who is entirely different in rank and file from the screen fun-makers. The personage in question is Billy West, who has been well known to audiences everywhere for his extremely funny work. While Billy West bears a striking resemblance to a certain famous comedian of the films, at the same time his methods are so original that the pictures in which he appears mark a distinctly new epoch to the screen. According to Mr. Schlank, Billy West is destined to make a distinct impression upon exhibitors and patrons of the Unicorn program.

"The Billy West pictures," said Mr. Schlank, "are each in two reels, and what metropolitan critics have pronounced to be screaming comedy. Each picture is directed by a producer who is skilled in knowing the desires of lovers of quick action comedy. I have made it a personal task to supervise the selection of every inch of the Billy West pictures, and I think I can safely say that they are the "speed limit" for riotous comedy. They will be released every other Monday, beginning November 9, when the first Billy West picture, entitled "His Married Life," will be offered to exhibitors through Unicorn's twenty-eight exchanges. "His married Life" shows the vicissitudes of a much mated man whose spouse pursues him through a series of rollicking adventures including a bomb explosion and a runaway. The spectator who cannot laugh at this picture is not entitled to be alive, and the same holds true of the other comedy features in which this newly-discovered comedian appears. Important among Unicorn's announcements is a three-reel drama, "The Path of Darkness," which was produced by the Norbig Film Company, and which deals with a topic of present day interest, vitally important to every modern man and woman. Questions which are of the most timely interest are fearlessly dealt with in this striking feature."

Yet another of the novelties on the Unicorn program is the new two-reel society drama "When Hands Are Idle," in which a new and beautiful star in the person of Barbara Castleton, one of the best known of the younger stage emotional actresses, is introduced to the picture-loving public. "When Hands Are Idle" shows the dangers into which a neglected married woman may be drawn, owing to the engrossment of her husband's business. Miss Castleton portrays with wonderful sympathy and power the part of a neglected wife who innocently is drawn into an orgy of the basest character. The climax of "When Hands Are Idle" is remarkable for its divergence from the ordinary run of picture plays, and forms a fitting culmination to the screen drama which is marked from the first scene to the last by unusual situations.

"The Vengeance of Dan McGrew" is a production which is strictly up to the Unicorn standard. Good dramatic action characterizes the scenes throughout. The scenes take place in a rugged country, and deal with the lives of real human beings, in whose veins the red blood runs strong. "The Vengeance of Dan McGrew" is just as good a picture, according to the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, and will attract big interest in a theater showing it. An interesting feature for the present week is entitled "The Honor of the Tribe." This is a two-reel feature which graphically describes the love story of a rough western trapper who was redeemed from the consequences of a careless life by a beautiful Indian maiden who was snared in one of his traps in the snow-covered wilderness.

Just by way of variety, Unicorn offers another comedy to which the alluring title of "Disposing of a Lover" has been given. Other features which the Unicorn says are worthy of the exhibitor's attention are "An Indian Maid's Vengeance," in two reels; "The Lost Ring" and "U. S. Fighting Craft." This latter picture is particularly timely at the present moment, as it shows Uncle Sam's mammoth warships in active maneuvers and will serve to show audiences the exact status of the American navy. One look at this picture will utterly rout all questions as to the preparedness of our "bull-dogs" of the sea, to defend our coast. Mr. Schlank states that within a few days he will have further announcements of great interest to the exhibitors. His plans embrace several important features additional to the Unicorn program, which he is confident will result in a great benefit to all concerned. Reports coming to the Unicorn home offices from its various branches indicate that business throughout the country is excellent.

LAST SCENES OF "BIG TREMAINE" FILMED.

The last scenes of "Big Tremaine," starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison, were filmed last week at the Metro-Yorke California studio, and Director Henry Otto is now busily engaged in the process of assembling and titling this Metro production. Lester Cuneo, it is said, stands out like a monument in the supporting cast of this Metro-Yorke picture, and the same applies to Lillian Hayward, William Ephe, Virginia Southern, William De Vaull and Josephine Rice. "Big Tremaine" is booked for early release on the Metro programme. It follows Harold Lockwood's and May Allison's Metro-Yorke production, "Mister 44."

"The Vampires" Series Starts November 24

Gaumont Thriller Will Run Nine Weeks Through Mutual in Episodes of Three Reels Each.

HAVING given the "Fantomas" series time enough to act as an effective introduction to the Gaumont style of quick-fire detective stories, that company now announces the first release of "The Vampire," for November 24. The series will appear in nine weekly instalments of three reels each. "The Vampire" has never before been shown in America, but exhibitors are not being asked to book a new, unknown series, since "The Vampire" has been remarkably successful both in France and in England.

The Vampires are a band of powerful law breakers who have all France terrorized. At the head are men of superior intelligence. They plot so craftily that their reward is great wealth stolen from the rich and murder which remains undiscovered. Against them is pitted an energetic young reporter of a Paris newspaper. The Vampires are really the Crime Trust of France. Criminals who seek to work independently are either crushed or taken into the organization. Hence, the reporter is fighting practically single-handed against the cunning ingenuity of a highly organized gang of desperate, resourceful men.

It is just such a setting as this which develops the ingenuity and tests the skill of a French director. The success with "The Vampire" has been attested by broken records at the Palais Gaumont in Paris, and the long runs in other large cities in France. Those familiar with film facts in England will recall the success of this series there, where it appeared under the general title of "Charles de la Rue, Crime Investigator."

The first release of the series is called "The Detective's Head." It plunges the spectator immediately into a mystery which is compounded of intrigue, crime and desperate daring. The French are masters of screen detective stories, just as they are of detective fiction, and in "The Vampires" this style of sensational photoplay is seen at its best.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IN WORLD PRODUCTION.

The second release of the World Film Corporation's Clara Kimball Young service is due for November 13. Its title is "Without A Soul," and it is a picturization of the novel "Lola."

This story not alone carries a strongly developed love interest but raises a question of vital import to all who are interested in the research of scientists aimed at the restoration of human life when it has departed. Supposing re-animation of the dead to be possible, as many believe, is it also possible to reinstate the soul when it once has fled?

The principal role in "Without A Soul" is the charming daughter of an elderly savant whose labors of years have been devoted to the perfection of rays which will create new life in the body of one who has passed beyond. Just when success has crowned his efforts the scientist's beloved daughter is struck by an automobile and killed, and he applies the vivifying rays to her inert body.

In this play Miss Young enjoys a singularly broad range of emotions for portrayal. Prior to the accident Lola is a sweet, gentle, guileless girl, serene in filial affection for the elderly scientist and genuine love for the worthy young man she has promised to marry. From the instant her pulse begins to beat anew she is utterly transformed in thought, word and action. She steals from the father she has so tenderly regarded, deceives the lover who has possessed her whole heart, falls willingly into the arms of men she previously scorned, and pursues a general course of thorough depravity.

Those who have witnessed "Without A Soul" in its present state are free in expressing the conviction that Miss Young has rarely if ever been seen to such complete advantage as in the present instance.

REPEATS ON TWENTY-FIVE-WEEK SERIES.

Repeat bookings on individual features are sometimes heard of, but it has remained for an enterprising Michigan exhibitor to plan a repeat run of an entire twenty-five week series. This unusual tribute to a picture's popularity has been paid to Kalem's "The Girl From Frisco," by Lester E. Matt, of the Strand Theater, Flint, Michigan. With his order for the second-run Exhibitor Matt sent the following letter to the General Film office at Detroit.

"I wish to reserve the right on second run on 'The Girl From Frisco,' and I would thank you to keep it out of any other theater here until we have repeated on ourselves. I expect to run this series again after I have nearly completed the first run and if anything happens that we change our mind I will pay you second run on the entire series."

NEW YORK AND JERSEY RIGHTS.

Mr. Rosenbluh announces that the Variety Films Corporation has also the exclusive New York and New Jersey rights to "The Pursuing Vengeance," of which probably the most important feature is the fact that it stars Sheldon Lewis, who was the big sensation of the "Exploits of Elaine" and the "Iron Claw," besides numerous other serials. Mr. Rosenbluh states that he is of the opinion that in "The Pursuing Vengeance," he has a very remarkable five-part feature, inasmuch as it deals with a subject not hitherto treated upon the screen. "The Pursuing Vengeance" is based upon Burton E. Stevenson's master work "The Mystery of the Boule Cabinet."

MOSS SELLS RIGHT TO "POWER OF EVIL."

During the past week, B. S. Moss disposed of [illegible] states on his initial release, "The Power of Evil." Among the concerns which purchased territory were the Kriterion Film Company of Boston, who bought the New England states; Electric Supply Company of Philadelphia, Southern New Jersey, Eastern Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and [illegible] Federal Film Corporation, Kansas City, Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa; and the Independent Film Corporation, Minneapolis, Minnesota, Wisconsin and North and South Dakota. The rights for Australia and New Zealand have been taken by the Co-operative Film Exchange, Ltd. The English rights have also been disposed of.

Notes of the Trade

SIX of the twenty-five principals in the Frohman production of "The Witching Hour" are: C. Aurey Smith, Marie Shotwell, Robert Conness, Jack Sherrill, Helen Arnold and Etta De Groff.

• • •

When "The Breaker" was being filmed by Essanay, various scenes were necessary in the worst district of Chicago. Nell Craig, playing the feminine lead, supplied herself with several dollars' worth of pennies and made all the little children of the slum neighborhood happy by distributing them between scenes. When she started to play "Lady Bountiful" there were about a dozen urchins in sight. A minute later there were three hundred. An entire vacant tenement was leased for a month by Essanay so that the scenes, requiring half a day, could be taken without inconvenience.

• • •

The Yosemite Valley Lumber Company has granted permission to the Helen Holmes Signal-Mutual Company which is filming "A Lass of the Lumberlands" to use the former's camps in the production of that fifteen-chapter serial. Also to use an inclined timber railway 8700 feet long and laid on a gradient of 3,400 feet to the top of a range of mountains.

• • •

Florence La Badie, the Thanhouser star, Frederic Sullivan, her director, and Philip Lonergan, author of "Enemies of Society," recently consumed nearly an entire week visiting Sing Sing, the Tombs, the New York district attorney's office and the criminal courts, searching for color to be used in Miss La Badie's next picture.

• • •

Ethel Clayton and Carlyle Blackwell will be seen next in "The New South," a World-Brady picture made from the stage drama of the same name, which was immensely popular for years among theater patrons.

• • •

J. G. Hawks is author of a Triangle-Ince play in which Dorothy Dalton has just begun work, under direction of Raymond B. West.

• • •

Featuring Dorothy Phillips, Lon Chaney and Maude George, Director Joseph De Grasse is filming at Universal City "The Piper's Price" in five reels. The story was written by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow and prepared for the screen by Ida May Park.

Picture Theaters Projected

HOT SPRINGS, ARK.—The Royal Theater has been remodeled and the seating capacity increased.

MILL VALLEY, CALIF.—Mary E. Nichols has taken over the Hub Theater.

DENVER, COLO.—Bishop Cass Investment Co., 912 Sixteenth street, has let the contract for the erection of a four-story theater and office building; 100 by 125 feet, to cost $100,000.

HARTFORD, CONN.—A number of changes have been made in the Empire Theater and the seating capacity increased.

BLOOMINGTON, IND.—The Crescent Theater has been remodeled and reopened.

NORTH VERNON, IND.—A new moving picture theater, the Jennings, has been opened by the North Vernon Amusement Co. The house has seating capacity of 560.

NEW CASTLE, IND.—A new addition has been built to the Starette Theater and the seating capacity increased.

PRINCETON, IND.—The Yale Theater has been remodeled and the interior redecorated.

AMES, IA.—C. Gerbracht plans to erect a two-story moving picture theater, 54 by 100 feet, to cost $30,000.

BUCK GROVE, IA.—A new moving picture theater has been opened here by Hamer & Hemphill.

CALLENDER, IA.—[illegible] by Lawrence Edward.

PAMA, IA.—The Star Theater [illegible] & Yerkes.

LANSING, IA.—A new moving picture [illegible] by L. L. Wittbecker.

FORT SCOTT, KANS.—Miss C. Smith who recently purchased the Pictureland Theater, is having the interior and exterior of the house remodeled and redecorated. More than $3000 will be expended for the improvements.

STAFFORD, KANS.—F. A. Hirsh has taken over the Mystic Theater.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—Ernest Boehringer has let the contract to Fromherz & Drennan, Queen and Crescent Building, to erect moving picture theater on Charles street.

BAY CITY, MICH.—A fireproof moving picture theater is being constructed at the corner of Fourth and Washington streets, for the Commercial Building Company. The house will have a seating capacity of 1100.

FLINT, MICH.—Walter S. Butterfield, Majestic Theater Building, is having plans prepared for a two-story theater and office building, 76 by 153 feet, to cost $150,000.

PORT HURON, MICH.—The seating capacity of the Family Theater has been increased.

DULUTH, MINN.—Work is progressing rapidly on a moving picture and vaudeville theater at the corner of Eleventh street and Tower avenue, for the Cook Amusement Co. The structure when completed will represent an investment of about $100,000.

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The Empress Theater, recently leased by John C. Donnelly, has been thoroughly overhauled, including the redecoration of the interior.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The Astor Theater, at 7 North Broadway, recently taken over by the Rainbow Amusement Company, has been renovated and redecorated.

BELVIDERE, NEB.—A new opera house has been opened here by Frederick P. McCord.

CRETE, NEB.—A new moving picture theater is being constructed for J. L. Saul.

HARVARD, NEB.—P. G. Heald has purchased the Star Theater.

MURRAY, NEB.—Paul and Gasemer have opened a new moving picture theater.

WALTHILL, NEB.—The Silverlight Theater has been taken over by John Shear.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Plans are being prepared for the erection of a theater on block bounded by Bedford and Atlantic avenues and Bedford and Brevoort places. The estimated cost, including site, will represent an investment of about $1,000,000. Paul M. Herzog, president of the Palher Realty Company, is interested.

MASSENA, N. Y.—W. L. Pratt plans to erect a one-story moving picture theater, 50 by 90 feet, to cost $8,000.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.—Dr. H. W. Lilly and F. H. Stedman have plans by J. M. Kennedy, Raleigh, N. C., for a moving picture theater to be leased to H. F. Drake. The house is to have seating capacity of 435.

HIGH POINT, N. C.—Simmons, Penny and Kirkman will erect a building for store and moving picture theater.

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C.—A. F. Sams will remodel and erect addition to Paramount Theater, increasing capacity to 1600.

GENEVA, O.—Company is being organized here for the purpose of erecting a two-story moving picture theater, to cost, $25,000.

READING, PA.—Carr & Schad have opened a new moving picture theater here.

UNION, S. C.—J. A. Cheshire has the contract to erect an opera house and moving picture theater, 150 by 50 feet, brick and concrete, metal ceiling, metal roof, wood floors, steam heat.

CHILHOWIE, VA.—George Henniger has plans by Clarence B. Kearfott, Bristol, Tenn., for a moving picture theater, one-story high, with balcony, 30 by 65 feet, tin roof, probably instal private lighting plant with gasoline engine.

NECEDAH, WIS.—C. E. Babcock will erect a one-story moving picture theater, 42 by 90 feet, to cost $6000. To be leased by Toby & Williams.

MILWAUKEE, WIS.—Langenberger Construction Company, 302 Sixth street, have the contract to make interior alterations to the Princess theater, operated by the Saxe Amusement Enterprise, to cost $10,000.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Boston Judge Enjoins Union

Forbids I. A. T. S. E. Operators from Displaying Banners, Signs or Cards Proclaiming the Apollo Theater or Its Owners as Unfair to American Federation of Labor and from Intimidating Theater's Operators.

By William M. Flynn, 80 Summer St., Boston, Mass

BOSTON.—In the equity session of the Superior Court this week Judge Jenney ordered a final decree restraining and enjoining William C. Francke and other officers and members of Moving Picture Operators' Protective Union of Boston, I. A. T. S. E., Local 182, from displaying banners, signs or cards declaring that the Apollo theater or its owners, Raymond T. Gammon and Theresa Harkins, are unfair to the American Federation of Labor, or refuse to employ members of the A. F. of L. The decree also enjoins them from interfering with the employment by Gammon & Harkins of Harry Martin of Wellbrook, by representing that they will suffer by employing them. The decree is on a bill in equity brought by the Apollo theater owners and by Martin and Wellbrook, moving picture operators employed there and members of the Knights of Labor, following the parade of banners declaring the Apollo theater unfair. The decree is ordered following the court's overruling of exceptions of the defendants to a master's report case.

Majestic Under New Management.

Arctic, R. I.—The fireproof Majestic, seating 1200, has opened under new management at Arctic, R. I., population 25,000, presenting a program of feature plays and vaudeville with a week of repertoire every month.

Alfred Bevin Expects to Resign.

Boston, Mass.—Alfred Bevin, manager of the Bangor office of the Pathe Exchange, Inc., is expected to sever his connections with that firm on Saturday, October 21. Bevin, it is said, will hereafter be connected with the enterprises of Cy Bunts. Grafton Corbett, who is resigning from the local office of the General Film Company, will go to Bangor as Bevin's successor.

Fred Sweet Here—L. J. Hackett Also.

Boston, Mass.—Fred Sweet, the Powers' representative was in Boston this week after an extended trip through the South. Fred called on several of his friends while in town, and said he was about to start on a long trip through Canada. L. J. Hackett, formerly New England manager of the General Film, and who was later connected with the moving picture business in New Haven, Conn., and Albany, N. Y., was also in Boston this week. Mr. Hackett has been taking a vacation, and is undecided as to what he is going to do.

New East Boston Picture Show.

Boston, Mass.—A license to conduct a moving picture theater was granted this week to the Orient Heights Amusement Company. The theater is situated at Boardman and Ford streets, East Boston, and will be a welcome addition to Boston's fast growing list of picture houses. Nobody appeared in opposition to the issuance of the license at a hearing held in City Hall, although one letter of protest was received by Mayor James M. Curley. The mayor did not believe the letter warranted holding up the license so he approved the application and Clerk Casey made out the papers for the new company.

Samuel Haas to Join Metro.

Boston, Mass.—It has been reported in Boston film circles that Samuel Haas, who for years has been connected with the General Film in this city and also in Texas, is to join the Metro staff of road men. Haas is one of the most popular young men in the business in New England. He has a wide acquaintance and much experience in the moving picture field. If the rumor is true he should prove a valuable acquisition to the Metro people.

G. A. Whitney Going to Sell Out.

Boston, Mass.—It is rumored in moving picture circles here, that George A. Whitney, of Fitchburg, has sold or is about to sell all of his theatrical interests in Fitchburg and Springfield to Spitz & Nathanson of Providence, R. I.

Ralph Pinkham Assisting at the Mutual.

Boston, Mass.—Ralph Pinkham, who will be remembered as one of the bookers in the local office of the General Film Company in the old days, has been made assistant manager of the Boston office of the Mutual under Joseph Roth. Pinkham is one of the best known moving picture men in New England, and has received a host of congratulations on his promotion.

Boston Gives Fund for School Picture Shows.

The Boston school committee has voted $1,000 to be expended to entertain the school children during the winter months with moving pictures. Superintendent of Schools Franklin P. Dyer was strongly in favor of the pictures for the school children. These picture shows will be in the manner of entertainments and frequently there will be a lecturer along with the picture.

Baltimore Still Enforcing Plague Ban

Schools Are Open for Children Over Thirteen, But Theaters Cannot Yet Admit Them—Serial Release Date Put Off.

By J. L. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Terrace, Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, Md.—The lid is still clamped down tight on the infantile paralysis situation in this city, and it is understood from statements made by Health Commissioner Blake that his new ruling, which has recently gone into effect, that children over thirteen years of age may attend the schools, regardless of what grade they are in, does not mean that the ban on theaters has been lifted or that it has been changed in the least. However, there is a persistent rumor which seems to have some foundation, that within two or three weeks the exhibiting business will again resume normal.

Through the activities of O. D. Weems, manager of the Mutual exchange, in this city, the release date of the Helen Holmes serial, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," has been changed and the first chapter of this serial will not be released on October 23, as scheduled, but on November 15, for Mr. Weems took this matter up with the New York office and after explaining that the serial would have a better showing if released after the paralysis ban had been lifted, and the theaters would have a chance to get the children in on the first episode.

Charles E. Anderson, manager of the Grand theater, Hylandtown, has booked this serial, and the first episode will be shown on November 14, and as a special inducement to his patrons he will admit the public at the matinee performance on this date free of charge. He expects that this will be a drawing card for the picture.

Gordon Theater Opens.

Baltimore, Md.—On Thursday, October 12, the Gordon theater, located at Baltimore and Catherine streets, was opened to the public under the management of H. Cook. This is a new house and is owned by the Waverly Theater Company.

New Hippodrome Manager.

Baltimore, Md.—Last week was anniversary week at Loew's Hippodrome, and for the event an especially arranged program of nine reels, including "The Return of 'Draw' Egan," with William S. Hart, direct from the Rialto theater, in New York City. But a greater surprise than this was attendant to the anniversary in the event of a new manager being installed in the person of George A. McDermit. Mr. McDermit, a former newspaper man, was at one time associated with Proctor's, in Newark, N. J.

Berman Theater Reopens.

Baltimore, Md.—On Tuesday, October 17, Berman's theater, 1 and 3 South High street, opened its doors to the public under the management of J. B. Fields, who has recently been at the Leader theater, on South Broadway. This house has been practically rebuilt and now presents a neat appearance. A new system of ventilation and a gold fiber screen have been installed and everything is being done by Mr. Fields for the comfort of the patrons. The entrance has been changed from Baltimore street to High.

Spokane Class A Gets Fox Films

Manager Stilwell Now Has Big Fox and Metro Contracts.

By S. Clark Patchin, E. 1811 Eleventh Avenue, Spokane, Washington.

SPOKANE, WASH.—The Stilwell Theaters company has closed a contract with the Fox corporation whereby all its releases will be shown regularly at the Class A theater. B. W. Copeland, assistant manager, announced that the first Fox releases would be shown October 25. Some of the features will be shown at the Casino theater, also operated by the company. The first Fox picture to be shown at the Casino will be Theda Bara in "Under Two Flags."

In securing the exclusive contract of the Fox pictures, Manager Stilwell now has two of the big film services, having closed for the Metro pictures a few weeks ago. He also has the call on the best things of the Mutual program.

Vampire Popularity—Why?

Spokane, Wash.—A parody on Rudyard Kipling's "Vampire" has been composed by Mrs. Harry Hawkins, society editor of one of the Spokane dailies (The Spokesman's Review) which she dedicated to moving picture shows. The verse and her story on the vampire plays as it appeared, follows:

A goose there was, and she spent a dime. Even as you and I. Watching a screen Vamp have a time. Even as you and I.

O, the gowns Vamp wore, and the words Vamp swore. As would you or I. If a movie director told us to, and we could get such work to do. Even you or I.

Why do women adore vampire plays? They flock to a vamp production in droves; old ladies in bonnets, young flappers in high white boots with the whole skin of an extinct fox across their shoulders and more than a legal allowance of chewing gum clamped between their teeth.

There are mothers with infants in their arms and young ladies, and they pack a theater that is producing vampire plays to the last rows of the balcony. Why? Not because the plays are naughty, for naughtiness is no longer a lure, the screen subjects have been so wicked for so long. But it is a combination of the attraction of fine clothes and a desire to see some film heroine get even with the male sex.

Take an old lady who has worn the same black dress for five years and has turned it three times. Doesn't she like to see some lithesome creature ooze over the screen in a gown of a million sequins or carelessly trail a real lace train down a flight of steps?

For that hour the old lady revels in a vicarious sort of extravagance. And the woman who trembles when her husband fusses over the overdoneness of the morning's poached eggs just loves to fancy herself making cringing, creeping slaves of about five men at once and delights in imagining herself going to roof garden suppers with a retinue of groveling and abject swains in her wake.

The woman who has always been conventional takes an unholy delight in watching the dame of the screen perk up and get wicked enough to smoke a real cigarette.

Or, the young thing who never has her dances taken at parties sees herself bringing the best fox trotter of the crowd to his knees by her charms. It is a satisfying way of spending the afternoon for all of them.

Welsh-White Fight Films at Orpheum.

Vancouver, B. C.—A private showing of the Welsh-White fight pictures was given on a recent morning at the Orpheum theater, and they were then shown for three days at the National theater under the auspices of the local Aero Club, which was donated ten per cent. of the receipts during the engagement.

Vancouver Censors Up Again

Have Left the Reservation to Which They Were Chased by Fiasco Over "The Spoilers" a Year Ago—Dig Up Scissors and Hit the War Path in Paint and Feathers—Already Flaunting Many Scalps.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—The British Columbia board of censors has recently broken out into spasmodic activity, and in some quarters conditions are almost as bad as before the approach toward sanity noted in the censoring department about a year ago. Since the "Spoilers" fiasco of last November, when the big Selig feature, after being rejected as too immoral to be shown in British Columbia, was passed without a cut by Attorney-General Bowser, there have been comparatively few rejections, but in the past few weeks the lines have been tightened again, and the pressure on some of the exchanges has been especially heavy.

At the Mutual exchange, for example, it was found that a large number of features have recently been rejected. Among these were: "The Love Liar," a five-reel Horsley production, which was condemned as "immoral"; "Fear," a three-reel Thanhouser, as "immoral and gruesome"; "The Quality of Faith," (Thanhouser, 5 reels; "Four Months," (Ince, 4 reels), "The Profligate," (American, 5 reels)—all as too immoral for public exhibition. A Centaur five-reeler, "The Heart of Tara," was condemned because it is a "story of Hindu intrigue, and against public policy," while "A Law Unto Himself," of similar length and produced by the same company, falls under the ban because it is alleged to be "nothing but gun-play, robbery, violence and gruesome scenes; no redeeming features." This makes a total of forty-three reels from a single exchange rejected within a space of about ten weeks, and a circumstance which makes these wholesale rejections particularly offensive is the fact that these pictures are considered to be no more objectionable than a large number of others which have been passed in British Columbia, and are being shown continually without interruption.

"It would appear that the best solution of the trouble," said a local film man, "would be the appointment of a new censoring board to take office under the new Liberal government, and the establishment of an appeal board to review the censors' decisions. Under present conditions a part of the exchange managers are satisfied with the present conduct of the department, while others decidedly are not."

It has been pointed out that as in the case of many others, some of the films mentioned above have been brought back to the province for reconsideration following a previous rejection, and it is hardly to be expected that the present board would concede that their original decisions were wrong, and thus be prevailed upon to pass such pictures as are resubmitted. It is stated that in the case of at least one of the pictures listed, the reason given for the second rejection was entirely different from the one given when the film was originally submitted.

Censorship Dissatisfaction in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Man.—The recent activities of the inter-provincial censor board for Manitoba and Saskatchewan, with headquarters in this city, have proven so obnoxious to local exchange managers that concerted action is about to be taken with a view to securing some form of relief, and a meeting has been arranged with Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer, for the purpose of thoroughly discussing the matter.

Another matter which probably will be taken up on behalf of the exhibitors at the same time is the situation which has developed in the picture shows being given at churches, as there has recently been considerable complaint on this score, the exhibitors feeling that they are being subjected to a sort of unfair competition.

National Amusement Activities.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. P. Nichols, managing director of the National Amusement Company, has just engaged William Hanscher, who formerly conducted the Royal theater in New Westminster, and more lately took over the Opera house in the same city. He will act as a general assistant in looking after the various houses maintained by the National company. It is stated that Mr. Hanscher will retain the opera house for the present, at least, but will spend the greater portion of his time in Vancouver.

Mr. Nichols has installed N. B. Maysmith, former manager of the company's Columbia theater in Victoria, in a similar position at the Columbia in Vancouver, while the house at Victoria now has E. Clark as house manager. E. H. Benson, formerly manager of the Vancouver Columbia, is out on the road with his own legitimate show, called "Somewhere in France."

The delayed seats for the company's new Broadway theater have arrived, and the house will open on October 16, with Frank Gow as manager.

The alterations planned for the Globe theater have been started, and the work will be carried on without the necessity of closing the house. A battery of very powerful lights has just been put up in front of the house, and it is now one of the bright spots on Granville streets. The Globe is doing better business than ever before, using Paramount service exclusively.

Camera Man Keen on a Whaling Trip.

Vancouver, B. C.—In connection with the picture of the display of photographs of moving picture stars in the window of a local jewelry store, which appeared in the WORLD some weeks ago, credit should have been given to A. D. Kean, who took the picture. The "Cowboy Photographer" favored the WORLD man by standing around until midnight taking time exposures. Mr. Kean is now on a trip securing films dealing with the whaling industry.

New Pantages House in Vancouver.

Vancouver, B. C.—The permit for the construction of the new Pantages theatre has just been issued by the city building department, and the plans call for a beautiful building costing $300,000. The structure will be of steel and concrete with brick facings and terra cotta trimmings, and will have a width of 103 feet and a depth of 120 feet. The seating capacity will be 1,800.

The work of demolishing the buildings formerly occupying the site has been completed, and work has begun on the new foundations. Skene & Christie of this city have been awarded the contract for the erection of the building.

A suit over commissions in connection with the deal whereby the Pantages house was to be built on this property, tried in a local court, has just brought out the fact that Alexander Pantages is to pay to C. A. Godson, the owner of the land, a rental of $1,000 per month for the use of it.

Happenings in Philadelphia

Outlook for Winter Business Bright—Calehuff Supply Business Moves to 1233 Vine Street—Special Children's Shows at the Park—New Strand Theater to Be a Beauty—Censors Pass "The Devil's Needle."

By F. W. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

L. Chamberlain Sees Bright Future.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—L. Chamberlain, owner of a chain of theaters up the state, finds little fault with the present conditions of the picture business. He is charging 10 cents admission at all of his houses showing all of the standard and recognized programs.

He finds that the interest in photoplays from the public's point of view is on the increase.

First Run of Fox Films at the Broadway.

Philadelphia, Pa.—J. E. Cohen, manager of the Broadway theater in South Philadelphia, is showing the first runs of all the Wm. Fox features.

Chas. Segall Takes Over the Garden.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Charles Segall has taken over the Garden theater at 53rd and Lansdowne Ave., which he will manage in conjunction with the Apollo.

Calehuff Moves to 1233 Vine St.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Charles A. Calehuff has leased for a term of years the large and commodious quarters at 1233 Vine St. where he will take possession the 20th of the month. The building is three stories and is now being remodeled. A full line of motion picture machine and supplies will be carried in stock.

Local 307 Improves Its Headquarters.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Lou Krouse, the business manager of local 307, Operators' Union, is now busily engaged in attending to the alterations now being made at their headquarters.

New Strand to Be a Beauty.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Herbert Effinger and Dr. Walter Stuemp figure the completion of their theater (The Strand), now under construction at Germantown Ave. and Venango streets, will give to Philadelphia one of the handsomest and largest theaters built along an entirely different plan.

"Romeo and Juliet" at the Victoria.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Frank Buhler, the progressive general manager of the Central Market Street Amusement Co., has booked The Metro's "Romeo and Juliet" for one week at the Victoria theater, 9th and Market St.

Secure Selznick Picture Rights.

Philadelphia, Pa.—An important rumor from reliable sources makes known the fact that Stanley V. Mastbaum, of the Stanley Booking Co., and William E. Smith, of the Paramount Exchange, have acquired the control of the Lewis J. Selznick pictures for this territory.

Censors Pass "Devil's Needle."

Philadelphia, Pa.—"The Devil's Needle," which offended a few members on the staff of the Board of Censors, and was held up on the Triangle program, has eventually been passed and is now booking.

Joseph Harris Back in "Cits."

Philadelphia, Pa.—Joseph Harris, of the Mutual Film corps, has returned from the Mexican border where he was stationed with the first N. Y. Regiment.

"Daughter of the Gods" Attracts.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Anetta Kellerman in "A Daughter of the Gods" was given its premier presentation at the Chestnut St. opera house last Tuesday night, October 17. In view of the enormous crowds which were unable to obtain admission at the opening night, M. J. McSween, the manager, announced that he fully expected to have his entire reservations sold for the week by Thursday. The picture was acclaimed by the critics and the newspapers the following morning as an achievement worthy of the highest praise.

"A Daughter of the Gods" is expected to have a long run here.

Special Children's Show at Park Theater.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A special children's morning performance was inaugurated by John Weber of the Park theater on Saturday, October 14, upon the presentation of "The Battle Cry of Peace."

The performance was arranged for 11 a. m. and the results were most satisfactory. Mr. Weber is now advertising his Triangle and Paramount program in the trolley cars.

Many Requests for Fairbank's Photo.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Many letters from ardent admirers of Douglas Fairbanks are finding their way to the Triangle's local office. In most every instance, Herbert Given, the manager, finds that there is a request for an autograph photo of Mr. Fairbanks. His increasing popularity has undoubtedly resulted from the instantaneous success achieved in his latest sucess, "Manhattan Madness." This picture played a solid week at the Arcadia and was booked for a week at the Victoria.

Church Aids Sunday Show

Pastor Basham, of Akron, N. Y., Conducts Picture Show and Lecture on Sunday Evenings.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—In Akron, N. Y., a village located a few miles from Buffalo, the Rev. R. Arthur Bashman, pastor of the First Presbyterian church there, has begun what is for that locality an innovation at the Park theater. During the fall and winter months he will conduct Sunday evening services consisting of moving pictures, singing, talks, etc. Pictures of an educational and religious character will be featured. The pastor says the Sunday night moving pictures at the theater does not meet with the approval of several of his congregation, but he expected such would be the case. He says he went to Akron to do good for all the people. He says nothing grips like action and that this is an age of motion. He and his committee therefore decided to move with the age and attract to the theater, by means of moving pictures, many who never enter a church. He says he believes in taking none of the personal rights away from anyone. "The Holy City" was recently screened at a Sunday night performance and sung by Pastor Basham, who has an exceptionally fine voice. All available Bible and appropriate educational pictures will be used. According to reports of the minister's Sunday shows, truths of life are made clear to the eye and carried home to the hearts in talks by the Rev. Mr. Basham.

Rogson Film Auto Touring State.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Rogson Film Co., located in the Chapin block, Buffalo, is showing considerable enterprise in advertising the Jules Verne Feature, "Around the World in Eighty Days." The Rogson Co., of which Charles R. Rogers is general manager, has the New York state rights on this picture, exclusive of New York City.

An automobile carrying attractive advertising of this film is being sent by Mr. Rogers on a tour of the state. The machine is driven by Sherman Webster, the new road representative of the Rogson Co., who is extensively booking the feature. Mr. Webster appears at the left of the picture. He was formerly with the Universal in Cleveland. On hundreds of announcements sent out by Mr. Rogers to New York state exhibitors, regarding this feature, he uses the words: "See our advertisement in the Moving Picture World." His company also has the New York state rights on "The Prima Donna's Husband," featuring Holbrook Blinn, and "Where Are My Children?" on which he is receiving extensive bookings. The Rogson Co. has opened an office in the Gayety theater building, New York.

Hughes Service Opens Office.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Hughes Feature Film Service has opened an office at 39 Erie street, Buffalo. Harold Hughes, the proprietor, has been Buffalo manager of the Unicorn for several months. His successor to that position will be announced later.

"We will handle a medium-priced feature service," said Mr. Hughes.

J. C. Hemment Editing "Toto" Film.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Lady Mackenzie Film Co. of Buffalo has completed the "Toto" series of pictures and is assembling them at the company's studio in Franklin street. "Toto," an ape, whose antics place him among the comedians of the first rank, is featured in the film. J. C. Hemment is aiding in assembling the pictures. Mr. Hemment introduced Rainey's African hunt pictures in this country. A new screen and a well equipped assembling table have been added to Lady Mackenzie's studio.

Phoenix to Have Two Theaters.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Out of the ashes of the village of Phoenix, N. Y., which was recently swept by fire, two moving picture theaters will arise, instead of one, which was there formerly. One of the houses will be erected by Emmett Cornell, manager of the Echo theater, Syracuse. Details of the second house will be given later.

Ben Abrams With Triangle.

Buffalo, N. Y.—G. H. Hickey, manager of the Triangle Film, Buffalo, has appointed Ben Abrams, Triangle road representativein this territory. Mr. Hickey reports that Jack Farren, manager of the Victoria theater, Rochester, is getting fine results with Douglas Fairbanks in "Manhattan Madness." St. John's Military School at Manlius, N. Y., is using a Triangle feature each week from the company's local office. Mr. HiHckey has complied with the school's request to send "The Coward."

Manager Christoffers Visits Binghamton.

Buffalo, N. Y.—G. H. Christoffers, manager of the Mutual Film, Buffalo, recently visited Binghamton in the interests of the Mutual's Star series. He called on Ned Kornblite of the Star theater, and Dave Cohen of the Symphony theater, Binghamton; and W. H. of the Endwell theater, Johnson City, N. Y. Mr. Christoffers had an enjoyable motor trip through this territory.

"All exhibitors are beginning to realize that a two-day booking will make them more money than the daily-change program," said Mr. Christoffers.

New Directors of Theatrical Managers Assn.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The following compose the board of directors of the Buffalo Theatrical Managers' Association, organized recently: Peter C. Cornell, Henry J. Carr, John R. Oishei, Earl L. Crabb, Jules H. Michael, Ira M. Mosher, and William F. Graham. The objects are to advance the theatrical business of Buffalo through combinations, and to foster and maintain a permanent friendly and fraternal spirit among the members.

Heard at W. L. Sherry Office.

Buffalo, N. Y.—S. J. Stoughton, general sales manager of the W. L. Sherry Feature Film Co., recently called on D. J. Savage, Buffalo manager. Howard F. Brink, local traveling representative, has completed a long trip through the state.

No Line of Talk for An Auto.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Charles Taylor, Metro representative, Buffalo, is digging up good business despite a handicap. He recently broke an arm while arguing with his automobile. Mr. Segal, formerly with the World Film, Buffalo, has joined Mr. Taylor's sales force.

Joseph Lee Out for Merit.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Joseph Lee, Merit representative in Buffalo, is on an eastern trip in the interests of "Her Surrender," the Merit's latest release. In Mr. Lee's absence his office is in charge of F. W. Wycoff.

Harry Hall Leaves Rand's Troy House.

Troy, N. Y.—Harry Hall, owner of the Novelty and Plaza theaters of Troy, and the Colonial, Rochester, has just leased Rand's opera house of Troy, which was closed for a year. He will spend upward of $15,000 in improving the last-named house.

Geo. Stockton Managing Keiths.

Erie, Pa.—George Stockton, formerly manager of Keith's theater, Buffalo, is now in charge of the Wilkay theater, Erie, Pa.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

C. H. Saunders Unicorn Manager.

Albany, N. Y.—Charles Barlott, of Syracuse, district manager of the Unicorn Film, has appointed C. H. Saunders manager of the Unicorn branch at Albany to succed Mr. Lawrence.

Al Sardino Takes Regent at Syracuse.

Syracuse, N. Y.—Al Sardino, former manager of the Savoy theater, Syracuse, has taken over the Regent theater, that city, and is specializing on big features.

Sister of Happy Hour Manager Dies.

Rochester, N. Y.—Miss Curtis, manager of the Happy Hour theater, Rochester, N. Y., is receiving the sympathy of her friends on account of the recent death of her sister, Mrs. John Kelly, of that city. Among those who attended the funeral was G. H. Christoffers, manager of the Mutual Film, Buffalo.

M. Unger Reopens the Globe.

Buffalo, N. Y.—M. Unger has reopened the Globe moving picture theater, Buffalo. He was formerly manager of Carnival Court, a summer park of this city.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A new stage setting, consisting of a rich velour curtain, has been installed at the Elmwood moving picture theater, Buffalo, by Elmer S. Davis, manager. The drop is in green, trimmed with gold. A new grand piano has been added to the orchestra equipment.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Harold E. Hughes, Buffalo representative of the Unicorn, is covering Western New York in a campaign on the Unicorn's new fall programme.

New Theater at Bathurst, N. B., is Ready

P. J. Lever's New Opera House Will Seat 900—Embodies Many New Ideas in Theater Construction—Has a Stage.

By F. P. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Avenue, St. [illegible], N. B.

BATHURST, N. B.—P. J. Leger has completed his new theater at Bathurst, N. B., to be known as the opera house. Mr. Leger has embodied many of the latest improvements in theater equipment, in his small but well built house. It has a seating capacity of 900, a large stage, with room enough to produce legitimate plays, a rear elevation over the lobby, which is said to be the largest lobby in the provinces with opportunity for a splendid display. The ventilation system is of the best. The operating room is admirably situated, and is equipped with two Powers machines.

Joseph Partridge Expected on Visit.

St. John, N. B.—Joseph Partridge, general sales agent for the Greater Vitagraph company, and well known in Canada through his connection with the General Film, is expected to visit the theaters in this section within a few weeks. Mr. Partridge has many friends in the provinces; all will be glad to see him back.

Imperial Books "Heart of Maryland."

St. John, N. B.—The Imperial theater, St. John, has already closed negotiations with the Metro representative for the exhibition of Herbert Beaupreau's production of "The Heart of Maryland," with Mrs. Leslie Carter in the leading role.

The Night Was Dark When Three Weary Travellers.

St. John, N. B.—Mitchell Bernstein, Louis Rosenfeld, of the Paramount, and Carl Crawford, of the Fox service, are now firm believers in the old saying that "there is no place like home." All three representatives landed at Campbellton, N. B., rather late one evening, recently, and were anxious to lay them down to sleep as soon as possible in order to get an early start on the business of the next day. The few hotels in the town all displayed the S. R. O. as soon as the three travelers marched up to the desks to sign the register. Then began a quest for shelter for the night. Finally one kind-hearted family consented to take them in; it was 2 a. m. when all three found themselves snugly tucked into bed after a long tramp for shelter. They say it was a close call from taking to the haylofts.

"Britain Prepared" Coming Nov. 1.

St. John, N. B.—"Britain Prepared," the ten-reel feature, will be released in this section of the Dominion about the first of November. The advance bookings are exceedingly heavy, and exhibitors announce that [illegible] will be [illegible] admission charges.

To Begin on New Picture Theater.

St. John, N. B.—According to the latest plans, ground will be broken in St. John about April 1st for the new moving picture theater that is to be opened by F. C. Spencer in King's Square. Specifications and drawings of the building will be submitted early in the winter, and the contract let probably by March 1st. This means the theater will be ready for occupancy by the summer. Mr. Spencer now has fourteen theaters in his chain. This will make his 15th. Mr. Spencer is now in Halifax for a few days on business.

M. S. Bernstein to Manage Social Exchange.

St. John, N. B.—Mitchell S. Bernstein, formerly traveling representative from the Toronto office of the Famous Players, has been appointed branch manager of the St. John office. Mr. Bernstein is well known in the Maritime Provinces, having represented the Metro service in this territory. Louis Rosenfeld, whom Mr. Bernstein is succeeding, will be connected with the Toronto office, managing the distribution of the Monarch and Artcraft features. Mr. Rosenfeld will assume his new duties within the next three or four weeks.

Closes Theater for Winter.

Athol, N. B.—S. W. Dimock has closed his theater at Athol for the winter. The business during the summer has been satisfactory, but Mr. Dimock feels that with the summer colony gone, the place cannot very well support a theater.

Carl Crawford Back.

St. John, N. B.—Carl Crawford, local manager for the Fox service, has returned from a business trip to the Montreal office.

"Crimson Stain" Hereabouts.

St. John, N. B.—Jules H. Wolfe, manager of the local Metro exchange, announces big bookings for the opening installment of the new serial, "The Crimson Stained Mystery," which is soon to make its first appearance in this section. A metropolitan run has been secured at the Strand theater, Halifax, where the picture will be shown for a full week.

Interior of P. J. Leger's Opera House at Bathurst, New Brunswich.

Children's Shows in Washington

Club Women and Film Men Meet to Consider Problem of Better Pictures Without Censorship—Prominent Club Women Firmly Against the Latter—Will Lend a Hand in Advancing Good Programs.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—An interesting disclosure was made at a joint meeting of members of the motion picture committee of the District of Columbia Federation of Women's Clubs and members of the film industry of Washington, held to discuss the possibilities of children's matinees. In calling the meeting to order, Chairman Mrs. Jacob John Locher announced that there was no desire on the part of the Federation to bring about the censorship of motion pictures, that she herself was unalterably opposed to Federal censorship, that it was abhorrent to her and to her associates, BUT THEY DO WANT CLEANER PICTURES for adults as well as for children.

The children's matinees are to be the regular shows of the theaters that may be selected for this purpose, plus a one or two-reel subject of particular interest to the youngest of the children that may attend. It is not to be a real educational exhibition, but a well-balanced program that has in it material that will by its makeup be educational, a program that will appeal to the parents as well as the children. There is to be only one difference—a lack of sex problem features and of that comedy which is or closely borders upon vulgarity.

Theater Men to Do Their Part.

There were a number of speakers for both sides. Frank B. Spurrier, manager of the Vitagraph exchange, offered free reels to be used for a period of one month in trying out the scheme of children's matinees, and there also came offers of several theaters, including the Circle, Home and Leader theaters.

It was pointed out that of themselves the purely educational programs would not prove popular in Washington. Other facts of this kind were brought out by Mr. Ferguson who as Gardner Mack, edits the motion picture column of the Washington Times. He stated that the fact that there had not been such matinees established years ago was due to lack of co-operation and initiative on the part of the very women who are now seeking the aid of the exhibitors. He also told them that they were expecting the exhibitors to do all the work.

The suggestion was made that the exchange managers would be glad to submit to the members of the committee for examination various films which they felt sure would meet with approval, and to these the ladies could give their endorsement. That this savored too much of censorship, even in an amateur way, was pointed out by the representative of the Moving Picture World, who suggested that when the ladies saw a picture which particularly impressed them as being of a type they would wish their friends and the juveniles to see that they spread the news by word of mouth. This was agreed to as being much better than censorship, which none of the ladies desired, nor did they want to take it upon themselves to select the various programs that would be required for the purposes under discussion.

Co-operation Needed.

Mr. Walraven, publicity manager in this territory for the Paramount corporation, gave an interesting talk on the possibilities of these matinees, pointing out that the lack of co-operation on the part of the various women's organizations throughout the country that had been agitating the matter had deterred the manufacturers from going too deeply into it. He denied that there were as many bad pictures as the ladies had been led to believe really existed, and corroborated the statement of Mr. Ferguson that hardly more than ten per cent. of the average audience was made up of children sixteen years and under, as shown from a recent two months' census of the theaters.

Dr. William P. Herbst, of the Circle theater, stated that he was exhibiting many films of interest to children and would continue to do so, and Robert H. Campbell, of the Olympic theater, stated his willingness to co-operate with the ladies if they would assume more of the responsibility of operating the theater in the way of selecting the program they would desire, and seeing to it that the exhibitions were advertised in a way to produce patronage, this despite the troubles that had been heaped upon him when he gave seven exhibitions for the benefit of the school children of the neighborhood of his theater, the entire receipts from which had been contributed toward the playgrounds fund.

C. R. Milliman Succeeds J. L. Yates.

Washington, D. C.—Among the week's changes in Washington's filmdom is noted the advent of C. R. Milliman, who comes to assume the management of the Washington Film exchange which markets the Universal product in this territory. He virtually succeeds the late J. Leo Yates, whose sad death was reported in a previous issue of The Moving Picture World, and replaces Joseph A. Lavalle, who has been in charge since early in July.

Mr. Milliman is an old showman with thirty years' experience to his credit and an intimate knowledge of the film business, both from the theater and the exchange end of it. Before entering the motion picture business he was with the Bostock shows for seven years, having been employed as an assistant director handling the transportation of animals. His next step was to become an exhibitor, and he has since conducted several theaters, being at present the owner of a motion picture theater in East Stroudsburg, Pa., which he has leased to another exhibitor, but which he himself operated for a number of years.

He saw better possibilities in the exchange end and soon became associated with the enterprises of Harry M. Warner. Pathe held his services for about a year and a half and he was one of the first employees of the Philadelphia offices. He then entered the employ of the Paramount, remaining with that concern for about a year. About six months ago he joined the International, also in Philadelphia, covering his old territory of eastern Pennsylvania, southern New Jersey and Delaware through which he had traveled for his other employers.

It is rather a hard matter to judge a man at first sight, but Mr. Milliman seems to have the punch and the personality that is going to bring him many friends.

Picture Man May Be National Committeeman.

Washington, D. C.—Barry Bulkley, who is prominently connected with the Hy-Art Masterplays Company, and with other large motion picture interests now in prospect, has just received the indorsement of the Republican Interstate League for the position of Republican national committeeman for the District of Columbia. Mr. Bulkley is very well known in both social and financial circles, and has always taken a great interest in all civic matters. He will also have the endorsement of all connected with the motion picture industry here, for the motion picture men would be highly gratified to see one of their number secure the honor.

Fire Marshal's Annual Report on Theaters

Asks Change in Method in Licensing Operators and a Bill to That Effect Is Now Before Congress—Inspection of Theaters.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—In his annual report, just presented to the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, Fire Marshal P. W. Nicholson, in dealing with the subject of motion picture theaters, says that the manner in which the operators of motion picture theaters are licensed is very unsatisfactory.

"At present," says Mr. Nicholson, "the operator to obtain a license is compelled to pass a written examination to questions in writing, which is a very easy matter for the operator to make copies of, and which is known to have been done in several instances. These written lists of questions have been copied and furnished to persons desiring to obtain a license by paying a certain fee. Some of these same persons after having obtained a license have shown that they are incompetent, and the only proper way is for the operator to pass and show that from a practical knowledge he is competent to be licensed as a motion picture operator.

The fire marshal has drafted a bill recommending to the commissioners that they request and recommend to Congress the enactment of a law providing for a board of three expert examiners; also making appropriation for a sufficient amount to purchase a motion picture machine for the use of the examining board. Such examinations will provide only proficient operators, and requiring the operator when passing a satisfactory examination to pay a small fee for his license, which will provide a fund for the running expenses of the examining board. The commissioners approved the bill and forwarded the same to each branch of Congress, recommending enactment into law. The bill as presented has been introduced and is now before the proper committee in each branch of Congress, but has not become a law at the time of writing this report.

Only One Violation of Regulations.

"There was only one case of violation of the regulations governing the motion picture theaters during the year on the part of the managers of these theaters. Daniel Thompson, colored, manager of the Chelsea theater, was charged with the violation of article 14, section 13, of the police regulations, operating a machine without a license. He was allowed to forfeit $5 collateral in the police court as a warning to the other managers and operators, notwithstanding the fact that he was severely burned about the face and arms and hands and was confined in the hospital for a period of about six weeks.

Seventy Theaters Inspected.

"From November 1, 1915, the beginning of the license year, up to and including June 30, 1916, the end of the fiscal year, seventy motion picture theaters were examined and approved as being in conformity with the regulations and licenses issued. Although seven have closed their doors since the beginning of the license year, others have been opened to make the quota the same as last year. During the year 21 open-air motion picture parks have been examined and approved and licenses issued; a decrease of two over the preceding year. These motion picture theaters and parks are scattered over different sections of the city and are visited at least once a week, especially on Saturday and Sunday evenings and holiday performances, when the largest crowds are found, in order to be certain that the regulations are being adhered to, which regulations are strictly enforced by the fire marshal."

ARTCRAFT'S NEW OFFICES.

Attractive Exchange Has Been Got Ready by Manager Whitaker—Is Conveniently Arranged.

Washington, D. C.—The Artcraft Pictures Corporation has obtained possession of a second room in the building at 1320 F street, northwest, and will soon secure another which will give it possession of the entire second floor of the double building. The room just acquired is to be used for the storage of posters and advertising matter, and films. At the left of the entrance from the main hall are the paper racks, with one rack for the storage of cuts. In front of these is the rewinding and inspection table, with four metal film cabinets nearby. The booker's desk is near the window at the front of the room.

The room is fitted out in a very neat manner. The floor is covered with a heavy linoleum. The room is well lighted for the entire front to within a few inches of the floor and ceiling is of glass. In addition, in the center of the room is an electric fixture with four lamps of high power.

TO FRIENDS OF THIS PAPER.

Our New Washington Office Is at Room 622, Riggs Building—Telephone No. Is 1710 Main.

Washington, D. C.—The moving Picture World wishes to announce the establishment in Washington, D. C., of an office in Room 622 Riggs building. The Riggs building itself is modern in every particular, and the office is equipped in like manner, both being in line with the progressive ideas of this publication.

Exhibitors, exchange managers, and all others connected with the film industry in this territory, are invited to mail to this office or to telephone Main 1710 such items of news as they believe will be of interest to others in the same line of business. Attention is also called to the fact that our Washington representative is authorized to accept subscriptions, and all orders placed at this office will receive the same prompt attention as in the home office.

CELEBRATES A YEAR'S RECORD.

Carl F. Senning—Modern Exchange Manager—Has Anniversary as Head of Local Fox.

Washington, D. C.—Carl F. Senning is this week receiving the congratulations of his many friends on having reached the first anniversary of his appointment as manager of the Fox Film Corporation's Washington branch.

Carl F. Senning.

During the short period of his connection with the film industry, Mr. Senning has made a record well worth while. He is a good fellow all around, and of the type that will meet one just a little more than half way when called to do so. He is very popular among the patrons of the Fox Film Corporation, and he can count on all of his fellow-exchangemen as his friends.

He is the modern type exchange manager. Clean-cut, both physically and morally. When he makes a statement one can bank on it; he never goes back on his word. And he has a suave manner that makes friends; a character that keeps them.

Mr. Senning first broke into the limelight in 1903, when he was appointed deputy city assessor for Louisville, Ky. He resigned that position to become special traveling representative for the Washington-Sunset route, and for two years, until April, 1915, he ran between the National Capital and San Francisco, Cal., with special tourist parties.

His First Film Job.

He was in San Francisco with a party of government officials when he received a telegram from Lieut. Jim P. Anderson, then manager of the local exchange, to hurry to Washington as there was a vacancy for him. These two had been friends for fifteen years; from back in the days when Lieut. Anderson was manager for the Moissants, aviators. No mistake was made in picking Mr. Senning for the road job, for he made friends from the start and that meant business for his firm.

The following September he was transferred to the Atlanta branch to investigate conditions and carry the Fox gospel into South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama. He carried the same tactics with him, and when he left the Sunny South on a rush order from the home office, he received the congratulations of his newly made friends there—he was brought back to Washington to succeed his old friend, Lieut. Jim Anderson, the latter having been promoted to the position of foreign representative with headquarters for the time being in Australia.

Intimate Gossip of Fox Lair.

Washington, D. C.—Alan Moritz, who has been traveling through this territory for the Washington office of the Fox corporation, has been transferred to the Philadelphia office, and thereon hinges a tale. He kept it a secret for two months, but it leaked. To be brief, Mr. Moritz had been going to New York to visit Miss Priscilla Bronwitz all too often not to excite the suspicion that a knot would soon be tied—and it was, early in July. But no one is supposed to know about it, so, dear reader, do not pass the news along. Mr. Moritz was accordingly transferred to the Philadelphia office in order that the railroad expenses to New York might be cut down, for even there it is a secret.

J. Hildebrand, who formerly served as road man out of the New York office of the Fox Film Corporation, has been transferred to the Washington branch to succeed Mr. Moritz, and will travel through North Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia. He arrived here last week to take up his new duties. Dorsey Richardson, a well-known newspaper writer, is another new addition to the Washington office.

Work Begun on Ellwood City's New Theatre

T. V. Barnes Building Beautiful Picture House of Brick and Steel—Will Be Ready to Open This Winter.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jen kins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa.—The erection of a beautiful new theater has been started at Ellwood City, Pa., by T. V. Barnes, who operates the Majestic. The house will be of fire-proof construction and modern in every respect. Mr. Barnes is an exhibitor of many years' experience, having set a high standard in moving picture entertainment in Ellwood City and elsewhere. The new theater was to have been built during the past summer, but negotiations for a site were not completed until a short time ago. The contract was let to J. E. Dwyer, local architect and builder. The structure will measure 44 by 140 feet and will be of brick and steel, with a striking enamel brick front. The work is to be rushed, Mr. Barnes states, so as to have the house completed this winter.

Mt. Union House to Open.

Mt. Union, Pa.—The new 1,000-seat theater of the Shapiro Amusement company at Mt. Union, will be formally opened to the public on November 1, according to an announcement just issued by the management. The building is of brick and concrete and is designed along the most up-to-date lines. The interior is one of the best equipped and most handsomely arranged in western Pennsylvania. A $4,000 Seeburg organ is being installed. The house will represent an investment of $25,000. The promoters intend to give the people of Mt. Union and vicinity the best that the photoplay field affords and a policy of high-class features will be inaugurated.

Four-Day Runs at Olympic.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Olympic theater, Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh, one of the largest of the down-town houses, is about to institute a new policy of four-day runs on all Fox productions. This is a distinct departure in this city, as the limit on the showing of features in the Fifth avenue theaters is usually two days. The first four-day run will be on "The Straight Way," featuring Valeska Surratt. The result of the experiment is awaited with interest, as Mr. Antonopolis is determined to give it a fair trial.

Ground Broken for New Theater.

Beaver Falls, Pa.—Ground has been broken for a modern moving picture theater and business block combined on the present site of the Colonial theater, at Beaver Falls. The building will front on Seventh avenue and will extend back to an alley to the rear, with a handsome arcade entrance for the theater. The building will be of brick, steel and concrete construction and will cost about $20,000. The owner is Mrs. J. L. B. Dawson.

Butler Theaters Meet Union Demands.

Butler, Pa.—Aften pending adjustment for some time past, the wage scale of the union was finally signed recently by the four moving picture theaters of Butler, Pa. The houses entering into the agreement are the New Grand, the Majestic, the Lyric and the Comique. Only one local theater remains out.

"Less Than the Dust" at the Regent.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Regent theater, at East Liberty, Pittsburgh, the finest of the Rowland Clark chain of houses, has booked the latest Mary Pickford production, "Less Than the Dust," for an entire week, which will be its first run in this city. Plans are made to put the picture on in an elaborate manner and it is being advertised effectively.

Belle Vernon Theater Reopens.

Belle Vernon, Pa.—The Bijou theater, at Belle Vernon, has been reopened after having its doors closed about two months for extensive remodeling and redecoration. The house presents a bright and attractive appearance and the auditorium has been nicely arranged to increase the seating capacity somewhat. A strong bill of features is being offered daily and the admission price has been raised to 10 and 15 cents.

Camerascope to Incorporate.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Application is being made for a state charter of incorporation for the Camerascope Company, of Pittsburgh, Pa., to manufacture and deal in [illegible] machines and accessories. The applicants are Harry S. Calvert, Edward N. Jones and William L. Danahey, all of this city.

Detroit Outskirt Theaters Assoc.

A Get-Together of Neighborhood Houses—Find There Are Times When Their Interests Need the Kind of Special Attention That Only an Organization Can Give—Meetings Are Held to Perfect the Association.

By Jacob Smith, 503 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.—Thirty neighborhood or outskirt motion picture exhibitors held a special executive session at the Hotel Griswold, Monday afternoon, Oct. 16, for the purpose of mutual co-operation and with the idea in view of ultimately having an organization of their own. Another meeting was held Oct. 19. F. A. Schneider, president of the Stratford Theater Co., Dix and Ferdinand avenues, acted as chairman, and Jack Mowitt of the Globe theater, Grand River and Trumbull avenues, as secretary. A permanent association is under formation and permanent offices will be elected.

"We simply feel that the outskirt theaters have interests in common with each other," said Mr. Mowitt. "By getting together once or twice a month and talking over trade conditions as applied to the neighborhood theaters, we can undoubtedly do a lot of good for ourselves. The downtown houses do business differently from the neighborhood houses, and in many instances what concerns us does not concern them, while what concerns them does not concern us. We have a lot of important matters under consideration, which, if properly carried out, will revolutionize some things pertaining to this industry."

Five Houses with Full Week Runs.

Detroit, Mich.—Up to two years ago there wasn't a single theater in Detroit booking feature photoplays an entire week—it was thought impossible and positive suicide for the house attempting such a thing. What a change in comparison to present-day conditions. Detroit now boasts of five theaters playing pictures an entire week, three of which are downtown and the other two more than a mile and a half from downtown—the Broadway-Strand, the Washington, the Liberty, The Majestic and the Regent.

Thieves Get War Films.

Detroit, Mich.—Thieves broke into the offices of the Wolvertine Film Co., 71 Griswold street, Detroit, on Oct. 17, and stole four reels of "Fighting With the Allies." A few days previous they stole a projecting machine from an east side theater; several other theaters report minor thefts. All that the thieves need now is a theater. Better watch out, exhibitors and lock your doors securely.

Detroit Sanitation Ordinance Killed.

Detroit, Mich.—Through the efforts of Peter Jeup and other exhibitors, the proposed Detroit ordinance on Health and Sanitation as pertaining to motion picture theaters has been "killed." It contained some very drastic requirements and would have given the Board of Health the right to close up theaters if it saw fit to do so.

"The Common Law" in Michigan.

Detroit, Mich.—Everybody in Michigan seems vitally interested in the first Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation release, "The Common Law," which opened at the Broadway-Strand, Oct. 2, for a two weeks' run, which broke all records of the house. During this engagement all orchestra and balcony seats sold at 25 cents, with loges at 50 cents. On Sunday, Oct. 15, the same picture opened at the Isis theater, in Grand Rapids, recently taken over by Harry I. Garson, of the Broadway-Strand theater. Tremendous business was also reported there. The second run of "The Common Law" goes to the Liberty theater, owned by John H. Kunsky, and from there starts on a long tour of the leading outskirt theaters, most of whom will play the feature two days.

Rocking Chairs in Theater Boxes.

Jackson, Mich.—In talking the other day with C. A. Kuhlman, who operates the Rex theater, in Jackson, Mich., we were very much interested in learning that the Rex was the first theater in America to install rocking chairs in its mezzanine boxes. "My object in putting rockers in these boxes was to make the patron as comfortable as if he or she was in their own home," said Mr. Kuhlman. The Rex is now a theater of 1,000 seats, of which 950 are on the main floor, the balance being on the Mezzanine floor.

Two New Muskegon Theaters.

Muskegon, Mich.—Two new, modern and strictly up-to-date motion picture theaters, one with 700 seats and the other with 800 seats, are assured for Muskegon. Plans for the new buildings have been ordered by the owners, P. J. Schlossman Company, at once, from C. Howard Crane, Detroit, architect.

Erker Bros. Open Supply Store Here.

Detroit, Mich.—We take pleasure in announcing that the Erker Bros. Optical Co., of St. Louis, Mo., has opened a Detroit branch at 35 Grand River avenue east, corner of Broadway, which is temporarily in charge of Harry G. Lihou, advertising and sales director. The Detroit store is a most complete one, and carries everything that motion picture theaters could ask for in the way of equipment. Erker Bros. carry Power, Edison, Simplex, Motiograph, Baird and Standard machines and parts, slides, supplies, motion picture apparatus and complete theater equipment—everything, in fact, except film. With a Detroit office, it will be in a position to give excellent service to exhibitors in Detroit as well as Michigan and northern Ohio, and for that reason its Detroit office is sure to be successful. Already several large sales are reported.

Mutual's Prepayment Works Out Well.

Detroit, Mich.—Manager Trask, of the Mutual Exchange in Detroit, reports: "Our business has picked up considerably since the first of October. Our series of features with individual stars are proving very popular and are showing splendid results. Our prepayament plan, now in effect, is also working out satisfactorily."

Local Business and Personal Notes.

Detroit, Mich.—The local Paramount, through W. M. Elliott, its publicity manager, has gone to great expense in fitting up a special department with everything in the way of cuts, reading and advertising matter that exhibitors can use, either in the newspapers or in their programs. It is all absolutely free for the asking.

Petoskey, Mich.—Mrs. Wade B. Smith has purchased the Alcazar theater, this city, and is now operating same.

Detroit, Mich.—Dow Thompson, manager of Detroit office of the Fox Film, is planning to attend the annual convention of Fox exchange managers, which takes place in New York City Oct. 28 to 31. The Detroit office broke all records for the weeks ending Sept. 30 and Oct. 15. There are now seven downtown theaters using Fox pictures—Broadway, one week; Family, three days; Empress, one day; Grand Circus, one day; Woodward, one day; Bijou, two days, and Empire, one day; Out of something like 140 theaters in Detroit 62 are booking Fox pictures. Some record.

Farwell, Mich.—J. R. Gardner has opened a new theater here called the Royal, which seats 300, devoted to pictures.

C. E. Holah Resigns--S. W. Hatch Succeeds

Cincinnati Office of Greater Vitagraph Has a New Manager—Mr. Holah Will Probably Open a New Exchange.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CINCINNATI, OHIO.—A change in the management of the Vitagraph, formerly the V-L-S-E, office in Cincinnati, has taken place and S. W. Hatch is now in charge, succeeding C. E. Holah, one of the livest and most popular film men who ever did business in this territory. Before leaving for New York a few days ago Mr. Holah intimated that he would have some news to give to his friends when he returned, and it is understood that he will return as manager of a new film exchange of high rank. Mr. Hatch is by no means a stranger in Cincinnati, as he was manager of the local office of the General Film Co. up to a year or so ago, going to St. Louis as manager of the V-L-S-E branch in that city, and coming back to Cincinnati as a promotion. The question of Mr. Holah's new connection has been the subject of much comment, especially in view of the reports heard of large new consolidations in New York.

Empire Theater Burned.

Cincinnati, O.—The Empire theater, at 3831 Spring Grove avenue, owned by the Fricke estate, was gutted by fire on the morning of October 16, when fortunately, nobody was in the building. The blaze involved several other structures, and had obtained good headway before the fire department arrived on the scene. The damage to the building and equipment is estimated at $1,000.

Film Hits at the Alhambra.

Cincinnati, O.—The Alhambra, Charles Weigel's house, was "turning 'em away" during the engagement of Edna Mayo in "The Return of Eve," the popular star drawing heavily in this unique production. Another good drawing card was the Triangle feature, "The Wolf Woman," featuring Louise Glaum with her wonderful gowns. Manager Weigel has been bemoaning the fact that his house is comparatively small, as he could do double the business, he declares, if he only had the seating capacity.

Take Long Lease on Colonial Theater.

Youngstown, O.—A deal recently closed here places the Colonial theater in the hands of a new concern, the Federal Holding Co., under a long lease, and it is understood that the company contemplates extensive improvements, including the construction of a new moving-picture theater to the rear of the Colonial, fronting on Federal street. The lease covers a period of fifty years, indicating the company's intention of doing things in a permanent manner. Operation of the Colonial will be discontinued after next spring, it is understood, in order to enable the construction of the new building, which will not only house a handsome and roomy theater, but will have an arcade, a number of stores and several office floors.

Indiana Trade News Letter

From the Indiana Trade News Service, 861 State Life Building, Indianapolis, Ind

Brookville's Crystal Theater Sold.

BROOKVILLE, Ind.—A. L. Popper and Harold Lapish, two local business men, have purchased the Crystal theater and are planning extensive improvements in the place. The Crystal is one of the most popular photoplay houses in the city.

Frank Fogel Buys Theater.

Churubusco, Ind.—Frank Fogel, of Columbia City, has bought the Olympic theater, and will assume active management of the place next week. It was formerly owned by a stock company.

Star Theater Opens at Jeffersonville.

Jeffersonville, Ind.—Preston Grubbs, who has been making extensive improvements in the interior of the Jefferson theater, which he purchased recently. The house was formally opened Saturday night, October 21, and hereafter it will be known as the Star theater. Manager Grubbs has arranged to present a series of special feature films during the next few weeks.

Mrs. Sadie Henry Buys Crystal Theater.

North Manchester, Ind.—Mrs. Sadie Henry has moved to North Manchester, Ind., where she has purchased the Crystal theater, an attractive photoplay house.

Palace Theater Company Incorporates.

Indianapolis, Ind.—The Palace Theater Company, of Fort Wayne, has filed incorporation papers with a capital stock of $75,000. The incorporators are F. E. Strouder, J. J. DeWald and Ralph L. Magee.

Verne Young Buys Another Machine.

Gary, Ind.—Verne Young, proprietor of the Orpheum theater, has returned from Chicago, Ill., where he purchased a new moving picture machine for the theater. The Orpheum has had one first class machine for some time, and now its equipment is first class in every respect. The new machine cost approximately $400.

Burned Out, Will Build Again.

Bryant, Ind.—Bowen & Son's moving picture theater and electric light plant were destroyed by fire last week, causing a loss estimated at $3,000. The fire, the origin of which was not determined, started in the electric light plant, and then was communicated to the theater, only a short distance away. For a time it was thought the entire town was doomed to destruction, and a call was sent to surrounding towns for aid. Immediately after the fire Mr. Bowen announced that he will build a new theater and electric plant on the same site, the new buildings to be constructed on a much larger scale.

South Bend Theater Opens.

South Bend, Ind.—The fact that no admission was charged proved an additional attraction at the opening of the Colonial theater, a new motion picture house at 129 North Michigan street, which was held Friday, Oct. 20. The theater was thrown open for general inspection throughout the day, and a special musical program was given between the hours of 1 o'clock in the afternoon and 10 o'clock at night. It was estimated that several thousand persons attended the opening. The new theater is under the management of Frank E. Chapman, who has been connected with the motion picture business in South Bend for several years.

Fire in Anderson Theater.

Anderson, Ind.—About 250 patrons of the Cozy theater were almost thrown into a panic last week when a reel of film took fire and filled the room with a dense, black smoke. The sight of the flames at first caused considerable confusion, but ample exits in the theater enabled the crowd to file out orderly.

Film Titles in Bi-Lingual Canada

A Struggle Is Expected Over Quebec's Double Language Situation and the First Gun Fired May Be Over the Proposal to Have Subtitles Written in Both Tongues—An Interesting Situation.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St., E. Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—Practically every Candian film general manager was present at a conference in Toronto, October 16 on the bi-lingual question—that is with regard to dual sub-titles in films screened in the Province of Quebec. According to an order recently issued by the authorities of Quebec, all films exhibited in the eastern province must shortly have sub-titles in both the English and French languages on account of the great number of French-speaking people residing there. The French-Canadians are preparing to fight to establish further the French language throughout their own province. One of these moves has been to call upon the exchanges to provide French as well as English subtitles in all pictures exhibited in Quebec.

There are indications that the struggle over the sub-titles in question will be the opening gun in the bi-lingual struggle which may, according to the opinions of many, lead to serious proportions. The film people do not want to comply with the order for the French titles because of the time, trouble and expense involved in the extra sub-titles. The latter would be of no use, it is pointed out, in any other part of Canada. The situation is a delicate one and the Canadian film interests have already held one or two meetings for the purpose of going into the matter at length. An unfortunate feature is that the picturesque French-Canadians have been led to adopt a spirit of animosity, apparently, through the activities of several politicians in encouraging the issue in order to better their own personal interests. In spite of the fact that English is generally spoken throughout the world and is the language of the United States as well as of Canada, a large section of the inhabitants of Quebec have announced their intention to go any limit to force the adoption of the French tongue for official business in Quebec.

L. E. Ouimet of Montreal, Canadian general manager for the Pathe, came to Toronto for the conference, which was attended by Clair Hague of the Universal, C. B. Price, Mutual, W. E. Gookin, Greater Vitagraph, D. Cooper, K. E. S. E., Phil Kauffman, Famous Players, and others. No announcement has been made regarding the outcome of the deliberations.

Grace Darmond Visits Toronto.

Toronto, Ont.—Toronto film magnates and screen fans were all a-flutter on Monday and Tuesday, October 16 and 17, because of the formal visit to Toronto of Grace Darmond, leading figure in the Pathe serial release, "The Shielding Shadow." Miss Darmond made the rounds of all the important theaters on the two days, after which she boarded the train for Montreal. She is a native daughter of Toronto and her relatives still reside on Dovercourt road, this city. She came in advance of the release of the new serial, as the first episode will not be screened here until about November 6.

Reopening of Beaver Theater.

Toronto, Ont.—The Beaver theater, 1784 Dundas street, West Toronto, has been opened under the management of R. S. Marvin, president of the new Beaver Theater Company, Limited. The entire interior and front of the house was refurnished and redecorated under the direction of Bill Dineen. Manager Marvin is also the executive head of the Metropolitan Theater company, which controls the Strand theater, Toronto. The opening feature was the Fox attraction, "Under Two Flags." A mixed program of vaudeville and pictures made up the first bill. The range of prices for the Beaver runs from 5c to 10c in the afternoon to 25c at night.

Loew Circuit in Canada.

Toronto, Ont.—Marcus Loew, accompanied by Joe Schenke, dropped off at Toronto from New York on October 15 with an eye to the theatrical and moving picture situation in Toronto and elsewhere in Canada. Mr. Loew said a circuit of his theaters with vaudeville and pictures would soon be found in the Dominion. His new theater in Montreal will seat 3,300 and will be the largest house in Canada. After Montreal will come Hamilton, Ontario, as the site for a new Loew theater, and the next Canadian city under consideration is London, Ontario. According to present plans, the Loew houses at Hamilton and London would probably split to enable a change of bill twice each week.

Schenke has a new film project, it is understood, and he came to Toronto for the purpose of examining the local field to size it for future business.

Edison Week in 12 Local Houses.

Toronto, Ont.—An unusual advertising campaign was launched in Toronto when an "Edison Week" was held in twelve local moving picture theaters during the week of October 16. The twelve theaters selected are located widely throughout the city.

Operators Want Christmas Off.

Toronto, Ont.—Following up the cue of the Doninion Trades and Labor Congress in passing a resolution asking for a complete holiday on Christmas Day for as many workers as possible, the members of the Toronto local of the International Moving Picture Operators' Union are preparing to present a petition which, it is hoped, will lead to the closing of picture houses on the coming holy day.

Hostelries May Become Theaters.

Toronto, Ont.—As a result of the adoption of prohibition for Ontario, a number of hotel-keepers are contemplating the plan of changing houses of rest into houses of recreation. Arrangements have been made at St. Thomas, Ontario, to this effect. Manager McLean of the Columbia Hotel has decided to enter the moving picture field and has started to reconstruct his hostelry. He has interviewed a number of Toronto exchange managers regarding service.

Walter Liscombe Has Returned.

Toronto, Ont.—Walter Liscombe, a former prominent exhibitor of Toronto, has returned to this city from California to assume the management of the Bloor palace, which he has re-christened the Kitchener theater. Liscombe formerly directed the destinies of the Greenwood theater in the East End of the city.

Powassan Village Has Theater.

Toronto, Ont.—The village of Powassan, population 664, and 175 miles north of Toronto, now boasts of a moving picture theater, the manager of which is J. Dufresne. Powassan was known in pioneer days as the site of an extensive Indian encampment. Western photoplays will undoubtedly find an instinctive acceptance here.

Social Workers to Start Film Exchange

Find that Exhibitors Have Too Much Trouble in Getting Proper Pictures for Children's Matinee Programs.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

OAK PARK, ILL.—The ambition of the social service committee of the Illinois Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations to establish a juvenile film exchange was revealed in an address by Mrs. Frederic Michael of Chicago, before the River Forest Women's club. Mrs. Michael was chairman of the social service committee of the state organization for two years. This body has sent to women's clubs all over the state a circular letter reciting the need of better pictures for children. One of the difficulties in securing programs for children, it is announced, has been that the exhibitors have been unable to get a complete program easily. By forming an exchange, which makes a specialty of children's films, the work of the local picture show men will be minimized.

Mrs. Michael said that the committee hopes to see Illinois pass a law forbidding the use of the lurid poster in advertising films. While she decried the intemperate attendance of picture shows by school children, she praised the photo-play house for its wonderful influence upon the family. She especially approved of its leading fathers to go out with the mothers and the children instead of frequenting the saloon and club alone.

Illiscope Co. to Make Pictures.

Rockford, Ill.—The Illiscope Motion Picture company is in process of organization here. Edwin J. Burley is general manager of the concern which has opened general offices at 612 Trust building. The incorporators have been negotiating for the lease on the Coliseum for studio purposes. The transaction is said to include an option for its purchase. W. E. Clode, who has had experience, has been appointed director general.

Proposes Free Educational Shows.

Waukegan, Ill.—The commercial association, which under the direction of Secretary Paul Willis, is carrying out a community idea, may extend the plan until it is similar to the practice of German municipalities. The organization contemplates securing a theater and devoting it on certain days free to the public. On these days (and evenings) a program of educational and industrial moving pictures would be enlivened with films that would prove attractive because of their entertaining properties.

Important Theater Changes.

Danville, Ill.—Balfe & Morris of LaFayette, Ind., have sold the Palace theater to a stock company formed by Danville men. Nate Erber has some stock in the new company and will continue his present position.

Lawrenceville, Ill.—J. C. Pinkerton has purchased the Bijou theater. His announced plans promise well for his patrons. The high school orchestra will furnish music each Friday night and every other Saturday he will give a matinee of Chicago Herald travelogues, to which children will be admitted free when accompanied by their parents.

Rockford, Ill.—Johnson Brothers have re-opened the Olympic theater and will operate it for the present on Saturdays and Sundays.

Rushville, Ill.—The Princess theater, owned by Carl Pearson, was destroyed by fire, causing a loss of $3,500 with no insurance. Pearson contemplates rebuilding at once a modern theater 40x135 feet.

Pekin, Ill.—M. McDonnell has re-opened his moving picture theatre at South Pekin. He will give three shows a week. The South Pekin orchestra will furnish music.

Litchfield, Ill.—Manager Pirtle has re-opened the Lyric theater.

Alton, Ill.—"Ramona," the William H. Clune feature, broke a 25-year record for attendance at the Temple theater.

Coon Hoped to Cash in.

Duquoin, Ill.—A package containing an episode of the "Iron Claw" was lost from an express wagon. The Grand theater discovered the loss in the middle of the afternoon in time to telephone to St. Louis and have the film replaced for the evening show. About an hour before the film arrived a negro telephoned to the express office and asked if anthing had been lost. He intimated that he knew what it was and where it could be found, but that he must have a reward before he would divulge this information. Two officers went out and got the package—and the negro.

Pullman Car Show to Be Sold.

Springfield, Ill.—The receiver of the Jones Brothers Railroad Moving Picture Show has asked the Sangamon County Circuit Court for permission to sell the property, which consists chiefly of the Pullman car, which was converted into a theater.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—The Majestic Gardens has substituted for its Venetian canal screen setting a chariot race scene with appropriate lighting effects. The members of the orchestra will be garbed in Roman costumes. It is the plan of the Majestic

Port Huron Commissioner Calls a Halt

No More Morbid Picture of Disorderly Houses in the Underworld Will Be Tolerated in the City—Gives Warning to Exhibitors.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

FORT HURON, Mich.—Commissioner of Public Safety David T. Monteith, of this city, is one of the first municipal authorities in the middle west to take steps against white slave plays as a class. In the last few months the advertising of sensational films and pictures with an appeal to the erotic have loomed upon the horizon of local photo-play patrons. Commissioner Monteith has issued an order that this class of pictures must not be shown.

He followed this with a statement:—"There have been a number of pictures exhibited in Port Huron lately which are not fit to be viewed by children, young people, or even old people for that matter. They appeal to the morbid instincts, and while they are presumed to teach a lesson they are in reality staged for the purpose of getting the money by proposing to reveal sidelights of the underworld and the seamy side of life. Other pictures have been shown of the dime novel type in which there is a murder on the screen about every five minutes and blood flows in rivulets.

"I believe that Port Huron people have had enough of such pictures and they will be tabooed. Such productions as 'The Little Girl Next Door' and others of the same type, including 'Damaged Goods' and sensational subjects, will be barred. Moving picture theater managers should take warning from this order, for a violation of it means that I will apply to the city commissioner for a revocation of the theater's license."

The commissioner has the support of the local press in his plan to stop the exhibition of this class of moving pictures.

Two New Houses in Muskegon.

Muskegon, Mich.—Real estate deals have been effected here, which means two new moving picture theaters for Muskegon. The P. J. Schlossman company has secured title to property on Western avenue. It will raze buildings now on the site and erect a modern theater and business building similar to the Regent, which it operates. It will seat 700, cost about $30,000, and the equipment will include a big pipe organ. Howard Crane, architect of Detroit, who designed the Regent and the new Majestic, which is being erected on Western avenue, will draw the plans for the new theater. The new Majestic, also on Western avenue, is to be created by cutting off the rear of a business block, converting it into an auditorium and using the present Majestic as the foyer. The new house will seat 800.

Worth a Passing Glance.

Petoskey, Mich.—Mrs. Wade B. Smith has purchased the People's theater from the Cory-Sorden theaters and will operate it as a moving picture house. She also has leased the Alcazar theater for the winter season ending June 1.

Lansing, Mich.—Wilson & Cady, proprietors of the Colonial theater, gave a special morning show to 800 boys from the Michigan Industrial School. "Hulda from Holland" and a Burton Holmes travelogue were on the program. The entire orchestra furnished the music.

Marquette, Mich.—Manager Zerbal of the opera house has booked a return engagement of "God's Country and the Woman."

Last Week in Kansas City

From Kansas City News Service, 206 Corn Belt Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Eastern Theater Sold.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Mrs. J. H. Hughes has sold the Eastern theater, Lister avenue, and has dropped out of the moving picture theater business—at least for a while. It is the opinion of several of the exchange managers that Mrs. Hughes will not be able to stay out of the business. She has been in the business four years and is one of the successful women operators of the city.

E. R. Pearson a Rotarian.

Kansas City, Mo.—W. B. Tuteur, an exhibitor with several houses, has until recently been the only representative of the moving picture industry in the local Rotary club. Recently, however, through Mr. Tuteur's connivance, E. R. Pearson, manager of the local Vitagraph exchange, was welcomed into the organization, as a representative of the exchanges. The order was glad to get him—and the industry will be well taken care of there.

Pathe Serial Changes Houses.

Kansas City, Mo.—"The Shielding Shadow," which was put on at the Twelfth Street theater by the Kansas City Post, with special invitations to children, has been moved to the Wonderland, owned by the same company. The Twelfth Street had contracted for big features, and did not have room for the serial. "The Common Law" is now in its second week here, running at 25 cents, and to pretty full houses—the house seating 750.

H. A. Higgins Joins Local House.

Kansas City, Mo.—H. A. Higgins, for many years known throughout Nebraska as a successful showman and later as connected with one of the successful supply houses on the Coast, has recently joined the forces of the Motion Picture Supply House of Kansas City. Mr. Higgins is a very competent man and a very likable fellow as well, which combination ought to make him valuable to the Supply House. Mr. Higgins will be a salesman for the company.

Applegate to Manage Local Exchange.

Kansas City, Mo.—Mr. Applegate, who was formerly manager of the Pathe exchange at Denver, Colorado, will have charge of the new branch of the International Film Co., which will open in Kansas City shortly. The company expects to locate on the second floor of the Boley building. Mr. Epperson, booker for the Pathe exchange at Denver, is temporarily in charge of that office until arrangements are made to fill Mr. Applegate's place.

H. G. Gill's New "Dope Sheet."

Kansas City, Mo.—Among the most enterprising men in the motion picture business in Kansas City, H. G. Gill, manager of the Motion Picture Supply House, ranks with the best. One of his latest ideas is the "Dope Sheet," the first issue of which he published October 7. The purpose of this sheet, which will be published twice monthly on the second and fourth Fridays of the month, is to give a fair and concise idea of the various happenings in the motion picture supply business. Mr. Gill reports that he already has a mailing list of 1300 and he expects it to grow.

"Pep" Balsly Back from Trip.

Kansas City, Mo.—"Pep" Balsly, manager of the advertising and promotion department of the Kansas City Feature Film, distributor of the Paramount, has just returned from a trip to Nebraska, where he was visiting with customers and investigating various advertising plans and conditions. Mr. Balsly reports that the outlook in Nebraska points to a very favorable future in the motion picture business.

The Elite Theater Remodeled.

Great Bend, Kan.—W. S. Nelson & Son, owners of the Elite theatre at Great Bend, have just completed remodeling the theater and will open October 19, showing the Paramount feature, "Poor Little Peppina," played by Mary Pickford.

Auditorium as a Benefit House.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Auditorium theater has been opened as a place for the exhibition of moving pictures. It is not a moving picture theater, since each week the house is let to a society or club for benefit purposes. One of the latest of these "lettings" was to the Young Women's Christian Association for October 22, 23 and 24. On those nights a five-reel, home talent picture will be presented. The scenario was written by a Kansas City boy, Julius Davidson, and is causing much comment throughout the literary as well as theatrical circles. The actors of the picture are members of the association. The picture will be taken in Kansas City.

Unity Absorbs Associated Film.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Associated Film Service, a local company in Kansas City, has recently been absorbed by the Unity Film corporation, which is opening a branch in Kansas City in the quarters occupied by the Associated film service. The Unity company will handle the "Mutt & Jeff," "Handsome Press," "Katzenjammer" and other releases formerly handled by the Associated. The new company will handle the entire outfit of the Unity sales corporation, including the "Yellow Menace" and "The Marriage Bond," and will also buy the bigger special features released on the open market. G. B. Howe, former manager of the Associated, who will have charge of the new company, says the sales and office forces will be increased and every facility introduced which will tend to increase efficiency.

St. Louis Theater Managers Elect

Motion Picture Exhibitors and Theater Managers' Association Holds Annual Election of Officers—Joseph Mogler, Chosen President; Frederick Wherenberg, Vice-President; F. L. Root, Financial Secretary—Other Officers.

A. H. Giebler, 206 Vanol Building, St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, MO.—The Theater Managers and Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association of St. Louis held the annual election of officers at the last meeting of the League, at the headquarters of the association in the Benoist building. Joseph Mogler, proprietor of the Mogler theater on Bremen avenue, was elected president; Frederick Wehrenberg, of the Best theater, on South Jefferson, vice-president; Frank L. Root, of the Eagle theater, on South Broadway, financial secretary; John H. Gentner, treasurer; O. H. Damon, secretary, and F. A. Klockenbrink, sergeant-at-arms. The installation of the newly-elected officers will take place at the next meeting of the League.

V-L-S-E Changes Managers.

St. Louis, Mo.—S. W. Hatch, who established the V-L-S-E office in St. Louis, at 3630 Olive street, when the exchanges of the organization were being opened in all the large cities of the country, has been transferred to the Cincinnati office of the company, where he will take charge of affairs immediately upon his arrival. Mr. Hatch has been in the moving picture business almost since its beginning, and came to St. Louis from Buffalo, N. Y., where he had been connected with the Mutual Film Corp.

A. N. Webster, who comes to St. Louis from New York, will take charge of the St. Louis branch of the V-L-S-E.

Selling Force of Local World Film.

St. Louis, Mo.—The picture of forceful men printed below shows the newly organized selling force of the World Film exchange, at 3626 Olive street, St. Louis. It has been gathered together and is presided over by Manager George W. Fuller. Mr. Fuller says he is proud of the bunch, and since they have been putting Brady-made pictures on the map and on the screens of the theaters in St. Louis and contiguous territory in a manner to reflect credit on his judgement of salesmen, he has a right to be strong for them. Top row, left to right: E. E. Erickson, city salesman; O. C. Marquitz, Missouri territory; Wm. J. Fitzpatrick, Illinois. Bottom row: George W. Fuller, manager; John W. Fuller, Missouri territory.

Top Row—E. E. Erickson, O. C. Marquitz, Wm. J. Fitzpatrick. Bottom Row—Geo. W. Fuller and Manager J. W. Fuller.

Important Changes at K. E. S. E. Office.

St. Louis, Mo.—The Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay have moved their distributing plant from the Empress building to a fine, new and up-to-date suite of offices at 3315 Olive street. I. P. Rosenberg, the former manager, has been made special representative of the organization, and Jack E. Burthorn has been made exchange manager, with F. H. Craenbroeck as assistant manager. The new offices are in the Plaza building, which houses the Triangle, the International and the L. C. F. exchanges. The offices have two entrances, one on Olive street and the other on Lindell boulevard. New vaults have been built, and the office force added to, and big preparations are being made to take care of the large business that came to the office with the addition of the Selig, Essanay and Edison releases to the Kleine output. Mr. Burthorn, the new manager, came here from Indianapolis, where he was connected with the Kleine offices. Mr. Burthorn, while a young man, is a veteran in the amusement world, and was at one time a well known actor on the regular stage.

Two Memphis Magnates Visit St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo.—"Why Pay More" Trimble, of Memphis, was a St. Louis visitor last week. Mr. Trimble is one of the leading exhibitors of the south, and has made himself and his theater known all over the south and west by the use of the slogan, "Why Pay More?" Mr. Trimble gave the local exchanges and theaters an inspection, and made a very pleasant impression on all with whom he came in contact.

Abie Coffman, manager of the United exchange, of Memphis, was also in St. Louis shaking hands with Film Row, and renewing many acquaintances and friendships among picture people of St. Louis.

Cleveland Film News Letter

By Hubert Persons, 401 Standard and Streeter Building, Cleveland, O.

"War's Women" at the Orpheum.

CLEVELAND, O.—Women ushers, garbed in uniforms to represent European peasants, officiated at the Orpheum theater the week of October 22, during the run of "War's Women." After the Cleveland engagement the feminine ushers are to go on a tour of Ohio cities with the picture.

John Clinton Scott Visits.

Cleveland, O.—O. Clinton Scott, assistant director of the Triangle, was in Cleveland during the week of October 16 visiting his parents before leaving for Los Angeles and Honolulu in company with Director John Emerson. Mr. Scott directed the last scenes in Mary Pickford's picture, "Less Than the Dust," recently completed. He attended the Western Reserve University here and his 'varsity nickname was "Great Scott."

James Woods Morrison in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O.—James Woods Morrison, Ivan picture motion star, was in Cleveland early in October visiting C. A. McGowan, one of Cleveland's pioneer motion picture exhibitors. He was en route from New York, where he had just completed work on "The Battle Cry of War," a companion picture to "The Battle Cry of Peace," to his old home at Mattoon, Ill. Morrison recently left the Vitagraph to sign with Ivan.

New Cleveland Screeners.

Cleveland, O.—These new members have been elected to the Cleveland Screen Club: J. J. Mooney, Phil Isaacs, T. E. Surrell, John Pekras, W. W. Kulp, M. D. Gugerman, George Shenker, David Olmsted and Maurice Spitalny. The club is planning for the biggest New Year's Eve ball ever held in Cleveland.

Boehringer Gets Triangle Rights

Will Distribute Triangle Pictures in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas, and Also Secures the Triangle Exchange in Memphis with Other Territory—An Important Transaction from Several Angles.

From N. E. Thatcher, Times-Picayune, New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Among the events of the early part of the month which caused an unusual stir in film exchange and other motion picture circles here, was the acquisition by Ernst Boehringer, vice-president and general manager of the new Boehringer Amusement company, of the rights to the Triangle film service for the states of Louisiana, Mississippi, and Arkansas, together with the Triangle exchange at Memphis, and the northern portion of Florida and western portion of Alabama. By this deal which was consummated in New York, Mr. Boehringer takes full charge of the business of distributing Triangle films in the territory named, and in addition he becomes half owner of all the films released.

Ordinarily such a deal would not attract especial attention, but in this case it will have, it is expected, a wide influence upon the future film conditions adjacent to New Orleans. There was an earnest effort on the part of others to secure the Triangle service for the southern states. C. E. Tandy, who is at the head of the Southern Paramount Pictures corporation at Atlanta, which controls the Paramount business in eleven southern states, and which is also in control of the World films through a constituent company for the same territory, was interested in the Triangle change from the fact that it would, had he secured the business for his territory, have given him a very strong leverage because, with the Triangle service he would have had six feature releases per week. This would have been almost equivalent to a positive control of the market; there not being enough other releases to give the exhibitor much of a choice in event he failed to use the films under Mr. Tandy's control.

The Hulsey interests in Texas were also vitally concerned in the Triangle change on account of that service being in use in several of their largest houses. Still another angle was given to the situation because of the position of possible purchasers of whom Herman Fichtenberg was the New Orleans representative. While the matter was supposed to be still open and under advisement, Mr. Boehringer went to New York and closed the deal for the territory named, Mr. Tandy having left New Orleans for New York on the day the deal was closed.

Local Exchangemen Pleased.

Local Film exchange managers are breathing easier since the announcement of the Boehringer acquisition. Some of them had gone so far as to predict the withdrawal of their concerns from the New Orleans territory had the plan of Mr. Tandy to secure the control of the Triangle for this territory materialized. It may hardly have been as bad as that, but it is a certainty that the most of the managers were on the verge of sleepless nights.

The new owner announces that the service is open to the exhibitor who is prepared to do the best by the Triangle films. Since their advent to the New Orleans territory they have been given their first run exclusively in the Triangle theater, the success of which has changed the whole motion picture situation here. Nevertheless the new proposition is to let the Triangle theater stand squarely beside all other theaters in its claim upon the service. Another innovation which is announced to come with the change in the active management of the exchanges on November first, is to be the inauguration of a newspaper advertising campaign for the sale of Triangle films. Mr. Boehringer ascribes his theater successes to good management and newspaper advertising.

Winter Business in the South.

New Orleans, La.—With the coming of cooler weather motion picture theaters in nearly all sections of the South show a marked increase in patronage. Complaint is made in a few isolated sections that business is not what it should be, but in nearly every instance where such complaint is made, the conditions are due to local influences. In some localities in North Louisiana and Mississippi the boll weevil—which is blamed for about everything in the South except yellow fever and bubonic plague—is said to cut off patronage and in some of the lumbering sections the theaters are only open on stated nights in the week, but, generally, there is much for which the exhibitor may well be thankful.

Strand Gets $15,000 Organ.

New Orleans, La.—The Strand theater, which is now dated to open on February 15 with every appointment of the highest class, has just arranged for the installation of a Hope-Jones Werlitzer unit orchestra. The Sanger interests, who have the Strand under lease, are leaving nothing undone that will add to the attractiveness of the new theater or contribute to the pleasure of its patrons. The instrument will cost $15,000

J. J. Lehon to Manage Isis Theater.

New Orleans, La.—J. J. Lehon has succeeded P. A. Blankenship as manager of the Isis theater, one of the most prominent of the suburban theaters in the city, and Mr. Blankenship will take a rest of uncertain duration which he believes he just earned. For several years he was the manager of the Pearce interests here, and he was a manager who managed. Every detail of the business was given scrupulous care and success was a natural consequence. Then came "Blank's" chance. The Isis was a decrepit theater which had nothing but its location in its favor. Blankenship took the place, and soon had it making money. Then he began to improve the place physically, and he kept it up until he had a model show house. He won the distinction of having an official city board visit his theater, and then direct public attention to it as the best appointed theater to be found in the city at that time. It is a very bad night when the Isis is not crowded to the doors. The new manager is a young man with a lot of pep and puts his shoulder to the wheel like an old-timer right at the start off.

Rialto to Be Managed by John Douglas.

New Orleans, La.—The Rialto theater, situated in one of the best neighborhoods of the city, has passed under the management of John Douglas, who succeeds Joe Fabacher, who now devotes all of his time to the management of the Portola, the new Fabacher Canal street theater. The Rialto has always been a good amusement proposition, and Manager Douglas is seeing that its reputation does not suffer.

A. G. Levy Will Build Theater.

Plaquemine, La.—A. C. Levy, until recently connected with the Nola Film company in a managerial position, is making preparations to erect a new and modern picture theater at Plaquemine. It is to be a ground floor fireproof structure, and will have a seating capacity of 1,000. Local capitalists are furnishing some of the money, and the venture has every promise of success. Plaquemine is a city of 7,500, and has but one photoplay theater at present, and that is an upstairs theater. Mr. Levy was a former resident of New York, and is an experienced showman.

Lomo Again Changes Hands.

Hattiesburg, Miss.—The Lomo theater at Hattiesburg, Miss., has again changed hands, the new manager being Walter G. Hammack. The Lomo is a good theater, and has only one other show house with which to compete. Under efficient management it is regarded as a little gold mine.

E. Savini to Manage Unity Films.

New Orleans, La.—E. Savini, of New Orleans, brother of R. M. Savini, of Atlanta, has been made manager of the New Orleans branch of the Unity film corporation, and will handle the serial, "The Yellow Menace," in that vicinity.

New Capitol Theater at Macon, Ga., Opens

Howard, Wimberley and Hazelhurst Have Spent $60,000 on the Theater—Manager R. H. DeBruler Is to Be in Charge.

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

MACON, GA.—The Capitol theater, at Macon Ga., opened its doors October 15. The owners, Troup Howard, Brown Wimberly and R. C. Hazelhurst, have spent $60,000 on this beautiful house. They have secured the service of R. H. DeBruler to manage the house, and in obtaining this gentleman they have displayed keen insight to securing one of the best men in the theatrical profession in the South. He is a man of executive ability, and a musician as well, marking him the ideal type for the owners as well as the patrons.

Patterson in Charge of Criterion.

Atlanta, Ga.—Willard Patterson, for many years treasurer of the Forsyth theater, Atlanta, and recently on the road selling pictures, has been made manager of the Criterion theater, Atlanta, and assumed charge Monday, succeeding Harry Goldberg, manager, since the house opened, but who resigned last week.

Mr. Patterson is one of the best known theatrical men in the South, and will doubtless keep the Criterion up to its high standard of excellence in picture programs and refinement.

Many Atlanta Sunday Shows.

Atlanta, Ga.—An unusual number of Atlanta theaters were open Sunday, some for charity, others for war sufferers and educational benefits, which will doubtless again bring in the limelight the Sunday closing agitators. The South-Eastern Fair gates were closed during Sunday and the theaters were crowded with fair visitors. No admission was charged, a free will offering being made at the door.

Charlotte, N. C., Notes.

Charlotte, N. C.—Frank P. Bryan, traveling representative of the V. L. S. E., was a Charlotte, N. C., visitor during the week.

Charles Chivers, of the Southern Paramount company, spent Sunday in Charlotte.

Charles Moss has opened a branch of the Unicorn Film Company in Charlotte, N. C. This is a branch from Philadelphia, Pa.

Manager Wall Robbed.

Louisville.—Adger Wall, manager of the Gayety theater, of this city, was recently held up and robbed of $11 as was attempting to crank his automobile shortly after midnight on October 1. A negro offered to assist him in the effort, but then produced a gun and made the hold-up. No trace of the man was found.

Plenty of New Business.

Owensboro.—The new Auto Arc Co., manufacturers of an improved appliance for use in connection with moving picture machines, reports that it now has orders on hand which will keep the plant busy until the first of the year. The company is considering enlarging to meet the demand for the new electrical contrivance.

New Kentucky Theaters and Changes.

Coxton, Ky.—The moving picture theater operated under direction of the Harlan Coal Mining Co., at Coxton, Ky., is making a big hit on Sundays with the Old Testament pictures.

Greensburg, Ky.—J. D. Carter has opened the moving picture theater at Greensboro, Ky., for the winter.

Bowling Green, Ky.—A grocery concern in Bowling Green, Ky., has leased the building now occupied by the Elite theater, which will have to seek new location.

Lancaster, Ky.—G. C. Walker has sold his lease on the Lancaster opera house and the Rex theater to the owners of the property. The opera house reopened its doors October 14, and the Rex will run serials and moving pictures of various kinds. Mr. Herron is in charge of the moving picture theater. Both houses have been closed for some time.

Winchester.—The Cozy theater has received the equipment for its private lighting plant after a delay of several weeks, and the equipment is now being installed.

Business Good in Louisville

All Lines Feel Prosperity and Pay Rolls Are Ample All Around—Five Large Ten-Cent Houses Down Town and Within Three Blocks of Each Other, and Six Five-Cent Houses Within Four Blocks Are Doing Fine Business.

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks Building, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—According to both the downtown and outskirt show house managers, business is improving steadily, and is far better than at this time last year. Business is generally good in all lines, payrolls are full, and everyone apparently has a share of the loose coin. Business in the downtown district theaters has become so widely distributed during the past few months that it is hard to make comparisons for any set period, there being several large houses getting good runs. There are now five large ten-cent houses within a radius of three blocks downtown, and six five-cent houses in a radius of four blocks. All of these houses are apparently doing a nice business. Fred Dolle, of the Broadway Amusement Company, which controls two ten-cent houses and a five-cent house in the district, and a number of houses on the outskirts, reports that the entire chain is doing well, including the out of town houses. The downtown colored houses, located some six blocks from the actual business center, but figured in the downtown or colored district, are also keeping good and busy, there being no outskirt colored houses in Louisville.

"The Common Law" Makes Hit.

Louisville.—"The Common Law," the new Clara Kimball Young picture, made a great hit last week at the Walnut theater, where prices were advanced to twenty cents, and still the management was unable to take care of all of the business offered. According to officers of the Spencer Amusement Co., operators of the Walnut, the film made the greatest hit of any film shown by the house for some time.

Paducah's Star Opens Brilliantly.

Paducah, Ky.—Opening of the remodeled and redecorated Star theater in this city was a good deal of a society event. Packed houses were the order of the day and Manager Desberger was much complimented on the appearance of the house. All of the lady visitors were presented with roses as souvenirs. A special orchestra under the direction of Prof. Frank Gardner, played a program of music selected to harmonize with the pictures as they were shown.

Fire Marshal Closes Theater.

Winchester, Ky.—The Winchester Opera House has been ordered closed until certain alterations in the interest of safety are made. This action was taken by the state fire marshal's department.

The Strand Brightens Up.

Louisville.—The Strand theater, formerly the old Masonic, was re-opened to the public on Monday, October 9, after having been dark for several months. The theater has been brightened up, and the lighting effects improved. An eight-piece orchestra, under the leadership of Sig. Pappalardo, is furnishing excellent music, and good films are being shown with success. The initial attraction was "The Prince Chap," a delightful Selig Red Seal production. Adrian Humphreys and H. R. Bcone, active members of the recently incorporated Chestnut Street Amusement Co., are in charge of the house. Ernest Carpenter, formerly of the film firm of Carpenter & Johnson, is in charge of the operating end of the house. Good crowds were in attendance at the opening performances, and the management reported that it was well pleased with results.

The Mary Anderson Begins Its Children's Shows.

Louisville.—Following a recent meeting of the Louisville Board of Censorship for motion pictures for children, it was announced that the Mary Anderson theater would open with its first fall children's show on Saturday, October 21. Mrs. Frederick Levy presided at this meeting, which was the first the board has held for several months. As a sign of the rapid growth of children's special shows, Mrs. Levy read a letter from the Edison Motion Picture Co., stating that the company had decided to begin the manufacture of special films for children after having watched with much interest developments in this special field. The meeting decided that one member of the board should be present to chaperone the children at each special show.

No Minor Oporators in Paducah.

Paducah, Ky.—Following a controversy between the exhibitors and the operators relative to apprentices being allowed to operate moving picture machines when under age, and ordinance was recently passed by the City Commissioners in which all operators of moving pictures machines must be at least twenty-one years of age, and their assistants eighteen. The ordinance further requires each operator to obtain a permit from the city electrical inspector, and each applicant for license must show that he has had at least three years' experience.

Nashville Theater for Whites and Blacks

New House, Owned by John C. Krech, Will Entertain Negroes in Rear Half of His Auditorium—Front Seats for Whites.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, TENN.—What is considered to be one of the handsomest houses in the city is rapidly nearing completion on Fifth avenue south, and will be open for business in about three weeks. The theater occupies a new structure of brick and concrete, and will be made thoroughly fireproof throughout. The operating booth has been carefully planned, with a view looking to absolute safety at all times, and will be equipped with two modern Powers 6-A projectors. Gradually sloping floors insure a full view of the screen from any point in the house, which will have a seating capacity of several hundred. The screen at the front of the house near the exits and all seats face the street.

John C. Krech is the owner of the new theater. No name has been decided upon as yet. It is the purpose of Mr. Krech to use a mixed program, although no particular service has been selected. Prices will be on a 5 and 10-cent basis, and a novel feature in connection with the theater is the fact that both white and colored people will be admitted. There is no picture house in the city embracing this system, and the success of the plan seems problematical. It is proposed to draw the color line through the center of the house, with accommodations for white people in the front seats and negroes in the rear. It is Mr. Krech's intention to try out this plan, and if not successful to convert the house into either a white theater exclusively or the opposite.

Sudekum Scores Booking Success.

Nashville, Tenn.—In keeping with his customary progressive policy, President Tony Sudekum of the Crescent Amusement Company has made arrangement with Paramount whereby Nashville has been placed at the head of the southern theaters exhibiting its pictures. The new system will place these productions in Nashville four days after the release date instead of several weeks afterwards, as heretofore, which means that the Paramount subjects will be on the Nashville screens simultaneously with the first runs in the northern and eastern cities.

New Organ at Alcazar.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—A magnificent new organ has been installed in the Alcazar theater, and is an added stimulus to the Chattanooga public to patronize this popular uptown house. The new instrument is under the capable direction of Prof. Julius Bach, and represents quite an outlay of money. The Alcazar is controlled by the Signal Amusement Company, Frank H. Dowler, manager.

Tennessee Topics.

Nashville, Tenn.—M. Y. Brockett, formerly manager of the Crescent Amusement Company's Clarksville house, the Elite, has for the last few weeks been located at Nashville, where he is supervising the Crescent, one of the company's local houses.

Nashville, Tenn.—Mr. McTyre, from the Atlanta office of Artcraft, paid a visit to the city last week, and discussed Pickford plays with the local trade.

Murfreesboro, Tenn.—Manager Oscar Altman, Murfreesboro manager of the Crescent Amusement Co.'s holdings, is critically ill with typhoid fever, and at this writing confined to the hospital.

Nashville, Tenn.—After a successful run throughout the summer season, the last of the park pictures have been removed.

Denver Club Wants to be Star-Led

Screeners Put Off Grand Ball Till They Can Find First-Magnitude Stars to Lead Across the Dance Hall Floor in Grand March—Magnificent Prizes Offered for Ticket Selling—Big Things Promised.

By E. C. Day, Denver Times, Denver, Colorado

DENVER, Colorado.—Wanted by the Rocky Mountain Screen Club—A Charlie Chaplin, a Mary Pickford, a Fatty Arbuckle, a Marguerite Clark or some other equally notable screen star. Applicants must appear in the flesh. Hundreds of still and moving pictures of scores of film favorites are available, but these can't lead a grand march. And until a leader for the grand march is found the long contemplated Grand Ball is hanging in the balance.

Officers and members of the Screen Club have been writing and wiring for almost a month now in an effort to land the services of a really famous actor or actress. To date the work has borne no fruit.

At the regular weekly luncheon of the Screen Club Thursday a new committee was named to take charge of the arrangements for the ball, and it was the concensus of opinion of the members that if this body is unsuccessful in inducing Chaplin, Pickford, Clark or some other notable to come here the club should go ahead and hold the ball anyway.

Three exchange managers are on the new committee. They are Scott of the Mutual, Fair of the General, and Harris of Vitagraph. Pending responses to the latest invitations sent to the screen stars the trio is going ahead with plans for the ball. The fixing of a date and the renting of a hall will be left to the last. If Chaplin or another equally famous film favorite agrees to come to Denver the date will be fixed to suit his convenience and the mammoth City Auditorium will be engaged to accommodate the crowd that will surely attend.

Regardless of this feature, however, the committee is planning to make the ball the biggest event of its kind held in Denver in years. Handsome prizes are to be awarded those selling the greatest number of tickets and trophies are to be hung up for the best dancers on the night of the ball. Just to give an idea of the high aims of the committee, a large diamond ring is most favored as the grand prize for the ticket selling contest. The other awards will be of the same exalted character.

Two Exchange Managers Resign.

Denver, Colorado.—Two more changes in the management of local film exchanges were recorded last week. They marked the retirement of J. A. Applegate as head of the Pathe office, and H. Bradly Fish as manager of the United Film Service.

Mr. Fish resigned as manager of the United to accept a position as manager of the Princess theater, one of the large downtown houses. He succeeds S. Barrett McCormick, who recently went to Indianapolis to take charge of the Circle theater. He has had a varied experience in the moving picture industry. In addition to owning several neighborhood theaters at different times, he conducted a brokerage office for the sale and exchange of photoplay houses and put in several months as an exchange manager.

L. J. Schlaifer is the new manager of the United. He comes from Kansas City, where he had been in charge of the United Film office for several months.

There are now only five exchanges of the fifteen or more in the city that have not installed new managers within the last six months, and in some cases two or more managers have changes have been made in one office in this time.

Ward Scott of Mutual, Milton Cohn of Paramount, W. S. Rand of Triangle, Frank Harris of Vitagraph and H. H. Buckwalter of Kleine are the exceptions.

Mrs. Denham Palmer Dies.

Denver, Colo.—Sorrow entered the ranks of Denver's moving picture family last week, death removed Mrs. Lucile Jurey Palmer, one of its youngest and most popular members. Mrs. Palmer was the wife of Denham Palmer, former western division manager and Denver exchange manager of the World Film, and now road man in the Colorado territory for Vitagraph.

Heart Disease was the cause of death. Mrs. Palmer had been in failing health for months. Because of her illness Mr. Palmer gave up his position as western division manager of the World and located in Denver, believing that the climate would benefit his wife.

Members of the Rocky Mountain Screen Club, of which Palmer was a member, attended the funeral in a body.

Orpheum Theater Reopens.

Glenwood Springs, Colo.—W. R. Mosley has reopened the Orpheum theater at Glenwood Springs, Colo., after a fire which nearly destroyed the playhouse.

IN WISCONSIN.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

PORTAGE, WIS.—George Koberstein, who managed the Crystal theater at Kilbourn for several years, has assumed the management of the Majestic theater in this city.

Sturgeon Bay, Wis.—Thomas Nelson, of Washington Island, has purchased the moving picture outfit of Frank Welter, and with Bernie Richter will conduct a moving picture show at Nelson's hall on the Island.

Kendall, Wis.—H. F. Beckmark has sold his moving picture show to Roy Archer.

Sharon, Wis.—Darwin Karr, of the Essanay, appeared in person at the Unique theater.

Milwaukee, Wis.—When the Strand theater played "The War Bride's Secret" it had a back ground of heather.

Use Two Theaters for Showing Big Picture

Romeo and Juliet Competition Gave New Idea to Brown and Megahan, Owners of the Strand and the Rialto Theaters.

Denver, Colo.—Brown and Megahan introduced a new feature in the exhibiting branch of the moving picture field in Denver last week. They are the owners of the Strand and Rialto theaters, two of the city's newest and largest downtown theaters. They booked Metro's "Romeo and Juliet" for the Rialto theater for the early part of November, and had planned an extensive advertising campaign. When it was learned that Fox was to release the same play in regular program they were forced to alter their arrangements completely. It was Tuesday that they learned of the Fox picture, and at once started a whirlwind campaign of billboard and newspaper advertising announcing the first showing of the Metro production for Friday. The films didn't arrive on schedule and the opening of the engagement was necessarily put over until Saturday. In the meantime the innovation was decided upon. When the picture began its run on Saturday instead of being shown alone at the Rialto it was also staged at the Strand. The theaters are only a half block apart on Curtis street. The first show was started an hour apart in each theater so that while four of the eight films were being run in one house the other four were being shown in the other theater.

Tickets sold at either theater were good at the other. Persons who arrived after the picture had been started at one house and did not want to go in the middle of the picture were sent to the other house, thus eliminating the long wait that would have been necessary if the film production had to be run in its entirety before another performance would start.

The plan was pronounced a success. In addition to its other advantages Brown and Megahan were given double capacity by the combination arrangement, and sometimes this is a big factor in putting over a big "special."

High Wages Given by Butte Theaters

Every Amusement House in the City Has Met New Wage Scale Demanded by the Union—What Employes Now Get.

BUTTE, Mont.—Every amusement house in Butte having met the new wage scale adopted two weeks ago, theatrical employees in this city receive probably the best pay for their work. The new scale is said to provide for $42 per seven-day week for moving picture machine operators, stage managers $35, grips $27.50, props $31.50, orchestra leaders $45 to $52.50, and musicians $40. The results obtained appear to bear out Henry Ford's assertion that better paid men are more efficient and economical. Butte can boast of well-nigh perfect projection in every house, ghosts and brown edges are practically unknown, and there is a noticeable lack of petty annoyances that generally accompany projection put on by less competent men. All but two smaller houses have orchestras made up of real artists in their line, and the musical accompaniment to the pictures is an attraction of itself.

Pathe Moves to Granite Street.

Butte, Mont.—The Pathe exchange moved into larger and more convenient quarters this week, from the Silver Bow block, where they were on the fifth floor, to the ground floor of a fireproof building at 124 West Granite street. Metro and Mutual are also considering moving to the same building, and if they do the other exchanges will probably follow, making it the exchange center of the town and a short block and a half from the theater center.

Notes and Changes.

Butte, Mont.—Building operations on the New People's theater seem to have slowed down the last month, while Jensen and Von Herberg's new house is going up rapidly and should be completed in about two months.

Phillipsburg, Mont.—"The Star" is the name of the new theater at Phillipsburg, Montana, and is being operated by Frank Pappas, who used to run the Grand at Boulder.

Theaters in Northwestern Montana are opening up after being closed for about three weeks by a smallpox quarantine.

F. L. Langtree, of the Universal, Denver, Colorado, was a visitor this week at the local U. exchange.

Prairie States News Letter

By Harry H. Marks, 1553 S. Wabash Avenue, Chicago.

Woman's Club to Work for Better Children's Shows.

OMAHA, Neb.—A censorship, but one as opposed to censorship was advocated by Mrs. E. M. Syfert, president of the Omaha Woman's Club, who sees the need of the campaign for better motion pictures for children. Mrs. Syfert saw this need as the first work of the club this season. The work will be carried on by the club's educational committee. "We wish to cooperate with producers, not arouse their antagonism," said Mrs. Syfert.

Federal Film Gets Charter.

Omaha, Neb.—A charter has been granted to the Federal Film company of this city to do a general exchange business in the manufacture, leasing and sale of moving picture films. The company, which is authorized to have a capital stock of $50,000, was incorporated by Jacob E. Schlank and Philip Goldstrom.

Nebraska Theater Changes.

Oakdale, Neb.—George E. Bowen and Cloyd Lawrence of O'Neill have purchased the Oak theater.

Red Cloud, Neb.—The Orpheum theater has been sold to Hauserman & Retzman.

Bartley, Neb.—P. N. Ledon of Yuma, Colo., has purchased the opera house and will conduct a moving picture show.

Beatrice, Neb.—Manager Lucey of the Jewel theater has installed a new projector.

Iowa Theater Changes.

Council Bluffs, Ia.—The Strand theater, which is the name of the remodeled Dohany opera house, opened with "The Common Law."

Allison, Ia.—J. B. Weires has sold his moving picture theater to Ave and Hattie Weires.

Hawarden, Ia.—F. L. Jones & Son of Sioux Falls have purchased the Lyric theater.

Nashua, Ia.—M. Larson has purchased the Grand moving picture house from T. L. Foltz.

Mason City, Ia.—The Star theater, which was closed for two weeks for remodeling, was re-opened. The interior changes are complete, but the marble for the lobby was delayed in shipment and this improvement is to follow.

ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

San Francisco Jottings.

Fred Hesse, of the Fresno theater, Fresno, Cal., was a recent visitor in this city.

G. E. Melcalfe is furnishing the new projection equipment being installed in Walter's auditorium at Dunsmuir, Cal.

California Newslets.

Haywards, Cal.—The Haywards theater is being improved and new projection equipment installed.

Sausalito, Cal.—The Swastika theater has been re-opened by J. Eliot, who also conducts the Princess theater.

Tulare, Cal.—The Majestic theater has been opened by L. H. Willis and the name changed to that of the Lyric.

Alameda, Cal.—The Bay Station theater is now being conducted by Gertrude Malone.

Manteca, Cal.—M. D. Serrano has disposed of his moving picture business to A. Jacobson.

Berkeley, Cal.—A moving picture machine has been installed in the Hawthorne school in West Berkeley and it is planned to give an entertainment each week.

For Higher Admissions in Frisco

Down-Town Theaters Trying to Get Together for an Advance in Admission Prices—Cost of Running Constantly Going Up—Fifteen Cents for Matinees and Fifteen and Twenty-five Cents for Evening Shows Proposed.

By T. A. Church, 1507 North St., Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.—The steady increase in the cost of film service to exhibitors, combined with other increasing expenses, has led to a meeting of downtown theater interests at which the proposition of advancing admission prices was thoroughly discussed. It was pointed out at this gathering that theaters that but a comparatively short time ago paid an average of $125 a day for service were now paying not less than $175, with further advances in prospect. In addition to this, competition has become very keen, exhibitors have been compelled to increase their advertising appropriations and almost all have installed orchestras or have made heavy investments for better music, all without a change in admission prices.

It was proposed at this meeting to advance prices at all of the large downtown houses to 15 cents for any seat in the afternoon and to 15 and 25 cents for evening performances, instead of 10 and 20 cents. The recently opened St. Francis theater has been making a success of the higher prices and it was pointed out that at Los Angeles the average price for admission in downtown houses is higher than here. The chief drawback at the present time to an increase in prices seems to be the fact that the large vaudeville houses, which are featuring moving pictures extensively, are still offering from six to eight acts of vaudeville, with five or six reels of pictures for 10 cents. In case prices are raised in these houses an advance may be expected at once at the exclusive moving picture theaters.

Pathe Exchange to Move.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Pathe exchange, which has been located on Turk street, near Market, since entering this field, is to remove at an early date to greatly enlarged and improved quarters on the third floor of the Musical building at 985 Market street, near the home of the Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco. Manager H. E. Lotz promises a number of innovations in the arrangement and conveniences to be found in the new quarters and expresses the belief that exhibitors will take kindly to these.

Fox Manager Visits Coast.

San Francisco, Cal.—Harry Leonhardt, with the William Fox corporation, was a recent visitor here, and after making a stay of a week left for Los Angeles. William Citron, manager of the local branch, is to leave for New York at once for a conference with the management of this concern.

Savoy Opened as Picture House.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Savoy theater, on McAllister street, just off Market, has been opened as an exclusive moving picture house by James Beatty, of San Jose, and associates, under the personal management of M. E. Cory. Many marked changes have been made in the house, the Oriental decorations have been removed and the general appearance of the theater changed, both within and without. The opening attraction was the Metro production, "Romeo and Juliet." Music in this new house is furnished by an orchestra and recently installed organ. The prices for the opening week were 10, 20 and 30 cents, but it is the plan to increase these as occasion may demand.

Long Auto Trip With Films.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Golden Gate film exchange recently missed making a shipment of films to the Edison theater at Newman, 120 miles distant, and rather than have the owner of the house incur a loss hired an automobile and succeeded in landing the films there in time for the evening performance. Sol. L. Lesser, head of this concern, recently returned from a business trip to Los Angeles, and announces that the California rights to "A Trip Through China" has been secured, as well as extensive rights to "The Libertine," featuring John Mason.

Arthur S. Kane in San Francisco.

San Francisco, Cal.—Arthur S. Kane, Western representative of the Artcraft Pictures corporation, is in this city, making his headquarters in the offices recently opened in the Pacific building. He recently completed a tour of all the large cities in his territory and expresses the belief that the moving picture industry in this part of the country is in good shape, calling special attention to the number of very large houses now in course of construction. C. Mell Simmons, manager of the local branch, is making an auto trip to Los Angeles, visiting exhibitors on the way down and back.

Maniac Terrorizes Audience.

San Francisco, Cal.—During the course of a recent performance at the Palace theater, Union and Gough streets, Max Nanni, a machinist, leaped upon the stage flourishing two revolvers and threatened the audience. Policemen were summoned, and upon their entry the maniac fired two shots into the ceiling. While he was being overpowered the audience made its way out of the house, no one having dared to stir while he was holding the stage.

"Intolerance" at the Columbia.

San Francisco, Cal.—The D. W. Griffith production, "Intolerance," opened at the Columbia theater on October 9th at prices ranging from 25 cents to $2, and packed houses have been the rule at every performance since then. Mr. Griffith was here to personally supervise the initial presentation of the spectacle and was greatly pleased with its reception.

Film Concern Incorporated.

San Francisco, Cal.—Articles of incorporation of the Supreme Feature Films, Inc., have been filed here, the capital stock being placed at $50,000. The incorporators are: L. S. Dunham, H. Sallinger, G. A. Platt, T. Bacigalupi and C. de Y. Elkus.

San Francisco Jottings.

A building permit has been taken out by the Market Street Realty company for the erection of the California theater at a cost of $225,000. Contracts for the steel and foundation work have already been awarded.

During the absence of Fred Peachy, manager of the Film Exchange Board of Trade of San Francisco, on a short vacation, the duties of this office have been attended to by Harry W. Oviatt, formerly manager of the local Pathe exchange.

J. J. Unger, Western district manager for Metro, recently returned from a trip to Salt Lake City.

C. Howell, of the Gaiety theater, Potterville, Cal., was a recent visitor here to inspect film productions.

The All-Star feature distributors has booked the Clara Kimball Young productions over the Fred Geisa circuit, which includes Sacramento, San Jose, Stockton, Fresno and Oakland.

Why Some Small Houses Fail

Seattle World Man Has Heart-to-Heart Talk with a Few Exhibitors and Gets Good Reasons to Explain Success and Failure of Small Town Picture Shows—The Exhibitor Himself on the Job Is the Big Factor.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, WASH.—In our conversations with small town exhibitors for the last month or so we have heard a great deal of talk about poor business, attributed, generally, to the hard times in this part of the country.

"But I might be making a little more than expenses," one of them explained in a burst of confidence, "if it were not that my competitor has got the program that the people like best. If I didn't have my store I don't know where I'd be."

"Oh, you keep a store then, too?"

"Yes, I run the store in the daytime and the theater in the evening, you see. I had hopes, when I opened the theatre, that it would furnish spending money for my wife; but, instead, it threatens to take all MY spending money to keep it going."

We have heard that sentiment voiced by more than one small town exhibitor, and it set us to thinking on where the real trouble lay. So thinking we went to several men who were familiar with the business in both this and other territories. Their undivided opinion was that the program had not nearly so much to do with the success or failure of a motion picture theater as the manager himself.

Where Personality Comes In.

"Why," said one of these men who has just come from a section of the country where even the smallest exhibitors go into the business with all their resources and their business sense concentrated, "how can a man who keeps a grocery store all day and comes to his theater at night tired out, expect to compete with a man who makes running a theatre his soul business. Naturally, the people think the store keeper's show can't be as good. They like to see a theater have an air of business about it, and not look deserted all the time except when running. They like to see the manager about in the morning overseeing the cleaning, putting up new lobby displays, hustling about as if running a motion picture theater were more than a play job. The business men of the town respect that exhibitor and his business who is always on the alert for new advertising ideas, who goes about his work as if managing a theater were something worth while. In short, it is particularly true of a small town, where everybody likes to know what everybody else is doing, that a theater gains in prestige according as the exhibitor shows by his work the importance which he himself attaches to it."

"I have always maintained that two-thirds of the business depended upon the service at the door," declared another film man who is familiar with the small town exhibitor in different parts of the country. "And so many exhibitors pay no attention to this. Of course people don't want to go to a house where the door man is discourteous. I once saw a door man chewing tobacco, and just as a lady was turning in to the box office, he carelessly let fly a mouthful that landed square on her silk dress. I also have seen the manager himself selling tickets and smoking as he did so, and when patrons came up he filled their faces with such a volume of tobacco smoke as to nearly choke them. Yes, indeed, there are a lot of other things beside the program that determines the success or failure of a motion picture theater."

Emil Erickson Comes to "U" Office.

Seattle, Wash.—The local Universal office has announced a successor to Al Bloom, who resigned the post of booking manager of that office. The new man is Emil Erickson, formerly in charge of the booking department of the Portland office. Mr. Erickson is a man who combines the capacity for work with the power and the will to really use his brain for the betterment of the film industry, and Manager Hager considers himself fortunate in getting his services. Mr. Erickson has already been on a short trip as far as Pasco, Washington, to acquaint himself with exhibitors and conditions in the state. He reports that business is picking up in that agricultural community, owing to the big crops. Every other farmer you meet, he says, is driving a new Ford, and it looks as if they intended treating the wife and kiddies to a picture show quite often. Apropos of this he informs us that the Cord theater, a beautiful big house in Pasco, is going to open every night, instead of just three nights a week.

Exchange Managers Make Trips.

Seattle, Wash.—H. G. Rosebaum, Northwest manager for Artcraft, has just left the city on a tour of the larger cities and towns in his territory.

Fred C. Quimby, Northwest manager for Pathe, recently returned from a trip making the larger towns in the vicinity of Seattle. Mr. Quimby reports the business done on "The Shielding Shadow" as more than twice as large as that of any other Pathe serial in the first fifteen days after release.

New Theaters Going Up.

Burlington, Wash. R. K. Dunham, of the Grand theater, is soon to build a new theater of concrete in this city. The name by which the new house will be known has not yet been decided upon.

Unalaska, Wash.—A new motion picture theater which is being erected here by Richard J. Charles will be open on October 17.

New Representative for De Luxe.

Seattle, Wash.—Mike Rosenberg, manager of the De Luxe Feature Film Company, announces that he has secured the services of Bert Lipman, former newspaper man, as special representative for the Clara Kimball Young features, of which the De Luxe holds Northwest states rights.

Minneapolis News Letter

By J. L. Johnston, 814 Produce Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.

William F. Tobin Back at His Desk.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—General Manager William F. Tobin of the Great West Film Co. has returned to this city from Malta, Mont., where he has spent two weeks watching the taking of the firm's first release, "The Golden Goddess," a five-reeler.

Unity Feature Exchange Opened.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Harry Rathner and Myron Conhaim have opened the Unity Features Corp. exchange on the fifth floor of the Film Exchange building here and will have amongst their first releases. "The Marriage Bond," with Nat Goodwin and the Tweedledum comedies.

Hopes for Big Business with "Purity."

St. Paul, Minn.—Manager Maitland of the Strand theater here has advertised "Purity," which opens an indefinite engagement at his theater Oct. 22, in the street cars, every available billboard and in numerous display windows. "Purity has been praised by press, censors and clergy and Manager Maitland looks forward to a big business.

One of Seelye's Home Runs.

Minneapolis, Minn. That C. R. Seelye is a good judge of exchange managers is acknowledged all over the United States but his batting average was about .950 when he selected Henry E. Friedman, of Washington, to manage the Minneapolis Pathe exchange. In the three months that he has been in charge of the Mill City Pathe exchange Mr. Friedman has brought the office up to a standard that few exchanges in the country can equal, he has reported a phenomenal increase in business and a glance at the books of the office will prove that 80 per cent of the theaters of the Twin Cities are now using Pathe service of some sort, either weeklies, comedies, Gold Roosters, full service or serials.

Henry E. Friedman.

Since taking over the Mill City office, Mr. Friedman has won the friendship of numerous exhibitors, exchanges and almost every meeting of importance recently has been held at the Pathe exchange where Mr. Friedman has surrounded himself with a capable force of assistants and has instilled into each a spirit that makes for success. The exchange which has taken a new lease on life, is located at 712 Produce Exchange where people, not acquainted with Mr. Friedman and his staff will find all that this story implies.

Mutuals Trimmed by Reel Fellows.

Minneapolis, Minn.—A big surprise was sprung in the Film Man's bowling league last week when the Reel Fellows team trimmed the league-leading Mutuals and the De Luxe five beat the Unicorn-Metros three straight.

R. C. Fox Joins Mutual Forces.

Minneapolis, Minn.—R. C. Fox, former road man for the V-L-S-E., has joined forces with the Mutual exchange here and will cover Northern Minnesota. G. M. Fosdick, formerly of the Mutual, has joined the Vitagraph exchange as booker.

Phillip Lewis Opens Office.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Phillip Lewis has opened spacious quarters in the Film Exchange building for the Selznick enterprise.

Minneapolis News Notes.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager L. V. Calvert of the New Garrick has had the interior of his theater completely re-decoreted for the indefinite run of "War's Women," which began Sunday, Oct. 14. The Japanese garden effects have been replaced by French decorations and an elaborate stage setting has also been procured and the orchestra enlarged.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Mendel Gottleib, of the Favorite Features Film Corp., Film Exchange building, has gone to New York for a week's visit. The Favorite recently acquired the rights for "The Unwritten Law" from the Supreme Features exchange and has secured "The Katzenjammer" cartoon comedies.

Northwest Brevities.

Hendrum, Minn.—N. C. and A. C. Englere contemplate opening a moving picture theater here.

Jeffers, Minn.—The Fish brothers are making extensive improvements on the Cozy picture theater here.

Lester Prairier, Minn.—Clarence Schulz and E. C. Wiggs will open a picture theater in this place shortly.

St. Cloud, Miss.—Frank Nemec has put out several traveling picture shows playing various small towns near here and having a special orchestra which furnishes music for dancing following the exhibition of the pictures.

Delavan, Wis.—The Stahl building here is to be remodelled and made into a first class picture theater, according to reports.

Elkhorn, Wis.—It is said that Manager Peters of the Rex theater here is contemplating the erecting of a new show house.

New Diggings, Wis.—Construction of the new opera house has been begun.

Butte, Mont.—A new $100,000 theater will be erected here shortly by William Stegge and Maurice Weiss. The former gentlemen will manage the theater.

Coleman, S. D.—An addition is being built on the local picture theater here.

White Rock, S. D.—Archie Hess has bought the picture theater here from Theodore Huls.

Forbes, N. D.—The opera house is now showing films regularly.

Beach, N. D.—Charles Haigh is now managing the opera house here.

Killdeer, N. D.—J. H. McMadin has taken charge of Auditorium theater.

Montevedio, Minn.—Carl F. Starbeck, manager of the Star building, died last week from blood poisoning caused by appendicitis.

Argyle, Minn.—R. L. Cooper, former owner of the Star theater here, has purchased a theater at Wapello, Iowa.

Black River Falls, Wis.—Through clever advertising Manager G. W. Turner of the local R-K theater, has built up a big business in the few weeks he has owned the theater.

No Settlement Yet in Portland

Portland, Oregon, Musicians and Exhibitors Still Debate Wage Scale—Small Theaters Are Particularly Affected—Vaudeville Houses Give Increase to Stage Hands—Overtime Demands by Unions.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Oregon.

PORTLAND, Ore.—September first was set as the day when the labor unions composed of the musical employees would demand increased wages and different working conditions. The day came and went without action by either employees or employers, and the matter is still being debated.

The wage increase demanded by the unions effects the five and ten-cent shows more vitally than those that charge fifteen cents. Under the proposed wage scale musicians working in five and ten-cent theaters demand nearly as much as those employed in fifteen-cent theaters. The union musicians, under the demands of Labor Council, will be compelled to turn in accounts of their overtime to the union headquarters, which will bill the charge to the theater. This is one of the sticking points between the managers and the unions.

Recently the vaudeville theaters granted their stage hands an increase in wages which practically settled the differences between the unions and the variety houses. All the theaters of the city are united in the Portland Protective Association, and it is anticipated that the musical end of the controversy as it relates to picture shows will be considered by the entire association.

Manager of Rosebud Theater.

Portland, Ore.—Here is a picture of E. T. Pittmon, manager of the Rosebud theater, standing in front of his house, showing his patrons his new projector.

The installation of a modern projecting machine is in line with "Pitt's" policy of getting the business for his suburban house by giving his patrons up-to-date shows in an up-to-date manner, and even if he hasn't such a pretentious theater, he puts on his picture just as good, if not a little better, than the bigger show houses across the river. Mr. Pittmon is getting away from the idea of surfeiting his patrons with long programs and four reels for a nickel with a feature twice a week constitute a show at the Rosebud. His policy is successful, and the Rosebud has a god crowd any night in the week.

Manager Pittman Pleased With His New Projection Machine.

G. F. Traveler Reports Luck.

Portland, Oregon.—C. H. Feldman, road man for the General Film, who has been spending the past month in Portland territory, reports good business during his stay, and was especially pleased with his trip from Ashland north. He left for Seattle Oct. 14, which territory he will cover next. He expects to be back in Portland about the first of the year.

The Lyric Theater Reopens.

Portland, Oregon.—Keating & Flood reopened the Lyric theater to a combination of musical stock and pictures. "The Yellow Menace" has been booked for the house.

Oregon Notes.

Grants Pass.—The Star theater has been opened by C. W. Birum. It has been renamed the Joy.

Lostine.—Spence and Goodman have purchased the theater here from Oliver Wood.

Prineville.—L. C. Morgan has sold the Lyric theater to W. J. Pancake.

From Portland's Film Row.

It is understood that Turner & Dahnken have been unable to make satisfactory arrangements respecting the lease of the Portland T. and D. theater, and that the house may withdraw Oct. 21.

John R. Meldrum, the popular booker at the Universal, is the proud father of a baby boy.

W. A. Crank, road man for Metro, was in Portland recently exploiting features.

Emil Ericksen, former publicity man for Bluebirds, has gone to Seattle as booker for Universal. He was formerly booker in Portland.

"Ramona," under the direction of Sherman, Elliott, Inc., was the bill at the Heilig commencing Oct. 12.

Association Asks Picture Men to Vote "Yes"

No. 312 on Ballot to Repeal Oregon Sunday Laws Should Vote "Yes"—Trouble Is Expected Unless the Repeal Wins.

Portland, Oregon.—The Oregon Motion Picture Men's Association is urging the exhibitors for the last time before the election Nov. 7 to vote "yes" on No. 312 on the ballot to repeal Oregon's Sunday closing law. Recent arguments by some valley exhibitors that the repeal of the law will leave the Sunday closing issue to Home Rule are not considered sound by those in charge of the campaign for the law's repeal. The last named say if the repeal fails, the so-called reformers will become emboldened by their victory, and that the most drastic blue laws will follow, but that a decisive vote for the law's repeal will put the reformers away forever.

Dallas, Oregon.—Since the victory of O. C. Smith over the local Sunday closing law, the city council raised his license to such an extent that he closed his new theater. Mr. Smith is not a man who lets people step on him, and it is anticipated that the Orpheum will soon be open under the most favorable conditions.

Corvallis, Ore.—A city censorship ordinance has been invoked here and a new board selected. Two men, one an instructor of music and the other a minister, and three women, composed the board. Whether or not the new board is a sequel to the failure of the city fathers to close the shows on Sunday has not been ascertained.

They Had a Good Time, Anyway.

Portland, Oregon.—Friday the 13th was sure a Jonah day for a bunch of the boys on Film Row. We promised we wouldn't mention any names, so we won't. But here's what happened: The Clackamas county grand jury returned an indictment against twelve of the flowers of Portland's filmdom, charging them with trespass, and it was a law-fearing dozen that arrayed themselves before Circuit Judge Campbell to plead to the charge on the Friday aforesaid.

The indictment was a sequel to the picnic at Clear Creek park heretofore reported. This park had for years been a favorite rendezvous for auto outing parties, but a few months before the film men's picnic it had been acquired by C. S. Jackson, of the Portland Journal, and closed to the public. This fact was not known to the film men and they held their picnic there, notwithstanding. When apprised of their mistake, the boys wanted to settle with the Journal publisher, but it seemed that that gentleman wanted, by Heck, the law on the culprits, and R. W. Hagood, the Journal's attorney, appeared as private prosecutor and secured the indictment. Judge Campbell and District-Attorney Hedges made it as easy as possible for the boys. At Hedges' suggestion lots were cast, one of the boys took the brunt of the affair, pleaded guilty, received the minimum fine and everybody chipped in to pay it. Prominent Seattleites who attended the picnic and then went home, were also indicted. They will please note.

Bergner Goes to 'Frisco.

Ashland, Oregon.—O. F. Bergner, manager of the Vining theater, has gone to San Francisco where he has become connected with Foster & Kleiser, outdoor advertisers. Mrs. Bergner is managing the Vining, awaiting the arrival of her brother who, it is reported, will assume its management. Mr. Bergner was employed by Foster & Kleiser in Portland before they built the Columbia theater, of which he was manager before coming here.

New House for Pendleton.

Pendleton, Oregon.—The Round-up City will have a new palace of photoplay. The deal is being engineered by J. B. Welch, who bought the Temple theater a few weeks ago. A stock company has been organized to build the theater which will cost $20,000.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending November 4 and November 11

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 762, 764, 766, 768.)

General Film Company.

Current Releases.

(Serial No.)

MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1916.

SELIG—Small Town Stuff (Three parts—Drama) 21340-41-42
VITAGRAPH—The New Porter (Comedy) 21343
SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 87, 1916 (Topical) 21344
BIOGRAPH—The Goddess of Sagebrush Gulch (Drama—Biograph-Reissue No. 93) 21345

TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1916.

ESSANAY—The Beachcomber (Two parts—Comedy) 21346-47
KALEM—The Merry Motor Menders (Comedy) 21348

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1916.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 19 (Cartoon-Comedy) 21349
—A Scenic subject on the same reel..... 21349
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Gertie's Garters (Comedy) 21350
KALEM—The Son of Cain (No. 13 of the "Girl From Frisco" (Two parts—Drama)..... 21351-52
BIOGRAPH—The Power of the Press (Three parts—Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 94)..... 21353-54-55

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1916.

SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 88, 1916 (Topical)... 21356
VIM—Twin Flats (Comedy)..... 21357

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1916.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Jess of Hill Country (Two parts—Drama)..... 21358-59
KALEM—The Pencil Clue (No. 3 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama) 21360
VITAGRAPH—The Game That Failed (Comedy).... 21361
VIM—In the Ranks (Comedy)..... 21362

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1916.

ESSANAY—The Heart of Virginia Keep (Three parts Drama) 21363-64-65
VITAGRAPH—The Heart of a Fool (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature)..... 21366-67-68
KALEM—The Gate of Death (No. 104 of the "Hazards of Helen," Railroad Series) (Drama)..... 21369
SELIG—Tom's Sacrifice (Drama)..... 21370

General Film Company.

Advance Releases.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.

SELIG—As Ye Sow (Three parts—Drama).
VITAGRAPH—New York Rapid Transit (Comedy).
SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 89, 1916 (Topical).
BIOGRAPH—The New York Hat (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 95).

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.

ESSANAY—Easy Ed. (Comedy.)
KALEM—A Desperate Duel (Comedy).
BIOGRAPH—The Science of Crime (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 96).

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.

ESSANAY—A Safe Proposition (Comedy).
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Marked "No Fund" (Comedy).
KALEM—The Witch of the Dark House (No. 14 of the 'Girl From 'Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.

SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 90, 1916 (Topical).
VIM—A Warm Reception (Comedy).

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—The Question Mark (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—The Man From Yukon (No. 4 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
VITAGRAPH—Weary Willie's Birthday (Comedy).
VIM—Gay Deceivers (Comedy).

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.

ESSANAY—What I Said Goes (Three parts—Drama).
KALEM—"Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series No. 105, "The Lone Point Mystery."
SELIG—When Cupid Slipped (Comedy).

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

BERT WILLIAMS

Produced by

Biograph Company

of the Ziegfeld Follies presented in

FISH

One Reel Comedy

Released Nov. 21
Through
General Film
Service

General Film Service

FEATURE COMEDY
HARRY MYERS & ROSEMARY THEBY
IN "GERTIE'S GARTERS"
NOVEMBER 1

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending November 4 and November 11

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 702, 704, 766, 768.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company.

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1916.
REX—The Moving Finger (Drama)	01873
SPECIAL BIG U—A Daughter of Dixie (Two parts—Drama)	01874
VICTOR—The Burglar (Comedy)	01875
SPECIAL FOR WEEK OF OCTOBER 29, 1916.
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Liberty No. 12 "For the Flag" (Two parts—Drama)	01895
MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1916.
RED FEATHER—The Isle of Life (Five parts—Drama)	01877
NESTOR—Love and a Liar (Comedy)	01878
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1916.
GOLD SEAL—The Masked Woman (Three parts—Drama)	01879
VICTOR—(No release this day)
SPECIAL VICTOR—Felix on the Job (Comedy)	01880
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1916.
LAEMMLE—(No release this day)
L-KO—Terrors of a Turkish Bath (Two parts—Comedy)	01881
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—No. 44 (Topical)	01882
SPECIAL LAEMMLE—The Midnght Toll (Drama)	01391
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1916.
LAEMMLE—Her Wedding Day (Two parts—Drama)	01884
BIG U—Sea Mates (Drama)	01885
POWERS—Sammie Johnson Minds the Baby (Comedy-Cartoon)	01886
—Ceylon (Educational)	01886
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1916.
IMP—Stumbling (Two parts—Drama)	01887
REX—(No release this day)
POWERS—Us Kids (Juvenile-Comedy-Drama)	01888
SPECIAL BIG U—Starlight's Message (Drama)	01889
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1916.
BISON—For Love and Gold (Two parts—Drama)	01890
LAEMMLE—(No release this day.)
JOKER—A Shadowed Shadow (Comedy)	01891
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1916.
REX—Her Vanished Youth (Drama)	01892
BIG U—The Bandit's Wager (Comedy-Drama)	01893
L-KO—(No release this day)
SPECIAL FOR WEEK OF NOVEMBER 5, 1916.
UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Liberty No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow" (Two part—Drama)	01914
MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.
RED FEATHER—The Place Beyond the Winds (Five parts—Drama)	01896
NESTOR—A Political Tramp (Comedy)	01897
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.
L-KO—Alice in Society (Three parts—Comedy)	01898
VICTOR—(no release this day)
SPECIAL IMP—The Voice Upstairs (Drama)	01899
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.
GOLD SEAL—The Cry of Conscience (Two parts—Drama)	01900
L-KO—(No release this day)
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Number 45 (Topical)	01901
SPECIAL VICTOR—A Roaming Romeo (Comedy)	01902
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.
VICTOR—(No release this day)
REX—The Mantle of Deceit (Two parts—Drama)	01903
POWERS—A Pen Trip to Palestine (Cartoon-Educ.)	01904
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.
IMP—The Eel (Two parts—Drama)	01905
REX—The Eyes of Love (Drama)	01906
NESTOR—Sweedy the Janitor (Comedy)	01907
SPECIAL BIG U—The Evidence (Drama)	01908
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.
BISON—The Quitter (Two parts—Drama)	01909
LAEMMLE—(No release this day)
JOKER—In Love with a Fireman (Comedy)	01910

Mutual Film Corporation.

	Serial No.
SUNDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1916.
VOGUE—He Died and He Didn't (Two parts—Com.)	05132-33
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 26 (Mutual Film Magazine)	05134
MONDAY, OCTOBER 30, 1916.
MUTUAL—Paying the Price (Two parts—Drama)	05135-36
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Faith (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 148)
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1916.
BEAUTY—The Last Thrust (Comedy)	05137
BEAUTY—The Spartan Spleen (Comedy)	05138
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1916.
MUTUAL WEEKLY—Number 96 (Topical)	05139
GAUMONT—See American First, No. 60 (Scenic)	05140
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Com.)	05140
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1916.
MUTUAL—Canned Curiosity (Two parts—Drama)	05141-42
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—The Pearl of Paradise (Five parts—Drama) (No. 149)
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1916.
CUB—Nearly a Hero (Comedy)	05143
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1916.
ECLAIR—The Eternal Challenge (Two parts—Dr.)	05144-45
SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1916.
VOGUE—Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow (Two parts—Comedy)	05146-47
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 27 (Mutual Film Mag.)	05148
MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.
FILM D'ART—The Ten O'Clock Mystery (Three parts—Drama)	05149-50-51
MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—And the Law Says? (American—Five parts—Drama) No 150)
TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.
GAUMONT—Mutual World Tours (Travel)	05152
WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.
MUTUAL WEEKLY—No. 97 (Topical)	05153
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 61 (Scenic)	05154
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy)	05154
THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.
MUTUAL—The False Clew (Two parts—Drama)	05155-56
AMERICAN—The Fight on the Dam (Drama)	05157
MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151)
FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.
CUB—His Blushing Bride (Comedy)	05158
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.
ECLAIR—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Dr.)	05159-60

AMERICA'S GREATEST AMERICAN STORY

The Crisis

BY

WINSTON CHURCHILL

PRESENTING THE GREAT
— CRISIS —
IN OUR NATIONAL HISTORY

SHERMAN-ELLIOTT CO.

220 WEST 42ND STREET · · NEW YORK

Stories of the Films

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

JESS OF THE HILL COUNTRY (Two parts —Nov. 3).—John Austin, a wealthy bachelor, whose health is poor, is told by his physician that the only hope of recovery is to go to the hill country and rough it alone. Reluctantly, Austin goes to the hills where he rents a small shack. Jess, a child of nature, and her brother, Tom, live in a shack not far from Austin's place. Austin makes friends with the little girl, and teaches her to read. As the months pass love comes, and Jess is very happy. Then Austin has an attack of illness. Tom has gone to the valley many miles away, and Jess observes that she must nurse Austin all night.

In the morning, Tom returns, finds Jess' bed undisturbed, gets his rifle, and makes for Austin's shack. There Tom threatens Austin with death, telling him that he has compromised his sister. Austin replies "Don't shoot, Tom; I love Jess and will marry her if she is willing." And they are married.

In the months that follow, Austin entirely regains his health due to Jess' tender care. Later, however, Austin becomes tired of his hill girl wife, and longs for his old life. One day when Jess enters the shack she finds a note from Austin saying that he has gone to the city and leaving her some money. Jess, heart-broken, fearing the ridicule of her people, runs away, is picked up by Dr. Riggs, a kindly hill physician, who has a small sanitarium. Jess finally persuades the doctor to let her stay at the sanitarium and makes him promise not to tell anyone where she is. Tom finds Austin's crumpled note on the floor of the deserted shack, has one of the men in the nearby village read it to him, and swears that he will kill Austin if the latter ever returns.

Meanwhile Jess is studying to be a nurse under the guidance of Dr. Riggs. In the city as the months pass, Austin's gay life palls on him, and he longs for the quiet hills and the gentle love of Jess. Tom has been unable to find Jess. Austin finally leaves the city and again goes to the mountains. There he finds his shack deserted and goes to Tom's house to ask about Jess. Tom points a revolver at him. There is a struggle; the gun is discharged accidentally, and Tom falls to the floor, wounded and unconscious. The villagers, fearing trouble and having determined to run Austin out of the country for his desertion of Jess, arrive on the scene. One of the men is dispatched on horseback for the doctor, while the others bind Austin's arms, take him to a lonely spot where they plan to deal violently with him for shooting Tom.

Jess, hearing that Tom has been shot, hurries to his shack with Dr. Riggs. Tom becomes conscious and states that the shooting was accidental, but that he wanted to kill Austin. Jess rescues Austin just in time from the threatening villagers, but she will not listen to his pleas for forgiveness. Austin goes to his lonely shack. The next day, Jess' heart softens and she joins Austin in the other shack. Tom recovers.

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

GERTLE'S GARTERS (Nov. 1).—Harry is a young business man. Rose, his wife, is jealous to the extreme. Harry, with an eye for beauty in distress, loans a young woman carfare and walks with her to the car to see that she gets the right one. She sees a man coming as they stand waiting for the car and slips a pair of diamond set garter buckles into Harry's pocket. The man accuses the fair one of being Gert the Goat, a shoplifter. She claims Harry as her husband, and says she is a respectable married woman. Harry is too much of a gentleman to call a lady a liar and helps her along by putting his arm protectingly around her. But he does not value his "position" so well when the detective decides to take them both to the station house, where Harry makes a clean breast of it and proves who he is. The sergeant sets him free.

Harry hustles home because he will be late for dinner at best. Arrived home, he steals into the flat and finds the dining room dark. Rose seems to be there, so he seizes and kisses her. There is a scream, the lights are turned on and Harry sees Rose at the electric switch while he stands with his arms about the half fainting maid. He squares himself on this, but a moment later when he wipes the perspiration from his dripping brow the garter buckles clatter to the floor. Rose has them in an instant. Harry, trained in lying, is quick to explain that he obtained them for her and that is the reason why he was late for dinner. Then he has to explain why he brought them loose in his pocket and he tells (in a vision) how he was held up, but dashed after the burly ruffian and forced him to give up her property. His wife believes him and he is about to sit down to dinner when the police come in. They took his address when he showed his papers and Gertie confessed that she slipped the buckles into his pocket. The detectives give him his pocketbook and watch, which Gertie managed to get hold of, and they leave him to his fate.

VITAGRAPH.

THE HARBOR OF HAPPINESS (Broadway Star Feature—Three Parts—Oct. 21.)—John Winton, noted author, is going swiftly on the down-path with drink as his vehicle. Years before his wife had gone away with another man, who gave her her much-desired opportunity to return to the stage. Dorothy Winton's child cries continually for her mother, and would not be comforted. In desperation, Winton, unable to bear the child's sorrow, which augments his own grief, takes her to an old governess of his. He instructs the woman to care for the child, and he will furnish the money. The child is to be told that her parents are dead. After this, the embittered man takes to drink.

In his few and far between lucid intervals, he writes the brilliant stories that make him famous. His wife returns, remorseful, but Winton sternly sends her away, and adds to her grief by telling her that her child is dead. As years pass, Dorothy grows to womanhood, and, following her mother's footsteps, becomes an actress, attaining some little popularity. Her ambition is to star in a play. Winton now begins to feel pride in his daughter, whom he meets without revealing their relationship. Dick Townsend, a young playwright, writes a play that is rejected by Bradford, a theatrical manager. Dick has become friendly with Winton, and when he shows the play to Winton, and tells him it would be a great play with Dorothy in it, Winton becomes interested.

He takes the play home to read it, and finds it a work of genius. He comes to a decision, and gives Bradford twenty thousand dollars to produce the play, with Dorothy the star. Bradford is not to say where the money comes from. Dorothy and Dick (who are in love) are overjoyed when Bradford informs them he will produce the play. Winton, determining to end his useless life now, goes that evening to the wharves intending to jump off. Fate, in the guise of the mate of a shorthanded ship, happens along, and Winton is shanghaied. He is forced to work on board ship, and gradually gains in strength and health. Bradford, meanwhile in love with Dorothy, pretends he is advancing the money to produce the play. She repulses his advances, and he refuses to star her. Winton, a new man, returns cured of his drink-craving, in time to expose Bradford and have Dorothy starred. Mrs. Winton, acting as her own daughter's maid, recognizes Winton, and there is a happy reunion.

TROUBLE FOR FOUR (Oct. 23).—Author, Edward J. Montague. Director, John Robertson.

The Walters return from their honeymoon and settle down. Widow Hartley visits Florence, who raves about her husband. The widow tells her all men are true—until you find them out. Florence is indignant and the widow suggests putting Harry, the husband, to a test. She writes a letter asking Harry to meet her at the Hotel Norman that evening. She has never seen Harry. That evening Harry gets the letter and tries to get away to keep the appointment, but Florence pleads so hard he stays home.

Bobby Carroll, an old bachelor friend, visits the Walters. Florence sees a good chance to run over to her mother's while the men chat. Harry shows the jolly bachelor the mash note, and Bobby begs to keep the appointment. He goes, meets the widow and they dine together. Feeling she has proved her point the widow slips away from Bobby leaving him to foot the bill. He discovers he left the money in another suit, and pleads with Harry to come down and help him out. When Florence returns, Harry is gone, and the maid tells her he went to the Hotel Norman. When Harry returns home, his wife will not listen to him.

Next morning when Harry leaves for his office, Florence is unchanged. Bobby Carroll visits Harry and begs him to help find the widow; he is mad about her. Harry tells him he has troubles of his own, and orders Bobby out. Bobby sees the widow go by in a machine and follows in a taxi. The widow goes to Florence and, of course, breaks the news that she dined with her husband the night before. Florence says she will go home to mother. The widow sees Bobby from the window and says, "Here is your husband, now." Florence does not want to meet her husband, hurries to her room, packs up and goes home to mother.

Bobby makes love to the widow, but she tells him he ought to be ashamed of himself, has he no consideration for that little woman in that room. Puzzled, Bobby exits to look for the woman. Harry returns, and when the widow learns who he is, she faints in his arms. Florence returns with her mother in time to witness this spectacle. She faints. When both women are revived explanations are in order, and everything ends happily.

BETTY'S AFFAIR (Oct. 27).—Betty has a most unusual and amusing adventure in her quest for matrimonial bliss. She loves Bob, who has every delightful qualification, except money. Therefore, her stern father objects to the match and plans to wed his darling to a nondescript by the name of Ferdinand, who has only one point of attraction, namely, the prospect that he will inherit a wad when his wealthy uncle passes in his checks, sometime in the din, distant future.

Ferdinand comes to the home of Betty, to claim his bride, whereat the cook, who belongs to the Stew Experts' Union, quits rather than cook for "company." Bob, disguised as a member of the female species, takes the cook's place in the kitchen and maltreats the food to such an extent that flirty Freddie longs for home and mother. Meanwhile, of course, Betty and Bob put one over on the visitor by being married on the sly and, when, finally, foolish father insists upon the crime of marrying his offspring to the distant legacy, he finds that he has been famously foiled by the lovely lovers—and there you are.

KALEM.

THE LOVE MAGNET (Oct. 10).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Flossie (Ethel Teare); Prof. Bunkem (A. Edmondson).

Bud secures a "love magnet" from Prof. Bunkem that attracts all the pretty girls to him. Jealous, Ham goes to the professor for a magnet also. He takes his when the professor is not looking and by mistake gets one that attracts only old maids. When Ham and Bud meet they are up against it for women of all ages and conditions of beauty flock to them by the score. Finally the pursuit brings them to the edge of the sea into which Ham and Bud plunge in desperation. Far out on the wild waves even the mermaids answer the call of the magnet, but as there are only pretty mermaids Ham and Bud do not object in the least.

THE REFORMATION OF DOG HOLE (Episode No. 10, "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Oct. 11).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Hawk (Ronald Bradbury); his tool (Edward Clisbee); Hogan (Steve Murphy); "Pretzel" (Jack Wilson). Directed by James W. Horne.

The favorite sport at Dog Hole, the "toughest town west of the Sierras," is destroying the property of the railroad headed by Ace Brent. As sheriffs and detectives have failed to settle the problem, Brent assents to Barbara's pleas that she be given a trial. Barbara succeeds "Pretzel," the station agent at Dog Hole, and finds that Hawk, proprietor of the Red Copper saloon, is the evil influence of the town, and gambling the Red Copper's chief attraction. She sets up a counter game in her own shack and by clever manipulation of the cards wins all the cowpuncher's money. Hawk, finding his business ruined, schemes to ruin Barbara, but, after an exciting series of events leading to stirring dramatic action, she outwits him. She then informs the punchers that their losses at cards have been applied to purchase stock in the railroad and it is now up to them "to protect their own property."

THE BATTERED BRIDEGROOM (Oct. 13).—The cast: Nell (Ivy Close); Jack (Arthur Albertson); Ban the Barber (Henry Murdoch); Minnie the Manicure (Mary Taylor-Ross); Algernon (William McKey). Author, Samuel J. Taylor. Directed by Robert Ellis.

Nell plans to elope with Jack on the day set by her fond parents for her marriage to Algernon Addlepate. Ben the Barber finds business bad because his ugly wife is his manicure. He closes up the shop and gives his wife an afternoon off, while he takes a stroll. Fortunately for Ben he passes Nell's house just as that young lady, who has been made a prisoner in her room by her parents, is leaning out the window seeking a possible means of escape. Ben offers to aid her if she will be his manicure for the afternoon. She assents and business is great in Ben's shop. But the mix ups that follow when Algernon drops into the shop for a shave and Ben's wife returns furnish a whirlwind ending.

TO SAVE THE SPECIAL (No 101 of "The Hazards of Helen" Series—Oct. 14).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); Dick Benton (P. S. Pembroke); Strang (George Routh), the railroad president (G. A. Williams). Author, E. W. Matlack. Director, James Davis.

A runaway team is bearing a wagon loaded with dynamite down the tracks toward the oncoming President's Special when Helen sets out in pursuit on horseback. She overtakes the runaway and by a daring leap through the air lands on the back of one of the horses and swerves the team from the tracks in the nick of time.

A SAUERKRAUT SYMPHONY (Oct. 17).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan), Miss Spondolix (Ethel Teare); Krazy Killsky (Henry Murdoch); Mr. Spondolix (A. Edmondson).

Ham and Bud are the working force in the Spondolix sauerkraut factory, and Ethel the object of their jealous attentions. Krazy Killsky is an anarchist who has sworn the downfall of all sauerkraut factories. Between the sauerkraut workers' strike for a twenty-five hour day and the activities of Killsky there is an abundance of laughs leading up to a rapid-action finish.

THE YELLOW HAND (Episode No. 11, "The Girl from Frisco"—Two Parts—Oct. 18).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); John Wallace (True Boardman); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); Sing Lee (Ronald Bradbury); Jameson (Edward Clisbee). Directed by James W. Horne.

Barbara comes into possession of the mysterious seal of the Dragon Brotherhood, an Oriental society engaged in smuggling Chinese into this country. She is marked for death and has one narrow escape, but Wallace arrives in time to save her and capture her assailant. The latter is forced to take them to the meeting place of the Brotherhood, but here their spying is discovered. A bitter battle amidst the mystic hangings of the joss-house ensues, and Barbara, Wallace and her father are about to be overpowered when help arrives.

THE CODE LETTER (Episode No. 1 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Oct. 20).—The cast: Tommy Grant, of The Chronicle (George Larkin); "Mamie the Rose" (Ollie Kirkby); "Baron" Litchfield (Robert Ellis); Cadogan, a detective (Arthur Albertson); Mansfield, the city editor (William McKey); Police Commissioner Brophy (G. Chira). Directed by Robert Ellis.

At a fashionable hotel Grant, police reporter of The Chronicle, sees a face that seems strangely familiar. To his memory there comes a flash of a certain day in the Bertillon room at Headquarters and he recognizes the man as Litchfield, a clever "gentleman crook." His suspicions aroused, he follows Litchfield to the writing room and there sees him scribble some figures from a letter he has just received. When Litchfield departs Grant takes some scraps from the waste basket and piecing them together finds it a code message. By clever deduction he finds the message to read, "Meet me at 1350 Seventh avenue at three o'clock, Mame."

Grant recognizes Mamie as the notorious "Mamie the Rose" and further investigation at the address given shows that the crooks are planning their getaway with their loot for many months already packed. When Litchfield arrives at three o'clock, Grant and Detective Cadogan are close behind. Grant goes upstairs to Mamie's apartment while Cadogan remains to guard the front door with instructions to follow in fifteen minutes if Grant does not return. From the hall window Grant crawls along the narrow ledge of the building until he reaches the window of Mamie's apartment and then jumps in, surprising the crooks.

In the scuffle that follows he is overpowered, and Litchfield and Mamie make their escape to the roof. Grant follows and reaches the roof in time to see Litchfield escaping on a planking across a twelve foot areaway to another roof, after which he pulls the plank over. Grant takes the only remaining chance and goes hand over hand across a slender pipe to the other roof. Litchfield is already half way down the fire escape, however, and seems certain of escaping when Grant decides to adopt the perilous expedient of sliding down the rope of a painter's scaffold. He is half way down and still many stories above the pavement when Mamie the Rose in a fiendish plan to aid her accomplice, cuts the rope.

Grant makes a breath-taking swing through the air but manages to retain his grasp on the rope. The end of his swing carries him to the fire escape and he lands plump on top of Litchfield, who is soon pummeled into submission. Meanwhile Cadogan has gone upstairs and from the apartment sped to the roof where he captures Mamie.

A DARING CHANCE (No. 102 of "The Hazards of Helen" Oct. 21).—The cast: Helen, day operator (Helen Gibson); the night operator (George Routh); his son (Billy Boy); Dick Benton, lineman (P. S. Pembroke); President of the road (G. A. Williams). Author, E. W. Matlack. Director, James Davis.

The seven-year-old son of the night operator is on a handcar racing to certain destruction when Helen pursues on an engine. By a daring feat she succeeds in lifting the youngster from the handcar to the engine in the nick of time as the handcar crashes to splinters under the wheels of a passenger coach.

THE BOGUS BOOKING AGENTS (Oct. 24).—The cast: Ham (Lloyd V. Hamilton); Bud (Bud Duncan); Stella (Ethel Teare); Mike (Henry Murdoch).

Stella is stage-struck, so is Melodramatic Mike, her chauffeur, so too are Ham and Bud. In fact, all the world's a stage. Ham and Bud visit Bunkem's Theatrical Agency in search of a job, and decide to wait when they find that worthy is out and the office unguarded. The 'phone rings and Ham answers it. Stella's father says "My daughter has started for your office. If you can induce her to stay off the stage there is $5,000 in it for you. You'll know her by the little dog she is carrying." Ham and Bud decide to run the office—until they get the five thousand anyway.

Melodramatic Mike arrives and is put through a course of training in the dramatic art, after which he is given a contract to play Mr. Hamlet. Serena Hatchetface, a highbrow investigating stagelife, arrives with a dog under her arm. Ham decides that it is Stella and launches into a tirade against the stage. When the real Stella arrives Bud takes her in hand and gives her a contract to play Mrs. Hamlet. There is swift justice for all and rapid action when Stella's father arrives closely followed by Bunkem.

THE HARVEST OF GOLD (Episode No. 12 of "The Girl from Frisco"—Oct. 25).—The cast: Barbara Brent (Marin Sais); Ace Brent (Frank Jonasson); John Wallace (True Boardman); Kirby (Ronald Bradbury); Piedro (Edward Clisbee); Santone (Hart Hoxie). Directed by James W. Horne.

The Fruit Syndicate seeks to corner the orange crop and attempts to force Ace Brent and John Wallace to sell their holdings. Kirby, their agent, stops at the Brent home, and while attending to his business mission, pays ardent attentions to Barbara. The latter's intuition and quick wit enable her to frustrate the first attempt of the Syndicate to force a sale, and they determine to use extreme measures. Santone, a discharged employe, is their tool. A scheme to ruin the Brent and Wallace crops by blowing up the irrigation pipe leads up to a thrilling climax.

THE MISSING HEIRESS (Episode No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Oct. 27).—The cast: Tommy Grant (George Larkin); Miss Carter (Ollie Kirkby); Mansfield, city editor (William McKey); Police Commissioner Brophy (G. Chira); Detective Cadogan (Arthur Albertson); Miss Harding (Bettie Dial). Directed by Robert Ellis.

The disappearance of the wealthy Miss Harding opens a problem for Tommy Grant, police reporter of The Chronicle. The only clue is a letter demanding ransom, but by clever detective work Grant succeeds in placing the blame for the crime on the shoulders of Miss Carter, the Harding private secretary. But her accomplice, the butler, spirits the kidnapped girl away and boards a tug headed down the bay to catch the liner Trieste.

Grant arrives at the docks too late, but when wireless inquiries inform him that the butler and girl have boarded the Trieste off Sandy Hook, he speeds to the aeroplane sheds and sets out in pursuit of the liner. A thrilling chase by air, with the camera following in another aeroplane brings us to the climax when Grant by a leap through the air reaches the ship's ladder.

THE LOST MESSENGER (No 103 of "The Hazards of Helen" Oct. 28).—The cast: Operator at Lone Point (Helen Gibson); Benton, express messenger (P. S. Pembroke); President Landers (G. A. Williams); express agent (George Routh). Author, E. W. Matlack. Director, James Davis.

Benton, the express messenger, is known to be in money troubles, so that, when he disappears with a valuable package, circumstantial evidence points to his guilt. Helen, while delivering a telegram on motorcycle, is crossing the drawbridge when she finds the missing package. A wharf gang, which has secreted the package there, pursues to recover it, while one of their number raise the bridge to prevent Helen's escape. But that plucky girl dives to the river, and swims ashore to her motorcycle. The pursuers follow in an automobile.

Coming to a flimsy wooden bridge over the railroad tracks they attempt to cut her off, and Helen swerves aside and crashes through the rail, barely missing the wheels of a speeding train. The trainmen come to her aid and capture the wharf gang. The third degree brings out the fact that Benton had fallen from the express car at the bridge and been rescued by the wharf men who made him a prisoner in their cabin. His delirious ravings about the valuable package caused them to secrete that until a favorable opportunity came to dispose of it.

SELIG.

SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 82 (Oct. 12).

Berkeley, Cal.—Frank H. Probert, Dean of the College of Mining, has put a blast under old methods of teaching the science of mining by opening a full-fledged mine tunnel in which the students cook.

El Paso, Texas.—Under the command of Colonel Langhorne, the officers of the Eighth United States Cavalry indulge in a strenuous Sunday morning ride.

Cleveland, Ohio.—Several persons killed, and many seriously injured, is the result of the collapse of a bridge span over the Baltimore and Ohio tracks, when two trolley cars collide in the center of the span.

Redwood City, Cal.—Miss Helen Hodge, Miss Jeanne Doty, and other society girls, learn aviation with the view of offering their services to the government.

Chicago, Ill.—Enthusiasm reigns when Chicago soldier boys com ehome from their duty on the Mexican border.

New York, N. Y.—The women's Hughes campaign special comes for a whirlwind transcontinental boosting tour for the Republican Presidential candidate.

Byron, Ill.—Fulfilling a promise made last summer by Medill McCormick when he announced that the President of the United States for 1960 was just born to the McCormick family, a barbecue for 2,000 neighbors is held on the McCormick estate.

Denver, Colo.—This city made manifest its claim of being the live stock marketing center for the entire Rocky Mountain and West Coast region, by breaking the world's record with the receipt of 72,000 sheep in one day.

SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 83 (Oct. 16).

San Francisco, Cal.—Chas. W. Fairbanks, Republican nominee for vice-president, attends the G. O. P. luncheon.

El Paso, Texas.—Some idea of the value of the aero corps to an army may be gained from these views of Fort Bliss taken from an observation balloon.

Omaha, Neb.—Graced by the presence of the President and Mrs. Wilson, the Omaha Centennial celebration is a great success.

Eastport, Me.—The old frigate Franklin, one-time pride of the navy, is burned to the water's edge for the purpose of recovering the old lead, iron and copper in the hull.

Chicago, Ill.—Teaching fire prevention by reproducing the Mrs. O'Leary incendiary cow incident, which started the great Chicago fire, is a feature of fire prevention day.

Newport, R. I.—Survivors of the ships torpedoed and sunk by the German submarine U-53, arrive aboard U. S. destroyers, which picked them up at sea.

Boston, Mass.—The Kansan, which was held up, examined and allowed to proceed by U-53, reaches this port.

Denver, Col.—Members of the local Rotary Club visit Pike's Peak for their annual outing.

SMALL TOWN STUFF (Three Parts—Oct 30).—The cast: Constable Plum (Wm. Hutchinson); Ira Pash (John Lancaster); Phil Pickle (Lee Morris); Johnny West (Ralph McComas); Othello Booth (Wm. M. Chapman); Percy Pinkham (Harold Howard); Selina Tubbs (Martha Mattox); Mrs. Plum (Lyllian Brown Leighton); Margaret Tate (Irene Wallace). Written by Maibelle Heikes Justice. Directed by Norval MacGregor.

The village of Bloom Center is excited when Othello Booth, a strolling player, arrives, and interests the Ladies' Art Embroidery Club in the production of a thrilling drama, "Rita, the Beautiful Snake Charmer." This home talent performance is ready to be presented in Melodeon Hall after strenuous rehearsals.

Othello Booth is jealous of Percy Pinkham, who is in love with Margaret Tate, editress of the Bloom Center Bugle. Johnny West is also in love with Margaret, and Othello resolves to utilize Johnny as a means of Othello's vengeance on Pinkham. He induces Johnny West and also Postmaster Pash, unbeknown to each other, to pose as wild men in order to scarce Percy Pinkham from Bloom Center.

The two villagers in outlandish costume, endeavor to frighten the young man, but fail, much to the chagrin of Othello Booth. Constable Plum longs to be a detective and studies text books on the art of sleuthing. He searches long for an escaped crook, called Micky, the Mick.

After the home talent performance, which breaks up suddenly, Othello Booth and others meet in the general store to investigate the loss of the proceeds. Then it is that Johnny West, instigated by Constable Plum, lowers a blindfolded cat from the attic, and the cat's claws fastening in Othello Booth's hair, proves that that hair is only a wig, and Othello Booth stands revealed as Micky, the Mick. He is jailed by Constable Plum and the stolen money is found on his person.

TOM'S SACRIFICE (Nov. 4).—The cast: Tom Miller (Tom Mix); Maude Warner (Victoria Forde); Dan Miller (Howard Farrell); Wm. Miller (Joe Simkins); Sid Jackson (Sid Jordan); Joe Warner (Joe Ryan). Written and directed by Tom Mix.

Rather than tell on his brother, Dan Miller, who is discovered to be a thief, Tom shoulders the blame and leaves for the West to try and make good as a cowboy once more. On the ranch Tom is heartily greeted by his old pals.

Joe Warner, the ranch owner, has two daughters, and one of them, Maude, falls in love with Tom much to the resentment of Sid Jackson, a cowboy. Intense rivalry ensues between the two for the hand of the girl, but finally Jackson is cleverly outwitted and Tom and Maude decide on their wedding day.

BIOGRAPH.

THE GODDESS OF SAGEBRUSH GULCH (Reissue—Oct. 30).—The cast: The Goddess (Blanche Sweet); her sister (Dorothy Bernard); her father (W. Chrystie Miller); Blue Grass Pete (Charles H. West); his pal (Charles H. Mailes); the tenderfoot prospector (Harry Hyde).

The Goddess, the prettiest and best natured girl that ever graced the little mining town of Sagebrush Gulch, meets the tenderfoot prospector and leaves him another worshipper of her. His chances, however, are slim, for Blue Grass Pete has won her affections, he having at an opportune moment saved her from the fangs of a snake which was about to attack her. Pete, however, is weak willed and is fascinated by the Goddess' sister, who visits her. He later gives the sister his savings to keep.

The Goddess, heartbroken over the loss of her sweetheart, is now sure they will be married and determines to leave. Pete's pal, knowing the girl has the savings, plans to steal them. The Goddess overhears the plot, but nature asserts itself, and securing aid, she and the miners arrive in time to save her sister from a horrible death, for Pete's pal has been recognized by the girl and tied her to a post in the cabin. He and his companions then made a hasty departure, forgetting a lighted cigarette which fired the cabin, leaving the girl helpless amidst the raging flames.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS (Reissue—Three Parts—Nov. 1).—The cast: Steve Carson (Lionel Barrymore); Turner Morgan (William Russell); Annie Hosford (Vivian Prescott); Mary Hosford (Betty Gray); Mrs. Harold Norwood (A. C. Marston); Joe Hawes (Charles Graham); Harold Norwood (Hector V. Sarno); Sam Freeborn (Alan Hale); Anstey, cub reporter (William Jefferson).

Turner Morgan, foreman of Warner's shipyard, is discharged, and Steve Carson, a carpenter, is appointed in his place. Steve and his sweetheart, Annie Hosford, marry and make their home in New York. Annie's sister, Mary, and Sam Freeborn, Steve's assistant, are sweethearts. Annie's uncle, George Hosford, a gold prospector in Alaska, dies unknown to all save Joe Hawes, a fellow prospector. Hosford entrusts his bank deposit book (which has a record of his gold deposits) to Joe Hawes to deliver to Annie and Mary Hosford, his nieces, who will inherit the gold.

Joe Hawes arrives in New York and meets Morgan, who is now a counterfeiter. Morgan induces Hawes to join him in an attempt to secure the Hosford girls' legacy. Armed with a forged power of attorney, Morgan arrives at the Alaskan bank, but is told by the bank president that Annie Hosford's signature must be certified by a bank in her home city before he can secure the gold. Morgan returns to New York.

Steve, who is now a father, attends the Labor Union meeting and Morgan plans to get Steve out of the way by fastening a crime upon him. Morgan induces Steve to drink and while he is intoxicated, Morgan assaults the bartender and robs the saloon. Morgan escapes and the crime is fastened on Steve. Annie makes every sacrifice to engage counsel to defend Steve, but he is proved guilty through Morgan's perjured testimony and sentenced to prison for five years.

Dewitt Norwood, president of the banking firm of Norwood & Company, learns that his brother, Harold, the paying-teller, is a defaulter. Harold is sentenced to a term in prison, meets Steve and friendship springs up between them. Annie struggles for existence and is constantly persecuted by Morgan. She finally secures a position in the Grand Opera chorus where she is befriended by Julia Seymour, the prima donna, who is the wife of Steve's cell-mate, Harold Norwood. Annie, in her letters to Steve, urges him to be patient and brave and leads her little girl to believe that her father is in California.

Steve and Harold are unexpectedly released on Christmas morning as a reward for good behavior. Annie and her baby are overjoyed to have Steve home again and Mrs. Harold Norwood effects a reconciliation between her husband and his brother, Dewitt Norwood. Steve applies for a position in the shipyard, but is prevented by Morgan from securing a place. Morgan loses the bank book, which is delivered to Annie and the motive for Morgan's persecution is clear. Mrs. Norwood induces Steve to consult her brother-in-law, the bank president, and he promises aid.

Through the press a raid is made on Morgan's counterfeiting den and all are arrested but Morgan, who escapes and is pursued by Steve. The third degree is applied to Joe Hawes to obtain a confession of Morgan's guilt. Anstey, a cub reporter on the "Herald," gets through his first big story and Morgan is run down to earth. Morgan is arrested and the press proclaims the innocence of Steve, who served five years for another's crime. Steve is vindicated through the power of the press and Morgan's infamy is bared to the world.

ESSANAY.

THE BEACHCOMBER (Two Parts—Oct. 31).—The cast: Andy Laflin (Harry Dunkinson); Sylvia Gonzales (Virginia Bowker); Hal Benson (Royal Douglas).

Things are slow at Resthaven, until Andy Laflin, traveling salesman, comes to town. The drummer ignores all snubs from the resorters and finally wins favor in the sight of Sylvia, daughter of the resort owner. Hal Benson, her sweetheart, is out to show up the usurper. Andy does well with the ukulele and soon is a favorite with the girls on the beach. However, his firm fires him by mail and he finds himself minus money. A life saver is required and the desperate Andy, who cannot swim a stroke, gets the job. To the accompaniment of the ukulele he is rowed out to each drowning person, but all manage to be saved before he arrives. Hal Benson suspects the doughty life guard cannot swim, and effects a "fake" drowning, which brings the great denouement. The girls quit him in disgust; but he gets his old job back and flugres that selling neckties is a better business than saving lives, anyway.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL, NO. 19 (Nov. 1).—At Cheesecake, Pa., Andy Carnegia is caught by the Canimated Nooz camera man in the acting of distributing a whole flock of hero medals. Simp Hoosis gets one for saving the half of the population from asphyxiation by eating a ton of limburger cheese. Gabby Talkalong saved the other half when she lost her voice, so she gets a medal, too. Canimated Nooz inaugurates a Pistograft section. The first number shows how huntsmen capture the Oola-boola bird, that society women of New York and Oshkosh may have hats trimmed with its rare eyebrows. The bird is caught off guard and a huge rock affixed to its tail. Then its capture is simple. Scenes about Crater Lake, Oregon, make up the five hundred feet of scenic. This odd lake lies in the hollow base of a volcanic cone.

THE HEART OF VIRGINIA KEEP (Three Parts—Nov. 4).—The cast: Virginia Keep (Marguerite Clayton); her father (John Cossar); Arnold Dempster Trude (Edward Arnold); Lewis, Keep's attorney (Thomas Commerford).

The father of Virginia Keep has been accused of a murder supposed to have taken place twenty-five years before. At this time a young man visits the managing-editor of "The Publicist" and announces that he is Arnold Dempster Trude, the millionaire owner, whom the editor has never seen. Bored by his idleness, he goes to work as a reporter, his identity a secret, and the Keep case is his first assignment. He returns and orders the managing editor to inaugurate a campaign to defend Keep, whom he believes innocent.

Nevertheless, Keep is convicted and his daughter asks for a position on the paper. Trude has her put on as a reporter at an unusual salary. When she learns that Trude, who has asked her to marry him, is responsible for her large salary she disappears. Seeking evidence to establish the innocence of her father she goes into the slums disguised as a messenger boy. Worn out from her night of danger she hurries to the "Publicist" office to give Trude the information, but in the meantime the governor has pardoned her father. Trude recognizes Virginia in the boy's uniform and, exhausted but happy, she falls into his arms.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

BISON.

FOR LOVE AND GOLD (Two Parts—Nov. 4).—The cast: Jack Wilson (L. C. Shumway); Gladys Vane (Edith Johnson); Kingman Vane (Marc Fenton); Charles Massey (Ed Hearn); Ricardo (E. N. Walleck); Bob (Chas. Dorien). Scenario by Wm. Parker. Produced by Henry McRae.

Charles Massey is scheming to get possession of rich mining claims owned by Kingman Vane and which adjoin Massey's in Mexico. Massey and Jack Wilson, a mining engineer, are suitors for the hand of Gladys Vane, daughter of Kingman Vane. Massey is assisted in his plotting by Ricardo, a Mexican, and his scheming has succeeded to a point where Vane's income has been seriously affected.

Gladys loves Jack, but when he asks her to marry him she is forced to put him off because she knows her father would object. One day a telegram comes from Vane's mine in Mexico, saying that the Mexicans have forced the superintendent to flee for his life. Vane is nonplused until Gladys suggests that Jack take charge of the mine. This Jack consents to do, and Massey is pleased, because he now sees an opportunity to rid himself of his rival.

At Zuracca, Ricardo arranges to have Jack lured into a new tunnel where a charge of dynamite is about to be exploded. The plot is foiled and one of the perpertrators confesses, who is the instigator. When Bob learns of the Mexican's confession he wires his father, suggesting he come to Zuracca. Massey insists on accompanying Vane and Gladys and writes Ricardo to hold up the train, capture Vane, Gladys and himself and hold them for a big ransom, which would be the mine.

The Mexican, whose child Jack saved, reveals this plot to Jack. The telegraph wires being down, Jack starts to ride to Caspro, on the American side, to summon the rurales to prevent the kidnapping. He is pursued by the Ricardo gang and his horse is shot from under him. He escapes to where Mexican laborers are operating a steam shovel. He throws the pursuers off his track by jumping into the steam shovel bucket as it bites into the embankment alongside him. One of the mounted Mexican chases him. He jumps up back of the Mexican, hurls him to the ground and rides like the wind for the rurales.

Jack notifies the rurales. They get trace of the Mexicans and a running battle ensues. Massey is wounded as is Ricardo, and the latter with his dying breath brands Massey as the one who is behind the trouble. At last the mystery of the trouble is solved.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

LIBERTY (Episode No. 11, "A Daughter of Mars"—Two Parts—Oct. 23).—As the last episode closed the aeroplane in which Liberty and Pedro were making their escape was fired upon by the Mexicans and they had to descend. They were captured and imprisoned in the camp of the bandits. There they were quite downcast, as they thought that there was no hope of getting the troops to come to the relief of Captain Bob and his men, who were besieged in the hut on the top of the hill. But Liberty at last began to look about and see how they could get out.

In the cabin where they were confined were some old clothes and these Liberty donned so as to effect their escape. When they were all dressed up like Mexican vaqueros, Liberty put her head outside the door and when the sentry came at her she killed him with the butt of a revolver that she had managed to obtain. Then she and Pedro made a dash for liberty. They took the horse that the sentry had and made good their escape while the Mexican camp was fast asleep.

When they were well out of reach of the bandits Pedro left Liberty to find the American troops and warn them of the danger that Bob and his men were in. He ran past bands over the desert country until he reached the road. There fortune favored him as an automobile came along at this time. He commandeered the machine and sped on his way to find the troops. But the road was in a terrible condition and before he knew it the steering gear of the car was broken and the auto was careening down the road at about seventy miles an hour. Just as the episode closes the machine with Pedro in it tumbles over a hundred foot embankment.

IMP.

THE GOVERNOR'S DECISION (Special Release—Oct. 26).—This is the story of a young man of excellent family who is living at home with his father. They are people of importance in the little country town where they live and are respected by all the townfolk.

Then there comes to the town a man and a woman who are nothing short of adventurers. The woman gets the young man in her clutches and it is not long before the two of them have succeeded in stealing from the boy all the respectability that he ever had. But that is not all for the couple plan to murder the father of the boy and then have it appear that the boy was the real murderer. The plan almost succeeds. The weak point is that the young man's sweetheart sees the crime, and it is through her efforts that he is at last cleared and the true culprits are brought to justice.

STUMBLING (Two Parts—Nov. 3).—The cast: Jim Benson (Jack Livingston); Clyde Sterling (Malcomb Blevins); Jackie Shark (Ray Hanford); Grace O'Neil (Agnes Vernon); Stella Cox (Constance Johnson); John Cox (Edwin Clark).

Jim Benson is the son of a wealthy man who has always been sheltered from the seamy side of life. He is engaged to be married to Stella Cox. Clyde Sterling also is in love with Stella, and in order to estrange the two he decides to corrupt Jim. So Clyde makes an appointment with Jim and the two go on a debauch. They visit all the dives of the town and at last end up at a "fast" place. Here they meet a woman by the name of Grace who has been hired to stimulate an interest in Jim. The plan works and it is not long before the boy is infatuated with the woman.

Jim's parents hear of all this and remonstrate, but it does no good, and Jim becomes a frequenter of the dives of the city. Stella is heart-broken and her feelings are played upon by Clyde. There is also another complication in that Grace really falls in love with Jim much to the disgust of her erstwhile admirer, Jackie. One night Clyde tells Stella that Jim has been untrue to her and offers to prove it. He takes her to the dive where Jim and Grace are usually to be found and there they see the couple in each other's arms. This convinces Grace and the next day she breaks the engagement. This makes Jim very angry and he goes from bad to worse. He is finally disowned by his parents.

Things go on in this way until Jim is at last accused of the murder of Grace's father. The real culprit is Jackie and Grace knows it. But her hands are tied. At last she decides to save the boy that she loves and goes with the officers to arrest Jackie. But when he sees that she has betrayed him he draws a revolver and mortally wounds her. On her deathbed she tells Jim and Stella that they should marry and convinces Stella that through it all Jim has ever been true to her. The picture ends with the marriage of Jim and Stella.

THE SECRET CELLAR (Special Release—Two Parts—Nov. 5).—John Hardin, a detective of international reputation, lived in one of the small Western towns. When old Reeser, the miser of the town was murdered Hardin was called in on the case. The evidence seemed to point to a young girl who came to the town a few months before. She was employed in the office of the District Attorney and on the morning that the murder was committed she left the office at ten o'clock without telling where she was going. The postman had seen her coming from the house of the miser and shortly afterward the body of the old man was found.

When Hardin began the case there was another circumstance that must be taken into account. The body of the man had strangely disappeared. The girl had a rather peculiar story to tell. She said that on the morning of the crime she had received from Reeser a note asking her to call at ten o'clock and went. But when she arrived she found the man dead on his couch.

Hardin went to look over the ground and, while examining the bed he was suddenly precipitated into a cave under the house. It seemed very queer as the house was supposed to be empty. He crawled out another way and [illegible] was a part of the [illegible] with [illegible] crossed each other through the [illegible] the house. At last [illegible] terrific explosion. In the tunnel was found the body of old Reeser. He had manufactured the murder case for some unknown reason. Of course this cleared the girl who was then at liberty to marry the District Attorney.

L-KO.

THE HEROES OF A TURKISH BATH (Two Parts—Nov. 1).—Dan is the proud possessor of a wife and a job. It is hard to say which of the two he values more highly. Each morning when he goes to work he has an awful time parting from his better half; he loves her so much. Dan has a hard position. He is flunkey in a Turkish Bath establishment. He has to see that all the customers are happy and contented. One day there came to the place a man and his wife. The man was big and strong, and the woman was of the sentimental type that has an idea that she is not the soul mate of the man that was ordained for her. She gets one good look at Dan and then decides that he was the one that she should have married.

It also happened that on that day the management wanted a new manicurist. Dan thought that he could get his wife in this capacity, so telephoned her to come down. In order to secure the position she had to say that she was single. The manager and the husband of the sentimental lady were both very much taken with the charms of Dan's wife. They were so persistent in their attentions that Dan was just the least bit jealous. Then the amorous lady came after him and he could not get away from her husband. The whole affair ended with a chase that finished just where the whole thing began, for as the pictures fades out Dan is seen retiring after his strenuous day.

BIG U.

A DAUGHTER OF DIXIE (Two Parts—Oct. 29).—The action of this play takes place during the great struggle between the North and the South. A young lieutenant in the confederate army is called upon by his commander to carry an important message to another part of the line. It so happens that the road he has to travel is near his old home, so that when he is pursued by some of the enemy he takes refuge in the old home of his sweetheart. There he hides under the model of a dress while the officers are searching for him.

Then the girl entertains the men while he disposes of their officer. He attires the Federal officer in his clothes, and sends him down the road in a carriage. The Union men follow the carriage for some time before they discover their mistake. By that time the Confederate has escaped, and it is too late to capture him, although a long, running fight ensues. At last he arrives at the camp with the message, and is lauded by his superior officers for his presence of mind and bravery in the way he escaped.

SEA MATES (Nov. 2).—The cast: Karl (Clyde Benson); Joseph (Harold Sinner); Jane (Claire McDowell); John (C. H. Malles). Scenario by F. M. Wilterwood. Produced by Francis Powers.

John Lavoir, a thirfty fisherman and his daughter, Jane, live alone. He is a quiet man, somewhat religious. He guards his daughter carefully, and is anxious that she will marry well. His mind is set upon Joseph, the next prosperous man in the village. Joseph is instinctively religious and is liked and respected by every one. Finally they are engaged.

Now, all goes well until the return of "Karl, the Wild," whom Joseph loves, and Karl returns his affection. They are a modern Damon and Phythias. Karl is the direct opposite to Joseph. Karl is secretly in love with Jane.

On the wedding day Karl is brought by Joseph to Jane's house, where he for the first time learns that Joseph is to marry Jane. Overwhelmed at the thought of losing her, he steals from the house and prepares to put off to sea.

A fight for the girl follows, and at last Joseph, realizing that love will have its way, consents to the marriage and later enters priesthood.

STARLIGHT'S MESSAGE (Special Release—Nov. 3).—When a baby Starlight's mother was killed, her father disappeared, and she was adopted by the colonel of a western regiment. Years later she is the belle of the post, although she has never discovered her father. She is admired by all, but especially by the handsome young lieutenant Reid. They ride together and a romance is developing.

One day an Indian chief is captured who says that he is the father of Starlight. She then realizes that her duty is to stop the fighting that is going on, so she dons an Indian costume and goes among her people. She stops the battle that is raging, but at the cost of her life, as in the fray she is killed. But her message has not been in vain, as the war is then stopped.

THE [illegible]

dit (Francis Ford). Written by Grace Cunard. Produced by Francis Ford.

Nan comes West to keep house for her brother. She is considered, out in the land of cactus and sand, a mere child when it comes to the real nerve that is required out in that country. But Nan thinks otherwise.

[illegible] in their motor car and the machine breaks down as they near a hut. The brother says that he will go to get aid and tells Nan that she better look out for a bandit that has been terrorizing the county.

Nan enters the cabin and finds that it is the home of the bandit. She is frightened when the man himself comes in masked. A struggle follows when the man says that he will kiss her; she rebels and gets hold of his gun. When he still persists she fires and he falls as though dead. She is frightened at what she has done and calls for help. Then her brother, who is the bandit in disguise, gets up and tells how the whole thing was to test her nerve and how he removed the bullets from the gun beforehand. Nan has proved her nerve.

NESTOR.

LOVE AND A LIAR (Oct. 30).—The cast: Eddie (Eddie Lyons); Bess (Priscilla Dean); Lee (Lee Moran); Uncle (Fred Gamble). Story by Tom Gibson. Produced by S. Chaudet.

Eddie and Bess marry secretly while attending college. Eddie's uncle, who is sending him through college, is greatly opposed to women, and upon the stipulation that Eddie leave women alone, the uncle promises to bequeath to Eddie his entire fortune. Bess' aunt is as much opposed to men as the uncle is to women, and she, too, is forever warning her niece against the terrible men.

Eddie and Bess are living in a little cottage, and one day are startled by the advent of Lee, Eddie's chum, who has seen the uncle arriving at the station. They are in a quandary. While debating what to do, the uncle arrives and Bess hides in the couch, but the uncle discovers some of her clothing about the place and demands an explanation. Lee tells him that he has married, and that Eddie is living with them. The uncle takes Eddie away with him, fearing that he may get the idea, too.

Then Bess' aunt arives; she is very angry and decides to have the marriage annulled. Lee manages to get away from the two and meets Eddie, who has deserted the uncle. The uncle returns to the house for Eddie and there meets Bess, and the aunt—and the aunt and uncle recognize each other—they are old sweethearts who had quarreled. They become reconciled and finally learn that their niece and nephew are married, and so all ends happily.

JOKER.

A SHADOWED SHADOW (Nov. 4).—The cast: Timothy Old Top (Milburn Moranti); May (Lillian Peacock); Tony (Charles Conklin); Alonzo (William Franey); Evangeline (Gale Henry); Hercules (Dan Duffy). Written by Jack Byrne. Produced by W. W. Beaudine.

May is in love with Alonzo, a detective, but her father will not hear of the match as the young man is not wealthy. So she is delighted to hear that her uncle has left her a house, even though the will states that she must live in it alone for a couple of months in order to get possession. She sets out to live the required time in the house.

The housekeeper and her husband conspire to frighten May away so as to get the house themselves. But Alonzo arrives at the house in search of a crook who is wanted. The crook gets into the house and dresses up as a ghost to rob the house. At the same time the housekeeper also dresses as a ghost to frighten May away so as to get the house. The ghosts meet and are frightened at each other as they each think that the other one is real. In the end the crook is captured by Alonzo, who gets the reward that is offered for him, and the housekeeper and her hubby are foiled.

POWERS.

SAMMIE JOHNSIN MINDS THE BABY (Animated Carton—Nov. 2).—Sammie Johnsin is told to mind the baby by his mother, and he goes in the fields with the child. But while there the wiles of old Morpheus are too strong, and he falls fast asleep. And the dream he dreams is one that is enough to make the hair of the most unemotional old maid stand on end. At last he wakes to find that after all it was only a dream, but the remembrance of the awfulness of it makes him a better boy for many weeks to come.

US KIDS (Nov. 2).—The cast: Bob (Ray Clark); Jimmy (George Hupp); Clara (Clara Horton); Dot (Dorothy Clark); Harley (John Sterling); The City Cousin (Elizabeth Janes); Mother (Beth Rowland). Produced by Lee Morrington.

Bob, the [illegible] boy, is fond of reading [illegible] and Dick novels, and he neglects his work in consequence. Mother is quite exasperated because she wanted all the chores finished before the city cousins arrived.

The two cousins, Harley and Elizabeth, soon become very well acquainted with their country cousins. As is usual, the boys take keen delight in teasing the girls, stealing their dolls and making life miserable for them. Harley also plays some pranks of his own, much to the discomfiture of Bub.

Bub advances the idea that he will organize a gang after the fashion of the Diamond Dick novels; this quite meets with the aproval of the others, and they start "framing" on the girls. The girls take horses and go to one of the neighbors. Unknown to them the boys follow and take the horses, which causes no little consternation on the part of the girls when they discover the horses missing, but everybody is made happy when they return and find the horses ahead of them.

REX.

HER VANISHED YOUTH (Nov. 5).—The cast: John (Dana Ong); Mary (Virgie Foltz); Ted (Walter Yant); La Paloma (Peggy Coudray). Written by Male Havey. Produced by O. C. Kelsey.

John and Mary are happy in their country home, until the advent of Ned, a young society chap. Subtly he implants the seeds of jealousy in Mary's mind, making no charges, but insinuating cleverly. Mary will not even give it a thought for a time, but later when some of her gossiping neighbors come in with the story that John has been riding with a friend of theirs, the seed of jealousy begins to bear fruit. As a matter of fact, John had only courteously assisted the young lady when she had met with an accident.

When he returns home his wife haughtily tells him that he is a base deceiver and not worthy of her love. Knowing that he is innocent of any wrongdoing, he becomes angry and the breach widens. Ned then suggests a visit to the actress, La Paloma, and John finally agrees to go. Before long John and the actress are very good friends, and she finally persuades him to purchase her a beautiful bracelet.

Next door to Mary lives a small child who has frequently been their visitor. One day, finding Mary in tears, she tells her that John has a beautiful present for her, for she has seen him admiring the bracelet. The little girl takes Mary down the stairs and shows her the bracelet, and also the note which John had written. Thinking he meant the gift for her, she throws herself into his arms when he appears and confesses that everything was her fault, and that she had no right to be suspicious.

VICTOR.

KITTY FROM THE CITY (Special Release—Oct. 24).—The cast: Bobby (Bob Vernon); Kitty (Marcia Moore); Pa (Lou Dunbar); Ma (Miss Perry); Dan (Dan Russell). Written and produced by Harry Wulze.

Kitty arrives at her father's ranch from college. Her father at once decides she shall not marry a cowboy. Dan and Bob, pals, are punchers for her father. Both fall in love with Kitty, but she falls in love with Bob only. Dan grows jealous when he sees them spooning and informs father. The old man starts in to load his shotgun, but is interrupted. Dan sees the gun, however, and not wanting Bob to be killed, exchanges the shot in the shells for salt. Kitty and Bob plan an elopement, and while she makes ready he phones the justice, who starts for the ranch accompanied by the sheriff who is looking for an outlaw.

Meantime the father takes his stand on the porch with his shotgun. Bob returns to the house, but seeing pa on the porch, gets a ladder, and by its use takes Kitty from an upper window and goes to the corral where the justice is waiting and they are married. Meantime Dan comes along and sees the ladder, also pa on guard on the porch, and thinking its a good chance to get Bob in wrong, climbs the ladder to see if he is in the girl's room above. Instead of the young lovers, Dan runs into ma changing her dress, and her screams call pa who fills Dan with the salt in the shotgun.

FELIX ON THE JOB (Special Release—Oct. 31).—The cast: Felix (George Felix); His Wife (Eva Loring); Tad (Lon Chaney); His Wife (Lydia Yamons Titus). Written by Harry Wulze. Produced by Joseph De Grasse.

Felix goes to work on the fatal morn that is the time setting of this film. He finally gets to his work after taking a forced ride on a moving "dolly." His work for that day consists in shingling a roof belonging to Tad. He goes to work and makes a mess of the whole affair, and then gets into a quarrel with Tad and his two boys. He finally sets fire to the house and then when it all collapses is thrown into the nearby river. But that is not the end, as he manages to throw the whole tribe of Tad into the river for revenge. This is not all that happens in this little comic classic, but in any case it is enough to know that in the end Felix comes to grief.

LAEMMLE.

ARE YOU AN ELK? (Special Release—Oct. 16).—This subject takes the place of "A Case of Beans," which was originally scheduled for release on this day but which has been withdrawn until a future date. The cast of "Are You an Elk," follows: Stewart King (King Baggot); His Wife (Edna Hunter); His Pal (Jack Ridgeway). Written by King Baggot; produced by Harry M. Webster.

Stewart King is a salesman for a clothing company and is very much in love with a wife, although the latter is not as trusting as a well regulated wife ought to be. One day at the office the boss asks King if he is an Elk. The latter says that he is not, and then the boss says that it is an essential and that he ought to join at once. So all the arrangements are made and King's pal tells his wife that he may not be home that night. That night the wife has all sorts of fears of the torture to which her husband is being subjected and has visions of King with his head off, etc.

What really happens is that King goes to the meeting and gets royally "tight." On the way home he thinks that every one he meets must be an Elk. When at last he does get home he has the most terrible dreams about all the animals in the world and thinks that they are all elks. Then he gives his wife the mysterious sign of the order and the whole picture fades out into one large Elk.

LUCILE THE WAITRESS (Special Release—Oct. 25).—The cast: Lucile (Jennie Nelson); The Artists (Paul Panzer); Mr. Skids (Jack Rigeway); Mrs. Skids (Nellie Slattery). Written by Bide Dudley. Produced by William Bailey.

Lucile is the waitress in a restaurant that is frequented by all sorts of people. One of the customers is an artists who admires Lucile very much, and one day he persuades her to pose for him. At the studio she breaks his masterpiece that he is about to sell for a high price, and he tells her that she must pose as the statue so that he can get the money for the sale. This she does, and it all goes well until the prospective buyer, while examining the statue, happens to tickle Lucile, and she cannot contain her laughter. Then the whole plan falls through, and there begins a chase after Lucile, who takes to the streets in spite of her abbreviated costume.

The chase leads in various directions, and at last ends in an apartment house, where Lucile takes refuge on the top floor. There she tips over the lamp and so starts a fire. The old maid who inhabits the apartment is frightend, so Lucile pushes her out of the window, and then runs down the stairs to catch her. For this she is lauded as a hero.

THE MIDNIGHT TOLL (Special Release—Nov. 1).—Little Bubby is unhappy because his mother is sick. He pesters the cook until, to get rid of him, she says that the only thing that will cure his mother is some of the rust on the old church bell. Bubby believes this, so that night, when all is quiet, he steals out and makes his way to the top of the church to scrape off some of the rust.

But in getting the rust he moves the bell and it begins to toll in the middle of the night. There is a great commotion caused in the town, as they do not know the cause of the trouble. The townspeople come to see what the trouble is and see the little child coming out of the church. Then the real cause of his presence comes out, and he is taken home. But the strange part of it all is that his mother has really recovered from her fever, and the doctor says that she will surely get well.

HER WEDDING DAY (Two Parts—Nov. 2).—The cast: Dorothy (Francelia Billington); Jennie (Ruth Clifford); Dr. Hastings (Willard Wayne); Michael (Douglas Gerrard). Scenario by Harvey Gates. Produced by Douglas Gerrard.

Dorothy's mother has finally persuaded her to marry the millionaire, Michael Stone, and this is her wedding day. As Dorothy is dressing for the ceremony, Jennie, in a nearby sanatorium is suddenly much disturbed over the perusal of a newspaper item, and Dr. Hastings, the physician in charge, orders her to her room. Noticing the paper he starts looking it over to find, if possible, what had caused her actions, and notices the picture and announcement of Dorothy's marriage. This saddens the doctor, for he is in love with Dorothy.

Owing to the stress of business, Michael and his bride are to remain at his mansion for a short time before leaving on their honeymoon. Dorothy is afraid of Michael, and all her thoughts are for Hastings. As she stands at the window in pensive mood, she notices a woman stealthily moving in the grounds below, and goes down to investigate. It is Jennie, and to Dorothy she sobbingly tells her story—of the wrong Michael had done her while she was employed by him as a housemaid—and then after that her mind was a blank.

Dorothy leaves Jennie to bring Michael to her—but the latter only laughs and reminds her that now she is his wife. That night, Michael, finished with his work, phones to Dorothy's apartments that he is now coming up. So great is her fear and hatred of the man that she arms herself with a knife and awaits his coming—but the seconds lengthen into minutes, and at last her straining ears hear some commotion below and many voices. She goes downstairs to find Michael dead at the hand of Jennie, who is crouching in a corner of the room, while Dr. Hastings and his men who have been in search of Jennie pronounce Michael dead.

And then after time has worked its healing powers, Dorothy and the doctor are united.

GOLD SEAL.

THE MASKED WOMAN (Three Parts—Oct. 31).—The cast: Nitra (Gretchen Lederer); Morton Davis (Lloyd Whitlock); Dr. Farnell (Geo. C. Pearce); Nell (Jessie Arnold); Felgo (William Quinn). Scenario by Harvey Gates. Produced by A. W. Rice.

Morton Davis is infatuated with Nitra. So completely has Nitra got the man in her coils that he attempts stealing a valuable necklace belonging to his sister, Nell, which Nitra admires and demands. Dr. Farnell, a physician, is affianced to Nell, and it is he who surprises Morton in the act of taking the jewels; he delivers a lecture to Morton, and places the jewels in his own pocket. At this moment the maid announces to him that his valet, Felgo, has phoned for him on an urgent call.

Felgo is really a tool of Nitra's, and when he puts away Farnell's clothes, discovers the jewel and steals it. An auto comes for Farnell, and he is blindfolded and taken to Nitra's underground den where one of the gang is wounded. Farnell treats the man and is paid by Nitra, who is masked. Felgo takes the necklace to Nitra, who is greatly pleased. Later, Morton calls upon Nitra, but when she refuses to see him, he forces his way to her apartment and there discovers the jewels about her neck. Knowing that Farnell had taken the jewels from him, Morton accuses Nitra of being the sweetheart of the doctor—and she lets him believe this to shield Felgo. Angry, Morton visits the doctor and accuses him of giving the jewels to Nitra; Farnell disclaims any knowledge of such a person and offers to get the jewel, but is greatly surprised when he cannot find it.

Felgo, overhearing the conversation, makes his getaway. He hurries to Nitra who plans to capture the two men when they come to her apartment. Farnell, having discovered on Felgo the same perfume that was on the money given him by Nitra, suspects his connection with the theft. When the doctor and Farnell get to Nitra's they are attacked, but manage to get word to the police.

The police arrive and find no disturbance. They are about to leave when the officer hears the faint sounds of a scuffle—Morton and Farnell have regained consciousness and are fighting with their captors for liberty. The police then round up the gang, and Morton, although heartbroken to learn that the woman he loves could be guilty of such perfidy, realizes that Farnell is innocent and sees the folly of his erstwhile infatuation.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, NO. 42 (Oct. 18).

Welcome "Boys" from Border.—Thousands cheer 1st Pennsylvania Infantry, back from Mexican line—Philadelphia, Pa. Subtitle: Warm greeting for 2d Illinois regiment—Chicago, Ill.

President Reviews Parade.—Nation's Chief witnesses historical pageant, picturing State's history—Omaha, Neb. Subtitle: The last of the Sioux Indians.

Saved from Sea-Fire.—Liner Antilla, winning race against flames, reaches port—Norfolk, Va. Subtitle: Fire-ravaged decks. Crew that battled blaze.

Lifting Up a City.—Puts props under whole town to raise grade of streets—Astoria, Ore.

"Grand Daddy" of Submarines.—Holland's first under-sea fighter on way to museum—Philadelphia, Pa. Subtitle: Acetylene torch to cut plates. Horses replace engine.

Von Mackensen in Serbia.—Germany's famous warrior and staff leaving church—Nish, Serbia. Subtitle: Field Marshal Erzherzog, reviewing German and Austro-Hungarian troops—Belgrade, Serbia.

Three Die in Triple Wreck.—Crash of three engines strews death and wreckage along rails—Fernbank, Ohio.

To-Day's Sea Terrors.—U-boat brings submarine warfare to American side of ocean, sinking five ships in twelve hours. Subtitles: The U-53 type of submarine. A quick dive. Up again. The deadly torpedo. Victims.

U. Boat's Rescued Victims.—U. S. destroyers land 2,814 survivors of five ships sunk by sea raider—Newport, R. I. Subtitle: Sailors saved from sea.

Notables Reach America.—Ambassador Gerard and wife, back from Berlin, land in United States—New York City. Subtitles: Ex-Ambassadors Straus and Morgenthau help welcome envoy at City Hall. Carrying Sarah Bernhardt off ship; 72, but young yet Lina Cavalieri, opera's beauty.

West Point's Giant Class.—Record number of "Plebes" march with future generals—West Point, N. Y.

Winning World's Championship.—Red Sox capturing baseball title and crowds that saw Dodgers defeated. Subtitles. And they paid $3 to $5 a seat. Subtitles: Out at first. "Dead-hill" hill. Boston fans "seeing" the game. The winners got $3,910 each for five days' work.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer.

RED FEATHER.

THE ISLE OF LIFE (Five Parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Sebastian Maure (Frank Whitson); Ghirlaine Bellamy (Roberta Wilson); Vincent Pamfort (Hayward Mack); Ernesto Sangallo (T. D. Crittenden); Mrs. Bellamy (Lillian Concord); Ilario (Hector V. Sarno); Annibale (Dick Ryan); Fannia ("Babe" Sedgwick). Scenario by Fred Myton. Produced by Burton George.

Sebastian Maure has never known the influence of a good woman's love. He is the type of man who takes a keen delight in knowing that he is held in awe and extends that feeling still further by his daring books. Ghirlaine Bellamy, a young American girl, with her aunt, Mrs. Bellamy, is visiting Rome. She is being courted by Vincent Pamfort, a young English officer of good standing. He is called to England, but before he goes he receives Ghirlaine's promise to marry him.

Ghirlaine exerts a new influence over Maure. When he learns that she and her aunt are returning to England on account of the latter's health, he manages to be a passenger on the same vessel. His desire for the girl gets the better of him. Under the name of their mutual friend, Ernesto Sangallo, he asks her to meet him on the deck the first night out, and then he picks her up bodily and drops her overboard. They are picked up by Ilario, a fisherman, and are taken to a small island where dwell fisherfolk. The girl is cared for by the housekeeper of the native priest, and when she is somewhat recovered, Maure arranges for her removal to a certain haunted villa.

It seems that Fannia, the daughter of Ilario, was in love with Annibale. Her father wanted her to wed the schoolmaster, so Annibale took the girl and they established themselves in the villa at the top of the cliff, where he guarded her day and night. The superstition of the natives kept them from coming near. But this does not in the least deter Maure from engaging the villa, and thence Ghirlaine is removed and placed under the care of Fannia, who is about to become a mother.

An epidemic of cholera breaks out in the village, and the natives credit Maure with producing the plague. With his strong personality he dissuades them from their belief, and he does all he can to alleviate the sufferings of the stricken ones. Eventually he finds a cure for them. Meantime, the child has been born to Fannia and the motherly devotion displayed by Ghirlaine arouses for the first time in the heart of Maure a desire to become a better man. He goes on his way without thought of self aiding the poor natives and becoming to them almost a god.

Then one day in the harbor a yacht is sighted, just as Maure is stricken with the dread disease. On the boat are Vincent Pamfort and Ernesto Sangallo, who has come in search of Ghirlaine. At first Vincent is angry, but he finally is calmed and the three leave. But weeks later, when Maure has recovered from his illness though the efforts of the kind priest, and at last has stricken from his soul all of the evil and has become a man true to his better and higher self, Ghirlaine returns to him, as she has discovered that she loves him more than any one in the whole world

Mutual Film Corporation

AMERICAN.

PROFESSOR JEREMY'S EXPERIMENT (Two Parts—Oct 23).—The cast: Prof. Jeremy (Orral Humphrey); Janet (Vivian Rich); Thorpe Willis (Alfred Vosburgh); 'Smoothy' Smithers (George Gebhart); Bridget (Louise Lester.

Prof. Jeremy, an eccentric old scientist, compounds a liquid which, if sprinkled on a person's face, will cause that person to speak the truth and nothing but the truth. He first experiments on the cook, whose sweetheart, the policeman, hears her tell the professor that she gives him the professor's whiskey and cigars. Then the professor's daughter and her lover, Thorpe Willis, a young newspaper man, appear upon the scene, and Thorpe accidentally getting a spray of the liquid on his face, begins to lay bare his soul. The professor kicks Thorpe out and the next morning reads an account in the paper of his discovery. 'Smoothy' Smithers, a crook, also reads the notice. The professor is finally so pestered by requests for the formula that he destroys it and locks the liquid in the safe. Smithers manages to get the liquid from the safe, but drops the bottle, allowing some of the liquid to spatter in his face. He then emerges from the house declaring to the world that he has just burglarized a house. The professor is finally so harassed by requests that he turns to Thorpe for help. The reporter writes up the whole affair as a hoax on the public and then is accepted as Jeremy's son-in-law.

CUB.

LOVERS AND LUNATICS (Oct 27).—The cast: The girl (Betty Compson); the Wealthy One (Dave Morris); the Youthful One (Neal Burns); Father (Harry Rattenberry); the young Doctor (Harry Lyons); the Superintendent (George French).

Nathan Grey and his daughter, Betty, live in the suburbs. Betty is in love with Jimmie Gordin, a young fellow of small means but great attraction. All goes well until the villain, Olden Rich, of vast wealth, appears. He falls in love with Betty, and Nathan favors the wealthy suitor. Betty disobeys her father, who swears she shall marry Rich before another week. Betty communicates with Jimmie and they devise a plan. She will go to visit an aunt in a distant city. Jimmie is to call and they will marry before she returns. They did not reckon on the craft of the villain rich, and he follows on the same train on which Betty leaves.

In the distant city Betty sends a telegram to her lover to come at once. This message is intercepted by Rich and he wires to father. In trying to regain her message Betty scuffles with Rich. The police come up and Rich announces that Betty is a harmless lunatic whom he is taking to an asylum. The police believe him. By bribing the superintendent Rich has her placed in the asylum. Father, on getting Rich's wire, leaves for the city and by chance Jimmie also leaves on the same train. Father joins Rich and they go to the asylum, where father informs Betty that she will either marry Rich or never leave the asylum. Despite Betty's protests, they send for a minister.

Jimmie arrives in the city and while waiting around the hotel meets a young physician, an old college friend, who is in charge of the asylum. He invites Jimmie to come up and look over the place. Jimmie goes with him and he discovers that Betty is incarcerated in the asylum. The minister arrives and the ceremony between Betty and old Rich is about to take place. The young physician and Jimmie frame a plot and Jimmie has the doctor declare the father and Rich are insane. The minister is now called to unite Jimmie and Betty. Father, seeing all is useless, blesses his children and leaves old Rich to pace his cell in baffled rage.

DAD'S MASTERPIECE (Oct. 28).—The cast: Mr. Morton (Harry Rattenberry); Mrs. Morton (Stella Adams); their daughter (Betty Compson); the Artist (Neal Burns).

Mr. Morton, a wealthy man, has decided to take his wife and daughter for a vacation on their farm. Neal, a young artist, has selected a spot in the canyon where he is painting. Betty, the daughter of Morton, meets Neal, who, mistaking her for a real country girl, asks her to pose for him. Betty consents. After a few sittings Betty and Neal are in love. Neal proposes and Betty accepts under the condition that father's consent is secured. Neal goes to Mr. Morton at once. But when father reveals his name and tells Neal that no poor artist shall ever marry his daughter, Neal walks away. Betty pleads with father, who finally says that he will give his consent if the artist paints something good enough for him to buy. Betty tells the good news to Neal. Encouraged by Betty's hopes Neal starts to paint his masterpiece. The day the masterpiece was presented to father Neal knew his fate, and when father said "This is the

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"

DAYS OF '49

A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels

Grafton Publishing Film Company

LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

All The Players

of prominence in any sized picture can be furnished instantly—WIRE US YOUR WANTS—If you fail to display the face of a popular player who is appearing at your house, you are overlooking an opportunity for larger receipts. THE FACE OF A WELL-KNOWN PLAYER prominently displayed will draw more money than the mere announcement of a name.

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22 x 28 inches, 75 cents each. Every prominent player.

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $8 to $25 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.50 PER THOUSAND, of over 600 players. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, SIZE 8 x 10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11 x 14, all the prominent players, $2.00 per dozen; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10.60 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK

12th Floor Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

Classified Advertisements in Moving Picture World Bring Big Results. See Title Page for Rates.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 1,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.

Shamokin, Pa.

worst I've ever seen," he walked away, heartbroken.

Harry, a friend of Neal, was on his way with two girl friends to visit him. In a few words Neal told them the whole story. Ethel, a quick-witted girl, saw a way out and taking Neal apart, explained her scheme. She gave her kodak to Neal and walked away. Father was fishing in the creek when Ethel approached him, and soon father was engaged in a flirtation with her. At the moment he kissed her a kodak was at work. The next day Neal was seen putting the finishing touches to an enlargement of the scene of Ethel and father. Betty was with Neal, and together they go to see father. Betty hides in a bush and Neal goes to father and offers him his painting for the amount of $10.000. What was the use or arguing. Betty came just in time to see the check father handed to Neal, and when Neal kissed Betty father wanted to object, but they held him to his bargain. What a delight it was to see father, dodging mother, sneak in the back yard and put a match to that masterpiece of damaging evidence.

WHEN CLUBS WERE TRUMPS (Oct. 28).—The cast: Heeza Nutt (Dave Morris); Hubby (Neal Burns); Wife (Betty Compson).

Mrs. Parker had a decided aversion to cards and late hours, but hubby was a normal creature and loved the little game. On a certain evening of June the boys at the club were shy a hand at the poker game and phoned for Parker to come and join them. Parker refused, saying his wife won't let him. The boys think a moment and figure on a fine plan. They will dress one of them as a policeman, go and arrest Parker and bring him to the club. This would have worked, only snoopy Mrs. Brown, who has a passion of listening on the party phone, overheard the plot and told Mrs. Parker. Mrs. Parker determined to give the fake cop a run for his money.

At about this time Heeza Nutt, an inmate of the asylum, escapes; he imagines that he is a great detective. The police force is notified and begins to look for Nutt. Bill, a cop in the neighborhood of the Parkers, sees Nutt at a distance, and before he can get to him, Nutt disappears. The policeman comes to Mrs. Parker's door and she, taking him for the fake cop, locks him in the closet.

Meanwhile, Hubby, going into the kitchen, encounters Nutt and is locked in the pantry by him. Mrs. Parker, hearing the noise, goes in the kitchen, where she is frightened to death by a wild scream from Nutt. She dashes out and locks herself in the bedroom. The fake cop now arrives and seeing Nutt believes him to be Parker and takes him away to the club. The real policeman bursts out of the closet, rushes to the kitchen, unlocks the door of the pantry and, believing Parker to be the lunatic, takes him away. Parker, thinking him the fake cop, goes willingly. When the fake cop and Nutt arrive at the club the boys are surprised, and when Nutt says he is a detective they all bolt and run.

Mrs. Parker, finding hubby gone, also the policeman, thinks they have tricked her and she at once goes to the club. Here she finds the Nutt in possession. He chases her out and down the street. Here she runs into Bill, the cop, who has meantime put Parker in jail. The cop recognizes her as the woman who locked him up and Nutt as the lunatic. He arrests both. Here the triangle is unraveled and Parker, on being forgiven, swears never again.

SIGNAL.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS, NO. 1 (Two Parts—Oct. 23).—"Dollar" Holmes, so called because of his greed for money and power, is a small timberland owner in a region where both the trust and a tribe of Klamath Indians hold similar lands. He is under contract to the combine to deliver to it 10,000,000 feet of timber by a specified date. It is a rich deal. His wife is about to become a mother, and Holmes has set his heart fiercely on a boy to inherit the fortune he means to pile up.

A forest fire sweeps away half of Holmes' standing timber. Greer, president of the trust, learning of this, writes a sneering letter hinting at Holmes' ruin unless he fulfils his contract on time. This he cannot do unless he obtains possession of the Indian lands adjoining his. Sleepy Dog, chief of the tribe, refuses to sell.

Holmes' wife gives birth to a daughter, and he in a wild rage of double disappointment curses her and the babe, and rushes out of the cabin into the deep woods. He comes upon Dill, a bootlegger, surreptitiously selling whiskey to his loggers. Holmes promises to forebear punishing him if he will go into the Indian camp, from which Sleepy Dog is absent on a trip, and sell his stuff to the savages.

The Klamaths are made drunk, and when they demand more whiskey Holmes offers them $100 apiece if they will deed their timber lands to him. They do so, and Holmes wires Greer that he will fulfil his contract; also that with acquisition of the Indian lands he has obtained exclusive right to use of the region's one river for log-floating purposes, thus cutting off the trust's lands from the market. The trust capitulates and accepts Holmes' terms, by which he is given a heavy interest in the combine and made a director.

Sleepy Dog returns. Holmes quarrels with him, murders him and throws his body over a cliff. The crime is witnessed by Holmes' wife—a fact which he discovers. In terror of her life, the woman flees the cabin, carrying her infant in her arms. In trying to reach the farther bank of the river over a jam of logs she is hurled into the stream when a blast of dynamite blows up the king-log, and is whirled away in the current, clinging to a log and holding the babe in her arm.

GAUMONT

REEL LIFE NO. 24 (Oct. 15).—Since the potter's wheel is probably the first mechanical aid invented by man, unusual interest will attach to the pictures which show the modern duplication of methods of making ancient pottery in this issue of "Reel Life." Every process is shown from the separation of the pulverized clay from dirt and stones to the final baking. Among the entertaining views are tempering the clay, the final kneading, moulding upon the potter's wheel, retouching and baking. This pottery is manufactured near New York City, and the only modern device employed is the application of power. Electricity is used in turning the wheel.

The second section of this issue shows Uncle Sam's weather kites in service at the government aerological station at Drexel, Neb. The weather is the topic of conversation most in use, and these pictures show one of the methods of providing weather forecasts. There are pictures of the reel house, on its revolving foundation, from which the kites are flown. The kites are fastened by strong piano wire to an electric reel. The height is measured by a theodolite, and the electricity gathered by the wires by a voltmeter. The latter occasionally registers 50,000 volts. Each kite carries a meteorograph to record the humidity, temperature, wind velocity and barometric pressure in the cloud region. More than forty kites are used at this station.

The third section of this subject shows a cat and her kittens at play.

SEE AMERICA FIRST NO. 58 (Oct. 18).—This number of the series takes the spectators for an interesting trip on the James River in Virginia. The James is widely noted for its beautiful scenery and the historical events which have made it famous. This was the first great highway to the line of defense of the Confederates during the Civil War. Along the banks many important things took place during that time, and many of its most beautiful spots were scenes of encampments and battles. The James River is rich in scenery and historic spots and the more important of these were "caught" by the Gaumont cameraman. Among the interesting places shown in the Weekly is the place where in 1864 part of the Northern army was sent on an expedition against the Confederates. Here the Confederates came down from Fort Darling on Drewey's Bluff and tried to break the obstructions at the lower end of Dutch Gap, which is also shown. Dutch Gap was built by General Butler at the beginning of the war, but at that time was not successful. At the present time it is used daily by large boats steaming up the river. Fort Fisher, Fort Brady and other smaller forts used during the war, are now intact along the James River and these are also among the interesting things shown.

On the same reel is a cartoon contribution by Harry Palmer, the portraiter of Gaumont Kartoon Komics.

Expert Cameraman Furnished

CINEMA CAMERA CLUB

1006 Times Bldg. Phone 6558 Bryant

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, INC.

220 W. 42d Street

New York City

"Ask the Exhibitor Who Owns One."

WE HAVE a large assortment of film in stock. Why can't we arrange for your supply of new or slightly used film in all lengths for all parts of the globe?

The Film Exchange

729 Seventh Avenue, New York

Our Reference—Established 1908

Get acquainted with "FULCO"

The Department Store

MOVING PICTURE TRADE

MACHINES EQUIPMENT SUPPLIES

Our catalog covers the line from A-Z

FULCO

E. E. FULTON COMPANY

152 W. Lake St. CHICAGO, ILL.

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE

MACHINES

SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.

"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"

HOMMEL'S

947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH PA.

FOR SALE

Two Pathe Professional Outfits

Fully Equipped

With Badgely Automatic Dissolving Shutter, Single Counter Metal Bed, Ball Bearing Shafts, Magazines and Carrying Cases.

Machines Fully Guaranteed

Address "Camera," M. P. W.,

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Classified advertisements in The Moving Picture World Bring Results. One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less—Over Twenty Words Five Cents a Word.

Quality means EVANS means Perfection

We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People

Developing and Printing ONLY

EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Telephone 6871 Audubon

416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

FAITH (American, Five parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Faith, Mary Miles Minter; John Thorpe (deceased father), His Daughter, Helen (Charlotte Burton); His Step-daughter, Laura (Margaret Shelby); His Wife (Josephine Taylor); Mark Strong (Terry Barker); Mrs. Stimson, Thorpe's Housekeeper (Gertrude Le Brandt).

Faith, the granddaughter of John Thorpe, a ne'er-do-well, was left at the doorstep of an orphanage with a note. Her mother contracted a marriage that Thorpe thought a disgrace. The little girl is carefully watched over by Mrs. Stimson, Thorpe's housekeeper, and when Faith is old enough to leave the orphanage and go out into the world she is taken into the home of her grandfather, as a servant girl. Thorpe's step-daughter steals money to pay a blackmailer and the theft is laid at Faith's door. In court her case is given into the hands of Mark Strong, a young lawyer, who has started on the downward path through the influence of drink. He, however, braces up and proves Faith's innocence of the theft and also restores the girl to her mother.

THE PEARL OF PARADISE (Five parts—Nov. 2).—The cast: Yulita (Margarita Fischer), Gomez her father (Joseph Harris), John Dellow (Harry Pollard), Denise, his fiancee (Beatrice Van), Captain Piete Van Dekken (J. Gordon Russell).

Yulita is known to the inhabitants of one of the South Sea islands as "The Pearl of Paradise." Her father Gomez, a Spanish fugitive from justice, has reared her in ignorance of the evils of the outside world. Piete Van Dekken, the captain of a Dutch schooner and the only other white man the girl has even seen, is infatuated with her.

John Dellow and his fiancee on a yachting cruise are forced to jump from the yacht and the next morning Dellow is found on the beach by Yulita. Gomez orders John shot, but Yulita saves his life and Gomez tells Dellow of how years before he married an American girl after accidentally killing her husband and another man. They fled to the island and there the mother died shortly after Yulita was born.

Later John realizes his love for the girl but also remembers that she is a child. Van Dekken comes to the island and engages in a fight over Yulita. Denise, Dellow's fiancee, is also saved and found by John, who takes her with him and leaves Yulita alone on the island. He then sees Yulita start out in a boat after them and plunge into the sea. Dellow awakens from his dream in time to save Yulita from Van Dekken and the next day sails for home with his "Pearl of Paradise."

BEAUTY.

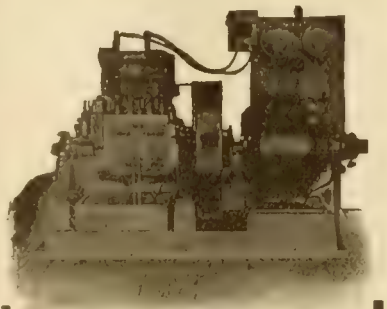
THE LAST THRUST (Oct. 31).—The cast: Monsieur Alaparte (Orral Humphrey); Celeste, fairest of the fair (Jo Taylor); Dr. Jake L. Hyde (Joe Massey); Mrs. Doc, wife of Doc (Marion Rogers).

Monsieur Alaparte, a fencing master in Paris, has quite a clientele of fair ones. Celeste, fairest of Monsieur's pupils, uses her eyes as she does her sword and the professor accompanies her home every day. Dr. Jake L. Hyde leads two lives and has a wife. He also had Celeste. One day Celeste and Alaparte while strolling meet Dr. Hyde and his wife. This meeting results in a challenge to each other for a hundred duels. Celeste and Jake's wife decide to intervene. They wait in another room and in the midst of the duel Alaparte pins Jake's left hand to the wall, the sword goes through and takes off the blonde wig worn by Celeste, leaving her quite bald. Finally they get Jake from the wall; he gets it from his wife, Celeste secures a bottle of hair tonic, and Monsieur has obtained a lot of experience.

SPARTAN SPLEEN (Oct. 31).—The cast: Tim Dwiggins (Orral Humphrey); Mrs. Aiken (Jo Taylor); May, her baby (Teddy Lynch); Olga, her slave (Mita Drinkwitz); Concha (Joe Massey).

Dwiggins, an officer in the king's army, is sent to the general's house at the edge of the pampas to protect the woman and her daughter from the natives, who have become crazed with drink. He arrives, riding on his horse backwards and when the general's wife sees him she is convulsed with mirth. Her baby, May, comes out with a white rat in her hands and upon seeing it Dwiggins hops onto a chair and screams madly. He is the butt of the servant's laughter and the idol of May and the slavey. He plays his trump card when he routs the natives and they, maddened, set fire to the pampas. Dwiggins saves the general's wife and little May and then goes into the raging fire to rescue the May girl. The [illegible] the general's wife [illegible] been sent to protect [illegible] Spartan spleen.

A FINANCIALLY sound, old-established Barcelona film importing firm wishes to handle the output of a few selected American producing companies in Spain and France. Best banking references. Address all inquiries, "IMPORTER-B," c/o MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 1 Madison Ave., New York.



4 Kilowatt Direct-Connected Outfit

Very many readers of "The Moving Picture World" are using

Brush Electric Lighting Sets

We want everyone to know something about the best and most dependable Electric Generating Set ever placed upon the market—the only one that makes a perfect light.

We now make these Lighting Sets in sizes 2 to 10 kilowatts, both Direct-Connected and Belted.

Send for catalogue

The Chas. A. Strelinger Co.

Box MP-2

Detroit, Michigan, U. S. A.

VOGUE.

BUNGLING BILL'S BOW WOW (Two parts—Nov. 30).—The cast: The Musician, [illegible] McQuire), Assistant Mine Manager (Oscar Moore), His Sweetheart (Lucy Knight).

A fire blower and an adventurous search of a shipment of coal made to the home of a mine manager. They plan to get the gold while the family is at dinner. An itinerant musician also has befriended a homeless mongrel, goes to the mine manager's home for something to eat. The dog does some very good work in the kitchen and the yard. The crook manages to get the gold and the musician is accused of the theft and locked up in the shed where he is freed by the dog. Later Paddy rescues the gold while the dog carries two sticks of dynamite to the excavation in which the crook and adventuress are hiding, drops the dynamite into the excavation, and blows the two crooks up.

MUTU L.

AT TWELVE O'CLOCK (Two parts—Oct. 26).—The cast: A dramatist (Frederick Church), The fair Lillian (Lillian Hamilton).

A dramatist, seeking an inspiration for his new novel, falls asleep at his typewriter. In a small cattle town Lillian is the sweetheart of a handsome adventurer who is connected with a band of counterfeiters. The dramatist lands in town and is suspected of being a secret service man. He is kidnapped by them and tied to a chair.

Next to him is a shot gun so arranged that when an alarm clock attached to it reaches the hour of twelve the gun will emplode and kill him. The hands creep towards the fatal hour and at the stroke of twelve the dramatist is staring into the barrel of the gun, when he awakens with a start and begins to pound out his dream-story.

PAYING THE PRICE (Two parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Mary Vail (Marion Swayne); Robert Trent (Joseph Lavering); Forbes, the boss (Fritz Orlamond); Vera Desmond (Flavia Arcaro).

Robert Trent and his friend Hal are both in love with Mary Vail, as is Forbes, a political boss. Trent is engaged to the girl and Forbes manages to steer him from the straight and narrow path, by the means of an adventuress, Vera. Trent loses Mary, and at the same time loses his position. Vera straightway throws him over and he chokes Mary and Forbes tells her that he has proof that Hal killed Vera and that he will have him arrested unless Mary will wed him. Trent hears of this and comes East, where he engages in a duel with Forbes and kills him. This leaves Mary free to choose her husband and the end brings her happiness.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 95 (Oct. 25).

Washington, D. C.—New machine gun board inspects weapons to be used in army service.

New York City.—Lion Cubs named at Central Park. Commissioner Ward christens them "Aquadilla," "Isabella" and "Guayama."

Waycross, Ga.—Dixie Flyer Is Wrecked. Fast train in rear end collision injures score.

San Francisco, Cal.—Thousands cheer beauties of path of gold. New lighting system floods Market Street with marvelous brilliance. New York outclassed in its Great White Way. Subtitle: Beautiful Maidens Dance. Typifying the spirit of the Path of Gold.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Most powerful battleship afloat now part of U. S. Navy. Simple ceremonies put the "Arizona" in Commission.

Norfolk, Va.—Burning liner arrives here. The "Antilla" afire at sea rushes to this port with fire still burning between decks.

Newport, R. I.—U. S. Jackies hold society circus. They even Burlesque the "Movies."

Newest New York Fashions.—Photographed in the Italian Gardens of the Hotel Biltmore (gowns by Dalbisby, Fifth Avenue, New York). Subtitles: Afternoon dress of midnight blue velvet, green satin facing on inside collar and sleeves; brocaded evening gown with blue and red tulle; Louis XVI dancing frock of Georgette crepe; black velvet dancing frock; cerise velvet evening wrap trimmed with Kolinsky fur.

Washington, D. C.—New Japanese Ambassador arrives here. Mr. Aimaro Sato calls on Secretary Lansing.

Bridgeport, Conn.—City firemen stage spectacular entertainment. Benefit performance at annual field day to raise funds for sick and injured.

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS
1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

New York City.—Police as soldiers. Men trained in Summer Preparedness Camp are reviewed by mayor. Sub-titles: The wireless outfit for field service; machine guns mounted in automobiles.

Philadelphia, Pa.—First undersea boat is prepared for shipment to New York, the "Holland," mother of submarines, leaves here for Bronx Exposition.

St. Louis, Mo.—Episcopalians in convention here. Procession of dignitaries at Moolah Temple.

Chicago, Ill.—Resta wins speedway race. Accident mars great event. Cigar spark ignites gas-soaked car.

Miscellaneous Subjects

UNITY SALES CORP.

THE YELLOW MENACE (Episode No. 10, "A Message From the Sky"—Two parts—Nov. 6).—Sato, one of Ali Singh's Japanese helpers, obtains lessons in aviation and while presumably a novice, is so expert in the handling of the machine that he steals a fine new monoplane, with which he succeeds in dropping a message in Manning's garden, showing that Margaret Bronson and May Manning have been captured again by Ali Singh. Their release from torture is promised if Man will surrender himself to Ali Singh.

Hong Kong Harry is lashed almost to death for his disloyalty to Ali Singh, in interfering with the torture meted out to Najla. Najla, however, grateful to him for his heroic services to her, again braves the Arch Fiend and nurses Hong Kong Harry; dressing his wounds and ministering to his comfort.

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

THE END OF THE RAINBOW (Five parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Ruth Bennett (Myrtle Gonzalez); Elihu Bennett (George Hernandez); Jerry Simpson (Val Paul); Thursday Simpson (Jack Curtis); Ferdinand Stocker (Fred Church); Bill Hardy (Joe Ryan); Sheriff Connelly (Jack Connelly). Elihu Bennett represents the lumber monopoly and leads its fight to corral the standing timber in the Redwood forests of California. His daughter, Ruth, has, of her own desire, acquired a business education, including stenography. Her father objects to her working in his office so she devotes her time to charitable purposes.

One day she discovers a young man, who has just separated two street fighters, being taken away, with one of the fighters, by a policeman. She intercedes and secures the young man's release. The man Ruth befriended is Jerry Simpson, the son of one of the mountaineers who owns large and valuable tracts of timber which her father's business associates are trying to secure at an unreasonably low figure.

Jerry, who has been studying law, goes to Bennett to make an appeal for justice. Ruth sees Jerry and at her request her father tells her who Jerry is and why he is in San Francisco. Jerry's mission is fruitless because Bennett decides to abide by the advise of Ferdinand Stocker, who represents the lumber monopoly in the Redwood forests. Ruth, at her father's office, learns that Stocker needs a stenographer. This so interests Ruth that when a girl has been selected from a number of applicants, Ruth prevails upon her, in return for money which Ruth gives her, to surrender her credentials. Ruth goes to the lumber camp as the stenographer assuming Kitty Mitchell's name. It develops that Kitty Mitchell has deserted her children and husband, and this fact, being published in the San Francisco papers, comes to the eyes of Stocker. When Stocker makes advances to Ruth and is repulsed, he shows her the newspaper clipping and Ruth is silent. Ruth and Jerry become friends and he is her most enthusiastic assistant in establishing a library for the lumbermen.

Bill Hardy is Stocker's foreman and Ruth learns that these two men are conspiring to rob her father by making false reports. Stocker determines to cut down "Old Sentinel," a famous land mark. The fact that the giant Redwood stands on Simpson's property does not alter Stocker's determination. Jerry tries to prevent by physical means the felling of the tree, but is unsuccessful. He is terribly beaten. Ruth has learned of the proposed raid upon Simpson's timber and goes to the scene in time to find Jerry lying almost insensible upon the ground. She revives him and gives him a revolver with which Jerry shoots and badly wounds Hardy who is doing the work for Stocker. The next day inhabitants of the camp are mystified as to who shot Hardy. Stocker having witnessed the incident from his hiding place behind a tree knows that Ruth gave Jerry the revolver. He invites her to go with him to a questionable resort at another camp and have dinner, threatening unless she complies to expose her as the person who did the shooting.

Ruth having consented, Stocker goes to his wounded confederate, Hardy, and tells him of his plans for taking Ruth to dinner. When Hardy asks Stocker for his share of the loot that has come from stealing the company's money, Stocker laughs at him, believing that Hardy, being wounded and helpless, cannot resent Stocker's refusal. When Stocker leaves with Ruth, Hardy alarms the lumber men. Jerry and the men quickly pursue Stocker and arrive just in time to save Ruth from Stocker's second and most vicious assault. Stocker, in escaping, uses a waterchute down which timber is carried to the valley. There is a brake in the chute through which Stocker fails to his destruction. In response to a letter Ruth has written, her father comes to the lumber camp, straightens out the difficulties and consents to Ruth's marriage to Jerry.

WORLD PICTURES.

THE SCARLET OATH (Peerless—Five Parts—Oct. 23).—The cast. Olga Pavloff and Nina Pavloff (Gail Kane); Ivan Pavloff (Philip Hahn); Victor Karenin (Carleton Macey); Mrs. Victor Karenin (Lillian Paige); John Huntington (Allan Hale); Caganov (Boris Korlin); Nicholas Savaroff (Montagu Love). Scenario by Gardner Hunting. Directed by Frank Powell and Travers Vale.

Driven from Russia by the persecution of the police, who had caused the death of his wife, was Ivan Pavloff, a Nihilist, accompanied by his two infant twin daughters Olga and Nina, enroute to America in search of freedom. During the voyage Pavloff becomes acquainted with Mr. and Mrs. Victor Karenin, wealthy Russians returning from a tour of the Continent, and who had lost their only child while abroad. Mrs. Karenin becomes devoted to Pavloff's little daughter, Nina, and offers to help Pavloff when they arrive in America if he is unable to secure work. After becoming located in America, Pavloff finds that he cannot obtain employment, and goes to the Karenins to seek their aid. He consents to their proposition that they adopt Nina as their own child.

Twenty years pass. Pavloff, now an American leader of the Nihilists, has won fame as a writer on Nihilism. His daughter, Olga, now educated, assists him in his work. Olga, through a newspaper discovers that her sister, Nina, is soon to marry John Huntington, connected with the State Department at Washington. As time passes Olga's father is induced to return to Russia and assist in the destruction of Savaroff, Chief of Police. The following day Olga and her father take solemn oath to revenge the death of her mother, and in order that they may not be discovered, or in case of arrest, that one or the other may reach Russia, and thus escape to fulfill their oath, they travel over different routes. They meet in Russia at the appointed time and place and become affiliated with the Nihilists.

Back in America John Huntington has received an appointment to the diplomatic post in Warsaw. He pleads with Mr. Karenin to permit the marriage of his adopted daughter, Nina, to himself before he departs for Warsaw. Karenin objects, saying that he has arranged for Mrs. Karenin to tour Europe for the sake of her health, and he wishes Nina to accompany her. But upon their return he will consent to their marriage. A few weeks after Mrs. Karenin has sailed, Huntington receives final notice of his appointment and sails for Warsaw.

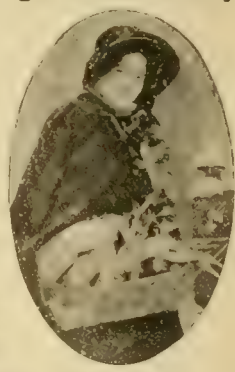
At a meeting of the Nihilists, held at their headquarters in the Lamond Chateau, final arrangements are made for the killing of the chief. One of Savaroff's spies learns of the meeting and notifies him. The soldiers make a raid on the chateau. Pavloff and Olga are captured. Savaroff tries to secure the secrets of the Nihilists by torturing Pavloff with the horrible death rays. Pavloff refuses to reveal the secrets. Savaroff attracted by Olga's beauty agrees to save her father if she will give herself to him

FILM TITLES
English and Foreign
Economical and Satisfactory Work
F. THOMANDER
145 West 45th Street
Phone, Bryant 6836

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

The EASIEST and BEST WAY to secure the
Moving Picture World
IS TO
Subscribe For It
Then It Will Reach You Regularly and Promptly Each Week.
Domestic $3.00, Canada $3.50, Foreign $4.00

Will you give one family A MERRY XMAS DINNER?



We are but your agents—you are the most.

3,000,000 poor people cheered last Xmas in the U. S. by The Salvation Army.

Help us in this way to get close to these people. Give them at least one happy day in the year.

$2.00 Feeds a Family of Five

Send Donations to Commander Miss Booth
118 West Fourteenth Street, New York City
Western Dept., Comm. Estill, 108 N. Dearborn St., Chicago

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE
D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor for the night. She finally consents and Pavloff is released.
B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

Olga goes to Savaroff's home and awaits his arrival. While there she overhears a conversation between Savaroff's secretary and the Assistant Prefect of Police, and learns that her father has died. Savaroff enters, and she asks him what has become of her father. He tells her that he has recovered. During a struggle in which she pretends to appreciate his embrace, she stabs him to death with a knife. Savaroff having previously given instruction to the guards to permit Olga to leave the palace unmolested, she escapes easily. She goes to the Bristol restaurant, the rendezvous of the Nihilists, to meet Gaganov, a comrade.

The same evening, John Huntington, having arrived in Warsaw to undertake his duties at the American Consulate, goes forth on pleasure bent, and drops in at the Bristol restaurant for refreshments. He is recognized by Olga as her sister's fiance. It immediately occurs to her that if she can convince him of her peril he will aid her to escape to America. Huntington sees her, and knowing that Nina is in Europe, mistakes her for his sweetheart and rushes over to greet her. Instantly she conceives of a scheme to get out of the country without trouble, and permits Huntington to believe that she is Nina. Through this misidentification they escape to America.

Meanwhile in Paris, Nina and her mother having failed to locate Huntington, decide to return to America before the holidays. In Warsaw the police are making every effort to locate Olga and send detectives, one to Hamburg and one to Paris. Petrovitch, the spy of the Russian police, on arrival in Paris, mistakes Nina for Olga. He determines to follow her to America and avenge the death of his cousin, Savaroff. Amazov, the Hamburg detective, having lost the trail, proceeds to America in the hope of doing his duty after locating Olga. As the story ends the real destroyer of Savaroff pays the penalty, while Nina and her sweetheart are reunited in eternal happiness.

CHRISTIE FILM CORP.

HIS WEDDING NIGHT (Oct. 9).—The cast: The Bride (Billie Rhodes); the Groom (Nolan Leary); the Best Man (Harry Ham); Mother (Stella Adams); Father (Harry Rattenberry). Scenario by W. E. Wing. Produced by Al. E. Christie.

"Decidedly no: I won't be married on Friday the 13th," says Nolan as he is looking at the calendar the morning of his wedding day, and off he went to notify Billie, his fiancee. Billie had ideas of her own; she loved Nolan, Fridays, thirteens and other unlucky things, and Nolan, after arguing, had to capitulate.

Then things started. A black cat crossed Nolan's path; a minister who later proved to be of the absent-minded kind, agreed to perform the marriage ceremony; a careless driver nearly ran over our hero, and to make things look darker to Nolan, a picture fell from the wall as he entered his apartment.

As the time set for the wedding ceremony approaches, Harry, Nolan's best man, comes in and finds his friend in the throes of anxiety. As he tries to cheer him up, the long-expected package from the tailor arrives. Instead of the wedding suit Nolan finds some one else's tweed suit. Harry runs to the tailor shop, only to find it closed. While thinking of a place where to find a full dress suit for his friend, he happens to see in an alley a waiter enjoying a smoke. A fair compensation could not induce the waiter to part with his suit, so Harry resolves to secure the suit at any price, and after a short struggle the waiter was hiding in a barrel and Harry ran away with the coveted clothes, which, however, had sustained a considerable amount of damage. Arriving at Nolan's room, Harry mends the rent in the trousers and Nolan manages to get into the clothes and passes inspection with strict instructions not to stoop.

At Billie's home, anxiety prevailed. The minister, who had mislaid the address, was late; the bridegroom and the best man failed to appear, and Billie was thinking of Friday the 13th. But finally the [illegible] by Nolan and Harry. Everybody [illegible] at first, but Nolan dropped [illegible] got Harry's advice. He stooped [illegible] his trousers. He rushed with [illegible] next room, and turned a [illegible] off and asks Billie to repair them. Some of the guests in the confusion following the accident enter the room where our hero was standing in his B. V. D.'s. To avoid detection he backs through a door into the reception hall, where he creates a sensation. After a chase all over the house Nolan finally lands into a bedroom, followed by Billie, who hands him his trousers, the cause of such a disturbance. As they come into the reception hall everybody laughs and Billie swears that she will never get married on a Friday again.

THE MAKING OVER OF MOTHER (Oct. 16). The cast: Mr. Newlywed (Neal Burns), Mrs. Newlywed (Betty Compson), Mother (Stella Adams), Ethel (Ethel Lynne); Mons. Stratmem (Dave Morris). Scenario by Robert F. McGowan. Directed by Horace Davey.

Neal, married recently, is expecting his wife, who is visiting her mother. Betty wants to take mother home with her, so that she may meet her son-in-law, but Neal objects and Betty comes home alone. This was the cause of the first quarrel between the newlyweds. Ethel, a friend of Betty, succeeds in getting Neal to allow mother-in-law to come, but he escapes under the cover of an urgent business trip. Stella, although young in years, was an old-fashioned and quiet lady. Betty and Ethel decide to make mother over and, after a steam bath and pretty clothes, mother was rejuvenated and looked twenty years younger.

The two girls then decide to take mother out to a cafe, and they tell her that if she wants to have some fun she has to flirt a little. Neal comes back from his trip and, finding his home empty, goes to the same cafe. Betty and Ethel have met some friends and leave mother alone. Neal sits at a table next to Stella and is attracted by her good looks. They flirt and pretty soon Neal comes, sits at the same table and buys drinks. He even kisses Stella. A picture of Betty in Neal's watch attracts Stella's attention and she recognizes in Neal her son-in-law. She enjoys the situation and promises Neal that she will see him again.

Neal goes home. Betty takes Ethel home after leaving mother at the door of their house. Neal sees Stella enter the apartment and is puzzled. He insists that she leave, saying that he is a married man, and nearly faints when Stella tells him that she intends to spend the night there. Betty comes back and Neal hears her opening the door. Afraid to be caught with another woman, he pushes Stella into the bedroom and tries in vain to keep Betty away from said room. When Betty comes out of the bedroom and asks why he has hidden mother there, Neal nearly collapses, but recovering, says: "Oh, just a little joke; mother and I are great friends." Betty is delighted, but mother and Neal decide that the wisest thing to do is to keep mum.

HE LOVED THE LADIES (Oct. 23).—The cast: Dr. Pullem (Neal Burns); Dr. Cuttem (Eddie Barry); Mr. Gordon (Dave Morris); Mrs. Gordon (Betty Compson). Scenario by W. McBeth. Produced by Horace Davey.

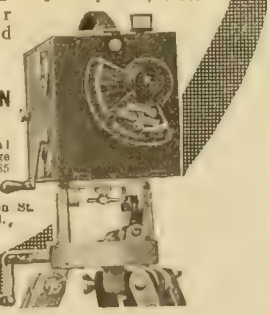
Neal was a dentist and had rented offices with his friend Eddie, a surgeon. It was a matter of very little importance to Neal how much pain he inflicted on his patients. Among Neal's patients was Betty, the wife of jealous Mr. Morton. Neal loved the ladies, and Mr. Morton was not entirely wrong when he didn't trust him very much. Forgetting his patients to flirt with their wifes was a habit with Neal, and besides he had methods of his own, and used freely laughing gas.

As George, one of his patients, left the office still under the influence of the gas, Betty entered. Neal looked at her teeth. But with pretty women Neal forgot that he was a professional man, and flirting was his main occupation. Mr. Morton went to the office and found his wife flirting with

REFLEX CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

QUICK WORK IN THE BOX OFFICE
SPEED Plus ACCURACY
15 Sales per minute —900 to 4500 per hour.
One ticket seller does the work of three with the AUTOMATICKET
AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
1547 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

A PROVEN SUCCESS
THE DAVSCO Motion Picture Camera—efficient and reliable. Exclusive features not found on any other machine. Equipped with 50 M. M. Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, 200 feet capacity, aluminum magazines. Price complete, $110.00. Panoramic and tilting top tripod $25.00.
Write for details and specifications.


DAVID STERN COMPANY
The National Camera Exchange Established 1885
1047 R. Madison St. Chicago, Ill.,

CINE-MUNDIAL
A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries.

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?
ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE
CINE-MUNDIAL
17 Madison Avenue New York

Neal. Betty was dragged home. But she had a will of her own, and after Mr. Morton had left her home, she went back to see Neal. Our dentist, however, had his troubles with Gertie, who could not get over the influence of the laughing gas and who had been taken back to his office by his wife.

Mr Morton was still suspicious and called up his home from his office only to find that his wife was out. Enraged he took a cab and went to Neal's headquarters, where he found Neal in the act of kissing his wife. Neal rushed out through the hall, pursued by Mr. Morton and Betty. After having upset the surgeon's operating table, Neal took to the roofs, where a wild chase went on until finally he got into his office again, where Mr. Morton caught him. Neal is put under the influence of the laughing gas, which at the same time affected jealous Mr. Morton, and thanks to that gas, Neal's life was saved.

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORP.

THE CRIMSON STAIN (Episode No. 10, "The Tortured Soul"—Two parts—Oct. 28).—As the Crimson Stain Gang perpetrate atrocities to the absolute discomfiture of the police, Dr. Montrose, considering himself as the fundamental cause, finds himself tortured by a guilty conscience. Asleep or awake, there come to mock him visions of his victims—The Crimson Stain Gang.

While in his laboratory experimenting in the hope of discovering some element to counteract the activities of Pierre La Rue and his gang of super-criminals, he is interrupted by Pierre La Rue, who demands the drug. The Doctor refuses, putting La Rue out. The Doctor then takes an oath to exterminate the gang, and pocketing a gun, follows La Rue.

Unknown to Pierre, Doctor Montrose trails him to the den. From there the Doctor follows Pierre, Vanya, Tanner and Kiel to a notorious dance hall. The place is infamous for having a clientele of denizens of the underworld.

Pierre, Tanner and Kiel enter a private room, and Vanya leaves. A moment later a waiter carrying a tray of drinks to the gang stops by the Doctor's table, and during the instant that his back is turned, the Doctor drugs the glasses. Shortly afterward, the gangsters come out of the room and as they pass him Doctor Montrose looks inside. Tanner catches him at it, and with a quick movement pushes him inside the room and proceeds to strangle him.

Outside, another struggle is going on between Pierre and Kiel on the one side, and Clayton and Florence on the other. Clayton and Florence were decoyed to the place by a false message. Clayton is knocked unconscious and Pierre and Kiel, carrying the unconscious Florence, enter the dance hall and then the private room.

The Doctor is bound and gagged in a chair with a black robe thrown over him. The glasses of whiskey which he had drugged are on the table untouched. Pierre attacks Florence and taunts the helpless Doctor. Clayton, recovered, rushes in and attacks Tanner and Kiel. Pierre drops Florence and rushes out to his lieutenant's rescue.

Left alone, Florence picks up the Doctor's gun and fires just as the door opens and Clayton runs in. The bullet strikes Clayton and he falls to the floor. Believing she had killed Clayton, Florence falls into a faint. Pierre picks up a glass of whiskey from the table and puts it to her lips.

Gagged and bound, Doctor Montrose struggles to tell Pierre that the whiskey is poisoned, but Florence drains the glass and slips out of Pierre's arms to the floor. In the midst of it all, someone screams "Police!" Tanner and Kiel cut the doctor's bonds and make good their escape. The Doctor drops on his knees beside Clayton and Florence and picks up the gun just as the police break into the room, finding him in this compromising situation. Like a thunder bolt out of a clear sky, a startling revelation is made.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK (Essanay—Five parts—Nov. 6).—The cast: (Prince Robin of Graustark (Bryant Washburn); Princess of Dawsbergen (Marguerite Clayton); Count Quinnox (Sydney Ainsworth); William W. Blithers (Ernest Maupain); Mrs. Blithers (Florence Oberle); Baron Danglos (John Cossar). Directed by Fred E. Wright.

Graustark needs thirty million dollars to satisfy a Russian loan. The Prince of Dawsbergen, ruler of the adjoining principality, will advance the money if the young Prince of Graustark marries his daughter. Prince Robin, however, inherits an independent spirit, his father having been an American. He refuses absolutely to marry a Princess whom he has never seen. His councilors plead in vain.

With the ruin of his country imminent, the boy ruler hastily sails for America to negotiate the loan, hoping at the same time to meet the girl of his dreams. The money is readily advanced by William W. Blithers, a self-made millionaire anxious to have his daughter marry into royalty. The daughter, however, avoids the Prince and he does not see her. He rescues a girl from drowning and falls in love with her. He believes her to be Blithers' daughter, but she does not reveal her identity. Simultaneous with the Prince's departure for home comes a note to Blithers from his daughter that she has sailed for Europe to escape the Prince. Blithers is elated. He is certain they will meet on shipboard.

The Prince does meet the girl he loves. In Paris he makes a tryst with her and they are arrested for speeding. Before any sentence can be passed upon her, however, a diplomatic document reaches the court and they are freed. The Prince believes the power of Blithers to be world-wide. The night of his return to Graustark with the welcome news of the loan, the Prince of Dawsbergen is a guest at the palace. A mysterious note calls the younger man to the terrace. There he meets the girl. He tells her that even though she is Blithers' daughter, he wants to marry her.

Taking her into the palace he announces her to the councilors as his future bride. He cannot account for their approving smile.

"There is your father," he tells the girl as Blithers, who followed them across the ocean, enters the room. She laughs.

"No, my father is over there," she exclaims, pointing to the Prince of Dawsbergen.

The energetic Blithers explodes when he learns the news. He recovers himself, however, and says:

"Congratulations, Prince; I can be a good loser."

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 82 (Oct. 13).

Ebbet's Field, Brooklyn.—The Brooklyn baseball team, champions of the National League, make a game fight for the World's Series championship, and defeat the Boston Red Sox in the third game of the 1916 World's Series.

Omaha, Neb.—President and Mrs. Wilson attend the Centennial Celebration here and review a monster parade.

New York.—A new tunneling machine like one which soon is to begin the tube under the English Channel at Dover, England, is operating beneath the Grand Central Railroad Terminal here, digging its way through solid rock.

L. A. MOTION PICTURE CO.
Manufacturers of high grade studio equipment
215-217 E. Washington Street
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1620, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone Randolph 6683

WATCH FOR
E. & R.
Jungle Film Comedies
E & R JUNGLE FILM CO.
Los Angeles, Cal.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
203-11 West 146th St., New York City

A Seeburg Pipe Organ will solve your music problems.
J. P. SEEBURG PIANO CO.
Republic Building, Chicago

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF
Poster and Lobby Display Frames
144-8 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone Bryant 6621-22

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
DEPENDABLE
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

SHELDON LEWIS
(OF "HEAVEN BLAND" FAME)
Will Make Big Money for You
IN
"THE PURSUING VENGEANCE"
A FIVE-PART DETECTIVE DRAMA
ALSO
"MY COUNTRY FIRST"
WITH TOM TERRISS
DEALS WITH THE CRISIS OF THE HOUR
PREPAREDNESS! PATRIOTISM!
VARIETY FILMS CORPORATION
LEWIS SHELDON, President
126 WEST 46th STREET
NEW YORK CITY

Don't polish Brass Frames or Rails!
Brush on a coat of

NEWMAN'S TRANSPARENT LACQUER
the same as used on fine brass beds. Preserves a brilliant luster on metal and prevents tarnishing. Does not change color of metal. The money saved for polish alone pays for lacquer in short time. Saves labor, and keeps frames and metal work bright, neat and attractive.
A pint will cover 100 ft. metal 3 inches wide; or one 6 sheet two 3 sheet and four 1 sheet frames. Used in Theatres, Hotels, Banks and Office Buildings.
½ Pint with brush, $1.50; 1 Pint with brush, $2.50; 1 Quart with brush, $4.50; 1 Sample bottle, $1.00.
Newman Lacquer Company
3317 Hackberry St., Cincinnati, Ohio

New York.—James W. Gerard, Ambassador to Germany, and Mrs. Gerard return to the United States on board the liner Frederick VIII, and are greeted at the dock by 2,000 persons.

Bishop, Cal.—Pretty Piute papooses pose for pictures at the first Indian Baby Show ever held in this section.

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Patricia Collinge, starring with the Pollyanna Company at the Hudson theater, New York City, poses exclusively for the Hearst International News Pictorial in the latest gowns of her own creation.

San Francisco.—Charles Fairbanks, Vice-Presidential nominee on the Republican ticket, is greeted here by Mayor Rolph and other officials. Mr. Fairbanks visits the Union Iron Works and shakes hands with grimy toilers.

McAllen, Texas.—General Frederick Funston reviews the New York Division of the National Guard and watches the Frontier Day Celebration of the Guardsmen.

West Orange, N. J.—Charles Evans Hughes, choice of the Republican party for President, greets the members of the National Association of Motion Picture Industry.

Near Salonika, Greece.—Exclusive pictures by Ariel L. Varges showing the great difficulties encountered by the British Army in the Balkans, in transporting wounded troops over the mountains to hospitals back of the fighting line.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL NO. 83 (Oct. 17).

New York.—In spite of the danger attending the voyage, many ocean liners, loaded with war munitions, leave this port for Europe. Fearing attack by German submarines already on this side of the Atlantic, the White Star liner Adriatic, carrying 355 passengers and 18,000 tons of munitions, departs for Liverpool, but waits inside the three mile limit at Ambrose Channel for nightfall before proceeding.

Utica, N. Y.—The Lewis machine gun, the invention of an American army officer, which is being used extensively by the armies of the Allies, is tested for accuracy, and proves its ability to rivet a target.

New York.—Eight millionaires, whose combined wealth is about $150,000,000, departs on a 250 mile coaching trip to the home of Banker William Woodward. August Belmont is one of the amateur whips who holds the lines.

Brownsville, Texas.—Private Archie Van Horn, of the Indiana National Guard, falls into the water and is rescued by members of the United States Coast Guard after a thrilling struggle.

Brooklyn Navy Yard.—The gun crew of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania makes a remarkable record with 14-inch guns.

Hempstead Plains, L. I.—An instrument to stabilize an aeroplane during its flight is demonstrated at the Aviation Field here by John Wilson, cousin of the President of the United States.

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Frances White, of the Ziegfeld "Midnight Frolic," poses exclusively for the Hearst International News Pictorial in the latest gowns of her own design.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Its usefulness ended, the submarine Holland is dismantled and reduced to junk. The steel hull of the submarine is cut in half with an acetyline torch.

Shadow Lawn, N. J.—A delegation of Democrats from the State of Pensylvania visit the summer White House here, and listen to an address by President Wilson.

Monroe, Wis.—"Cheese Day," the gala event of the year in this center of the cheese-manufacturing industry of the United States, is celebrated by thousands who gather in the public square to eat cheese.

Washington, D. C.—Ambassador Sato, new envoy of the Japanese government at Washington, pays his first official visit to the State Department.

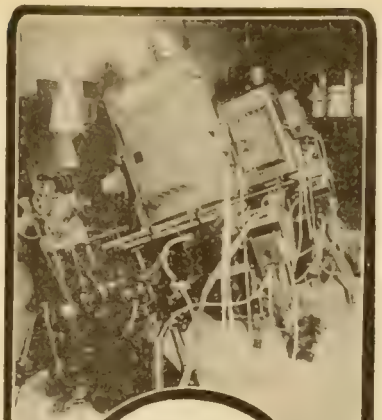
New Brunswick, N. J.—150th anniversary of Rutgers College is celebrated with a parade of students and alumni. Rutgers' eleven plays a 13 to 13 tie on the gridiron with Washington and Lee.

Bayonne, N. J.—The police are taxed to their utmost efforts in handling the rioting striking employees of the Standard Oil Company, whose battles have resulted in many deaths and the wounding of scores of other persons. Exclusive pictures taken in the rioting regions show the caring for the wounded and the arrest of strikers responsible for outlawing.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL NO. 84.—(Oct. 20.)

London, Eng.—Two giant Zeppelins, sent from Germany to raid the British metropolis, fall to earth and are destroyed by fire, the crew of one warship burning to death, and the crew of the other being captured. Only the metal frame of the Zeppelins remains after the fire had completed its work.

In Russian, Poland.—Exclusive pictures from the war zone, showing Austrian engineers re-



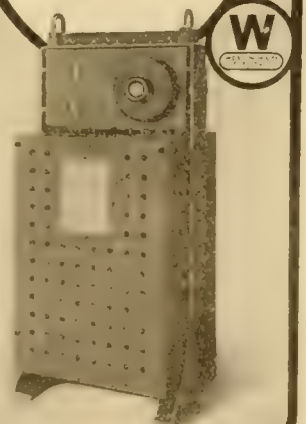
Light To Suit The Film

Often the density of films varies so much that the picture on the screen is either too bright or too dim. This causes objectionable eye strain. The Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit is arranged so that by turning a knob the brightness of the arc is changed to suit the varying density of the film.

Write for Folder 4205-C.

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.

East Pittsburgh, Pa.



building a bridge over the Vistula River, which had been destroyed by the Russians.

Chicago, Ill.—Beautiful models in training for the strenuous work [illegible] Show are [illegible] daily [illegible] Lake Michigan.

Brownsville, Tex.—Troopers of the Minnesota National Guard at work and at play [illegible] snapped by the Hearst International cameraman on the Mexican border.

Footlight and Fashions.—Miss Laura Hamilton, star of "Very Good, Eddie," appears in exclusive showing of the latest gowns of her own creation.

Alameda, Cal.—Miss Frances Cowells sets a new Pacific Coast record for women's 440-yard swim, covering the distance in cold water in 7 15 2-5.

Indianapolis, Ind.—President and Mrs. Wilson are royally received here when they appear publicly to attend the State Good Roads Celebration. With Governor Ralston, they review a monster Good Roads parade.

New York City.—The U. S. S. Pennsylvania, new flagship of the Atlantic Fleet, steams down the East River to begin target practice for her prize gun crew. Remarkable views taken from the Manhattan and Brooklyn bridges, showing the progress of the warship down the river. Another cameraman of the Hearst International News Pictorial rides aloft in the Pennsylvania's fighting top, and his camera registers the picturesque journey from the Brooklyn Navy Yard to the open sea.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS NO 83 (October 14).

Monroe, Wis.—The European war has increased the home production of cheese, and this little burg, famed for its inimitable brand of Swiss, celebrates the conclusion of a prosperous year. Subtitle: Thousands of Epicureans gather to celebrate the event and also to taste the products.

Bayonne, N. J.—Armed with guns and clubs, the police set out to quell the riots of the oil strikers, in which two people were killed and a dozen injured by stray bullets.

Charleston, S. C.—Heavy seas render difficult the work of raising the United States Collier Hector, which was recently sunk during a severe storm. Subtitles: 1. The operations continue while waves break over the partially raised decks. 2. The contents of the hold are being quickly removed so as to lighten the vessel.

Fay, France.—The Allied offensive on the Somme front is advancing slowly on a wide line and German third-line trenches are being captured by the French. Subtitles: 1. A German commander's headquarters now serve the French general in good stead. 2. The French also capture German field pieces. 3. But ruin and destruction are added to the terrible toll of the war, as these fighting legions battle for even a yard of the enemy's ground.

Hans Across the Sea.—An Animated cartoon by John C. Terry.

Derby, Conn.—A new non-recoil gun, which is being used extensively by the Allies in the present war on aeroplanes and portable platforms, is tested for use here. Subtitles: 1. The recoil is neutralized by a "dummy" shot discharged simultaneously from the rear of the gun. 2. The two-pounder can be easily fired while held on the shoulder.

Bishop, Cal.—Piute Indian squaws are not to be outdone by their white sisters of the East, and exhibit their little papooses in a native American Baby Show. Subtitle: 1. Prize winners.

New York City.—Many friends bear the beloved Mme. Sarah Bernhardt in triumph from the steamship Espagne, when she returns after months of noble sacrifice at the front to cheer up the soldiers of France.

Calais, France.—Fast dirigible airships are sent out to cruise over the English Channel in search of enemy submarines that may be lurking about to raid Allied vessels. Subtitles: 1. The airship keeps watch over the hospital boats that cross the Channel. 2. Its patrol completed, the dirigible returns to its hangar.

PATHE NEWS NO 84 (Oct. 18). New York City.—Three little cub lions, recently born in the Zoo, are now the proud possessors of a name and hereafter desire to be addressed as Aguadilla, Guayama and Isabella.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa.—Former President Theodore Roosevelt visits the mining town where he settled the famous anthracite strike, to urge the election of the Republican candidate. Subtitle: The Colonel has lost none of his energy.

How Uncle Sam Keeps the Time Correct (Magazine Section).—Subtitles: (1) The United States Naval Observatory at Washington, where the correct time is ascertained. (2) An astronomer carefully observes the stars as they cross the meridian at Washington. (3) The Master clock, which is the standard timepiece of the country and is hermetically sealed, is set automatically the instant the star under observation crosses the meridian. (4) A graphic record of the beats of the standard clock is made to set the transmitting clock. (5) At noon Eastern time the transmitting clock operates a master relay which flashes out the exact moment to all parts of the country and thus the time is set.

Newport, R. I.—Sailors at the torpedo station combine their arduous duty of maintaining the neutrality of the United States with a public circus in aid of sick benefits. Subtitle: The boys exhibit promising histrionic ability.

Washington, D. C.—Viscount Aimaro Sato, the newly appointed Japanese Ambassador to the United States, leaving the State Department after his first call on Secretary Lansing.

Washington, D. C.—A committee of ordnance experts is appointed to examine into the merit of the Lewis machine gun, which was rejected by this government and accepted by the Allies. Subtitle: The Lewis gun in action.

London, England.—Their time now come to take their place in the firing line, a contingent of Australian troops starts off on its way to the French front, reviewed by King George. Subtitles: (1) The mascot which is expected to bring good luck to the boys. (2) The field artillery equipment of each regiment is complete.

Asbury Park, N. J.—Pennsylvania sends five thousand staunch admirers of the administration to Shadow Lawn to pledge the warm support of its Democracy to the President. Subtitles: (1) President Wilson assures the Nation of his determination to hold responsible any infringement on our peace by belligerent vessels warring near our shores. (2) He is presented with an oak gavel, a symbol of his hardy rule to keep the nation out of war. (3) The president also visits Indianapolis to attend the Hoosier State Centennial Celebration.

Portland, Ore.—A new life buoy for use on ships to replace the present rafts and boats, is launched by a local inventor. Subtitle: It is claimed to be absolutely unsinkable and will ride upright at all times.

Ottawa, Can.—The Duke of Connaught, retiring as the Governor-General of the Dominion of Canada, reviews a battalion of volunteers before he sails on his return voyage. Subtitle: The regimental colors are presented to the new recruits to Britain's ever-growing army.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW (Episode No. 5—"Through Bolted Doors"—Astra—Two Parts—Oct. 29).—Leontine, to secure One Lamp Louie's written confession of a forgery, which has unjustly sent Jerry Carson to prison and later to his death, contrives to enter a closely guarded gambling house, where Ramanoff, a master crook, who has stolen the paper, is consulting with Bianca, a Queen of Blackmailers, concerning its value. Within is a "hidden house," the only entrance to which is through a secret panel. Leontine, pretending she has fainted, is carried into the secret chamber by a servant. On the other side of the wall she finds herself before the beautiful Bianca surrounded by her band of gentlemen crooks, and is astounded to discover her husband, Sebastian, who is bargaining for the paper, the disclosure of which would implicate him.

The tense scene suddenly has an invisible intervention. The paper is mysteriously snatched from Bianca by an unseen force, and Leontine finds it in her own hand. One by one the crooks, who attempt to seize it from her, are knocked down by a powerful invisible antagonist. Sebastian, fighting with the unseen foe, is felled by a vase which rising in the air hurls itself at him. Step by step to the door Leontine is shielded by her unseen defender and escapes. After a fight she pauses breathlessly beneath a street lamp and begins reading. Suddenly it is snatched from her by One Lamp Louie, who has followed her.

THE SULTANA (Balboa—Five Parts—Oct. 29).—The midnight son of the House of Kirkland, inspired by the reading of a daring holdup by a band of masked bandits, makes a wager with his club mates that he can duplicate the stunt by holding up a man named Sauterelle and stealing from him The Sultana, a priceless jewel, and then return it to him without his knowing who took it.

The foolhardy lark is accomplished, young Kirkland barely escaping detection, and then his nerve deserting him he asks Virginia Lowndes, a guest at the Kirklands, to help him out by returning it. She agrees to do it for him, but the jewel's presence has been discovered by the butler, a man with a doubtful past, who follows her auto and gets possession of it.

From that time The Sultana changes hands in rapid sequence, once at the cost of a human life, but finally it finds its way back to its rightful owner, and is also the means of two hearts finding each other.

THE MOTH AND THE FLAME (Pathe—Two Parts—Oct. 29).—This subject has for its central characters a backwoodsman, his pretty wife and the polished stranger from the city. Her husband's petty jealousy over an innocent greeting develops into a constant storm and the wife's life becoming unbearable, she listens to the tempter and goes with the stranger to the city. There she is nearly caught in the whirlpool but over the intervening miles she feels her baby's hold on her heart-strings, returns and receives forgiveness. Harry King as the husband lends the right touch to a difficult role.

LUKE THE CHAUFFEUR (Rolin—Oct. 29).—Luke is the guardian of the taximeter. Seated on his benzine buggy's throne he "rips her into high" and describes some geometrical figures not recognized by Newton in his laws of gravitation.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS NO. 7 ("Betty Entertains an Out of Town Guest"—Pathe—Oct. 29).—Betty pilots her out-of-town chum through the maze of fashionable maisons. A splendid reel of this series wherein splendor vivies with styles.

Triangle Film Corporation

A SISTER OF SIX (Fine Arts—Five Parts—Oct. 29).—The cast: Amos Winthrop (Ben Lewis; His children are Prudence (Bessie Love); Jonathan (George Stone); Eli (Violet Radcliffe); Priscilla (Carmen DeRue); Benjamin (Francis Carpenter); Abigail (Beulah Burns); and Allan (Lloyd Pearl); Caleb Winthrop (Ralph Lewis); Joaquin Sepulveda (Frank Bennett); Don Francisco Garcia (A. D. Sears); John Longstreet (Charles Gorman); Diego (Charles Stephens); Miss Zuth, Caleb's housekeeper (Alberta Lee). Directed by C. M. and S. A. Franklin.

This is a story of California in the period of 1860, when the state, once a Mexican possession, was slowly adapting itself to the new regime. A conspiracy existed between Don Francisco Garcia, hereditary owner of a large Spanish grant in Southern California, and his friend, John Longstreet, a geologist, to obtain possession of the rich adjoining acreage of a New Englander, Caleb Winthrop. The discovery by Garcia and Longstreet of the presence of a valuable quartz deposit on Winthrop's property adds zest to their desire to get possession of the property. The ranch being under the management of Amos Winthrop, Caleb's brother, it falls to the unfortunate lot of Amos to die at the hands of Garcia, because of his attempt to warn his brother of the plot.

Meantime, a romance has developed between Joaquin Sepulveda, Winthrop's head vaquero, and Miss Prudence, daughter of the deceased Amos Winthrop. As Prudence has six little brothers and sisters, Sepulveda realizes his inability to care for the orphans, and dispatches them by overland coach to their uncle Caleb in New England. Arrived in Boston, Prudence and her brothers and sisters find the New Bedford shipowner, Caleb Winthrop, a forbidding person, miserly, and a recluse, wrapped up in business affairs.

Garcia has been active in his persistent efforts to secure the Winthrop property, and young Sepulveda, fearing a lawless aggression from that quarter, requests Caleb Winthrop to immediately hasten west and take charge of the situation. Arrived in California, the New Englander, accompanied by his flock of nieces and nephews, settles himself on his western estate and prepares to make a defense. By means of a fake Spanish grant, Garcia and Longstreet secure the authority of the sheriff, with an order to force Winthrop to vacate the property. But the old Puritan fighting blood of the Winthrops has been aroused, and Caleb defies Garcia to force the issue. Winthrop hastens to the district court and begins a contest to prove the validity of his title. In his absence he leaves Sepulveda in charge, under the pledge of defending the ranch and Prudence and the children against an attack.

An attack is made by Garcia and his small army of vaqueros on the Winthrop ranch house. The hazard is increased through a trick, by which Garcia manages to decoy Sepulveda and his retainers away from the ranch house. Prudence and the children and the old servants of the household are suddenly surprised by the attackers, but they put up a vigorous defence until Sepulveda and his men return. But the Winthrop retainers are strongly outnumbered by Garcia's vaqueros, and the little band of defenders is almost worsted, when one of the youngsters, who is a skillful rider, is dispatched on horseback to the nearby town for assistance. Although pursued by one of Garcia's half breeds, the boy manages to reach the town, where he meets his uncle, Caleb, who has just returned from the district court, having won his case. The small troop of U. S. Cavalry quartered there dash to the rescue. The rescuers arrive just at the time when Prudence is closely beset by the infuriated Garcia with evil intent. To protect her honor, Prudence fires the shot which ends the despicable life of the lawless Garcia. Sepulveda and his men are relieved at the point where they are badly beset and Garcia's men are either routed or slain.

The finish of the story sees the marriage of Sepulveda and Miss Prudence. Caleb Winthrop, having won the fight, settles down to a pleasant existence, surrounded by the frolicsome nieces and nephews who are now the pride of his heart.

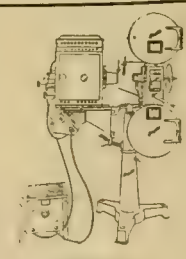
POWER'S 6 B

Nowadays Wise Mr. Exhibitor

Consults His Supply Man When Projection Difficulties Arise

It is through these consultations, held with hundreds of exhibitors, and the knowledge we gained suggesting remedies which has worked out advantageously to our customers at little or no cost to them. That makes us proclaim that we are foremost in the art of

PROJECTION ENGINEERING



SIMPLEX

Piteco Condensers Improve Your Projection. Ask about them.

Consult Our Engineering Department To-day

We Are Distributors for

NATIONAL and SILVER TIP CARBONS

Send for Prices

We Equip Motion Picture Theatres Completely.

PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.

PROJECTION ENGINEERS

1604 BROADWAY, at 49th Street

NEW YORK

Classified Advertisements

NOTE OUR NEW RATES!

Remittances must accompany all orders as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

MOVING PICTURE OPERATOR, expert, desires connection with exhibitor, film exchange or producing company. Address Progressive, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FIRST-CLASS negative developer. References. Produce clear negative. F. J. Schaefer, Box 54, Commack, N. Y.

CAMERAMAN desires position, with a Schustek Selig standard automatic shutter dissolve camera. A. C. Buschott, 4711 Indiana Ave., Chicago, Ill.

DIRECTOR and camera staff open after November 1st. Creative and original, sober and reliable. Good reasons for being at liberty. Y., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER moving picture theater. Thoroughly capable, energetic young man. Four years' practical experience. Excellent reference, character, ability. Address Responsible, 125 East 34th St., N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

WANTED—Live agent in every large city to handle Hill apparatus; moving picture converters; battery charging equipment. C. & C. Electric & Mfg. Co., 90 West St., N. Y. City.

THEATERS WANTED.

WILL RENT or lease motion picture theater. Prefer New Jersey or Eastern Pennsylvania. Must stand investigation. Highest references furnished. D., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HAVE $3,000 to invest in picture theater, not less than 500 seats. New York City or out of town. Address Colt, 49 7th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker. Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED, moderately-equipped picture house seating six hundred; town exceeding forty thousand, vicinity San Francisco. Address Henry Logan, care of M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT

MOVING PICTURE HOUSE—Located at Syracuse, N. Y., which is a city of about 175,000 inhabitants. Running seven days week, from 10 A. M. till 11 P. M. Net profits made past nine weeks were over $1,200. Records to show you for past six months. Our client is heavily interested in wholesale clothing business and will sacrifice this beautiful moving picture theater which is positively worth $15,000, for $6,500; $3,000 down, balance easy terms. The finest and best-located theater in New York state. Lewis, 580 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

FOR SALE—A new theater in city 70,000, with best equipment money can buy, on reasonable terms. Address Fogarty, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR RENT—Moving picture house. Low rent, long term lease. Chicago, Ill., P. O. Box 371.

A GOOD, BUSY moving picture show, admission, 10c. Run first-class features, stand the closest investigation, capacity 350 chairs, in the most prosperous manufacturing town of size in the U. S.; population 30,000. Write for particulars. Box 609, Hopewell, Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT—One of the best paying moving picture theaters in eastern part of Pennsylvania. City of over 100,000 population. Theater is thoroughly up-to-date. Seating 700, with 10c admission price afternoon and evening. Best reasons for selling. Only bona-fide parties will be considered. Address J., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Motion picture house, fully equipped, new, located within seven miles Palm Beach. Good town; heavy tourist population. Price right. Will stand close inspection; get particulars. Consolidated Realty Co., West Palm Beach, Fla.

SPLENDID CHANCE to purchase moving picture and vaudeville theater. (Brick building) seats 800 large stage, only house in town of 6,000 inhabitants. Fully equipped. Now in operation. Free & Brannigan, Tarrytown, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WANTED—Costumes for men and women, American, period of 1830 to 1865. C., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

OPERA CHAIRS—4,000 slightly used, 40c. up. Upholstered $1.00. New opera, 95c. Maple folding, 40c. Atlas Seating Company, 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

NEW GOLD SCREEN, 9x12, $25.00, sold on trial. Free sample. Stretcher frame, $8.00. Guaranteed satisfactory. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Ia.

FOR SALE OR TRADE—Complete moving picture outfit. Bought out opposition. What have you to offer? Opera chairs or automobile considered. Opera House, Constantine, Mich.

TWO POWER'S 6A's, complete, with or without motors, fine conditions, ship immediately, privilege examination. Mirroroid screen cheap. Box 368, Canton, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Two 40 ampere type No. 115,672 General Electric Mercury Arc Rectifiers complete with extra relays, hand regulators and enclosed fuses. Full 50 amps. D. C. at arc guaranteed. Price $125 each. Collins & Hill, 10 S. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE—$30.00 cash. Fort Wayne compensarc, Hallberg economizer, 220 volts, 60 cycles, perfect condition, a bargain; sent for examination. Martin Fredericks, 3533 North Thirteenth St., Philadelphia, Pa.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

RICHARDSON SAYS—"Install 'Amberlux' Lens Filters." Don't hesitate to spend $3.50 to protect your patrons from sight destroying eyestrain. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

GOING OUT BUSINESS Bargain. movie making outfits, camera, lens, tripod, cases, racks, tanks, film printing press. Berlinger, 290 Pleasant, St. Paul, Minn.

CAMERA—Zeiss-Tessar F:3.5 lens, tilting panoramic tripod and six reels, new condition, educational feature. Heinbockel, Espanola, N. Mex.

THE MOTION PICTURE CAMERA Clearing House offers the biggest values possible in high-grade tested Cinematograph cameras. 1st: 150 ft. Vista, late model, equipped with Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, $50.00; 2nd: 100 ft. Ernemann M. P. camera, equipped with Erneman F:3.5 lens, $50.00; 3rd: 400 ft. Urban Professional, regular and trick crank, focus direct through rear. Two Voigtlander lens 70 M.M. and 90 M.M., interchangeable, $125.00. 4th: 400 ft. Pathe Cinematograph Heliar F:4.5 lens, $135.00. 5th: 200 ft. Ernemann Model A, regular and trick crank, Zeiss Tessar lens, F:3.5, $135.00. 6th: 400 ft. Ernemann Professional Model B. Finest mechanism, all adjustments, equipped with Zeiss Tessar, F:3.5 lens, $225.00. 7th: 400 ft. Ernemann Model B, same as above, equipped with 2" Ernemann F:3.5 lens, 3" Heiomar F:3.5 lens and 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto lens, complete, $275.00. 8th: The Davsco Professional, 200 ft. capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens. Biggest value possible, $110.00. Panoramic and tilting top tripods from $14.00 to $60.00. Write today. Information on any camera cheerfully answered. David Stern Company, The National Camera Exchange, 1047 R. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS and tripods for sale and for rent. Cameramen furnished anywhere. H. R. Hoover & Co., 229 West 42nd St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAMEN'S NOVELTIES—Laboratory outfits, special machinery, photoplay directors, viewfinders, flexible cranks, effect devices, static preventers. All film work, repair. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. and Second Ave., N. Y. City.

KINOGRAPH, $60; Pittman, $90; Prestwich, $150; Schneider, $145; all F:3.5 lenses. Tripods, $20 upwards; $60 projector, $35. Ray, 326 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

FILMS WANTED.

OPEN BOOKING—Have you a special picture to run on percentage or rent by the day? Capacity 350 chairs, population of town 25,000 people. Box 609, Hopewell, Va.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. Especially series. State price, etc., to F. Thomander, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

FILMS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR SALE—Charlie Chaplin in "One A. M.," two reels, first-class shape. Will sell for $100. Address C. R. Wilson, Gen. Del., Cleveland, Ohio.

OVER SEAS BUYERS should communicate with me, second-hand American pictures at European prices. Donald Campbell, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WE SPECIALIZE in used educational, industrial, scientific and scenic films. Good subjects at 1½c. per foot and up. We have what you want. Send for our lists and terms. New York Film Laboratories, Film Sales Dept., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

For Your LITTLE WANTS in the Moving Picture Industry

the LITTLE ADS in the Classified Department

WILL GET YOU EXCEPTIONAL RESULTS

Send your copy, accompanied by remittance—The Rate is 5c. per Word, 20 Words or less $1.00

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors 695
"American Aristocracy" (Triangle)..... 691
Among the Picture Theaters..... 709
At Leading Picture Theaters..... 711
Australian Notes 708

Baltimore Still Enforcing League Ban..... 726
Bathurst, N. B., New Theater at..... 730
Beban Re-engaged by Morosco-Pallas..... 714
Bennett, Enid, Becomes Triangle Kay-Bee Star 705
Bluebirds for November..... 736
Boehringer Gets Triangle Rights..... 736
Boston Judge Enjoins Union..... 726
Brady, Alice, Multiple Star..... 705
"Brand of Cowardice, The" (Metro)..... 691
British Censorship..... 672
Butte Theaters, High Wages in..... 738

Calendar of Daily Program Releases..742, 744
Canada, Film Titles in Bi-lingual..... 733
Candidates to Address Film Men..... 674
Chapter On the Foreign Film, A..... 671
Chicago News Letter..... 681
Children's Shows in Washington, D. C.... 728
Comments on the Films..... 692
"Commonsense Brackett" (Monarch)..... 689
"Criminal, The" 691
"Crimson Stain Mystery, The" (Consolidated) 687

"Daughter of the Gods, A" (Fox)..... 673
Denver Club Wants to be Star-Led..... 738
Detroit Outskirt Theaters Assn 732
"Devil's Symphony, The" (Consolidated). 687

Edel, Harold, the Strand's Manager..... 707
Elaborate Features on Paramount Program. 712
Ellewood's New Theater Begun..... 729
"End of the Rainbow, The" (Bluebird)... 686
"Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916"..... 687
Essanay Northland Pictures..... 716

Facts and Comments..... 669

"Figure in Black, The" (Consolidated).... 687

General Film Program..... 717
Green Outlines Artcraft's Scope..... 679

Hespe, Dr., Defines His Attitude..... 675
Holah, C. E., Resigns..... 732

Indiana Notes 680
Interesting Industrial, An..... 714
"Isle of Life, The" (Red Feather)..... 685

King, Mollie, with Pathe..... 712
"Kiss, The" (Famous Players)..... 688

"Land Just Over Yonder, The" (Unity).. 690
"Lass of the Lumberlands, A" (Signal)... 686
"Last Man, The" (Vitagraph)..... 689
List of Current Film Release Dates, 762, 764, 766, 768
Louisville, Business Good in..... 737

"Man Who Stood Still, The" (World)..... 687
Macon, Ga., New Capital Theater at..... 736
Manufacturers' Advance Notes..... 718
Marshall, Boyd, Thanhouser Leading Man. 713
McIntyre in "The Traveling Salesman"... 711
"Merry Motor Menders, The" (Kalem).... 690
Motion Picture Educator..... 677
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The..... 675
Motion Picture Photography..... 703
Music for the Picture..... 704
Mutual Program 713

Nashville, Tenn., Theater for Blacks and Whites 737
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity..... 683
Nine Stars in Kalem List..... 716
Notes of the Trade 725
Not Interested in New Company..... 717

Oregon Assn. Wants Sunday Law Killed.. 740

Paterson Exhibitors Organize..... 676
"Pencil Clue, The" (Kalem)..... 690
"Phantom Image, The" (Consolidated)... 687
Philadelphia, Film Happenings in..... 731
Photoplaywright, The 698
Picture Theaters Projected..... 725
Plans of the N. A. of M. P. I..... 674
Port Huron Commission Calls Halt..... 734
Portland, No Settlement Yet in..... 741
Projection Department 699

"Ragged Princess, The" (Fox)..... 688
"Rainbow Princess, The" (Famous Players) 689
Reviews of Current Productions..... 685
"Romeo and Juliet" (Metro)..... 685

San Francisco, Higher Admissions in..... 739
Scenics by New Process..... 680
Screeners Settled in New House..... 676
Seeing San Francisco's Chinatown..... 679
"Shielding Shadow, The" (Pathe)..... 688
Shipman, Nell, Returns East..... 682
Social Workers to Start Film Exchange.... 734
Some Job of Cutting..... 714
Splendid Work in Kansas..... 675
Stories of the Films..... 746
Stronger Organization Needed..... 675
St. Louis Theater Managers Elect..... 735

Thompson, Donald, War Photographer..... 710
Triangle Program 691
Two Theaters for Showing One Picture.... 738
Two Single Reel Kalems..... 690

Universal Program 715

Vancouver Censors Up Again..... 727
"Voice of Love, The" (Mutual)..... 690

Warde in "King Lear"..... 678
Warner, H. B., Leaves Triangle for McClure's. 717
Washington, D. C., Fire Marshal's Report. 728
Welsh, William 679
Who Makes the Winner?..... 670
When the "Cinch" Peters Out..... 706
Why Some Small Theaters Fail..... 740

TO ADVERTISERS

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack..... 755
Speer Carbon Co..... 771

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
American Seating Co..... 773
Du Pont Fabrikoid Co..... 773
Foco Chair Co..... 773
Steel Furniture Co..... 773

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co..... 770
Calehuff Supply Co..... 770
C. & C. Electric Co..... 769
Fulton, E. E..... 752
Hallberg, J. H..... 763
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co..... 765
Hommel, Ludwig & Co..... 752
Northwestern Electric Co..... 770
Picture Theater Equip. Co..... 758
Porter, B. F..... 754
Strelinger, Chas. A..... 753
Typhoon Fan Co..... 753
Wagner Electric Mfg. Co..... 768
Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co..... 757

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W..... 772
Essanay Film Mfg. Co..... 631
Gaumont Co. 658-59
The Film Exchange 752
Variety Films Corp..... 756

LENS MANUFACTURERS.
Bausch & Lomb Optical Co..... 765

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
American Film Co., Inc..... 655
Artcraft Pictures Corp..... 662
Baynes, G. M..... 765
Biograph Co. 742
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.....Colored Insert
Christie Film Co..... 654
Clara Kimball Young Film Corp..... 648
E. & R. Jungle Film Co..... 756
Fox Film Corp.....650-51
Grafton Publishing Co..... 751
Herbert Brenon Film Corp..... 647
International Film Service.....Colored Insert
K. E. S. E. Service 664-67
Kalem Co. 668
Kleine, George 663
McClure Pictures 661
Metcalfe, M. D..... 660
Metro Pictures Corp.....Colored Insert
Mutual Film Corp.....Colored Insert
National Drama Corp..... 756
Norma Talmadge Film Corp..... 649
Paramount Pictures Corp.....635-43
Pathe Exchange, Inc.....Colored Insert
Sherman-Elliott, Inc. 745
Signal Film Corp.....656-57
Thanhouser Film Corp..... 630
Triangle Film Corp.....652-53
Unicorn Film Service Corp..... 646
Universal Film Mfg. Co.....632-34
Vim Comedies 743
World Film Corp.....644-45

MISCELLANEOUS.
Automatic Ticket Selling & C. R. Co..... 755
Bioscope, The. 770
Botanical Decorating Co..... 773
Bulletin, The 770
Camera, care M. P. W..... 752
Cine Mundial 755
Cinema Camera Club..... 752
Classified Advertisements 759
Corcoran, A. J..... 770
Eastman Kodak Co..... 771
Erbograph Co. 750
Evans Film Mfg. Co..... 752
General Chemical Co..... 772
Gunby Bros. 762
Hahn, Paul M..... 767
Harris, Charles K..... 765
Il Tirso Al Cinematografo 767
Importer B., care M. P. W..... 753
Kinematograph Weekly, The 773
Kraus Mfg. Co..... 751
Marion, Louise M..... 772
Motion Picture Electricity..... 771
Motion Picture Exchange..... 767
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon.....767, 770
M. P. Directory Co..... 772
Moore, Wm. N..... 756
National Ticket Co..... 751
Newman Lacquer Co..... 756
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co..... 755
Richardson, F. H..... 772
Richardson's M. P. Handbook..... 769
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co..... 767
Salvation Army Xmas Dinners..... 754
Standard Motion Picture Co..... 756
Superior Films Co..... 769
Thomander, F. 754
Willis & Inglis..... 754

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Los Angeles M. P. Co..... 756
Universal Camera Co..... 767

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photo Player Co..... 761
Berg, S. M..... 770
Harmo Pipe Organ Co..... 772
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co..... 756
Sinn, Clarence E..... 773
Stern, David, Co..... 755
Wangerin-Weickhardt 771

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring 756

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co..... 756
Enterprise Optical Co..... 765
Power, Nichols, Co..... 766
Precision Mch. Co..... 763

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURERS.
Decorators' Supply Co..... 769
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc..... 772
Gold King Screen Co..... 725
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc..... 752

Fotoplayer
for Better Music

WILLIAM H. FOSTER IRA C. FOSTER

The Colonial Theatre

216 NORTH UNION AVENUE

Pueblo, Colo. Oct. 9 1916

American Photo Player Co.
N. York City.

Gentlemen!—

We have had one of your 65 note Photoplayers for about three years. Same is still in excellent condition with the exception that the felt on the hammers has become worn to such an extent that it will be necessary to either replace same with new hammers or put in a new player action. Please advise us which would be the most practicable, also cost of same.

Thanking you in advance we are,

Yours very truly
Foster Bros.

TEAR OFF THIS COUPON

American Photo Player Co., 62 West 45th Street, New York.
Please send full information about the Fotoplayer with your special term proposition.

(Name) .....

(Theatre) ..... (Town and State) .....
(A)

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 742, 744.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem.

Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph.

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Oct. 23—Friends (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 91).

Oct. 24—The Battle at Elderbush Gulch (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 92).

Oct. 30—The Goddess of Sagebrush Gulch (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 93).

Nov. 1—The Power of the Press (Three parts—Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 94).

Nov. 6—The New York Hat (Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 95).

Nov. 7—The Scene of Crime (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 96).

ESSANAY.

Oct. 10—Money to Burn (Two parts—Comedy—Drama).

Oct. 11—Canimated Nooz Pictorial, No. 17 (Cartoon—Comedy)
—A Scenic subject on the same reel

Oct. 14—Lost, Twenty-four Hours (Three parts—Comedy).

Oct. 17—The Fable of "The Kittenish Superanns and the World Weary Snipes" (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 18—Dreamy Dud in the African War Zone (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A Scenic subject on the same reel

Oct. 21—Maroon-d (Three parts—drama)

Oct. 21—Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916, arranged from "The Tramp," "His New Job" "A Night Out" (Five parts—Comedy).

Oct. 24—Borrowed Sunshine (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 25—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 18 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A scenic subject on the same reel.

Oct. 28—It Never Could Happen (Three parts—Drama).

Oct. 31—The Beach Comber (Two parts—Comedy).

Nov. 1—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 19 (Cartoon—Comedy).

Nov. 4—The Heart of Virginia Keep (Three parts—Drama).

KALEM.

Oct. 13—The Battered Bridegroom (Comedy).

Oct. 14—To Save the Special (No. 101 of "The Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).

Oct. 17—A Sauer Kraut Symphony (Comedy).

Oct. 18—The Yellow Hand (No. 11 of the "Girl from 'Frisco") (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 20—The Code Letter (No. 1 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).

Oct. 21—Hazards of Helen Railroad Series No. 102, "A Daring Chance" (Drama).

Oct. 24—The Bogus Booking Agents (Comedy).

Oct. 25—The Harvest of Gold (No. 12 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 27—The Missing Heiress (No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

Oct. 28—Hazards of Helen Railroad Series No. 103, "The Lost Messenger" (Dr.).

Oct. 31—The Merry Motor Menders (Com.).

Nov. 1—The Son of Cain (No. 13 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.).

Nov. 3—The Pencil Clue (No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

Nov. 4—"Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series No. 104, "The Gate of Death" (Drama).

Nov. 7—A Desperate Duel (Comedy).

Nov. 8—The Witch of the Dark House (No. 14 of the Girl from Frisco) (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 10—The Man from Yukon (No. 4 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Drama).

Nov. 11—Hazards of Helen railroad series No. 105, "The Lone Point Mystery."

SELIG.

Oct. 2—The Selig-Tribune, No. 79, 1916 (Top.).

Oct. 5—The Selig-Tribune, No. 80, 1916 (Top.).

Oct. 7—The Canbyhill Outlaws (Western—Drama).

Oct. 9—Converging Paths (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 9—The Selig-Tribune No. 81, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 12—The Selig-Tribune No. 82, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 14—A Mistake in Rustlers (Western—Drama).

Oct. 16—Only a Rose (Two parts—Drama).
—A Boomerang (Comedy).

Oct. 16—The Selig-Tribune, No. 83, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 19—The Selig-Tribune, No. 84, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 21—An Eventful Evening (Comedy).

Oct. 30—Small Town Stuff (Three parts—Dr.).

Oct. 30—The Selig-Tribune, No. 87, 1916 (Top.).

Nov. 2—The Selig-Tribune, No. 88, 1916 (Top.).

Nov. 5—Tom's Sacrifice (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Oct. 4—A Grain of Suspicion (Comedy).

Oct. 11—Their Installment Furniture (Com.).

Oct. 18—A Persistent Wooing (Comedy).

Oct. 25—Green Eyes (Comedy).

Nov. 1—Gertie's Garters (Comedy).

Nov. 8—Marked No Fund (Comedy).

VIM.

Oct. 19—A Precious Parcel (Comedy).

Oct. 20—Here and There (Comedy).

Oct. 26—A Maid to Order (Comedy).

Oct. 27—The Frame-Up (Comedy).

Nov. 2—Twin Flats (Comedy).

Nov. 3—In the Ranks (Comedy).

Nov. 9—A Warm Reception (Comedy).

Nov. 10—Gay Deceivers (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Oct. 9—Billy's Melodrama (Comedy).

Oct. 13—The Mayor's Fall From Grace (Com.).

Oct. 16—The Curse of the Forest (Educational).

Oct. 20—Strong Evidence (Comedy).

Oct. 21—The Harbor of Happiness (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).

Oct. 23—Trouble for Four (Comedy).

Oct. 27—Betty's Affair (Comedy).

Oct. 30—The New Porter (Comedy).

Nov. 3—The Game that Failed (Comedy).

Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).

Nov. 6—New York Rapid Transit (Comedy).

Nov. 10—Weary Willie's Birthday (Comedy).

General Film Company Features

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Oct. 21—The Harbor of Happiness (Three parts—Drama.

Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES.

Oct. 13—From the Deep (Three parts—Dr.).

Oct. 20—Treading Pearls (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 27—The Chorus Girl and the Kid (Three parts—Drama).

Nov. 3—Jess of the Hill Country (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 10—The Question Mark (Two parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

THE HALLBERG 20th CENTURY GENERATOR

Is Furnishing Better Light All Over the World

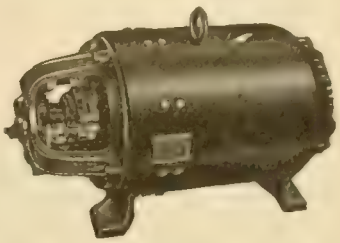
This A. C. to D. C. Machine is Selected by Exporters for Foreign Trade Because of the Perfect Results Shown by Hundreds in Use and Absolute Reliability and Freedom from Trouble Under All Conditions.



E. C. McCULLOUGH & CO., Inc.
Importers and Exporters

Manila, P. I., Sept. 8, 1916

Mr. J. H. HALLBERG,
729 7th Ave., New York City.

Dear Sir:

You will remember some time past we put [illegible] through our New York agents one Twentieth Century Generator set with switchboard to control two arcs motor, 110 220 v., 60 cycles, 2 phase, 10 H.P.; [illegible] amp.

The Motor Generator set arrived and was installed and is giving perfect satisfaction.

Yours very truly,
E. C. McCULLOUGH

I am distributor of all makes of moving picture machines and furnish everything complete for the theatre and studio, new and used apparatus.

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue send 25 cents.

Keep your moving picture machine in first class condition. Let me overhaul your mechanisms once a year. Repair parts on rush or telegraph order shipped at once.

Send for prices on miniature Portable and Advertising Projectors.

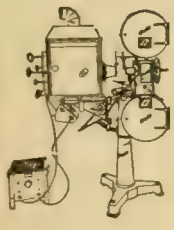
Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

Send $4.00 for Richardson's M. P. Handbook

Send $1.50 for Hallberg's Carbon Saver

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

Member National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc.



INVESTIGATION WILL PROVE THAT:

THE MAJORITY OF
- Modern High Class Theatres
- Film Manufacturers
- Studios and Laboratories
- Feature Productions Presented

Use Simplex Projectors

A Few Reasons Why:

BECAUSE SIMPLEX:
- Gives Everlasting Perfect Projection
- Is Rock Steady and Flickerless
- Is Heavily Constructed, Insuring Long Service, yet Runs Like a Watch
- Has a Low Cost of Up-Keep
- Is the Original Fireproof Machine
- Has Unparalleled Simplicity and Efficiency

The Foregoing Proven Facts Distinguish SIMPLEX from other makes.

Send for Catalog "A"

Weekly Announcement:
Cleveland's Beautiful
STILLMAN THEATRE SELECTS
SIMPLEX PROJECTORS

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

MEMBER
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION
MOTION PICTURE
INDUSTRY

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 742, 744.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Nov. 8—Number 45 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 44 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 44 Topical).

BIG U.

Oct. 19—No release this day.
Oct. 26—The Narrow Creed (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 27—A Price on His Head (Drama).
Oct. 29—A Daughter of Dixie (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 2—Sea Mates (Drama).
Nov. 3—Starlight's Message (Drama) (Special release).
Nov. 5—The Bandit's Wager (Comedy—Dr.).
Nov. 10—The Evidence, (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 12—The Powder Trail (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).

BISON.

Oct 21—The Conspiracy (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 28—The Better Man (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 4—For Love and Gold (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 11—The Quitter, (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Oct. 10—Cheaters (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 17—The Wrath of Cactus Moore (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—The Masked Woman (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 8—The Cry of Conscience. (Two parts—Drama).

IMP.

Oct. 16—The Missing Witness (Drama) (Special Release).
Oct. 19—The Decoy (Drama).
Oct. 20—No release this day.
Oct. 22—No release this day.
Oct. 26—(Special release—title not decided).
Oct. 27—Through Solid Walls (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 3—Stumbling (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—The Secret Cellar (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).
Nov. 7—The Voice Upstairs, (Drama).
Nov. 10—The Eel (Two parts—Drama).

JOKER.

Oct. 21—Beans and Bullets (Comedy).
Oct. 28—A Crooked Mixup (Comedy).
Nov. 4—A Shadowed Shadow (Comedy).
Nov. 11—In Love With a Fireman (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Oct. 14.—No release this day.
Oct. 16—Are You an Elk? (Comedy) (Special Release).
Oct. 18—Through Baby's Voice (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—No release this day.
Oct. 25—Lucille, the Waitress (Comedy) (Special Release).
Oct. 28—(No release this day).
Nov. 1—The Midnight Toll (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 2—Her Wedding Day (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 4—No release this day.
Nov. 11—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Shadows of Suspicion (Drama).

L-KO.

Oct. 18—Safety First (Comedy).
Oct. 22—She Wanted a Ford (Comedy).
Oct. 25—A Rural Romance (Two parts—Com.).—An Alligator Hunt (Ditmar's Educational).
Nov. 1—Terrors of a Turkish Bath (Two parts—Comedy)
Nov. 5—No release this day.
Nov. 7—Alice in Society (Three parts—Comedy).
Nov. 8—No release this day.
Nov. 12—No release this day.

NESTOR.

Oct. 13—Pat Rooney in "It's All Wrong" (Comedy).
Oct. 16—His Own Nemesis (Comedy).
Oct. 20—Pat's Pasting Ways (Comedy).
Oct. 23—The Bar Fly (Comedy)
Oct 30—Love and a Liar (Comedy).
Nov. 6—A Political Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 10—Sweedy, The Janitor (Comedy).

POWERS.

Oct. 19—No release this day.
Oct. 26—Windsor McCay and His Jersey Skeeter (Comedy—Cartoon).
Nov. 2—Sammie Johnson Minds the Baby (Comedy—Cartoon).—Ceylon (Educational).
Nov. 3—Us Kids (Comedy).
Nov. 9—High Life on a Farm with Hy Mayer (Cartoon—Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Oct. 9—A Romance of Billy-Goat Hill (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—Barriers of Society (Five parts—Dr.).
Oct. 23—The Black Sheep of the Family (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Isle of Life (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Place Beyond the Winds (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Oct. 6—No release this day.
Oct. 8—The Human Gamble (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 9—The Unfinished Case (Drama) (Special Release).
Oct. 13—No release this day.
Oct. 15—No release this day.
Oct. 20—The Gold Band (Drama).
Oct. 29—The Moving Finger (Drama).
Nov. 3—No release this day.
Nov. 5—Her Vanished Youth (Drama).
Nov. 9—The Mantle of Deceit (Two parts—Society—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Pen Trip to Palestine (Educ.).
Nov. 10—The Eyes of Love (Drama).

VICTOR.

Oct. 10—No release this day.
Oct. 16—Room Rent and Romance (Comedy) (Special Release).
Oct. 16—The Five Thousand Dollar Dream (Comedy) (Special Release).
Oct. 17—No release this day.
Oct. 22—Main 4400 (Two parts—Comedy—Dr.).
Oct. 24—Kitty from the City (Drama) (Special Release).
Oct. 27—A Plumber's Waterloo (Comedy).
Oct. 29—The Burglar (Comedy).
Oct. 31—Felix on the Job (Comedy) (Special Release).
Nov. 7—No release this day.
Nov. 9—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Any Old Duke'll Do (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Oct. 6—Somewhere on the Battlefield (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 9—Breaking Into Society (No. 9 of "Timothy Dobbs That's Me"—Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 9—Liberty No. 9, "Trapped," (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 12—Behind Life's Stage (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 16—Fame at Last (No. 10 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me"—Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 16—Liberty No. 10, "The Human Targets" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Liberty No. 11, "A Daughter of Mars" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—Society Hypocrites (Three parts—Dr.).
Oct. 30—Liberty No. 12. "For the Flag" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Liberty No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow" (Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS.

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Oct. 2—Wanted—A Home (Five parts—Dr.).
Oct. 9—The Chalice of Sorrow (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Social Buccaneer (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Love Never Dies (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The End of the Rainbow (Five parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Sept. 4—Atonement (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 9—Citizens, All (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Franchise (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Professor Jeremey's Experiment (Two parts—Drama).

BEAUTY.

Sept. 26—The Deacon's Card (Comedy).
Oct. 3—Slicking the Slickers (Comedy).
Oct. 10—That Sharp Note (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Last Thrust (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Spartan Spleen (Comedy).

CENTAUR.

Sept. 23—The Father of Her Child (Two parts—Drama).
Sept. 30—Foiled (Two parts—Drama).

CUB.

Oct. 7—Won by a Fowl (Comedy).
Oct. 7—That Wonderful Wife (Comedy).
Oct. 13—Inoculating Hubby (Comedy).
Oct. 14—Those Primitive Days (Comedy).
Oct. 14—Their College Capers (Comedy).
Oct. 20—He Wouldn't Tip (Comedy).
Oct. 21—That Doggone Baby (Comedy).
Oct. 21—The Deacon's Widow (Comedy).
Oct. 27—Lovers and Lunatics (Comedy).
Oct. 28—Dad's Masterpiece (Comedy).
Oct. 28—When Clubs Were Trumps (Comedy).
Nov. 3—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 4—The Eternal Challenge (Two parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Oct. 5—The False Magistrate (No. 5 of "Fantomas" (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 8—Reel Life, No. 23 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 11—See America First, No. 57 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Oct. 15—Reel Life, No. 24 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 18—See America First, No. 58 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Oct. 19—Stepping Westward (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 22—Reel Life No. 25 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 25—See America First, No. 59 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).
Oct. 29—Reel Life, No. 26 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 1—See America First No. 60 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 5—Reel Life No. 27 (Mutual Film Magazine).

MUSTANG.

Sept. 1—The Gambler's Lost Love (Two parts—Drama).
Sept. 8—Matchin' Jim (Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL.

Oct. 17—The Law of Nature (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—The Folly of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 26—At Twelve O'clock (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 30—Paying the Price (Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Oct. 11—Number 93 (Topical).
Oct. 18—Number 94 (Topical).
Oct. 25—Number 95 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 96 (Topical).

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Vagabond (Two parts—Comedy).
One A. M. (Two parts—Comedy).
The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Oct. 19—The Voice of Love (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 145).
Oct. 23—The Undertow (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 146).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Oct. 26—The Love Hermit (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 147).
Oct. 30—Faith (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 148).
Nov. 2—The Pearl of Paradise (Five parts—Drama) (No. 149).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 766)

Besides a Good Location and Interesting Films--

a theater must have also the reputation of well reproduced images on the screen. You can be sure of this very necessary item if you install

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

They give the crisp, clear images that "put across" most pleasingly the thrills of your film stories and bring back the public for more. Operators who use Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers agree in the opinion that they give the best results—and make the least trouble.

The Edison and Nicholas Power machines are regularly equipped with Bausch & Lomb Lenses. Your film exchange can get them for you.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons) and other high grade optical products.

INSTALL A TRANSVERTER for Efficiency and Economy

NO matter how much you pay for good pictures, you can't get full profit possibilities out of them unless you have good light. It is false economy to put up with the inconvenience, annoyance and expense of inferior projection equipment.

TransVerteR
TRADE MARK

Considering what it does and what it saves the Transverter is lower in price than any other device on the market. The Transverter is a compact, simple motor generator that meets every requirement for a steady, brilliant, easily controlled light for artistic projection. It is guaranteed to give satisfaction, or money refunded.

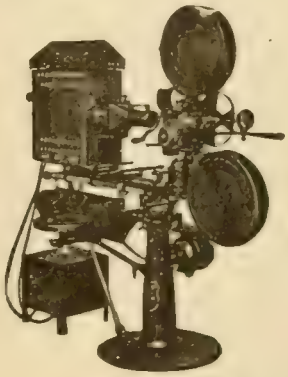
Order your Transverter now and we will deliver it in two or three weeks. This is going to be a big year in the moving picture business. Install the kind of equipment that will enable you to get your full share of this business.

September Bulletin giving complete information and net prices will be sent on request.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Company
1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

ARE YOU ONE

of the many exhibitors who are going to discard their machines shortly because their parts are made of soft metal and the results of the projector have become very unsatisfactory?



A great many of these exhibitors are placing the LATE MODEL MOTIOGRAPH in their booths because of its record for long life, satisfactory results and small cost of up-keep.

If you are skeptical as to the quality of material used in the MOTIOGRAPH, read the following:

Mr. Carl Pearson of Rushville, Ill., says: "Was using a 1916 Motiograph and a ..... in the booth of my theatre. On October 4th I had a fire which burned the theatre to the ground and I never did find the ..... machine, but I am returning to you the mechanism of the Motiograph which I believe you can put in good condition.

"Nothing but Motiographs for me in the future, as they are surely made of good material."

WE CAN MAKE PROMPT SHIPMENT—
WIRE FOR A MOTIOGRAPH TODAY

Write for Literature.

The Enterprise Optical Mfg. Co.
574 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Western Office:
833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 742, 744.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 764)

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 23—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 1, "The Lumber Pirates" (Two parts—Drama).

THANHOUSER.

Oct. 13—At the Edge of the Aqueduct (Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Oct. 22—Her Painted Pedigree (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 29—He Died and He Didn't (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov 5—Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

COLUMBIA.

Oct. 30—The Gates of Eden (Five parts—Dr.).

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Oct. 26—The Iron Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).

QUALITY.

Oct. 16—In the Diplomatic Service (Five parts—Drama).
October—Romeo and Juliet (Five Parts—Dr.) (Special Release).

ROLFE.

Oct. 23—The Brand of Cowardice (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Wager (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDIES.

Oct. 16—Bridget's Blunder (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Oct. 23—The Rainbow Princess (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 2—Seventeen (Five parts—Comedy-Dr.).
Nov. 20—Miss George Washington (Five parts—Drama).

LASKY.

Oct. 26—The Heir to the Hoorah (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Soul of Kurl San (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Unprotected (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Plow Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).

MOROSCO.

Oct. 12—Her Father's Son (Five parts—Dr.).

PALLAS.

Oct. 9—The Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Son of Erin (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Oct. 25—Bobby Bumps Helps "Helps" a Book Agent (Cartoon—Comedy)
Nov. 1—Greenland's Icy Mountains (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 8—Farmer Al Falfa Sees New York (Cartoon—Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Oct. 23—The Island of Capri (Scenic).
Oct. 30—Vesuvius in Eruption (Scenic).
Nov. 6—In Classic Greece (Scenic).
Nov. 13—In Modern Athens (Scenic).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Oct. 22—The Shielding Shadow, No. 4, "The Earthquake" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—The Shielding Shadow, No. 5, "Through Bolted Doors" (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 5—The Shielding Shadow No. 6 "The Disappearing Prisoners" (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD ROOSTER PLAYS.

Oct. 22—Prudence the Pirate (Five parts—Comedy-Drama).
Oct. 29—The Sultana (Five parts—Comedy-Drama) (Colored).
Nov. 5—The Hidden Valley (Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.

Oct. 22—In the Mesh of Her Hair (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—Athletic Movements Analyzed (Colored—Educational).
—Blossom Time in Japan (Colored—Scenic).
Oct. 29—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 7, "Betty Entertains an Out-of-Town Guest" (Fashions).
Oct. 29—The Moth and the Flame (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Pearl of the Army No. 1 "The Traitor" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Scratch of the Pen (Two parts—Drama).
Historic New Orleans (Scenic).
Nov. 5—Fowls and Game Birds (Educational—Colored).

PATHE NEWS.

Oct. 21—Number 85, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 28—Number 86, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 28—Number 87, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 88, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 4—Number 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 90, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 11—Number 91, 1916. (Topical).

ROLIN.

Oct. 15—Luke and the Bang-Tails (Comedy).
Oct. 22—Heinie and the Magic Man (Comedy).
Oct. 29—Luke, the Chauffeur (Comedy).
Nov. 5—Luke's Preparedness Preparation (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Oct. 15—The Old Folks at Home (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—Fifty-Fifty (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—A Sister of Six (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Atta Boy's Last Race (Five parts—Drama).

INCE.

Oct. 15—The Return of Draw Egan (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—The Vagabond Prince (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—Somewhere in France (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—A Corner in Colleens (Five parts—Drama).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Oct. 16—The Slumbering Memory (Two parts—Drama).
Oct 22—The Honor of the Tribe (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Oct. 18—Fear (Three parts—Drama).

GAYETY.

Oct. 17—Wife's Frame-Up (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Oct. 17—The Foolish Romance (Two parts—Comedy).

JUDY.

Oct. 7—The Model (Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Lost Ring (Comedy).
—U. S. Fighting Craft (Educational).
Oct. 19—Over the Hills (Comedy).
Oct. 22—Disposing of a Lover (Comedy).

LILY.

Oct. 3—Thru the Wall (Drama).
Oct. 8—The Web (Three parts—Drama).

PURITAN.

Oct. 6—The Live Corpse (Comedy).
Oct. 19—The Honor of the Gardells (Two parts—Drama).

SUNSET.

Oct. 5—A Daring Mission (Drama).

SUPREME.

Oct. 2—Pen and Sword (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 6—The Guilty One (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Oct. 21—When Hands are Idle (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—The Vengeance of Dan McGrew (Drama).

Feature Releases

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Six parts Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Oct. 9—His Wedding Night (Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Making Over of Mother (Comedy).
Oct. 23—He Loved the Ladies (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 16—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 9, "The Hunting Specter" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 10, "The Tortured Soul" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 11 Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES INC.

October—La Tosca (Two parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 9—The War Bride's Secret (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Ragged Princess Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Romeo and Juliet (Five parts—Dr.).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

October—The Conquest of Canaan (Drama).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Oct. 9—Scarlet Runner, No. 2, "The Nuremburg Watch" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—Scarlet Runner, No. 3, "The Masked Ball" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 16—A Prince in a Pawnshop (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—The Blue Envelope Mystery (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Scarlet Runner, No. 4, "The Hidden Prince" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—Scarlet Runner, No. 5, "The Jacobean House" Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Last Man (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Scarlet Runner, No. 6, "The Mysterious Motor Car" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Devil's Prize (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Scarlet Runner No. 7 "The Red Whiskered Man" Vitagraph (Two parts Drama).
Nov. 13—The Second Mrs. Tanqueray (Vitagraph Five parts Drama).

HERALD FILM CORPORATION.

October.—Prima Donna's Husband (Five parts—Drama).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE, INC.

Oct. 16—Beatrice Fairfax, No. 11, "The Wages of Sin" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 17—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 83, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 20—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 84, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 23—Beatrice Fairfax No. 12 "Curiosity" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 85, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 27—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 86, 1916. (Topical).
Oct. 30—Beatrice Fairfax No. 13 (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 87, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 2—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 88, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 2—The Ocean Waif (Golden Eagle—Drama).

ATTENTION PRODUCERS

who contemplate sending companies South this Winter will save valuable time and money by communicating with

THE MOTION PICTURE EXCHANGE

309 West Forsyth Street
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA

G. ALFRED WALKER, Business Manager

Public Bureau of Information. Correspondence Solicited.
Free Desk Room for Visiting Directors.
Free Test Room for Visiting Cameramen.

"We furnish every need of the visiting producer"

Props, Locations, Studios, Stage Space, Expert Help, Autos, Electricians, Property Men, Cameramen, High Grade Extra Help, Carpenters. We do expert Developing and Printing.

Anything you wish to know here just ask us—"mighty glad" to be of service to you.

"PUBLIC COOPERATION IS A FEATURE OF THIS CITY"
"YEAR ROUND PLAY GROUND"

"27 Hours From Broadway"

for sale—
or rent—

A first class complete moving picture laboratory, consisting of perforating, printing, positive and negative developing, washing, drying, assembling, inspection and projection rooms; shipping department, vaults, offices, etc.

The plant is equipped with air conditioning and ventilating apparatus; developing and washing tanks are installed complete. The drying room is equipped with five 10-feet drying drums. In fact, the plant can be made ready within 12 hours to turn out a half million feet of film per week. Address Paul M. Hahn, 120 Broadway, New York.

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Developed . 1c ft.
Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot
Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

Complete Laboratory and Studio Service
Moving Pictures Made To Order

Quality titles
Animated cartoons
Eastman raw stock
Prompt deliveries

Factory description and quotations promptly sent at your request

Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.
1331-59 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, U. S. A.

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO
The most important Film Journal in Italy.
Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.
Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy

The Universal Camera
For Motion Photography

Write for Illustrated Catalogue
The UNIVERSAL CAMERA CO.
559 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago
Branches { 1007 Times Bldg., New York / 821 Market St., San Francisco

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00
EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS $1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 742, 744.)

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

October—Her Surrender (Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Aug. 21—Gloria's Romance, No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).

Aug. 23—The Mishaps of Musty Suffer Series No. 2, No. 10 (Comedy).

Aug. 28—Gloria's Romance, No. 15, "The Murderer at Bay" (Two parts—Dr.).

Sept. 4—Gloria's Romance (No 16, "A Modern Pirate"—Two parts—Drama).

Sept. 11—Gloria's Romance No. 17, "The Telltale Envelope" (Two parts—Dr.).

Sept. 18—Gloria's Romance, No. 18, "The Bitter Truth" (Two parts—Drama).

Sept. 25—Gloria's Romance, No. 19, "Her Vow Fulfilled" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 2—The Country That God Forgot (Selig—Five parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—The Return of Eve (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

October—World Series Baseball Film (Selig—Topical).

Oct. 30—The Heart of the Hills (Edison—Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—The Prince of Graustark (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 13—The Cossack Whip (Edison—Five parts—Drama).

MORTIMER D. METCALFE.

Oct.—A Reunited Party (Two parts—Topical).

THE MOTION PICTURE FORUM.

Oct. 2—Motion Picture Portrait Studies of President Wilson and His Cabinet—the U. S. Government in Action.

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

Oct. 16—The Common Law (Young Film Corp—Five parts—Drama).

October—The Price She Paid (Drama).

November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.).

WORLD PICTURES.

Oct. 2—The Revolt (Five parts—Dr.).

Oct. 9—The Gilded Cage (Peerless—Five parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—The Hidden Scar (Five parts—Dr.)

Oct. 23—The Scarlet Oath (Five parts—Dr.).

Oct. 30—The Man Who Stood Still (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

GRAFTON PUBLISHING CO.

Oct.—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORPORATION.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

GREAT NORTHERN FILM CO.

Sept.—Pages from Her Life (Five parts—Dr.).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE COR.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).

MONARCH PHOTO-PLAY CO., INC.

October—Common Sense Brackett (Six parts—Drama).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

SUPERIOR FILMS CO.

Sept.—The Faucet (Drama).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Oct. 9—The Lottery Man (Comstock—Drama).

Oct. 9—Yellow Menace, No. 6, "The Torture Chamber" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 9—Some Hero (Comedy).

Oct. 16—The Yellow Menace, No. 7, "Drops of Blood" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—A Scrambled Honeymoon (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 23—The Yellow Menace, No. 8, "The Time Clock" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 30—Tweedledum's Busy Night (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 30—The Yellow Menace, No. 9, "The Time Clock Bomb" (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—The Yellow Menace, No. 10, "A Message from the Sky" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—The Land Just Over Yonder (Six parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—Humanizing Mr. Winsby (Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 13—The Yellow Menace No. 10 "The Half Breed's Hatred" (Two parts—Drama).

Your Ideas

are worthless unless you properly carry them out.

Is it your idea to increase your patronage by showing quality films? If so, do not ruin your chance of success by using inferior projection apparatus. Be consistent—install

The Wagner WHITE LIGHT Converter

It has the indorsement of many high class theatres and the universal indorsement of their patrons. Ask for complete details and Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company,

Saint Louis, Missouri

358

STUDIO FOR RENT

DAY, WEEK OR MONTH

Finest indoor fire-proof studio on the coast. Center of the business district. Equipped with Winfield-Kerner lights. No glare or shadows.

Superior Developing and Printing

Expert and Efficient service.
Titles a Specialty.

CAMERAMEN

We Buy Undeveloped Negative

Subjects which are novel—trick pictures—popular science—popular mechanics—microscopical, etc. Write for particulars.

SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY

ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire Tenth Floor
643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations
Theatres Designed Everywhere
Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

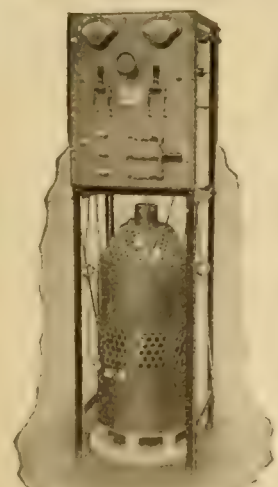
THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.
Archer Avenue and Leo Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

Hill Motor Generator

For Moving Picture Arc Lamps

DELIVERS true direct current from alternating current, producing

STEADY WHITE LIGHT PROJECTION OF TRUE COLOR VALUE, NO FLICKER OR FLARE



And three times the illumination is obtained on a standard screen up to 120 ft. throw as compared to the alternating current arc for the same current.

It is most economical for voltage reduction of direct-current service lines to the 60 volt, required at the arc. It eliminates current wasting resistances, and gives the greatest flexibility for accurate voltage control. The capacity is sufficient for two lamps burning simultaneously and the dissolve is accomplished without a break.

Vertical in form, with base covering 15"x15", it takes up the minimum of space in the booth; and running in ball bearings, it operates noiselessly and without vibration. It is a special machine, designed especially for motion picture work.

Write for information and Booklet M. P.

C & C ELECTRIC & MFG. CO., Garwood, N. J.

New York Philadelphia Boston Chicago
Branches in all Principal Cities 213

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

PUT NEW LIFE

into your interpretation of the moving pictures.

Put New Life into the patrons that visit your theatre. Give them something new.

Put New Life and interest into your own work. Give yourself something new.

HOW?

By using BERG'S INCIDENTAL SERIES.

S. M. BERG
Columbia Theatre Building
New York City.

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

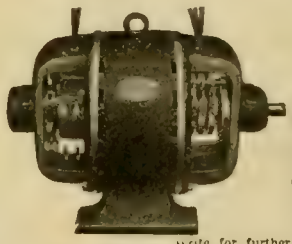
3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,
Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

"MARTIN" ROTARY CONVERTER



FOR REAL SUN-LIT PICTURES

PERFECT REEL DISSOLVING

The voltage of the "MARTIN" polyphase converter is maintained constant, so that the starting of the second arc does not disturb the light given by the first, making the dissolving of the reels as simple as if the arcs were operated in a Direct Current district. Our emergency panel does away with expensive compensarcs and cuts the wiring and installation cost in half.

Write for further information.

NORTHWESTERN ELECTRIC CO.
609 W. Adams St., Chicago 1010 Brokaw Bldg., New York

BOOST YOUR SALES IN CANADA

Use the

BULLETIN

"Canada's Premier Motion Picture Journal"

Sample Copy and Rates Free

106 Richmond Street WEST TORONTO

Perfect Laboratory Results

Are Impossible Without

Perfect Laboratory Equipment

—and it is unpardonable in these days of high class photoplay productions to mar a picture by handling it carelessly after the camera work has been done.

CORCORAN TANKS

are known the country over for the high quality of the work which their superior construction makes possible.

Send for Circular No. 8

A. J. CORCORAN, Inc., 11 John St., New York

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush
of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50

See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....

.....

.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

"The plot may thicken but the picture stays clear."

Because the basic product is right, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Look for the identifying mark stenciled in the margin.

EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

Weickhardt Pipe Organs

(THE UNIT ORGAN)
are built-to-order instruments, wonderful in musical flexibility; in short, GENUINE MASTER PIPE ORGANS. No other instrument, or combination of instruments, can compare with its marvelously effective tones. Let us send you our descriptive catalog.

WANGERIN-WEICKHARDT CO.
112-124 BURRELL STREET
MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN U. S. A.
Eastern Office, 729 Seventh Ave., New York City

RESULTS

ARE NOW DEMANDED

TO SECURE THEM OPERATORS SHOULD SPECIFY

SPEER CARBONS

WHEN PLACING THEIR ORDERS

Trade Mark

SPEER CARBON CO.

DEPT. "W"
St. Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading Motion Picture Supply Dealers, Including the Following

J. H. HALLBERG - - - 727 7th Ave., New York, N.Y.
KLEINE OPTICAL CO. - - - 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO., 74 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga. 1815 Main Street, Dallas, Tex.
E. E. FULTON CO., - - 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO. 813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
G. A. METCALFE - 117 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages.
$2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRRONOID Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRRONOID INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test. Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.
Price, 33 1-3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over
Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME
Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRRONOID, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.
If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRRONOID screen installed.
Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

A Genuine* PIPE ORGAN

can be operated from the simple keyboard of the piano, ORGAN ALONE — PIANO ALONE — OR BOTH TOGETHER. Write for particulars

HARMO PIPE ORGAN COMPANY

133 West 44th Street, NEW YORK — 1423 McCormick Bldg., CHICAGO

G. W. BRADENBURGH

802 VINE STREET PHILADELPHIA, PA.

TITLE.	STAR.	LENGTH. Feet.	CONDITION.	PRICE.
For $5,000 a Year	Louise Huff	5000	New	$200
An American Gentleman	Wm. Borelli	5000	New	150
Sealed Orders	Chas. Mason	7000	As New	175
Hearts United	Wm. Benelli	4000	New	120
A Woman of Impulse	Betty Nansen	4000	New	125
From Gutter to Footlights	Leah Allen	5000	Good	80
Rip Van Winkle	Thos. Jefferson	6000	Good	120
One of Millions	Laura Sawyer	4000	Good (War)	80
Joan of Arc	L. Duse	5000	Good	100
Sapho	L. Borelli	4000	Good	75

All the above are supplied with one, three and six sheets and photos, everything high-class and good value. Single reel dramas and comedies from $3.00 up, all with posters.

Peace Pictures

Beautifully Colored

Also

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

Illustrated Poems

On our own country.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by Violinist, Pianist, Operator, Lantern, etc., for Theatres, Lyceums and Clubs, in or out of town. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd Street, New York

Phone 10306 Chelsea

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30 to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY

8 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
433 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph

Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

If It's Saleable Among Motion Picture People
The Quickest and Easiest Way to Find a Buyer Is to ADVERTISE IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD
Circulation Plus the Confidence and Esteem of Those Among Whom It Circulates Makes the Moving Picture World the Best Advertising "Buy" in Its Field Rates and Detailed Information Cheerfully Sent Upon Request

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL — HIGH Quality

LOW Price and CAST IRON

Opera Chairs

immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.

Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

FLORAL THEATRE DECORATIONS

Give Artistic Atmosphere.

Artificial flowers are practically everlasting and need no care—the effect is the same as natural ones.

Our expert decorators are at your service—ready to give you ideas and estimates.

Write for booklet illustrating and describing our work. It is free to you.

We quote absolutely the lowest prices ever offered on reliable goods.

BOTANICAL DECORATING CO., Dept. 7, 208 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.

Manufacturers of Artificial Flowers and Plants

"All eyes on a line"

FOCO

ADJUSTABLE OPERA CHAIR

Can be changed from adult's chair to child's chair by pressing catch and raising. Write for booklet

Family Opera Chair St. Louis, Mo.

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.

8-11 Tottenham Street, London, W. Eng.

Are You Tired

of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The

Orpheum Collection

contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:

No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.

Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.

CLARENCE E. SINN

1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

OPERA CHAIRS

American Seating Company

1010 Lytton Bldg., Chicago

SALES OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

Reel Scenes

ARE SEEN

In Comfort

FROM

DU PONT FABRIKOID

REG. U. S. PAT. OFF.

Upholstered Seats

CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID is the star material for upholstering theatre seats.

The durability of this handsome leather substitute combined with moderate cost make FABRIKOID preferable to real leather. Years of continuous service has demonstrated its wearing qualities and lasting comfort.

FABRIKOID comes in all grains and colors which good taste and service demands. It can be cleaned with soap and water without injury.

Adopt CRAFTSMAN QUALITY FABRIKOID as your standard upholstery material. Give your patrons comfort and satisfaction as well as the highest guarantee of the sanitary qualities of your house.

Samples on request. Send for yours today

Du Pont Fabrikoid Co.

WILMINGTON, DEL. TORONTO, ONT.

The Highest Price Ever Paid For A Picture!

The management of the Strand Theatre Knows pictures and the PUBLIC

They have topped all previous price records

They have waited for two years for a genuine

War Picture

"KITCHENER'S GREAT ARMY in The Battle of the Somme"

is the first war picture that the Strand has ever shown—

For two weeks this fact will be emblazoned in the brightest part of Broadway—

Is the Strand the only live theatre in America?

ANY STATERIGHTS MAN who isn't dead from the shoulders up, must realize what this means to HIM

SEE THIS—if not in person then by proxy—wire for appointment—
Suite 705, 729 7th Ave.

G. M. BAYNES

General Sales Agent

WARNING!

The following well known and famous titles, taken from Chas. K. Harris's world renowned song successes, have been made into photoplay scenarios—five reels and over—by Mr. Harris, copyrighted throughout the world, and produced; these feature motion picture plays will be recognized as ones that have more than "made good" and are being shown with success at the present time.

AFTER THE BALL
HEARTS OF MEN
WHEN IT STRIKES HOME
ALWAYS IN THE WAY
SHOULD A BABY DIE

The following famous song titles have also been placed in scenario form and copyrighted, although they have not yet been produced:

BREAK THE NEWS TO MOTHER FOR OLD TIME'S SAKE
JUST BEHIND THE TIMES
SOMEWHERE
WOULD YOU CARE?
I'VE A LONGING IN MY HEART FOR YOU
'MID THE GREEN FIELDS OF VIRGINIA
HELLO CENTRAL, GIVE ME HEAVEN
BETTER THAN GOLD
CAST ASIDE
ONE NIGHT IN JUNE
FALLEN BY THE WAYSIDE
FOR SALE, A BABY
I'M TRYING SO HARD TO FORGET YOU
IN THE CITY WHERE NOBODY CARES WAS I A FOOL
KISS, AND LET'S MAKE UP
THERE'LL COME A TIME
WHILE THE DANCE GOES ON A RABBI'S DAUGHTER
ALL FOR THE LOVE OF A GIRL
THE STORY OF A SOUL

Also the following original plays from the pen of Chas. K. Harris:

THE LUCKIEST MAN IN THE WORLD
THE BARKER
A LIMB OF THE TREE
IT NEVER RAINS BUT WHAT IT POURS
THE GIRL FROM TENNESSEE
A ROMANCE OF A WEEK
A WOMAN OF TODAY
THE GIRL WHO FORGOT
HUMAN NATURE
IDLE GOSSIP
LIGHT O' LOVE
BROKEN CHAINS OF LOVE
PLAYING WITH FIRE
FOR THE SAKE OF HER SOUL
DOWN THE PRIMROSE PATH
THE END OF THE CHAPTER WAS SHE A THIEF?
THE DREGS OF LIFE'S CUP
THE SACRIFICE
THE AWAKENING
THE DARLING OF BROADWAY
WHAT WOULD YOU DO?
THE RECORDING ANGEL
WOULD YOU FORGIVE?
THE WAY OF THE WORLD
WHEN THE HEART CALLS
WANDER-LUST
WHO'S TO BLAME?
FOOLS IN BOHEMIA
SHOULD A GIRL BE TOLD?

The Censors throughout the United States have accepted the five pictures that have been made, of Mr. Harris's famous scenarios, and never has one scene been cut, or omitted. They have always stood as written and produced.

The above scenarios are the kind that the American people are looking for—clean and wholesome—and at the same time, with strong, human situations—each and every one taken from life, and on some popular subject of the day. Pure, clean, heart stories, making photoplays to which you can take your wife and children, and feel safe.

Such are the above plays and scenarios which are fully protected.

Chas. K. Harris
Columbia Theatre Building
47th Street and Broadway
New York City

ADOLPH H. ROSENFELD
80 Maiden Lane · Counsellor
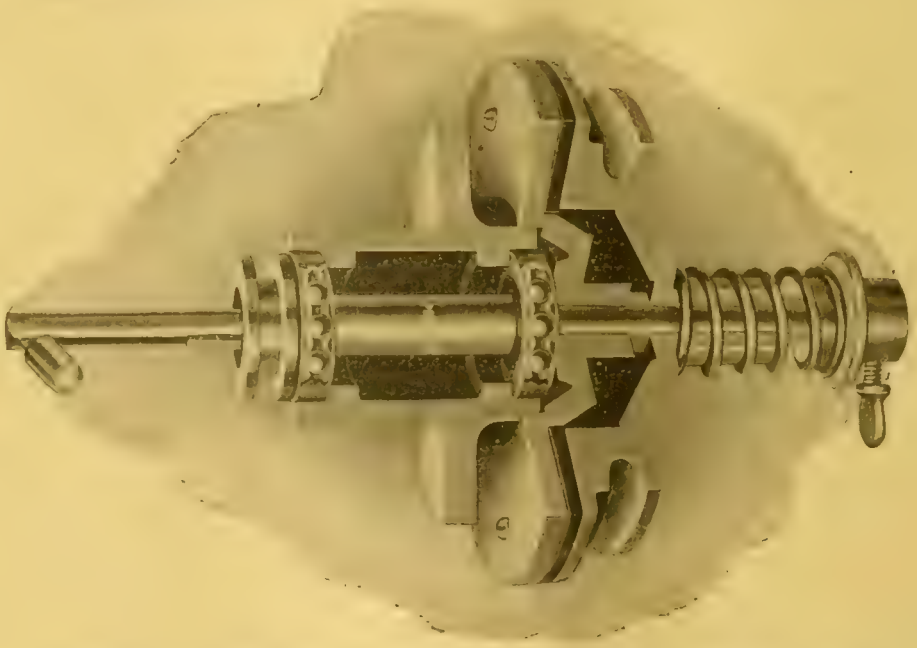
New York City

NPCo

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

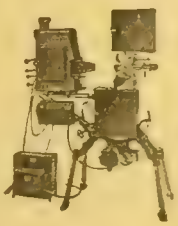
ANOTHER POWER'S ACHIEVEMENT

A DEVICE GUARANTEED TO "TAKE-UP" 3,000 FEET OF FILM, MAINTAINING AN EASY AND EVEN TENSION THROUGHOUT.



SIMPLE, EFFECTIVE, CONSISTING OF FEW PARTS AND OPERATING ON BALL BEARINGS, IT REQUIRES ABSOLUTELY NO ATTENTION.

EXAMINE IT IN OPERATION ON POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH NO. 6B.



CATALOG G
Mailed Upon Request

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY
NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK

Vol. 30, No. 6 November 11, 1916 Price 15 Cents

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "The Crimson Stain Mystery" (Consolidated).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

THANHOUSER-MADE
PATHÉ GOLD ROOSTER PLAYS

VALKYRIEN

JEANNE EAGELS

NOVEMBER RELEASES

VALKYRIEN (Pathé-Thanhouser) in "HIDDEN VALLEY"

JEANNE EAGELS in "THE WORLD AND WOMAN"

with other Thanhouser Favorites, Featuring

FLORENCE LA BADIE FREDERICK WARDE CHARLOTTE WALKER

GLADYS HULETTE VIOLA DANA WARREN KERRIGAN

THANHOUSER FILM CORPORATION

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. Edwin Thanhouser Pres. JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

EUROPEAN OFFICE, THANHOUSER FILMS Ltd. 166 SHAFTESBURY AVE., LONDON.

TODAY
THE FIRST
Essanay-Chaplin
Revue of 1916
IN 5 ACTS
GENERAL FILM SERVICE
ESSANAY
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

RED FEATHER
PHOTOPLAYS
ANNOUNCING
"The Devil's Bondwoman"
The story of an evil purpose and a strange retribution
With Dorothy Davenport and Emory Johnston
Directed by LLOYD B. CARLETON
BOOK THROUGH ANY UNIVERSAL EXCHANGE

ANOTHER
L-KO Komedy
SMASH

"Where Is My Wife?"

WITH BILLIE RITCHIE

One right after the other—L-KO smashes come in rapid succession. The latest release, "WHERE IS MY WIFE?" is a side splitter. From the first flicker to the last it's an uproar. "WHERE IS MY WIFE?" is simply another one of the popularity producers, profit makers and house packers. Book it. Advertise it. Go to it strong. It's the kind of a comedy that makes the crowds come back for more and more and then some more. That's the very good reason why—

L-KO's are packing 'em in in hundreds of theatres all over this country and abroad. You simply can't hold L-KO'S back. They are sweeping the field with an irresistible force. Just a few of the releases that will also pack 'em in for Exhibitors are these—"Crooked from the Start"—"Cold Hearts and Hot Flames"—

"A Surgeon's Revenge"—"Tillie's Terrible Tumble"—"A Rural Romance"—"Terrors of a Turkish Bath"—"A Mid-Air Mixup"—"Alice in Society"—"Unhand Me, Villain"—"Lizzie's Lingering Love"—"Temper-Mental Mother-in-Law"—"Where Is My Husband?"—"The Right Car But the Wrong Berth"—"Pirates of the Air"—"Where Is My Wife?"—and more coming. WATCH FOR the coming L-KO with Alice Howell in a convulsion producer extraordinary. Book L-KO's thru any of the 73 Universal Exchanges.

L-KO KOMEDY COMPANY

JULIUS STERN, President

6140 Sunset Blvd., Hollywood, Cal.

Eastern Offices, 1600 Broadway, New York City

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

Another WORLD Triumph

Please accept my heartiest congratulations on the splendid picture you have made of "Bought and Paid For." The central story is directly and dramatically told and the comedy element is admirably handled.

I can see no reason whatever why your picture should not equal the success of the play itself both in this country and abroad.

George Broadhurst

Released Nov. 13th. with ALICE BRADY as the Star

Reviews forcast tremendous success for "The Man Who Stood Still"

DRAMATIC MIRROR
October 28th

There is plenty of humanity in it, which is well brought out in the excellent acting and the direction. Lew Fields plays the title-role with sincerity, and there are just enough humorous touches in his characterization to make the old jeweler most lovable and human. Doris Kenyon has the part of the daughter, and is appealing in the various vicissitudes of fortune that fall to her lot.

MOTION PICTURE NEWS
November 4th

The picture version of Jules Eckert Goodman's play follows the original very closely, and for that reason alone it becomes an interesting and entertaining offering. In addition to this, it contains two big stars in the leading roles: Lew Fields and Doris Kenyon, and it is hard to tell which pleases the most. Considered from the box office standpoint, this is a picture on which the exhibitor can go the limit on advertising and general methods of exploitation.

MOTION PICTURE MAIL
October 21st

Placed on the Honor Roll for the week's pictures Of all the pictures we have seen not one has a stronger appeal than "The Man Who Stood Still" For the qualities which make up drawing power, we have rarely seen a picture to surpass this.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
November 4th

The author has handled his theme with real feeling and sound judgment, and the human quality of his work insures it a wide appeal. Mr. Fields is able to put over his points clearly, without undue effort.

SUNDAY TELEGRAPH
October 22nd

Here is a friendship; a homely and beautiful one spread upon the screen so that it hits you between the eyes. Here is plot. What do you wish? Here is life.

Lew Fields & Doris Kenyon—Supreme Acting

WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents

ROBERT WARWICK and GAIL KANE in

"The Heart of a Hero"

(IN SIX PARTS)

A Visualization of the life of Nathan Hale, founded on the play "Nathan Hale" by CLYDE FITCH

Directed by EMILE CHAUTARD

SELZNICK PICTURES

SEE WHAT SELZNICK-PICTURES MEAN TO THE EXHIBITOR !

SAN FRANCISCO, CAL.

LEWIS J. SELZNICK

NEW YORK

THE COMMON LAW OPENED A TWO WEEKS ENGAGEMENT AT PORTOLA THEATRE TODAY TO CAPACITY BUSINESS AT INCREASED ADMISSION PRICES. THOUSANDS CROWDED LOBBY ALL DAY NECESSITATING MIDNIGHT MATINEE. EVEN THEN THOUSANDS TURNED AWAY. EIGHT FULL SHOWS TODAY. THEATRE MANAGEMENT ENTHUSIASTIC OVER CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG AND SELZNICK'S TRIUMPH

SOL. L. LESSER

SEATTLE, WASH.

LEWIS J SELZNICK ENTERPRISES

NEW YORK NY

COMMON LAW BROKE ALL RECORDS IN PORTLAND LAST WEEK AND OPENED UP YESTERDAY AT APOLLO TACOMA AND CLEMMER THEATRE SEATTLE THEY HAD THEM STANDING OUT ON THE STREET FROM TWO IN THE AFTERNOON UNTIL THE LAST SHOW AM SENDING YOU FLASHLIGHTS OF THE WAITING CROWD

M ROSENBERG

DELUXE FEATURE FILM CO.

CLEVELAND, O.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG FILM CORPN

NEW YORK, N. Y.

COMMON LAW OPENED YESTERDAY TO CAPACITY BUSINESS. THE LARGE ATTENDANCE COMPELLED US TO RUN AN EXTRA PERFORMANCE. THE ADVANCE SALE OF RESERVED SEATS INDICATES A RECORD WEEK. PICTURE RECEIVES EXCELLENT COMMENT FROM PRESS AND PUBLIC. ACCEPT OUR CONGRATULATIONS

THE STILLMAN THEATRE CO

CLEVELAND, O.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG FILM CORPN.

NEW YORK

PLAYING COMMON LAW SECOND WEEK SHOWING IN CLEVELAND FOLLOWING STILLMAN, BUSINESS GRATIFYING AND BETTER THAN ALL ELSE PLEASED PATRONS. COMMENTS WONDERFUL. CONTINUE TO GIVE US BOX OFFICE ATTRACTIONS LIKE THE COMMON LAW AND WE ARE SATISFIED AND YOUR SUCCESS IS ASSURED.

METROPOLITAN THEATRE CO

A L FREEMAN GENERAL MANAGER

1154 AM

ST LOUIS MO.

MIDWEST PHOTOPLAY CORPN.

KASCITY MO.

ON FIRST NIGHTS SHOWING OF COMMON LAW OUR THEATRE WAS PACKED JAMMED AND HOLDING THEM OUT AT 25 CENTS ADMISSION BEFORE WE KNEW IT FOUND IT NECESSARY TO STOP SALE OF TICKETS LOOKS LIKE LONG RUN ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCES DECLARE COMMON LAW GREAT PRODUCTION WITH CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

SIEVERS NEW GRAND CENTRAL

DES MOINES IA.

LEWIS J SELZNICK

NEW YORK, NY

THE WONDERFUL SUCCESS AT THE SHOWING OF CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IN ST LOUIS KANSAS CITY OMAHA AND DES MOINES EXCEEDED ALL EXPECTATIONS. CONTINUE TO GIVE US AS GOOD PRODUCTIONS AS COMMON LAW AND YOUR SUCCESS IS ASSURED NEW GRAND CENTRAL ST LOUIS STOPPED SELLING TICKETS AT EIGHT OCLOCK ON OPENING NIGHT UNABLE TO TAKE CARE OF ENORMOUS CROWDS

A. H. BLANK

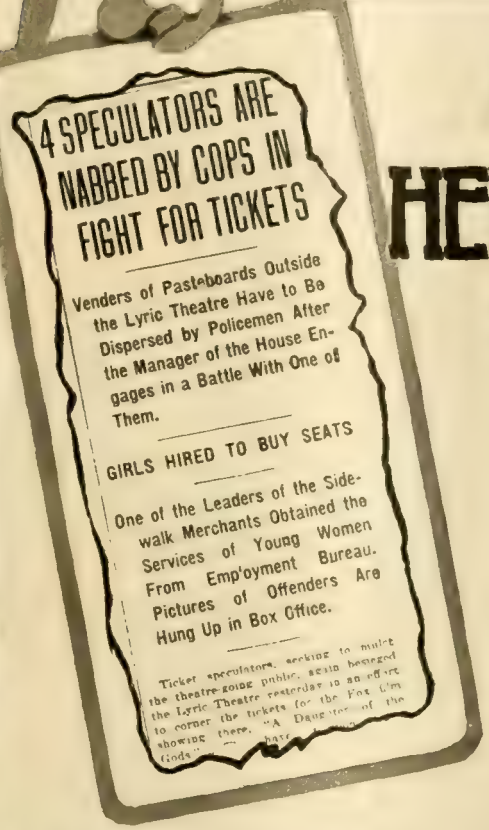
CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG'S

NEXT PRODUCTION

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN" By Thomas Dixon

ALBERT CAPELLANI DIRECTOR GENERAL

SELZNICK PICTURES



4 SPECULATORS ARE NABBED BY COPS IN FIGHT FOR TICKETS

Venders of Pasteboards Outside the Lyric Theatre Have to Be Dispersed by Policemen After the Manager of the House Engages in a Battle With One of Them.

GIRLS HIRED TO BUY SEATS

One of the Leaders of the Sidewalk Merchants Obtained the Services of Young Women From Emp'oyment Bureau. Pictures of Offenders Are Hung Up in Box Office.

Ticker speculators, seeking to mulct the theatre-going public, again besieged the Lyric Theatre yesterday in an effort to corner the tickets for the Fox film showing there. "A Daughter of the Gods."

HERE IS MORE EVIDENCE FOR MOTION PICTURE EXHIBITORS THAT

HERBERT BRENON

ALWAYS PRODUCES BOX OFFICE SUCCESSES—

Successes That Bring The Speculators

Productions That Bring Police Details to Handle The Crowds In The Ticket Line

HERBERT BRENON'S FIRST SELZNICK-PICTURE IS THE BIGGEST PRODUCTION HE HAS EVER MADE NAZIMOVA

in

"WAR BRIDES"

BY MARION CRAIG WENTWORTH

IS NOW READY FOR RELEASE

BACKED BY A TREMENDOUS PUBLICITY CAMPAIGN IN EVERY PART OF THE NATION

LEWIS J. SELZNICK-SOLE DISTRIBUTOR

NEW YORK

SELZNICK PICTURES

NORMA TALMADGE

IN A STUNNING DRAMA
"PANTHEA"
WILL BE A
SELZNICK-PICTURE RELEASE FOR DECEMBER

Produced Under
The Direction of ALLAN DWAN

PRESENTED BY JOSEPH M
SCHENCK

LEWIS J. SELZNICK-SOLE DISTRIBUTOR
NEW YORK

Released on the Metro Program, November 13.

B.A.ROLFE
presents
WONDERFUL EMILY
STEVENS
IN THE WAGER
A Five Act
METRO wonderplay written and directed by George D. Baker for Rolfe Photoplays Inc. and offered as an extraordinary entertainment.

The Season's Sensation

Critics and Public declare

METRO'S

special production de Luxe

Romeo and Juliet

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN

Crowned King of the Screen

AND BEVERLY BAYNE

Queen of Motion Pictures is the greatest motion picture in the history of the art

The

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

invites exhibitors and the public to compare and contrast this production in Eight Acts with any other

$250,000

METRO PICTURES

A HERITAGE OF SHAME-
A mother's sacrifice on her death bed brings reconciliation with the daughter she scarcely knew—in the
WILLIAM FOX
PHOTOPLAY
Sins of Her Parent with GLADYS BROCKWELL
WRITTEN BY THOMAS FORMAN
DIRECTED BY FRANK LLOYD
FOX FILM CORPORATION

Some Territory Left

for the most praised photo play production in years

BOOTH TARKINGTON'S

"THE CONQUEST OF CANAAN"

WITH

EDITH TALIAFERRO

AND

JACK SHERRILL

SUPPORTED BY

RALPH DELMORE MARIE EDITH WELLS
WALTER HEIRS GENE LA MOTTE
BEN HENDRICKS JACK HOPKINS and 2,000 others

NOTE

1850 inquiries received from exhibitors.

Praised by almost every film producer in the East.

Recommended as a business builder for every exhibitor by all trades papers.

This and all other Frohman Productions are to be disposed of on State Right Basis

ADDRESS

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

18 East 41st Street New York City

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, President

Two Mighty Spectacles

HAVE BEEN PRODUCED

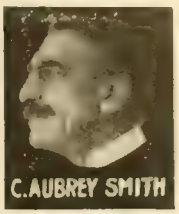
They are "THE BIRTH OF A NATION" and "INTOLERANCE"

BUT!

Never in the history of the theatre world, has so mighty a drama been created

Nothing ever conceived for the screen or stage, compares in intenseness, superb acting, powerful situations, colossal moments, mastodonic climaxes and tremendous story, with AUGUSTUS THOMAS'

"THE WITCHING HOUR"



C. AUBREY SMITH

MARIE SHOTWELL

JACK SHERRILL

HELEN ARNOLD

ROBERT CONNESS

ETTA DE GROFF

Seven Reels

of the Most Startlingly Realistic Dramatic Action Ever Shown!

2721 Superb Scenes
1000 Thrilling Moments
25 Well Known Stage and Screen Players
The Most Powerful Story Ever Written

TO BE DISPOSED OF ON STATE RIGHTS BASIS

Preference given to purchasers of former FROHMAN productions

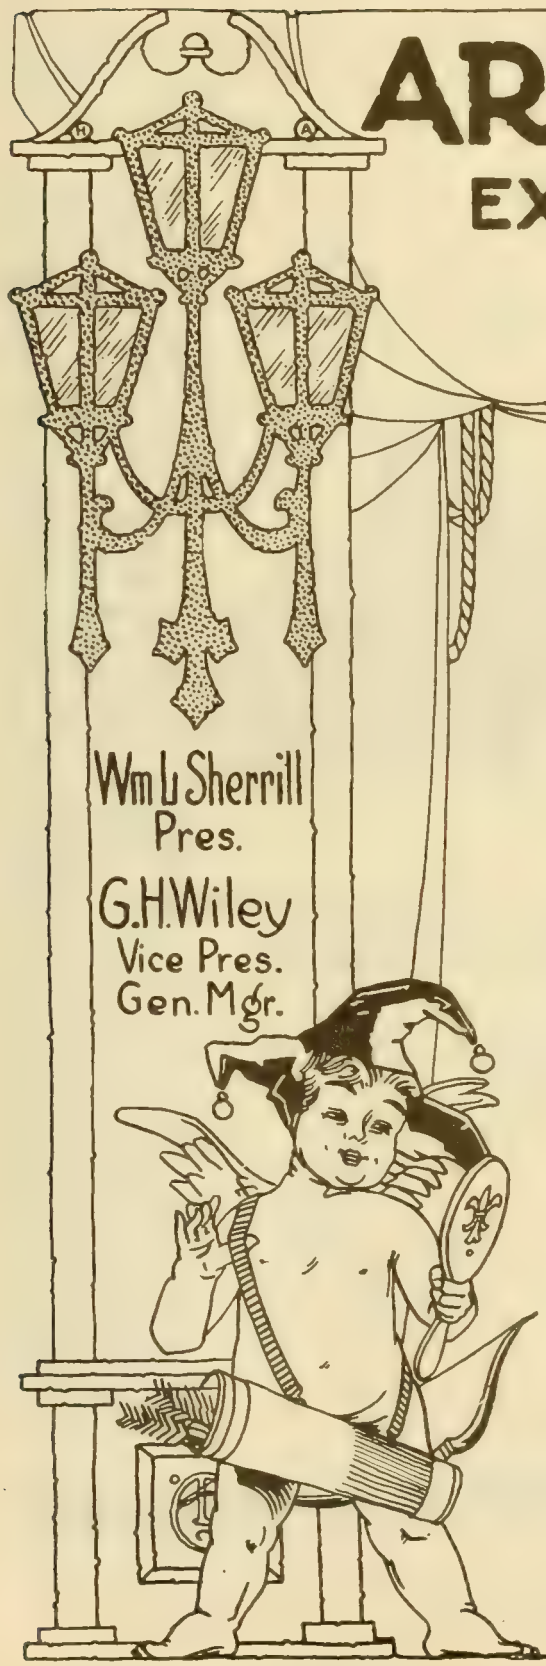
FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORPORATION

18 East 41st Street New York City

WILLIAM L. SHERRILL, President

ART DRAMAS

EXECUTIVE OFFICES



Out of the chaotic, wasteful conditions of the past and present, a new organization is born, with a sane, waste-eliminating, business-like policy of high-grade production.

Art Dramas, Inc., announces the association of five producing organizations of sterling standard, for the production and distribution of seat-filling feature pictures.

Fifty-two pictures a year are to be released—one each week. The productions will feature none of the so-called "stars" whose ruinous salaries make profits prohibitive, nor will they be made by directors whose sole aim it is to spend more money on a production than it can legitimately earn.

Art Dramas features will be well-rounded picturizations of strong and well-known stories, dominated by action and acted by players whose past work has been of an excellent standard. They will be satisfying, patron-gaining entertainments. This we promise you; and our names guarantee it.

The Art Dramas producers will distribute their pictures directly through the foremost independent exchanges everywhere. There will be no tremendous waste in distribution, as has been the case heretofore. The middleman's charge of from 15% to 30%, which has always been added to the rental price of a picture, will be entirely eliminated.

FIRST RELEASE

INCORPORATED

116 WEST 39th ST.

The benefit of the savings which the Art Dramas producers will effect by their sane, common-sense methods of manufacture and distribution will go to the exhibitor. He will get excellent pictures on the Art Dramas program, at a price that will enable him to make a good profit.

WM. L. SHERRILL FEATURE CORPORATION
Wm. Sherrill, President.

U. S. AMUSEMENT CORPORATION,
Herbert Blache, President.

ERBOGRAPH COMPANY,
Ludwig G. B. Erb, President.

VAN DYKE FILM PRODUCTION CO.,
G. H. Wiley, Vice-Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

VARIETY PICTURES CORPORATION,
Louis Rosenbluh, President.

ART DRAMAS PICTURES WILL BE DISTRIBUTED BY

Variety Films Corporation, 126 W. 46th Street, New York.
Electric Theatre Supply Co., 13th and Vine Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
Art Dramas Service, Mallers Bldg, Chicago, Ill.
Art Dramas, Inc., 100 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass.
Liberty Film Renting Co., 934 Penn Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
Art Dramas, Inc., 75 Broadway, Detroit, Mich.
Deluxe Film Lasky Corp., Humboldt Bldg., San Francisco, Cal.
Deluxe Film Lasky Corp., Los Angeles, Cal.

Distributors of Art Dramas pictures in Kansas City, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Dallas and Seattle will be announced shortly.

ABOUT NOVEMBER 27

Herbert Blaché
Secretary
Treasurer

NEW YORK EXHIBITORS YOU CAN NOW BOOK

The Biggest Cinema Spectacle Ever Produced

BROADWAY'S UNPARALLELED SUCCESS

THOS H. INCE'S

THE GREATEST CINEMA SPECTACLE IN THE WORLD.

THE MASTER WORK OF A MASTER MIND

CIVILIZATION

STILL STANDS SUPREME

THIS MARVELOUS PRODUCTION IS NOW OWNED, CONTROLLED AND BOOKED BY

THE CIVILIZATION FEATURE CO.

(NATHAN HIRSH, General Manager)

130 West 46th Street, NEW YORK CITY

For Bookings in GREATER NEW YORK, LONG ISLAND and WESTCHESTER, apply as above.

The Earning Power of This Wonderful Spectacle Is Unlimited. It Always Plays to Capacity.

FORTUNES

ARE BEING MADE WITH

CIVILIZATION

The Road to Wealth is Easy to Travel When You Use the Right Vehicle

The FARMER travels on The Harvester Company's INVENTIONS

The BUSINESS MAN travels on the National Cash Register's SYSTEM

The MANUFACTURER travels on established Salesmanship METHODS

The FILM MAGNATE travels on the Creative and Inventive GENIUS of Master Producers—An Infallible Rule.

THOS. H. INCE

Is Our Creative and Inventive Genius—Our Master Producer

And His $1,000,000 Cinema Spectacle

CIVILIZATION

Is Our Vehicle — — — It May Be Yours

A FEW TERRITORIES ARE STILL AVAILABLE, Viz.:

Missouri, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Nebraska, the Southern States, Michigan and Indiana.

INQUIRE AT ONCE—THEN INVESTIGATE AND BUY

Fortunes are being made out of CIVILIZATION---Because it has:

The WIDEST Human APPEAL
The QUICKEST Box Office EFFECT
The SUREST Money Making QUALITY
The STRONGEST Drawing POWER

It is the Safest Proposition Ever Offered in the Motion Picture Business

HARPER FILM CORPORATION

J. PARKER READ, Jr., General Manager

Executive Offices, Times Bldg., New York

B.S.MOSS

729 SEVENTH AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY

Presents EUGENE WALTER'S FAMOUS STAGE PLAY

BOOTS & SADDLES

Featuring R. HENRY GREY and an All Star Cast

A Virile, Gripping Story of Love and Intrigue

A Strong Man's Love Is Tried and His Patriotism Tested by a Series of Events That Make a Story That Is Live In Its Action—Unique In Its Interest.

By The Author of "The Easiest Way"
"Paid In Full," "Fine Feathers," etc.

State Right Men:

If your territory is not taken we have a particularly good proposition to make you.

Exchanges

New England States
Kriterion Company of Boston, Boston, Mass.

Northern New Jersey
R. S. Clark, Proctor Palace Theatre Bldg., Newark, N. J.

Eastern Penn., Md., D. C., Delaware, Virginia.
Electric Theatre Supply Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Ohio, Kentucky, Michigan
Standard Film Service Co., Cleveland, Cincinnati, Detroit.

Illinois and Indiana
Jones, Linnick & Schaefer, 110 So. State St., Chicago.

Missouri, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa
Federal Film Corp., Omaha and Kansas City, Mo.

Minnesota, N. and S. Dakota
Sherman & Elliot, 814 Produce Exchange Bldg., Minneapolis.

Australia and New Zealand
Cooperative Film Exchange, Ltd., 729 Seventh Ave., New York City.

Texas, Okla., Louisiana, Arkansas.
Central Film Service, Waco, Texas.

Great Britain and The Continent
Kinematograph Film Co. London, England.

MOSS FILMS

MOSS FILMS

BLUEBIRD Photo Plays present an Unusual Romantic
Photo Play "A Stranger from Somewhere" with Franklyn Farnum
Agnes Vernon, Claire
McDowell, and a Strong Supporting Cast. Directed by William Worthington

BLUEBIRD
PHOTO PLAYS INC

The now famous BLUEBIRD policy—"The Play's the Thing," is more than just to the illustrious stars that shine in its famous productions. Heretofore the star has been at the mercy of producer, director, "business policy," or of whatever play the scenario department had on hand, regardless of its suitbaility.

BLUEBIRD has changed all that. The production of a BLUEBIRD Photoplay begins with the selection of a strong drama. Then the cast is chosen and if a certain star fits a certain part, that star is chosen for that part. Frequently BLUEBIRDS are produced with an all-star cast; not for the purpose of boosting the stars as such, but to give the play the best cast that experienced judgment and unlimited resources can command.

Thus, while the BLUEBIRD policy insists upon the primary importance of the play, yet BLUEBIRD plays are presented by some of the greatest stars in moving pictures; stars whose salaries are higher, whose ability, popularity and fame are far, far beyond the average star in the average feature. Further the BLUEBIRD policy enables its stars to do the best work of their careers, and perfect entertainment is the result.

These facts are being told to over ten million people week after week in large advertisements in the Saturday Evening Post. Increased attendance at all BLUEBIRD theatres is the result. You can get your share by booking BLUEBIRD Photoplays.

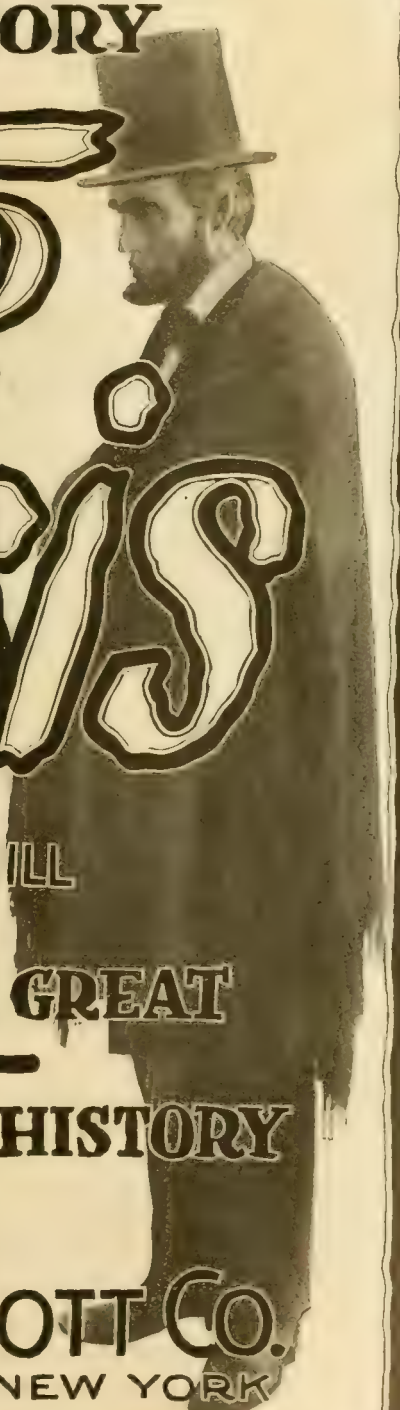
Book through your local BLUEBIRD Exchange or Executive Offices

BLUEBIRD Photoplays, (Inc.)

1600 Broadway, New York

AMERICA'S GREATEST AMERICAN STORY

The Crisis



BY

WINSTON CHURCHILL

PRESENTING THE GREAT
— CRISIS —
IN OUR NATIONAL HISTORY

SHERMAN-ELLIOTT CO.

220 WEST 42ND STREET · · NEW YORK

"AMERICA'S SWEETHEART"

ARTCRAFT PICTURES

Mary Pickford

in

"LESS THAN THE DUST"

WILL PROVE ABSOLUTELY THE BANNED BOX-OFFICE ATTRACTION OF THE YEAR.

THIS IS THE FIRST SUPERIOR PRODUCTION MADE BY HER OWN COMPANY - IF YOU HAVE NOT BOOKED IT WATCH YOUR PATRONS GO TO YOUR COMPETITOR'S THEATRE.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

729 SEVENTH AVENUE · NEW YORK

ARTCRAFT PICTURES
SCENES FROM
"LESS THAN THE DUST"
RELEASED NOVEMBER 6TH.

Unicorn Films

YOU KNOW PICTURES
BUT
WHETHER YOU KNOW OR NOT UNICORN
KNOWS FOR YOU

COMING!
BILLY WEST
THE DIFFERENT COMEDIAN
IN A SERIES OF
TWO REEL SCREAMS

ONE, TWO AND THREE REEL DRAMAS
COMEDIES THAT ARE FUNNY
WESTERN SCREEN PLAYS WHICH ARE CLASSICS.

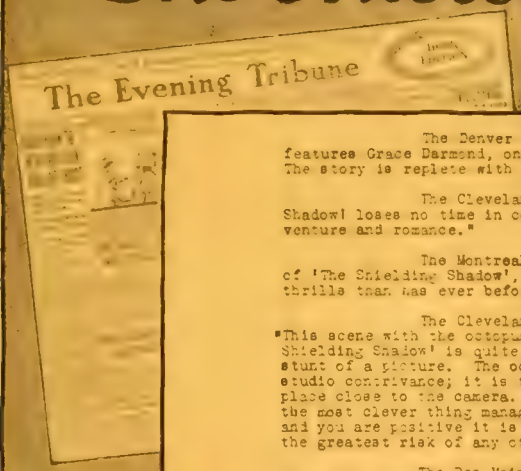
TWENTY-ONE
REELS PER WEEK

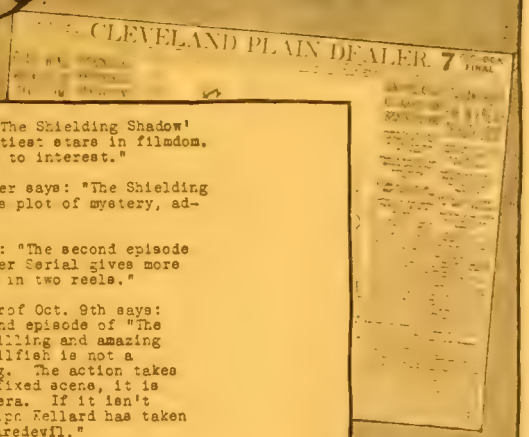
EXECUTIVE OFFICES, 126-130 WEST FORTY-SIXTH ST., NEW YORK CITY
BRANCHES IN TWENTY-EIGHT PRINCIPAL CITIES OF U.S.A.
IKE SCHLANK, PRESIDENT

"More thrills than have ever before been given in two reels!"

Read what prominent newspapers say of Pathé's Greatest Serial

The Shielding Shadow





The Denver News says: "'The Shielding Shadow' features Grace Darmond, one of the prettiest stars in filmdom. The story is replete with thrills bound to interest."

The Cleveland Plain Dealer says: "The Shielding Shadow! loses no time in controlling its plot of mystery, adventure and romance."

The Montreal Herald says: "The second episode of 'The Shielding Shadow', Pathe's Master Serial gives more thrills than has ever before been given in two reels."

The Cleveland Plain Dealerof Oct. 9th says: "This scene with the octopus in the second episode of "The Shielding Shadow' is quite the most thrilling and amazing stunt of a picture. The octopus or devilfish is not a studio contrivance; it is the real thing. The action takes place close to the camera. If it is a fixed scene, it is the most clever thing managed for a camera. If it isn't and you are positive it is not, then Ralph Kellard has taken the greatest risk of any other screen daredevil."

The Des Moines Tribune of Oct. 4th says: "You will find yourself truly interested in "The Shielding Shadow" without being spellbound by bloodshed and mystery. The cast is fine, the settings are superb and the story so far seems to be one that will grow on one. This new serial is one that you will like for many reasons.1.Pathe has been putting serials out so long that they have been able to guage the public's desire to a nicety. 2. They have gone about "The Shielding Shadow" with the idea of producing the best serial they have ever put out, and to do this, they have employed a fine cast, placed them in the most elaborate setting and the task of telling a real story in the very best manner possible."

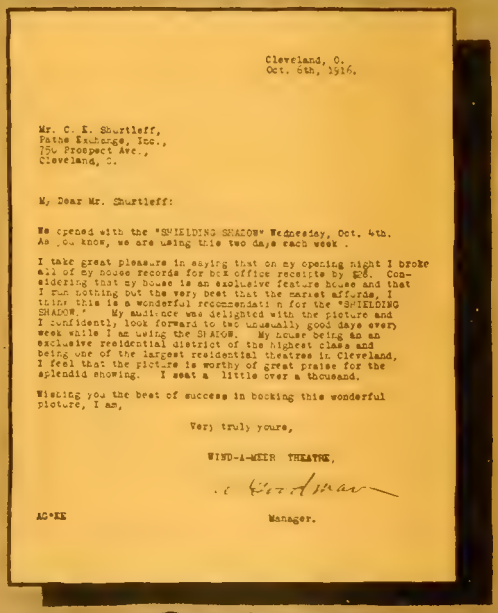
Produced by ASTRA under the direction of Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

Pathé

A. Goodman

The Shielding Shadow

Breaks Box Office Records



Cleveland, O.
Oct. 6th, 1916.

Mr. C. K. Shurtleff,
Pathe Exchange, Inc.,
754 Prospect Ave.,
Cleveland, O.

My Dear Mr. Shurtleff:

We opened with the "SHIELDING SHADOW" Wednesday, Oct. 4th. As you know, we are using this two days each week.

I take great pleasure in saying that on my opening night I broke all of my house records for box office receipts by $68. Considering that my house is an exclusive feature house and that I run nothing but the very best that the market affords, I think this is a wonderful recommendation for the "SHIELDING SHADOW." My audience was delighted with the picture and I confidently look forward to two unusually good days every week while I am using the SHADOW. My house being an exclusive residential district of the highest class and being one of the largest residential theatres in Cleveland, I feel that the picture is worthy of great praise for the splendid showing. I seat a little over a thousand.

Wishing you the best of success in booking this wonderful picture, I am,

Very truly yours,

WIND-A-MERE THEATRE,

A. Goodman

AG:KE Manager.

Produced by ASTRA

under the direction of

Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

Book it to-day

PATHÉ

Pathé

"LITTLE MARY SUNSHINE"

(Baby Marie Osborne)

IS BACK AGAIN!

The world's most charming and talented baby stars delightfully in

SHADOWS AND SUNSHINE

A five part Gold Rooster Play

Produced by Balboa

Her first picture, "Little Mary Sunshine" played to enormous business. This one will do even better!

Released Nov. 12

Recent and forthcoming Gold Rooster Plays:
"The Light That Failed" Oct 15 — "The Hidden Valley" Nov 5
"Prudence the Pirate" Oct 22 — "The World and the Woman" Nov 19
"The Sultana" Oct. 29

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS

More than a little different-costumes that will please your audiences. Beautiful pictures that will bring you business. Try them-you'll like them.

PATHÉ

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

A new thing in films a series of seven five-reel features each complete in itself

McCLURE PICTURES

McCLURE PICTURES

TRIANGLE

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOVEMBER 5

Bessie Barriscale in "A Corner in Colleens"

Kay Bee

YOU and your patrons will be amused—and delighted—when you see Bessie Barriscale try to impersonate a man in "A Corner in Colleens," her latest TRIANGLE PLAY.

Never did a daintier bit of femininity try to wear trousers, and the comedy of the whole situation is immense.

In fact the entire play is just one big rollicking piece of fun and frolic throughout—the story of a bright, happy, Irish maid, who plays all manner of jokes on her ardent lover. She never gives him a moment's peace, and your patrons won't have a moment to take your eye from the screen.

Dorothy Gish in "Atta Boy's Last Race"

Fine Arts

EVERYBODY loves a snappy racing tale—an exciting picture of adventure on the turf—and when this is coupled with a pretty love story it's a combination that can't be beaten.

"Atta Boy's Last Race," the latest TRIANGLE offering with Dorothy Gish as the star, is a rushing, exciting racing story and its expectations are more than lived up to. There's the "peppy" little jockey, the sweetheart who hated racing, and the villain. Then there's the real horse race that makes the boy's fortune and a corking climax.

Keystone Comedies

Then, too, there are two tearing half miles of Keystone fun and frolic

FAMOUS PLAYERS . LASKY
MOROSCO . AND . PALLAS not only make PARAMOUNT
paramount, but will keep PARA-
MOUNT paramount

THE PLAYS BEHIND THE STARS—AND THE SERVICE BEHIND BOTH

PARAMOUNT PICTURES first win an Exhibitor by the sheer weight of their plays and stars. They permanently win him by a service that looks after his interests, beginning with effective publicity and ending with the pledge that his territory will be protected.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE AT FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED MONDAY, OCTOBER 30th

JESSE L. LASKY

PRESENTS

SESSUE HAYAKAWA

AND

MYRTLE STEDMAN

IN

THE SOUL OF KURA-SAN

PRODUCED BY

JESSE L. LASKY FEATURE PLAY CO.

JESSE L. LASKY, President — ARTHUR S. FRIEND, Treasurer — CECIL B. DeMILLE, General Director

Canadian Distributors, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Calgary, Toronto and Montreal

Released by
Paramount Pictures Corporation

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2nd

DANIEL FROHMAN

PRESENTS

JACK PICKFORD

AND

LOUISE HUFF

IN

SEVENTEEN

A picturization of Booth Tarkington's humorous masterpiece.

PRODUCED BY

FAMOUS PLAYERS FILM CO.

ADOLPH ZUKOR, President

Special notice for this production may be obtained at your exchange
Canadian Distributor, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY

A TROUBLESOME TRIP

is the name of the newest one-reel roar

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY

Released by Paramount
Monday, October 30th

Produced by

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

WILKES-BARRE, PA.

J. O. WALSH, Pres. F. W. HERMANN, Vice-Pres.
D. L. HART, Treas.

RELEASED BY

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST
NEW YORK, N.Y.

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

NOVEMBER 11, 1916

Margarita Fischer Series Is Latest Mutual Offering

THE first of the Margarita Fischer Series of Mutual Star Productions has just been released. "The Pearl of Paradise" has been warmly welcomed by exhibitors. Many of them recall the big business they did with such former Mutual productions as "The Miracle of Life," "Infatuation," "The Quest," "The Girl From His Town," and others. Miss Fischer was the star of all these pictures. And now Miss Fischer is again back with Mutual. Her return is signalized by the release of "The Pearl of Paradise." But this is only the first of the Fischer Series. There are many others to come.

On November 30, the second Margarita Fischer picture will be released. It is another Mutual Star Production made by the Pollard Picture Plays Company and bears the title "Miss Jackie of the Navy." In it Miss Fischer appears as a jolly little tar and gets herself into all sorts of trouble. A charming love story runs through the production. "The Butterfly Girl," the third of the Fischer Series, is scheduled for release on December 28. The story was carefully selected and is splendidly adapted to Miss Fischer's ability.

The fourth Fischer Mutual Star Production is entitled "The Knight of Tarquizzi," and is booked for January 25. After this comes "Birds of Passage," a story with a tremendous punch, due on Mutual screens on and after February 22, and a few weeks later "The Light of Heaven," the last picture so far chosen, will make its appearance. March 22 is the date of its release. Hundreds of exhibitors who made big profits on the earlier Margarita Fischer productions released by Mutual have hastened to book this entire new series of Fischer pictures. They feel confident that this new series will be even better and make them more money than did the original releases. Bookings can now be made at any of the sixty-eight Mutual Film Exchanges.

Huge Schooner Wrecked

In one of the early installments of the new Helen Holmes chapter-play, entitled "A Lass of the Lumberlands," a full-rigged schooner is seen driven ashore on a rock bound coast. This scene was taken off the California coast at a point where a real ship was actually battered to pieces on the jagged rocks that line the shore. Players in the new chapter-play actually took their lives in their hands to enact the thrilling scenes that mark this portion of the story.

Mutual Star Productions For November

Week Beginning November 6th.

Title.	Leads.
And the Law Says.....	.....Richard Bennett
East Is East.....	Florence Turner

Week Beginning November 13th.

Peck O' Pickles.....	Kolb & Dill
Immediate Lee....	Borzage & Little

Week Beginning November 20th

Lone Star.....	William Russell

Week Beginning November 27th

A Dream or Two Ago.....	.....Mary Miles Minter
Miss Jackie.....	Margarite Fischer

CHAPLIN'S NEWEST IS

Expose of Secrets of the Picture Studios Entitled

"BEHIND THE SCREEN"

November 13 will be a red letter day for hundreds of motion picture exhibitors. On that day Mutual releases the seventh and newest of the Chaplin-Mutual Specials, entitled "Behind the Screen." This is the picture in which Chaplin exposes studio secrets and makes fun of the motion picture studios and the methods of production. The whole world has marveled at and laughed over his satires on other themes. He has ridiculed the humble floorwalker. He has kidded the fireman. He has parodied the nobility. He has made fun of the pawnbroker. But now he is going to play hors with the motion picture industry. Surely there is no one more competent to undertake such a task. Surely there is no one who can so skillfully hold up to laughter the serious work of picture making as Chaplin. Everyone who has been privileged to obtain an advance glance at "Behind the Screen" is ready to concede that Charlie has made a thorough job of it. Hundreds of exhibitors are awaiting this subject. Bookings can be arranged at any of the Mutual film exchanges. Many exhibitors are finding it profitable to play return dates on the earlier Mutual-Chaplin Specials. They are "The Floorwalker," "The Fireman," "The Vagabond," "One A. M.," "The Count" and "The Pawnshop."

Mary Miles Minter in "Youth's Endearing Charm" was the feature offering at the opening of the Fairyfield theater, a big new house just opened in Detroit, Mich.

2nd Bennett Mutual Star Production Released This Week

THIS week Richard Bennett, who scored such a tremendous success in "Philip Holden—Waster," makes his appearance in another Mutual Star Production. This is the second of the series of Bennett Star Productions. Its title is "And the Law Says." It is powerfully dramatic. Richard Bennett appears in one of the strongest roles in which he has ever been cast either in pictures or on the speaking stage. The other Mutual Star Production is a Turner Feature, the fifth of the Turner Series, entitled "East Is East." It features, of course, the former famous Vitagraph star, Florence Turner, who is known and loved by thousands of motion picture fans.

"And the Law Says."

Tensely dramatic is every scene in "And the Law Says," the Bennett Feature offered this week. Mr. Bennett appears in the role of a judge at the trial of his own son. Previously he had strongly advocated capital punishment as a cure for crime. He had even publicly stated that he believed circumstantial evidence strong enough in most cases to convict. His charge to the jury is one of the most bitter arraignments of a criminal ever shown on the screen. The jury brings in a verdict of guilty. The judge sentences the convicted man to be electrocuted. A week later he discovers the prisoner at the bar was his own son. His struggle between love and duty is one that will bring tears to the eyes of any audience. Eventually he yields and seeks a pardon for the condemned man. The pardon is delayed. The current is turned on and the prisoner pays his debt to society. The father is naturally well-nigh heart broken. To tell you more of the story would spoil the picture for you, since this drama has one of the biggest surprise endings ever portrayed. Mr. Bennett's role is sure to be proclaimed a triumph of character work.

"East Is East."

Florence Turner is too well known to exhibitors and picture goers to make comment on her ability necessary. "East Is East" is a grimly powerful story of East Indian life, and the beautiful star makes the most of every situation. The photography is excellent. The picture is most capably produced, well acted and a feature attraction of real worth. Bookings on both these subjects can now be made at any of the Mutual film exchanges.

Al Ray, writer, and Robin Williamson, director, have recently joined the Vogue Comedy Company.

MUTUAL

TURNER FILM COMPANY Presents

The Emotional Star

FLORENCE TURNER

IN

"EAST IS EAST"

An Inspiring Drama In Five Acts. Remarkable Exteriors And Exceptional Photography.

Fifth Of A Series Of Mutual Star Productions Featuring Florence Turner. Released The Week Of Nov. 6th. Bookings NOW At All Mutual Exchanges.

Now Playing: FLORENCE TURNER in "REDEEMED" "FAR FROM THE MADDING CROWD" "DOORSTEPS" "A WELSH SINGER" "GRIM JUSTICE"

Coming: "THE FIRST SETTLER'S STORY"

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC., Presents

The Famous Star

RICHARD BENNETT

IN

"—AND THE LAW SAYS"

A Powerful Problem Play In Five Acts.
The Theme Is Based On Circumstantial
Evidence And Capital Punishment.

Second Of A Series Of Mutual Star Productions
Featuring Richard Bennett. Released The Week Of Nov. 6th. Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges.

Now Playing: "PHILIP HOLDEN,—Waster."

Coming: "THE SABLE BLESSING"

MUTUAL

MUTUAL

MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION, Presents

The $670,000.00 Per Year Comedian

CHARLIE CHAPLIN

IN

BEHIND THE SCREEN

Newest Mutual-Chaplin Special And Acknowledged
The Funniest. Released Nov 13th. Seventh Of A Series Of Mutual-Chaplin Specials Now
Booking ONLY At Mutual Exchanges

MUTUAL-CHAPLIN SPECIALS
Now Playing
THE FLOORWALKER THE FIREMAN
THE VAGABOND ONE A M
THE COUNT THE PAWNSHOP

REPEAT
The Mutual-Chaplins You've Shown
Prove Good For Several Showings

MUTUAL PICTURES

Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow

This VOGUE Comedy, with Paddy McQuire in his well known character—Bungling Bill, will send your attendance up to the capacity mark.

Released Nov. 5th Book It Today Sure!

PICTURE PIRATES

—presents Ben Turpin and Rube Miller in a fast action VOGUE Comedy that is bound to be a big money-making attraction.

Released Nov. 12th Secure Your Booking Early!

AT ANY MUTUAL EXCHANGE

VOGUE Comedies are extremely popular with photoplay-goers everywhere. They build up patronage fast—and hold it. Make them a regular part of your program.

Slapstick with a Reason

VOGUE COMEDIES

Vogue Films, Inc. Studio: Santa Monica Blvd., at Gower Street, Los Angeles, Cal
General Offices: 6235 BROADWAY, CHICAGO, ILLINOIS

Action In Every Chapter!

A LASS OF THE Scene from

"A Lass of the Lumberlands"

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION Presents

HELEN HOLMES IN

A NEW AND SPECTACULAR CHAPTER PLAY

LUMBERLANDS

FIFTEEN STUPENDOUS CHAPTERS!
NOW BOOKING-AT ALL MUTUAL EXCHANGES!

Dashing, daring Helen Holmes is setting new records for recklessness. She is absolutely without fear. In "A Lass of the Lumberlands" she is performing feats that make one gasp—outdoing all her past accomplishments in the way of her hair-raising, dare-devil "stunts." Big box-office receipts are sure for the exhibitor showing this phenomenal chapter-play in fifteen exciting episodes. The picture is backed by a nation-wide advertising campaign. You can book it today!

NOW- See Your Nearest

MUTUAL EXCHANGE

MUTUAL SERIES

Ask at Mutual Branch about this Vampire Suit for Clever Local Advertising

COMING

"THE VAMPIRES"

OR, THE ARCH CRIMINALS OF PARIS

Every second exciting—every minute thrilling—every episode sensational

The Vampires?

First Time in America

More desperate than the Apaches of Paris
More daring than the Motor Bandits of Paris
More elusive and more relentless than Fantomas

9 Weekly Episodes
3 Reels Each
First Release
November 23

Europe's Greatest Detective Series

Gaumont Co.

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. FLUSHING, N. Y.

MUTUAL PICTURES

Gaumont

Begin with the First Release of the new Gaumont Single-Reel of Places and Peoples under Foreign Flags

A Galician Town
Picturesque Kamenez-Podolsk

La Rochelle
The French Fishing Fleet

In the Heart of Egypt
The Nile at the Assouan Dam

Gaumont

Gaumont Co.

Gaumont

JACKSONVILLE, FLA. FLUSHING, N. Y.

THE SEX

This Boy had never seen a woman. He knew nothing of sex, or of the real world. All of the life he could remember was spent on a secluded estate.

Then he returned home to find his parents separated by an ungrateful but alluring fiend-girl.

How was he to proceed? How overcome the lure of sex? This startling and unique theme is masterfully presented and solved in this IVANPLAY

THE CAST

JAMES MORRISON	AS THE BOY
LOUISE VALE	AS THE MOTHER
FRANKIE MANN	AS THE FIEND GIRL
DONALD HALL	AS THE FATHER

Directed by IVAN ABRAMSON
Story by DON DUNDAS

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS

LURE

Bound to create intense interest, this picture will be booked by the enterprising exhibitor for a long run. Are you that exhibitor ?

EXCHANGEMAN HAVE YOU AN IVAN FRANCHISE ?
THE SAFEST AND SANEST FILM PROPOSITION IN THE INDUSTRY. BETTER WRITE US AND FIND OUT WHY.

130 West 46th St. New York City

PURITY

A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER

To the Exhibitor

It is an opportunity to give your patrons something out of the ordinary. The most striking and original publicity ever given a picture will enable you to play to capacity business at advanced prices.

It is a Business Tonic

To the Patron

It gives a pleasure seldom found in a pictureplay. It will entertain them in a new and startling way. It will attract all classes and will be so pleasing to them that the theatre will gain valuable prestige.

It is a Mind Tonic

AUDREY MUNSON

IS THE STAR IN THIS BEAUTIFUL PRODUCTION.

"Purity" is a pictureplay with a distinct moral. Miss Munson's posings are so beautiful and refined that artists, educators and the clergy have highly endorsed them. Ready for bookings.

MASTERPIECE FILM ATTRACTIONS

LEON D. NETTER, General Manager 1325 Vine Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Controlling states of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Indiana, West Virginia and Kentucky

INTERNATIONAL

CARLYLE BLACKWELL
in
The Ocean Waif
featuring
DORIS KENYON
Released November 2nd.

JAFFERY, with C. Aubrey Smith supported by Eleanor Woodruff and Florence Deshon, is being shown now in the best theatres everywhere. Audiences demand it; exhibitors are glad to show it.

JANE GREY
in
The Flower of Faith
with FRANK MILLS
The October Release.

ALL GOLDEN EAGLE FEATURES
ALL BIG SUCCESSES

INTERNATIONAL

Mrs. Vernon Castle

IN PATRIA, the International's splendid new production. Mrs. Castle is supported by a great cast including :

MILTON SILLS as Captain Donald Parr of the U. S. Secret Service.

WARNER OLAND as Baron Huroki of the Japanese Secret Service.

DOROTHY GREEN as Mrs. Fanny Adair.

GEORGIO MAJIERONI as Senor Juan de Lima, Secret Agent of Mexico.

Mrs. Castle appears in the dual role of PATRIA CHANNING, Society heiress

and

ELAINE, the dancing girl of the Montmartre.

PATRIA

The supreme serial—a romance of preparedness.

MRS. VERNON CASTLE as Patria Channing in "Patria," the superb new serial, shows remarkable versatility.

She shoots with the dead sure aim of a frontier maid.

She swims with the grace and abandon of a mermaid.

She dives from dizzy heights.

She drives a motor at a speed that defies all law.

She rides with the easy daring of a "cowgirl".

She laughs, cries, dances, makes love—she portrays all womanly emotions with the power of a great artist. But—

As Arthur Brisbane advises—

"Why waste time describing Mrs. Castle. When you mention her name you tell the whole story.

"If you had engaged Theodore Roosevelt to play the part of a cowboy, you would not attempt to tell the public he had once been a rough rider."

Produced by WHARTON, Inc.

INTERNATIONAL

Presents

The Fashion Drama

GIRLS and GOWNS

In the new fashion play, "The Adventures of Dorothy Dare," the International offers this winning combination:

New costumes of smart women!

Pretty girls to wear them!

A dramatic story, well acted!

Every woman loves to see new and pretty gowns; most men like pretty girls; everybody loves a dramatic story, well told. This unusual one reel combination is to be released bi-weekly.

FIRST RELEASE NOVEMBER 14.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

By arrangement with F. Ziegfeld Jr.
GEORGE KLEINE Presents
Miss
Billie Burke
in
GLORIA'S ROMANCE
Supported by HENRY KOLKER
A Motion Picture Novel by Mr. and Mrs. RUPERT HUGHES

This wonderful photodrama de luxe has established a new high standard in cinematography. Marvelous lighting effects and unexcelled photography stamp "Gloria's Romance" as unique in picture production. Magnificent gowns and gorgeous scenes at Palm Beach, Florida and famous Riverside Drive, New York, furnish a brilliant setting for America's star supreme—Miss Billie Burke. Exhibitors everywhere enjoy tremendous box-office receipts while showing this George Kleine masterpiece. 20 chapters complete the story—a new feature chapter each week. For full details wire or write your nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Exchange or

GEORGE KLEINE
80 Fifth Avenue New York City

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

Winsome

VIOLA DANA

"Broadway's Biggest Little Star"

In EDISON'S super-feature

The Cossack Whip

By JAMES OPPENHEIM

Five reels of pulsing drama, moving swiftly through mighty scenes to a tremendous, smashing climax—A virile story of the master passions.

Plotting Nihilists — The Imperial Ballet Behind the Scenes — The Luxury of the Ruling Classes — Furious Cossack Raids — All masterfully pictured in this Edison marvel play

COMING, WEEK OF NOVEMBER 13th
BOOKINGS NOW
WRITE OR WIRE OUR BRANCH OFFICE NEAREST YOU

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

SELIG Presents

Vivacious

GRACE DARMOND

in

"A Black Sheep" "A Texas Steer"

"The Millionaire Baby" "House of a Thousand Candles"

Good Plays! A Widely Exploited Star! Cash In!

RED SEAL SELIG PLAYS

BOOK NOW

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

Selig Polyscope Co., 58 East Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

THE ONLY SEQUEL GREATER THAN THE ORIGINAL

"The Prince of Graustark"

in 5 acts

presenting

BRYANT WASHBURN

and

MARGUERITE CLAYTON

Written by George Barr McCutcheon
Arranged and Directed by Fred E. Wright

Released Nov. 6

Essanay

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

General Film Service

Mr. Exhibitor

Crushing Rentals—

A persistent diet of high price features makes a poor man of you. Many feature makers take what you are entitled to—your legitimate profits. You're lucky if you manage to exist.

Footage—Not Quality

In many cases where you rent features you get and PAY FOR LENGTH—NOT QUALITY. A first class 1, 2 or 3 reel picture would be shamed if reckoned amongst them.

Monotony Kills Patronage—

Theatre patrons demand variety. If you don't give it to them they will go where they can get it.

General Film Service

assures

Fair Rentals Quality Pictures Variety Program

GENERAL FILM COMPANY, Inc.
440 FOURTH AVENUE NEW YORK

General Film Service

NOV. 9th
BABE HARDY,
KATE PRICE
IN "A WARM RECEPTION"

NOV. 10th
BURNS & STULL AS POKES & JABBS
IN "HOT DOGS"

General Film Service

Knickerbocker

Star Features

PRESENT FOR NOV. 10

DOROTHY DAVENPORT

IN

"THE QUESTION MARK"

Supervised by

H. M. & E. J. HORKHEIMER

General Film Service

KATHLYN WILLIAMS

IN

"The Temptation of Adam"

Could you, believing your husband innocent of theft, become a Siren and permit passionate love to be made to you by the very man you secretly think responsible for the disgrace that has come into your once happy home?

Could you heed his hot words of unholy love, endure his embraces with but one great incentive—to lead the man on and on and on until——

Could you???

Kathlyn Williams could and did in "The Temptation of Adam," a Selig three reel drama, directed by Al Green and introducing an all-star cast, including Guy Oliver, Eugenie Besserer and Vivian Reed.

RELEASED MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13th, IN REGULAR SERVICE GENERAL FILM COMPANY

SELIG POLYSCOPE CO.

CHICAGO, ILL.

General Film Service

It's a Safe Proposition to book Essanay plays, for its comedies and dramas have an established reputation for drawing crowds and pleasing the public. The theatre that uses Essanay's short classics on its variety program is a money making house.

HARRY DUNKINSON is presented in
"Easy Ed"
2 act comedy Nov. 7

BEN TURPIN
is presented in
A Safe Proposition"
1 act comedy Nov. 8

RICHARD C. TRAVERS
with
GERTRUDE GLOVER
is presented in
"What I Said Goes"
2 act comedy drama Nov. 11

BOOK NOW!
ESSANAY-CHAPLIN
comedy
"POLICE"
Give your patrons a treat. It's a riot of fun.

Essanay
GEORGE K SPOOR PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St. Chicago

General Film Service

Here Are Facts!

Star Theater

REEDLEY—CALIFORNIA

General Film Co.,
San Francisco, Cal.

Gentlemen:

Competition is getting pretty keen and in order that you may book me intelligently, I am outlining what I desire. Give me Kalems whenever available, comedies, dramas, and all their releases. They seem to be using all their efforts in the short stuff, so I believe they are the best bet all through. I note for this week you have not sent me a "Hazard of Helen." Can understand that you did not have one available owing to my doubling up, but please do not omit Helen Gibson again.

Very truly yours,
W. L. SHEIBLEY.

Try these Competition-Killers on Your House:

"The Witch of the Dark House"
Two Reel "Girl from Frisco" Episode
With MARIN SAIS and TRUE BOARDMAN
Released Wednesday, Nov. 8th

"The Man from Yukon"
One Reel "Grant, Police Reporter" Episode
With GEORGE LARKIN and OLLIE KIRKBY
Released Friday, Nov. 10th

"A Desperate Duel"
One Reel "Ham Comedy"
With HAM, BUD and ETHEL TEARE
Released Tuesday, Nov. 7th

"The Lone Point Mystery"
One Reel "Hazard of Helen" Episode
With the fearless HELEN GIBSON
Released Saturday, Nov. 11th

"THE SOCIAL PIRATES" IS ANOTHER COMPETITION-PROOF SERIES

KALEM COMPANY

235 West 23rd Street New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX
EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter

J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the
CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.

CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.

PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands.....$3.00 per year
Canada ..... 3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid)..... 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING— One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 920.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, November 11, 1916

Facts and Comments

WITHIN the last year the educational picture has progressed slowly. We still hear it said that the educational film is at last reaching out for universal recognition, but we exaggerate when we indulge in such sweeping phrases. Truth of the matter is that the development of the educational film suffers from lack of proper financing. To devise a system whereby the school and the kinematograph can be brought into practical co-operation requires an enormous capital which up to this time has failed to put in an appearance in spite of tremendous rumors bobbing up and down on the surface of things. As one of the pioneers of the educational movement put it: At first the demand for the educational film seems overwhelming, but on closer view it shrinks.

* * *

IT IS quite true that the review of a picture in these columns is the opinion of but one man and that no opinion is infallible. On the other hand, it is equally true that the reviews in the MOVING PICTURE WORLD are the opinions of tried experts. The opinion of a lawyer may be wrong on points of law and a doctor may err in his diagnosis notwithstanding his medical training. Just the same we all think that a lawyer's judgment on law and a doctor's opinion on sickness is better than the ordinary layman's view. Our reviewers are all trained men and thoroughly able to divorce their personal tastes from their judgment as to the public reception of a picture.

* * *

SHAKESPEARE on Fourteenth street—playing to capacity in two big theaters within one block of each other—is a most interesting phenomenon. Shakespeare "turning them away" on the lower East Side, where vast audiences sit spellbound by one of his greatest tragedies, is proof enough of the timely educational character of the screen. It is strong meat, incomparably more wholesome than the melodramatic "mush" and the studio-room stuff that is frequently offered to the public. The centuries have not robbed the great play of any of its flavor and have left its appeal to the heart as fresh as ever. Such pictures, be it emphasized once more, are of the greatest value and importance to the reputation and the prestige of the screen. Now we are waiting to see what the censors will do to the old play and what new leather medals they will qualify for.

* * *

THE rumor which tells of the motion picture theater as the coming companion of the cigar store and the drug store on all prominent corners persists despite all denials. Great financial interests are said to be back of the plan. A thousand of these "concomitant" motion picture theaters are to be built. However undignified it may seem to us to have our noble calling be brother to the drug store and the tobacco store the proceeding looks profitable to the "great financial interests," of course you can see the power which must come to the corporation which owns a thousand motion picture theaters. In the great cities where these triangular enterprises would of course be most numerous they would in a short time control the whole situation. Nothing will be easier than to force the rest of the theaters into an unholy booking "alliance" and then dictate terms to the producer. If that day ever comes we fear for the prestige of the screen. The natural tendency will be to cheapen production and forget quality. There is but one force to combat the consummation of such a plan and that is a strong, compact and well-led exhibitors organization, which will guarantee liberty of action to the small no less than the big theater owner.

* * *

WHEN will our screen actors and actresses learn that violent motions of the lips, the mouth and the jaws have very little expressive force before the camera? Unless words are heard falling from the lips all these maxillary exercises mean nothing at all to the spectator. A dialogue may aid at times in indicating certain emotions, but the dialogue is only a contributory cause. There may be some justification for the use of a dialogue, but there is none whatever for passionate soliloquies. A screen actor depending for expression on lips, mouth and jaws is intolerable. The more violently he talks the less we understand what he is talking about. The camera does not record and cannot reproduce this dreadful mouthing. Emotions exist before the words expressing them are uttered. It is the art of the screen artist to express these emotions without words. We have seen lately how several otherwise fine plays have been ruined by foolish mouthing. A good director ought not to tolerate mouthing as a form of motion picture expression except perhaps in an occasional comedy, where "everything goes."

Behind the Scene

By Louis Reeves Harrison

"WHAT is holding back the development of the stage," says Robert Edmond Jones in a New York Tribune interview, "is the fact that people concerned in a production work independent of one another. The author turns his finished manuscript over to the manager. The manager reads it and turns it over to me. I try to carry out the author's intention as well as I can. But I may not be wholly in sympathy with some of his ideas any more than he is with some of mine. Under ideal conditions—conditions that will come some day—the dramatist will take his idea, just the outline of it, you know, to some producer who is equally an artist.

"The producer will call in the actor and the scene painter. Then all four will work out that idea together. They will try to clothe that idea as well as they can. That is all that counts—the idea. We don't matter, any of us. At our best we are the medium through which the idea is transmitted." Such is the view of a painter of backgrounds who fully appreciates the difficulties of attaining artistry in his own work. It does not seem to have occurred to him that "the idea" was not presented to the author's mind in anything like the shape which it finally takes after months of self-criticism and formulation.

That is the way of the world. A man comes in direct contact with the difficulties of his own work, and his pride in overcoming them often blinds him to the accomplishments of men in other fields. Mr. Jones admits that the idea is what counts—why does he not furnish it? He imagines that the author is a lucky fellow who picks it up at random, but Mr. Jones is a thinker, and he will reach a much broader view in time.

Exactly the process of getting together in the formulation of a complete product has been advocated in this column for many years. The author sees his play as he writes it. The pictures pass before his mental vision much faster than they are shown on the screen, too fast for him to set them all down, the ones in front being crowded continually by those in the background, and he may lose sight of many elements calculated to beautify and clarify a story through sheer excess of creative imagination. Even while engaged in formulating one story others come pressing forward, begging to be given a chance for materialization.

On this account, and because he is obliged to keep ever in mind the many guiding principles of his craft, the author does not produce what might be regarded as sacred. His script may be greatly altered to its advantage. He can benefit quite as well as any other worker from intelligent suggestive criticism. But the fact that he has seen the pictures in process of describing them enables him to contribute greatly to the composite effect.

The idea of going beyond merely photographing the scenes of a screen story into their idealization, of doing as skilled painters do on their canvases, would take a powerful hold upon the imagination of those who visit the picture shows. A great photo-drama might be more than a drama—it might easily be a rhythmic spectacle, while preserving the charm of storied existence. Let us agree with Mr. Jones that the author only furnishes the subject matter, and that all he has done can be greatly improved by focusing other minds on his scenario in the interest of composite artistry—why not add his own mind to the total of criticism?

Some of the interiors now being shown in moving pictures are beyond the wildest dreams of Mr. Jones and other talented artists of the background. They imagine that they have made a great advance in getting away from the stock sets, the flapping canvas dropped from above, and the wobbly canvas pushed out from the two sides, the palace, the drawing-room, the prison, and the "forest"—oh, that forest! They have made great progress. So has the author of stage plays. Only in moving pictures are preserved the stock characters, the villain who perishes when the persecuted hero and heroine embrace in the last scene.

We are rarely depicting on the screen the abstract forces which furnish material for all true drama, the inner revelation and the interaction of mind and heart. Most of our photo play characters are of the traditional kind long discarded by the intelligent dramatist, but all this unreal stuff will vanish, along with the axioms and tenets of the stage which have been forced on moving pictures by old-time theatricalism, an inheritance through actors and directors who were received by the new art with open arms, regardless of their past performances on the stage.

Art directors of moving pictures have made radical departures from theatricalism and many of them are on their way to creating small palaces of wonder and delight in the exhibition halls. They have reached the point of arranging the setting to the mood of the play and are on the edge of transforming the exact scene into a veritable picture in arrangement, grouping and contrasts of light and shade. Many of the interiors we now see are really beautiful in design and execution, but most of our exteriors show a painful lack of the picture eye. They are principally distinguished by their inappropriateness.

Where an art director is unhampered, and where he has a story worth his while, the first thing for him to consider is what is behind the scene. There are many questions of fine proportion and harmonious arrangement to be considered, but they must primarily harmonize with the subject. The values he brings to the composite composition, like those brought by actor, director and author, are made more intensive by a unity of feeling. He must get behind the scene to what Mr. Jones calls "the idea" in order to find his true source of inspiration.

"The idea" is back of all to be accomplished. It is as true of the screen as of the stage that "We need not fear such an institution will become rigid and dogmatic," like a bad system of politics, "the instrument of powerful men for blinding vision and suppressing thought. The whole system is too vast and flexible; somewhere its audiences will demand self-expression and the flame will spread. The artist is the last man in the world to become effectually gagged. It is only where such an institution is under central authority that such suppression is possible."

The theater of which Hiram Kelly Moderwell dreams, the picture of which we may dream, "will be a collection of independent units. The individual voice smothered in one part will speak in another. Because men need to know themselves and their world they will always, in the long run, listen to the individual artist or thinker, providing that artist or thinker has a fit instrument to transmit his message. This theater of ours," like the smaller ones of the picture show, "will become one of the most complete, flexible and noble instruments ever conceived by man."

"Splendid Openings"

By W. Stephen Bush.

THERE is probably no business in the world with as many curious angles as ours. The things we do and the things we don't do when we ought to do them would fill volumes. Some day we will have a distinguished historian write a book about it all. As some one cleverly put it, "our business is full of loose ends but not chaotic."

Now this is the tale of a man who two years ago went to an exchange in a city in the state of Oregon in search of a theater for sale. The man in question is an old reader of the Moving Picture World, he has been in the show business for twelve years and in the exhibiting ranks for seven years. When our friend asked the exchange manager whether he knew of a good theater for sale the manager said he knew of none, but he did know of a "splendid opening." The manager mentioned the name of the town with the "splendid opening." Our friend and reader went on there and investigated. He found that the town was well supplied with good theaters. It was a fact, however, that the exchange of the manager who had given this advice was not represented in the town. "The manager was willing to have me take a chance," he says. "In fact, he encouraged me to take a chance so he could get his service into the town." Of course this manager did not care what became of the exhibitor as long as he was able to serve him with a few weeks of film service. We now quote from our correspondent's letter:

"Shortly after a theater in which I was interested in a town of less than a thousand people had occasion to cancel a service. Two weeks later a man arrived in town with no prior experience in the business, and endeavored to secure some one to build for him, representing on data furnished by the above exchange that the chances for opening a new theater were excellent. The exchange had informed him that the town offered exceptional opportunities. Again it looks as if the exchange encouraged a man to open a competing house in order that they might have their service in the town."

Here are other significant examples and extracts from our friend's letter:

A few weeks ago a farmer in a community not far from here sold his farm and "moved to town." He informed the manager of the only theater in the town (1,200 population) that he had decided to go into the picture business. The manager, who was obliged to sell life insurance part of each day in order to support his family, told the farmer that locations were hard to find, but if he could help him get started in any way his experience and knowledge was at his disposal. The farmer went to the city supplying that territory, was informed by an exchange manager that the town offered great opportunities, that the present owner was getting rich. The farmer returned and is now preparing to build a second theater in a town of but twelve hundred population!

I can relate other instances of this kind.. I can name many towns in the States of Idaho, Utah and Montana, absolutely spoiled—yes ruined—by second and third theaters coming in when business conditions in no way warranted them.

I have in mind a man who put his "all" into a new theater in a town really needing a good theater. This man had absolutely no experience or knowledge of the business. He was loaded up on service at exorbitant prices. Today the theater, so I am informed, is for sale at a sacrifice. Exchanges and supply men played an important part in encouraging this man. The town needed a theater and an experienced manager and owner—not a novice.

I can furnish complete data on the instances I have quoted and am convinced that in the West at least, this "wildcatting" is so extensive as to justify some editorial comment. The public have mistaken ideas of theater profits in small towns. A wholesale house will not encourage a merchant to go into a town where there is no opening; his account would be no good. Why, then, should exchanges and supply houses encourage every "Tom, Dick and Harry" to enter a town where a new house is not needed? Surely it will not lead to a lasting and profitable business for the exchange.

Just before receiving the communication from our friend and reader we heard of a well-substantiated story concerning a film salesman who had induced a hotelkeeper in a small town to invest his life's savings in an impossible motion picture enterprise. The eagerness to sell film had made this salesman lose sight of the decent respect he ought to have for his fellow man. Of course there are other managers who are thoroughly honorable and who would shrink from any such contemptible policy. Indeed, most of the managers with whom the writer has come in contact belong to that variety.

Give Credit Where Credit is Due

By W. Stephen Bush.

THE mail coming to this editorial desk is burdened more than ever with complaints made by exhibitors regarding their treatment by exchanges. It would be easy enough to fill a few pages with these complaints, even should we print them in small type. Then we hear complaints of a similar nature wherever a representative of the Moving Picture World attends meetings, or even social gatherings of exhibitors. Of course there are two sides to every story, but there could not be so much smoke without a little fire.

The chief cause of complaint is the attitude of the exchange toward the high-class exhibitor who has been in business for years and whose credit is excellent everywhere except in his film exchange. Though he may have been dealing with the same exchange for years, always paying his bills promptly, he receives no better treatment than the unknown man just entering the business. The writer knows of several cases where an exhibitor failed to receive his service because, according to the bookkeeping department, he owed ten dollars to the exchange, although in reality he owed nothing whatever and held receipts for everything he had paid.

One man who has been in the business for at least ter years and who has always paid his bills promptly owns several theaters. It happens that all his film bills are paid on a certain day in the week. One of the bills came one day late from the film exchange, and there was a few days' delay. He was immediately notified that he would get no more service unless he paid forthwith. The man is thoroughly responsible, is well known and owns real estate. The boy he had sent to the film exchange and who was told "that the boss could not get service until the money due [about ten dollars] was paid" rushed to a telephone and tried to get in touch with his employer. After considerable delay he succeeded and the "boss" dispatched another messenger with the ten dollars to make sure of getting his show. Worse was to follow. The bookkeeper was not notified by the cashier of the payment and the man was still debited on the books of the company and was again called up by the manager of the exchange and urged to pay up immediately if he wanted his service continued. Name and address of this exhibitor, with his views of film exchanges, will be cheerfully furnished upon application.

This is only a typical case. In this matter of giving credit where credit is due it seems to us that the exhibitor's argument in favor of a credit system similar to that in other lines of business is unanswerable. No one will expect an exchange to extend credit without some knowledge of the man to whom credit is given. It is an indisputable fact that thousands of exhibitors have been in the business for a long time, are the owners of many theaters and have always paid their bills promptly.

If they were in any other line of business there would be no question whatever about their being entitled to credit. Why make an exception in the motion picture business? It is no answer to say that "the good exhibitors must suffer for the sins of the bad exhibitors." This is poor logic indeed and a very gross injustice besides. Why not discriminate? It is entirely proper to investigate a man's credit to see how he has met his obligations in the past and what his commercial reputation is. If the inquiry is satisfactory then credit should be extended to the exhibitor. The exhibitor is the foundation of this industry, and it seems to us preposterous to assume that the majority of the exhibitors are unworthy of credit.

A Word About Ourselves

IN the course of its career of nine years THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD has never spoken of its own affairs and policies but once, when back in 1910 we took occasion to define our attitude and our views of the duty of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD toward its readers. We pointed out that the interest of the reader was paramount at all times and that we know no other course. A square deal to all and special favors to none was our motto then as it is now, and as it will be always.

Again there are certain interests seeking to dictate to the management of THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD. Threats of withdrawals of advertising have been made because of our refusal to extend special favors in the way of publicity. Our policy of printing the news just as it happens has given offense in certain quarters. THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD has always felt bound to discharge its duty to the reader by printing all the legitimate news of the industry.

The pliant and even servile attitude of a rival publication has been pointed out to us as an example which we might follow with profit. We hold firmly to our old ideals of fairness, fearlessness and independence. We will not, and we cannot, crook the pregnant hinges of the knee that thrift may follow fawning. Our success has been built upon unswerving loyalty to the readers. There is no other sound foundation of success. The publication which is willing to merely serve as the dumping ground of free press matter may achieve a temporary success, but its readers will eventually repudiate it, and its usefulness both to reader and advertiser will end quickly.

False claims of circulation, prostitution to special interests, indiscriminating and fulsome praise of every picture which is advertised sooner or later lead to destruction. We have been asked by scores of friends why we let this campaign of false pretenses go on without protest, and why we do not invoke the lightning of truth against this disciple of Ananias. We can only reply that no campaign of false pretenses will be or can be successful in the long run. We think that the exhibitors and advertisers are on the whole altogether too intelligent to be deceived for any great length of time. Minding our business, which consists in giving the best and biggest value, we have no time and feel no inclination for the pursuit of modern Munchausens.

We are confirmed in this policy by the knowledge that we enjoy the esteem and confidence of the best elements in the industry. They recognize THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD as one of the great assets of the industry, and they look upon its established policy as a valuable factor in the development of the best artistic and ethical standards of the screen.

The latest rumor is that THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD is to be further disciplined out of its habits of independence by having a rival publication declared "the official organ" of certain special interests. We never have aspired to be the "official organ" of special interests. We know we would look foolish in a livery, no matter how neat and smart its cut or how bright its buttons. We own no master or masters. Our vision, we trust, is too wide and keen, our intentions are too honest to serve any interest but that of the industry as a whole. In passing we might say that THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD unaided except by the exhibitors, without reward and without expectation of reward, has done more for the general good of the industry both as a journal and a champion than any organization. It has seen the rise of many an organization called into being with excessive noise and boasting only to see it fall by the wayside and assist in providing decent burial. We are satisfied to be what we always have been, the authentic and acknowledged mouthpiece of the whole industry, serving with equal zeal and intelligence every branch of the industry, but with all the fervor of our soul clinging to the conviction that our welfare must always be identical with the welfare of our readers and especially do we seek the benefit of the exhibitor.

To Our Friend and Reader the Exhibitor

IS THERE in your community or in your neighborhood any church or any social or civic club or any educational institution or any library association which is interested in motion pictures, not as a spectacle, but as a factor and problem in our daily lives? Have you, perhaps, been asked to appear before them for a talk on the subject? Do you feel that such societies and institutions are ready to give a fair hearing to the motion picture side of the problem? Is there censorship discussion or agitation in your town which might be arrested by a strong plea on behalf of reason?

If such is the case the MOVING PICTURE WORLD is ready to help you. If you are not too far from New York we will send a competent member of our staff to give an entertaining talk on the origin and the making of motion pictures, on the development of the screen, on its educational possibilities diversified with humorous sidelights and ending with an appeal for rational regulation in place of drastic and arbitrary censorship. The lecture may be accompanied by or illustrated with pictures if you will furnish the projection machine and the pictures, or it may be given without any such accompaniment.

In either event the good resulting to the industry in general and to the exhibitors in the respective localities in particular is obvious. Such work will promote a better understanding between exhibitors and the public at large. It will show the public, whether they are patrons of the screen or not, that motion picture men are progressive and intelligent, that they take a serious and enlightened view of their vocation and that it is their desire to keep pace with the best civic spirit in every community. A letter to the MOVING PICTURE WORLD will bring you all further information you may want to have. We are willing and anxious to co-operate, but wish to emphasize the fact that the present scope of this service does not look beyond a reasonable distance from New York.

Hungry for American Pictures

By W. Stephen Bush

Latin-American Countries Have Changed Their Attitude Towards Yankee-Made Pictures Our Great Features Breaking Records and Smashing Barriers in the Lands of the Dons

THE American-made picture is in the ascendant all the world over, but nowhere has it won more golden opinions of late than in Latin-America. There, in a market of wonderful possibilities, the American motion picture has advanced in popular esteem with Seven League boots. Let's give credit where credit is richly deserved. In this case the laurel wreath belongs on the brow of David W. Griffith—a brow now thoroughly used to such floral decorations.

If our reports were to be given any credence time was when the American-made picture was a by-word all through the big and little Latin republics. The very poorest samples of our kinematographic work found their way into this great territory until the Latins either scoffed or turned away in candid disgust. Even before the Griffith school made itself known in that vast region there had been a perceptible improvement, but the landslide came with Griffith and with the Griffith South American standard bearer, a capable young man by the name of Guy Croswell Smith. Now all South America talks about the marvelous Yankee pictures. They want to see more of them. Thus Griffith has rendered a lasting service to the industry up here. Now the presumption is in favor of the American made picture; in the past the presumption was against it and it used to require evidence to overcome that presumption. Mr. Griffith has supplied the evidence in an overwhelming quantity.

Guy Croswell Smith.

"Cine-Mundial" Popular in South America.

"I saw Cine-Mundial, your Spanish edition, wherever I went in South America," said Mr. Smith to me when I told him I had come to ask him for his experiences in Buenos Aires and other big South American towns. "I went down to Buenos Aires," continued Mr. Smith, "last winter to exploit South America for 'The Birth of a Nation.' I may well say that we came, saw and conquered. From the first the supreme merit of the production was recognized. For the first time in the history of motion pictures in South America the great dramatic theaters opened their doors to the motion picture. In Buenos Aires the picture was shown in the finest theater in all Latin-America, the Teatro de la Opera, where it continued for two hundred performances. The same triumph for the American picture came to pass in Chile, in Peru, in Bolivia and in Uruguay. Not only did the public appreciate our picture, but they became tremendously interested in American productions generally, and now the name of Griffith is known throughout the whole Latin-American countries.

The Great Market to the South of Us.

"There is indeed a wonderful opportunity in Latin-America for the American producer. Let me point out to you that the South American market is a great absorber of both quantity and quality. The theaters there go the daily change one better; they have three new programs a day, running sections of three different hours, the price averaging about ten cents for a performance or thirty cents for any one who wants to see the three shows in one evening, and there are many who do. It is truly remarkable how the Latin-Americans are turning toward our pictures and getting away from their old popular staple—the Italian picture. They are getting tired of the eternal triangle with its accompaniment of impossible sensations and fearful crimes. Having glimpsed the 'Art-Quality' in the American picture, they ask for more and ever more. The soil of South America is indeed ready for the American producer. One of the things that have heretofore held many producers back has been their experience with the curious copyright and registry laws prevalent in Latin-American countries. These laws afford a great chance to unscrupulous persons to steal names and trademarks away from their rightful owners. A little legal precaution, however, will remedy the evil. I had no difficulty in protecting the pictures intrusted to my care and the same measures may be taken by others.

Conditions That Call for Reform.

"What they need down there is not only the American picture, but American ways of regulating supply and demand at least to some extent. Of course, a system which means three changes in one day cannot go on forever. We ourselves are suffering from too many daily changes and are getting away from the daily change as much as possible. The Latin-American situation needs attention along the same lines, only a good deal more of it. As regards projection conditions, they are almost primitive in even some of the best places, and your Cine-Mundial with its projection department is for this reason having a great vogue with managers down there. The exhibitors and managers of Latin-America have no other means than Cine-Mundial for keeping in touch with the rest of the kinematographic world; that's why your paper established itself so widely and firmly in such a short time. I am going back to South America with 'Intolerance,' which I have booked very extensively on the trail of 'The Birth of a Nation.' I look forward to a very successful tour. The theatrical season in South America is the antipode of our own, lasting from April to November."

Mr. Smith called attention to the fact that every town of any size at all in South America has its municipal theater; a show house devoted strictly to the legitimate and maintained at the expense of the government. His picture went into many of these houses, being the first motion picture enjoying that distinction. Now that the way has been opened all these theaters will be ready to open their door to the motion picture of quality. In parting from Mr. Smith I carried away a very lively impression to the effect that the Latin-American film market for the first time in its history was hungry for American-made pictures.

MUSIC OF METRO'S "ROMEO" UNUSUAL.

Metro's "Romeo and Juliet" is attaining an unusual degree of success wherever shown. One of the important factors contributing to this result undoubtedly is the quality of the musical accompaniment. The score was compiled by Irene Berge and Samuel Berg. As has been prevously pointed out in these columns, they transposed the music of Gounod's "Romeo and Juliet" and Tschaikowsky's symphony of the same name. Present at the initial showing at the Broadway Theater were many representative musicians, and Mr. Berg was the recipient of compliments from them at the close.

As an example of the manner in which "Romeo and Juliet" was received throughout the country the Rialto Theater of Denver before the end of a week's engagement booked the subject for an indefinite run. Heretofore there have been but few productions that have held its screen for a week.

HARRY CAREY RETURNS TO UNIVERSAL.

Harry Carey, the actor of Western characters, has returned to the Universal Pacific Coast studios. Mr. Carey will play the leads in several big stories now under preparation for him and will co-direct the productions.

Vice President H. O. Davis has not announced as yet Carey's associate from the production department or the players who will support him in the photoplays.

Film Men at The Border

Find Time While Working for Uncle Sam to Keep in Touch with What Is Going On in Industry

THE Moving Picture World has received an interesting letter from Howard Irving Young, a member of the scenario department of the Metro—that is, when not on duty with the New York National Guard at the border. It is written on the letterhead of the Rio Grande Rattler, the novel publication issued by the New York division, the headquarters of which are at McAllen, Texas. Mr. Young is a member of the staff of the Rattler. It is plainly to be seen that the performance of soldierly and writing duties has not prevented the young New Yorker and his fellow-film men from maintaining interest in the picture world. So, too, it is evident that even far from home the camaraderie characteristic of the film business is in full bloom. It's a safe bet that Proprietor Logan of the Amusem Theater is glad to have his fellows of the film around him. But here is Mr. Young's letter:

Group of Soldier Film Men at McAllen, Texas.

I am enclosing a picture which I think may be of interest to you and your readers. It is a photograph of the moving picture men with the New York division at McAllen, Texas. All of the boys belong to various organizations that are now serving on the border and back home are connected with different producing companies. The picture was taken in front of the Amusem Theater, an airdome located near the Seventh Regiment camp, which is owned and managed by T. R. Logan of Corpus Christi. Mr. Logan is a wideawake exhibitor who puts on a fine, new program each night for the entertainment of the boys in khaki. Mr. Logan is a friend of all the boys and he knows the kind of pictures they like.

I need not tell you that the "movies" mean a great deal to us down here, for they are the only real connecting link between our military life in the cactus and the world of fun and pleasure that we left behind when we cheerfully and quickly answered the president's call last June. And let me tell you that the boys are just as critical in their tastes as they were back home and that a bad picture never gets by.

Although the posters on the billboards are mostly of Essanay Chaplins, do not think Mr. Logan's regular program isn't right up to the minute or as near to it as it is possible for a border town picture house to be. He is running all the newest Mutual Chaplins also, and these Essanays are merely a part of his all-Chaplin program, which means that every Wednesday and Sunday night the inimitable Charlie has the screen to himself.

The names of the men in the picture are: Left to right, standing—Alexander G. Duane, Metro; John M. Donovan, Eggers Engraving Company; Howard Irving Young, Metro; T. R. Logan, proprietor; Al Katz, Bluebird; W. A. Crites, operator at Amusem Theater; Bill Foley, Epoch Company.

Left to right, seated—Francis V. Wallace, Concord Theater (Brooklyn); Edward C. Bernius, Thanhouser; Sergeant William B. Love, military director; Frank O'Neil, Pathe; Jack Harford, Solax; George Penny, Balboa.

I hope you will find space in your valuable magazine for this picture, for one feels after being away from home and business four months that the "bunch" is apt to forget him. We are proud of the fact that we are serving Uncle Sam and we are proud to be connected with the motion picture profession. We'd like to have everyone know how proud we are.

Wishing you continued success and prosperity, I beg to remain, Your sincere friend and well-wisher,

HOWARD IRVING YOUNG.

McAllen, Texas, October 20, 1916.

Chester Beecroft in New Role

Resigns as Eastern Representative of American to Take Up Project for Marketing Film Abroad.

THE resignation of Chester Beecroft as eastern representative of the American Film Company is announced from that company's office, effective at the end of this week. The step is taken by Mr. Beecroft to enable him to put into independent action a plan of foreign distribution which will bring maximum returns to the manufacturer.

Mr. Beecroft's new connection is with the Overseas Distributing Company of America, an organization which has made arrangements to market American Film Company-Mutual productions abroad through the foremost foreign distributors. Mr. Beecroft will also continue to handle the sale of the Chaplin-Mutual pictures in foreign countries and will in addition deal in the product of any other high-class film companies looking for the widest foreign market. The proposition is worked out on a bigger and broader scale than has been applied before in marketing films abroad and every indication is that it will be a huge financial success. Mr. Beecroft will be located for the present at 71 West Twenty-third street, New York.

Harry H. Poppe and Eleanor O'Keefe, who were associated with Mr. Beecroft during his term as general manager for David Horsley, and who have been with him in the American Film Company's office, will go along with him in his new venture.

Chester Beecroft first attracted attention as advertising manager of the Patents Company. Later as advertising and publicity manager of the General Film Company he wrote a startling line of copy in the interests of that releasing concern's product.

One of his notable achievements in this position was the sale of the rights to the Mutual-Chaplin releases in the United Kingdom for a sum equal to more than half of the total salary the Lone Star Company is paying the famous comedian.

Libel Suit Against Variety

Lee A. Ochs, President National League, Sues for Damages from Editor and His Informants.

THE owners of the periodical Variety have been served with papers in a libel suit instituted against them by Lee A. Ochs, president of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. The suit has been brought by Mr. Ochs to recover $100,000 damages for a libel alleged to have been committed by the publication in Variety of an article in which Mr. Ochs is charged with having used his office as president for improper purposes. The defendants named are Sime Silverman and Joseph Lowe.

Mr. Ochs, speaking to a representative of the Moving Picture World, declared that he had nothing to say for publication, but that he felt the attack of Variety to be a slap at the organization as much as an attack upon him personally. He said the charges were ridiculous and could easily be disproved.

Fleischman & Goldreyer, the theater owners whose statement in Variety formed the basis of the allegations against Mr. Ochs, have also been served with papers in a libel suit. Mr. Ochs' attorneys are Goldsmith, Rosenthal, Mork & Baum, of 32 Nassau street.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

Chicago Would Enjoin "The Birth."

An effort is now being made by the city of Chicago to dissolve the temporary injunction obtained by the Epoch Producing Corporation about a year ago, which permits the exhibition of "The Birth of a Nation" in Chicago. J. J. McCarthy, general manager, and Theodore Mitchell, director of publicity for the Epoch Producing Corporation, were in Chicago last week attending to their defense to the bill of complaint prepared by the city. The case was set for a hearing before Judge Gridley on Monday, October 23, but was continued until a later date by appeal of the counsel for the defense.

In referring to the controversy, Mr. McCarthy said: "It is a matter of regret with us that we should be here now fighting for 'The Birth of a Nation.' Here is a theatrical attraction that has been making stage history for America. We have played 'The Birth of a Nation' to upward of 8,000,000 people. Our record is as clean as anything could be. We have been going ahead attending to our business, and not mixing up in the political schemes that have been hatched out to interfere with us, and now, after a run of nearly a year and a half, with millions of pleased patrons behind us, we are compelled to return to Chicago and face another attack upon our contract rights. If it were not so serious it would seem ridiculous enough to be almost unbelievable."

According to the terms of the existing injunction, children are still barred admittance to the Colonial theater, where the production enters its fourth successful week of its return engagement. An attempt will also be made by the Epoch Corporation to abolish this restriction when the case is brought up before Judge Gridley.

F.I.L.M Club Business Meeting.

Wednesday, October 25, the regular meeting day of the Chicago F.I.L.M. Club, again saw that body gathered around the table. The meeting was well attended by members and out-of-town guests. The meeting was directed by the club chairman, J. L. Friedman. Through the club secretary, H. A. Spanuth, the exchangemen, members and visitors were acquainted with the wonderful results already in evidence as reward for effort extended more to closely associate the exhibitor and exchangeman.

Through the assistance of a reporting company, to whom all daily reports are submitted, it has been possible already to eliminate several bad accounts. The local express company heads have guaranteed more co-operation to the club, thereby assuring the exhibitor of prompter delivery. A thoroughly tested pick-up and delivery system for films has been indorsed and put into operation. With this system once in good working order, with its bonded film handlers, the club expects to be in a position to guarantee its members against present annoyances, viz., loss of film through theft or otherwise, damaged shipments, etc.

The violation of any one of its rules will be reason why the F.I.L.M. Club shall ask for the resignation of the violator.

Mr. Hoy, a member of the club's central bureau, is now in New York interesting the Eastern exchangemen in similar co-operation with the exhibitor, while in Detroit, Milwaukee and Des Moines similar activities have been started.

Cresson Smith Shifts to Chicago.

Cresson E. Smith, formerly manager of the Des Moines (Ia.) office of the Metro Pictures Corporation, has been transferred to the Chicago office of that company, to succeed R. O. Proctor, recently resigned. Mr. Smith has been in the employ of the Metro Pictures Corporation for a number of years, and is a film man of wide experience. He first entered the busines as an exhibitor in Pittsburgh, and at one time held the office of president of the Pittsburgh Exhibitors' League. Later he became associated with the exchange end of the business, exploiting features for the Weilan Film Company, of Pittsburgh, and left that company to assume the management of the Cincinnati office of the Alliance Film Corporation. After leaving the Alliance Mr. Smith was identified with the Crelle Feature Film Company and the Alco Film Corporation, of Pittsburgh. The reorganization of the latter concern, which resulted in the birth of the Metro Pictures Corporation, gave Mr, Smith the position of manager of the Des Moines office.

Frederick R. Martin, who has worked under Mr. Smith in the Des Moines office for the past year, has also been transferred to the Chicago territory, and will henceforth represent Metro in Southern Illinois.

Harry R. Skirball, until recently connected with the Metro Kansas City office, has also been transferred to the Chicago territory, to assist Mr. Smith.

Chicago Film Brevities.

A. "Watso" MacArthur came out here from New York last week, and immediately upon his arrival enrolled as a student in the "College of Sin," located underneath the Sherman House. He has found time, however, to rattle off a few "Flickers," which follow the brevities.

* * *

Maurice Fleckles, special representative of the Universal and the Bluebird, returned to this city Tuesday, October 24, after a six weeks' sojourn in New York.

* * *

It has been officially announced that the second annual reception and ball of the Reel Fellows Club of Chicago will be held at the Hotel La Salle on Friday evening, November 10. Tickets can be had from Secretary M. G. Watkins. An unusual entertainment program has been provided for, and two leading film stars will lead the grand march. A meeting of the various committees appointed to attend to the general business attached to the affair was held in the office of the secretary on Thursday evening, October 26. The affair is being profusely advertised.

* * *

The Selig Company has been the recipient of the following unsolicited compliment by Miss Carrie M. Simpson, of Topeka, Kan., and member of the Kansas State Censorship Board. It is not often moving picture censors voluntarily commend any film production, which makes Miss Simpson's testimonial all the more appreciated. She writes: "Will you kindly place my name on your mailing list for Selig's 'Paste Pot and Shears' and other publications that will help your pictures with the Kansas State Board. Not that you need help, as I personally review all Selig pictures, and never to my knowledge has one been rejected."

Colin Campbell, the Selig director, returned to Los Angeles last week after a two weeks' sojourn in Chicago, where he has been occupied in assembling "The Garden of Allah," the latest Selig superfilm produced under his direction. Mr. Campbell will begin work at once on a new picture taken from a story written by Gilson Willets. Al Green, assistant to Colin Campbell, will direct the production of "The Princess of Patches," the interior sets of which will be filmed in the Selig Chicago studios. An all-star cast is being selected for the picture, and will be made public later.

* * *

Frank A. Dempsey, traveling representative for the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service, was a caller at the World office October 23. Mr. Dempsey has been covering Wisconsin territory for about three weeks, and reports excellent conditions all through the state.

* * *

M. Frank, owner of the Rex theater and the Mozart, Popular and Bellevue airdomes, Memphis, Tenn., visited the Chicago office of the World recently and renewed his subscription. Mr. Frank uses the World and V-L-S-E service and charges 10 cents admission for programs of five or six reels. He reported good business in all his houses.

* * *

F. M. Brockell resigned from his position as manager of the Chicago office of the Paramount Pictures Corporation last week. He has not yet made public any future plans. Mr. Brockell's resignation comes as a surprise to the trade, as he has been in the employ of the Paramount and its subsidiary companies for a long time and has a wide acquaintance among exhibitors. He will be succeeded by Frank Rutledge, who comes from the Detroit office of the Artcraft Pictures Corporation. Mr. Rutledge began his duties on October 30.

* * *

J. W. Smith, manager of the Central Opera House, McHenry, Ill., was a recent caller at the Chicago Paramount office. The Central Opera House has a seating capacity of 500, and is supported by the 900 inhabitants of McHenry.

* * *

The Bismarck Gardens, one of Chicago's most popular restaurants and amusement resorts, which was recently equipped with complete projection apparatus, is now showing the Paramount-Burton Holmes travelogues on Monday and Tuesday, for the entertainment of its guests.

* * *

According to W. H. Jenner, Chicago branch manager of Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay, this program is meeting with marked success. The New Strand theater, Fort Wayne, Ind., a 1,400-seat house, and the New Colonial theater at South Bend, Ind., with a seating capacity of 1,200, opened their doors with K-E-S-E service. The Ascher circuit of eight local first class houses is doing business through Mr. Jenner's offices.

Merle E. Smith, general branch manager for K-E-S-E, reports good business conditions existing. Mr. Smith is finishing a hurried western trip, and expects to be back in Chicago within a few days.

* * *

W. J. Patterson, sales manager of the Motion Picture-Scope Company, advised this office that the agricultural department of the state of Wisconsin is using the Portoscope portable machine to project moving pictures of land development in Wisconsin, taken under its supervision. A tour through the middle western states is being made by members of the board, and daily exhibitions of the films are given in a railroad coach completely furnished with the necessary projection equipment.

* * *

S. G. Sladdin, general representative of the Consolidated Film Corporation, producers of "The Crimson Stain Mystery" serial, released through the Metro offices, stopped off in Chicago for a few days last week. Mr. Sladdin is on a trip which will cover every booking office of the firm in the United States. He reports "The Crimson Stain Mystery" is playing to capacity houses all over the country.

* * *

The following programs have been announced at the prominent downtown theaters in Chicago for the ensuing week:

Studebaker—Third week of "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" (Universal).

Ziegfeld—"A Prince in a Pawnshop" (Vitagraph), featuring Barney Bernard; Earl Williams in the Vitagraph serial, "The Scarlet Runner," and a Tweedledum comedy.

Colonial—"The Birth of a Nation" (D. W. Griffith).

FLICKERS.

Terry and Mrs. Ramsaye, now comfortably located in Chicago, are working harder than ever to teach the exhibitor to say "Mutual" to the exchangeman on booking day.

* * *

A visit to the Selig offices permitted of a few moments of Herbert Hoagland's time. Friend Hoagland has been in Chicago so long that now he doesn't even care if Broadway ever happens again.

* * *

"Good morning—glad to see you again," is all Maurice Fleckles, the Universal district manager, had time to say before he started to New York for a short visit. Some busy man!

* * *

E. D. Hopson, manager of the Hamburger circuit of nine Chicago houses, was a visitor at the office this week.

* * *

He's in again—Hector J. Stryckmans, always talking films, has a new song he is rehearsing. Hector, well known as a press agent and film promoter, is now boosting a new automobile accessory—and it's for a Ford, boys.

"Come in, sit down, and let me tell you about all my Bluebirds." This was the reception extended by I. Van Ronkel when I called at his office. Our birds are flying higher than ever. Just think of it—out of five houses on one street Bluebird photoplays are playing four of them.

* * *

When they get through spending money for alterations the Laemmle Film Service offices at 205 West Washington street will be a most attractive and comfortable place to do business.

* * *

The old saying, "You have to hand it them for their nerve," is being repeated quite often in Chicago.

With the help of the dailies, a picture too poor for any consideration at all in the East has been put over in this city and is playing to capacity attendance. After trying various methods to dispose of said picture, the owners sold "world's rights" for a few dollars more than nothing. Since the newspapers carried advertising notifying the public that women only would be permitted for two weeks, after which mere man could take a peek, the Bandbox theater has had a crowd lined up daily, and sometimes a block long, waiting for admittance. It is with this class of advertising of a very poor picture that is bound to hurt the industry.

At Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of October 29 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

"The Soul of Kura-San" at the Strand.

THE photo-dramatic feature at the Strand Theater for the week of October 29 was "The Soul of Kura-San," in which the distinguished Japanese actor Sessue Hayakawa and Myrtle Stedman enact the leading roles. The scenes of the play are laid in Japan and America and the story deals of the love of Toyo, a poor Japanese artist, for Kura-San, the daughter of a tea-house proprietor. The second and last installment of the Battle of Somme was shown, also another chapter of Ditmar's "Living Book of Nature," scenic and educational studies, a new comedy and the Strand Topical Review. The soloists were Irene Audrey and Irene Stokogsky.

"The Microscope Mystery" at the Rialto.

Wilfred Lucas and Constance Talmadge played the leading roles in "The Microscope Mystery," a Triangle comedy drama offered as the feature story of the program at the Rialto. Actual fighting in the French front line trenches, where the opposing lines were only forty feet away, brought the Donald C. Thompson war pictures to a dramatic climax. Views of Egypt's storied ruins and color photographs of the Maori Islands were the educational feature of the bill. Mr. Rothapfel's "Literary Digest of the Screen" gave the current news in picture form and a selected comedy completed the program. Elsa Diemer and Bernard Bogoulawsky were the soloists. Two girls from the Helen Moller School interpreted Grieg's "Butterfly" as a dance number.

"The Heir to the Hoorah" at the Broadway.

"The Heir to the Hoorah," the Paul Armstrong drama which won great fame on the stage, and has been adapted for the screen by Beatrice C. De Mille and Leighton Osmun for Thomas Meighan and Anita King, was presented by Jesse L. Lasky at the Broadway theater for the week. The usual weekly events, cartoons, colored scenic and a comedy rounded out the program.

Eighty-first Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street Theater four Triangle pictures were shown. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Louise Glaum in "Somewhere in France" and a Triangle Keystone comedy were shown. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday Bessie Love in "A Sister of Six" and a Mack Sennett comedy furnished the picture program.

BUFFALO UNICORN CHANGES HEADQUARTERS.

Charles H. Barolet, manager of the Syracuse branch of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, announces that the Buffalo headquarters of the company has moved from the third floor of 39 Erie street to 23 West Swan street. The new headquarters are in the heart of the film district, and elaborately designed to meet the requirements of visiting exhibitors. The fact that the Buffalo headquarters is now on the ground floor of the new building is an added convenience, as most of the other exchanges in Buffalo are "walk-ups." Harry Sonnerville, a film man of great experience, and known to practically everyone in the industry, will be in charge of the headquarters. As Mr. Sonnerville has been an exhibitor himself for the past ten years, he is well qualified to look after the needs of those in quest of the Unicorn Service.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN and CLARKE IRVINE

DOINGS AT UNIVERSAL CITY.

This Week's Principal News From Big Film Capital.

ABOUT the youngest actor who has worked in scenes at Universal City in a long time was a baby one week old who appeared this week under the direction of Joseph De Grasse in a five-reel feature. The baby worked during the morning with Dorothy Phillips and is featured with Lon Chaney in the photoplay, "The Piper's Price."

Three stories by Eugenie Magnus Ingleton, the scenario writer, are being put into production at Universal City this week. They are, "The Girl in the Check Coat," directed by Joseph De Grasse; "The Opal Ring," directed by Rex Ingram, and "The Organ Grinder," directed by Douglas Gerrard. The two former will be made in five reels and the latter in two.

"The Opal Ring" is a strong Russian story, and the principle role is taken by Betty Schade who is supported by Wedgwood Nowell and Nichola Dunaew, formerly with the Vitagraph Company.

"Of Such Is the Kingdom" is the title of a five-reel drama being produced by Director Lloyd Carleton. The lead is played by Gretchen Lederer with Emory Johnson opposite, and with Lois Wilson and Adele Farrington in the supporting cast.

Lois Weber is now at work filming "The Mysterious Mrs. Misslewhite," a five-reel Universal feature written by Thomas Edgelow and from a scenario prepared by Miss Weber.

A notable cast has been assigned to this production by vice-president and general manager H. O. Davis. Mary McLaren and Jack Warren Kerrigan will play the featured leads. They will be supported by such well known character players as Evelyn Selbie, Charles H. Mailes, Willis Marks, and Bertram Grassby.

Lois Weber was so delighted with work of her company that she gave them a feast this week. A barbecue was arranged by Wallace Kerrigan, superintendent of the ranch.

Our friend Herbert Rawlinson, who has been confined to the hospital at Universal City for about a month since his accident in a picture in which one of the ligaments of his right leg was broken, had his first night out this week.

He was taken to Morosco's theater in Los Angeles, where Maude Fealey was giving a party to a number of theatrical friends and moved around on crutches among the guests. "It made me feel like I was really living again," said the Universal star on his way back to the hospital.

MANY THRILLS STAGED AT KEYSTONE STUDIOS.

At Mack Sennett's fun factory this week more than usual hair raising stunts were pulled before the cameras to supply thrills for Keystone comedies.

Earl Soveren, astride his diving horse, "Jasper," made a twenty-five foot plunge into the studio tank. Water had been pumped into the big tank till it was filled to the rim, and a runway constructed and let down over one side, which was to enable the horse to emerge after his jump. Big timbers held up a platform and another runway twenty-five feet in the air. When everything was in readiness Jasper was led along the high runway, shivering and head held high in expectation of what was to come. The boards were carpeted to prevent his slipping. He came to the end of the runway with Soveren on his back, and in the twinkling of an eye horse and rider shot out in midair. Down they came and with a mighty thud sprayed water in all directions. The big pool heaved and swayed while two men in bathing suits jumped in to assist Soveren to handle his mount. The dripping head of the animal rose above the surface of the tank. As the two scrambled over the side cheers and applause greeted them.

The stunt was "shot" by a battery of cameras, and it will be shown in a forthcoming Keystone Triangle release.

Another daredevil, Bobby Dunn, Keystone comedian, leaped from an automobile going twenty-five miles an hour into Hollenbeck Park lake from the bridge which is forty-two feet above the water surface. All this to furnish a few feet of real thrill film for a Keystone comedy. Dunn's sporting blood prompts him to shun "doubles" and "dummies."

The picture in which the Keystoner's daring stunt will appear is now in the making under the direction of Frank Griffin. Hollenbeck Park was selected as the location for the scene because it is one of the most attractive spots in southern California, and the picturesque bridge that spans Hollenbeck Lake is the highest in the vicinity of Los Angeles.

KALEM "HAM" COMEDIES CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY.

With the production of "Fashion Plates" (temporary title), the Kalem Hollywood Players this week celebrate the 100th release of the popular "Ham" comedies under the direction of Lloyd V. Hamilton.

These comedies were put on the market by the Kalem company about two years ago with practically the same principal cast, Lloyd Hamilton as big funny "Ham"; Bud Duncan as comical little "Bud," and charming Ethel Teare as the leading lady. At first the Kalem company did not give Mr. Hamilton's release the name of "Ham" comedies, but later funny Hamilton's work suggested this abbreviation. Many of the scenarios have been written by Mr. Hamilton, and for the last six months the direction of the stories have been done by him. A valuable addition to the company has been the recent acquisition of Henry Murdock and Al Edmunson, well known players.

Members of the Hollywood studios will celebrate the 100th birthday of the "Ham" comedy releases with a dinner dance at a popular downtown restaurant. Lloyd Hamilton will be the host and Miss E. M. E. Gibsone, manager of the Hollywood studios, the hostess.

PLAYERS CLUB SLOWLY PROGRESSING.

Last Monday evening the Hollywood hotel was a busy place. The meeting of the new Players' Club was in session with about fifty prominent film makers present. Officers were named, directors appointed, and the business of the young organization gone over.

Cecil B. De Mille was selected to fill the president's chair, James Young was named for vice-president, Frank Garbutt, second vice-president, and H. O. Davis, third vice-president. Syd Chaplin and the Hollywood National Bank were named as treasurers. Wallace Reid, assisted by Jack Sacker, was named as secretary. The directors chosen were C. B. De Mille, James Young, H. O. Davis, Wallace Reid, M. H. Hoffman, Fred Kley, H. M. Horkheimer, George Melford, Thomas H. Ince, E. H. Allen, D. W. Griffith, C. C. Hall, G. G. Greenwood, and Mack Sennett. No other officers or committees were named, however, a house and finance committee will be selected at the next meeting, which will be on Tuesday night at 8 o'clock in the Hotel Hollywood, the temporary headquarters of the new club. It was reported that $1,500 had been collected from prospective members.

EDITH STOREY IN LOS ANGELES.

Edith Storey, the charming star, has arrived here accompanied by her mother. Miss Storey will begin work some time this week on a big feature in which she plays the role of an Arabian girl. Trouble with her eyes as the result of working under studio light is said to be one of Miss Storey's reasons for coming west.

LOS ANGELES FILM BREVITIES.

Mrs. Lule Warrenton's children's photoplay company has been incorporated we are informed for $50,000. Actual work on production will start sometime this week.

The directors of the new corporation are, Mrs. Warrenton,

Mrs. Harriet H. Barry, Eva Bird Bosworth, Winfield Hogaboom, and J. Herbert Welch.

Mrs. Warrenton is at the present time looking over studio sites at Culver City, Lankershim, and Monrovia, but is probable that the company may use the Superior Film Company's indoor studio in the Knickerbocker Building.

All the children to be used in the plays to be made for children have been secured, and a number of fairy stories and other plays prepared so that there will be no delay in the new work which Mrs. Warrenton has planned.

* * *

The Nevada Film Company is now in Guatemala, filming scenes for "The Planter." Director John Ince and several other principal players departed from Los Angeles about three weeks ago. The remaining members left this week for New Orleans where they took a boat for South America. Those who went were Tyrone Power, Edith Sterling, Lamar Johnson, Lewis Fitzroy, Norbert Myles, Maud Emery Taylor, Grace Lewis, Mrs. Harry Davenport, John E. Ince, director; Joseph Boyle, assistant director; William Black, photographer; Robert Turnbull, assistant photographer; Carlyle R. Robinson, publicity director; Philip Hansen, Manager Ward's personal representative, and Mrs. Hansen. They will be absent about twelve or thirteen weeks. Mr. Ward will remain here to secure a studio and attend to the local business interests.

* * *

Napoleon and Sally the eminent chimpanzee stars of the E. & R. Jungle Film Company, we are informed, will not appear in one-reel comedies in the future. They will be featured in only five-reel stories—regular photoplays—so that they will be given an opportunity to display their talents.

* * *

The Mex-American Film Company is a new concern and we are informed that they are contemplating to build a studio in Glendora, California. The Mex-American Film Company, it is stated, has signed an agreement with Don Luis Terrazas and his son, Guillermo Terrazas, for the staging of a ten reel feature picture. William Stoermer is the managing director of this company.

* * *

Another film company was launched this week in Monrovia, California, by Henry Christine Warnack, the dramatic critic of the Los Angeles Times. Mr. Warnack is the president of the company; Captain Charles A. Montgomery, vice-president and general manager, and William Lowery, Griffith director, is the producing director. The company will build a studio of their own and produce large feature productions. The personnel of the actors will include David Hartford, Fred Warren, Frank Bowman, Jas. M. Warnack, George McDaniels.

* * *

It is stated that the Fujiyama Feature Film Company intends to build a studio in Redlands, California. This company will produce Japanese plays and will send a company of actors to Japan.

* * *

At the Signal studios, J. P. McGowan is this week having built a replica of the logging camp of the Yosemite Valley Lumber company, which he used while at El Portal in the production of "A Lass of the Lumberlands."

* * *

Harry Ham, the Christie comedian, is a famous automobile racer, and it was racing which brought him into pictures. Harry was living in Mexico City where his father was a banker, and journeying to Los Angeles he took part in the road race to San Francisco. He won the race, and was cranked on to some film. This led to visits to the studios, and an engagement with Elsie Janis at the Morosco headquarters. Then he joined the Metro, Famous Players, Universal, and so to the Christie Company with which he is now.

Harry Ham was educated at the Exeter Prep., and later graduated from Yale. He has been across the ocean six times, and before appearing on the screen was a favorite in amateur theatricals. Harry is always ready to advise any of his friends regarding the ailments of their automobiles.

* * *

Baby Virginia Corbin, who supports Harold Lockwood and May Allison in the Yorke-Metro adaptation of Harold MacGrath's "Pidgin Island," recently entertained hundreds of patrons of the large Broadway Department Store in Los Angeles. After being introduced by May Allison, Baby Virginia recited a descriptive poem, "Tears," written for her by Harold Lockwood, and after delivering same in an admirable manner, was applauded most enthusiastically. For an encore, the talented child actress related the story of the "Three Bears and Goldylocks." The program was arranged by Miss Bertha Wilcox, and consisted of folk dancing pantomime and songs, all in which the Yorke actress was the principal character. Baby Virginia has appeared with Geraldine Farrar and other recognized stars of the silent drama, and makes her Metro debut with Harold Lockwood and May Allison in "Pidgin Island," under the direction of Fred J. Balshofer.

* * *

We received a letter this week from our good friend Wallace MacDonald, the popular young film star formerly with the American Film Manufacturing Company. Wallace writes that he will start work this week on his first picture with the Famous Players Company in support of Pauline Frederick and Willard Mack. Wallace MacDonald as his friends know is a very good singer, and he says in his letter that he may desert the films for a while and accept an engagement in a Broadway Musical production. He sends his very kindest regards to all his friends in sunny California.

* * *

It's like old times to find Myrtle Stedman and Kathlyn Williams working together in the same studio. They were both members of the Selig Company in the early days. Miss Stedman left to join the Bosworth, Inc., now the Pallas and Morosco, while Miss Williams remained with Selig until she accepted her present engagement with Oliver Morosco.

* * *

Mae Murray has a baby ostrich, presented to her by a farm, and she is looking for a cell to keep it in because the Hotel Hollywood manager told her to take the darned thing away because it ate all the tacks out of the carpets.

* * *

Anna Little is probably in New York by this time. She left here at date of writing, on a vacation.

* * *

Harry Leonhardt, accompanied by Carl Ray, a prominent exhibitor, and Field Carmichael, local Fox exchange manager, left for Chicago Thursday. They will attend the convention at the Biltmore next month.

* * *

The New theater, 632 South Spring street, is the latest addition to the ranks of screen theaters in Los Angeles. It opens with a gripping problem drama, "The Faucet," by Robert Davis Sorber of Pasadena.

This portrayal of life features romance, a bit of humor, much pathos, and overwhelming tragedy with a startling moral from first to last. In leading roles appear Virginia Kirtley as Dorothy Drake, the heroine, and Barney Furey in the role of her lover, Jack. Other casts are Edna May Cooper as Kathlyn, and Jack Fraser as Drake, Charles Wheelock and Josephine Dillon. Wm. Wing directed the story.

* * *

D. L. Levitt, sales manager for the Desert Film Co., of Salt Lake City, was a visitor to the World office this week. He is on a trip through the coast states looking for films. He has territory in Utah, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, and Wyoming, and is in touch with people all along the line. He desires to meet manufacturers who have film for sale. He has gone to San Francisco.

* * *

Richard V. Spencer, whose recent Ince-Triangle play, "The Deserters," received enthusiastic recognition from the press and the public, has been engaged by Fred J. Balshofer to take charge of the Yorke scenario department. Mr. Spencer is collaborating with producer Balshofer on the picturization of Harold McGrath's "Pidgin Island," the present Harold Lockwood-May Allison starring vehicle. Richard Spencer is one of the pioneers in the motion picture game, and wrote stories for the New York Motion Picture Company in the early days when the 101-Bison, Broncho, and Domino one and two-reel releases were first started. He remained with T. H. Ince until recently, and then took a much needed vacation touring the northwest and camping out doors. Upon his return to Los Angeles, he immediately joined the Yorke-Metro forces.

* * *

Members of the Motion Picture Director's Association are making extensive preparations for their ball on Thanksgiving night. The event, according to the committee, will surpass anything ever attempted by the screen folks. Bob Daley has charge of the arrangements. The new motion picture club (The Players) will also hold a dancing festival as recorded elsewhere in paper at the Shrine Auditorium, Thanksgiving Eve.

* * *

Little Mary Sunshine was tendered a reception by the children of Riverside, California, at the Orpheum, Saturday, last week. More than one thousand children attended, and the Balboa "Baby Grand" was given a remarkable testimonial. Little Mary Sunshine is in such demand at children's receptions that President H. M. Horkheimer has been forced to refuse scores of invitations as they conflicted with the baby star's work.

* * *

It has been announced that the Dudley Motion Picture Company of Redlands is being reorganized, and J. Palmer has been appointed secretary of the company. The Dudley Motion Picture Company is planning to produce "The 13th Commandment," a photoplay from the story by Rupert Hughes.

* * *

Under the supervision of art director Robert Brunton, work was started this week at the Ince Triangle studios in Culver City on the construction of one of the largest and costliest interior sets ever seen in a Triangle play. It will depict the interior of a theater, and will be in a current Ince drama by J. Hawkes, in which Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman are being starred. The set complete will occupy virtually the entire floor space on one of the indoor stages.

* * *

Dorothy Dalton, the popular Ince star, has renewed her contract with the New York Motion Picture Corporation for a period of two years. Miss Dalton associated herself with the Ince forces a year ago, and her initial appearance was made with William S. Hart in "The Disciple." Her latest vehicle is "The Vagabond Prince."

Two other members of the Ince Triangle staff signed contracts this week to remain with Thos. H. Ince for the next two years. They are John Lynch and Olga Printzlau, well known scenario writers.

* * *

Frank Keenan and Director Walter Edwards with a company of 56 players returned this week to Culver City from Norwalk, a small town 40 miles from Los Angeles, where they had been filming scenes for a current Ince Triangle play. Included among the players were Thelma Salter, Gertrude Claire, Agnes Herring, and J. Frank Burke.

* * *

William Russell, the popular American star, has signed another year's contract with Mr. Hutchinson for the making of a new series of William Russell productions at the American Film plant at Santa Barbara.

* * *

The newly incorporated Nat C. Goodwin Photoplay Company, capitalized at $1,000,000, is planning to erect several buildings in connection with its proposed new studio on the Goodwin ranch, near San Jacinto. The incorporators of the company are Nat C. Goodwin, T. Morgan, John W. Gorman and Byron Totten.

* * *

A farewell dinner was given one night this week to Harry Leonhardt, western representative of the Fox Company. There were present Fred and Roy Miller, exhibitors; William Farnum, Carl Ray, prominent amusement man; Field Carmichael, exchange manager; H. H. Bosley and Guy Gunderson, in addition to the following keyboard artists: Henry Christeen Warnack, Maitland Davies, C. R. Gates, Reed Heustis, Clarke Irvine, and, oh, yes, we could not forget Mr. A. Carlos, who is at present guiding the destinies of Fox's two big studios—you know, last but not by any means least.

* * *

Heavy fogs and thick mists have hindered production on the coast this week.

* * *

Director Frank Reicher and Fannie Ward, the Lasky star, with the company, have been up in the mining district photographing mine interiors for the forthcoming production of "Betty of the Orange Country." In order to secure juice for the Kleig lights, it was necessary to run a special wire from the power line to the mine, a distance of two miles.

* * *

Jay Hunt has joined the Yorke Metro and is at work.

* * *

Forty real Chinamen have been secured by Producer Fred J. Balshofer for the scenes that he will stage in the opium den, modeled under the supervision of an erstwhile proprietor of this type of joint. The underworld atmosphere in these scenes is remarkably realistic, which, according to Harold Lockwood, is half the battle in motion pictures. He recently said: "Realistic settings help the action of the scene fifty per cent. What would a stage play be without appropriate scenery?"

This week the well rounded completeness of the Christie Comedy stock company, as well as the seasoned versatility of one of its members, was shown by the request of the Lasky Company for the loan of Harry Rattenberry, the character man who has been with Mr. Christie for three years. Mr. Christie readily consented, and Mr. Rattenberry will play the part of "Bumble," for which he is a wonderful type, in the all-star production of "Oliver Twist," under the direction of James Young.

* * *

William A. Brooks says that the largest number of Indians ever used in a moving picture, will be brought from Pine Ridge reservation in South Dakota to the Fox studio in Los Angeles. Many of the chiefs and most prominent Indians of the reservations will be in the first party to arrive, and later other Indians, making a total of 1,500, will be brought for the picture, which will be the largest Indian story photoplay ever produced, according to the plans of the company managers. The first party of redskins is expected in Los Angeles this week.

* * *

The Christie release for December will be "The Sea Nymphs," with Betty Compson. Christmas audiences in snowbound Eastern cities may be expected to shiver when they "see nymphs" in their 1917 model California bathing suits.

* * *

Henry Otto has left the Yorke-Metro Company with which he was directing Harold Lockwood and May Allison. He will take a short holiday, but already has two or three good offers.

* * *

Myrtle Gonzalez and the feature company under the direction of Lynn Reynolds, this week went to the Grand Canyon, where at least ten days will be spent filming scenes for Reynolds' story, "The Man With the Peanut Soul," in which George Hernandez plays the title role.

* * *

Nell Shipman left for New York last week, thus heeding the call of certain definite connections to be made by her in New York, both as regards a film engagement and the publication of Miss Shipman's latest book, written by her during her year in southern California.

* * *

Charles H. Christie, business manager for the Christie Comedy Company, arrives in New York next week with considerable news of interest regarding the company for certain interested exchanges. During his absence events generally are running along satisfactorily under the guidance of Al Christie.

* * *

At the Ince studio William S. Hart soon will be seen in another of his famous and beloved "bad-man" roles, a drama of the west, entitled "The Devil's Double," a Triangle-Kay Bee play from the pen of J. G. Hawks. This play, it is said, contains more powerful situations than has any other recent Hart vehicle, and offers this forceful actor in what is declared to be one of his really great roles.

* * *

Vola Smith is Smith no longer. She is now Vola Vale, which re-christening dates back to a week ago and the beginning of an engagement with the Lasky company to play a distinctive lead opposite Sessue Hayakawa in a feature directed by Edward J. La Saint. That the name Smith affords an ambitious and pretty girl no help whatsoever in the climb up the ladder of fame has been a contention of the several companies interested at different times in the success of the girl who is now Vola Vale. It took Kenneth McGaffy and the Lasky company to effect this change of name and now that it is done, Vola Vale is greatly pleased with her new identity.

* * *

A rumor this week was to the effect that Henry (Pathe) Lehrman had put over a deal with William Fox and was expected within ten days to begin producing comedies under a Lehrman brand, to be released under the Fox banner. Calling up the Fox studios, there was a refusal to confirm this rumor, stating that Mr. Lehrman was not at the present time connected with them.

* * *

Lois Weber, the well known Universal directress, is the only woman ever to be chosen a member of the Motion Picture Directors' Association. She was made an honorary member this week, after which the doors were again closed to women.

Notables in General Film for Nov. 6

Week's Program Starts with Selig's "So Shall Ye Reap"—Biograph Reissues "The New York Hat."

THIRTY ONE notables who may be classed as film stars are featured in General Film Service program for November 6-11. Selig two-part drama, "So Shall Ye Reap," presenting Virginia Kirtley and Robyn Adair, will be the first of the offerings screened. This will be followed by a one-reel Vitagraph educational film, "New York Rapid Transit," which will precede a reel of Selig-Tribune. The final picture for that day will be a Biograph production (reissue), "The New York Hat," presenting Mary Pickford and Lionel Barrymore.

Harry Dunkinson is featured in the Essanay comedy, "Easy Ed," in two acts, being the first picture shown Tuesday. This will be followed by Kalem's one-act comedy, "A Desperate Duel," in which "Ham" and "Bud," Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch provide the fun. "The Science of Crime," in two parts, by Biograph (reissue), featuring Franklin Ritchie, will conclude that day's offerings.

"A Safe Proposition," by Essanay, in one reel, with Ben Turpin and Victor Potel in the titular roles, will be the first picture screened Wednesday. A Vim comedy with Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby, "Marked 'No Funds,'" will follow. The fourteenth episode of "The Girl from Frisco," by Kalem, entitled "The Witch of the Dark House," will conclude the day's screens.

Selig-Tribune in one reel and a Vim comedy presenting Kate Price and Babe Hardy in "A Warm Reception" will be Thursday's offerings.

A Knickerbocker Star Feature three-part drama, "The Question Mark," in which Dorothy Davenport has the leading part, will be the first film screened Friday. Then will come the fourth episode of Kalem's "Grant, Police Reporter," presenting George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby in "The Man from Yukon." This will be succeeded by a Vitagraph one-reel comedy "Weary Willie's Birthday," presenting Ralph Whiting and Dorothy Long. "Hot Dogs," a Vim comedy in one act, with Pokes and Jabbs in the limelight, will be the final picture of that day.

An Essanay three-part drama, "What I Said," in which Richard Travers and Gertrude Glover shine as stars, will be the first picture shown Saturday. This will be followed by a one-reel episode of Kalem's "Hazards of Helen" series, in which Helen Gibson figures in some startling feats in "The Lone Point Mystery." The final picture of the week's offerings will be a Selig one-part comedy, "When Cupid Slipped," presenting Victoria Forde, Pat Christman and Sid Jordon.

Kane Writes of Big Theaters

Western Representative of Artcraft Tells of Six Houses to Be Dedicated with Pickford Films.

AT least six mammoth motion picture theaters are projected or are now in process of construction on the Pacific Coast, all of which have given to Mary Pickford the honor of dedicating them to the film industry, according to Arthur S. Kane, who represents Artcraft Pictures Corporation in that territory. One of the first to open will be the T. & D. in Oakland, a magnificent structure seating 4,000 persons. This is being erected by the famed Turner & Dahnken Circuit, with headquarters in San Francisco. Miss Pickford's full week there in "Less Than the Dust," is scheduled for November 26, which will serve as the formal opening.

Eugene Roth, the progressive San Francisco exhibitor, now has under way the $350,000 California Theater, at the corner of Fourth and Market streets—the heart of the city. This house is to seat 3,000 persons, and will be the largest as well as the finest cinema palace in San Francisco.

W. H. Clune, the Los Angeles producer and operator of theaters, who is to show the Mary Pickford Productions first run in his city, has announced a great new photoplay auditorium to be erected on ground which he owns at Ninth street and Broadway, valued at $500,000. Upon its completion Miss Pickford will, of course, be the star attraction at the new house.

In Santa Rosa, a city of 10,000, the King-Reavis Amusement Company is erecting a 1500 seat house. This theater, the Cline, will be one of the handsomest in any city of anything like the size anywhere in the United States.

Stockton has enjoyed a great growth in the past few years and those live showmen of northern California, Turner & Dahnken, have not been unaware of this. The result is that they have started building in this city of 40,000 inhabitants a 2400-seat theater, which from the architect's drawings and designs will be one of the handsomest in their mighty chain.

Jensen & Von Herberg, the Seattle and Portland photoplay magnates, expect to finish in December their Beauty Theater in Butte. This house will seat around 1500 persons and in design, construction and fittings will be a grand tribute to the Copper Capital. The 2300-seat Coliseum in Seattle, over which Jensen & Von Herberg also preside, hastened to contract for the Pickford pictures, as did their high-class Columbia in Portland.

"Civilization" Territory Going Well

Controlling Corporations Are Meeting with Great Success—Remaining Territories In Negotiation.

GREAT has been the success achieved by the State right buyers of the Thomas H. Ince cinema spectacle "Civilization,'" since the picture was released on this plan a few months ago. Earliest to take advantage of the privilege of handling "Civilization" was the Western Civilization Corporation, with offices in the Pantages Building, Seattle, Washington, and controlling the production in the following states: Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Arizona, Utah and Wyoming; an option is also held on Alaska.

The A. G. Fontana Productions, Inc., with offices at 907 Longacre Building, New York City, has acquired the rights of "Civilization" for Ohio, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia and the District of Columbia. The transaction was completed last week. In order thoroughly to exploit the spectacle to the best advantage in this field, branch offices will be opened by the Fontana Company in Philadelphia, Baltimore and Pittsburgh.

A boom in "Civilization" started as soon as the Superb Feature Film Company, Minneapolis, of which H. Rathner is general manager, secured the rights for Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, Montana, North and South Dakota.

David A. Lourie is president and N. Pinanski is treasurer of the New England Film Distributors, Inc., which controls "Civilization" in New England.

The New Jersey State rights are controlled by the Civilization Film Corporation, of which Arthur A. Werner and Frank H. Hall are the active heads, with executive offices in the Strand Theater Building, New York City.

Greater New York; all of Long Island, and Westchester County, have just been obtained by the Civilization Feature Company, 130 West Forty-sixth street, New York City, of which Nathan Hirsch is general manager.

The Amalgamated Theaters Corporation, secured the rights of "Civilization" for Cook County, Ill., which means, of course, the city of Chicago.

Other state right deals are pending. In addition to the foregoing a number of States in South America have been disposed of at big figures, and it is understood that several European countries, notably France and England, are about to be purchased.

Peters and Stedman to Co-Star

Popular Screen Artists to Appear in Adaptation of Albert Payson Terhune's "The Happiness of Three Women."

HOUSE PETERS, who has just become connected with the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company, and Myrtle Stedman are to co-star in a forthcoming release on the Paramount Program under the Morosco trade mark. The subject is "The Happiness of Three Women," by Albert Payson Terhune, well-known author of many prominent works, including the story upon which the current Lasky release, "The Years of the Locust," was based.

"The Happiness of Three Women" created considerable attention when it appeared in "The Red Book," and presents an admirable subject in which to display the talents of the co-stars. As Billy Craig, the young attorney who becomes enmeshed in a mass of complications, House Peters will characterize a part that demands much of his exceptional dramatic finesse. Myrtle Stedman, who has just completed her characterization in Lasky's "The Soul of Kura-San," in which she appears in chief support to the noted Japanese actor Sessue Hayakawa, will appear as Constance Burr in the next Morosco photoplay.

Aside from its stirring theme "The Happiness of Three Women" will present several exceptional displays in the way of artistic settings put on with true Morosco thoroughness. The production is to be staged under the direction of William D. Taylor. Several unusual photographic effects are also promised, particularly in the scenes of the big bank robbery. This work will be under the direction of Cameraman Homer Scott.

Mr. Peters and Miss Stedman are supported by a cast including L. W. Steers, William Hutchason, Lucille Ward, Daisy Robinson and Milt Brown.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company

STRONG EVIDENCE (Vitagraph), Oct. 20. There are few laughs in this comedy. The story drags throughout the reel. The "strong evidence" is the scent of onions, by which several detectives attempt to trace the supposed thief who stole a woman's purse in a grocery store. It turns out that the purse dropped from the counter and, in falling, suspended itself around the neck of a cat. In the cast are Vallie Martin, Lloyd Hanman, Charles Haig and Lolia Bradley.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 85, 1916 (Selig), Oct. 23. Canadian recruits entrain at London for front; new Japanese Ambassador visits State Department, Washington; Sidney Hatch breaks 97-mile running record, Chicago; U. S. Army detachment leaves Golden, Col., to take place of National Guard at San Antonio; city departments active in quelling strike, Bayonne, N. J.; obsolete submarine, Holland, is reduced to junk, Philadelphia, Pa.; "Maid of Mist" suffers first accident, Niagara Falls; Newport society attends circus given by men of U. S. Naval Training School; acetylene torch hurries work of wrecking building to make way for railroad terminus.

TROUBLE FOR FOUR (Vitagraph), Oct. 23.—There is a humorous story told on the screen in this comedy reel. Details of production and the work of cast make it an acceptable reel. The many involved situations that come before the happy denouement are laughable. The "trouble for four" comes when the young wife puts her husband to a test as to his fidelity.

THE BOGUS BOOKING AGENTS (Kalem), Oct. 24.—A Ham and Bud comedy number that contains a number of laughs. Ham and Bud become booking agents and indulge in considerable funny antics. Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch are also in the cast. A review was printed on page 536, of the issue of October 28.

ANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL, NO. 18 (Essanay), Oct. 25.—This number of the cartoon-burlesques of the news week is up to Standard. Cartoonist Carlson gets over quite an amount of humor. The reel is shared with a good scenic subject.

GREEN EYES (Vim), Oct. 25.—This number of the Vim Feature Comedies, in which Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby are featured, is better than have been several of their recent releases. There are quite a number of humorous situations, well carried out. The settings, photography, and other details of production add to the film's worth. The jealousy of a young husband furnishes the nucleus of the story. He becomes jealous of a long-lost uncle, who returns, and much fun is made in the film before the happy reconciliation.

A MAID TO ORDER (Vim), Oct. 26.—Plump becomes a maid in this comedy reel. As such he is the pet of the household, but his wife's jealousy starts things. Considerable fast knockabout work is done by the comedians during the running of the reel. The reel has a whirlwind finish when the maid is discovered to be a man. Babe Hardy and Kate Price are a plump pair of funmakers. Others on the screen are Raymond McKee and Florence McLoughlin.

THE MISSING HEIRESS (Kalem), Oct. 27.—This is the second episode in the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, and for thrills is on a par with the first number. In this film are seen close-up views of an aeroplane as it travels high above the city. George Larkin makes a flying leap from the aeroplane to the ladder of a steamer. A full review was printed in the issue of October 28, page 535.

THE LOST MESSENGER (Kalem), Oct. 28.—A number of the "Hazards of Helen" series, that contains more stunts than many preceding releases. In this film Helen Gibson crashes through a bridge over a railroad with a motorcycle and falls beside a speeding train. She also jumps from an open drawbridge, as does also P. S. Pembroke. The story is interesting. A review of the film was printed in the issue of October 28, page 536.

General Film Company Specials

THE HARBOR OF HAPPINESS (Broadway Star Feature) (Vitagraph), Oct. 21.—A fair three-reel drama in which Leah Baird is featured. The story often becomes very obvious, but is nevertheless able to hold interest. The three reels unfold on the screen the story of a young playwright and a young actress who are helped to success by a successful author. The denouement comes when it is revealed that the actress is the wealthy man's daughter. The life-ships of the leading characters surely do enter a harbor of happiness, for near the end of the picture the wealthy man's wife, from whom he has been estranged, comes to his arms; his daughter comes into her own, and the young playwright is to marry into the family. Others in the cast than Miss Baird are George Arvine, Donald Cameron and Jack Ellis.

MAROONED (Essanay), Oct. 21.—A three-reel drama of only average worth. Edward Arnold, Alice McChesney, Fred Malatesta and Arthur W. Bates are in the cast. The story embraces numerous situations that are hardly plausible. It tells of a woman novelist who is marooned on an island with a sailor who has saved her from the advances of a millionaire on whose yacht she was cruising, and which caught fire. On the island the woman and sailor fall in love. The millionaire, at the head of a searching party, finally finds the girl. She is taken aboard the yacht, but jumps into the water and swims back to the island.

OUT OF THE SHADOWS (Selig), Oct. 23.—A two-reel drama with a very "preachy" theme. The high moral note sounded in the action and in the sub-titles might please some audiences. On the second reel is a knockabout comedy in which the same persons as appeared in the drama are cast. The effect is rather ludicrous. The story of the drama tells how a father goes to a road house with the vampire with whom his son is infatuated. The father does this to prove the woman's falseness. The cast includes Robyn Adair, Eugenie Forde, Leo Pierson, Virginia Kirtley, Louella Maxam and E. J. Brady.

THE BATTLE AT ELDERBUSH GULCH (Biograph), Oct. 24.—A spectacular two-reel Western, directed by David W. Griffith. The cast is composed of Mae Marsh, Robert Harron, Lillian Gish, Henry B. Walthall and Charles Mailes. This re-issued picture is done in the inimitable Griffith manner. A full review was printed on page 378, of the issue of October 21.

BORROWED SUNSHINE (Essanay), Oct. 24.—This is a pleasing two-reel subject. Although the story is a trifle far fetched, the film is replete with human interest and is smooth and charming entertainment. Marguerite Clayton and Richard Travers are well-suited to the roles allotted. As Goldie, the child who borrows sunshine and dispenses it, Mary McAllister is excellent, and shows rare promise. She is a talented child.

THE HARVEST OF GOLD (Kalem), Oct. 25.—This is the twelfth two-reel episode in "The Girl from 'Frisco" series. It is an exciting and interesting number. In the story is interwoven the efforts of the syndicate to gain control of the California orange crop. Marie Sais does some good riding and fighting. True Boardman, Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury, Edward Clisbee and Hart Hoxie are also in the cast. A review was printed on page 535 of the issue of October 28.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

GLORIANA (Nov. 6).—Zoe Rae, a clever child actress, is the star of this five-reel comedy-drama. The story is only fair, but little Miss Rae's work in the leading role is more than clever. Lovers of the juvenile drama will give her a hearty welcome. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Fox Film Corporation.

A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS (Oct.). Annette Kellermann is featured in this spectacular film, showing glorious views of the tropic sea. The star and her supporters are charming in their fairy-like pranks. Beauty and charm are the two great fascinating factors which hold the interest of the spectator throughout. This feature drew a large crowd at the initial showing, which is a forecast of its coming popularity. A more extended review can be found in last week's issue.

ROMEO AND JULIET (Oct. 22).—A five-reel picture with Theda Bara and Harry Hilliard in the leading roles. It is a pretty offering, full of lavishly put on spectacles. We feel sure that it will be thankfully accepted by a large following. For longer review see elsewhere in this issue.

International Film Service, Inc.

CURIOSITY (International), (Oct. 23).—The twelfth episode of the "Beatrice Fairfax" serial gives Harry Fox a chance to impersonate an amusing type of Swedish servant girl. The curiosity of the wife of a Secret Service agent gets the husband into trouble, also Beatrice Fairfax and Jimmy, and almost defeats the ends of justice. There is plenty of lively action throughout the picture.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 85, 1916 (Oct. 24).—Big passenger steamers leave New York despite submarine menace; hundreds of rabbits rounded up in drive, Palmdale, Cal.; Governor McCall of Massachusetts, reviews Fifth Massachusetts Infantry on their arrival from border; Yale celebrates 200th anniversary with pageant in Yale bowl, New Haven; millionaire has private zoo, Montevidio, Uruguay; bathing girls stage fancy diving exhibition at Riverside, Cal.; Candidate Hughes exchanges greetings with crowd, Chicago; President Poincare, of France, attends christening of ambulances, Paris; on the

Austro-Italian front 300 prisoners marched to base; Rosetree Hunt Club holds fortieth annual steeplechase meet; Footlights and Fashions; crowds greet President Wilson at Albany

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 86, 1916 (Oct 27).—Monmouth County Hunt Club holds drag hunt, Red Bank, N. J.; pictures showing women doing the work of men in Europe; Hughes Woman Special ends trans-continental journey, Oakland, Cal.; Thos. A. Edison visits Electrical Exhibition; Season's Latest Fashions; President Wilson receives Ambassador Gerard at Shadow Lawn. Palermo race track attracts crowd, Buenos Aires, Argentine; the Elephant Butte Dam is dedicated by the National Irrigation Congress, Sierra County, N. M.; women's hockey team wins hard fought contest; new police boat launched in Hudson River, N. Y., part of mountainside blown away to uncover raw cement, El Paso, Texas.

THE OCEAN WAIF (International), (Nov. 2).—The clever acting of Doris Kenyon makes this five-reel comedy-drama of the Atlantic coast good entertainment. The locations are picturesque and the story is conventional, but interesting. A longer review is printed on another page of this issue.

THE ADVENTURES OF DOROTHY DARE (International), (Nov).—The first episode of this series is called "It's Never Too Late." The story connected with the display of frocks brought into the picture illustrates the extent to which the female heart longs for pretty clothes and the temptation they present. Dorothy Dare, a secret agent, and a pretty shopgirl, are the leading characters. Fashion and fiction are neatly blended in the reel.

Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay.

THE PRINCE OF GRUSTARK (Essanay), Nov. 6.—Reviewed by James S. McQuade in the issue of October 21. Adapted from Geo. Barr McCutcheon's sequel to "Grustark." Excellently cast and acted and ably directed; with Bryant Washburn, Marguerite Clayton, Ernest Maupain, Sydney Ainsworth and John Cossar in the principal roles. The filmed story possesses strong interest and the settings are unusually beautiful.

Mutual Film Corporation

THAT DOG-GONE BABY (Cub), Oct. 21.—An amusing comedy, built around an old situation. The announcement of the arrival of a little dog from the west to a young couple, is mistaken by the wife's parents after a baby has been borrowed for the occasion from the photographer's to mean the birth of a baby. Among the complications that follow wife, the old people send for the photographer to photograph the baby, putting a climax on the affair. Very amusing.

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 95 (Mutual), Oct. 25.—Interesting items of this number are: The new machine gun board inspecting weapons to be used in the army; lion cubs at Central Park; views of Market street, San Francisco, with its new lighting system in operation; the "Arizona" being put in commission at the Brooklyn Navy Yards, and the arrival of the new Japanese Ambassador at Washington.

LOVERS AND LUNATICS (Cub), Oct. 27.—A moderately entertaining comedy, but not especially commendable. A young girl, who is being forced into a distasteful marriage by her father, goes away, intending to meet her real lover. The villain follows her and the girl is eventually put in an asylum, where the father and the villain come with a minister to perform the ceremony. The lover appears on the scene in time to claim the girl and have the two other men locked up.

WHEN CLUBS WERE TRUMPS (Cub), Oct. 28.—Rather an amusing comedy in which a husband, too fond of a card game, is persuaded by his comrades to indulge one night, unknown to his wife. A mix-up with a fake cop, a real cop, and an escaped lunatic makes considerable fun. A fair offering.

REEL LIFE, NO. 26 (Gaumont), Oct. 29.—Three decidedly worthwhile features are included in this number. One gives a first rate idea of the way truant boys are developed at a large parental school in Flushing, New York. The second shows the manner in which potash is made from seaweed, or kelp, on the Pacific coast. The third is an animated drawing describing the manner in which a mine layer works. A fine number.

NEARLY A HERO (Cub), Nov. 3.—A comedy number, featuring Betty Compson, Neal Burns and others. Terrible Pete, the notorious hold-up, is greatly admired by the sheriff's daughter. She wants to wed a brave man like him. Two rivals go into the hold-up business, and the timid one wins, with the help of the girl's father. There is nothing exceptional about this plot, but it proves quite entertaining.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

THE LOVE HERMIT (Mutual Star Production), Oct. 26.—A five-part production based on rather an original story. The action of the picture is in some parts pleasing, but the theme, which deals with the vengeance of a young man who has been jilted by the woman he loves, is unpleasant. Considerable has been made of love scenes, perhaps too much. The production is not altogether one to be recommended, although it is not unentertaining. William Russell and Charlotte Burton are the stars.

DAD'S MASTERPIECE (Cub.), Oct. 28.—An amusing comedy, built on an old situation with a new twist. A young girl falls in love with an artist, who is, of course, not rich in worldly goods. Her father opposes the match, but promises to give his consent if the young man paints a picture he can buy. After an unsuccessful attempt, the artist takes the old man unawares and photographs him, making love to a young woman, after which he incorporates the scene in his painting. The comedy is clean and artistically staged.

PAYING THE PRICE (Mutual), Oct. 30.—A two-reel story of love and jealousy, featuring Marian Swayne and Joseph Levering. Robert makes the mistake of introducing his partner to his sweetheart. The latter schemes with an adventuress to win the lover away and succeeds in wrecking their love temporarily, though a happy ending is reached later. The plot is not handled very skilfully and numerous scenes are so lacking in conviction as to have almost a humorous effect. A fair subject.

CANNED CURIOSITY (Mutual), Nov. 2.—A two-reel comedy, featuring Edwin August, Ivy Shepard and Ruth Blair. The two young men, in order to test the curiosity of the girls of their acquaintance, fill some cans with smoke and leave them on door steps. All of the girls open the cans, but one refills her's with smoke from a cigarette of exactly the same brand the boys used. She wins a husband. This idea is rather slight for two reels, but is original and amusing in spite of its slow action. It would have made a better one-reel subject.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN (Mutual), Nov. 11.—An interesting two-part number featuring Edna Payne and Norbert Myles. The picture, which deals with a not altogether pleasing subject, shows how a young man, who has wronged and then neglected a young woman, at a later date, and after she has died, unknowingly adopts his own son. The treatment given the story has made it very acceptable as an entertaining offering.

Paramount Pictures Corp.

THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH (Lasky), Oct. 26.—A Lasky picture of considerable merit and one that can be commended to exhibitors. A longer review will be found on another page of this issue.

THE SOUL OF KURA SAN (Lasky), Oct. 30.—Sessue Hayakawa, Myrtle Stedman and Tsuru Aoki have the leading roles in this five-reel Jananese-American photoplay. The story is a powerful one and has been skilfully produced. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

A SON OF ERIN (Fallas), Nov. 9.—With Dustin Farnum in the star role, and scene laid in Ireland and New York City this five-reel comedy-drama offers a good quality of entertainment. The story shows how the city recruits and rewards its police force. The love story rings true, and Dustin Farnum and his support give the picture the benefit of a well-acted production. "A Son of Erin" is given an extended review on a different page in this issue.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

HISTORIC NEW ORLEANS (Pathe), Nov. 5.—The French Market, the old French Opera House and the many interesting buildings in New Orleans which make the place seem like some foreign city, take up a portion of this reel. The remaining feet are given over to "Native Fowls and Game Birds," the value of the subjects being increased by the Pathecolor process.

LUKE'S PREPAREDNESS PREPARATIONS (Rolin), Nov. 5.—Lonesome Luke's efforts in this one-reel comedy are devoted to organizing and drilling a number of brave souls who yearn to win glory on the field of battle. By the time Luke has finished with his drilling, the recruits are ready to agree with Sherman's definition of war, before coming in sight of the enemy. A good tumble-about comedy.

Pathe Exchange, Inc., Specials

THE SHIELDING SHADOW, Episode, No. 6 (Pathe), Nov. 5.—"The Disappearing Prisoner" is the title of this chapter, by the denounement of which it would seem Ravengar has a double. Leontine and Ravengar have a thrilling ride down a hill toward a cliff, but through the employment by the latter of a sledge the two escape from the gypsy wagon just before it tumbles over the precipice.

A SCRATCH OF THE PEN (Pathe), Nov. 5.—The two reels of this picture are filled with strenuous action. The story has England for a background, and an attempt of one of the male characters to win the heroine by fair means or foul, leads to several thrilling fights and an escape from Portland prison. The photoplay is well acted, and contains a number of picturesque scenes.

HIDDEN VALLEY (Gold Rooster Play), Nov. 5.—This five-reel photoplay is a story of adventure among a savage tribe in South Africa. Valyyrian (the Baroness Hewitz) is the featured performer. The plot belongs to the Rider Haggard school of fiction. The production has merit. A longer review is printed on another page of the present issue.

Triangle Film Corporation.

ATTABOY'S LAST RACE (Fine Arts), Nov. 5.—A dull story of the race track and the mortgaged home, merely a repetition of what has been worn threadbare.

A CORNER IN COLLEENS (Ince), Nov. 5.—A charming story of Irish life with Bessie Barriscale in a very amusing and true characterization.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

THE BANDIT'S WAGER (Big U), Nov. 5.—A one-reel number, featuring Grace Cunard and Francis Ford. The bandit wagers he will be able to make the girl kiss him. He catches her in his cabin and wins his bet, but the identity of the bandit proves a surprise. There is a good deal of meaningless action in this, but proves a fairly convincing offering.

A POLITICAL TRAMP (Nestor), Nov. 6.—A very funny number, featuring Eddie Lyon and Lee Moran as two hobos. They escape the automobile of a touring politician. Eddie poses as the officer and Lee as his secretary. Their addresses at the probation meeting are laughable. The offering as a whole, is a decided success.

THE CRY OF CONSCIENCE (Gold Rooster), Nov. 8.—A two-reel story, with a tragic ending by Joe DeGrasse, featuring Marion Beeler, Chas. Cummings and Betty Schade. Spike [illegible] plans to kill his former pal whom he sees [illegible]. He finds him sick at home and while taunting him decides to drink what he supposes is a glass of whiskey. The drink proves a powerful medicine and Spike dies in the act of trying to shoot the other man. This is rather grewsome, but forcefully presented.

SWEEDIE, THE JANTIOR (Nestor), Nov. 10.—Walter Reed appears in his role as janitor. He deserts his wife temporarily to entertain a lady guest at the hotel, but her husband and his posse get on the trail. Many of the scenes are in night attire. This is rather funny at times, but the humor is not of a high class.

EYES OF LOVE (Rex), Nov. 10.—A number by Mary Fuller, featuring Agnes Vernon, Leah Baird and Jack Mulhall. A girl named Mary hesitates between an operatic career and marriage. Her lover becomes blind and she decides for the stage. Her sister steps in and marries the young man. The situation is a familiar one, but nicely presented here. It makes an entertaining subject.

IN LOVE WITH A FIREMAN (Joker), Nov. 11.—A comedy number, by Walter Newman, featuring Wm. Franey, Gale Henry, Chas. Conklin and Milburn Moranti. Most of the action occurs during a theatrical burlesque and is done in characteristic fashion. The burlesque is well-staged and has laughable moments. The number closes with a fire accidentally started by the village constable.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

THE HUMAN TARGET (Special Universal), Oct. 16.—Episode No. 10, of the "Liberty" series. In this characteristic number various stirring adventures are pictured. Pedro and Liberty are seen fleeing from the pursuing bandits. After being under fire on the cliffs they penetrate the open country. Here they take refuge in a cabin. The bandits again appear, kill the owner of the place and his wife. Pedro and Liberty are last seen in the cellar of the cabin, which the bandits burn to the ground. The instalment is well handled throughout.

A DAUGHTER OF MARS (Special Universal), Oct. 23.—Episode No. 11 of "Liberty." This number shows a continuation of the fighting around the 'dobe ruins. It also pictures further thrilling experiences of Liberty and Pedro in their escape. The fall of the aeroplane is well handled and realistic. Following this the two are again made captive and the number closes with them planning another escape.

FOR THE FLAG (Special Universal), Oct. 30.—No. 12 of the "Liberty" series. This is full of wild riding and fighting scenes. It continues the experiences of Liberty and Pedro in their efforts to bring help to the besieged 'dobe hut, where Capt. Rutledge and his men are holding out. The ambuscade and movements of American and Mexican troops are splendidly handled. Pedro's rescue of Major Winston is excellently done. A strong instalment.

THE PLACE BEYOND THE WINDS (Red Feather), Nov. 6.—A five-reel offering adapted by Ida May Park from a story by Harriet T. Comstock. The scenes are laid in the Canadian wilds and many attractive localities have been pictured. The story centers about a daughter of a woodsman, who learns to read from advertisements on coffee cans and packages. A half-breed [illegible] her and her stern father sends her away. She goes to the city, but returns later and marries happily. The story is not dramatic, but well rounded and nicely presented throughout. Dorothy Phillips, Lon Chaney, Jack Mulhall and others appear.

ALICE IN SOCIETY (L-KO), Nov. 7.—A three-reel comedy of the burlesque, farcical type, featuring Alice Howell, Fatty Voss, Phil Dunham and Joe Moore. This concerns a tailor and his two assistants. The girl's job is to bring customers to the shop and to do this she rips and cuts the clothing of passersby. She brings in the rich young Mr. Astorbilt and the tailor devises a fiendish plot for extorting money from him. Some of the humor in the first reel is a little rough, but generally acceptable. The last two reels are full of funny incidents, those at the reception being particularly amusing.

CRY OF CONSCIENCE (Gold Seal), Nov. 8.—A two-reel story, by Olga Printzlau, featuring Vola Smith, G. Raymond Nye, Edward Brown and Chas. Gunn. The plot concerns the shiftless son of a sheriff, sent out by his father to bring in a badly-wanted man. He takes mountain fever and the girl of the woods nurses him through an illness. Her mountain lover is the villain, and has been blackmailing the girl's father. The plot is conventional, but the presentation fairly strong. The young people get the sympathies and the closing scenes have considerable strength.

THE MANTLE OF DECEIT (Rex), Nov. 9.—A two-reel subject, written and directed by Robert F. Hill, featuring Claire Mesereau, Stanley Walpole and Joseph Grenby. The story tells of a young heiress, whose guardian dies suddenly. She is about to be victimized by a false friend, but cleverly exposes him at a masked ball. The first reel of this is rather vague and indefinite in action. The second reel is better and becomes quite interesting. An attractive cast and pleasing settings help out what would otherwise be a weak story.

THE EEL (Imp), Nov. 10.—A two-reel story of a criminal leader, known as "The Eel." The scenes are located for the most part in his dive, where a score or more of pickpockets and porch climbers report in to him. The atmosphere of the lower section is well suggested throughout. Some of the photography runs a little dark, but is generally acceptable. The [illegible] in which a girl detective and the young district attorney invade the thieves' den, is an absorbing one and well handled. Percy Challenger, Betty Schade and others appear. An entertaining crook story.

THE QUITTER (Rex), Nov. 11.—A two-reel number by M. L. MacGruder, featuring Roberta Wilson and Charles Perley. This tells of a young wife who tires of ranch life and leaves her husband to go back East. Eventually she realizes her love for him and returns. She saves the irrigation works from being blown up and captures the miscreant, thus proving that she is no 'quitter.' The theme is a good one and quite well worked out. The contrast between ranch conditions and city social life is good and the action in the closing scenes is first rate. This is better than the average.

World-Pictures.

THE HEART OF A HERO (Peerless), Nov. 6.—Nathan Hale, the hero of Colonial days, is the leading figure in this six-reel photoplay. Robert Warwick plays the part admirably. The picture is an interesting combination of well-constructed fiction and historical background. It is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

Miscellaneous.

BOOTS AND SADDLES (B. S. Moss).—A five-part adaptation of Eugene Walter's play featuring R. Henry Grey. With the exception of one or two inconsistencies, the production is a good one. The plot of the story hinges about the double life of a man who did rescue work in the day time and gambled at night. Later he is manager of the Ajax mines. A full review will be found elsewhere.

RELEASE OF "THE VAMPIRES" MOVED BACK A DAY.

The first announcement made by the Gaumont Company of the release date of "The Vampires" as a Mutual Series was that the pictures would be released every Friday beginning November 24. A desire to make the series interlock with "Fantomas" when it comes to the day of the week, to simplify Mutual arrangements for release, has brought "The Vampires" back to Thursday as the release day. The first episode will be shown Thursday, November 23. Thereafter there will be a release each Thursday until the series has been completed. Each episode of the nine is complete in three reels.

For the benefit of exhibitors the Mutual is working out some methods of local advertising which are calculated to boost business for exhibitors. These are aimed directly at the patrons of the theater, and it is promised that there will be no waste in advertising "The Vampires." As a preliminary to "The Vampires" many exhibitors are now running "Fantomas." It is the same style of French detective screen fiction.

"SHIELDING SHADOW" (Pathe).

The sixth episode of "The Shielding Shadow," Pathe's wonder serial, produced by Astor, is called "The Disappearing Prisoner," and is announced for release on November 5.

In this thrilling episode Bianca and her band attempt to rob Leontine of the valuable Rajah necklace presented to her by her husband, Sebastian. They are prevented by the eyes and dead-white hands, which later appear to Bianca, who is infatuated with Ravengar, the mysterious stranger. She hears the spoken words: "But one thing can win the love of Ravengar. Sebastian Navarro has committed a crime. Draw a confession from him and the regard of Ravengar will be won."

Bianca captures Sebastian, but he refuses to confess, even though he is threatened with torture. Leontine has been imprisoned in a gypsy wagon and Ravengar, attempting to free her, is locked in the van with her by Romanoff, who starts the wagon at break-neck speed down a sharp incline toward a high cliff.

Can Ravengar save himself and the woman he has so chivalrously protected?

CANADIANS TO SEE PICKFORD SUBJECTS.

The Canadian invasion of the new Mary Pickford productions, presented by Artcraft Pictures Corporation, took a boom last week when the Regent theater in Toronto, and the Dominion in Winnipeg, signed with the Monarch Film Company, Ltd., for "Less Than the Dust," each for a week's showing. The Monarch is handling the entire Dominion of Canada for Artcraft Pictures Corporation, Ltd., 12 Queen street, East, and reports that interest in the new Pickford pictures is running at high tide from Halifax to Vancouver.

In the States the pile of contracts at the Artcraft offices mounts steadily higher. There is no longer any question about the ability of the exchange managers to keep eighty prints busy; the problem is to make this huge number cover the territory to the satisfaction of clamoring exhibitors. No territory has a monopoly on first run privileges; the demand for the first productions of Mary Pickford's own company are limited only by the number of progressive exhibitors in the United States.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

The Fox "Romeo and Juliet"

A Beautiful Shakespearian Production in Five Reels with Theda Bara as Chief Treasure of the House of Capulet.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

IT is better to be young and Juliet than to be a Sarah Bernhardt trying to be young when the cold screen refuses to be deceived. Theda Bara is young and her long dark curls make many a beautiful picture as she enacts in this Fox version of the great Shakespearean play, the fairest girl in all

Scene from "Romeo and Juliet" (Fox).

Verona. Harry Hilliard, as Romeo, also has the bloom of youth and an engaging personality that goes well with his role. It is a very worthwhile picture that any one might be glad to see. If it doesn't reach those heights of beauty that give to the critic who has seen great presentations of the richly magnificient play, it is beautiful enough to inspire many and give delight to them. It tells the story clearly. The story is full of suspense and that suspense remains in the picture. The scenes in which it is told are often glorious and hundreds seem to have been employed in making the full-manned scenes on street and in market place and in the funeral procession which was impressive till marred for one unhappy moment by the levity of one rose girl. The set scenes give a good suggestion of an Italian city and the chosen backgrounds are just about what was desired.

Scene from "Romeo and Juliet" (Fox).

The nurse is a "rich" part and a hard part to play even in the spoken drama with all the aid of the poet's wit and humor. In the picture, the humor has largely to be created. Alice Gale deserves credit for her presentation of a humorously grumpy, but motherly old soul. Both Glen White, as Mercutio, and John Webb Dillon, as Tybalt, are as the real thing in the gentlemanly swashbuckler way and fill the bill to perfection. Helen Tracy, as Lady Capulet, is acceptable and more pleasing than the too stiff Lord, her husband, played by Edwin Holt. Lord Montague, by Elwin Eaton, has but a momentary part to play. Victory Bateman's Lady Montague is effective in the trial scene. Walter Law as Friar Laurence carries his part of the picture well.

The film stands as a pretty presentation of the "world's sweetest story." It is a valuable offering that would please any audience. The director, J. Gordon Edwards, deserves more credit, perhaps, than any one else interested in it. The scenario, by Adrien Johnson, ought also to be mentioned as economical, clear and able. It has drawn the story through many lovely scenes. It departs from the Shakespearan ending and follows the even more dramatic close of the original Italian.

"The Heart of a Hero"

Six-Reel Peerless Photoplay Visualizing the Life of Nathan Hale—Released by the World Film Corporation.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

A SIX-REEL screen drama which follows along the lines of the stage play written by Clyde Fitch on the life of Nathan Hale has been produced by the Peerless. It will be released on the World Film program. The theme is one that should appeal to every American. The story follows the career of the young hero of Colonial days in its main points, the material supplied by the playwright giving it an added touch of romance. The opening reels are deliberate of movement, but the story gathers force as it progresses, and the last three reels are intensely dramatic. The atmosphere of the period is well reproduced, and Emile Chautard, the director, has handled his task with skill.

New London, Connecticut, where Nathan Hale conducts a country school, is the scene of the early action of the drama. Nathan and Alice Adams, one of his pupils, are lovers. At the outbreak of hostilities between the Colonists and England, young Hale joins the army, with the sanction of his sweetheart. He wins a Captain's commission, and, when a spy is called for to go inside of the enemy's line, volunteers for the duty. Fear for his safety makes Alice implore him to change his determination, but Nathan sticks to his resolve. Guy Fitzroy, a cousin of Miss Adams, also loves Alice. Fitz-

Scene from "The Heart of a Hero" (World).

Roy is a British officer. When Hale enters the British lines, disguised as a loyalist, he is recognized by Fitzroy, who puts up a ruse to trap him. Alice is made a party to this, and the play ends with the scene in the apple orchard as Nathan bravely mounts the ladder to meet death as a spy.

Robert Warwick has the title role. He plays the part with the right feeling and the requisite physical endowment. Gail Kane is attractive and forceful as Alice Adams. Alec B. Francis, George McQuarrie, Clifford Gray, Henry West, Charles Jackson, Clara Whipple and Mildred Havens are the remaining members of an excellent cast.

"The Sex Lure"

Six-Part Ivan Subject Contains a Strong Story Interpreted By An Excellent Cast.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell

IVAN Film Productions will release on November 1 "The Sex Lure," a six-part subject containing situations of strength. As indicated by the title, the theme is of the vampire order, but by no means is the action as questionable as that title might lead some to infer. The basis for the title is the presence in the story of a wayward girl who is befriended by a family of means. Believing the head of it, a manufacturer, is responsible through defective equipment, for the death of her father, she seeks from motives of revenge to disrupt his family. In the course of a decade, aided unwittingly by the wife of the household, who suffers from melancholy due to the tragic disappearance of her son, the plan succeeds. The new alliance continues in force until the appearance of the son, who in dramatically retributive fashion wins the regard of the woman, only to expose her to his father and later to reunite his parents.

Scene from "The Sex Lure" (Ivan).

The cast is a strong one. Louise Vale as the wife and mother gives us a remarkable characterization. The former Biograph player confirms her reputation for first-rank ability in emotional portrayal. Donald Hall is the father and husband who finally tires of the melancholy of his wife and succumbs to the lure of the vengeance-inspired woman. Frankie Mann is the woman. James Morrison portrays the son grown to manhood. George Henry is Colonel Denby, who appears late in the story as the friend of the mother-in-law and the wife.

There is a pretty subsidiary story running through the later portion of the play. That is the interest Denby displays in one of the two women of the family. We are not sure that his intentions are not directed toward the wife, and there is bound to be measurable disappointment that the reunion of husband and wife interrupts a friendship that seems more than a congenial and a happy one. There is apt to be present a feeling the husband in winning back his wife gets more than is coming to him or more than he deserves.

"The Sex Lure" is a strong picture and is finely played by men and women well known to the screen.

"The Masque of Life"

Italian-Made Seven-Reel Production Replete with Thrills—Should Please American Audiences.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

THE Masque of Life," a seven-reel picture produced in Italy by the Signet Film Company and sponsored in this country by Count G. de Cippico, who will distribute it on a territorial rights basis, is a production so full of thrills and story that it should be welcomed by American exhibitors. The film is so totally different from anything that has been seen in this country of late; so weird and startling in several of its idea-axis on which the plot revolves, and so filled with exciting moments and "stunts" that it can hardly fail to attract and hold the interest of its spectators.

Pete Montebello, an educated monkey, takes a leading part in the production, and that part of the picture in which the monkey appears is a vivid and weird visualization of the plot-workings of an imagination that borders on the gruesomeness of Edgar Allan Poe. The monkey crawls up a lightning rod on the side of the house in which the young king's baby lies sleeping. The animal slinks into the baby prince's chamber and steals the baby from his crib. Pete, the monkey, then escapes with his burden, climbs down the lightning rod, and is pursued by the entire household. Pete then climbs up a wire on the side of a brick smokestack that rises more than a hundred feet into the air. Here comes a real thrill, for we see the baby, in the arms of the monkey, on the narrow stone lip of the chimney, far above the ground. Then the girl climbs up the wire ascended by Pete and, reaching the top, endeavors to rescue the baby from the perilous perch. The monkey fights her, but is finally subdued and thrown into the chimney. The girl, after lowering the baby on the rope, attempts suicide by leaping from the chimney top, but is caught in a blanket.

Other thrills come throughout the unwinding of the seven reels, and several spectacular scenes are seen during the course of the fire that destroys the hippodrome in which the circus is playing, among the more thrilling of which are those scenes showing wild animals, frenzied with fear of the fire, leaping into a pool of water to escape.

During the performance of the circus there occurs an allegorical pantomime of fairies, which has several claims to recognition, among which are the spectacular appeal and the manner in which the scenes were staged. In this part of the film fantasy and fact are intermingled with a melodramatic appeal that gets over well.

The story visualized in "The Masque of Life" is unusual, and seven reels are not more than are required to tell the story. From the standpoint of production, "The Masque of Life" is, in many phases, on a par with many of the better American productions, still in other ways it does not rank with domestic pictures. The film is noticeable from this standpoint by the lack of close-ups. It is understood that much of the laboratory work on this film was done in this country. It was welded into finished form by Jacob L. Kempner and Count de Cippico. The artistic sub-titles are worthy of mention.

Rita Jolivet and Hamilton Revelle appear as the Pierrot figures, who are controlled by strings in the hand of Fate.

"Hidden Valley"

Five-Reel Pathe Gold Rooster Photoplay Produced by Thanhouser—An Interesting Story of Adventure.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

VALKYRIEN is the feature player of "Hidden Valley," a five-reel Pathe Gold Rooster screen drama made by the Thanhouser Company. The important scenes take place in South Africa and suggest the tales of adventure of which Rider Scene from "Hidden Valley" (Pathe).

Haggard has been so prolific an author. "Hidden Valley" has the necessary ingredients to make such a story palatable. There are savage tribes, a manly hero, a captive white girl and a mysterious temple that is her prison house. A young divinity student, who is "given the mitten" by his sweetheart, accepts an offer from his uncle to go to Africa and investigate a business matter. The uncle is an importer of ostrich plumes, and wants to learn why his supply has fallen off. At the remote station to which he is sent the young man hears of a hidden valley where plenty of feathers are to be found, but where the natives are anything but friendly. In spite of warnings he enters the valley and meets with several surprises. The natives take him for a god and insist that he restore the valley to its old fertility by bringing water again to their lands. The student succeeds in doing this, with the help of a beautiful white girl who has been captured by the tribe. It is their intention to offer her as a sacrifice, so she dresses becomingly in white robes and is attended by a score of dusky maidens who teach her their native dances. The arrival of the divinity student opens the way for her escape, as she is able to show him a stream of water that flows under the temple and the tribe is tricked into believing that their new god has called it into existence. The student is allowed to depart with the girl.

Ernest C. Warde is responsible for the direction of the play. He shows patience and skill in drilling the cast and the extra people, and has given the African scenes considerable local color. Valkyrien, who is also the Baroness Dewitz, looks fetching as the captive maiden and acts with good effect. Boyd Marshall, Ernest Warde and Arthur Bower are the prominent members of the supporting company.

"Shadows and Sunshine"

Five-Reel Pathe Release, Featuring the Remarkable Child Actress, Marie Osborne, the Creator of "Little Mary Sunshine."

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE five-reel picture made by Balboa for the Pathe Company and featuring Marie Osborne, the creator of "Little Mary Sunshine," is in a class by itself. Written for the sole purpose of exploiting the remarkable personality of this mite of a child, it fulfills its mission in a thoroughly satisfactory manner. In other words, it permits this gifted bit of precociousness to dominate every scene and work her sweet will with the heart of the spectator. The gods have been lavish of their favors to this five-year-old girl. She is not a finished actress and it would be going beyond the facts to speak of her art; but, she has imagination, intelligence, a winning personality, and that indescribable something known as magnetism—the power to catch and hold the attention, no matter how many persons are on the scene. The spirit of happy childhood pervades everything she does, and it has not been found necessary to have her behave, or misbehave, so that she deserves a good spanking in order to keep up the comedy supply. One of her chief charms is her grace of movement, and every action is executed with engaging confidence and deftness.

A young man who marries a pretty working girl and is cast off by his wealthy father, furnishes the first motive of "Shadows and Sunshine." After the birth of a baby girl, the young man hits upon a scheme to win his father over. He has his wife and child establish themselves in a cottage next to his old home. Little Mary soon becomes friendly with her grandfather, and when the truth leaks out the old man is overjoyed. Most of the scenes take place in the house or out in the grounds of the old homestead. Charming bits of ingenuousness are Little Mary's bath in the brook and her attempt to scrub the colored boy white.

Scene from "Shadows and Sunshine" (Pathe)

The production and the supporting company are up to the mark. But the one big thing about the picture is little Marie Osborne, with her endowment of beautiful childhood and her power to please.

Miller to Direct Enid Bennett.

Charles Miller will direct Enid Bennett, the Thomas H. Ince "find," in her first Triangle picture, work on which will begin next week.

"The Ocean Waif"

Doris Kenyon Has the Leading Role of a Five-Part Photoplay on the International Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE International Film Service has added "The Ocean Waif," a five-reel photoplay by Frederick Chapin, to its program. Carlyle Blackwell and Doris Kenyon are costarred in the announcements relating to the picture, but the author has failed to give the masculine member of the partnership equal opportunities with the woman who plays the waif. This condition receives added emphasis from the fact that Miss Kenyon meets every requirement of the character of Mollie. In fact, it is quite within bounds to credit her with giving the entire picture a value considerably above its inherent worth. For the most part, the moods she is called upon to portray are those of light-hearted ingenuousness. She accomplishes her task with a sureness of method and a charm of person that must win every spectator. The action in the last two reels introduces several dramatic incidents,—a murder, Scene from "The Ocean Waif" (International).

among the rest—and here also Miss Kenyon is equal to the occasion. Carlyle Blackwell makes all that can possibly be made out of the part of Ronald Roberts; and it is entirely the fault of the author that he fails to divide honors with his fellow-payer.

Frederick Chapin's story contains a number of entertaining moments, but the material employed is somewhat familiar. An ocean waif who has been reared by a drunken fisherman on the Atlantic Coast is not a novel personage in stage or screen friction. Her adventures in a deserted mansion that has the reputation of being haunted and where she meets a wealthy young novelist are amusing, after the fashion of the fun in 'Daddy Longlegs" and "The Cinderella Man." Later in the play when the hero is accused of killing the drunken fisherman the plot follows a more conventional vein.

Many of the locations are picturesque, and the haunted mansion is particularly effective.

"The Heir to the Hoorah"

Lasky Five-Reel Picture of Famous Play—Directed by C. B. De Mille with Thomas Meighan and Anita King in the Leads.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

THERE is plenty of popular atmosphere in this picture by the Lasky studio, "The Heir to the Hoorah." It quite plainly pleased the kind of audience—not predisposed to enthusiasm surely—that one finds in front of the usual press screening, so exhibitors can pretty well rely on patrons carrying out of the show that desirable "more than their money's worth" feeling. The name is also more easily advertised than usual; for circumstances helped to boost the play and attracted wide attention to it—it is known to almost everybody.

It has quality and tells the kind of story that democratic audiences are apt to like. To begin with, it discredits that commercial spirit that tries to spoil youth's love story. To be asked to use love to butter one's bread has always disgusted youth. The picture's villainess is the heroine's mother, whose eye sees only the main chance. The hero is a rich Westerner who, with two partners, owns the "Hoorah," a gold mine. The two get it into their heads that the mine must have an heir and they try to choose a wife for the young partner. The only women they know are the dance hall girls, but these disgust the hero. The heroine, meanwhile, is in the East and refusing the witless moneybags her mother insists she marry. She and her mother come West and meet the hero. He is the kind any girl could love and they get married. The story tells how they find out that they really love each other. But it is the good American characters that keep the action alive with humor and humanity.

Thomas Meighan plays the hero, with Anita King in the opposite role. The two partners, rich characters both, are played by Charles Ogle and Horace B. Carpenter. Edythe Chapman plays the mother and all ably put substance into the action. A good picture for an audience.

Scene from "The Heir to the Hoorah" (Lasky).

"The Place Beyond the Winds"

Five-Reel Red Feather Offering, Based on Story by Harriet T. Comstock, Features Dorothy Phillips.

Reviewed by Robert C. McElravy.

THE usual story of the Canadian wilds suggests adventurous episodes of the red-blooded type. This production is not wanting in interesting action, but it is not to be so classified. It is more of a character study, or folk story, getting closer to the life of the people in those regions than the average offering with a Canadian background.

It follows the fortunes of a young girl, the daughter of a woodsman of stern, unrelenting mien and intense religious convictions. The girl learns her letters off the coffee cans and other groceries done up in packages, until fate throws her into acquaintance with a school-teacher. The latter individual is really a fugitive from justice, though not a criminal at heart. He killed a man for ruining the woman he loved and his story is brought out in detail as a side plot.

Priscilla, the trapper's daughter, offends her father by reading a novel and later by dancing in the woods. She is lured away by a half-breed named Jerry and, while returning unharmed, is unable to offer a believable excuse to her stern parent. He casts her off and she goes to the city. After numerous experiences as a hospital nurse, during which she learns more of the schoolmaster's life, she returns. The plot then moves on to a pleasing conclusion. Priscilla marrying Scene from "The Place Beyond the Winds" (Universal).

Dick Travers, who had visited the region for his health years before.

This contains some very picturesque and enjoyable scenic views. The story, while not of a dramatic type, is well constructed and holds the interest.

Dorothy Phillips plays the part of Priscilla artistically; Lon Chaney portrays well the part of the half-breed, and C. Norman Hammond is good as the forbidding male parent. Others in the cast are Alice May Yousse, Jack Mulhall and Joseph De Grasse. The production was also directed by Mr. De Grasse.

Five New Kalems Are Shown

"The Son of Cain" and "The Man From Yukon" Head the List.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

INCREASED interest is aroused in Robert Welles Ritchie's "The Girl From Frisco" series in the thirteenth episode, entitled "The Son of Cain." The keynote of this two-reel release is action. The plot moves swiftly, and not for a moment is interest allowed to lag. Exciting occurrences follow one another in rapid succession, and any audience that likes melodrama will like the picture. Marin Sais as Barbara Brent, is called on in this chapter to do several daring stunts, and she does them with a realism that thrills. Her fall from a fast-running horse and subsequent slide down a steep embankment could hardly be improved upon. And, too, she leaps from a moving train, crossing a bridge, into a river, as does also Ronald Bradbury.

The plot visualized in the two reels is absorbing. The author has taken his inspiration from an actual murder mystery that occurred in Arizona several years ago. The story tells of Barbara's unraveling of the mystery surrounding the murder of a hermit bee keeper, who hides his gold coin in hardened beeswax. After the murderer has been identified he is pursued by Barbara, and her work on the top of a moving train is to be commended.

True Boardman is featured in the cast with Marin Sais,

Scene from "The Son of Cain" (Kalem).

others are Ronald Bradbury, Frank Jonasson, Edward Clisbee and Hart Hoxie. James W. Horne directed.

"The Man From Yukon."

The confidence game so long worked by the Gondorf gang of "wireless wire-tappers" has furnished Robert Welles Ritchie the suggestion for his scenario of "The Man From Yukon," third episode in the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, and with this nucleus the author has wrought a one-reel plot that has been excellently filmed by Director Robert Ellis. George Larkin, in this number, furnishes a sensation when he jumps to the sill of the sixth-floor window of a building and descends to the pavement on a rope used to hoist a tar bucket. Mr. Larkin and one of the wiretappers indulge in a fight in this picture that is realistic in the extreme.

Ollie Kirkby, Director Robert Ellis and William McKey are also seen in the cast. The story tells on the screen of how the reporter saves the ignorant miner from falling a victim to the gang of wiretappers, and how he brings about their capture.

"The Gate of Death."

Helen Gibson's feat in this number of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series comes when she slides down a construction-camp chute in a small carrier and shoots across the top of a speeding freight train. Besides this stunt, there are other tense moments in this reel. There is some exciting fighting when two crooks try to get a satchel containing the pay roll for the mining camp. It is with this satchel that Helen takes a chance on her life. The story is melodramatically interesting and follows the same general lines as previous "Hazards of Helen." The cast includes Helen Gibson, P. S. Pembroke, G. A. Williams and George Routh.

"The New Salesman."

Ham, Bud, Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch show up to fairly good comedy advantage in this reel. Ham and Bud as helpers at a dairy are funny. They get jobs as salesmen in a department store where Henry is the house detective. Ethel is a shoplifter, who is succored from capture by Ham and Bud. There are enough laughs in this comedy to lift it a trifle above some that have gone before.

"A Desperate Duel."

There is not much to this number of the Ham and Bud comedies. The action is rather slow, and the story is by no means new. Ham and Bud are both suitors for the hand of Ethel (Ethel Teare), and when a Frenchman appears as a third suitor they are nonplussed. Ham insults the Frenchman, who challenges to a duel. Ham takes him up, and it is during the course of the duel and Ham's subsequent confinement in a hospital that what comedy there is in the film occurs.

"Gloriana"

Bluebird Five-Reel Photoplay with Zoe Rae, the Child Actress, as the Star, Released November 6.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel

THE five-reel Bluebird release "Gloriana," starring little Zoe Rae, was written and directed by E. Mason Hopper, from a scenario by W. H. Lippert. A photoplay of this nature is in a class by itself. In the first place, the work of everyone connected with its making is secondary to the youthful star. On her young shoulders rests the task of carrying the production to success. If she possess the proper amount of precocity and "cuteness" to inspire the female spectator with a desire to exclaim, "Isn't she clever! Isn't she a dear!" the difficulties in the path of the director and the scenario writer are reduced over fifty per cent. Little Zoe Rae belongs in the front rank of child actresses, and bears her stellar honors in "Gloriana" with gratifying ease. The part she plays in the photodrama is that of a child of the stage, a winsome little miss of five who has faced the footlights almost from the day of her birth. The young lady's training has fitted her for the role. An excellent quality of native talent has been supplemented by careful coaching in the art of the actor. Little Miss Rae has learned her lesson well, and acts her scenes like a veteran. She is an engaging little body, plump and pleasing of person, and is still unspoiled by her artificial environment.

Scene from "Gloriana" (Bluebird)

The first reel of "Gloriana" shows the little heroine's connection with stage life. She is a lightning calculator, and is giving a performance when her mother receives a telegram that her husband has been killed "somewhere in France." The shock is too much for the poor woman. At her death Gloriana is adopted by a wealthy physician, who has a boy a few years older than the girl. The doctor's wife is a charity worker who is in the game for the glory she can get out of it, but too busy to pay much heed to Gloriana. The child has ideas of her own on the best way to help the poor, and puts them into practical use by helping herself to her foster mother's pocketbook and giving it to the aged parents of her governess. She also runs away and trades her fine new frock for the garments of a tenement child. Her actions open the eyes of the doctor's wife to the meaning of true charity.

The scenario serves its purpose fairly well. The action could be quickened to advantage, and some of the incidents made more convincing, but as the plot keeps Zoe in the center of the stage its minor faults need not be dwelt upon. Virginia Foltz, William Canfield, Clarissa Selwynne, Gordon Griffith, Irene Hunt, Mary Talbot and John J. Cook furnish satisfactory support.

Victoria Forde Produces Selig Comedy.

"When Cupid Slipped," a Selig one-reel comedy, released in General Film program, Saturday, November 11, is unusual in many respects. It was written and produced by popular Victoria Forde, who also assumes the leading comedy role. Miss Forde appears in an entirely new character.

Triangle Program

Two Interesting Five-Reel Features, "The Microscope Mystery," Fine-Arts, and "The Honorable Algy," Ince.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

NOT merely a detective story of the higher sort is "The Microscope Mystery." It presents some delicate characterization, usually absent from plays of this kind. The start leads one to think that there is to be only a comedy of swindling, such as George R. Chester delights to create, and this part of the offering is maintained with interest by Wilfred Lucas and his support so well that we are not treated to a long and weary period of preparation during the early scenes. They portray the ingenious operations of three quack doctors of the "consultation-free" type in a small country town. Lucas impersonates the only real practitioner in the place, and he presents no active opposition to the swindling scheme.

Scene from "The Microscope Mystery" (Triangle).

When, however, the leading quack is mysteriously killed while swindling a wealthy old man, a patient who imagines that he has almost every disease described in a work on the theory and practice of medicine, the real physician comes to the front with a purely scientific discovery of the murderer, probably the last to be suspected. He does not rely upon finger prints, but delves deeper into the evidence offered by inanimate things, such as the handle of the weapon. His microscopic discoveries are admirably photographed, an introduction of the instructive which might be deemed dangerous under ordinary circumstances, but which heightens the effect and gives the whole story new value. In a general way, the release presents relief from the mediocre. It is bright, human and thoroughly enjoyable.

"The Honorable Algy" is constructed with a great deal of bright and entertaining ingenuity, and its characterizations are admirable. Charles Day has done his best piece of work as the cadet of an old and patrician family in financial straits. Dearly loving a sweet girl at home, he is sent forth on an adventurous trip in America to save the family fortunes

Scene from "The Honorable Algy" (Triangle).

by marrying in that great heiress mart of the world, our own society. His adventures begin aboard ship on the way. The purser's safe is robbed of jewels belonging to an American millionaire and a search follows. The thief hides his loot in a ventilator which chances to be that of Algy's stateroom, and the jewels fall into the hands of Algy. He is sorely tempted to make use of them to save his family, but he thinks better of it on shore and mails them to the rightful owner, claiming no reward. By an ingenious interchange of packages they fall into the hands of a dissolute suitor for the hand of the heiress, and their final discovery clears the atmosphere in clever style.

There is more than ingenuity of plot to raise the value of this story. There is a fine human note and some charming characterization. Charles Day surpasses himself in the title role, showing a finish and craftsmanship in his impersonation that constitutes a distinct advance over his previous work. He is ably supported by a company without compare so far as unity and harmony of action is concerned. Not the least effective scene in the entire play is that of presenting Algy at a Christmas celebration with what is nearest to his heart, the Vicar's daughter he left behind. There is beauty and charm throughout, and this final scene makes a new, bright and fitting conclusion.

"A SON OF ERIN."

Dustin Farnum Is Seen in a Pallas Five-Reel Screen Play Of Good Quality—Released on the Paramount Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

IN "A Son of Erin," starring Dustin Farnum, the hero realizes his ambition—he becomes a New York policeman. Having been born on the "ould sod" and thus qualified for the position, he loses no time in trying to get on the force, once he has landed at the Battery. The author of "A Son of Erin" has aimed to write an entertaining story about familiar phases of life, and has kept to well-beaten paths in his choice of material.

Events open in Ireland. Dennis O'Hara and Katie O'Grady are sweethearts. Both are poor, and a rascally landlord adds to their troubles. Learning that the manifest destiny of every Irish lad is to go to New York and become a policeman, Dennis accepts his fate and sails for America, after Katie has made a great sacrifice and paid for his passage. After considerable trying experience the young chap passes his police examination and is just about to send for his sweetheart when he is made the scapegoat in a graft exposure and deprived of his uniform. He goes through several more trying experiences, in which his honesty is equal to the test, and eventually finds himself back on the force, the gold badge of a captain of police on his breast. Katie, who has been having an unpleasant time at home, with the rascally landlord, is sent for and almost overwhelmed at sight of Dennis in his new uniform.

Scene from "A Son of Erin" (Paramount).

In writing his scenario, if the author of the photoplay did not have Dustin Farnum in view it was a lucky day for him when this always reliable actor was given the part of Dennis O'Hara. Mr. Farnum has so many engaging qualities and embodies the character with so much manliness and so lively a sense of humor, that he wins and holds the admiration through the entire five reels. The story never rises to the superlative degree of merit, but it is clean, natural, and thanks to the star and his support, always entertaining. The atmosphere of the land of St. Patrick is well sustained, but using Los Angeles for the New York City scenes is not an absolute success.

Winifred Kingston plays Katie O'Grady effectively and makes a pretty little colleen. Tom Bates, Jack Livingston, Wilfred McDonald, Wallace Pyke, Lee Willard, Mabel Wiles and Hugh B. Kach are happily cast.

"Of Such Is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Director Lloyd Carleton is filming "Of Such Is the Kingdom of Heaven," a story written by Henry C. Warnack and prepared for the screen by A. W. Coldway, of the Universal staff. The photoplay will be made in five reels, featuring Gretchen Lederer and Emory Johnson, well-known players of Universal City.

"The Yellow Menace"

Thirteenth and Fourteenth Episodes of Unity Sales Corporation Serial Contain Thrilling Melodramatic Incidents.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald

"The Spy and the Submarine."

IN this the thirteenth episode of a serial remarkable for its melodramatic quality, Howard Smithson, inventor, is deceived by Ali Singh. In European clothing he misrepresents himself and gains the confidence of Smithson to the extent that the inventor takes him into the submarine and shows him the wonderful air-lock through manipulation of which the submarine's occupants may meet death within five minutes without means of escape. An attack on Smithson by Ali Singh's confederates knocks him senseless; but reviving more quickly than his enemies had counted on, he leaps to his feet, smashes the air lock and escapes as the ship sinks. Hong Kong Harry also distinguishes himself in this episode by kidnapping Najla.

Scene from "The Yellow Menace" (Unity).

"The Interrupted Nuptials."

The fourteenth episode concerns itself principally with the mistreatment of Najla, who is now in the den of Ali Singh, and about to be forced into marriage with Hong Kong Harry. An attack on the home of Ali Singh interferes with the last rites of the marriage ceremony. It is unfortunate that the Chinese makeup on Hong Kong Harry is so inartistic.

"Boots and Saddles"

Eugene Walter's Play Well Adapts Itself to the Screen, Presented by B. S. Moss.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THE five-part production of Eugene Walter's well-known play as presented on the screen by the B. S. Moss Picture Corporation is pleasing, and of necessity red-blooded. "Boots and Saddles" is of that type in which the hero boasts Scene from "Boots and Saddles" (Moss).

the old-fashioned quality of gallantry where a woman is concerned that will cause even the hardened modern audience to burst with applause at his noble deeds.

The director might have done better by "Boots and Saddles"; for there are times when he has allowed the insertion of a scene which was notable for its lack of true significance, such as the little riding episode when Lucy walks off horse in hand and meets Sergeant James either intentionally or by accident, and walks back to her associates nearby shortly afterward, having merely spoken a few words to her former lover. Again he is at fault where Ferris after taking the pay roll from the safe in the Ajax Company's office to his house, bidding his wife guard it with a gun, meets his companions outside his door, is held up by them at the point of a gun, and forced to enter his own house. It is beyond reason that his wife would not have witnessed the affair from the window.

Apart from these trivial faults the production is convincing. The brawl in the saloon at the mines has been well staged. The characterization is good throughout, and well interpreted by an excellent cast headed by R. Henry Grey, whose work as Sergeant James is especially pleasing and manly. Robyn Adair as George Ferris impersonates well the cowardly fellow who lives a despicably double life. Others of the cast are Norman Luke, Charles Dudley, George Pheilen, Lillian West, and Claire Glenn.

"The Soul of Kura San"

Five-Reel Japanese-American Photoplay Produced by Jesse L. Lasky—Released on the Paramount Program.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

EXCELLENT acting and skillful production make "The Soul of Kura San," the five-reel Japanese-American screen play from the Jesse L. Lasky studio, an unusually gripping picture. The story is hectic, but the motives are not overdrawn and lead up to a strong climax. Of the three principal characters, two are Japanese. These two parts are acted by Sessue Hayakawa, so favorably known to the screen, and Tsuru Aoki, his talented wife. Myrtle Stedman plays a young American girl who becomes the object of the Oriental's vengence. Hayakawa's character is that of Foya, a poor Japanese artist who loves Kura-San, the daughter of a teahouse proprietor. The pair are too poor to marry and are about to commit suicide when Foyo is sent for by his wealthy uncle in America.

While Foyo is away Kura-San's father makes her believe that Foyo has been married. The girl then consents to pose for an American artist and goes to live with him. When Foyo returns to Japan and Kura San learns the truth she kills herself after confessing that the artist has dishonored her. Foyo, now wealthy, returns to America, bent on avenging Kura San. He learns that the artist is engaged to marry Anne Willoughby, a beautiful American girl. Foyo lures the girl to his house and, before a picture of Kura San, attempts to repay the artist in kind. The American arrives in time to prevent Foyo from accomplishing his purpose, and the Japanese kills himself at the foot of Kura San's picture.

The offense that such a story might give under less intelligent handling is skillfully avoided in the present case. The settings throughout, Japanese and American, are correct in every detail,

Scene from "The Soul of Kura San" (Lasky).

and the artistic impersonations contributed by Sessue Hayakawa, Myrtle Stedman and Tsuru Aoki lift the picture into the field of tragedy. In the last scene the struggle between the Japanese and the American girl strikes a strong note—it almost becomes symbolic of a conflict between the two races. George Webb, Thomas Kurihara and George Kuwa share in the good impression made by the picture.

"Tilly's Vacation."

William A. Brady has granted a vacation to Marie Dressler so she may rehearse for the new Century Theater show, but as soon as it opens she must return daytimes to the World Film Corporation for her second picture.

The "Devil's Prize"

Five-Reel Vitagraph Production Is Study of Character—Scarcely Any Action.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

QUITE a mental effort is required on the part of the spectator to coherently transfer from the screen to his intelligence the story visualized in "The Devil's Prize," a five-reel Blue Ribbon Feature produced by Vitagraph. The story, written by Marguerite Bertsch, who also directed the production, has considerable strength, but none of its leading characters has any claim to the sympathy of an average person unless it be the newspaperman or the child. The picture is one that holds the attention throughout the five reels, but its effect is rather depressing.

Scene from "The Devil's Prize" (Vitagraph).

Antonio Moreno and Naomi Childers are featured, and it is the work of character delineation on their part and on the part of Albert S. Howson and Clio Ayres that makes the picture acceptable. There is nothing elevating in the production, but it certainly has a claim to individuality. The story tells of a man who always manages to place the blame for his misdeeds on someone else, and who is beloved by rich and poor alike. He has betrayed a girl, who later marries a newspaper man. The man marries a wealthy woman. He is a power in the community and when Mark Stratton (Templer Saxe) decides to foist his worthless mining stock on the working people in the guise of philanthropy the man dares not refuse his aid because Stratton "has something on" him. The man finally murders Stratton and goes so far as to lay the blame at the door of another. His wife thus learns his true character.

Meanwhile the newspaper man (Mr. Moreno), whose paper was responsible for the sale of the worthless stock, learns that the man is the father of the child he believed to be his. The newspaper man goes to kill St. Clair, but before he is able to carry out his plans the Devil takes his own.

Mildred Platz is a child actress who pleases. Lark Taylor also does good work.

Does Big Business with "Quo Vadis"

That genuine feature productions of superlative merit never grow old, and that such subjects compare more than favorably with the average "first run" feature releases of the day as box office magnets, is the opinion of A. L. Robb, manager of the Strand theater, Washington, D. C. The Strand recently played George Kleine's classic masterpiece, "Quo Vadis," to capacity business for three days.

"It gives me great pleasure to inform you," writes Mr. Robb to the Kleine exchange, in Washington, "that the recent run of 'Quo Vadis' at our Strand theater was so successful that we desire to play the attraction again in the near future for another run of three days.

"The success of 'Quo Vadis' would seem to knock out the theory that a picture cannot be run to profit after it has played a town, for the Strand was crowded during the entire three days when 'Quo Vadis' held the screen."

All the George Kleine branch offices are reporting a revival of "big business" with "Quo Vadis," which shows that Mr. Robb is not alone in recognizing the worth of the feature that can "come back."

"Jealousy," Third Suratt Production, Out November 20.

Valeska Suratt has started on a new photoplay for William Fox. "Jealousy," the third Suratt picture to be released, will be shown on November 20. It is a photodrama as powerful as the title would indicate. Besides Miss Suratt, there are included in the "Jealousy" company, Charles Edwards, Walter Law, Charline Mayfield, Lincoln's grandniece, and Curtis Benton.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

Merged.

ALTHOUGH merging seems to be claimed by the film making companies as their specialty, the Rowland and Clark houses in Pittsburgh have merged their programs, and one edition now does for the four houses, the Bellevue, a sort of half-sister, retaining the old form. The new Film Forecast is a tasty looking sheet, sixteen pages and cover, the latter a cream done in photo brown, pages 8 by 11 inches. In the new form the issue can be made much more useful to the four houses, but in the initial issue the layout lacks form. You look all through the sheet not knowing just where to set your eye, and the pages are broken with one and two column stories, and advertisements that add to the confusion. Since it is the purpose of the house to write up a coming attraction but once, though it will play the four houses, we would suggest that the middle page be taken a half page to a house for the formal program with a reference to stories in the current issue by page and "Page 3, last week" or whatever it may be for stories written up in previous issues. Then use a straight newspaper make-up for the other pages, and kill the printer if he gets it too mussy. There is so much good material in the old issues that in the new form it could be made to work even harder if only it could be displayed so as to be read without fatigue. At present it tires the eye to look at the pages. Very few worth while papers have hit their stride the first issue, and we shall watch for later numbers with interest. At present their best program is the underline on page 18 of the initial number. That is clear and exact. We would suggest that a somewhat similar table might be used for the running attractions. If a feature opens at the Regent and is found particularly good, those who saw it there can consult the list and find that it will play on certain days at the other houses, and either see it again in its new stand or recommend it to their friends. With a chain of houses they can capitalize to the full the better attractions, and people will follow the film if they know where they can find it a few days later. They have a set schedule for the releases, but they should give titles, houses and dates to get the full value for all houses. If we are any prophet the new Film Forecast is going to be a comer.

A G. F. Organ.

The Film General is the name of a new house organ, gotten out by the General Film in St. Louis. It is only a four pager, and the editor seems to have trouble in filling that. He starts to urge advertising upon the exhibitor, for example, but says he doesn't know how to tell because the weather, the picture, the neighborhood, and all local conditions have their bearing. That is very true, but it doesn't stop Tom North or L. J. Scott, or some of the Paramount exchanges from giving helpful hints. The paper would be better if more forceful. At present it is negative. But any start is a start in the right direction, so here's hoping that the General puts on a Lieutenant.

Booming Babies.

Charles Decker, of the Majestic, Grand Junction, Colorado, is starting a baby show along the lines suggested in Picture Theatre Advertising, but he does not limit the number of slides to be shown at a performance. It is better to state that not more than a certain number will be shown at one time, and show them in series, the winners in each series entering in the finals. This not only prolongs but sustains interest. A more permanent feature is a rest and baby room, which has been added. Mr. Decker was able to get a store room next the entrance, and will make it over for the benefit of mothers and kiddies. This is something more than a talking point; it is a business maker, for many a mother can now come with the family or by herself without the fear that the child will suffer through the excitement or annoy the others present. And in writing up the innovation Mr. Decker helps by the tone of the article, neither blatant nor over modest. He merely seems to take a real pride in what he can do to make things more pleasant for his patrons, and that is the real attitude to take.

A Film Missionary.

The Criterion, Rutherford, N. J., seems to have fallen into bad hands after a certain man in a green hat went to New York and then to Australia, and the management didn't seem to care about the patrons and even improved upon Commodore Vanderbuilt's reputed attitude toward the public. Then the house changed hands again—as it was bound to do—and J. A. Beattie took the reins. He saw that there was something needed to make apparent the change in attitude. He could do personal work, but slowly, so he took his reconstructed staff on film, and from himself to the smallest usher he introduced the house people to the public. And for a leader he used—

> Notice that everybody is smiling. This is the atmosphere we wish to create. Everybody happy. Our watchword is courtesy. Our slogan quality. We thank you.

This was run with some local films. People came to see the local stuff and were made acquainted with the new staff as well. It is impossible to be a grouch and an amusement purveyor simultaneously for any length of time. It cannot be done, and when you follow a grouch into the theater lose no time in announcing the change in the plainest possible manner. A house reflects the personality of the head.

Changed to Chat.

A. H. Cobb, Jr., of the Temple, Hartsville, S. C., has changed his program policy and now uses house chat instead of press agent junk on the back page of his programs. Now instead of spending money to popularize John Jones and Jane Jinks he takes the space to confirm his patrons in their belief that the Temple is about as good a place as there is. He makes it chatty and bright and so it is read with the same interest as would be some item about a player—and it does the house more good. Chat of the actors and about pictures is excellent in a large program, where there is space to spare, but Mr. Cobb uses a four pager folder that goes into an envelope without additional folding and he needs the space for himself. This throwaway brought such good results that he is continuing their use. It is in red on a lemon stock 4 by 6½ inches. Note how the outline type top and bottom get the same attention as a heavy bodied type and yet looks vastly more inviting. It is a pretty piece of work and we hope that it helps to bring others to a more general use of outline, inline and shaded letters. Mr. Cobb has cause to be glad that he has a regular printer in a small town. The man really is a printer and not a butcher obtaining money under the false pretense that he can set type.

Here's Mr. Stanton.

Frank D. Stanton comes to the fore again. It has been a long time since he was a regular visitor, and now that he is back, we hope he stays for a long time. He is running the Fenway, in Boston, and he sends in a scheme for a direct appeal. It is a bit expensive, but it should work in proportion to the expense, and it is not what it costs, but what it brings back, that counts. He writes :

> What do you think of the following for securing a mailing list? I used the same idea a few years ago, but the territory to be covered was not so great as I have on my hands now.
>
> We have a lady going from house to house meeting people and making inquiries. When she leaves each family she knows how many go to theaters. What theaters they like best, and why. If they like the Fenway or not, and why; what kind of pictures they like best, and if they like vaudeville. This lady makes written daily reports, and they are very interesting. She also brings home a list of from one hundred to one hundred fifty names of people who desire that we put them on our mailing list. Before leaving each person, the lady hands over the latest house organ, a program and a couple of complimentary matinee tickets.
>
> The discouraging part of all this is that although we have a list of about three thousand names, we have only covered a small portion of our territory. Where should we stop? How big is a mailing list? Do you think a house organ like the enclosed, which announces two weeks shows, would be alright if sent every second week? I am trying to determine the best method of procedure after our mailing list gets twice its present size.
>
> I shall be glad to place all house organ fiends on our mailing list, and would like even better to be on their's.
>
> What has become of that autogobile that I sent to Steve Farrar? No, I don't want it back.

This is a splendid scheme for getting people interested in the house. With a tactful caller nothing could be better, but Mr. Stanton himself points out the weak point of the scheme from the mailing list angle. We take it that he has a large house, and an expense of $30 for mailing will not be regarded as unduly proportioned, but it is a question of good, not of expense. We imagine that most persons who are approached by the visitor will express a desire to be placed upon the mailing list. It costs nothing and the program is interesting. But three thousand names should cover a clientele of at least ten thousand, some of whom should repeat on the week, and yet the territory is still open for development. We think it would be better to send the visitor out with tickets, but not to make a general offer of the free program. Work the house schemes to get the mailing list, with so large a clientele on the proposition that if everyone is approached directly, then those who come represent the utmost development of the territory. The general function of the house program is to make business, either through holding the interest of those already converted or through making converts. To hold the program distribution to those already patrons might lose to the house the patronage of those who might be interested. Possibly the best way would be to send the program to all addresses for from four to six week and then send a chaser in the form of a letter asking if the recipient wishes to be continued on the mailing list and enclosing a card to be filled in and returned. If they will pay a penny for the stamp or hand it in when they visit the house, it is reasonable to suppose that they are interested in pictures to the point of profit. But to offset the tendency to delay, it might be still better to send in a second week, using the Rowland and Clark form recently given in this department, in the issue of September 16th. The entire list should be checked up every six months or so, for dead names will creep in rapidly in a city of any size. If a special envelope is used the return form should be carried. The Garfield, Chicago, does well enough with a rubber stamp, which states that return postage is guaranteed in the event of non-delivery. Printed matter can neither be forwarded nor returned to the sender under the original stamp, but will be returned to the sender if the latter guarantees the return postage, and it is worth the stamp to get back a dead address. A mailing list should be as large as will increase business, but it seldom pays to have a list that represents much more than thirty per cent. of the house patrons for a week, and in most instances twenty per cent. should be sufficient. Steve is invited to tell what he knows about the Autogobile. The last report we remember was that Steve was ready to ship. We do not think that it was called for. Will Steve please write? And will all house programers please note that Mr. Stanton's address is The Fenway, 136 Massachusetts avenue, Boston. Send him your's and he'll send you his. He has both a house program and a house organ. The latter is four pages, 8 by 11 inches, printed in blue, no foreign advertising. There is a quantity of picture chat, enough to make it read, announcement of a special Kiddie Matinee Saturdays. It works for two week at a time, each change of program being a display advertisement. We think that a single page given to a more formal program would be more advantageous and look better. This would give a little more space for chat and house talk, and be more seemly. Every second week is plenty often enough. The house program proper is printed for the week and is intended for distribution in the house only. It carries a well done front page, but no house chat. That right hand column of page three should be readable house chat. It would tell the advertised facts more strongly than the display type does. Mr. Stanton knows how to write, and since this is the case, a running story is better than eighteen and twenty-four point type.

Wants a Comparison.

J. J. Marshall, of the Marshall theater, Manhattan, Kansas, sends in two newspaper advertisements and asks for a criticism and comparison. Both advertisements are the same size, a little more than four tens, and may be found on this page. For the purpose of identification Mr. Marshall refers to them as the light and heavy bordered advertisements, which is an easy identification. Mr. Marshall does not say whether he wants the criticism to apply to the copy or the composition. In the first place, these advertisements, which appear in two different papers, occupy practically a quarter page each and each is dominant on its page. It has nothing in the way of other large advertisements to fight against. This being the case, the heavy border is a mistake. It cuts down the type measurement one inch each way or eighteen square inches of actual space. This is the equivalent of about eight column inches, or one-fifth of the entire space paid for. This would be a good investment if the border was necessary in order to throw the announcement into relief on a page with other heavy type displays, but in this instance the light border serves its purpose and is only one-sixth as large; a six against thirty-six point. The heavy border is not only needless expense, but to some extent, on a white page, it masks down the display. It does not show up as well on the page as does the light bordered advertisement. This does not appear in the reproduction, of course, but it is the rule that a heavy border is of service only when it is necessary to cut off from similar heavy advertising.

Taking the heading, the copy is, of course, the same. As a rule the upper and lower case type of the light ad. should show better than the all capital of the heavy, but here a better letter is shown in the heavy advertisement and the rule forces the name up. On the light advertisement the matinee and night line should be in upper and lower and smaller, since the line is less important than the name of the house and yet, appearing in such close proximity to the house name, it dwarfs that type and gives it inferior prominence. Both lines are too heavy to match the importance of the fact.

In the heavy ad the "Today" and "Tomorrow" lines show up better than in the light. They would have shown up better still if the printer had not extended his boxes to cover some wholly unnecessary and non-ornamental ornaments. The ornaments do not help, and they assuredly do hurt the display. In the light example both of these lines are too large and come too close to the titles. This is a fault of the copy, apparently, if the printer followed copy, for in the light the titles rise too high, while in the heavy the copy gives a couple of lines between the dating and the play titles.

This brings us to the box for Shoes. The copy is almost the same, though in one case a cut is used and in the other there is no cut. The facts of the story are vastly more important than the cut of the comparatively unknown star. The light advertisement throws the facts up strongly. In the heavy the appeal is lost, both through the smallness of the type and the manner in which it is strung beside the cut. It would have been better had both layouts been planned as shown in the light ad. The facts are important. The cut tells nothing at all, and the name is given wrongly in the mortise. If the cut were kept in the text for the mortise should have read "The girl who 'sold out' for a pair of shoes." That is a lot of copy for so small a mortise, but set directly into the cut it would have been read, and, being read, would have carried an appeal. In both cases the quotation marks are wrongly placed. The quotes should have gone around "sold out" and no more. In the light advertisement an ignorant printer sticks in an extra quote mark before "shoes," though there is no reason why that word should be especially quoted unless it were to suggest that it was not shoes, but that the word was the polite equivalent of something less polite or to infer that the shoes were merely an excuse, neither of which is the case here. In the heavy advertisement the printer gets in some more alleged ornamentation. He probably carries it around by the handsful in his pockets.

In the other box it is more permissible to use the cut of Chaplin because he is known and the cut will attract the eye. The copy tells it is Chaplin and not Billie Ritchie. Here the copy for the heavy advertisement is better planned. Nine times the salary of the President

Marshall Theatre
MATINEES 3 O'CLOCK--NIGHTS 7:30 & 8:45
TONIGHT
"Shoes"
The most talked about Photoplay in America, featuring the new star
Mary MacLaren
As the shop girl who was compelled by inexorable fate to "Literally sell out for a pair of "Shoes."
Three eventful weeks in the life of a shop girl driven to sin through no fault of her own.
The greatest problem play ever presented on the motion picture screen. A lesson to parents and a warning to girls.
TOMORROW
'The Fireman'
Featuring the highest salaried star on stage or screen. The only
Charlie Chaplin
Don't Miss Seeing Your Old Friend Charles In This "Hook And Ladder Drama"
One of The Latest Of The Original And Only Chaplin Comedies We Show No Others
The new and clever stunts of Chaplin, the $670,000.00 star in "The Fireman" will enthuse his admirers.
Usual Scale of Prices.
Children 5 Cents, Adults 10 Cents
DON'T OVERLOOK THESE OFFERINGS
WEDNESDAY
Edith Story in "The Two Edged Sword"
THURSDAY
Virginia Pearson in "The Hunted Woman"

MARSHALL THEATRE
Matinees 3:00 o'clock. Evening Shows 7:30 and 8:45.
TONIGHT
The Greatest Sociological Problem Play Ever Presented on the Motion Picture Screen
"SHOES"
A Beautiful BLUEBIRD Photoplay Introducing the NEW STAR
MARY MACLAREN
The Shop Girl Who Was Compelled by Fate to "Literally Sell Out For A Pair of Shoes"
Three Eventful Weeks in the Life of a Half-Slave Shop Girl Driven to Sin Through No Fault of Her Own
A Lesson for Every Father and Mother who have made themselves responsible for the welfare of a Daughter
TOMORROW
The Highest Salaried Chuckle Inducer the Screen has Ever Known
Charlie Chaplin
Commanding a Salary Nine Times as Great as that of the President of the United States
This Time in ....
"The Fireman"
WITH CHARLIE AS
A Heroic Knight of Hose and Helmet.
Full of Original Antics, Jammed with Surprises and Sure Fire Laugh Producers
Three Performances Daily 3:00, 7:30 and 8:45 P. M
Prices: CHILDREN 5c ADULTS 10c
Other Choice Offerings of the Week
Wednesday "THE TWO EDGED SWORD" with Edith Storey Thursday "THE HUNTED WOMAN" with Virginia Pearson

means more than the figures, since it is easier to grasp a fact than figures. The $670,000 00 looks a lot, but it means merely a large sum. Nine times what the President gets is a concrete fact. It sinks in as soon as it hits. But unless the copy had to be followed, the composition of the heavy advertisement should have used a larger type for Chaplin and have staggered that instead of the name of the play. It is CHARLIE CHAPLIN in The Fireman and not THE FIREMAN with Charlie Chaplin. Both compositors err in this. The rule is to play up the more important line, whether this be the star or the play, and here the star is vastly more important than the play. The display in the heavy advertisement is better, typographically, than would be a reverse with Chaplin in two lines, but typographical excellence means less to the box office than a featured "Chaplin."

For an immediate underline the light advertisement is better than the heavy. If the underline had been for the following week, the heavy underline would have been better. The price and time table line in the heavy advertisement is well done, and it would have been better had both ads carried this form with nothing similar at the top.

Since the display for the two attractions breaks 50-50 the Shoes of the light line and the Chaplin of the heavy bordered advertisement being about equally good, the question of value seems largely to be a matter of handling the entire space and here, because of the unnecessary border, the light advertisement has a shade the best of it, because it stands out better on the page and because the type faces of the Shoes are the best and most easily read. Apart from the border there is little choice, but the decision lies with the light and more roomy advertisement. If we were at it we would take the top line from the heavy advertisement and eliminate the second line altogether. We would take the boxed "Today" and "Tomorrow" without the ornaments from the heavy ad. and then follow with the Shoes from the light ad. and the Chaplin from the heavy border retaining the "Three performances" line from that advertisement and finishing with the underline from the light. Then we would give the printer a couple of passes to show him how pleased we were. We are taking all this space, not for Mr. Marshall alone, but for all the readers of this department. If you advertise yourself you need to study these very questions.

Another Oddity.

The La Salle, South Bend, Ind., offers a new folding for an eight-page folder and to go with it a new make-up. The cut shows one side of the sheet. The outside pages are folded to meet over on the pages not shown. This leaves the middle pages to serve as the front and back covers. When the folder is open it opens on the two program pages (those with the black strip across the top) and these being opened, a running story four pages long is disclosed, covering the films for the week. The first four days' program are shown on the page to the right of the front page and the page to the left of the back page (which copies the Kodak style advertisement) offers five days more. The strip is 5¼ by 11½ inches. This makes a better folding for the eight pages than the usual style. The house also issues a card calendar 2¾ by 4½ listing the features. It would be better to use eight instead of six-point type and lose a few of the titles for the time being. Six-point is rather too small for the calendar, though it will do if leaded out, which will make each line eight points in height but will carry more words to the line than the eight-point letter.

Kill the Office Boy.

It would seem that the Liberty theater, Philadelphia, must let the office boy write the copy for its programs, for the stuff is bad enough to be funny at times and what the boy cannot think of the printer remembers. It's a nice house, appealing to a good clientele, but the patrons must wonder sometimes at these programs. They are four pagers about 5 by 8. The printing is poor, the form taking up dust and smearing badly. The impression suggests a country printer and a second-hand Washington press. One issue announces De Wolf Hopper and remarks that "De Wolf Hopper has a record of being one of the best comedians in the business. He has long been appearing as a featured member of the Gilbert and Sullivan Opera Company." Murdering Moses! They may have forgotten the old McCall Opera Company in Philadelphia, but they must remember Wang and Castles in the Air and Dr. Syntax even if the news is a little slow in getting over there. Mr. Hopper has played in a number of Gilbert and Sullivan revivals, but Gilbert and Sullivan never had an opera company. "Paying the Price" is described as "A vivid tale of love, the love that means two lives—means happiness. A highly amusing entertainment in five big acts." Robert Edeson in "Father of Men" gets this punctuation—or lack of it—and all: "In this production Mr. Edeson plays a dual role, that of John Howland the father of Robert Howland the son grown up he does this with that touch of artistry that has won him renoun and fame behind the footlights." Even that "renoun" is not going to help things if Edeson sees that. In the line of typographical errors, these are characteristic: "A Temperery Truce" in a headline and Mary Picford for Pickford and Bopgarph for Biograph, Vesnon Howe Bailey and "The Bachelor's Alliance." And then a last line announces: "Program subject to change." If it is, it should be changed immediately. Carelessness of this sort is inexcusable.

Udells.

Here are a couple more odd form advertisements from Dave Udell of the Majestic and Comedy, Paxton, Ill. (They are running a bit low, Dave.) These two forms are good only for a change. It is better to give the eye one or two lines to hold, even if the copy is not read, but

Jack Spratt
Could eat no fat,
His wife could eat no lean,
So in the Crystal they merrily sat
And saw 'Excuse Me' on the screen
If this be true and not contrite
For it must be true you see
How could you pass this pleasant night
Without a glimpse of "Excuse Me"?
So to the Crystal you must go
In rain or shine tonight,
It only takes 15c in dough
To see such a funny sight
The first show starts at 7:10;
This gives you time a plenty
But, in case you can't go then
The second will start at 8:20.
"Excuse Me!"
HELLO!
HELLO!
UNIVERSAL FILMS

Mr. Udell changes so constantly that they rather look for novelties all the time and most Paxtonites read them as regularly as they read the rest of the news.

Friday His Best.

R. P. Greer, of the Palace, Dawson, Ga., says that Friday has always been one of his best nights. Generally it is not one of the fat nights of the week. The other day he used the "This ticket when accompanied by one paid adult admission will admit a child under 12 free" idea, and says it nearly doubled his business when given out Friday afternoon, persumably at the schools. He sends the idea in for the benefit of others, as it is new to him. He runs seven reels in an hour, which is too fast. It would be better to cut the number of reels or the number of shows; preferably the latter since he gets five and ten cents in the afternoon, and five and fifteen in the evening. The free child's ticket is a good scheme to work when advertising a feature in a hurry. The tickets can be printed in the morning, distributed as school lets out at noon or after the second session, and the children will take them home, ensuring a good distribution.

Paste It.

The Opera House, St. Johns, N. D., is getting out a six-page house sheet, with the extra page set in loose. It is a clean-looking and nicely edited affair, but if the press can work it, it would be better to use the folder style. That loose sheet is not alone awkward, but many people will throw it down unread and the house loses the investment for type and printing. Until it can be raised to an eight and stitched it would be well to either make it a folder or lightly paste the extra sheet before inserting. This will add something to the cost, but a couple of school boys can do the work and will be glad to take their pay in passes or the freedom of the house.

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

There.

SINCE Spec Woods laid down his pen on the Dramatic Mirror desk there have been several editors, but none who seemed able to ginger the photoplay department—at least, for editorial comment, but Frederick James Smith, recently gave up the vaudeville department for the pictures and he writes interestingly on scripts. In a late issue he remarked: "Yet the vision in the pictures is usually a primitive means to an end" There is a whole booklet—or at least, a booklet, in those two lines. Nine times out of ten the vision is a makeshift expedient to get something over the author should be able to tell it in another and better way.

Effects.

When you think of an effect (as distinguished from a plot idea), note it down. When the flurry is over and a different class of editors are in the chairs, it will be safe to offer effect stuff and either sell it or get it back, and you'll find that often an effect will suggest a plot to go with it

Studying the Screen.

Perhaps the writer of these lines has company. He says:

I am going to ask you if you can suggest any way by which an amateur writer of scripts can get a worth-while opinion about his work. I have several scenarios doing the Grand Tour, but as yet have had no acceptance. Please don't think I have any fancy notions of my skill as a writer, because I am as convinced as anybody can be that they are lacking, but where lacking? They may be rotten I am beginning to think they are, but if I only knew why rotten and where rotten I might not feel so rotten about it myself.

You have partly covered this identical question in your admirable book, in the chapter "How to Study," and recommend us poor unfortunates to study the screen itself. This is not much good to me, because I get so interested in the story that its construction escapes me and I don't have the time to sit it through twice.

I enter the theater in a cold, critical frame of mind, but before I am properly seated I am as anxious to know if the poor girl will get through all her troubles as the smallest fan there.

There seems to be only one answer to this question. If a student cannot concentrate upon the technique of the picture on the screen he should practice concentration until he finds himself able to do so, for this concentration upon one's work is the first requisite in any business. If he is so light-minded that pleasure makes the stronger demand, he is not yet fitted to be a workman. Perhaps by first looking at a picture and then trying to study it on a second showing he can acquire this habit, but until he can regard the theater as a schoolroom and not a place of amusement, he is not in line to study plays.

Here's a Chance.

John F. Prybil, for so many years right-hand man to Colonel Selig, is now in charge of the Barker-Swan Film Co., Peoria, Ill. He wants one-reel comedey stories "short cast, chuck full of axtion with a dash of logical slapstick — briefly the modern Keystone comedies." Comedies only.

Still At It.

Evidently the adage that a fool and his fortune are soon parted still holds good. A recent issue of a magazine printing and copyrighting synopses for authors contains the synopses of 140 plays of various sorts, all held under one copyright entry. The company charges a cent a word for publishing, though it will take half a cent now and the remainder "when a sale is made." No intelligent editor is going to buy from such a list, knowing that it has been sent broadcast in the hope of making a sale and that unscrupulous authors and others can take these themes, slightly change them and get a new story that will kill the original. As a matter of fact few of these stories are even worth stealing, let alone buying, and yet five issues of this particular publication have been made and the validity of the individual copyright is open to suspicion in each case since it may be argued that the publisher can copyright only material owned by them. There seems to be no precedent action to be guided by, since this is the first instance of wholesale copyrighting for protection, but it would seem that only individual copyright entry as a contribution to a publication, made by each author for himself personally would b legally free from attack. The Copyright Office cannot, of course, anticipate a ruling, so there is no means, other than a suit, for determining the exact degree of protection, but it would seem that only individual entry would give technical protection.

On Adaptations.

Van Buren Powell has been working with Hamlin Garland on the adaptation of some of his work for the Vitagraph. He is too near-sighted to get into a scrap with anybody, but that is not the reason he is not having the usual rows with the author. He puts the whole diplomacy of adaptation in a few lines when he writes:

I have found, in working with him, that if a script writer will only take a meet-you-half-way attitude toward the writer of a book, he will find the author glad enough to see his angel and their mutual efforts must make for better pictures. The usual trouble between the book man and the script adaptor is that the author's resentment is roused by seemingly futile and careless departures from his original; while the picturizer assumes, too often, that because a book IS a book it is fore-destined to alteration or HIS work won't be accredited. Both seethe with antagonistic sentiments and usually the author breaks into print with a wild wail of agony and often enough he has cause; then the script man retaliates with woful blasphemies against all books and their unfitness for the screen. If they'd both get together in a spirit of friendliness, the author taking the position that perhaps the other fellow has a fuller knowledge of the special technique that is involved in the translation of his work to the new medium of expression, the script-wright co-operating, and assuming that the author knows his own work perhaps better, and loves it surely more—why—the answer would often be the same as it is in the case of Mr. Garland and myself; we are going to make far better scripts together, and yet neither will the individuality of his work nor the practical efforts of the script writer be submerged in a sea of mutual hate.

It Does Seem Funny.

J. J. Inman-Kane says much when he writes:

Two, three and four years back they took what are known as "complex" plots and stuck them into one and two reels, when they should have been in five and eight, they were like tabloid versions of a given story, merely telling the tale in synopsis form, that's what I meant by "skeleton of a play." Nowadays they take miserable, dinky little plots and pad them into "features." If they get a story by a good author, an author who takes months, maybe years, to work his brain-child into magazine form, but who seems content to let his work be "adapted" and "properly reconstructed" by a hack writer, who as you say, is paid by the week—they do just that. Hence, one hundred plays, by one hundred different authors, all produced by the same company, have every one of them exactly the same deadly monotonous style. If the motion picture industry is going to revert to what it was, or stay where it is now, it will certainly travel south. But your suggestion about the two styles of picture houses is GOOD.

When the business was new, all plots were new. The companies did not have tame staffs and did not have to economize. They paid from $25 to $50 a reel for stuff and really paid it to such authors as presented themselves. Some of the old stories were little short of triumphs of condensation. Then the staff men got in and at first were paid for what they did on other scripts and were given bonuses for original ideas, and after that the free lance was gradually nudged out. At the same time they found the five-reel feature could be made with less effort than five good ones, and needed only a single story, so they padded the old stuff and some of the new ideas and went and spoiled the business with the padding and the profits with the stars. But even now there are signs that the program stuff is coming back. It would be here now if there was any one releasing organization that did as good average one and two reel stories as were current three years ago. It's only a matter of time when it comes, but it takes nerve to break back to ones when the demand seems to be only for fives, but you will presently note that some of the companies now making only fives will be making fours and threes, and at the same time will go in for ones and twos with which to balance the program.

The THIRD Edition of

Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two or three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps, (less than actual cost) will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every live, progressive operator should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study.

Question No. 162.

What would be the effect of connecting two rectifiers in series?

Roll of Honor on Question No. 151.

The Roll of Honor on Question No. 151 consists of C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.; Wilson Hays, Barton, Md; W. B. Allen, Edmonton, Canada; F. F. Bell, Palestine, Texas; Dean A. Snyder, Bangor, Pa.; F N. Irvin, Lufkin, Texas; G. A. Yager, Anadarko, Okla.; Michael Capobianco, Roseto, Pa.; George H. Hopper, Jacksonville, Ill.; J. H. Marchand, Baton Rouge, La.; A. M. Malley, Edmonton, Canada

The reply of Brother Linstruth comes nearest covering the matter with reasonable completeness, therefore I have selectd his for publication.

Reply to Question No. 151.

By C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.

The Question:

What size picture would you suggest for a house 50-75-100 and 125 ft. deep, meaning that these distances are from the screen to rear row of seats? Why do you select the sizes you mention?

The Answer:

The size of the picture for different distances from screen to back row of seats might perhaps have to depend on the width of the house, and whether or not there is a stage; also what type of screen is used. At 50 and up to 75 feet I prefer a 12 foot picture, by reason of the fact that at 75 feet this size picture is not too small and is economical in every way. I prefer the 12 footer at 50 feet because the images will be what is known as "life size." I approve this size for the distances named, if the screen is "home-made," or of the metallic surface type. For 75 to 100 feet this size should be increased by about two feet. At from 100 to 125 feet, I would use a Mirror screen with a 13 foot picture, by reason of the fact it is a difficult matter to sell front seats, even with the picture that wide, and when it is made larger the people will move farther back and there is always the dissatisfied patron who is compelled to occupy front seats when the house is full and the picture is over large.

I say "Mirror screen" because by reason of the added brilliancy the eye more clearly discerns the details of a picture than where the picture is projected to a less brilliant surface. I don't believe in having a picture any larger than is absolutely necessary, because large pictures are expensive to properly illuminate; also the images will be of unnatural size, and all defects are magnified in proportion. With a Mirror screen having a surface to fit the local conditions a 12 or 13 foot picture projected with direct current will be quite presentable at from 100 to 125 feet, and 30 to 35 amperes of current will do the trick.

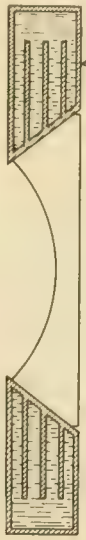
All of which is correct though some of the points are proper subjects for argument.

My own view of the matter is that no hard and fast rule can be laid down to fit all conditions. As Brother Linstruth has pointed out, the type of screen itself has considerable to do with the matter, the distance from the front row of seats to the screen has a great deal to do with it, and the width of the house is an extremely important factor. You cannot consider the question simply on the data given therein, and to this extent it was a "catch" question. Personally I favor a 16 foot picture, and under some conditions even an 18 foot one, but I do not believe that condition exists which demands anything larger than an 18 foot picture, provided the installation is made with due regard to the local connections, and provided further that it is made by one who is possessed of the up-to-date knowledge necessary to intelligently consider the various points involved.

I Am Afraid It Won't Work.

R. W. Martin, Los Angeles, Cal., says:

Here is a scheme for making the telephoto condenser practicable—possibly. It is merely a water-jacket lens mount for the lens next the arc. The conclave lens has a large area of surface in contact with the jacket, which would be kept constantly cool by a supply of running water, the main idea being to keep the temperature of the thick outer edge sufficiently lowered so that it will not expand radically to the extent of pulling away from the thin center and causing fracture. Anyhow, it is worth a look.



Yes, Brother Martin, and that is about all. My opinion is that it won't work. First, because after the lens became heated you would not want cold water in contact with it; second, because it would be impracticable to gauge a mount of this kind in such manner that breakage would be prevented.

No, Friend Martin, I am convinced that you cannot use that type of lens next a powerful electric arc. I think, however, that the aperture lens mounted in the same barrel with the objective is a practical proposition, and will go a long ways toward solving the problem; also I am not yet convinced that we cannot have an aperture lens mounted independent of the objective, though of that I am by no means certain.

I am giving much prominence to the aperture lens at this time because there is no manner of question, but, as I have time and again pointed out, there is tremendous loss of light, which means electric energy, due to the inadequacy of the present optical system of the projector. Of course, it is not to be expected that we can add another lens without first solving some new problems, because the added lens is going to alter either the E. F. of the condenser combination or the E. F. of the objective, according to which side of the film it is placed on. I am pretty thoroughly convinced, however, that this added lens must go on the screen side of the film, and that the only question yet to be determined is whether it can be placed, permanently, near the aperture, or must be carried in the objective lens barrel.

The Right Spirit.

Jack Scott, Des Moines, Iowa, says:

I enclose herewith two letters which speak for themselves. Am a reader of the department, and note your remarks with regard to proper care of the film while in the hands of the operator. It is for this reason I send you these letters, which you will kindly return to me. It is my belief that if more operators and house managers took a greater amount of pride and interest in their work more of them would be receiving letters like this instead of being called down by the exchanges. As I say there are only one or two things really necessary to enable one to send the film back to the exchange in as good, if not beter, condition than when received. First, the operator must absolutely understand every part of his machine, see to it that it is properly regulated and adjusted; also that parts are not allowed to become badly worn. A combination of an operator who takes real pride in the picture he puts on the screen and keeps his machine in first class condition is a combination which is bound to produce real projection. I am not sending these letters to "toot my own horn," but with a view of inducing other operators to speed up and get better results, because the sooner the operator realizes the importance of the position he holds in the industry, and of perfect projection, the sooner will the profession be elevated to the position it ought to occupy.

The letters read as follows. The first one is from the Des Moines Film and Supply Company, Utica Building, Des Moines, Iowa:

Mr. Jack Scott, Operator Garden Theater, Des Moines, Iowa.

Dear Sir—I feel it is due you that we take time to express our appreciation of the care you have used in handling our films during the past year and a half. Unfortunately all operators are not as careful as they might be in handling film, but in all that time we have not had an occasion to criticise the manner in which you have handled Paramount pictures, neither have we had a complaint from the next exhibitor as to the condition in which you have turned the film over to him. This is an exceptionally good record, and one of which you should be proud. We know that Paramount pictures are good, but Paramount pictures properly projected are still better, therefore we hope you will keep up the good work.

Yours very truly,

Des Moines Film and Supply Company,

R. C. Lilliau, Secretary and Manager.

The next letter is from the Metro Exchange, Des Moines, Iowa. It reads:

Mr. Jack Scott, Garden Theater, Des Moines, Iowa. Dear Sir: Permit us to congratulate you on the care with which you have handled the Metro films shown at the Garden theater during the past year. It is a distinct relief to an exchange manager to know his films are in competent hands while they are absent from the exchange, and to feel sure they will be returned in as good condition as they were sent out. I am indeed sorry to say that this is not the case in most instances, as there are but few operators who seem to realize they are handling property of large value, and property which is very readily susceptible to damage. Most of them seem to get careless, sooner or later, and fail to take proper care of the films. It therefore gives me more than ordinary pleasure to say that you are not in this class. I also desire to compliment you upon your projection, which certainly can be classed as among the best in this territory. If we had more such operators we, the exchange managers, would be saved many a headache.

Very truly yours,

C. E. Smith, Manager, Des Moines Metro.

I am printing these letters, although it is likely to make some of Brother Scott's colleagues feel like heaving a brick at him. I would, however, call their undivided attention to the fact that if they "went and did likewise" they too could receive comment of this kind. When Friend Scott takes good care of the films he is not only helping his own theater, but he is assisting to preserve the excellence of the screen results in all the other theaters which will run those films thereafter, and to make literally hundreds of thousands of shows more valuable to the patrons who pay the money. Therefore I commend his course to other operators, and commend it to them strongly. An operator cannot do unnecessary damage to the film, either through careless handling or otherwise without directly or indirectly affecting literally thousands of people. An unnecessary splice, which cuts out three or four pictures, does not amount to very much, that is true, but by just that much it lessens the effect on the screen, which will probably be viewed thereafter by anywhere from 10,000 to 50,000 people; also unnecessary damage to the film works direct injury to the moving picture industry as a whole, since it operates to reduce the excellence of screen results, hence diminishes the popularity of the photoplay as a form of entertainment.

From Manchester, New Hampshire.

J. Wilfrid Remillard, Manchester, N. H., says:

It has been quite some time since you have heard from Manchester, but Local Union 195 is still here and prospering. This local has succeeded in raising both salaries and working conditions to a fair level, though there still is, of course, room for improvement. Manchester is 100 per cent. organized, and the exhibitors seem to be perfectly satisfied with union labor. They have cause to be, however, because the majority of the men are doing everything in their power to improve results on the screen, which we fully realize in the long run must mean better salaries. A drag is attached to their ambition, however, by the fact that a few of them think that the age of study lies between five and sixteen years of age. These men absolutely refuse to improve their knowledge after they have passed that age, but they nevertheless insist on being paid the same price as the more progressive men, and this tends to hold us all back. I am a constant reader of the department, and have been for four years past. I have the second and third edition of the Handbook, also Hawkins' Electrical Guide, and lose no opportunity of adding to my knowledge. For that reason I say, in answer to Question 150, I am absolutely in favor of having the questions and answers put into book form. The fact that some non-union operator might secure knowledge from the book, and thus endanger my position, would not and does not worry me, for the very good reason that I myself would be one of the first to get the book, and I think I can very well hold my own when it comes to good projection, though my work is still a long, long ways from what I would like it to be.

And now I am going to expose my ignorance. I have been a close student of your light ray experiments, and have come to the conclusion that I am using the wrong condenser combination. The machine is a Power's Six B, and the back opening of the objective is 1 11/16; back focus, 3 9/16. Using two plano-convex condensers, 6½ inch next the arc, and 7½ in front, with 17½ inches from convex side of front condenser to the film, crater 3¼ inches from plano surface of back lens, I set my lamphouse back 20 inches with two 7½ condensers, but could not bring my spot down small enough. What I want to know is what size focus meniscus-bi-convex condensers I must use to enable me to set my lamphouse back 20 inches and have a spot 1½ inches in diameter, using ½-inch upper carbon and ⅜-inch lower on 40 amperes D.C. You will probably tell me to look up Table No. 2, page 141, of the Handbook and find out, but I hope you won't, for I am waiting for your answer to see if I really understand the light ray dope.

As I am a Canadian, I was very much interested in your trip through Canada. Say, but haven't they got some roads up there? My sympathies to you—both.

Well, I am going to do a little investigating myself. I am sending a carbon copy of this article to both Griffiths and Martin, and I am going to compare their replies with what we already have and see how the advance knowledge "stacks up" with it.

Later: The replies from Brothers Martin and Griffiths have been received, and I have selected that of Friend Griffiths for publication, accompanied by a revision of Table 2, page 143, of the Handbook. I would suggest that those having the Handbook revise Table 2, as per the accompanying. Brother Griffiths says:

Brother Remillard has been getting a 1½-inch spot at 17½ inches with 6½-7½ condensers, and his crater 3.25 inches from the condenser. In order to prevent waste of light around the objective, he requires the focal length of meniscus-bi-convex condensers which will produce a 1½-inch spot at 20 inches. First let us get some idea of the size of his crater. His Y value (Distance apex of front condenser to film—Ed.) is 17.5 inches, and his X value (Distance crater to apex of front condenser—Ed.) is 3.25 plus the thickness of a 6½-inch condenser, or 3.25 + .82 = 4.07 inches, and if he increases Y to 20 inches, X will equal 4.65, because as 17.5 : 4.07 :: 20 : X, and X will therefore equal $\frac{20 \times 4.07}{17.5}$ = 4.65, which means that in order to have the same size spot at 20 inches, as he now has at 17½ inches, his crater would have to be 4.65 — .82 = 3.83 inches from the condensers, and it would require one 7½ and one 8½-inch lens to focus the image of the crater into a 1½-inch spot 20 inches from the condenser; therefore his only plan would be to use a larger spot with the same condensers, or change the position of the optical center of the condensers, and thus break up the ratio of enlargement by using the meniscus-bi-convex set. The equivalent focal point or plane of the meniscus-bi-convex condenser is situated between the lens at a point about ⅛ inch in front of the meniscus and at a point in the center of the bi-convex. (Seems to me you are a little bit mixed there, Brother Griffiths, though I may not understand your meaning—Ed.) Now in order to find what is the best focal length to use, we must first determine the correct distance the crater has to be from the meniscus. With 40 amperes D. C., I personally would prefer 3 inches, which, together with the thickness of the 6½ meniscus lens, plus ⅛-inch space in front of the lens, equals 4.25 inches, and, consulting Table 2 for corrected condensers—as the meniscus combination may be considered as such—we have the choice of two sets. The 6½-7½ combination gives the value of X as 4.17 for 20.88 inches, and for 19.5 it would be about 4.2 inches. I say 19.5 because the meniscus-bi-convex decreases Y about ½-inch, and 4.2 (1¾ + ½) = 3.36 inches. So it is a case of take your choice. 2.95 inches from crater to lens with a 6½ and a 7½, or 3.35 with two 7½s. My lenses stand up at 2.6 inches with 60 amperes A. C., but it is pretty close to the limit.

CORRECTED CONDENSERS — PLANO-CONVEX CONDS.

EQUAL	2	3	4	5	6+	ENLARGEMENT OF CRATER
INCHES	INCHES	INCHES	INCHES	INCHES	INCHES	INCHES
5½-6½ 11.29	58	435	386	36	348	338	X
	58	87	116	145	174	203	Y
6½-6½ 11.325	650	487	433	406	39	379	X
	650	975	13	16.25	195	2275	Y
6½-7½ 11.348	696	522	464	435	417	406	X
	696	1044	1392	1740	2088	2436	Y
7½-7½ 11.375	7.5	562	5	469	45	433	X
	75	1125	15	1875	225	265	Y

6½ 6½ | 6½ 7½ | 7½ 7½ | 7½ 8½

Table 2.

Nitrogen Lamps.

Glenn Stout, Los Angeles, Cal., says:

I am a boy sixteen years of age, but take the liberty of writing just the same. I own an Edison Exhibition Model. The sprockets are all in line, but the film keeps jumping the lower loop. I am pulling about 25 amperes, with a 20 foot throw. Please tell me if I can get a nitrogen lamp which will give the same result, and what the wattage would be.

Presumably you are giving a home exhibition. Probably the reason your lower loop pulls out is that the take-up tension is too tight, although this action may be accelerated by worn sprockets and the idler not properly adjusted. It might be that the spring which holds the idler down is too weak, though, on the other hand, you don't want to get it too tight. As I remember in the Edison Exhibition Model the lower sprocket idler roller rides on the film, and under that condition if the idler exerts too much pressure it has a tendency to make the film climb the sprocket teeth. No, I don't think you can get a suitable nitrogen lamp at this time. They are still in the experimental stage

The Projection Arc.

William M. Hyde, New Haven, Conn., sends in the following article:

In the study of the projection arc it is quite evident that the real source of illumination is the crater of the positive carbon, and that the value of the illumination depends upon the current density maintained at the crater (amperes per square millimetre of surface). It is therefore quite obvious that the arc should be handled in such manner as to give the maximum crater area to the maximum current strength, and this is only possible by maintaining a short arc, the minimum voltage in the following tests being thirty-nine to forty volts. In order to maintain this condition it is imperative that a solid negative carbon be used and that care exercised in selecting one of such diameter as will suit the amperage of the arc, in order that it may pencil slightly, and a small point or tip always be maintained. It has been argued that in the short arc the negative carbon obstructs the crater but if the foregoing conditions are maintained this cannot occur. The cross section area of the negative carbon being so much smaller than the crater of the positive, its relative current density is so high that it emits light of no less value than the positive crater itself. (See my comment. Ed.)

TABLE SHOWING COMPARISON OF [illegible]
CARBONS: POSITIVE / NEGATIVE	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
LINE VOLTAGE	110	110	110
ARC VOLTAGE	40	50	50
ARC RESISTANCE OHMS	.0.69	1.0	1.0
REMAINING RESISTANCE "	1.2	1.2	1.2
AMPERAGE	58	50	50
CRATER AREA SQ. MM.	108	110	166
CURRENT DENSITY PER SQ. MM.	54	.45	.30

Chart 1.

The following table illustrates the relative current density of craters of low voltage and medium voltage, and their relation to each other, wherein solid and cored carbons are used.

The opinion has been advanced that neither the arc nor line voltage has any effect upon illumination; this is hardly so. In fact each is an important factor. The line voltage is important to the stability of the arc, for as the arc voltage increases the arc's stability is diminished and as its voltage approaches the generator voltage it also approaches the extinguishing point. The following chart illustrates this latter condition:

Furthermore, it is well to make mention of the fact that as the arc's length increases not only does its voltage increase, but the volume of the gas stream increases very rapidly, gases expanding much more rapidly than solids; hence the increase in volume of the gas stream requires much higher energy to puncture the air strata between the electrodes, and thus the energy is deflected from the positive crater and dissipated in a gas stream, the illumination of which is approximately 20 per cent below that of the positive crater. This condition is not only bad as itself but is much worse when we consider that this stream of gas is enveloping and veiling the true source of light, viz., the crater; also that positive crater is under this condition not only veiled, but its area being considerably greater it must occupy a position further from the condenser, which in turn again reduces our illumination. The following chart illustrates the change in amperage due to increased arc voltage.

One writer has advocated lengthening the arc, assuming that the free admission of oxygen compensated for the added potential drop, and caused the generation of an equally high temperature, whereby the crater burned as brilliantly as with the shorter arc. As a matter of fact the dielectric nature of the atmosphere retards the oxidation of the carbons, causing them really to burn at a lower temperature. This condition seems to be demonstrated by the enclosed arc. In reducing the temperature in the case of the positive electrode it merely reduces illumination, but in the negative electrode it jeopardizes the arc itself, as the arc depends for its existence wholly upon a high temperature being maintained at the negative electrode; for were the negative carbon kept in a condition of low temperature the arc would be quite likely to break [illegible] created by artificially cooling the electrode with the [illegible]

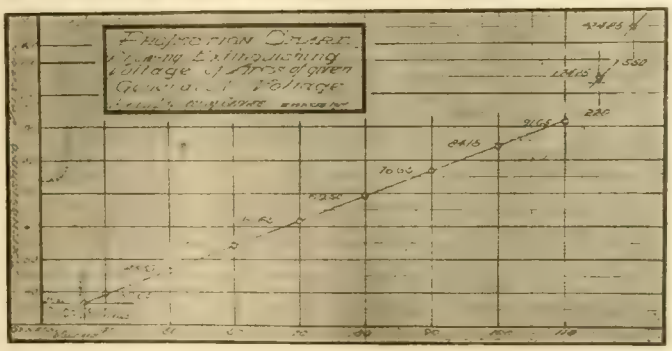

Chart 2.

There are several points in this article which I am obliged to take issue. First, I must dispute the statement that the illumination from the negative carbon, regardless of its [illegible] is any value as projection purposes. That is illustrated in our projecting current arc. It has always been freely granted that the operator can get a higher candle power by using both craters of the alternating current arc, but it is a well-understood fact that, whereas this is true, still the general result is inferior. Any attempt to utilize illumination from the tip of the negative carbon would be bad because it has no value [illegible] ably set up two very different sources of [illegible] for the condenser, since the negative tip is below and considerably nearer the lens than is the positive crater. Within certain limits line voltage is undoubtedly a controlling factor in the stability of the arc [illegible] is [illegible] obtained at heavy expense. It is a [illegible] that the breaking down of line voltage through resistance forms a cushion for the arc, and that it is impossible to handle a projection arc which has no such cushion except the generator be wound for this particular service; still, the cushion formed by the resistance necessary to break down line voltage is an expensive proposition, nor has it any large value beyond say, 20 or 25 volts.

With regard to the gas stream increasing with the length of the arc and rise of arc voltage, why, I hope you won't feel offended, Brother Hyde, when I say I was rather amused at your argument on this point. What you meant probably was all right, though it did not sound that way. It is quite true that the volume of the gas stream increases very rapidly, just as you say, but its density decreases with increase of volume; therefore its carrying capacity is very much lower. It is not the volume of the gas stream that makes a good conductor, but its density. But, after all, a close reading of your argument seems to disclose the fact that you are saying the same thing in rather obscure language. Your statement that the arc stream is enveloping and veiling the true source of light is absolutely right. This point I have many times called attention to, and is the reason why a solid negative carbon is preferable to a cored carbon which makes more gas. As to the long and short arc, I would refer you to an article by the National Carbon Company. It will be interesting to you. Personally, whereas I do not want to commit myself on this point as yet, I am inclined to believe that the very small negative carbon with a comparatively short arc is the better condition. Another point is that increase of amperage does not increase crater temperature per unit of arc appreciably, if at all. It does, however, increase crater area; hence the total illumination.

Watch His Projection.

L. F. Guimond, president of the Monticello Amusement Company, Monticello, N. Y., says:

Am enclosing a couple of copies of my house organ, which I have been sending you right along, though I doubt if you know it. (Oh, yes, I do, and take time to glance over them every week because they usually contain something interesting.

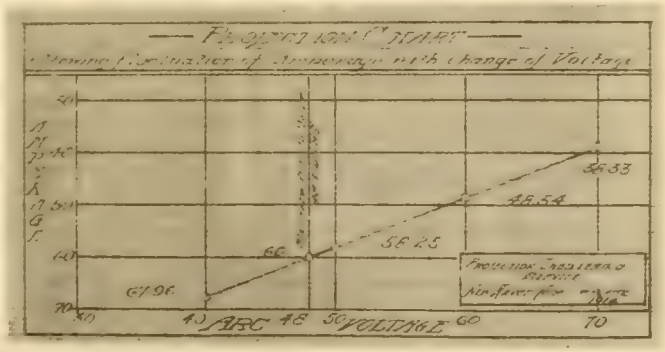

Chart 3.

Ed.). I am making this copy special because I want you to read "A Word About Breaks," since it chimes in with something you had in a recent issue concerning the operator sticking to his knitting. On an average of about once a month Operator Brown may be alone in the operating room, but the rest of the time there are two men there, and the man at the machine IS the man AT the machine. With regard to the lens you spoke of, I am in correspondence with the manufacturer, and one of the firm is expected here in the near future. Will have a lot of dope for you soon. The transverter is there with the goods. I have had it now for quite some time and ought to know.

The house organ in question is a regular little newspaper, and inasmuch as Guimond is some artist with the pen, or, to put it in modern parlance, the typewriter, the aforesaid organ always contains good dope. The article he speaks of has to do with breaks in the film. It is too long to quote verbatim, but here are a few extracts:

> The inspection made by the exchange, plus the inspection made by us, does much to prevent breaks. But these inspections would, nevertheless, avail but little were our machines not kept in A1 shape at all times, and renewal of parts made before they become badly worn. And even if all the above conditions obtained, there would still be trouble if we were satisfied with careless, slipshod work during the projection of the picture As it is, there are usually two men at work in the operating room at all times when the picture is being shown, and the operator is absolutely expected to do but ONE thing, viz.: WATCH HIS PROJECTION. There is always much added work to be done in an operating room where two machines are employed, and in a great many instances the operator is expected to perform these extra tasks, such as rewinding, adjusting carbons on the dead machine, etc., himself. We CAN do it here and we do HAVE to do it occasionally, but such occasions are rare, which means that in this one item of labor we have practically doubled the cost of projection by the installation of a second machine.

The foregoing is indeed excellent, and I am sorry I cannot quote the whole article verbatim. Brother Guimond is, as I have said before, a real sure-enough live-wire exhibitor who is "there with the goods." He is in a small town, but is putting on a real picture, and has an operating room and equipment which would do distinct credit to many of our larger cities. In other words, he is a progressive, and that is the kind of chap I like to talk to.

From Halifax.

William B. Fox, Halifax, N. S., says:

> We appreciate your kindness with regard to the I. A. matter, but up to date have not heard from them. Enclosed find newspaper clippings which will explain why we would like to hear from them on or before the 15th of this month (September). We hope that some time in the future you might be able to visit our city. All the boys were disappointed that you could not come to Halifax when you were so comparatively close to us. We have no experts here, but manage to get good projection, the source of our knowledge being the Handbook, the department and the Hawkins' Electrical Guide. As to the World, why push her up another nickel if you want to. We don't care, for the projection department alone is worth 25 cents a week. In closing, I wish the World and yourself the best of luck and happiness.

The newspaper clippings have to do with the meeting of operators in Halifax for official examination. There were eighty-five motion picture machine operators gathered from all over the Province, and it would have been an ideal time to have formed an organization; in fact, the Halifax operators took preliminary steps for the formation of an organization of their own. This action is particularly appropriate at this time, since the exhibitors themselves are forming a league, and, as you all know, I am thoroughly in favor of a good, effective exhibitors' league and a good, effective operators' union.

In accordance with the request, received some time ago, I wrote the I. A. general headquarters asking them to communicate with Halifax at once, giving them the address, but apparently they did not do it, and I might add that this is a very long ways from being the first time that this particular thing has happened. I hope some day to be able to visit Halifax, but it is a long and rather expensive journey up there and we don't make a trip of that kind every day.

Too Late.

Harry Bowman, Jr., of Bowman's Shows, Glen Wilton, Va., says:

> I enclose money order for $4 for the Handbook, otherwise known as the "Bible." Would it be asking too much to request that you write your autograph on the fly leaf, as a favor to an admirer who has been following your advice for the past eight years? Have only been waiting for the extra change in order to purchase my copy. Have remedied the out of focus effect concerning which I wrote you, and my picture is O. K. now with my machine only 3 feet off center. Why don't you publish your route for the southern trip this winter in the World so we of the Southland can see you? Will you stop in Charlotte, N. C., or Lynchburg, Va.?

The Handbook order came while I was away. However, I keep a few autographed copies on tap, and, as I understand it, one was sent you. As to my route, why, it was published in the department some time ago, Brother Bowman, the exact date being issue of August 5. No, I did not figure on stopping in either Charlotte or Lynchburg. The route through that section as now laid out is: Richmond, Va.; Raleigh, N. C.; Columbia, S. C., and so on down to Miami and Tampa, Fla. Coming back up, I stop at Chattanooga and Knoxville, Tenn.; Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind. Then back down to Nashville, Tenn., and then down to Mobile, Ala., and New Orleans, La. If you tell me how many men you can muster, possibly I can arrange to stop either in Lynchburg or Charlotte. This lecture tour is for the benefit of the industry, and is at the expense of the Moving Picture World. Please advise me as to how many men you can get together, operators and managers, either in Lynchburg or Charlotte, and I will see what can be done.

Lowell Operators Get Increase.

Local Union No. 590, I. A., Lowell, Mass., presented a new agreement to the managers, to take effect September 1. When the agreement was presented the managers were not organized and decided to fight the union, but a league was formed and a conference had with Local 590, which lasted for three hours. At its end the managers decided to grant an increase covering 57½ per cent. of the local's request, which was accepted by the local, and all agreements have now been signed.

This shows two things: First, the local had sense enough not to hold out for more than they could get without an expensive fight. In other words, they were willing to take a goodly per cent. of their demand and avoid a fight. This is a plan which I heartily agree with, always providing it can be done without sacrificing too much. Personally, I am a great believer in demanding (this is a deep, dark, deadly secret) considerably more than you expect to get. One of the most successful labor leaders in Chicago, who has long been a warm, personal friend of mine, has, during the past ten years, succeeded in far more than doubling the salaries of the two thousand men in his union and improving their working conditions enormously, without one single fight of any consequence, simply by following the aforementioned plan. He is great on compromise, but the compromise usually hits just about what the organization really expected to get, and thus everybody is made happy and reasonably well satisfied. Another point is that the unorganized managers of Lowell were going to fight. They were going into what would probably have proven an expensive battle for both sides, but as soon as they organized and conferred with the other organization that plan was changed and reason and argument cooled the blood of those who were eager for battle.

This is a thing which very often happens. As a matter of fact, always assuming that the operator has been diligent and has sought to improve himself, it is an easy matter to show the manager and to prove to him that he is worth more money than he was worth a year ago, and this fact, plus the considerable increase in the cost of living, forms an argument which the managers find very difficult to withstand; therefore if it can be brought down to an argument—if the combined managers can meet the combined operators and "talk it over," nine times out of ten the managers' organization will conclude to grant anything the operators may want which is within range of reason. The manager is not a bad sort of chap at all. In fact, a large percentage of him is a distinctly good sort of chap, and once you get him to "talk it over" and reason the matter he will grant your demands if they are, as I said, within the range of reason.

Appreciative.

Hugh W. Prettyman, secretary Local Union 578, I. A. Morgantown, West Va., writes the Moving Picture World as follows:

> Gentlemen:—As secretary of I. A. Local No. 578, I desire to thank you for the consideration you showed us in sending Mr. Richardson to our city. Although we could supply him with but a comparatively small audience, I assure you all who heard him were greatly benefited, but although (to use his own expression) he stepped pretty heavily on some of our corns, still I am sure that all will agree he told us nothing but the truth. Personally, I am convinced Mr. Richardson is doing a great work and I wish to commend you for the service you are rendering the motion picture industry.

To all of which it would seem that comment by yours truly would be superfluous.

Richardson's

MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK

For Managers and Operators

Over 700 pages and over 300 illustrations help to make a book that will be a lasting monument to its author's knowledge, ability and diligence. No such work on Projection has ever before been attempted, nor likely to be for many years to come. Price is $4.00 per copy, postpaid.

Address All Orders and Remittances to Nearest Office

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Motion Picture Photography

Conducted by CARL LOUIS GREGORY, F. R. P. S.

Inquiries.

QUESTIONS in cinematography addressed to this department will receive carbon copy of the department's reply by mail when four cents in stamps are inclosed. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in this department, $1.

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Answers to Correspondents.

A Canadian Amateur asks:

1. What is the most satisfactory photographic outfit for an amateur to buy, at a reasonable cost?
2. About what would it cost him to have his films developed and positives and titles made from them?
3. What book is most suited to instruct an amateur in motion picture photography?

Not knowing the class of work which the questioner wishes to do, it is rather difficult to answer satisfactorily his questions. If his intention is merely to make a number of films for his own pleasure without intending to utilize any of his negatives in a professional way, he might be able to obtain a great deal of satisfaction from one of the little $35 outfits, which holds 50 feet of film. This outfit, however, is scarcely accurate enough for taking pictures in a professional way since it is only intended for beginners and amateurs.

There are several small cameras holding from 100 to 150 feet which may be bought at prices ranging from $50 to $150, and while they do very satisfactory work on exterior pictures, they are not built to stand the strain of continuous professional work, nor are they sufficiently accurate for the finer class of studio work.

The Universal Camera, which sells for about $300, comes very near to supplying the happier medium, one of fairly moderate price, and is a camera accurate and strong enough for professional work. The magazines have a capacity of 200 feet, and while the professional camera generally has a capacity of 400 feet, there are very few firms able to develop any film in strips longer than 200 feet, so that this cannot be regarded as a drawback, except that it is necessary to load the camera more often than any of the higher-priced cameras with larger retort capacity.

The cameras referred to above have been used by the writer, and the Universal Camera has proven satisfactory in every respect and is able to compete in every way with all except the very highest-priced professional instruments.

There have lately come on to the market a few other makes of cameras ranging in price from $125, some of which are advertised in the columns of this paper. They have the appearance of being instruments which should fill satisfactorily the requirements of any amateur or beginner in the business, and the writer regrets that he has not yet had the opportunity of testing some of these instruments so that he could speak of them with authority.

The cost of developing negatives is about 1 cent per foot, and positives may be obtained from this negative for 4 cents per foot, which includes the cost of positive stock. Where positive stock is furnished by the customer a charge for printing and developing is from 1 to 1½ cents per foot. Tinting and toning of positives is a fraction of a cent more; probably one-half of a cent a foot is the average price for tinting or toning, although special jobs may cost more.

Titles may be obtained complete for 10 cents per foot, providing they are long enough to be read comfortably. That means that a title company will not make a long title and then make 5 feet on it for you for 30 cents, as it costs them too much to print a long title and then only photograph a short strip of it.

A list of books dealing with motion picture photography, with a short description of the contents, was published in this department for August 26, 1916.

Dark Room, New York, says:

I have a print of some fire scenes which I took some time ago, and I wish to use a negative of it in a picture which I am now taking. I made this picture of a fire several years ago and the negative has been burned and I wish to make a duplicate of the positive, but it is tinted a deep red and I have not been able to obtain a satisfactory negative from it.

I tried to make a duplicate on positive stock but cannot produce any impression whatsoever with the strength of light which I have in my printing machine, even after putting in a nitrogen lamp.

I tried negative stock also but while I got a sort of an image, it was so flat and bad that I am not able to use it. I have tried to soak out the dye, but it seems to have penetrated the celluloid and I cannot get it out. Is there any way by which I can make a negative from the film? The scenes are exceptional and it cannot be duplicated, otherwise I would have tried to make a new one.

It is sometimes possible to discharge color from dyed film by the use of acetic acid, but where the dye has penetrated the celluloid it is almost impossible to remove it. However, if you will get a roll of Panchromatic film from the Eastman Company, you will probably be able to make a satisfactory duplicate by using it, but you will have to perform all of your manipulations in the dark or purchase a Safe Light which is a very dim green light used for working with Panchromatic Film. If you only have this one small job it may not be worth your time to purchase a Safe Light as you can do very well in the dark by taking a little care.

It will be necessary for you to make a number of tests, developing them in a bath of known temperature in the dark, giving them different lengths of time to your development until you obtain a satisfactory result. After that you will be able to do the whole roll by adhering to the conditions under which your best test was made.

Panchromatic film is sensitive to red light and the red light in the printing room or in the developing room will fog it instantly if it is exposed to them. Short development gives you a soft negative and long development a hard, harsh negative, so that by changing the time of development you can obtain any degree of contrast that pleases you.

Experimenting with Long Distance Photography.

The possibility of photographing objects at a distance of several miles by means of a moving picture camera has attracted the attention of various government departments, particularly the army and navy departments, and has caused the Bureau of Standards to make an investigation.

There does not seem to be anything particularly new about this plan, for the Bureau of Standards found that a telephoto lens could be put in front of the motion picture camera lens in the same manner as it would be placed in front of the lens of a hand camera.

This practice is being followed in the taking of pictures in the war zone abroad and several samples of the work have reached Washington, some of the films having recently been exhibited at the National Press Club. It was thought that to some extent the motion picture camera could be used in time of war to good advantage, recording from long distances, such things as the eye would discern, giving that which is more permanent than a mere impression.

The Bureau of Standards officials were asked to try out the combination of the camera lens and the telephoto lens and they found that it worked. They had not previously done this, but since have been able to furnish something in the way of a report to the Department requesting the information. This report, of course, would be held as confidential.

Back Numbers.

So many inquiries have come to this department asking when the department started and whether back numbers can be obtained that the following information is given:

The department started in the July 1 number of the World in 1915, and back numbers may be obtained for 10 cents each up to September 2, 1916, when the price was increased to 15 cents per copy.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

*Copyright, 1916, by the Chalmers Publishing Co.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and S. M. BERG

Musical Suggestions for "The Brand of Cowardice."

Compiled by S. M. Berg

Released by Metro Pictures Corp.

THIS "Musical Suggestion Cue Sheet" is not designed to solve every possible musical requirement of the film, but is intended as a partial solution of the problem—what to play for the picture. It has proven to be of great assistance to the leader, not only by relieving to a degree the tedium of rehearsals, but by assisting materially in overcoming those conditions encountered when the film is not available until the hour of performance.

Musical Suggestion Cue Sheets can be obtained (free of charge) by managers from their local exchange in advance of the date of release. This will afford to the progressive leader an opportunity to acquaint himself with the general character of the film drama he is to portray with his orchestra.

Together with the suggested music at the title or descriptive cues where it is to be played, the tempo or characteristic is given so that the leader can select or substitute any or all of the numbers from his own library, thereby avoiding any financial outlay though still carrying out the interpretation.

The timing of the picture is based on a speed of 15 minutes to a thousand feet. The time indications will help the leader to anticipate the various cases which may consist of the printed sub-title (marked T) or a described action (marked D). For instance: 32¼ T-"Idiqui a Mexican" is a sub-title and is printed reading matter on the screen. But 33 D—"Child falls down cliff" is a description of action.

Cyril Van Cortland, wealthy young bachelor, is engaged to Marcia West, daughter of Col. West of the U. S. A. While at a party, news is received that the National Guard of which Cyril is a member, is ordered to the border, because of trouble with the Mexicans. Due to his love for all the luxuries of life, Cyril resigns his commission and is termed a coward by all present, besides which his engagement is broken by Marcia. To prove he is not a coward, he secretly enlists and through his heroic efforts, later rescues Marcia from the hands of the Mexicans.

The character of this picture is a Modern Drama wound around the ordering of the National Guard to Mexico with short scenes of fighting between the Mexicans and the Americans.

Note particularly: Automobile effects at 6¾; Patriotic March at 22; Shots from 47 to close of picture and Direct Cue of Bugle Call at 68 "A call to arms."

The theme selected is "Evensong"—Martin.

When this picture was viewed it consisted of 5 reels, about 4950 feet, and had a projection speed of 75 minutes.

Time.		Sub Titles or Descriptive Cues.	Music.
0	D	Opening.	A Fabian Romance—Tyers. (Intermezzo moderato.)
21½	T	"Cyril Van Cortland—"	Pizzicato No. 28—Berge. (Petite ballet.)
51¼	T	"As usual, Cyril, the spoiled—"	Evensong—Martin. (Andante con expressione.) THEME
63¾	T	"The American girl, she is—" (auto effects).	Harry No. 33—Minot.
81½	T	"I'm glad you are an officer—"
90¼	T	"I am giving an informal—"	Valse Boston—Lumbye.
11	T	"I am always a friend of the—"	Repeat: THEME.
103¼	T	"That makes no difference to me—"
141½	T	"You Captain wanted to know—"	Dramatic Andante No. 32—Berge.
16	T	"Mr. Hamilton, I agree—"
171½	T	"Was the [illegible]"	Repeat: THEME.
193¼	T	"Say do I look like a coward?"	Dramatic Andante No. 24—Borch.
213¾	T	After a sleepless night.
22	D	When Hamilton reads letter.	Stars and Stripes Forever—Sousa. (Patriotic March.)
231½	T	To solve his problem.	Pulcinello—Aletter. (Allegretto intermezzo.)
271¼	T	"Above all, do not cross—"
28	T	"Here, come back and empty this."	Serenade—Ern. (Allegretto.)
31	T	"I am Senor Navarette—"
321¼	T	Idiqui a Mexican	Repeat: THEME.
33	D	Child falls down cliff.	Intermezzo—Arensky. (Presto.)
34	T	"Dear Colonel, I deeply "
351¼	T	"Suppose now Corporal—$500.00—"	Stolen Moments—Friedmann. (Molto moderato.)
38	T	"Now my dear, you must "
383¼	T	How Cyril found himself.	Agitato No. 6—Kiefert.
401½	T	"Hereafter, when you fight—"
403¾	T	Under cover of darkness.	Misterioso Dramatico No. 22—Borch.
42	T	"I can't go, I'm on guard "
433¾	T	The hourly guard patrol	Hurry No. 26—Minot.
461½	T	"Your story about the [illegible]"
47	T	"But, Senor, my child—" (shots).	Allegro Agitato No. 1—Kiefert.
481¼	T	"Disobedience of orders—"	Repeat: THEME.
493¾	T	"My baby is better."
501½	D	Mexicans see Marcia.	Hurry No. 2—Simon.
533¾	T	"I have Corp. Mallin to thank—"	Menuetta No. 20—Herbert.
56	T	"May I have the honor—"	La Estrella—Lansey. (Spanish mazurka.)
581½	T	"Now don't worry, dear—"
59	T	"Senor General, a house—"	Galop No. 7—Minot.
62	T	"You—a soldier—"	Allegro Agitato No. 8—Andino.
641¼	D	Hamilton carries Marcia.	Repeat: THEME.
663¾	T	"This Indian tells me—"
671¼	T	"The thought of cowardice—"	Serenade—Karganoff. (Moderato assai.)
68	T	A call to arms (direct cue, bugle call).	Bugle Call
690¼	T	"And you have kept my ring—"
691½	D	Mexicans shoot at Hamilton (shots).	Battle Agitato No. 16—Minot.
721¼	T	"Remember your promise—" (shots).	Cavalry Parade No. 4—Andino.
733¾	T	"I love the bravest man "	Repeat: THEME.
75	T	The end.

"Acoustics."

By S. M. Berg.

In "The New York Times" of Tuesday, October the 17th, appears a very interesting review upon the "Ballet Russe giving 'Sadko' as its Premiere." To quote the closing paragraph: "A record of the premiere would not be complete without a word in appreciation of the orchestra. Again the Diaghileff Ballet has shown its careful attention to the musical side of its work and has gathered a body of orchestral players which is something more than merely competent. No doubt the hall had something to do with this, for somehow the Manhattan Opera House seems the best setting in which the ballet has yet been displayed. Its acoustic properties are especially good."

Acoustics is one of the most difficult problems to be met with in a large building of any kind especially orchestra acoustics in a theater. When architects are called to design a theater no guarantee can ever be given that the acoustic properties will be perfect. I recall some years ago when a large new hall was constructed for the purpose of symphonic concerts, though the opening had been announced and the orchestra had rehearsed elsewhere. Owing to the incompletion of the hall, temporary seats had to be installed as the performance had to be given, but which turned out to be a positive failure. Critics had condemned the organization and disaster seemed apparent when someone a little more intelligent than the rest, suggested investigating the acoustics of the new building. Experts were called and by a series of draperies and wire stringing, it was ultimately overcome.

The modern design of theater having no second balcony gives to the side of a house a long blank sweep which has a peculiar habit of throwing sounds backwards and forwards. Perhaps my readers have at some time attended a theater wherein a traveling company is performing, and while one of the actors, who is standing close to the footlights, is speaking his lines, an echo is suddenly noticed. Theater Managers certainly should give some consideration to this subject.

Two theaters may be built, in different districts but exactly from the same plans, and yet the acoustics of one may be perfect and the other faulty. An orchestra may play in one house and perfect tonal qualities are noticeable. The same performance in a second house seems blatirish and distressing. Where such points arise, here are some remedies.

Frequently a theater orchestra is seated on a concrete floor and at their side is a series of iron doors. For such a problem a thin layer of asbestos, where fireproof conditions are met with, covering the iron doors will be found practical, and will have the beneficial effect. Again the solution is to raise the floor of the pit where the stringed and wood instruments are seated, sinking somewhat the brass and percussion. On a large expanse of blank wall, a tapestry hanging or a drop curtain often improves the acoustics, thus eliminating the echo.

In one instance I heard of, wherein there was an unusually large dome with ceiling lights to the theater, a good deal of trouble was caused by an echo which was overcome by suspending a series of drop lights with silken cords from the ceiling. Only a few weeks ago a theater in New York placed their orchestra upon a stage and upon the opening day the manager complained that one-half of the tone was lost, but on investigation it was found that the whole of the roof of the stage to the grid was open. A ceiling cloth was hung and the whole of the set covered in from the back, which immediately remedied the trouble.

Dr. Theodore Baker tells us that acoustics is the science of the properties and relations of sounds. A tone of sustained equal pitch is regulated by regular and constant vibrations of the air whereas noise is caused by irregular and fluctuating vibrations. For example, were we to take any wind instrument and dent or bore a hole in a vital spot, the result would be a wretched performance by the instrument, and the effect would be noise instead of tone.

Perfect tonal qualities depend upon the acoustic properties of the theater. As previously stated no guarantee of this kind can be given, but considerable help can be found in carefully changing the setting arrangement of musicians and by judicious help of a few screens, wires, cards or a series of small draperies.

Real Thrills in Battle Pictures

Donald Thompson, War Photographer, Lectures at Private Showing of Ten Reels of War Scenes.

THE experiences of Donald C. Thompson, staff photographer for Leslie's Weekly, on the European battlefields, as caught by the motion picture camera, were given a private showing at Wurlitzer Hall, New York City, Sunday evening, October 22. Mr. Thompson was present in person and added to the interest of the occasion by his terse and lucid comments during the unwinding of the reels. The audience was composed of motion picture reviewers and other representatives of the press, and many of the scenes were greeted with hearty applause. Ten reels were shown, including two reels of hospital scenes that are not given in public.

The most impressive feature of Mr. Thompson's pictures is their authenticity. Nothing is faked. The photographer was under fire repeatedly, and scene after scene was taken at the risk of his life. Opening with some remarkable views taken from an aeroplane at a height of ten thousand feet above the harbor of Salonika, with the Allied fleet at anchor, the reels disclosesd a battle between French and German aeroplanes, taken from a French machine; the "curtain of fire," which cut off retreat from the trenches and drove their occupants to surrender; a front line battle where the opposing trenches were only forty feet apart; an English dirigible rising from its place of concealment in the hold of a ship, and other vivid scenes taken at Verdun, Fleurcourt and on the Somme.

One of the most impressive incidents is the complete obliteration of a portion of a trench and a number of soldiers by a shell. The men are seen hurling hand grenades in the direction of the enemy. The next instant the shell strikes squarely in the center of their ranks, the air is filled with flying debris, and nothing remains but a gaping hole in the ground.

The hospital scenes reveal the terrible suffering and marvelous powers of endurance of the wounded men. One Algerian, in particular, received a round of applause from the spectators in recognition of the confident smile with which he greeted the surgeons when they started to dress his wound.

In the course of his remarks Mr. Thompson said that 70 per cent. of the film that he has taken of the European battlefields is still in France, and will be held there by the authorities until after the war. The 30 per cent. brought to this country contains positive proof that the man who made the pictures never let any obstacle or danger stand in his way.

Two Prize Winners on Selznick Program

Miss Zintheo and Miss Marton Are Chosen from the Eleven Leaders in Recent Contest.

TWO of the eleven winners of the national "beauty and brains" contest conducted by the Photoplay Magazine have been engaged on three-year contracts by Lewis J. Selznick. They are Miss Lucille Zintheo of Spokane and Miss Aletia Marton of Dallas.

The eleven winners of the contest, which was conducted for the purpose of selecting the prettiest and cleverest girl aspirant for laurels as a motion picture actress, in each section of the United States, were escorted recently to New York where the various film companies tested their abilities and made selections. First choice was naturally given Mr. Selznick, as one of the prime movers in the contest, and after film tests of all the girls were taken by Albert Capellani and Herbert Brenon, the decision was made.

Miss Zintheo is a brunette with remarkably expressive eyes and a brilliant smile. She is a native of Detroit, having been born there twenty-one years ago. She is making her first screen appearance in a minor part of "War Brides."

Miss Marton is a blonde. She is a native of Dallas. Her photograph has appeared extensively in the newspapers of the Southwest, and when the announcement of her success in the contest was made in the Dallas papers, she was tendered receptions and dinners. Miss Marton will make her screen debut in a screen version of the drama "Panthea."

Artcraft Issuing Much Publicity

Included in the List Are a Monograph by Wells Hawks, Ten Styles of Posters, Press Book and Lobby Display.

ONE of the most comprehensive lines of publicity assistance ever devised for a motion picture production is the claim made by Artcraft Pictures Corporation for the campaign which goes with the release of Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust" on November 6. Not only has every detail of the routine and recognized methods of cooperating with the exhibitor been carefully attended to, but several interesting and unusual business-getting novelties have been included in the campaign.

The "special" which is expected to create the most favorable comment is the little volume, "How to Handle Mary Pickford Pictures," written by Wells Hawks. In fact, this booklet is so highly regarded as a genuine monograph on the subject of how to improve presentation of motion pictures that Artcraft has ordered a generous supply for general distribution to exhibitors, whether showing the new superior productions of Mary Pickford or not.

The printing gives the exhibitor a choice of ten artistic styles for billboard advertising. Four styles are stock posters, showing Mary Pickford in new straight poses; the other six comprise the special printing ordered for "Less Than the Dust." Many exhibitors have ordered the stock posters, consisting of one one-sheet, two three-sheet and a twenty-four-sheet, for their preliminary campaign, planning subsequently to cover these boards with the special production printing, of which there are two styles each of one and three sheets and also one six and one twenty-four sheet.

More than thirty different styles of still photographs and character poses of Mary Pickford are used in the lobby displays designed for Artcraft exhibitors. An artistic herald, atmospheric slides and the usual cuts and the like are also available.

The note of novelty in the lobby displays is provided by numerous oil paintings made for Artcraft by well-known artists. Several character poses are available on easy rental terms. In addition there are oil paintings of Mary Pickford in straight new poses, which are being obtained by exhibitors as permanent display in their theaters. The mailing lists have been well taken care of with fine reproductions of these expensive oils on small cards.

Completing the co-operating scheme between Artcraft and exhibitor is the press book. There is everything required for newspaper publicity in the twenty-four pages of this volume. Filler paragraphs grow into column special stories for the feature sections. There is a catalog of cuts and numerous sample advertisements, one of which is furnished free in matrix form for the advertiser who uses large space. The book also contains a complete list of accessories and sample order blank for placing orders with the exchange managers.

INDUSTRIAL FILMS CIRCULATED BY Y. M. C. A.

It may not be generally known that the International Committee of Young Men's Christian Associations maintain as an important part of their service an Industrial Bureau which now has placed at its service more than two hundred different industrial films. These have been donated to the work of the Y. M. C. A. by various manufacturers.

The circulation of film by the Industrial Department of the International Committee has been under way since 1912, and was established for the purpose of supplying a weekly service to local branches of the Y. M. C. A., which in turn offer the use of these films free to schools, churches and other institutions in their respective localities. We understand that at least seven hundred of the Y. M. C. A. buildings throughout the country are equipped with all projection necessities. The work of the Y. M. C. A. in this respect is far-reaching, and an endeavor is now being made, in answer to a request, to supply the National Committee of the Y. M. C. A. in China with 300,000 feet of industrial film.

INTERNATIONAL SUBJECTS AT WALDORF.

For the first time in its history the guests at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York will be entertained on election night with a moving picture performance, instead of receiving the election returns to the accompaniment of a cabaret.

Because of its varied attractive features, the International was selected by the management of the Waldorf to furnish the entire evening's entertainment. The program will include the current issues of the Hearst International News Pictorial, one of the episodes of "Beatrice Fairfax," the current animated cartoons of George MacManus, Tom Powers and other International cartoonists; a comedy feature and the current issues of fashions, in which prominent Broadway stars pose.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

CATALOGUE OF EDUCATIONAL PICTURES.

Released Between July 1 and October 1, 1916.

Compiled by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THIS list does not include the various news pictorials issued from week to week, such as the Animated Weekly, the Pathe News, the Mutual Weekly, the Selig-Tribune, the Hearst-International, etc.

NOTE:—Attached to this catalogue will be found a list of films suitable for children's programs, and also information regarding the addresses of the manufacturing and booking companies mentioned therein, and the locating of the different productions through their brand names.

ARCHITECTURE.

Architectural Masterpieces of Asia—(Reel Life No. 14)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 6.
Ornate Pagodas—(Picturesque China)—Pathe July 24.
Texas Missions—(Reel Life No. 19)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 17.

AGRICULTURE.

Better Pigs—Paramount Pictographs—September
Pear Growing (Oregon)—Pathe—September 11.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL.

Don't Cheat Yourself—Paramount Pictographs—July 2 (a warning to housewives to guard against the tricks of unscrupulous dealers).
Salesmen, Methods of Modern—Paramount Pictographs—July 9.

ENGINEERING AND MINING.

Bang Mun Gold Mines—Pathe—July 10
Coal, Mining Anthracite—(Ree Life No. 12)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 23.
Coal, Mining Soft—(Reel Life No. 10)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 10.
Electric Railroad Over the Rockies, Running of a—Paramount Pictographs—July 16.
Gold Is Mined in Georgia, How—(Reel Life No. 13)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 30.
Hydraulic Gold Mining in Southern Oregon—(Reel Life No. 18—Gaumont-Mutual—September 3.
Hydraulic Mining—(Reel Life No. 13)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 30
Marble Quarrying in Italy—(Reel Life No. 11)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 16.
Water Power—(Reel Life No. 16)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 20 (illustrating evolution in the use of water power from the time of the primitive turbine wheel to the present day of huge transmission plants).

INDUSTRIES.

Capturing Wild Oysters—Paramount Pictographs—September
Chewing Gum, The Manufacture of—Paramount Pictographs—September 3.
Converting Wood into Pulp—Paramount Pictographs—September (showing the manufacture of print paper in all the different processes).
Duck Raising on a Large Scale—Paramount Pictographs—July 23
Fishermen of the Deep, With the—Paramount Pictographs—September 3.
Fishing on the New Jersey Coast—(Reel Life No. 13)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 30
Hunting Whales in Japan—Powers-Universal—September 14.
Ice Cutting and Making of Artificial Ice—Paramount Pictographs—July 16
Indian Silversmith, The—Metro—June 26.
Leather Footprints—Paramount Pictographs—September (illustrates the latest scientific method of making a pair of boots for a fashionable woman).
Long Island Duck Farm, On a—(Reel Life No. 14)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 6.
Paper Parasols—Pathe—July 24 (giving a detailed account of the manufacture of fancy paper parasols in Java).
Pearl Industry, The—Powers-Universal—September 14 (on the same reel with "Hunting Whales in Japan").
Pottery in the Making—Paramount Pictographs—September.
White Leghorn Chicken Raising—(Reel Life No. 21)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 24.
Wool, Our Grandmother's Method of Handling—(Reel Life No. 9)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 2.

LITERATURE.

ABBOTT (Eleanor Halowell).

Little Eve Edgarton—(With Ella Hall)—Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.—August 21—(5 parts).

BRADY (Cyrus Townsend).

Southerners, The—(with Mabel Trunelle, Elgelow Cooper, etc.)—Biograph re-issue—General Film—June 27

BRADDON (Mary Elizabeth).

East Lynne—(With Theda Bara)—Fox Film Corporation—July.

BROADHURST (George).

International Marriage, An—(With Rita Jolivet)—Morosco-Paramount—July 24—(5 parts).

BROWNING (Robert).

Blot on the 'Schutcheon, The—(With Dorothy Bernard and Chas. Mailes)—Biograph reissue-General Film—September 12.

BUCHANAN (Thompson).

Woman's Way, A—(With Ethel Clayton and Carlyle Blackwell)—Brady-World—August 7—(5 parts).

CHAMEERS (Robert W.).

Common Law, The (With Clara Kimball Young)—Young-Selznick—date changed from July to October 16—(5 parts).

CHAPIN (Frederick).

House of Mirrors, The—(With Frank Mills)—Rialto-Mutual—August 7—(5 parts).

DANBY (Frank).

Heart of a Child, The—(With Edna Flugrath)—Red Feather-Universal—July 10—(5 parts).

DE JANNELLI (Alexandro).

Husband and Wife—(With Lou Tellegen)—Lasky-Paramount—August 28—(5 parts).

DODD (Lee Wilson).

Return of Eve, The—(With Edna Mayo and Eugene O'Brien)—Essanay-Greater Vitagraph—September 4—(5 parts).

DUMAS (Alexander).

Black, or the Tale of a Dog ("Where Is My Father?")—Exclusive Features Corporation—July—(7 parts).

ENGLAND (George Allen).

Alibi, The—(With James Morrison)—Vitagraph-V-L-S-E—August 7—(5 parts).

FITCH (Clyde).

Way of the World, The—(With Hobart Bosworth and Dorothy Davenport)—Universal Feature—July 3—(5 parts).
Woman in the Case, The—(With Pauline Frederick)—Famous Players-Paramount—August 7—(5 parts).

GABORIAU (Emil).

Evil Women Do, The—(With Elsie Jane Wilson)—Bluebird—September 25—(5 parts).

GIBBS (George).

Silent Battle, The—(With J Warren Kerrigan and Lois Wilson)—Bluebird—July 24—(5 parts).

HAGGARD (H. Ryder).

Mr. Meeson's Will—("The Grasp of Greed")—(With Louise Lovely)—Bluebird—July 17—(5 parts).

HALEVY (Ludivoc).

L'Abbe Constantin—("Bettina Loved a Soldier")—(With Louise Lovely)—Bluebird—August 14—(5 parts).

HARDY (Thomas).

Far from the Madding Crowd—(With Florence Turner)—Turner-Mutual—June 22—(5 parts)

HARTE (Bret).

Half Breed, The—(With Douglas Fairbanks)—Fine Arts-Triangle—July 30—(5 parts).

HEATH (Evelyn).

Saving the Family Name—(With Mary MacLaren)—Bluebird—September 11—(5 parts).

HOYT (Chas.).

Milk White Flag, A—(With Otis Harlan)—Selig-General Film—July 10—(3 parts).

IBSEN (Henrick).

Pillars of Society—(With Henry Walthall)—Fine Arts-Triangle—August 27—(5 parts).

ISHAM (Frederick S.).

Black Friday—Red Feather-Universal—September 18—(5 parts).

JOHNSON (Adrian).

Wall Street Tragedy, A—(With Nat C Goodwin)—Mirror-Mutual—August 14—(5 parts).

KENYON (Charles).

Husband and Wife—(With Ethel Clayton and Holbrook Blinn)—Brady-World—August 28—(5 parts).

KESTER (Vaughn).

Manager of the B. & A.—(With Helen Holmes)—Mutual Star Production—September 25—(5 parts).

KRAMER (Theodore).

Fatal Wedding, The—(With Millicent Evans, Irene Hawley, Chas. Mailes, etc.)—Biograph (re-issue)—General Film—August 9—(3 parts).

LAWSON (Thomas W.)

Friday, the Thirteenth—(With Robert Warwick)—Peerless-World Film—September 18—(5 parts).

LESSING (Bruno).

Aschenbroedel—(With Dorothy Phillips)—Victor-Universal—August 10—(2 parts).

LOCKE (William J.)

Jaffery—(With C. Aubrey Smith and Eleanor Woodruff)—Frohman Amusement-International—July—(6 parts).

MEGRUE (Roi Cooper).

Under Cover—(With Hazel Dawn and Owen Moore)—Famous Players-Paramount—July 20—(5 parts).

MOFFETT (Cleveland).

Through the Wall—(With Nell Shipman)—Greater Vitagraph—September 18—(6 parts).

OPPENHEIM (E. Phillips).

Under Suspicion—(With Douglas Munro and Laura Cowie)—Red Feather-Universal—October 2—(5 parts).

OUIDA.

Under Two Flags—(Theda Bara)—Fox Film Corporation—July 31—(5 parts).

PECK (Chas. Mortimer).

Stuff of Victory, The—(With Henry B. Walthall)—Essanay-V-L-S-E—August 7—(5 parts).

PEPLE (Edward).

Prince Chap, The—(With Marshal Neilan)—Selig-V-L-S-E—July 24—(5 parts).

POLLOCK (Channing).

Pretender, The—(With Emmy Wehlan)—Rolfe-Metro—August 21—(5 parts).

RAINE (Allen).

Welsh Singer, A—(With Florence Turner)—Turner Mutual—August 17—(5 parts).

RATH (E. J.).

River of Romance, The—(With Harold Lockwood and May Allison)—Yorke-Metro—July 17—(5 parts).

RINEHART (Mary Roberts).

Seven Days—(With Louise Orth, Chas. Marie, Walter Miller, etc.)—Biograph-General Film—August 23—(3 parts)—(reissue).

"RITA."

Grim Justice—(With Florence Turner)—Turner Mutual—September 11—(5 parts).

RIVES (Hallie Erminie).

Valiants of Virginia, The—(With Kathlyn Williams)—Selig-V-L-S-E—June 26—(5 parts).

SELWYN (Edgar).

Rolling Stones—(With Marguerite Courtot)—Famous Players—Paramount—August 21—(5 parts).

SHAKESPEARE (William).

Macbeth—(With H. Beerbohm Tree)—Fine Arts-Triangle—(7 parts).

Macbeth—Big A Film Corp.—July—(5 parts).

TENNYSON (Alfred).

Enoch Arden—(With Wilfrid Lucas)—Biograph (reissue)—General Film—September 29—(2 parts).

TILTON (Dwight).

Miss Petticoats—(With Alice Brady)—Brady-World—July 31—(5 parts).

VANCE (Louis Joseph).

Joan Thursday—("The Footlights of Fate")—(With Marc MacDermott and Naomi Childers)—Vitagraph-V-L-S-E—August 21—(5 parts).

WILLIAMSON (C. N. and A. M.).

Woman Who Dared, The—(With Beatriz Michelena)—California Motion Picture Corp.—May—(7 parts).

MILITARY.

A. U. S. Jackie, The Making of an—(Reel Life No. 15)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 13.

Fall of a Nation, The—Greater Vitagraph—September 18—(7 parts).

France Prepared, How—(Reel Life No. 11)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 16.

Germany's Battles at Verdun—Samuel Cummins—July—(4 parts).

Mexico, War-Ridden—Rex-Universal—July 11.

Oath of a Boy Scout, The—(Reel Life No. 17)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 27.

Our American Boys in the European War—Triangle—July—(4 parts).

United States Soldier, Making a—Powers-Universal—September 7.

Zeppelin Raids of London and the Siege of Verdun—Kemble Film Corp.—July.

NAVIGATION AND MARINE.

Day With the Yachtsmen, A—(Reel Life No. 18)—Guamont-Mutual—September 3.

Fresh Water Acrobats—(Sailing Craft)—Paramount Pictographs—September.

Lighthouses—Paramount Pictographs—September 3.

Merchant Marine Officers, Training—(Reel Life No. 20)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 17.

SCENIC.

(Including Peoples and Customs).

Adirondacks, Lake Placid region of the—(See America First No. 55)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 27.

Alaska, The Lure of—Dr. Leonard S. Sugden—August 1.

Austrian Alps, Climbing the—Holmes-Paramount—August 28.

Bavaria, Beautiful—Holmes-Paramount—July 10.

Bergen to Bandak, Tour from—Vitagraph—July 3.

Bohemia, The Real—Holmes-Paramount—July 24.

Bonnie Scotland—Holmes-Paramount—September 25.

Cape Cod, Quaint—(See America First No. 50)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 23.

Carlsbad to Moravia, From—Holmes-Paramount—August 7.

Catalonia, Some Ports in—Pathe—July 10.

Columbia River, Scenes Along the—(Oregon)—(See America First No. 52)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 6.

Crater Lake, Oregon—(See America First No. 46)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 26.

Danube to Vienna, Down the—Holmes-Paramount—July 17.

Delaware Water Gap and the Pocono Mountains—(See America First No. 48)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 9.

Devil Dancers of India—(Imperial India No. 2)—Powers-Universal—July 20.

England, Motoring in—Holmes-Paramount—September 11.

England, The Sunny South of—Holmes-Paramount—September 4.

English Town and Country, Glimpses of—Holmes-Paramount—September 7.

Egypt, Monuments of Ancient—(Reel Life No. 9)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 2.

Europe at Peace, Seeing—Holmes-Paramount—July 2—(including homes and habits of the Wendish peasants, and scenes in Nuremberg).

Ghent, Picturesque—(Belgium)—Pathe—September 4.

Glacier National Park—(See America First No. 44)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 12.

Glasgow to Edinboro—Holmes-Paramount—September 18.

Grand Canyon of Arizona, The—Metro Travelogue—June 26—(Giving a complete resume of the Canyon's wonders. Encompassing also "The Pagan People of the Painted Desert.")

Greater New York by Night and by Day, G. Pot Mason, August—(4 parts).

Havana, Picturesque—Pathe—September 4.

Head Waters of the Delalen, The—Vitagraph—July 17.

Historic Mobile, Ala.—Pathe—September 11.

Hopi and Navajos in New Mexico, With the—Metro Travelogue—July 10. (Showing the Navajo as the first American shepherd, including the driving of flocks of sheep into the water to wash them before removing the wool, the removal of the wool, the carding and spinning of the wool, and the final weaving of it into blankets. The Hopis are shown as our first basket makers. An observation trip with Henry B. Joy of Detroit, to watch the performance of Packard trucks on the expedition into Mexico is also included, and scenes along the Mexican border.)

Innsbruck, Capital of the Austrian Tirol—Holmes-Paramount—August 14.

Japan, Behind the Scenes in—Powers-Universal—September 28—(Dr. Dorsey's travels).

Japan's Gateway to the Temple of the Gods—Powers-Universal—August 31.

Lincoln Highway, Scenes Along the—Metro Travelogues—July 17.—(Showing John Alden, a direct descendent of the John Alden of Miles Standish fame, duplicating his journey of 1852 over the highway. At Laramie, Wyoming, a herd of 1,500 thoroughbred, white-face cattle; a bull flight on the open range; a flock of 4,000 registered sheep. This reel also includes a part of the educational series of bird and animal life prepared by Wm. L. Finley, Oregon, State Biologist). (Reel contains about 1,000 feet in all.)

Maine Coast, The Lure of the Picturesque—Metro Travelogues—July 24—(Showing Bar Harbor and other favorite spots on Mt. Desert Island; cruising among the many islands of Casco Bay; Pearl Cottage on Orr's Island, the old homestead of Harriet Beecher Stowe; Camden and the Penobscot Harbor; the old fishing port of Rockland. Contains also a part of William L. Finley's wild animal series, showing habits of bears—"With the Pueblo Indians of San Juan, N. M.," including Corpis Christi day in Santa Fe, the oldest processional in this country.)

Malay Archipelago, Across the—Pathe—July 3.

Massachusetts, Along the North Shore of—(See America First No. 53)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 13.

Mauch Chunk, Pa.—(See America First No. 51)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 30.

Mobile, Ala.—(See America First No. 43)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 5.

Munich, the Magnificent—Holmes-Paramount—July 9.

New Hampshire, Beauty Spots of—(See America First No. 54)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 20.

New Orleans—(See America First No. 45)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 19.

New Orleans, Vernon Howe Bailey's Sketch Book of—Essanay-General Film—July 19.

Pagan People of the Painted Desert, The—Metro Travelogues—June 26.—(Showing the Hopi and Navajo Indians in New Mexico, including some of their industries, such as silver working and the making of a common file).

Petrograd, Vernon Howe Bailey's Sketch Book of—Essanay-General Film—August 2.

Philadelphia—(See America First No. 47)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 2.

Prague, Picturesque—Holmes-Paramount—July 31.

Pueblo Indians of San Juan, N. M., The—Metro Travelogues—July 24.—(On the same reel with "The Lure of the Pictureque Maine Coast," and bear studies from Finley animal series).

Shoshone Valley, By Auto Through—Metro Travelogues—July 3.—(The trip taken over the government highway gives in the first part of the film, views of the scenic beauties of Shoshone Valley, while the latter part is given over to picturing the homes and habits of the cougar, the mountain lion, and the bear, finishing with a cartoon trailer).

Snoqualmie River, The—("Nature's Tireless Energy")—Pathe—August 14.

South Tirol, The Italian Corner of Austria, In—Holmes-Paramount—August 21.

St. Augustine, Historic—Pathe—August 28.

Switzerland, In—Holmes-Paramount—September 4.

Texas Missions—(Reel Life No. 19)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 10.

Tokio, Capital of Japan—Pathe—August 7.

Washington, Vernon Howe Bailey's Sketch Book of—Essanay-General Film—August 30.

Watkins' Glen and the Thousand Islands—(See America First No. 49)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 16.

SCIENCE.

Big Game Hunting in a Drop of Water—Leggett-Gruen Corp.—August 1.—(Showing, by means of a miscroscope, the minute animal organisms in pond water, such as the Green Hydra, the Cyclops, Entomostraca and Water Mite)—(one reel).

Chemicals in War, The Use of—Paramount Pictographs—July 16.

Creating Life from a Dead Leaf—Powers-Universal—August 25.—(Giving microscopic views of bacteria, water fleas, etc.). This reel includes also pictures of the Mexican Devil Fish and other denizens of the sea).

Crystallization, Experiments in—Paramount—September 28—(One reel with comic cartoon).

Fighting Infantile Paralysis—Powers-Universal—July 27.

Gasoline—(Reel Life No. 8)—Gaumont-Mutual—June 25.—(Demonstrating the fact that gasoline enclosed in cans will not explode unless overheated).

Jumping Analyzed—Pathe—August 7.—(Showing by means of a rapid camera the play of man's muscles in taking difficult jumps).
Palmistry, The Science of—(Reel Life No. 21)—Gaumont-Mutual—September 24.
Wonders of the Unseen World—Paramount Pictographs—September.—(Contains novel examples of microscopic life in brooks and rivers).

SOCIOLOGY.

Better Babies—Paramount Pictographs—(Running through several issues of the pictographs).
Dawn of Freedom, The—Vitagraph-V-L-S-E—August 14.—(5 part drama, which portrays the spirit of Richard Cartwright, returning after a century, to find the estate granted to him for his service to his country, in the hands of a grasping descendant who is conducting thereon a sweatshop system opposed to the liberty and true patriotism for which the Declaration of Independence stands).
Dust—American-Mutual—July 10.—(5 part labor story).
Garden City Fever, The—Paramount Pictographs—September.—(Showing children turning waste places into useful gardens and beauty spots).
Teaching the Blind to Become Useful—(Reel Life No. 10)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 9.—(Showing graduates occupied with industrial pursuits).

SPORTS AND HUNTING.

Corona Race, The Great—Imp-Universal—August 13—(2 parts).—(Showing Bob Burman, Barney Oldfield, Earl Cooper, Hughie Hughs, etc.).
Diving Experts—Paramount Pictographs—September.
Dueling With a Sword Fish—Paramount Pictographs—August 28.
Golf Playing, A Lesson in—Paramount Pictographs—June.—Alex Smith gives some pointers as to how club should be held.
Horsemanship, Lessons in—Paramount Pictographs—July 23.
Hunting Whales in Japan—Powers-Universal—September 14.
Man-Eating Shark on the Jersey Coast, Catching a—Paramount Pictographs—July 29.
Rough Riders of India, The—(Imperial India No. 3)—Powers-Universal—August 3.—(From Dorsey's travel pictures, including elephant and camel races and feats of horsemanship).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 2—V-L-S-E—July 3.—(Molla Bjurstedt and Mrs. May Sutton Bundy decide the woman's tennis championship of the world; wrestling match between William Demetral, Greek wrestling champion, and William Berne, Russian heavyweight; champion pocket billiard match between Joe Concannon and Charles (Cowboy) Weston.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 3—V-L-S-E—July 10.—(Charles Morin and August Kickhofer, world's champions, play three-cushion carom billiards; Francisco Verri and Oscar Egg, champion long distance bicycle riders, ride one mile against time on indoor trainers; Stanislaus Zybszko, the great Polish wrestler, and Marion Pletsina, the Croatian heavyweight champion, wrestle to a finish.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 4—V-L-S-E—July 17.—(Adams and Pratt, champion high jumpers in contest; wrestling match between Sam Varrion and Ben Ruben; annual push-ball contest between freshmen and sophomores at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute, Troy, New York; John Ertle, of St. Paul, Minn., world's bantamweight champion boxer, presents methods used in to train and condition himself for ring contests, and is also seen in scientific glove contest with Joe Burman, of Chicago.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 5—V-L-S-E—July 24.—(Golf demostration by Chas. Evans, national champion; Jake Schaffer, Jr. and Harry Cline, play balkline style billiards; Knock-about wrestling match between Kalla Pasha and Jack Dribbs; bowling contest at Crescent Club, Brooklyn, showing William H. Herbert, champion, and his trophy.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 6—V-L-S-E—July 31.—(Ralph de Palma and Dario Resta, world champion auto speeders, racing on various speedways; Gus. Schoenlein and Johnny Rogers engage in wrestling match; Theodore Combisar awarded prize for perfect physique; Frank Thoma and H. S. Merino present the finer points of the bowling game.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 7—V-L-S-E—August 7.—(Collier and De Walde engage in roller skating contest; students of Columbia University engage in tug-of-war; Greenleaf and Weinrich engage in expert billiard match; field day at White Sox Park, Chicago; Ed. Lewis wrestles against Cutler and Getstout).
Selig-Athletic Feature Film Series No. 8—V-L-S-E—August 14.—(Mrs. Arnold Jackson shows finess at golf; bout between Willie Ritchie and Lee Steffans; wrestling match between Frank Gotch and Jim Essen, also two swimming matches.) (1,000 feet).
Selig-Athletic Feature Series No. 10—V-L-S-E—August 28.—(Jiu Jitsu match between Otagawa, great Japanese exponent, and W. Berne; Miss Daly and J. D. Baker among world's champions in archery; winter sports, including ice skating, ski jumping, ice boating, obstacle races and hockey.) (1,000 feet).
Sports of the Rajahs—(Imperial India, No. 1)—Powers-Universal—July 8.—(From Dorsey's travel pictures, including a cheetah hunt, a tiger hunt, fights between rams, and between elephants, between wild boars, and a fight between a leopard and a hyena).
Taming a Lion—Paramount Pictographs—June.

TOPICAL.

Automobiles—Glimpses of How They Are Spirited Away—(Reel Life No. 11)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 16.
Correspondence School in Operation, A—(Reel Life No. 12)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 23.
Dining Automatically—Paramount Pictographs—September.—(Latest methods in quick-lunching).
Florence Rose Fashions—Pathe—(Commenced August 7)—Released periodically.
Paris Sewers Are Cleaned and Purified, How—(Reel Life No. 10)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 9.
Street Cleaning Department of New York City in Operation—(Reel Life No. 8)—Gaumont-Mutual—June 25.
St. John's Floating Hospital—Paramount Pictographs—August 28.
Uncle Sam's Immigrants—Pathe—July 31.

ZOOLOGY.

Animal Studies at the Bronx Zoo—(Reel Life No. 10)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 9.
Bird and Animal Life—From the William L. Finley educational series—Metro Travelogues—July 17.—(Showing how the children of the Audubon Society of Portland, Ore., build bird houses for the protection of our songsters; the children making friends with a family of white-breasted swallows; Mr. and Mrs. Wren moving in; Mrs. Bluebird taking a summer home in the plum tree, etc.) (On the same reel with "Scenes Along the Lincoln Highway).
Caterpillar, The—Pathe—July 17.
Dinner-Time in Zooland—(Ditmars)—Paramount—July 2.
Dueling With a Sword Fish—Paramount Pictographs—August 28.
Foreign Birds, Some—Pathe—August 28.—(Giving close-up views of the finch, the ringed African sparrow, the Java sparrow, and the white sparrow).
Imperial India, No. 2—Powers-Universal—July 20.—(Contains pictures of tame monkeys of India as well as of wild boars. The Devil Dancers of India are also shown, as well as scenes taken at the Festival of the Gods, and about the city of Delhi).
Kinkajou, The—Pathe—July 3.
Mexican Natural History—(Ditmars)—Powers-Universal.—(Including the horned toad, the gila monster, the Mexican prairie dog, the Mexican chuckwell, and the zebra-tailed lizard).
Nature's Tent Makers—Bray-Paramount—August 30.—(An exhaustive study of caterpillars, coccoons, moths, etc.).
Odd Animals of the Border—(Reel Life No. 17)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 27.—(Including animated photographs of the badger, civet, cat, ant bear, armadillo, iguana, coyote, opossum and gila monster).
Orang's Kindergarten, The—Bray-Paramount—September 7.—(On the same reel with cartoon comedy, "Bobby Bumps and the Stork.")
Our Servants and Our Friends (dogs)—(Reel Life No. 15)—Gaumont-Mutual—August 15.
Porcupine, The—Pathe—July 3.
Salmon from the Egg to the Table—Powers-Universal—August 10.
Sea Gulls Off the Maine Coast, Breeding—(Reel Life No. 12)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 23.
Snails, Their Growth and Habits—(Reel Life No. 8)—Gaumont-Mutual—June 25.
Ten-Minute Vacations—Paramount Pictographs—July 9.—(Including a study of wild birds and scenes photographed around New York).
Tropical Birds—(Reel Life No. 9)—Gaumont-Mutual—July 2.—(Including the emu).
Tropical Birds, Some—Pathe—October 1.—(Parrots).
Wild Animal Pictures—(From the Wm. L. Finley collection)—Metro Travelogues—July 24.—(Including the homes and habits of a certain species of bear. On the same reel with "The Lure of the Picturesque Maine Coast).

FILMS FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF CHILDREN BELOW THE AGE OF EIGHT YEARS.

Alice in Wonderland—Eskay Harris—(6 parts).
Brick Top—Big "U"-Universal—(comedy).
Conductor Kate—Vitagraph—(comedy).
Count, The—Chaplin-Mutual—(2-part comedy).
Just Kids—Powers-Universal—(comedy).
Little Brownie's Bravery—Powers-Universal—(Featuring a number of California's wonderful diving children).
Little Volunteer, The—Essanay-General Film—(3-part juvenile drama).
Pie—Powers-Universal—(Juvenile comedy).
Shine Girl, The—Pathe Gold Rooster Play—(5-part drama).
Spotted Wing, The—Powers-Universal—(fairy story).
Sonny Jim and the Great American Game—Vitagraph-General Film—(comedy).
Sonny Jim's First Love Affair—Vitagraph-General Film—(comedy).
When Little Lindy Sang—Powers-Universal—(juvenile number).
When the Minstrels Came to Town—Victor-Universal—(juvenile comedy).
When It Rains It Pours—Vitagraph-General Film—(comedy).

FILMS SUITABLE FOR THE ENTERTAINMENT OF CHILDREN OF EIGHT YEARS AND UPWARD.

Battle of Elderbush Gulch, The—Biograph-General Film—(spectacular western melodrama).
Bettina Loved a Soldier—Bluebird—(5-part drama).
Black Friday—Red Feather—Universal—(5-part drama).
Blind Justice—Dansk Biograph Co.—(7-part melodrama).
Bond of Blood, The—Vitagraph-General Film—3-part drama).
Brennon o' the Moor—Universal Special—(2-part drama).
Chimney Sweep, The—Essanay-General Film—(2-part romance).
Circuit Rider, The—Red Feather-Universal—(2-part melodrama).
Comedy of Terror, A—Nestor-Universal—(comedy).
Conquest of Canaan—Frohman Amusement Corp.—(5-part drama).
Country Cousins—Vitagraph-General Film—(2-part comedy).
Danger's Call, At—Kalem-General Film—(melodrama).
Daring of Diana, The—Vitagraph-V-L-S-E—(5-part newspaper story).
Dark Silence, The—World Film—(5-part drama).
Diamond Runner, The—Signal-Mutual—(5-part drama).
Dispatch Bearer, The—Nestor-Universal—(drama).
Donohoe—Imp-Universal—(2-part melodrama).
Dulcie's Adventure—Mutual Star Production—(5-part comedy-drama).
End of the Trail, The—Fox Film Corp.—(5-part northern drama).
Eye of the Night, The—Kay-Bee-Triangle—(5-part drama).
Enoch Arden—Biograph-General Film—(2-part drama).

Fantomas—Gaumont-Mutual—(Serial melodrama—2-part episodes)
Fare Lady—Falstaff Mutual—(comedy)
Firm of Girdlestone, The—Greater Vitagraph—(5-part melodrama)
Fore and Aft—Kleine—(comedy).
Fear of Poverty, The—Pathe Gold Rooster Play—(5-part drama)
Friday, the Thirteenth—World Film—(5-part Wall Street story)
Fun on the Farm—Powers-Universal—(story)
Getting the Grafters—Thanhouser-Mutual—(2-part melodrama)
Gilded Cage, The—World Film—(5-part costume romance).
God's Half Acre—Rolfe-Metro—(5-part drama).
Gretchen, the Greenhorn—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part melodrama)
Hams Strategy—Kalem-General Film—(farce comedy)
Heart of a Manikin, The—Victor-Universal—(2-part theatrical)
Her Father's Son—Morosco-Paramount—(5-part drama)
Hesper of the Mountains—Greater Vitagraph—(5-part melodrama).
He Sent Pursuit Her—L-Ko-Universal—(2-part comedy)
Hidden Valley—Thanhouser-Pathe—(5-part melodrama)
His Country's Call—Rex-Universal—(drama).
His First Tooth—Metro—(comedy).
His Wife's Good Name—Greater Vitagraph—(5-part drama)
His Wife's Mother—Metro—(comedy).
Holly House, The—American-Mutual—(3-part melodrama)
Home—Kay Bee Triangle—(5-part society drama)
Honorable Friend, The—Lasky-Paramount—(5-part farcical comedy)
Honor Thy Name—Kay Bee-Triangle—(5-part tragedy)
House of the Golden Windows, The—Lasky-Paramount—(5-part oil field story)
Hulda from Holland—Famous Players-Paramount—(5-part society story)
Humpty Dumpty Circus—Powers-Universal—(Matinkin drama)
If My Country Should Call—Red Feather-Universal—(5-part drama)
Jerry on a Vacation—Cub-Mutual—(comedy).
Jungle Wilds, The—Selig-General Film—(melodrama).
Kid, The—Vitagraph-V-L-S-E—(5-part drama).
Lady from the Sea, The—Big "U"-Universal—(drama).
Land of Lizards, In the—Mutual Masterpicture—(5-part western drama).
Laundry Liz—Keystone-Triangle—(2-part comedy)
Lesson in Labor, A—Lubin-General Film—(2-part melodrama)
Less Than the Dust—Artcraft—(multiple reel, Pickford drama
Light at Dusk, The—Lubin-Greater Vitagraph—(7-part melodrama)
Little Eve Edgerton—Bluebird—(5-part comedy-drama).
Little Lady Eileen—Famous Players-Paramount—(5-part drama, touching on the fairies of Ireland).
Little Liar, The—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part tragedy).
Little Schoolma'am, The—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part rural play)
Manager of the B & A, Mutual Star Production—(5-part drama)
Man Hunters, The—Vim-General Film—(comedy).
Mary Ann—Powers-Universal—(drama).
Marriage of Molly-O, The—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part comedy).
Mender of Souls, A—Imp-Universal—(drama).
Miss Petticoats—Brady-World Film—(5-part melodrama).
Mummy and the Girl, The—Fine Arts-Triangle—(2-part comedy).
Mystery of the Riviera, The—Gaumont-Mutual—(5-part melodrama).
Odd Man, The—Powers-Universal—(drama).
Pacifist, The—Essanay-General Film—(2-part farce comedy).
Parson of Panamint, The—Pallas-Paramount—(5-part western drama)
Partly Cloudy—Kleine—(comedy).
Patriot, The—Ince-Triangle—(5-part drama).
Pawnshop, The—Chaplin-Mutual—(2-part farce comedy)
Peter the Hermit—Essanay-General Film—(2-part comedy-drama).
Phantom Fortunes—Greater Vitagraph—(6-part comedy).
Philip Holden Waster—Mutual Star Production—(5-part comedy-drama).
Pillars of Society—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part tragedy)
Price of Dishonor, The—Lubin-General Film—(2-part melodrama).
Prince of Graustark, The—Essanay-Greater Vitagraph—(5-pt. romance)
Prudence, the Pirate—Pathe Exchange, Inc.—(5-part comedy).
Public Opinion—Lasky-Paramount—(5-part melodrama).
Puppets—Fine Arts-Triangle—(2-part costume play).
Quitter, The—Metro—(5-part comedy).
Rail Rider, The—(5-part drama).
Repentance—Essanay-General Film—(3-part drama).
Return of "Draw" Egan, The—Ince-Triangle—(5-part drama).
Return of Eve, The—Essanay-Greater Vitagraph—(5-part drama).
River of Romance, The—Metro—(5-part comedy).
Romance of Billy Goat Hill, The—Red Feather-Universal—(5-pt. dr.)
Saint, Devil and Woman—Thanhouser-Pathe—(5-part drama).
Sally in Our Alley—World Film—(5-part melodrama).
Scarlet Runner, The—Greater Vitagraph—(serial each 2-part episode a separate story).
Sea Foam—Powers-Universal—(allegory).
Seeds of Redemption—L-Ko-Universal—(2-part melodrama).
Selfish Woman, The—Lasky-Paramount—(5-part western story).
Shadow and Sunshine—Pathe Gold Rooster Play—(5-part drama).
Shell 43—Kay Bee-Triangle—(5-part secret service story).
Silent Battle, The—Bluebird—(5-part drama).
Social Cave Man, The—Universal Special—(melodrama).
Somewhere in France—Kay Bee-Triangle—(5-part war drama).
Spitfire, The—Powers-Universal—(drama).
Spring Idyll, A—Vitagraph-General Film—(2-part comedy).
Sting of Victory, The—Essanay-Greater Vitagraph—(5-part civil war dr).
Stolen Jail, The—Kalem-General Film—(farce comedy).
Stranded—Fine Arts-Triangle—(5-part drama).
Strictly Business—Vim-General Film—(comedy).
Stronger Love, The—Bosworth-Paramount—(5-part melodrama).
Summer Girl, The—World Film—(5-part comedy-drama).
Sunbeam, The—Biograph-General Film—(drama).
Surgeon's Revenge, The—L-Ko-Universal—(2-part comedy)
Taming of Grouchy, The—Selig-General Film—(comedy).
Test, The—Pathe Gold Rooster Play—(5-part drama).
Thorn and the Rose, The—Vitagraph-General Film—(3-part drama).
Thoroughbred, The—Kay Bee-Triangle—(5-part Southern story)
Too Much Pie—Power-Universal—(comedy)
Under Cover—Famous Players-Paramount—(5-part detective story).
Under Two Flags—Fox Film Corp.—(5-part melodrama).
Upheaval, The—Metro—(5-part drama).
Victory of Conscience, The—Lasky-Paramount—(5-part drama).
Waiters' Ball, The—Keystone-Triangle—(2-part comedy)
Way of Patience, The—Essanay-General Film—(3-part tragedy).
Weapons of Love—Powers-Universal—(mountain story).
Weakness of Man, The—World Film—(5-part drama).
Welsh Singer, A—Mutual Star Production—(5-part romance).
Why—Powers-Universal—(drama).
Yoke of Gold, The—Red Feather-Universal—(5-part drama).
Youth's Endearing Charm—Mutual Star Production—(5-pt comedy-drama).

ADDRESSES OF MANUFACTURING AND BOOKING COMPANIES INCLUDED IN THE ABOVE CATALOGUE OF FILMS.

Artcraft Pictures Corporation—729 7th avenue, New York City.
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.—1600 Broadway, New York City.
California Motion Picture Corporation—San Rafael, Cal.
Cummins, Samuel—1476 Broadway, New York City.
Dansk Biograph Company—110 West 40th street, New York City.
Eskay Harris Feature Films Corp.—126 West 46th street, New York City.
Exclusive Feature Corporation—24 East 21st street, New York City.
Fox Film Corporation—126 West 46th street, New York City.
Frohman Amusement Corporation—18 East 41st street, New York City.
General Film Company—71 West 23d street, New York City.
Greater Vitagraph (V-L-S-E)—1600 Broadway, New York City.
International Film Service, Inc.—729 7th avenue, New York City.
Kemble Film Corporation—587 Fulton street, Brooklyn, N. Y.
Kleine, Geo.—829 7th avenue, New York City.
Leggett-Gruen Corporation—220 West 42d street, New York City.
Mason Enterprises, G. Post—220 West 42d street, New York City.
Metro Pictures Corporation—1476 Broadway, New York City.
Mutual Film Corporation—222 South State street, Chicago, Ill.
Paramount Pictures Corporation—485 5th avenue, New York City.
Pathe Exchange, Inc.—25 West 45th street, New York City.
Selznick Enterprises, Inc., Louis J.—729 7th avenue, New York City.
Triangle Film Corporation—1457 Broadway, New York City.
Universal Film Manufacturing Company—1600 Broadway, New York City.
V-L-S-E (now Greater Vitagraph)—1600 Broadway, New York City.
World Film Corporation—126 West 46th street, New York City.

Juliet Musidora

THE interest in Gaumont's "The Vampires," to be released as a Mutual Series, centers largely about a beautiful member of the band, Irma Vep. The part is played by Juliet Musidora, a popular French actress, who is a clever interpreter of leading roles. In America the word "vampire" has come to mean a soulless woman who lures men to destruction. The Gaumont "Vampires," however, are a band of lawbreakers, led by highly intelligent criminals. There are only a few women in the band, the most important being Irma Vep.

Juliet Musidora.

Miss Musidora is first seen as a companion of the King of the Vampires. She then comes under the influence of a resourceful Argentinian who, himself a criminal, seeks to operate in opposition to the vampires' crime trust. How she and her partner are forced into the combine form interesting episodes in the series.

Among the exciting events in which she figures are a flight over the roofs of Paris, the explosion of a passenger ship bound for Algeria, "riding the rods" to get back to Paris, and the fight to prevent the nuptials of the young reporter, who relentlessly pursues the vampires through all the nine episodes. The series, issued in weekly episodes, each complete in three reels, begins November 24.

NEWMAN EQUIPS DETROIT REGENT THEATER.

The Newman Manufacturing Co. of Cincinnati and Chicago furnished and installed all the brass railing and brass work for the new Regent theater, Detroit, Mich. This firm was selected from among a great many concerns who figured on the installation. The Regent theater is the newest and largest picture theater in Detroit, if not in the country, as it seats about 3,600.

Visit to Bridgeport Picture Shows

By Hanford C. Judson

Moving Picture World Man Looks Them Over —Finds Plenty of Prosperity

A WORLD writer, in the breathing spell while the Paper was on the press, took a run down to the American Essen for a peek at the prosperity, and he found plenty of it. Bridgeport has grown tremendously so that the streets are crowded all the afternoon and evening. At the last census Bridgeport had a few thousand more than a hundred thousand, but since the war bride's dot has made the city rich many more thousands have been attracted and the picture showman's problems have taken on a different complexion.

There are some twenty-eight theaters that cater to old residents and new. It was quite impossible for the writer to get in to see every exhibitor in the city, but he had a pleasant visit with five or six of the different typical managers and spent an interesting evening. The first call was on Peter Dawe, a type of the best in the business, progressive, wide-awake and successful. If we had met no other, our trip would have paid us well. We found him at his down town house, the Bijou, on Fairfield avenue and one of the first things we noticed was the home-like atmosphere about the well-filled house—it seats 900. We were interrupted five or six times in our ten minute talk by patrons coming up to speak to Mr. Dawe. It was about little things, some wanted to ask whether someone else had come in, some wanted to have a package checked and they all treated him as a friend.

Mr. Dawe has been in the business about six years and has made a comfortable fortune. He now owns, besides the Bijou, the Olive theater on Olive street, and the Palace theater out on East Main street. Unremitting attention to the business is his secret of success—he has been absent from his houses only four nights in six years. Six years ago he began with a vaudeville house and ran down to his last three hundred dollars. One morning he woke up in a sweat and with one idea in his mind—viz., that pictures only were what his patrons wanted. He woke up his wife and she said he was right so he caught the first train for New York and got the best pictures he could. He has made money ever since with the best films he can get. One statement he made with the authoritative way of one who had tried and found out for himself, is that the big star film doesn't pay in his house. The people will come to see it; but for the money, there isn't the same profit in the transaction. When the money all goes to the star and none for the cast or the story, he thinks it is bad for the trade. He is running selected five reel pictures—"The Unborn" was on while we stood there—and only makes a specialty of first runs on Saturdays when out-of-town people are in the city. He is running the "Yellow Menace" on Mondays and the "Scarlet Runner" on Tuesdays.

We next called on the Goodwin Brothers at the Arco, 1026 Broad street. This house has an unusual and attractive front with "Photoplays" in four foot letters run in a zig-zag, not flat but edgewise down the front. Mr. Goodwin seemed too busy to talk much. His theater was comfortable looking inside. It seats 300 and was about a third filled at four o'clock.

We enjoyed our visit at the Strand, 1414 Main street, with its intelligent and business-like manager, Pete Kontos. This theater is as neat as a pin and very attractive. It has 1,000 seats and asks 10 cents at evening shows with afternoon balcony seats at five cents. The patronage is of the middle class and Mr. Kontos has found that serials are about as popular as any kind of picture he can get. He has many children patrons, especially in the summer. He believes in five reel features and finds that the two and three reelers are no good at the Strand.

Far out on Main street, at No. 2328, A. G. Skidmore runs the Elite theater. His neighborhood is filled with dwellings that must have cost from five to twenty-five thousand dollars to build. His house seats 700 and he is favoring Metro, Paramount, V-L-S-E and World Film pictures. One, in looking into the auditorium feels a distinct liking for the place. It is comfortable and its cleanness is patent at once. Mr. Skidmore uses some very attractive publicity for local distribution and expressed his appreciation of Epps Sargent's department, "Advertising for Exhibitors." The man himself and all those about the theater give a pleasant, friendly, neighborhood atmosphere to the place—one would call it a home amusement place rather than a theater.

At the Empire theater, 840 Main street, seating 950 persons, we found I. C. Lown in charge. He is also the operator and a good one. George Green is the manager. Mr. Lown is full of his business and judging by his manner and talk, a live-wire, up-to-date film man.

We wanted to have a talk with Manager W. C. Lund of the West End theater, 1241 State street. He was too busy to give us the time and we had to catch the train in order to reach our suburban home outside of New York before the milk man. The West End is a beauty, and the patrons—it, too, is in one of the wealthy parts of the city—looked like good friends. Manager Lund's house attendants were we noticed courteous and attentive to all. Manager Lund's brother runs the South End theater at 410 Railroad avenue.

One block further up State street, at 1291, is the Liberty theater, under the management of Harry Cohen, a 900 seat house asking ten cents. It is of a peculiar kite shape and there are wide spaces both for aisles and between the seats that make it very comfortable.

The Pastime theater, at 1924 Main street, is a house that caters of the poorer class of patrons. It has had more successful days than recently. It is run by I. Mussante, seats 450 and charges five cents. The house is not new and shows it. Perhaps it has not kept up with the times. The management does little real advertising, and would get a happy change of luck, without a doubt, if it changed the house so as to make it look new, and put real life into his advertising. He has patrons aplenty all around him.

Miss Carmel Myers, New Griffith Protege

IN the person of Miss Carmel Myers it is believed that D. W. Griffith has discovered another potential star of the silent drama worthy of ranking in time with other Griffith proteges that have achieved distinction, such as Mae Marsh, Bessie Love and the Gish sisters.

Carmel Myers.

The daughter of Rabbi and Mrs. Isadore Myers, of Los Angeles, Miss Myers met Mr. Griffith during the production of "Intolerance." Her father is an expert on Hebraic archeology and was one of the chief authorities consulted by the famous director for the Jewish historical scenes in the big spectacle. The unusual Oriental beauty of the girl attracted Mr. Griffith's attention, and upon testing her aptitude for dramatic expression, he found her possessed of much latent talent. A recent high school graduate in her early teems, Miss Myers has only had a few months' experience in motion picture work, playing minor roles at another studio.

Her parents have now granted her permission to become a member of the Triangle-Fine Arts Company, under Mr. Griffith's supervision, and it is expected that she will make good the successful career that is being predicted for her.

SELECT "MYRA" AS BEST SERIAL.

The management of the New Garden theater at West Pittston, Pa., selected "The Mysteries of Myra," the serial of the International, with which to inaugurate its winter season on Monday, October 23.

Classics and the Screen

By W. Stephen Bush

Lessons Drawn from the Recent Filming of "Romeo and Juliet"—Evils of Unjustified Criticism

SHAKESPEARE in motion pictures I understand failed at the Rialto in spite of the magnificent efforts of Maestro Rothapfel. I had never seen a more splendid interpretation of Macbeth and to this day I am wondering why it found such little public response. I contrast this Broadway coldness toward the immortal bard with the exuberant welcome given to him by Fourteenth street. In that lowly section ten thousand miles removed from the higher criticism Shakespeare is just now the greatest popular favorite, casting all other names into the shade. In the Academy, for many years a hopeless morgue, huge crowds tread upon each other's heels to look at Fox's "Romeo and Juliet," while less than a block away Charley Steiner's big playhouse is playing to continued capacity with the Metro version of the immortal tragedy of love. Now old Fourteenth street may not be classic, but it is redblooded, and there is no section of the city which gives a livelier response to what is honestly human or picturesquely human or humorously human or tragically human. The elemental appeal may fail on sophisticated Seventh avenue where that thoroughfare joins Forty-second street, but it never fails on Fourteenth street. My hope for the success of a Shakespearean cycle among the common people grows and the hint is bestowed freely for the benefit of any farsighted producer.

Unfair Criticism of the Daily Press.

It semes that with all their hard striving the producers of "Romeo and Juliet" have failed to please the critics on the New York dailies. These gentry are indeed hard to please. They loftily condemn the choice of "inferior subjects" by the motion picture men and haughtily point to the unheeded possibilties of the screen. Then when a producer "gambles" heavily with a classic subject, spending his money lavishly, leaving no stone unturned to do the great Shakespeare fullest justice on the screen, consulting with Shakespearean scholars, utilizing to the utmost the advantages of screen over stage, these chronic "knockers" come along and sit in the seats of the scornful, belittling with empty phrases and with far more complacency than wit our honest efforts. They deal in generalities. They fail to point out in detail wherein these productions have failed, substituting after the manner of petty spirits the sneer for that good faith without which all criticism is worse than useless.

We do not claim that these two productions are without a flaw, indeed, in one of them flaws are obvious though more than counterbalanced by good points. What we want to emphasize here is the fact that all the dramatic qualities have been fully preserved, that the audience in both cases is stirred to profound pity. If the motion picture stands these two tests it will stand any test, but we are by no means satisfied with these two claims. We aver and we propose to prove that the screen has given us a far more complete visualisation of "Romeo and Juliet" than could any stage. We do not depend on "props." I have seen many a performance of "Romeo and Juliet" on the speaking stage, but never such a realistic street in Verona. The perspective of the camera gives us a vision such as no board-made stage can ever provide.

Popularizing the Immortal Bard.

As in all his tragedies Shakespeare moves swiftly at the very rise of the curtain. Both versions of the screen have fully caught this swiftness of action and have made it, I think, far more effective with the average spectator. Therein lies one of the great merits of the screen. I care not whether you ever heard of Shakespeare or of "Romeo and Juliet," you cannot in these pictures fail to grasp the full meaning of these early scenes and the foreshadowing of the tragedy. Perhaps this ability of the screen to make things plain and easy to the masses is obnoxious to our learned critics; perhaps their intellectual snobbery rebels at it.

I freely admit that I have the most profound respect and admiration for a medium which interprets Shakespeare to the masses without a word of dialogue and which holds these masses spellbound from the parting of the curtain. It is commonplace to say that in all that pertains to the spectacular side and to scenic perfection the screen is the master of the stage. I go a bit further.

The motion picture has the advantage of the "double exposure." Visions and apparitions on the speaking stage, though a vital element in dramatic representation, are always unsatisfactory. They always tremble on the verge of the ridiculous. Take the illusory dagger in Macbeth and the ghost of Banquo. The screen makes these "sick creatures of the brain" terribly real. Go back for a moment to "Romeo and Juliet." Juliet for a moment recoils from the thought of taking the mysterious draught. For a few agonized minutes there is the struggle between love of Romeo and love of life; between the horror of a forced marriage and the horror of lying in a tomb. Juliet expresses her fears in these words:

> If I live it is not very like
> The horrible conceit of death and night
> Together with the terror of the place
> As in a vault, an ancient receptacle,
> Where for these many hundred years the bones
> Of all my buried ancestors are packed
> Where bloody Tybalt, yet but green in earth,
> Lies festering in his shroud, where as they say
> At some hours in the night spirits resort;
> Alack, alack, is it not like that I,
> . . . . . run mad
> O, look, methinks I see my cousin's ghost
> Seeking out Romeo that did spit his body
> Upon a rapier's point: Stay, Tybalt, stay!

How far more eloquent than even these most eloquent words are the visions shown in the Metro version, showing these "buried ancestors" as "spirits" and showing the shadowy image of Tybalt. With what infinitely greater effect comes the final resolution of Juliet after all these visions:

> "Romeo I come, this do I drink to thee."

The audience which had shared the dread visions with Juliet now feels the full import of her sacrifice, her all-conquering love when in defiance of all the pictured horrors of the vault she drinks the friar's benumbing potion.

Other Advantages of the Screen.

Nor is the double exposure the only marked advantage of the screen over the stage. There would have been no tragedy had Friar Laurence's message to Romeo been delivered by Friar John, who had started to Mantua for that purpose. To show just how this happened might in the drama have the effect of digression, might necessitate a special scene for which it might be hard to find a proper place. We must assume that this was Shakespeare's own view, else he would have introduced such a scene instead of relating the failure of Friar John's mission in narrative form. Here is how Friar John tells the story of his failure to deliver the message:

> Going to find a barefoot brother out,
> One of our order to associate me,
> Here in this city visiting the sick,
> And finding him the searchers of the town
> Suspecting that we were in a house
> Where the infectious pestilence did reign,
> Sealed up the doors and would not let us forth
> So that my speed to Mantua there was stayed.

Now the screen quickly and in some detail visualizes these words and thereby makes the understanding of the tragic circumstance and consequence an easy matter for even the mind of a child. Why argue this further? Do we not all know that pictures give birth to words and that no force in this world whether material or spiritual can ever rise above or be greater than its source? The playwright of all creative minds thinks first in pictures. He must have a series of clear, strong, simple pictures in his mind before he begins to prepare his dialogue. In the screen we have a medium singularly adapted to the expression by picture, hence the inherent dramatic possibilities of the motion picture. Especially in regard to Shakespeare's tragedies is it true that the screen is a unique power for the translation, the visualization and the plain interpretation of all dramatic values. This does not per se mean that it will pay the manufacturer to put Shakespeare on the market. The matter of the taste or lack of taste of the current generation has a lot to do with the subject. Some of the greatest works of the world's literature were during certain periods almost forgotten and neglected.

I do believe that such a venture will be profitable for the producer with a revival of good sound literary taste. Heaven only knows when we may look for such a revival. The intellectual snobbery of the critics of the press will never promote any such revival. The enterprise of producers and the right spirit and skill on the part of the exhibitor may bring about such a revival. There have been impurities in taste in our modern theater and to a far lesser taste on the screen. To me it seems as if we are outgrowing this period of bad taste. The screen has forced a general recognition of its improvement both in art and in ethics. We of the film world realize, by the way, that we far more than the critics of the daily press are responsible for molding the taste of the masses. That's why we welcome a successful excursion into the English classics.

Paramount Doings for Election Week

Lasky's "Unprotected" and Pallas' "A Son of Erin" Head the List—Several Short Subjects.

THE two leading features on the Paramount Program for the week of November 6 will be "Unprotected," a Lasky production, and "A Son of Erin," from the Pallas studio. "Unprotected" has a fineley conceived and well exeecuted plot abounding in human interest, with a role more suitable for the peculiar talents of Blanche Sweet than she has ever had. It is a thrilling drama of Southern prison camps, written especially for her by James Hatton. The story is based on an actual incident, and shows the evil effect of leasing convicts to private firms for labor. Miss Sweet is surrounded by an all-star cast headed by Theodore Roberts and including Ernest Joy, Tom Forman, Walter Long, Mrs. Lewis McCord, Robert Gray and Jane Wolf.

"A Son of Erin" features Dustin Farnum, who co-stars with Winnifred Kingston. The cast surrounding these two players includes Tom Bates, Jack Livingston, Wilfred McDonald, Wallace Pyke, Lee Willard, Mabel Wiles and Hugh B. Koch. This production has a screen story of beauty and charm.

Surrounding the features for the week are Paramount single reel releases, the thirty-ninth edition of the magazine-on-the-screen, Paramount Pictographs, the fortieth weekly "Trip Around the World" conducted by Burton Holmes, and the Paramount-Burton Holmes Travel Pictures, in which Classic Greece is visited, and a Paramount-Bray Cartoon entitled "Farmer Al Falfa's Prune Plantation."

Beginning with this week in the Paramount Pictographs, Dr. George Burbank Shattuck, Professor of Geology in Vassar College, will release his exceptional pictures recently taken in the heart of Alaska, and entitled "People of the Alaskan Wilderness," showing unusual and interesting conditions which exist among the native Indians and Eskimo inhabitants living in their semi-barbarous state on the outskirts of civilization.

Mutual to Release "Charity?"

Seven-Part Subject Directed by Frank Powell Will Be Given Unusual Promotion.

THE Mutual Film Corporation will release about the first of December "Charity?" a seven-part special feature, the work of Linda A. Griffith and directed by Frank Powell. Mr. Powell and his staff have just returned to New York after a week's sojourn in Chicago, where they completed negotiations with John R. Freuler, president of the Mutual. The production in untrimmed form has been subjected to a number of reviews by Mr. Powell and his staff. The picture is now practically ready for release after many months of painstaking effort.

"Charity?" will be put out by the Mutual as a special release and it will be given an unusual promotion calculated to awaken the public to the extraordinary nature of the production. Announcement of a definite release date and special plans for the picture may be expected from President Freuler's Chicago office shortly.

The picture, which was reviewed in the Moving Picture World, on page 380, in the issue of October 21, is a rather startling drama written about a bit of romance and an all too common life problem of poverty and institutional life for the unprotected child.

It is an expose. It is aimed at no particular institution, no particular locality, no creed, no organization. It takes its text simply against charitable abuses which the public prints prove to be frequent and many. It makes its appeal in behalf of common justice and fairness. Linda Griffith appears in the production, with Creighton Hale and Shelden Lewis, occupying roles of dominant importance.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Frank Howard, the well-known Boston film man, was in town last week for a day.

George Siegmann, Triangle-Fine Arts director, who has been visiting his parents in New York for several weeks, has left for the coast.

Diamond Trade Mark Is Selig's

So Declares District Court Judge, But Accounting from N. Y. M. P. Is Denied.

THE diamond trade mark adopted by William N. Selig in 1907, which is now used by the Selig Polyscope Company, is the exclusive property of that company and other moving picture companies have no right to copy it, Judge Learned Hand in the United States District Court decided on October 20.

The Selig Polyscope Company sued the New York Motion Picture Corporation alleging that the latter had infringed on its trade mark and the action was tried before Judge Hand, with the result that the validity of the registered trade mark was sustained, but the court refused the plaintiff corporation's demand for an accounting and the award of damages.

The diamond trade mark registered by the plaintiff corporation did not cover the symbolic letters "Selig" inserted within the diamond when the trade mark was used on the films produced by the company and the defendant contended that it had the right to use a diamond trade mark with other letters inserted within the diamond. The defendant corporation employed the letters "K. B." in its diamond trade mark.

The plaintiff corporation alleged the defendant simulated its trade mark for the purpose of misleading the public and trading on the reputation acquired by the Selig Polyscope Company in the production of films.

Banning & Banning represented the plaintiff and Arthur Butler Graham appeared for the defendant.

International Adds to Product

Will Issue Adventure Series, in Five or Six Reels, One Subject Each Month.

IN addition to its Golden Eagle Features, which are released about the first of each month, the International announces it will issue an Adventure Series, in five and six reels each, about the 15th of every month. The Adventure Series will be the most thrilling, exciting and at the same time entertaining and educational pictures that can be produced. With "Jaffery," and "The Flower of Faith," the International has set a high standard for its Golden Eagle Features, and that standard will be maintained.

The first of these will be "The Jockey of Death," an amazing photoplay in five reels, released November 15. It is a story of the circus—that most interesting and fascinating of all themes. Thrills follow one another in rapid succession. The two principals in "The Jockey of Death" are Mlle. Evelyn and M. Arturo. Before they became motion picture actors they were performers in one of the most famous circuses in the world—Mlle. Evelyn, a daring aerial artist and M. Arturo, a bareback rider.

Fashion Show Popular in Minnesota

Manager Axel Nelson of Red Wing's Auditorium, Has to Call in the Police.

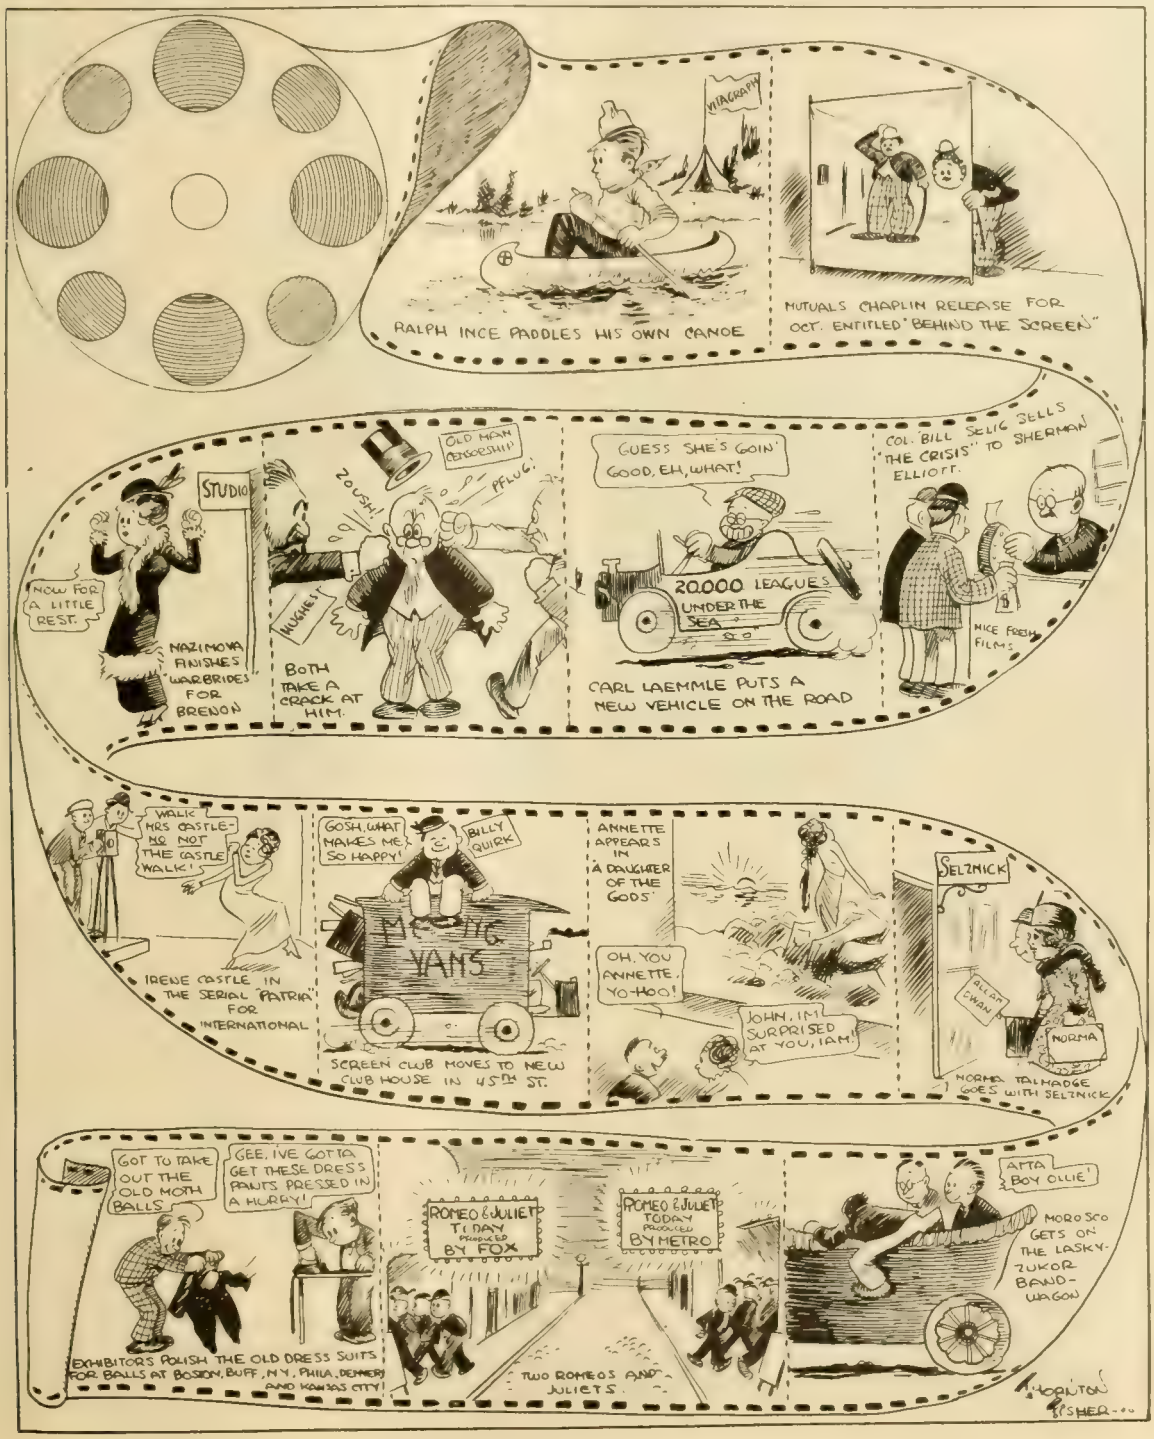
THE fashion show recently held in the Auditorium theater at Red Wing, Minn., where Paramount Pictures are shown exclusively, resulted, according to Manager Axel Nelson, in the largest business he ever did. Red Wing is not the largest city in the world, and it was originally believed the fashion show could be held only one night, but so many patrons were disappointed it was necessary to have it extend through the entire week, and will now be held semi-annually. The police in town were called out to keep the people from breaking into the show, as they were lined up across the street, and half way down the block.

All the leading merchants in the community participated, donating settings, draperies, and each contributing models who were used to show the new styles.

KLEINE BRANCHES TAKE MORE SPACE.

Growing business, particularly since they have begun handling the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, has compelled five of George Kleine's distributing offices to take larger quarters. The new addresses follow: Minneapolis, Rooms 304-310, at 16 North Fourth street; Denver, 729 Eighteenth street.; Indianapolis, Lyric Theatre Building; St. Louis, 3315 Olive street; Detroit, Peter Smith Building, Griswold and State streets, and Washington, Sixth and F streets, N. W. The facilities of these exchanges are now ample to take care of the business involved in handling the sixty-odd features which they already have in service as well as the continued output of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay studios.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD NEWS REEL for OCTOBER



VITAGRAPH
RALPH INCE PADDLES HIS OWN CANOE
MUTUALS CHAPLIN RELEASE FOR OCT. ENTITLED "BEHIND THE SCREEN" STUDIO
NOW FOR A LITTLE REST.
NAZIMOVA FINISHES "WAR BRIDES" FOR BRENON
OLD MAN DISCOURAGED
ZOUSH!
PFLUG!
MUGHEY!
BOTH TAKE A CRACK AT HIM.
GUESS SHE'S GOIN' GOOD, EH, WHAT!
20,000 LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA
CARL LAEMMLE PUTS A NEW VEHICLE ON THE ROAD
COL. BILL SELIG SELLS "THE CRISIS" TO SHERMAN ELLIOTT.
NICE FRESH FILMS
MALIK "MRS CASTLE-NO NOT THE CASTLE WALK!"
IRENE CASTLE IN THE SERIAL "PATRIA" FOR INTERNATIONAL GOSH, WHAT MAKES ME SO HAPPY!
BILLY QUIRK
MOVING VANS
SCREEN CLUB MOVES TO NEW CLUB HOUSE IN 45TH ST.
ANNETTE APPEARS IN "A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS"
OH, YOU ANNETTE, YO-HOO!
JOHN, I'M SURPRISED AT YOU, I AM!
SELZNICK
ALLAN DWAN
NORMA
NORMA TALMADGE GOES WITH SELZNICK
GOT TO TAKE OUT THE OLD MOTH BALLS
GEE, I'VE GOTTA GET THESE DRESS PANTS PRESSED IN A HURRY!
EXHIBITORS POLISH THE OLD DRESS SUITS FOR BALLS AT BOSTON, BUFF., N.Y., PHILA., DENVER AND KANSAS CITY!
ROMEO & JULIET TODAY PRODUCED BY FOX
ROMEO & JULIET TODAY PRODUCED BY METRO
TWO ROMEOS AND JULIETS
ATTA BOY OLLIE!
MOROSCO GETS ON THE LASKY-ZUKOR BAND-WAGON
HORTON FISHER

Famous Players End $100,000 Offer

One Hundred $1,000 Scripts Obtained—Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Wants More Material, However.

THE $100,000 offer for one hundred suitable scripts, at the rate of $1,000 for a thousand-word synopsis, the announcement of which by the Famous Players Film Company last July startled the motion picture trade, authors' and dramatists' circles, and the photoplay public, was terminated by the acceptance of the hundredth script last Monday.

The management of the company expressed itself as very gratified with the results of the record offer, having expected to secure the hundred scripts desired in not less than a year from the time the offer was made. Within exactly three months, however, so great was the response from the authors, dramatists and scenario writers to the advertisements containing the offer published in a selected list of national magazines, the full number of winning scripts have been procured.

In commenting upon the success of the offer, Adolph Zukor, under whose personal auspices this unusual attempt was made to induce the most important writers of the country to devote their ideas to the screen, said: "The cries of a dearth of screen material which have arisen from various photoplay producers for the past two years are now entirely hushed by the amazing response to the Famous Players' $1,000 offer, and the pessimistic belief that screen plots had been utterly exhausted is exploded by the interesting, novel and well-constructed themes which have been received.

"We are justified in believing, from the thousands of scripts submitted and the prominent authors who have manifested an interest in the offer, that the foremost authors of the day are now giving serious thought to the screen, and that this new form of dramatic expression is considered by them to be a sufficiently important medium of communication with the public to receive their first and best efforts."

This statement was accompanied by one from Jesse L. Lasky, who since the formation of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation has had direct supervision of the producing departments of both companies. Mr. Lasky explains that, while the hundred scripts will furnish a plenitude and variety of material for some time to come, the companies are anxious to receive more photoplays which reach the standard of their output.

"Due to the recent combination of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company and Pallas Pictures with the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation," said Mr. Lasky, "we now require more screen material than ever to fill the producing requirements of these four concerns.

"While we do not feel obligated to pay $1,000 for all stories accepted in the future under the Famous Players offer, or $1,500, which is the maximum amount in the Oliver Morosco offer for scenarios, we will in every case remunerate the author in a degree entirely commensurate with the value of his work, and if unusual or extraordinary plots are submitted will pay more than the above mentioned sums as cheerfully as did the Famous Players for the hundred $1,000 scripts sought through its offer.

"Hector Turnbull, head of the scenario department of these companies, is sincere in his desire to co-operate with novelists, short story writers or dramatic authors who have not yet become associated with the motion picture, and will be glad to indicate to them the artistic and financial opportunities for creative work on the screen."

Real Color for "Frisco"

Author Ritchie Is Seeking Real Thing on "Lazy H" Ranch in Wyoming.

ROBERT WELLES RITCHIE, author of Kalem's series, "The Girl from Frisco," arrived last week in Buffalo, Wyoming, where he has gone to take up the task of writing the ten additional episodes demanded by the extension of that series.

Local color in the series of the West featuring Marin Sais and True Boardman now starts with the postmark on the envelopes bringing the scenarios to the Kalem office. Author Ritchie is devising the adventures of Barbara Brent, heroine of the series, on the "Lazy H" ranch amid the same sort of settings that are used in the filming of the pictures. Each week he rides thirty miles on horseback to deposit his stories in the care of Uncle Sam's mails.

The author's long trip was taken with the sole purpose of aiding the realism of the Kalem series. "There is enough inspiration in the characters and the atmsophere here," Mr. Ritchie writes on his arrival at the "Lazy H" ranch, to "provide plots for thirty more episodes. It's a hard task to eliminate and give you the ten best. By the way, I stopped over in Buffalo for a day before coming out here to the ranch to see the eighth episode of the series, 'A Battle in the Dark,' at the little local theater.

"It was an audience of ranchmen, cowboys and beside me sat a stolid Sioux. If you feel the necessity of a reward for the pains you have taken to secure absolute realism then you should come out to this theater. The surprise and enthusiasm at seeing motion picture cowboys who were not bedecked in chaps, or riding jeweled saddles, and a ranch-house that looked like the real thing and not the stage setting for the third act of 'Dead-eye Dick, the Boy Scout' would have warmed your heart. Though he did not say anything, I think the Indian beside me was speechless in his amazement at the spectacle of a western picture in which all the villains were not Indians."

Edwin Carewe in Hospital

Metro-Rolfe Director Insists, However, on Keeping in Touch with Studio Associates.

EDWIN CAREWE, Metro-Rolfe director, does not permit such a slight thing as an operation to interfere with his studio work. Nor is this operation such a trivial matter. A less sturdy man might be confined to his bed indefinitely, but Mr. Carewe, who spent many years of his life on a ranch, simply hates all the fuss that is being made over him at the private hospital of Miss Allston, 26 West Sixty-first street, and insists on having daily conferences with his studio associates. He is constantly in touch with the Rolfe studio, which is less than a block away from the hospital.

Edwin Carewe.

Fifteen years ago, while rounding up a bunch of mavericks on the X-Bar ranch in Oklahoma, Mr. Carewe sustained a painful injury to his side. He paid little attention to it at the time, thinking it was nothing to worry about. His strong constitution allowed him to throw off any evil results then, but recently the exacting duties of the studio aggravated his old trouble. Friends advised him to consult a specialist, who ordered an operation. He refused to leave until he had completed work on the Metro Wonderplay "The Sunbeam," a five-act human-interest drama in which Mabel Taliaferro is the star.

The fact that Mr. Carewe is one-eighth Chickasaw Indian may account partly for his stoical characteristics, but his penchant for hard, earnest work is more likely the true reason. He has directed Miss Taliaferro in all her Metro productions, and, although the dainty little star is at present under the direction of John H. Collins, Mr. Carewe advises daily by messengers with Mr. Collins.

At the recent election of the Screen Club, Mr. Carewe was chosen first vice-president, which automatically designated him chairman of the house committee, one of the most important positions in the club.

PICTURE PLAYERS ARE WARMLY GREETED

Resembling a small-sized floral shop was the appearance of the stage at the Webster Theater in the Bronx a recent Thursday night, in honor of Lucille Lee Stewart and Huntley Gordon, who appeared before the large audience, he with a clever, witty speech on his experiences and work since entering the moving picture profession, and she with a solo, rendered as only one with such a beautiful soprano voice can.

In spite of the inclement weather, the house was packed to the doors, and the ovation tendered the two favorites was extraordinary and spontaneous.

"His Wife's Good Name," a Vitagraph feature, was thrown on the screen, and was particularly well received, the two players mentioned above taking the leading roles.

General Film to Go After Thieves

As a Part of Its Declared Policy It Will Prosecute Case in Syracuse Against Van Orman, Charged With Receiving Stolen Goods.

THE theft of film from the General Film Company Exchange at Syracuse recently, in which a university graduate and baseball player is involved as the alleged receiver of stolen property, bobbed up again when a grand jury handed up an indictment charging John Van Orman with receiving stolen property.

Van Orman, it is said, is a graduate of Syracuse University and has attained considerable distinction as a football player. He furnished bail in the sum of $500 for his appearance at trial, which will take place at the next term of the County Court of Syracuse. There was powerful influence brought to bear looking toward the abandonment of the charge against Van Orman, but the General Film Company has determined to put a stop for all time to thieving at its exchanges and the charge against Van Orman will be prosecuted vigorously.

The film in question was bought from a sixteen-year-old boy, who afterward confessed he had stolen it from General Film Company Exchange. The police charged Van Orman with buying the film and he admitted it, but denied knowing it was stolen.

The arrest followed an investigation covering a period of nearly two weeks. General Film Company's offices were entered by burglars, and after an inventory was taken it developed that a dozen or more films had been stolen.

It is charged, and it is said, will be brought out at Van Orman's trial, that many film exchanges in Northern New York have been systematically robbed recently, the thieves apparently being satisfied that they could easily dispose of all films they stole. Two former employes of General Film Company at Syracuse are still in jail charged with theft.

REPORTS OF STOLEN FILM.

The Monarch Film Service, of 228 Union avenue, Memphis, Tenn., has reported the theft from their rooms of eight reels of film, and states it has reason to believe the pictures are being exhibited in Missouri and Tennessee by a man operating a fly-by-night traveling show. The subjects taken, the Monarch people state, are a two-reel Imp, titled "Uncle John;" a two-reel K-B titled "A Child of War," and four single reels—"Princess of the Valley," Nestor; "Miss Mischief," Thanhouser; "The Waiters' Picnic," Keystone, and "Their Last Haul," L-KO. The owners of the films ask that anyone who sees these subjects exhibited by the traveling showman notify them.

Another film theft is that reported by the Wolverine Feature Film Company, of 71 Griswold street, Detroit, Mich., which states that a copy of "Fighting with the Allies," a four-reel war subject, was taken from their office on October 14. Any information regarding an attempt to dispose of this film will be appreciated by the owners.

JOHN B. O'BRIEN JOINS THANHOUSER.

John B. O'Brien, for many years with D. W. Griffith, and later a Mary Pickford director, has been signed by Edwin Thanhouser and will begin work immediately. Mr. O'Brien's first Thanhouser picture will be "Mary Lawson's Secret," a five reel feature starring Charlotte Walker, to be released through Pathe.

The story is by Lloyd Lonergan, author of "The Million-Dollar Mystery," and is an unusual drama of circumstantial evidence, blackmail and unconquerable love. Mr. O'Brien is perhaps best known for his Mary Pickford productions, "The Foundling," "Hulda from Holland" and "The Eternal Grind."

In engaging Mr. O'Brien to direct Miss Walker, Mr. Thanhouser is carrying out his policy to produce for Pathe five-reel features second to none. As a result of the combined effort of Miss Walker, Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Lonergan, Mr. Thanhouser expects "Mary Lawson's Secret" to be an unusually fine production.

SMALL TOWN EXHIBIT PLEASES PARAMOUNT.

The Kansas City Film Company, distributors of Paramount Pictures in Kansas, Missouri, Nebraska and Iowa, is particularly proud of its contract in Gardiner, Kans., which community has a population of 511 people. The theater is backed by three young business men, one being Howard E. Bigelow, cashier in the Farmers' Bank, and the other two are merchants, J. C. Shean and C. Cramer. They have their own generating plant to run all the modern facilities which have been installed in the house. Three nights each week are devoted to motion pictures, two of which are Paramount.

Sievers Buys "Crisis" far Missouri

State Rights Company of Vicksburg Also Takes Over Big Feature for Three States.

WILLIAM SIEVERS, of the New Grand Central theater, St. Louis, has completed the outright purchase of the William N. Selig ten-reel production, "The Crisis," from Sherman-Elliott, Inc., for the State of Missouri. The deal was closed in Chicago by Harry Sherman. Mr. Sievers is preparing for a private review of the photo drama at St. Louis the latter part of this month, with press correspondents and various organization committees of Missouri. The price paid for "The Crisis" by Mr. Sievers is a big one.

Mr. Sievers will open "The Crisis" at one of the best theaters in St. Louis for an indefinite run.

The State Rights Company of Jackson, Miss., owned by A. B. Cook, A. H. Gross and R. E. Kennington, have purchased outright "The Crisis," for the States of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee.

Mr. Cook announces he will open shortly in Jackson and will show "The Crisis" as a big road production with a full orchestra. He is ready to hear from all first-class exhibitors for booking.

Riley Chamberlin

RILEY CHAMBERLIN, who plays the funny butler in Thanhouser's "Prudence, the Pirate," a Pathe Gold Rooster play, starring Gladys Hulette, began his early career as a cowboy. Born in Grand Rapids, Mich., sixty-one years ago, he went west at an early age and was reared on a ranch. He was a cowboy in Colorado for several years and later traded in horses in the Dakotas.

Riley Chamberlin.

Mr. Chamberlin came east to Columbia, and after finishing his college career, decided to become an actor. He played with John McCollough, with Booth and Barrett and with Charles Coghlan in "The Royal Box." After a long stock career, including engagements in Chicago and other cities of the Middle West he joined Edwin Thanhouser's Milwaukee stock company. He was comedian and character man with Mr. Thanhouser's company for seven years.

After leaving Milwaukee he played with Mabel Barrison in "The Blue Mouse" and "Lulu's Husbands," with Marie Dressler in "Tillie's Nightmare" and in "Excuse Me." He also was in Proctor's New York stock company and in stock in Nashville, Tenn.

Mr. Thanhouser needed a man of Mr. Chamberlin's talents and five years ago engaged Mr. Chamberlin for the Thanhouser Film Corporation. He has been with the company ever since. He was "Conductor 786" in the famous series of Thanhouser comedies, he played Longfellow in "The Children's Hour" and the old gardener in "In a Garden."

PARAMOUNT ADDS TO SEATTLE FORCES.

C. O. Winrick and H. K. Brin, two well known salesmen in the film industry, have been added to the forces of the Progressive Motion Picture Company of Seattle, Wash., distributors of Paramount Pictures in that district. Each has had long experience in the film industry, Mr. Winrick having formerly been connected with Metro and Mutual companies and Mr. Brin was formerly an exhibitor in Chicago and later a co-partner in the Western Film Company, of St. Louis.

QUILL TO MANAGE TELEGRAM'S PICTURE PAGE.

L. A. Quill, a popular advertising solicitor, has been appointed manager of the motion picture section of the Evening Telegram of New York, which will on Sunday, November 5, issue a full-fledged motion picture page. This feature will become a regular department in its Sunday issue.

The page will be devoted to plays and players, will be well illustrated and will cater especially to the "fan" element.

The Cameraman and the Soldier

An Interview with Captain D. G. Hertz, Lately with the British Army in France and Lecturing on "Fighting for Verdun"

THE captain smiled: "Yes, I could give you a story about taking war films," he said. "To begin with, the cameraman is a horrible nuisance to the busy officer. He has a permit from headquarters and we are ordered to look out for him. The scene isn't staged for a film story at all. The major in charge has to detail some one to act as guide and protector. As soon as the camera is set up in some convenient place the major needs it for a gun and orders the camera out, so we have to take it where it will quickly be in the way of someone else. If we don't help the cameraman he'll complain to headquarters and a sharply worded note of inquiry is pretty sure to come from it, while if we do our best, the higher officer in charge is more than apt to say something sharp. But, of course, that's a part of the job."

"Tell us some actual experience," we asked.

Captain D. G. Hertz was resting between lectures at the Grand Theater in Trenton, N. J., when we dropped in for a news interview with the house manager. Captain Hertz is an Englishman in spite of his name; but he is black haired and looks like a Frenchman. He led a company of South Lancashires and was in action with other British regiments helping the French in the defense of Verdun. He has scars from two wounds that certainly would have been mortal to any average man ten years ago. One bullet passed within an inch and a half of his heart and pierced a lung. A big portion of his skull was removed from the top of his head by a burst of shrapnel. One can feel the edges of the silver plate that is now serving him in place of bone; it begins just above his forehead and extends under his growing hair well toward the back of his head.

"I was detailed," continued the captain, "to look after a cameraman one day during the fighting at Verdun. He came to us as we were starting out from the base toward the front and was carrying his apparatus; it looked pretty heavy. Things went well till we began to get up close, then a shell, one of the big ones, dropped alongside of us. It shook us up pretty well and we found that the camera had suffered; a couple of its lenses or something had been broken by the camera's fall. The cameraman had to go back for new supplies.

"It was fairly lively around that front trench that day; but the cameraman was back again before long. I don't know exactly how he managed to find the way, for he couldn't have taken our path. There must have been a communicating trench not far away. I had to find a place for the camera and we put it up on a machine gun embrasure, a little platform just high enough so that the barrel of the gun could point over the sand bags. It is seldom that a camera can get so advantageous a position as that. Most of the battle scenes are taken through a periscope, with the camera fastened to the glass. The major ordered it off the embrasure to give another gun room, and we could not find any good place for it for a while.

Then one of our airmen brought word that the enemy were bringing up artillery and were preparing to bombard our trench—we had been lobbing bombs over all the morning. This gave us about two hours' notice and we cleared out to our dugouts. There was some attachment on the camera so that it could run by itself and we set it up in the middle of the trench so that it looked lengthwise along it and left it. The enemy poured a terrific fire on that part of the trench. The camera wasn't hurt, but the part of the trench fifty feet from it and at which it was pointing was blown wide open. Even in the dugouts we lost 300 men that morning. The camera got it all.

"When our side gets ready to charge, the cameraman has to go to the rear. Another thing you often see in war films is a picture of the big guns firing and then a cut-in showing the effect of the explosion. It is quite impossible for the cameraman even to see the explosions. They may be from five to eight miles off. What he does do is to take the explosions while he is near the front and then, when he goes back take a couple of shots at the big guns in action and cut in the scenes to make the picture effective." H. C. J.

Photoplays Popular in Guatemala

Pictures of Dramatic and Serio-Comic Character Liked Best. American Productions Shown Indicate Excessive Use.

MOTION picture shows, or "cines," as they are termed here, constitute a popular form of entertainment in Guatemala, according to Consul Samuel C. Reat at Guatemala City, who writes in "Commerce Reports." There are five such theaters in Guatemala City, one in Quezaltenango, and one in Retalhuleu. During the week performances are given only in the evening; on Sundays there are two exhibitions. The patronage is especially good on Sunday.

The price of admission ranges from 7 to 30 cents United States gold. In case of features the prices are advanced. Each theater gives one performance of six to eight reels, some three-fourths of the program being a single feature such as "Quo Vadis," "Nero," or a historical incident. The remainder consists generally of a comedy, a section of Pathe's Gazette, or an illustration of some industry. Film titles are almost always in Spanish, though occasionally one is in English and Spanish.

The most popular films are those of dramatic and serio-comic character. The majority of those heretofore shown have been European, the principal marks being Pathe, Gaumont, Itala, Roma, Torino and Nordisk. Since the European war a few American films are coming in, but they seem, as did the European ones, to have had extremely hard service before being brought here. The average price paid for the European films is 10 to 15 cents gold per meter (meter= 3.28 feet). Very few films are brought from the United States, evidently on account of the cost, as the lowest price quoted was 8 cents gold per foot (equivalent to 26 cents a meter). A few films are rented from Europe at $4 gold per reel, time limit six months.

Films pay customs duty of 1 peso per kilo (2.2 pounds), including weight of inside wrappings, but not that of outside packing case, half of which is paid in American gold and half in Guatemala currency. The latter money being worth 2½ cents to the peso, the duty paid amounts to 23 cents per pound.

Again Refuse to Overrule Censors

Ohio Supreme Court Dismisses Request for Mandamus on "Birth," Saying It Is Without Authority.

FOR the second time the Supreme Court of Ohio has refused the application of the Epoch Producing Company, of New York, owner of the famous Griffith film, "The Birth of a Nation," for a review of the decision of the Ohio Board of Censors adverse to the film. The court dismissed the company's request for a writ of mandamus directing the board to approve the picture for exhibition on the ground that there is no provision made by law under which the court has any authority to review orders of the board.

Specifically, the court points out that there is no method provided by law under which it could inspect films whose exhibition is refused, in order to determine whether the action of the board is reasonable, and that therefore no action can be taken. Lawyers point out that this is in effect a holding that there is no appeal from rulings of the censors, and that the board is therefore supreme, until the Legislature shall take action to remedy this condition of affairs.

It is anticipated that the Epoch Producing Company will now resort to the Federal District Court, which refused to take jurisdiction of a former suit on the subject on the ground that the company's remedies in the State courts had not been exhausted. This obstacle has now been removed, by the final decision of the Ohio Supreme Court on the matter, and it is considered probable that the Federal tribunal, in a proper case, would go into the merits of the controversy.

THOMPSON LECTURES AT RIALTO.

Donald C. Thompson, war photographer, is making evening appearances at the Rialto in the week of October 29 to demonstrate the method of using the gyroscopic camera with which some of the sensational war pictures now being shown there were taken. The gyroscopic camera is unique in that it requires no tripod and is actuated by a motor strapped to the camera man's back.

Spoor Outlines Essanay's Activities

Chicago Manufacturer Also Says K-E-S-E Will Release Forty Features in Coming Year.

PLANS for feature releases on the Kleine-Edison Selig-Essanay program now practically have been completed for a year in advance, declares George K. Spoor, president of Essanay. "While these plans are in a way tentative, there will be little alteration except an elasticity in release dates of features scheduled for next year," said Mr. Spoor. "These will depend on the completion of productions. It is not intended to force releases.

"Features must be completed and pronounced good before definite releases are announced. Quality must always be the main point in view and quantity very secondary. This is one of the reasons for planning so far ahead, so that we may be sure of good productions and yet announce the release dates far enough in advance to be of advantage to exhibitors.

"The schedule provides for approximately forty feature releases during the year. This means three releases a month with the exception of December and probably January, April, July and September, during which months four releases are planned.

"This does not include the release of one and two-reel comedies. There probably will be a number of these presented before long. Essanay is planning in the near future to release the one-reel 'Musty Suffer' comedies on this program. These will harmonize well with features of five or more reels and will make a complete evening's program for those who wish it.

"Harry Watson, Jr., is already working on a new line of 'Musty Suffer' comedies and the first will be announced shortly. Comedies by other great comedians also are being planned. It is the aim of this service to make it as complete as possible, and while operating strictly on the open booking system, it yet will be possible to book a complete program if desired. This will save the exhibitor the trouble of rushing from one exchange to another to book a complete night's entertainment.

"In stating that the schedule for the year practically is complete, I do not mean that all plays have been decided upon. A tentative schedule of release has been worked out and features booked in far enough ahead so that exhibitors will have every advantage of advance showings and advance advertising on the photoplay he wishes to run. He will be given ample time for selection.

"Essanay plays practically are completed up to the first of January. This includes five plays in this new service up to the end of the year. They are 'The Return of Eve,' 'The Prince of Graustark,' 'The Chaperon,' 'The Breaker,' and 'The Truant Soul.' The latter play is the only one not yet completed. Henry B. Walthall, who is featured in this play, supported by Mary Charleson, has been at work on this seven-act feature for some time and it will be completed shortly.

"Essanay plays for the first quarter of next year have been mapped out. After that other features will be taken under consideration and booked from time to time, but always far in advance."

"Hazards of Helen" in Third Year

Kalem's Railroad Series Now Oldest Screen Feature, with Popularity Increasing.

THE "Hazards of Helen" celebrate their second birthday this month and swing into their third year of life "still going strong." The company working at the Hollywood studio-station has started work this week on the one hundred and fifth episode of the series featuring Helen Gibson.

"Do you know of any other photoplay series that can approach such a record?" William Wright asked a World representative last week. "Starting the third year and going stronger than ever. A single reel release every week for a hundred and four weeks is the mark reached by the 'Hazards' this month. Not a week's issue has been skipped.

"You might expect that after a long run like that the popularity of a series would begin to wane, but of the hundreds of letters which Kalem receives every week from exhibitors on all sorts of business scarcely a one ever fails to insert a word of praise for the Helen Gibson pictures. Here is a letter right before me on my desk that has been forwarded from the San Francisco office of the General Film. It is from W. F. Sheibley, of the Star Theater, Reedley, Cal., and he says, 'I notice that for this week you have not sent me a "Hazard of Helen." Can understand that you did not have any available owing to my doubling up, but please do not omit Helen Gibson again, for my Saturday show is not complete without her.'

"With dozens of letters like that coming every few days can you wonder that we look upon the 'Hazards' as a perennial feature? Such success is only the result of continuous effort and striving at keeping at a high quality level, for if we had set back upon our laurels at any time after the series established its popularity we would not now be starting the third year with such bright prospects."

Kalem's celebration of the second "Hazards" birthday is taking concrete form in the expenditure of close to $30,000 on elaborate additions to the Salt Lake Railway studio-station and the purchase of much additional railroad equipment. Interiors are being taken now in the actual station so that through the windows the activity of the railroad yards may be seen.

Essanay's November Output Large

There Will Be Two K-E-S-E Features and Several General Film Subjects.

THE November releases from Essanay offer what President George K. Spoor considers an inviting array of features and short reel subjects. To permit of more time than customary in picture productions, the facilities of the already extensive plant are being increased. Additional equipment in the third studio, the largest artificially lighted inclosure in the industry, will permit of sets being constructed and filming being accomplished at any hour, day or night. In order to maintain his promise of quality production Mr. Spoor plans to have his technical department construct sets at night, that directors may not be hampered during their work in the daytime.

The Essanay output for November will contain two strong feature offerings to be issued through Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service. On November 6 "The Prince of Graustark" will be ready. Bryant Washburn and Marguerite Clayton appear in this five-act adaptation of the famous George Barr McCutcheon novel. It is a sequel to "Graustark."

"The Chaperon," with Edna Mayo and Eugene O'Brien, is to be issued on November 20. This is a comedy-drama taken from the play by Marion Fairfax, which was a big hit with Maxine Elliott in the leading role. It is in five acts.

"The Breaker" with Bryant Washburn and Nell Craig, and "The Truant Soul," Henry B. Walthall's seven-act superfeature, will not be ready until December.

A quality production for General Film Service is promised by the following subjects: On November 1, Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 18 will be released. This cartoon carries a half-reel scenic of Crater Lake, Oregon. "The Heart of Virginia Keep," Edwin Baird's story, is the three-reeler for November 4. Marguerite Clayton and Edward Arnold are featured.

Harry Dunkinson, so well known in Essanay comedies and comedy-drama, will appear in a semi-slapstick, "Easy Ed," a two-act piece offered on Nov. 7. He is in the character of a tramp, one of which he played for many years on the stage. "A Safe Proposition" is a one-reel comedy with Ben Turpin and Victor Pool, offered the following day. On Nov. 11, Richard C. Travers and Gertrude Glover appear in a brisk three-act comedy-drama, "What I Said Goes!"

"Not in the News" is the two-reeler to open the next week. Marguerite Clayton and Sydney Ainsworth appear in this, which will be offered on Nov. 14. Canimated Nooz Pictorial with Lake Tahoe, California, scenic, is the one-reel offering for the following day. "His Moral Code," the three-act piece for Nov. 18, shows Lillian Drew, E. H. Calvert, and Edward Arnold in the leads.

Little Mary McAllister, who made a hit in "Borrowed Sunshine," will have another two-act piece for Nov. 21. It is entitled, "Unto the Least of These." "Some Bravery" will be issued the next day. It is a comedy with Ben Turpin. The final releases for the month are in the making and titles will be announced shortly.

Harry Watson, alias "Musty Suffer," has completed exteriors for his first Essanay productions and has begun work in the studios. Louis Mylls is directing him at Essanay.

BEAVER FALLS, PA., TO HAVE NEW THEATER.

Beaver Falls, Pa., will have a new Paramount theater before the end of the winter. S. Goodman, of the Colonial theater in that city, is now building a new house with a seating capacity of nearly one thousand. He hopes to open the new playhouse, which is modern in its every detail, by the first of the year. He is installing one of the most up-to-date and largest organs in this section of the State.

Gaumont Has Program of Singles

List for Week of November 5 Contains Interesting Scenic and Educational Subjects.

THE last episode of "Fantomas" having been released and the first episode of "The Vampires" not due until Nov. 23, the Gaumont Company has only its excellent program of single reels to offer for the week of Nov. 5. The outstanding feature of the week is the first appearance of the new Gaumont contribution to Mutual Pictures, "Mutual Tours Around the World." This is to be released every Tuesday.

The first Gaumont picture of the week is "Reel Life" No. 27, issued Nov. 5. The leading section of the reels shows "The International Beverage—Coffee." The pictures were taken on a Brazilian plantation and show the care required from the planting until the sacked coffee is taken aboard ship at Santos. Fighting mosquitoes in New Jersey is entitled "Our Trench Warfare." It shows what is being done to rid the State of the pest. The third section shows how the neu autoped has developed from a boy's "push-mobile." The fourth pictures a new life-saving suit constructed upon the principle of the thermos bottle.

November 7 brings to the screen the first reel of "Mutual Tours Around the World." It pictures La Rochelle, France, and the fishing fleet, the Nile River at the Assouan Dam, and Kamenez-Podolsk, a picturesque town in Galicia.

"See America First" No. 61, released Nov. 8, is a continuation of a former release, "Along the Columbia River in Oregon." The current number is called "Oregon's Famous River." It is devoted particularly to views of the Columbia River Highway. On the same reel is a Gaumont Kartoon Komic, animated by Harry Palmer. It is another of his entertaining "Babbling Bess" series, cartoons that Mr. Palmer first made famous in the New York World and a syndicate of newspapers.

The fourth single-reel is The Mutual Weekly. This is devoted to news events of the world, and consequently no one is ever able to forecast the contents of this release. It is made up the day it is issued, in order that exhibitors may have the latest pictorial news possible for their screens.

Bushman and Bayne at Broadway

Stars of Metro's "Romeo and Juliet" Address Big House and Are Given Ovation.

A TREMENDOUS ovation at the Broadway Theater was given Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Metro stars, when they appeared there on the second night of the marvelously successful run of the great Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet," in which they have the title parts.

This performance had been announced as a "Bushman and Bayne" night, and crowds of admirers of the two noted stars filled the big theater. For almost two hours the thousands of people in the playhouse sat spellbound while Shakespeare's immortal love story was being told on the screen. Outside hundreds were waiting to gain admittance. Perched on a ladder in Broadway was an enterprising snapshot man who was waiting to get a flashlight of the stars as they entered the theater.

Crowd Seeking Entrance to Broadway Theater to Greet Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the two stars appeared. It took half a dozen attaches of the theater to keep the admiring throngs away from them. Accompanied by Helen Dunbar, who plays the part of Lady Capulet in the production, they were ushered to a box, where the spectators recognized them and applauded with such vigor that Samuel H. Berg, who composed the magnificent musical setting for the Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet," dragged them on to the stage. Instantly there were cries for a speech.

Mr. Bushman and Miss Bayne addressed the big house, and Mr. Bushman introduced Miss Dunbar as "my old side partner." Altogether it was a big night.

Bluebird Will Release a Special

"The Eagle's Wing" Is the Title, and It Will Contain Scenes Laid in Big Munitions Plants.

EARLY in December Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., will release as a special "The Eagle's Wing," with Herbert Rawlinson playing the main role. This will be a feature of unusual interest, offering, as it does, numerous views taken among industrial plants that have never been screened before. The process of manufacturing war munitions is pictured in actual operation, and there will be a preparedness motive running through the picture that combines industrial and military efficiency.

While "The Eagle's Wing" will be a Bluebird special, there will be a regular release on the program for that same date. Probably "A Living Lie" will be the title for the program feature, with Hobart Henley and Gertrude Selby playing the leads.

"The Bugler of Algiers," in which Ella Hall returns to the Bluebird series after three months' absence, will be the feature for November 30. Rupert Julian directed the production and will be featured along with Miss Hall and Kingsley Benedict. Robert H. Davis, editor of Munsey's Magazine, wrote the story in collaboration with Perley Poore Sheehan and published it in the All-Story Magazine under the title of "We Are French."

Franklyn Farnum and Agnes Vernon will be featured in the November 20 Bluebird entitled "A Stranger from Somewhere." In this feature Farnum plays a dual role, leading the progress of the plot from serious drama to rollicking comedy before the "surprise finish" is reached.

Charles Giblyn Now With Selznick

Well-known Producer Will Alternate with Director General Capellani in C. K. Y. Subjects.

CHARLES GIBLYN, a well-known Ince-Triangle director, has transferred his activities to Selznick-Pictures. He took charge last week of the third feature to be produced by the Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation, an adaptation of David Graham Phillips' novel, "The Price She Paid."

Mr. Giblyn was engaged by Mr. Selznick on the strength of the uninterrupted series of successes he has been producing for the past year.

Mr. Giblyn is a director who has grown up with the industry. He was an actor of prominence for many years prior to his first work on the screen as a player. Before he was engaged by the New York Motion Picture Corporation he was for a long time a director for the Western Universal Company.

Mr. Giblyn has specialized in the psychological end of motion picture acting and production, with the result that all his pictures are notabe for their power of mental suggestion and the subtle manner in which he handles his big climaxes.

Mr. Selznick engaged Mr. Giblyn for Miss Young by way of fulfilling his plan to keep that star working in two productions simultaneously. While Director General Albert Capellani is finishing Miss Young's second Selznick-Picture, a version of Thomas Dixon's powerful novel, "The Foolish Virgin," Mr. Giblyn will proceed with the filming of "The Price She Paid," the work of the two producers being systematized so as not to interfere with each other's use of Miss Young's time.

EARLY FAMOUS PLAYERS PICTURES IN DEMAND.

The Famous Players Exchange at Pittsburgh, distributors of Paramount Pictures in that section, recently commenced an advertising campaign on pre-Paramount releases by the Famous Players and within three days over fifty inquiries were received. Much interest is being shown in these productions.

Selznick Leases Great Biograph Studio

Clara Kimball Young, Norma Talmage, Kitty Gordon and Other Stars and Directors Move to New Quarters.

TO accommodate the ever-increasing number of producing companies whose output is done under the trade-name Selznick-Pictures, Lewis J. Selznick closed negotiations last week for the lease of the great Biograph Studio on East 175th street, one of the largest and most perfectly equipped in the country.

Within the next three weeks four Selznick-Pictures companies will be producing under the Biograph roof, while other companies continue their operations at the two studios already in use on the Palisades of the Hudson. By leasing the Biograph Studio Mr. Selznick has made possible the realization of one of his original plans, that of making use of Miss Clara Kimball Young's services in two productions simultaneously.

For the past three weeks Director General Albert Capellani of the Clara Kimball Young Film Corporation has been producing at the Solax studio in Fort Lee, N. J., the successor to "The Common Law," now achieving enormous success throughout the country. This, the second of the new producing company's features, is an adaptation of Thomas Dixon's noted novel, "The Foolish Virgin."

While Miss Young and her company were on a trip to the Catskills last week taking exterior scenes, Mr. Capellani's assistants, headed by Studio Manager Thomas A. Persons, moved all their paraphernalia from Fort Lee to the Biograph plant and this production will be finished in the new quarter. At the same time, Charles Giblyn will take charge of Miss Young's third production, a version of "The Price She Paid," by the late David Graham Phillips.

Allan Dwan, the director engaged by Joseph M. Schenck, president of the Norma Talmadge Film Corporation, began work this week at the Biograph on Miss Talmadge's first production under her management. This will be a screen version of Monckton Hoffe's notable drama, "Panthea."

Miss Kitty Gordon, who has just finished the first of her own company's productions, an adaptation of the novel, "Vera, the Medium," by the late Richard Harding Davis, will also begin producing her second offering at the Biograph studios, as will the producing companies of two additional stars of the first magnitude, whose names will be announced within a few days.

Herbert Brenon will continue to produce at the Ideal Studios on Hudson Heights, where he has a five-year lease.

The Biograph studio is admirably adapted to Mr. Selznick's needs, as it offers ample room for at least six companies working simultaneously in the production of feature photoplays. The main studio building gives floor space of 80 by 120 feet, and is really two studios of that size in one. The ground floor is occupied by the various workshops. The second floor is the artificial light studio, in which are installed walls of one thousand Cooper-Hewitt lights. The third floor holds the commodious dressing rooms with their marvelous shower baths and their up-to-date conveniences, while the fourth floor serves as the daylight studio, being entirely glassed in. It also contains an equipment for artificial light.

The Biograph plant has its own developing and printing facilities, its own electric lighting system and is equipped to the last notch of perfection, even to the extent of having its own restaurant. It is understood all of the laboratory work for Selznick pictures will be done by the Biograph Company, which has a reputation for efficiency and quality second to none in the country.

SIXTY-NINTH REGIMENT RELIEF FUND NIGHTS.

The Committee of the Sixty-ninth Regiment Relief Fund has requested Baroness Dorothy van Raven to take charge of the theatrical and motion picture booth at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Bazaar, to be held at the Sixty-ninth Regiment Armory, 68 Lexington avenue, and she is hereby appealing to all motion picture and stage actors to help her make this booth a success. Here follow the nights set apart for the different companies and stars: October 28, Saturday, Paramount-Mary Pickford night; 29, Frohman Amusement Company; 30, World Film Corporation; 31, Vitagraph; November 1, Universal Film Company; 2, Clara Kimball Young, Kitty Gordon, Norma Talmadge, Herbert Brenon; 3, Frank Powell Productions; 4, Saturday, Thanhouser and Mutual; 5, Pathe, Astra, Arrow; 6, Stage Stars; 7, Metro Film Corporation; 8, William Fox Corporation; 9, International Film Service; 10, McClure and Edison; 11, Saturday, All-Star Night.

The Florence Rose Fashion Show Films

Broadway Theater Scene of Exhibition of Volumes 5, 6, 7 and 8 of Exquisite Collection of Fashions.

TO emphasize more particularly the fact that the Florence Rose Fashions are the most elaborately and practically presented collection of fashions on the screen the Pathe Exchange, Inc., held a private exhibition at the Broadway theater on the morning of October 26, of the fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth volumes of fashions upon which Florence Rose, well known as a fashion writer, has set her approval. And it may be said truthfully that to the unsophisticated there seems no improvement to be made in the selection of designs, fabrics, etc., and surely the experienced eye can find little to criticise.

Without a doubt Miss Rose in her selection of rich and exquisite women's garments caters to the full pocket. The films are, however, no less interesting to the woman of limited means, by way of entertainment; and it may even suggest ways and means of imitation of the wonderful creations which the films exhibit. The women who wear the clothes in the film are never ill-bred enough to show the lack of a penny.

The most gorgeous and most expensive gowns, cloaks, shoes, furs, trinkets and neckwear are purchased by pretty Betty Young and her co-adherents to the fashion plate, without the quiver of an eyelash, or the arch of a dainty eyebrow at prices which perhaps were never mentioned. These women also move and have their being amid the most charming of settings; and considering that Miss Rose herself personally supervises the making of these films we are not surprised that the beautiful young women chosen to exhibit the various garments have been photographed in the most delightfully artistic surroundings.

The initial release of the Florence Rose Fashions happened sometime back in August. The volumes with which we are dealing at present are released as follows: No. 5, "Betty Selects Her Bridesmaid Frock," October 1; No. 6, "Betty at the Wedding," October 15; No. 7, "Betty Entertains an out-of-town Guest," October 29; and No. 8, "A Day in New York with Betty," November 12.

Through these four volumes the slim outline of a story runs—just enough to link the exhibition with reason, making the fashion film displaying styles for women only, a pleasing divertissement for men as well as women. And in the audience on this particular day there were many men who sat admiring and unabashed even through the display of dainty silken lingerie for the bride.

Miss Rose has struck a happy thought, the carrying out of which must be indeed a task through the legion of pretty things which she has to display; this is the giving of an individual name of each costume.

Each reel of film has in it 1,000 feet which has commercial value to the exhibitor, and instructive as well as entertainment value to theater patrons who are interested in the subject of how to dress becomingly. The only drawback which the film has is that the garments are not displayed in color.

M. I. Mac D.

Buy "Yellow Menace" for New York

William Merrill and H. W. Harwell Take Over Empire State Rights for Serial.

CHARLES W. ALLEN, president of the Unity Sales Corporation, closed a deal this week, whereby William Merrill and H. W. Harwell purchased the distributing rights of "The Yellow Menace" serial for the city and state of New York, as well as the franchise rights for various other features to be produced by Unity.

Both Mr. Merrill and Mr. Harwell are well known to the moving picture trade in this section, both having had wide experience as exchange men. Mr. Merrill was formerly manager of the New York Exchange of the Unicorn Film Service, where he developed an extensive acquaintance with the New York exhibitors. He also owned and operated for a long time the Independent Film Exchange of Minneapolis. Mr. Harwell is also a former manager of the New York Exchange of the Unicorn Film Service. He was formerly manager of the C. P. Walker Syndicate, the Western Canada Theaters Company, and has also represented the Mutual Film Company in Ontario and subsequently was manager of the Universal office in Montreal.

The offices formerly occupied by the Unity Film Service in the Godfrey Building, 729 Seventh Avenue, have been taken over by Messrs. Merrill and Harwell and the exchange will be operated under the name of the Unity Film Service. Besides handling "The Yellow Menace" and other Unity features, the new exchange will handle any state rights films that give evidence of sufficient returns.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

EXHIBITOR COMPLAINS OF BETRAYAL STORIES.

Rebels After Getting Three of These on Consecutive Nights —Coast Man Says Public Is Tired of Vampire Stuff.

THE following letters we consider worthy of space in our columns and we commend their perusal to film manufacturers and others who are looking ahead of the present moment for the welfare of the art. The first letter is from an exhibitor taking service from some of the highest class feature exchanges. The second is from a prospective investor in a new moving picture theater.

Fort Myers, Fla., October 12, 1916.

Editor Moving Picture World:

What are we to do, who have made the exhibiting of pictures our work for ten years, and who expect to make it our life work, when we are forced to exhibit for three consecutive days plays in which are shown the wrong-doing of girls * * *

Gentlemen, unless you, who publish our trade paper, can convince directors that such salacious stuff is not amusement, our business will go to the bow-wows. Imagine being compelled to foster this stuff on decent men and women, and then stand at your entrance and see them leave in disgust.

Too much of this stuff is what is killing our business. I am an exhibitor, know my people, and know that it does not pass muster as amusement, and I venture to say thousands will voice my sentiments.

If directors do not know what people like, it seems to me it would be a mighty good policy to confer with a few exhibitors in the business to stay, and who value their reputations more than a few temporary dollars.

This "betrayed" stuff is getting serious. We must do something. Will you please take it up for the benefit of our industry?

San Francisco, Oct. 14, 1916.

Editor Moving Picture World:

A friend having asked me to join him in a real estate venture, involving an outlay on a motion picture house, I have been studying the conditions of the picture business here. I have been reading your excellent trade paper to help post myself on the picture game. That is how I happen to be writing you.

I find a great field here, but such a dearth of the kind of attractions that could be relied on to hold the public interest that I confess the picture business, as now conducted, is a big conundrum to me. The people are not satisfied with the great mass of the attractions now being produced. The so-called "genteel comedies" all seem to be ground out of the same machine, like hamburger steak for a cheap boarding house. Once in a dog's age you see a fairly good thing that looks as if professionals that knew their work had handled it. The public is sick of the vampire stuff and the Rose of Pauper Alley, who triumphs over all temptations and goes to be married at last to her East Side hero with Grandma's old lace window curtain tied to her back hair.

What is the matter with this great big country of ours that we are so woefully deficient in dramatists who have imagination and originality? Instead of being dramatists they are preachers. Every play that is not a slapstick comedy is some kind of a disguised sermon. You go to the picture house to be amused and you get lectured to death.

This perpetual sermonizing is all the more intolerable to intelligent people, because it is disgustingly hypocritical. Every vampire play with most objectionable situations is garnished with short homilies in the shape of sub-titles, warning spectators to beware of the devil and his works. This may fool the censors, but it will not add to the money value of the picture house that exhibits such plays. You cannot fool all the people all the time. Little by little you lose the respect or the confidence of the better class, and the man who caters to the other kind only is a fool. In the long run he will lose more money than he will make.

The impression I have received from my investigation of the picture business is that the people at the head of it underestimate the public intelligence. It would seem that they wish to divide the sheep and the goats and look out only for the latter.

I notice that in the better class of houses here the loges at 20 and 30 cents are well patronized. That would indicate to me that if a house can put on clean, good, strong and really interesting attractions the price, provided it be not too high, is not the primary consideration. But if you give people in loge seats plays that send them away displeased, as I have seen them, that class of patrons will not come at all at any price, or even no price.

Producers will have to put more sincerity, art, and properly applied thought into their work if they wish to retain the public interest. I refer to American producers, of course. H. S. EVANS.

MEETING OF MIAMI VALLEY EXHIBITORS.

Ohio Film Men Get Together in Numbers and Discuss Motion Picture Conditions.

AT a special meeting of The Miami Valley Exhibitors' League, held Monday, October 23, in Dayton, Ohio, which was largely attended by exhibitors of the Miami Valley and by Cincinnati exchangemen, Stephen T. Maloney, secretary of the Personal Liberty League of Dayton, who is an organizer of many years' experience, made a strong appeal for organization. He explained how plans and policies can be more effectively applied by the maintenance of certain regulations with which all must comply.

H. Serkowitch, manager of the trade expansion department of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce and secretary of the Cincinnati Screen Club, advised co-operation and affiliation with the various business associations to the end that the moving picture men's business may have the support of the most substantial element of the community.

A brief talk was made by Charles Weigel, president of the Cincinnati Screen Club, who encouraged close association between the exhibitor and exchangeman and emphasized the importance of close relation and co-operation between them.

George F. Burba, editor of the Dayton Daily News, and secretary to James M. Cox when the latter was Governor, spoke briefly of the passage of the Ohio moving picture censorship law. Mr. Burba made it plain that throughout the discussions pertaining to the bill and its subsequent passage Governor Cox was friendly to the moving picture exhibitors and consulted many of them before the bill was signed.

It was pointed out that when the bill was pending in the Legislature that there were a number of censorship bills pending in the municipal councils that the passage of the state law prevented the enactment of a number of local laws that would have greatly hampered the moving picture interests of the state. Mr. Burba's speech was not partisan; he did not mention partisan politics. But when he had finished it was evident to all of the moving picture men present that ex-Governor Cox was always a friend of the moving picture men and that he did much to conserve their interests.

At the conclusion of Mr. Burba's talk there was a general discussion of existing conditions. Many good suggestions were offered and valuable points were brought out, which were very instructive and could be carried out by co-operation to the benefit of all engaged or indirectly associated with the moving picture show interests.

The meeting was full of life and a real success, pointing to enrollment of the name of every exhibitor in the Miami Valley.

NEW JERSEY CANDIDATE OPPOSES CENSORSHIP.

Otto H. Wittpenn, Democratic Gubernatorial Standard Bearer in New Jersey, Has Conference with Exhibitors.

A COMMITTEE of motion picture men composed of Dr. H. Charles Hespe, the president of the State League of New Jersey, and a number of prominent theater owners from Newark and Jersey City waited upon Otto H. Wittpenn, the Democratic candidate for Governor of the State of New Jersey. The interview took place on Saturday, October 21, at the Hotel Treat in Newark. W. Stephen Bush, of the staff of the Moving Picture World, had been asked to act as spokesman for the film delegation and he was introduced to Mr. Wittpenn by Dr. Hespe. Mr. Bush said the motion picture men asked for no immunities and for no special privileges, but only for an application of the constitutional guarantee to the screen. Like the press, the screen wanted to be free, but was willing to be responsible for any abuse of its liberty.

"We are asking for this freedom of the screen not alone because we are motion picture men, but because as American citizens and lovers of popular government we are bound to protest against any encroachment on the freedom of expression. The two candidates for the Presidency have put themselves on record as opposed to the principle of censorship. The Governor of the State of New York has vetoed a censorship bill. Wherever censorship has been tried in this country in the states of Pennsylvania, Kansas, Ohio and Maryland it has been a ridiculous failure and we hope that you if elected Governor deal summarily with any censorship bill that may come before you."

Mr. Wittpenn said that he was opposed to the principle of censorship and that he drew a clear distinction between the question of regulation and the principle of censorship. A little informal discussion followed, all the men present taking part in it. The exhibitors on the breaking up of the conference expressed themselves as well satisfied with the soundness of Mr. Wittpenn's views.

MAYORALITY CANDIDATES AGAINST CENSORSHIP.

The motion picture exhibitors of Minneapolis and all the exchange managers, together with their employes, met at the Unique theater on October 24 to get an expression on the censorship question from the two candidates for Mayor. Both candidates appeared at the meeting and both of them gave free expressions as to their views on censorship. Both recorded their appreciation of the great mission of the motion picture and both of them expressed themselves as absolutely opposed to the principle of censorship as applied to motion pictures.

SMITH NOW PITTSBURGH PRESIDENT.

A. J. Barthell, president of the Pittsburgh branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, recently tendered his resignation. Fred M. Smith, vice-president of the branch, is now filling the office of president.

Unicorn Reports Successful Business

The Release Date of the Billy West Debut Has Been Shifted to November 6.

REPORTS coming into the home offices of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation from its twenty-eight branches during the past week indicate that the company's policy of issuing a varied program of twenty-one reels a week, consisting of one, two, and three-reel dramas, comedian, and thrilling western features is meeting with success. Ike Schlank, president of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, states that, judging from advices received, there is no reason for the gloomy attitude which some independent producers have felt. On the contrary, he says, business, so far as the Unicorn is concerned, is getting more brisk every day.

The release date of the first of the two-reel Billy West comedies entitled, "His Married Life," has been shifted to Monday, November 6, the elaborate nature of some of the scenes necessitating this postponement. Billy West is expected to prove a sensation on the screen, as his methods are of an original character. He is supported by Ethelyn Gibson and a company of comedy makers who have been culled from among the best comedians of the screen. The Billy West releases will take place every other Monday following November 6. Each subject will differ from the one preceeding. It is rumored the Unicorn Film Service Corporation will shortly release a five-reel feature every two weeks, but this has not yet been confirmed by the officers of the company.

"The Seemingly rapid growth of the Unicorn is the result of applying plain sound methods," says Mr. Schlank. "We do not ask an exhibitor to take any more reels a week than he wants, and just as much attention is given to the man who books three reels a week as to the man who books twenty-one reels."

SLADDIN ON MONTH'S TOUR.

S. C. Sladdin, general representative of Consolidated Film Corporation, presenting "The Crimson Stain Mystery," left October 21 for Chicago as the first stop on a four weeks' tour in the interests of the Consolidated and "The Crimson Stain Mystery."

COSMOFOTOFILM HAS WAR SUBJECT.

The Count de Villafranca has brought some pictures into this country including one showing some life scenes of the Serbian-Bulgarian war. This film can be seen at any time at the offices of the Cosmofotofilm Company, Inc., 110 West Fortieth street.

A New Gloria in the Field

Star of George Kleine Serial Presents Florenz Ziegfeld with A Daughter.

ON Monday, October 23, Billie Burke, star of George Kleine's motion picture novel, "Gloria's Romance," became a proud and happy mother. The tiny edition of Billie Burke was ushered into the world at the Hotel Ansonia in New York City exactly at 3:15 o'clock in the afternoon. At that moment Florenze Ziegfeld was superintending the rehearsals of his now all-star show at a downtown theater. It was sometime before he could be found and the news imparted to him, but upon learning of his daughter's arrival he promptly dropped everything and hurried to the side of Billie.

Billie Burke.

And now for the real news of the event. Several days before Baby Ziegfeld was born, her mother told Ada Patterson, of the New York American staff, that, if the baby were a girl, there was every likelihood in the world that she would be named "Gloria," after the heroine's role in "Gloria's Romance," the last part in which Billie Burke appeared.

Billie Burke and Mr. Ziegfeld were married quietly in Hoboken in April, 1914. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Enzelfeld, and so carefully were the arrangements for the ceremony made that no one outside the parents of the principals knew of it for several days. Miss Burke appeared in "Jerry," the play in which she was starring at the time, on the evening of her marriage, and it was some days later before the news of the wedding leaked out.

"WORLD AND WOMAN" HAS A FAITH-HEALING THEME.

It is not often that faith-healing is the theme of a motion picture feature. In "The World and the Woman," the Pathe Gold Rooster play for November 19, Thanhouser has taken such a theme and with it evolved a remarkable picture. Through faith a girl of the streets finds the soul within her awakening and through it becomes spiritually reborn. Then thrilled with the awakening comes the power to effect cure and to do good in the world. This may sound as though the story might be prosy and propagandist. It isn't. It is very interesting, very well worked out and very well acted. Miss Jeanne Eagle makes her Thanhouser debut in this picture. She is a Kansas City girl and was a member of the Woodward Stock Company in that city when she was twelve years old.

KLEINE OPENS BRANCH AT CLEVELAND.

George Kleine announces the opening of a new exchange at Cleveland for the purpose of handling the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service in that territory. Exhibitors in that section were formerly served by the Kleine branch at Pittsburgh, but the growth of Ohio business has necessitated two exchanges in that state, which is now divided between the office at Cincinnati and the new Cleveland branch. Manager Harry Reavey is in charge of the new exchange which is located in the Sincere Building, at East Fourth street and Prospect avenue.

LOUISE OWEN JOINS UNIVERSAL.

Louise Owen has joined the big U forces at Universal City. Miss Owen has had a notable career on the legitimate stage and in pictures. She was born aboard a ship on Lake Michigan. Her education was completed in the convent of the Sacred Heart in New York. She has appeared under the direction of the Shuberts in the Princess Theatre and the Little Theatre in New York. She was for three years with Biograph, later joining the Mutual.

Bennett and Turner for Mutual Nov. 5

"And the Law Says" and "East Is East" Head a Varied Program.

DRAMA of more than ordinary interest, since Richard Bennett and Florence Turner will be found among the stars that work, and excellent comedy output, will characterize the Mutual Film Corporation's releases for the week of Nov. 6. Richard Bennett will be seen in a powerful drama, "And the Law Says," while Miss Turner will appear in "East Is East," a drama of striking presentation.

To those who have seen Richard Bennett in the delightful, subtly humorous role of "Philip Holden—Waster," a Mutual Star Production of recent release, his characterization of Judge Kirby in the stern preachment against capital punishment "And the Law Says" will come as a distinct surprise.

Mr. Bennett is supported by an unusual cast, consisting of Adrienne Morrison (Mrs. Bennett); William Carroll, George Periolat, Ashton Dearholt and Charles Newton.

Coming from an author of the stern unflinching fibre, the training in dramatic and color values which has come from a life lived all over the globe, and yet the delicacy of feeling of Captain Philip Hubbard, the English soldier-gentleman, the story of "East Is East," the fifth of the Mutual Star Productions featuring Florence Turner, could not fail of dramatic "punch" of colorful settings and of heart-touching moments.

"East Is East" is one of the strongest vehicles ever chosen to convey the charms of the beautiful Florence Turner to her screen audiences, and on this drama of racial differences, Larry Trimble, the producer, has left the stamp of typical Trimble handling. Miss Turner is exceptionally beautiful in this latest picture. Her role is of the sympathetic, wistful type which is best suited to her charms and abilities. She will delight her audiences as never before.

On Tuesday, November 7, a one-reel scenic of Gaumont production containing picturizations of little excursions into all parts of the world will make its first appearance under the title of "Mutual Tours Around the World." The one-reel release will continue making its appearance weekly on the same day of the week after that. With the issue of this scenic the weekly output of Gaumont studios through Mutual exchanges will consist of four single-reel scenic, cartoon comic and current topic releases.

The remaining Gaumont material will appear on regular release dates the week of November 6 the Mutual Weekly, the current news one-reeler, and "See America First" and Harry Palmer's "Kartoon Komic," the split-reel release, appearing on Wednesday, November 8, and "Reel Life," the Mutual's magazine in film, coming on Sunday, November 12.

On Thursday, November 9, two dramas of short length and of exceptional dramatic and pictorial value will go out. One, "The Fight on the Dam," will feature J. Warren Kerrigan. It is a tense drama of short length. The other is a two-part drama of mystery, "The False Clue," which is most satisfactory from all viewpoints. On Saturday, November 11, "The Unpardonable Sin," with Edna Paine and Norbert Myles in the leading roles, will go out.

Comedy lovers will find a barrel of laughs in "Picture Pirates," a two-reel Vogue comedy release of Sunday, November 12, a picture of the usual Vogue class. Ben Turpin and Rube Miller are screamingly funny in their make ups.

Another unusual comedy will be released on Friday, "His Blushing Bride," a Cub one-reeler.

William Farnum Returns to Screen

Popular Fox Player, Refreshed by Long Vacation, Will Be Directed by Frank Lloyd.

AFTER a prolonged vacation at the Catalina Islands, off the California coast, William Farnum, the screen favorite, has begun work in a photoplay carrying a dramatic indictment of child labor. The picture marks the return of Mr. Farnum to a "straight" part, and the distinguished Fox star will prove still again the versatility and finish of his acting. He is cast for the part of a United States Senator. The photoplay has an "unhappy ending" which serves to make sharper the tragedy of it all.

Incidentally, this will be the first time in almost a year that the talented actor has not worked under the direction of Oscar C. Apfel. Mr. Apfel has screened nine Farnum productions for William Fox. He is now filming a photo-drama with Gladys Brockwell in the leading role. Frank Lloyd will direct the forthcoming Farnum picture.

The chief members of Mr. Farnum's supporting cast will be Vivian Rich, Frank Clark, Brooklyn Keller, Charles Clary, Ray Hanford and Gordon Griffith. With the exception of Mr. Keller, who appeared in "Fires of Conscience," these photoplayers are new to Fox productions.

William Fox to Produce Comedies

Henry R. Lehrmann Will Supervise the Productions, Which Will Be Issued in Regular Program.

AFTER making a thorough canvass of the field and preparing a comprehensive plan of work, William Fox has decided to produce comedies. These will be released on the regular program.

Henry R. Lehrmann, former president and supervising director of the L-KO Comedies, has already gone to Los Angeles to negotiate with actors, directors and a large corps of technical workers for this purpose. He left for the West Coast immediately after a protracted conference with Mr. Fox and General Manager W. R. Sheehan.

Mr. Fox is determined that the comedies made by Mr. Lehrmann and other members of a highly competent and well-trained directorial staff shall take rank at once as the very best producible—in story, in acting, in photography.

"I can assure exhibitors and motion picturegoers everywhere," Mr. Fox said, "that the comedies will set a new mark in the field. I will not release a single comedy which does not show clearly that it is an uproarious success."

Mr. Lehrmann himself is a noted figure in the photoplay. He began his screen career as an extra with one of the pioneer companies and soon rose to a directorship with Kinemacolor. With two companions, he organized the L-Ko Company. He has written dozens of scenarios. A few of his productions are "Love and Surgery," "September Morn," and "After a Million."

New York Has a Monkey Dinner

Goes Newport One Better—Pete Montebello, Actor, Drinks Wine Without Telling How Good He Is.

CAN you imagine a luncheon during the entire course of which the guest of honor uttered not a single word? And this despite the fact that the guest of honor is featured in a seven-reel motion picture production, and the further fact that he was drinking wine and was surrounded by about thirty persons in animated conversation.

Unbelievable as it may seem, such was the case when Pete Montebello was tendered a luncheon at the Claridge Hotel on Monday afternoon, October 23, by Count G. deCippico and the Countess deCippico, better known as Rita Jolivet, the actress. But perhaps Pete might have had something to say if he were able to speak. Pete is the monkey who is featured in "The Masque of Life," which is now playing at the Park theater, New York, and the luncheon was given preparatory to a private showing of the film. About thirty persons were the guests of the Count and Countess, among them being representatives of the various motion picture trade papers. After the luncheon the party motored to the Park theater.

Poster Contest Under Way

Art Students of New York, Boston and Philadelphia Compete for Prize.

WITH a view to encouraging the use of artistic posters for moving picture theater advertising purposes a contest under the auspices of the National Committee on Films for Young People, has been opened, in which the art students of New York, Boston and Philadelphia are competing for the $25 and $10 prizes being offered.

The judges chosen for the occasion are Professor A. W. Dow of the Department of Art, Columbia University; Mrs. John W. Alexander of the Arden Art Gallery; Paul Coenoyer of the National Academy of Art; Mrs. Howard S. Ganz, chairman of the National Committee on Films for Young People, and Miss Louise Connolly of the Art and Texture Museum, Newark, N. J.

The contest closes November 20, when the posters designed and made by the various art students will be carefully examined by the judges and the prize-winning poster will be reproduced for use among the exhibitors throughout the country.

"INTOLERANCE" GOING STRONG ON COAST.

Advices from San Francisco and Los Angeles, convey the interesting information that D. W. Griffith's new spectacle "Intolerance" is "standing them up" in these cities. Receipts for the week ending October 21, at the Columbia theater, in the Golden Gate City, showed an increase over the best week "The Birth of a Nation" had at this house of $3,000. A Saturday matinee at Clune's Auditorium, Los Angeles, broke the former record attendance of the house by $200. The night's receipts topped by $150, the best gross ever earned at this theater by a motion picture.

Cecil De Mille Heads Morosco-Pallas

Lasky Chief Will Continue Supervision of Production—Garbutt to Be General Manager at Coast.

THE most interesting official move following the recent combination of the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company and Pallas Pictures is the election of Cecil B. De Mille, director general of the Lasky studios, to the presidency of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company and the vice presidency of Pallas Pictures.

Mr. De Mille was one of the four organizers of the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company and has had charge of all producing at the Hollywood studios since the inception of the company. The work he has done on the screen during this time has established him throughout the world as a master of photoplay production.

Mr. De Mille's exceptional ability in stagecraft and dramatic construction may be considered in the light of an inheritance, for he is the son of the late Henry C. De Mille, the famous dramatist, much of whose work was done in association with David Belasco, and of Beatrice De Mille, who is widely known in the theatrical world as one of the foremost authors' representatives. Mr. De Mille is also the brother of William C. De Mille, the noted playwright, who is at present associated with the scenario department of the Lasky Company.

Cecil B. De Mille.

Prior to his connection with filmdom Mr. De Mille was highly successful as a dramatist, actor and stage director. In collaboration with his brother William he wrote "The Genius" and "The Royal Mounted." As an actor he made his first appearance in "Hearts and Trumps" in February, 1900, and continued acting for about a decade, subsequently devoting his time to play management and producing. Since his entrance into the motion picture field he has produced the most ambitious Lasky offerings, including notably his superb photodramatic renditions of the great Belasco dramas, such as "The Rose of the Rancho," "The Girl of the Golden West," "The Warrens of Virginia," as well as "Carmen," in which the celebrated prima donna made her photoplay debut and through which she became a conspicuous screen favorite over night. These productions, and the general influence upon the screen of his association with the Lasky Company have undoubtedly advanced the entire art of the motion picture. Mr. De Mille has just completed an elaborate production, "Joan of Arc," starring Geraldine Farrar, which will shortly be presented to the public under his own supervision.

In addition to taking direct personal charge of the more pretentious and important Lasky productions, Mr. De Mille has attained a rare success in supervising the work of other directors and in building a studio and stock company which are without doubt the ultimate examples of combined screen and art efficiency. This supervision of all artistic activities at the Lasky studio Mr. De Mille will retain together with his new official duties of the Pallas and Morosco Companies.

It is now also revealed that as a result of the recent meeting held in New York City, at which the combination of the four companies that produced the Paramount Program was accomplished, Frank A. Garbutt, of the Morosco and Pallas Companies, has assumed the general executive management of all the West Coast studios of the Famous Players-Lasky-Morosco-Pallas Companies.

NEW ONE-REEL POSTERS FOR PARAMOUNT.

Realizing that the exhibitors' feature picture on his program naturally attracts the larger part of his audience, but that a great percentage of attractiveness to well rounded performance is due solely to the single reel little features that surround the program picture, Paramount Pictures Corporation is issuing with its single reel "little features" a new style poster, a classic in the lithographing line.

Miss White to Have New Serial

Long-Time Pathe Favorite Will Now Be Featured in "Pearl of the Army."

ASK a motion picture fan to name one Pathe player, and nine hundred and ninety times out of a thousand the answer will be quick and direct, "Pearl White." More than any other player is the little star identified with Pathe productions. Not only does she lead in length of service, but she has starred in Pathe's greatest successes, "The Perils of Pauline," "The Exploits of Elaine" and the other "Elaine" serials, and "The Iron Claw." In France she is reported to be the idol of the French soldiers who, while on furlough, throng the theaters where "Les Mysteres de New York" (The Exploits of Elaine) is playing. In Porto Rico she crowds the theaters. In Bombay she figures frequently in the newspapers. From Scotland comes a letter from a newspaper editor asking for the story of her life, and he runs it on the front page of his paper. Similar instances of her popularity could be quoted. And now Pathe announces that Miss White is to star in a new serial, the most elaborate yet, "Pearl of the Army." The choice of the title shows a recognition of the great drawing power of the star.

Miss White has been with Pathe for over four years. Prior to her getting into pictures she was, though very young, leading woman of a stock company playing road engagements. The hard work told on her. She applied for a position in the Pathe studios in Jersey City. The casting director liked her looks and employed her.

When the "Perils of Pauline" was first considered, the question as to who was best fitted to be the star received the most serious consideration. Much money was to be spent in production and advertising and the venture was a new one for Pathe leading into uncharted waters. It was essential that the girl chosen be not only of exceptionally good appearance and undoubted talent, but also nervy enough to take the most dangerous chances. "The Perils of Pauline" made film history. It was followed by even greater successes. That Miss White has been a most potent factor in the success of all of these serials cannot be denied.

Miss White has her home in Bayside, Long Island. She is athletic, fond of golf and motoring, and is absolutely unspoiled by her success. Ask any one who knows her what she is like and you will be told "she is a real 'good fellow.'"

With her as the star, "Pearl of the Army" should be an even greater success than those other Pathe serials with which she has been identified. And besides, Louis J. Gasnier, president of the Astra, which is producing the new serial, was director on "The Perils of Pauline," and Edward Jose, her director, was also her director in "The Iron Claw."

UNITY BUYS EXCHANGE IN KANSAS CITY.

As a further evidence of their determination to establish a nation-wide list of branch exchanges, the Unity Sales Corporation announces this week the purchase of the Associated Film Service, which has been operating in Kansas City, Mo., for some time. Andrew J. Cobe, general manager of Unity, concluded the arrangements during the trip which he is now making through the western cities.

G. B. Howe, who has been the general manager of the Associated, will be manager of the new exchange for Unity. Mr. Howe has already taken steps to enlarge the sales and office force and will immediately install additional facilities for more extensive and more efficient distribution of pictures.

In a letter Mr. Cobe said he was delighted with the progress for bigger business which the acquisition of this exchange will give his company. It is a thoroughly organized and going exchange.

DOINGS AT WORLD FILM STUDIOS.

In addition to the list of picture plays already published, to be released between the present time and the end of May, 1917, the World Film Corporation's production directors are actively at work upon three dramas simultaneously. These are "A Law Unto Herself," with Travers Vale in charge; "The Parasites," directed by Harley Knoles, and "The Bondage of Fear," which is being "put on" by Harry Davenport.

"Frou Frou," the last of the World-Brady plays previously bulletined, is completed, under the direction of Emile Chautard. Alice Brady is the star, and the support embraces Gerda Holmes, George McQuarrie, Edward Langford and Alec B. Francis. This drama was a very great success when produced on the speaking stage by the late Augustin Daly.

It will be released May 29 and the entire schedule will be maintained as officially announced three weeks ago.

Ralph Ince Leaves Vitagraph

Successful Director to Become Independent Producer of Subjects Featuring Lucille Lee Stewart and Huntly Gordon.

RALPH W. INCE, who for ten years has been identified with Vitagraph, and who, of later years, has been an integral part of the producing force of the Vitagraph Company of America, has severed connections with that organization and announcement is made that in the very near future Mr. Ince will begin independent production of pictures featuring Lucille Lee Stewart and Huntley Gordon. Mr. Ince will use the Bay Shore studios, which he has secured from the Vitagraph Company, and his pictures will be released through Lewis J. Selznick. It is Mr. Ince's intention immediately to form a large company, through which he will be enabled to put into operation plans that he has long had under consideration.

Ralph W. Ince.

The retirement of Mr. Ince from his post as producing director has in no way affected the extremely pleasant relations existing between him and the Vitagraph Company, he declares. He explains that his retirement from the Vitagraph forces was actuated only by a desire to carry out ideas of his own that are not in line with Vitagraph's policy. Mr. Ince becomes a "Vitagraph graduate" with mutual expressions of good will.

A great part of Mr. Ince's time as director has been spent in the supervision of production and the development of actors and actresses. He was instrumental in bringing out to their fullest possibilities the capabilities of many present-day screen favorities.

Mr. Ince was born in Boston in 1887. His parents were stage folk and the son followed in their footsteps. He has appeared in many screen productions and has done some notable character studies before the camera, chief among which was his study of Abraham Lincoln. He served a stage apprenticeship in the company of the late Richard Mansfield, and also appeared in the original productions of "Ben Hur" and "The College Widow." Mr. Ince produced the first three and five reel pictures released by Vitagraph.

In featuring Miss Stewart and Mr. Gordon, Mr. Ince believes that he has a combination of sterling worth.

FILM SERVICE FOR BORDER CAMPS.

One of the comforts of home being supplied to the soldiers in the military camps on the Mexican border is an instructive moving picture show. This matter is being attended to by the Army Y. M. C. A., for whose convenience the parent association has constructed forty-eight buildings. Some thirty-six of these have been equipped with motion picture projection machines, and at each entertainment given for the benefit of the soldiers, one or more industrial films are shown. Twenty-five points in the Big Bend District not provided with building or equipment are visited periodically by a motor truck which has been equipped with a generator and motion picture projector for field service. It is stated that at these entertainments audiences have numbered as high as four thousand men.

A special effort is being made by manufacturers and others toward supplying an adequate number of films for border work. In some instances new films are being made especially for this purpose; and we understand that between fifty and one hundred reels have been offered for use on the border. Following their service in the military camps these films will be placed on the regular Y. M. C. A. service.

JAMES KIRKWOOD WRITES ON SCENARIOS.

Two hundred newspapers in all parts of the country are publishing a series of six articles by James Kirkwood, the Mutual director, on the art of photoplay writing. Mr. Kirkwood's experience as former director of Mary Pickford and present producer of Mary Miles Minter, places him in a distinctive position in the realm of photoplay building.

Three Fox Photoplays Set for November

Gladys Brockwell, George Walsh and Valeska Suratt Will Be the Stars.

GLADYS BROCKWELL in a tensely dramatic photoplay of Alaska, in which she plays the role of a drink-besotted mother and her innocent young daughter; George Walsh, in an entertaining picture of the West, with a story that is "different;" and Valeska Suratt as a heartless, scheming woman who leads two men to ruin, these are William Fox's releases for the first three weeks in November.

Miss Brockwell's first starring vehicle is released November 6, under the title of "Sins of Her Parent." Frank Lloyd directed the production. The cast includes William Clifford, Carl Von Schiller, George Webb, Herschel Mayall and Jim Farley. One of the sets in the photoplay represents a big art gallery, and is hung with painting worth thousands of dollars. Another depicts a great Nome lodge.

George Walsh's new photoplay, "The Mediator," has been picturized by Director Otis Turner from Roy Norton's book. The story concerns Lish Henley, persistent pacifist—so persistent, in fact, that he spends his whole life battling others in the name of peace.

By the might of his fists, the powerful Lish quells all arguments of those who would interfere with peace. Juanita Hansan, in the role of a charming waitress, makes her debut under the Fox banner in this production. It is she who saves Walsh from eternal peace, when a gang comes to mob him, by serving a new dish at his table: "Pistol on Lettuce."

Most of the exterior work for this production was done in the Sierras and the "locations" are unusually fine. The subject will be shown on November 13.

On November 20, Mr. Fox will release "Jealousy," a powerful photodrama with the sirenic Valeska Suratt in the chief role. The supporting cast includes Walter Law, that splendid actor who has created such a wide vogue for himself in the few Fox pictures in which he has appeared already; Charline Mayfield, Abraham Lincoln's grandniece, and Curtis Benton and Joseph Granby.

Miss Suratt's new screen play has for its basis a discontented woman who tries to find happiness by forcing men to love her; but she is crushed and helpless in the end.

"Patria" to be Released December 4

Coming International Preparedness Serial Is From Pen of Louis Joseph Vance and Features Irene Castle.

THE preparedness serial of the International, "Patria," Mrs. Vernon Castle in the title role, will be released throughout the United States on Monday, December 4. "Patria" has been many months in the making. It was conceived for the dual purpose of furnishing the highest quality of photoplay entertainment possible and of instilling into the American public the deep obligation of preparing the country against invasion. Nothing has been left undone to accomplish these purposes. Louis Joseph Vance is the author.

The International has surrounded Mrs. Castle with a strong cast. Foremost are Milton Sills, Warner Oland and Dorothy Green. Mr. Sills is best known in motion pictures for his work in "Deep Purple," "Under Southern Skies," "A Woman Who Lied," "The Rack" and "The Honor System." As a legitimate actor he won fame as leading man in "Just Boys," "The Law of the Land" and "Panthea."

Mr. Oland is known as a finished actor. Before he came to the screen he played "heavies" with Viola Allen, Sothern and Marlowe, Nazimova and in "A Fool There Was" and in "The Yellow Ticket."

Miss Green is famous for her "vampire" characterizations. She has had many successes, the most notable recent ones having been "The Devil at His Elbow," "Souls Aflame," "Parisian Romance," "The Spirit of the Poppy" and "Women and Wine."

"AINT" LEADING MAN SEEKS A JOB.

When Vincent Serrano was at Block Island making water scenes for "A Modern Monte Cristo," a Thanhouser feature, a young man approached him.

"Need an aint?" the man asked.

"A what?"

"An aint. An aint actor. I dive an' swim an' do all the stunts. You know. I'm an actor when they're takin' it, but on the screen I ain't. On the screen the people think it's the leadin' man that does it, when it ain't. It's me."

The young man was informed that "aints" were not needed.

Kalems for November

First Half of Month Brings Variety of Subjects for Releases Through General Film.

KALEM'S list of releases for early November offers a variety of strong subjects on the General Film program. Interest is now divided between the "Grant, Police Reporter" series and the two-reel series "The Girl From Frisco."

In the former series George Larkin makes his appearance in "The Man From Yukon" on Friday, November 10. The one-reel story, replete with action, tells of the adventures of Porcupine Peterson, of Alaska, with a gang of New York wire-tappers. The other early November release of the George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby series is "The Pencil Clue" on November 3, in which the reporter hero unravels a murder mystery. On Friday, November 17, Kalem will release another episode in the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, "The Rogue's Pawn." "The Witch of the Dark House" is the episode of "The Girl From Frisco," scheduled for release on Wednesday, November 8. An unusual mystery story is unfolded in this episode. Ronald Bradbury, Edward Clisbee, Hart Hoxie and Frank Jonasson are others in the cast of the two-reeler which was staged under the direction of James W. Horne.

Ham, Bud and Ethel Teare are presented as the stars in "A Desperate Duel," the "Ham Comedy" release on Tuesday, November 7. For Tuesday, November 14, "The New Salesmen" is the "Ham Comedy" release. Ethel Teare is seen as a shifty shoplifter.

"The Lone Point Mystery" is the Helen Gibson thriller issued in the "Hazards of Helen" series on Saturday, November 11. This is the "second anniversary month" issues of the railroad series and thrills follow in rapid succession throughout the thousand feet. The climax finds Helen Gibson leaping from the pilot of a speeding engine to a racing automobile.

"Crimson Stain" Doing Big Business

President Goebel and Treasurer Erb of Consolidated Believe in Serial They Have a Record Breaker.

WHEN O. E. Goebel, president, and Ludwig G. B. Erb, treasurer, of the Consolidated Film Corporation planned "The Crimson Stain Mystery," the great sixteen episode superserial photoplay, it was their greatest ambition to set a new record for serials. They knew when they started that they would encounter many serious obstacles, one of which was that Consolidated Film Corporation was the youngest infant in the industry and that "The Crimson Stain Mystery" was its first production. Naturally, being the youngest in the field, Consolidated Film Corporation had no traditions or past records with which to dazzle the exhibitors and prospective customers. Exhibitors everywhere demanded to be shown.

"The Crimson Stain Mystery" is released through the Metro Exchanges. Last August Consolidated tended its first banquet to the Metro Exchange managers and officials at the Hotel Traymore, Atlantic City, N. J. President O. E. Goebel made a speech in which he set forth the fact that he and Treasurer Ludwig G. B. Erb were anxious to make a record with "The Crimson Stain Mystery." His guests left the banquet table vowing they would make "The Crimson Stain Mystery" the greatest moneymaker of its kind.

How well they have succeeded is apparent daily in the volume of business that pours into the main offices of Consolidated Film Corporation at 1482 Broadway. Marcus Loew and Alexander Pantages, two great showmen, booked "The Crimson Stain Mystery" for their respective circuits of theaters.

To prove to the exhibitors what a tremendous money-getter "The Crimson Stain Mystery" is, special showings were made in every large city in the United States, and immediately after the showing there was a rush on the part of the exhibitors to get on the band wagon. Nor have they had cause to regret it.

Voluntary telegrams of congratulations are coming in daily.

JOE SAMPLINER RECEIVING CONGRATULATIONS.

Joe Sampliner, the advertising man of 729 Seventh avenue, is receiving the congratulations of his friends on his approaching marriage with Miss Jeannette Friedman. The ceremony will take place on November 19.

STAGE SELLS HIS ROYAL.

W. H. Stage, of Marengo, Ill., has sold his Royal Theater there to Neil Wilson. Mr. Stage has gone to Crystal Lake, Ill., where he will operate another motion picture house.

Will Tour Forty Companies

William Fox Starts Biggest Campaign Ever for "A Daughter of the Gods."

WILLIAM FOX, producer of "A Daughter of the Gods," announced this week that he would forthwith send out forty touring companies. There has never been a film or legitimate production exploited by means of forty companies, and the experiment of booking up 1600 weeks of solid time in the United States for one play is, consequently, looked upon by theatrical sharps with unwonted interest.

The word "company" means a complete organization including a manager, two advance agents, a musical leader and musicians, and a crew to run the stage and the electrical and mechanical effects. For all the big city productions one, and sometimes two baggage cars will be carried. The entire business will be conducted in the usual theatrical way. The so-called "two-dollar" houses will be played, with the bookings in charge of Charles A. Miller, a veteran theatrical expert.

ETHEL BARRYMORE.

ETHEL BARRYMORE, stage favorite and star of many picture plays, was born August 15, 1879, in Philadelphia. Her father was Maurice Barrymore, a celebrated actor, and her mother Georgia Drew-Barrymore, and she is the niece of John Drew, so that supreme dramatic ability is her rightful heritage. Her first recorded experience on the stage was at the Empire Theater, New York, Sept. 23, 1895, as "Katherine" in Henry Guy Carleton's "The Independent Young Person," with John Drew and Maude Adams in the cast.

Ethel Barrymore.

Miss Barrymore became a member of the Empire Stock Company. She played Priscilla in "Secret Service," going to London with the company, and English society received her with open arms. Her beauty, accomplishments and rare talents have made her a welcome guest in the most exclusive society, both in this country and abroad.

Miss Barrymore played in Sir Henry Irving's company, being especially successful in "Peter the Great." In 1900 Charles Frohman made her a star. She has played in many successes. With marriage and motherhood a new depth came to her art and interpretation. Miss Barrymore excels as a screen artist. She has appeared in "The Final Judgment," and "The Kiss of Hate," and her new production is a picture version of "The Awakening of Helena Ritchie," by Margaret Deland. In private life she is Mrs. Russell Colt.

JACK RICHARDSON JOINS UNIVERSAL.

Jack Richardson, who is playing in "Giant Powder," under the direction of Henry McRae at Universal City, has a record of having been "killed" more than any actor in the motion picture business. Richardson has been playing Western "heavies" for the American company for five years, and no author ever thinks of sparing the life of a villain in a Western story. Richardson has worked opposite J. Warren Kerrigan and other stars.

NEW SCENARIO WRITERS FOR KAY-BEE.

Lambert Hillyer is the latest addition to the scenario department of Triangle-Kay Bee. Hillyer is the author of many sketches and scenarios, and for the past two years has been directing his own plays. He is expected to prove a valuable addition to this department, and is now at work on his first story.

Albert Cowles, a well-known eastern scenario writer, has been added to the Triangle staff of authors.

What's What on Universal Program

For Week of November 6 "The Place Beyond the Winds," Red Feather, Will Lead Off.

THE Universal calls attention to the fact that Grace Cunard and Francis Ford will be featured in its next serial, "The Purple Mask." This serial has been in preparation for two years. Twenty two-reel scenarios of unusual plots, the cream of those submitted in the last twenty-six months, have been set aside and incorporated in the serial.

Meanwhile, "Liberty," the current Universal serial, continues to exert its patriotic appeal. During the week of November 6 Episode 13, "Strife and Sorrow," will be released. "Liberty" was written and produced by Jacques Jaccard and features Marie Walcamp, Jack Holt and Eddie Polo. Supporting the principals are L. M. Wells, Bertram Grassby, Neal Hart, Maude Emory and G. Raymond Nye.

The week's Red Feather is "The Place Beyond the Winds," a five-reel drama featuring Dorothy Phillips and Lon Chaney, reviewed in this issue. Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran and Priscilla Dean will be featured on Monday, November 6, in the Nestor comedy, "A Political Tramp," the scenario of which was written by Charles J. Wilson, Jr., and the production made by L. W. Chaudet.

Alice Howell, the towsel haired comedienne, is starred on November 7 in an L-Ko comedy, "Alice in Society," which is released on November 7. Fatty Voss supports her as best he can with his 340 pounds fahrenheit. On the same day King Baggot and Leah Baird will be seen in the special Imp drama, "The Voice Upstairs." There will be no release under the Victor brand on this date.

On November 8 Vola Smith, G. Raymond Nye and Charles Gunn will appear in "The Cry of Conscience," a Gold Seal two-reel mountain drama written by Olga Printzlau and produced by C. S. Elfelt. Ed Brown, Marc Robbins and E. P. Evers appear in support of the principals. On this date No. 45 of the Universal Animated Weekly will be released. There will be no L-Ko release on November 8. Instead, a Special Victor, entitled "A Roaming Romeo," featuring Tweedledum, will be released.

"The Mantle of Deceit," a two-reel Rex society drama featuring Claire Mersereau, will be released as the feature on November 9 under the Rex brand. Stanley Walpole, Helen Slosson, Nellie Slattery and Joseph Granby will appear in support of Miss Mersereau. The Powers cartoon educational, "High Life on a Farm with Hy Mayer," also will be released on the same day. There will be no Victor release on this date.

On November 10 Betty Schade will star in "The Eel," a decidedly distinctive Imp underworld drama. The story of this play was written by Beth Boone, scenarioized by William Parker and produced by H. Millard. Harry Keenan and Percy Challenger appear in support of Miss Schade. On the same day Agnes Vernon is featured in "The Eyes of Love," a Rex drama scenarioized by M. B. Havey from the story by L. J. Benson and produced by Fred A. Kelsey. Leah Baird and Jack Mulhall take prominent roles in the pictures.

November 10 also will see the release of "Sweedy, the Janitor," a Nestor comedy featuring Wallace Beery and Belle Bennett. The Special Big U mining drama, "The Evidence," featuring Bob Leonard, also will be released on this date.

On November 11 Roberta Wilson and Charles Perley will co-star in "The Quitter," a Bison two-reel Western drama written by Mary Lanier MacGruder, scenarioized by Alice Von Samar, and produced by Burton George. On the same day Gale Henry and William Franey co-star in "In Love with a Fireman," a Joker comedy written by Walter H. Newman and produced by W. W. Beaudine.

Saturday, November 12, stands out particularly because of the release of "The Powder Trail," a Special Big U two-reel military drama featuring Francis Ford and Grace Cunard. Sherman Bainbridge appears in support of Mr. Ford and Miss Cunard. On the same day Harry Depp and Yvette Mitchell co-star in the Victor comedy, "Any Old Duke'll Do," written by R. A. Dillon and produced by P. C. Harrigan. On the same day Lee Hill and Maud George appear in "Shadows of Suspicion," a Laemmle drama written by Arthur Maude and Constance Crawley and produced by Donald MacDonald.

NEW REPRESENTATIVE FOR PARAMOUNT'S CINCINNATI OFFICE.

C. H. Powell, who was formerly connected with the Famous Players Film Service of Detroit, Mich., has been appointed special representative of Paramount's Cincinnati office. Mr. Powell is well known in the West and accomplished splendid work during his connection with the Detroit office. He is at the present time making a tour through Northern Ohio.

Brady Makes "Bought and Paid For"

World Film's Release of November 13 Said to Be an Unusually Attractive Production.

ONE of the most important photoplays ever made by the World Film Corporation is "Bought and Paid For," which will be released November 13 with Alice Brady as its star. The spoken drama, by George Broadhurst, was the first production at William A. Brady's Playhouse, New York, where it continued for two winters and one summer, without a break, by way of inaugurating the entirely extraordinary success of that beautiful resort.

With the beginning of this remarkable record Mr. Brady adopted a system of national advertising that had never been undertaken in connection with a theatrical attraction. He figured that the old system of producing a play in New York and allowing the country to find out for itself that the run was going on was out of date and useless. Under the supervision of Mr. Brady, and at a cost of many thousands of dollars, long before the companies to play it broadcast were organized, the drama was known to practically everybody. Presumably there will be general interest in the motion picture release.

That the author himself is entirely satisfied with the result of Mr. Brady's work in making the transfer to the screen is apparent from the following letter, written October 20:

"Dear Mr. Brady: Please accept my heartiest congratulations on the splendid picture you have made of 'Bought and Paid For.' The central story is directly and dramatically told and the comedy element is admirably handled. Also, I may add, it is extremely well played. I can see no reason whatever why your picture should not equal the success of the play itself both in this country and abroad.

"GEORGE BROADHURST."

Alice Brady in the role of Virginia Blaine in this picture finds unusually varied opportunities for emotional expression. At first a school girl winning by unanimous vote the post of class orator, she becomes a telephone operator and marries a wealthy patron of the hotel where she is employed. She does not love him at first, but soon gives her heart to him, only to find that when he drinks to excess he becomes an unbearable brute. In horror and despair she leaves him and goes to the meagrely compensated work of a shop girl, in the end becoming reunited to a man reformed and regenerated.

These diversified phases of a woman's life have stimulated Miss Brady's talents to their utmost, and persons favored by admittance to the private showing of "Bought and Paid For" unite in the conviction that this personaton is the most charming and effective in her rapidly growing repertoire.

CUPID VISITS UNIVERSAL CITY.

Two couples within the last week have been joined in the happy bonds of matrimony at Universal City, and three of the contracting parties are employees of Big U Lawn, where congratulations have been showered upon them by their associates.

Albert G. Windsor, in charge of the information bureau, took as his bride Laura E. Adams, a young woman of Van Nuys, Cal.

Shorty LaCross, one of the staff of Wallace Kerrigan, superintendent of the Universal Ranch, was wedded to Veta Jacobs, of the wardrobe department.

CAMPBELL PREPARING FOR ANOTHER FEATURE

Colin Campbell, who recently left Chicago for Los Angeles, will, shortly after his arrival there, start work on a production of unusual magnitude. The name of this production is being kept secret at this time. "It is positively the most elaborate production I ever directed," was Mr. Campbell's statement in reference to "The Garden of Allah." "This picture cost more money, more people are engaged in it, the effects are more novel, than anything I have ever before been connected with," said Mr. Campbell. "The work of Helen Ware and Tom Santschi are of unusual excellence and appeal."

SHAY TO PLAY OPPOSITE FLORENCE REED.

Herbert Brenon has engaged William E. Shay for a leading role in "The Queen Mother," which will be his next contribution of Selznick Pictures, and in which Florence Reed will be starred. Mr. Shay has appeared in nearly all of the big productions which Brenon has made in his entire career, including "Neptune's Daughter," "Heart of Maryland," "The Kreutzer Sonata," "The Two Orphans," "The Clemenceau Case" and "Sin." His last previous work under the Brenon direction was as leading man in "A Daughter of the Gods," now running at the Lyric Theater, New York.

Ty Cobb Pjaying Before Camera

Famous Baseball Artist Will Be Seen in Sunbeam's "Somewhere in Georgia."

THE same wonderful Ty Cobb of the baseball world, the greatest ball player of all time, has joined the ranks of motion picture artists. After having been besieged with offers to appear before the camera Cobb finally "fell" for the screen acting and affixed his signature to a contract to appear in a Sunbeam Motion Picture Corporation production.

Ty Cobb.

Cobb has proved since he started to work on his first picture, "Somewhere in Georgia," that he is not only valuable because of his world-wide reputation, but because he is a natural born actor.

"I was never so agreeably surprised in my life," says Director-General George Ridgwell, of the Sunbeam forces. "I will never forget the first scene that Cobb worked in. He seemed to understand what he was to do the moment we set the camera. Well, I was so stunned that I just instinctively yelled 'Shoot!' and started on the picture. Every move that Cobb made reminded me of a seasoned actor. And his facial expressions; it seemed that he could be happy and tragic at the same time. And best of all, Ty likes the work. He was uneasy when we were taking scenes that he does not appear in and wanted all the time to be in front of the camera acting. I must confess that I never saw Cobb play ball, but if he can play better ball than he can act I will not be at ease until I see him on the diamond."

Supporting Cobb in "Somewhere in Georgia" is an all-star cast picked from the Sunbeam list of artists by Director Ridgwell. Opposite the mighty Ty is little Elsie MacLeod. Prominent screen artists will be seen in the cast, including Harry Fisher, Will Corbett, Ned Burton and others.

KLEINE BRANCHES OFFER FINE PROGRAM.

That the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, offered to exhibitors through the distributing offices of George Kleine, is making good its promise of "consistent quality," is strikingly apparent in the October and November programs now booking. Already the releases of October 2d and 16th—Selig's, "The County That God Forgot," and Essanay's, "The Return of Eve"—are playing to capacity business in all sections of the country. So is Selig's five-reel film record of 1916 World's Series baseball games. Advance showings of Edison's, "The Heart of the Hills," coming October 30, convinced theater men of the October program's uniform strength and excellence.

An even stronger trio of five-part features is offered for November. First engagements of Essanay's, "The Prince of Graustark," will be played during the week of November 6. Edison's masterpiece, "The Cossack Whip," with Viola Dana as the features player, comes November 13, and Essanay's, "The Chaperon," November 20. Each of the three, it is said, really deserves the much-abused title "feature." Every one of the twenty-three George Kleine exchanges is reporting heavy bookings of each individual offering on the October and November lists.

McCLURE PLAYERS CALLED TO COLORS.

When motion picture audiences go to see "Pride," the second play of the McClure series, "Seven Deadly Sins," in which Holbrook Blinn is to star, they will see Le Comte de Frais and La Baronne d'Arboz moving through the play with all of the dignity necessary to their noble roles, but the players who created these part, Guido Colucci and his wife, Lena D'Avril, will be overseas, doing work for the Allies.

Mr. Colucci is an Italian reservist, who before his connection with McClure Pictures, appeared in Metro, World and Ivan Pictures. Recently he was featured by Edison in a five-reel feature, "The Tell-Tale Step." Just as he was completing his work in "Pride" he received word that his class had been called to the Italian colors, and he stepped out of his role of Count to serve as a common soldier in the ranks.

"The Honor System"

New Fox Ten-Reel Release Is Based on Prison Reform Movement.

WARDEN OSBORNE'S resignation from Sing Sing prison has made prison reform the topic of the hour. Just at this psychological moment William Fox is about to release a ten-reel prison problem film, "The Honor System." The Fox Film Corporation has been working on this production for more than a year.

It has been splendidly and vividly directed by R. A. Walsh, supported by a cast of actors famous in the motion picture world, and produced amid actual prison scenes. Real convicts enacted some of the parts.

One of the best criticisms on "The Honor System" has been sent to Mr. Fox by a convict, a "lifer" in the Florence penitentiary. He is Louis Victor Eytinge a literary genius, who though in prison makes more than $20,000 a year by his pen.

Scene from "The Honor System" (Fox).

The picture was made mainly in Arizona and along the Mexican border. In order to give this film every attribute of real life, Mexican raids were staged which are described by persons who have figured in actual raids, as absolutely correct in every detail. Thousands of men are shown taking place in cavalry charges and in battles in every respect similar to those being fought between the warring factions of Mexico to-day.

R. A. Walsh before screening the first scene of his battle pictures spent weeks in going over the ground and working out his strategic maneuvers under the guidance of military experts. To depict the prison scenes showing old, brutal methods, Governor Hunt of Arizona placed at the disposal of the Fox Film Corporation the old prison at Yuma, which in its time has been one of the most terrible hell-holes in existence.

Recently a representative of the Fox Film Corporation attended the Congress of the American Prison Association at Buffalo and brought the film to the attention of the five hundred delegates—governors of states, superintendents of prisons, wardens and prison experts throughout the country.

"It is a living, human document."

The writer of the scenario, Henry Christeen Warnack, has been interested in prison reform for many years. He is principal feature and editorial writer on the Los Angeles Times. All the educational value of his experience, combined with his expert knowledge as a writer, has been put into "The Honor System."

ROTHACKER FILMS "MODERN MOTHER GOOSE."

The Rothacker Film Manufacturing Company, of Chicago, has just completed the laboratory work on "Modern Mother Goose," a five-reel feature produced by the Fort Dearborn Photoplays Company, Inc. All the photography, which included the taking of many artistic interiors and exteriors, was done by Rothacker cameramen—Wesley Smith and Edwin Linden. According to the Fort Dearborn people, the laboratory work on the film has added in a considerable degree to its worth.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

"A STRANGER FROM SOMEWHERE" (Bluebird).

The release for November 20 on the Bluebird program will be "A Stranger from Somewhere," with Franklyn Farnum playing the dual role that carries the plot. His leading woman will be Agnes Vernon. This play was written by Willis Woods and produced by William Worthington, who directed "Love Never Dies," in which Mr. Farnum lately appeared in the Bluebird series in conjunction with Ruth Stonehouse.

"A Stranger from Somewhere" is a work of peculiar construction, starting off as a serious drama, verging into riotous comedy and winding up with a "surprise finish" that leaves the observer well satisfied with the result. In playing the dual lead Farnum is about the busiest man ever on the screen, being almost continuously in evidence in one of the two roles he assumes.

Scene from "A Stranger from Somewhere" (Bluebird).

MILLETT IN "THE LAND JUST OVER YONDER."

When Peter B. Kyne, the author, was in Redlands, some weeks ago, in conference with M. B. Dudley, of the Dudley Motion Picture Company, regarding the filming of Kyne's Saturday Evening Post story, "The Land Just Over Yonder," the question arose as to what actor was available for the character of Toylabe Tom, one of the leads, and, as Mr. Kyne expressed it, the pet "brain child" of all the stories he had written.

Tobiabe Tom represents an old desert prospector of Nevada, around whom most of the principal scenes and incidents of "The Land Just Over Yonder" revolve. Negotiations to secure some one for the part were begun when Kyne was in Redlands, and Arthur Millett, identified for some time with the American Film Company, Santa Barbara was called to Redlands for a conference. He was immediately engaged by Mr. Dudley; and the fact that he is filling every requirement in the role is attested by some of the stills that have been taken of him at various intervals during the filming of the story.

"The Land Just Over Yonder," in six reels, will be released through the Unity Sales Corporation and will be followed by "Humanizing Mr. Winsby," another Peter B. Kyne story now being produced by the Dudley Motion Picture Manufacturing Company.

GLADYS HULETTE'S NEXT PLAY.

Gladys Hulette, the Thanhouser star, has nearly finished "Her New York," and Director Eugene Moore is preparing to start work on Miss Hulette's next play within a few days. Agnes C. Johnston, author of all of Miss Hulette's Pathe Gold Rooster plays—"The Shine Girl," "Prudence, the Pirate" and "Her New York"—has written for Miss Hulette a feature called "Kate o' the Kitchen," in which Miss Hulette plays a little girl, poor but happy, who has to go to work for four reasons—three sisters and a brother.

Edwin Thanhouser has given "Kate o' the Kitchen" a splendid cast, including, besides Miss Hulette, Doris Grey, Wayne Arey, George Marlo and Arthur Bauer.

DIVORCE AND THE DAUGHTER.

"Divorce and the Daughter," Florence La Badie's next Pathe Gold Rooster play, is nearing completion at the Thanhouser studios and will be released early in December. The story, by Agnes C. Johnston, is a powerful study of the causes and effects of an unhappy home. Florence La Badie plays the daughter of parents whose love for each other is dying.

Frederic Sullivan, the director, has staged beautiful scenes as well as strong ones, and Miss Johnston has embellished her story with delicate human touches. Miss La Badie makes the most of a strong emotional part. She is supported by an excellent cast, including Edwin Stanley, J. H. Gilmour, Sam. Niblack, Kathryn Adams, Zenaide Williams and two talented children, Ethelmary Oakland and Arthur Le Vien.

"A LUCKY TRAMP" (Tweedledum).

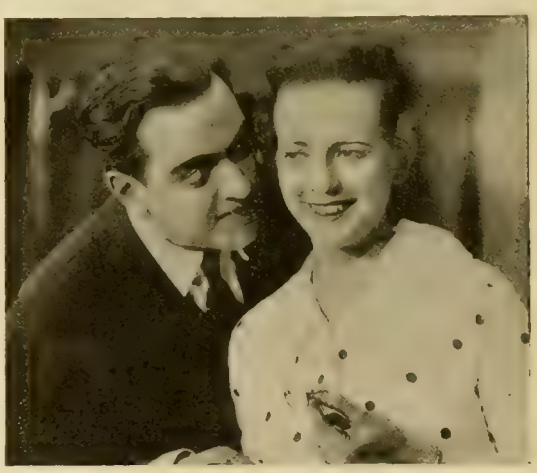
For this week's Unity releases "A Lucky Tramp," the latest of the Tweedledum comedies produced by the Eagle Film Manufacturing Company. The story hinges for its fun on the determination of the beautiful young heroine to avoid marrying the man her father has picked out for her. She decides the only way to dodge the wedding is to run away. Coming upon Tweedledum, she hits upon the novel idea of marrying him and thus secure herself against the forced marriage to the unattractive suitor.

Picture Tweedledum's amazement when the young girl steps up to him from the side of the road and calmly announces that she wants to marry him. To say the least, he is somewhat abashed, but the young woman will not be put off. She drags the tramp before a justice of the peace and the two are quickly married before the irate parents and the pursuing suitor can interfere.

The wedding is sudden, but seemingly sure.

"WHAT I SAID, GOES!" (Essanay).

Here is an Essanay story which carries its situations rapidly and punctuates them with a brilliant comedy spot now and then which makes the whole a desirable offering. The plot is unique—sufficiently so to give the well-cast players an opportunity to exert themselves. Richard C. Travers has a part for which he is exceptionally well suited, that of a wealthy young man who is working for his living as an employe of a business rival of his father. Gertrude Glover plays the young heiress who poses as a shop girl. The two meet under humorous circumstances, but together frustrate a plot and bring their fathers together for a consolidation of their businesses. It is an above-ordinary three-reeler, with plot, players and heart interest.



Scene from "What I Said, Goes!" (Essanay).

FRANCES NELSON IN WILCOX POEM.

Frances Nelson will appear as a Metro star in a powerful five-act human interest drama, "The Beautiful Lie," a film version of Ella Wheeler Wilcox's celebrated poem, "A Reverie in a Station House." This story was prepared for the screen by Harry O. Hoyt and is novel in theme and presentation.

The action takes place in a large city and the theme centers on a wife who permits unjust suspicion to fall upon her rather than cause anguish to her husband. She is arrested on a false charge, and though not guilty she allows her life to be sacrificed fearing lest she wreck the happiness of the man she loves.

The production will be started as soon as Director John W. Noble completes work on "The Awakening of Helena Richie," in which Ethel Barrymore is starred. A strong cast will be selected to support Miss Nelson in her appearance on the Metro program.

"THE YEARS OF THE LOCUST" (Lasky).

Unlike the fool and his money, Fannie Ward and her gowns are not easily parted. The Lasky star is famous for her wardrobe and she takes a personal pride in never being found unequipped for any emergency that might arise. It is her boast that she can dress for any part that a director calls upon her to play, without delaying the picture beyond the time necessary to fasten a few hooks and eyes.

When Albert Payson Terhune's story, "The Years of the Locust," was chosen by the Lasky Company as a starring vehicle for Miss Ward, it seemed as though she would find that she had boasted in vain, for the script of this Paramount picture called for almost every imaginable type of gown. One by one Miss Ward checked them off as she perused this script, until she had the following list: Morning negligees, four street costumes, afternoon gowns, tea gowns, ball gowns, opera cloaks, furs for driving and motoring, girlish frocks, riding habits and all the hats, parasols and shoes that must accompany them.

Scene from "Years of the Locust" (Lasky).

The picture is, however, in no sense a fashion article. "The Years of the Locust" was written by Mr. Terhune with no thought of Miss Ward in his mind. But he drew a picture of a girl who is a society favorte—the wife of a diamond king—and the scenes shift from one continent to the other with such rapidity that a tremendous amount of changes in costumes are necessary. Furthermore, this girl goes through many vicissitudes of life, for each of which she must be correctly dressed in order to make them all effective.

One of the most remarkable single ornamentations which Miss Ward wears in this picture is a wedding veil which she wore when she was married several years ago to Joe Lewis, a South African diamond king. It was formerly owned by the Archduchess Isabella of Austria. This is the first time that it has been worn in a motion picture.

The Gish Sisters have each a new Triangle-Fine Arts picture nearing completion. Dorothy's is "The Feud Breakers," Lillian's "The Children Pay."

"WAR BRIDES" (Selznick).

Herbert Brenon's tremendous photodrama, "War Brides," introducing Alla Nazimova, the great Slavic tragedienne, for the first time to photoplay audiences, is now ready for release throughout the world. It will be presented as the second of the new Selznick-Pictures.

"War Brides" has been developed from a one-act drama by Marion Craig Wentworth, which was a vaudeville sensation for two years. It tells the story of a young woman whose husband has been drafted into the army soon after they were married. He is killed in an early engagement in the war and his widow comes out among the people of the little village urging women not to marry soldiers, as it will only bring upon them the same tragedy which has come into her life. The military authorities do their best to silence her, but she finally confronts even the King himself with her defiance of the militaristic rule.

One of the most tremendous scenes ever staged either in the theater or before the motion picture camera is that in which Scene from "War Brides" (Selznick).

Joan (Nazimova) receives word of her husband's death. Another scene which Mr. Brenon has created in this picture calls for the construction of a huge three-story trench, which shows the actual conditions of warfare as is carried on in the European battlefields without showing the armies at actual grips.

"MUTUAL TOURS AROUND THE WORLD" (Gaumont).

The promise of the Gaumont Company to provide pictures of places and peoples under foreign flags is fulfilled in its first release, November 7, of "Mutual Tours Around the World." This is a single-reel that supplements the three weekly single-reels already being issued by this company. There are three diverse subjects chosen for the first reel, each of which is both diverting and entertaining. First comes the ancient French town of La Rochelle. The pictures show the harbor, the quays, the fishing fleet as it sails and at sea, and the town hall built in 1606.

The second section shows the Nile at Assouan. Here is located the wonderful dam which is one of the world's greatest engineering feats. The granite formation responsible for the cataracts is shown, as well as the great mass of masonry which now holds back the water for better distribution during the dry season. There are pictures also of native industries.

Scene from "Mutual Tours Around the World" (Mutual).

The third section of the reel takes one into the war zone before peace had fled. It shows pictures of the ancient Galician town of Kamenez-Podolsk. The streets, the bazaar, the fortress and the mosque pre-empted by the Turks in the seventeenth century provide quaint pictures of a life remote from our own. The native types shown give one an idea of the refugees who flee before the Russian advance in this country.

MABEL NORMAND HAS NEW "DRESSING TABLE."

Mabel Normand has a new roadster—a "dream of a car"—battleship gray and built like a submarine. "I had it made to suit myself," she declared, as she glided up in front of the Keystone studios in Los Angeles the other day.

She opened an inner panel fastened to the inside of the right hand door and revealed

A complete theatrical "kit" box filled with every imaginable requisite of make-up and for the toilet. Silver topped and Mabel and Her Table.

French ivory boxes and bottles were fitted into niches especially designed for them and in the middle of the compartment a mirror reflected her pretty face.

"I drew a picture for them," continued Miss Normand—"and they made this box just as I wanted it. Now when I'm out on location, I can make up in comfort and when I want to take off the grease paint, I can do it." Miss Normand drives her own car and is rapidly becoming an expert mechanician.

STARRING VEHICLE FOR ENID BENNETT.

While he is not actively engaged in the work of production, Director Charles Miller is busy making preparations at the Triangle-Kay Bee studio for the filming of the play in which Enid Bennett will make her debut as a star.

Miss Bennett was engaged by Ince during the latter's recent visit to New York.

The subject in which she will appear is an unusual story of a blind girl and was written by Lanier Bartlett. Jack Gilbert has been cast to play the principal supporting role.

"AS YE SOW" (Selig).

Well worthy of prominent mention in the forthcoming General Film program is "As Ye Sow," a Selig feature drama produced by Burton L. King, and featuring an exceptional cast of star players, such as Robyn Adair, Virginia Kirtley, Eugenie Forde and E. J. Brady. "As Ye Sow" is a gripping story of a man's temptation, his fall and his final redemption through his own efforts, assisted by the loyal love of a woman. There are many soul-stirring situations, and how with one mighty effort Robert Norton severs habit's cable and becomes a man again is a situation that will appeal to the most blasé audience. "As Ye Sow" will be released Monday, November 6.

Scene from "As Ye Sow" (Selig).

"FAITH," WINTER SUBJECT, IS RELEASED OCT. 30.

James Kirkwood, the well-known director, is again responsible for an exquisite bit of screen work. "Faith," his second Mutual-American production, is all completed, with Mary Miles Minter in the leading role, and will go out to charm the picture-loving public on October 30.

"Faith" was written especially for Mary Miles Minter by Mr. Kirkwood. It is calculated to give wide scope to the talented young star's emotional and dramatic powers, so well as to furnish leeway for the charming little touches, the human, endearing bits of acting which Miss Minter knows so well how to give her characterizations.

NEW DALTON-HICKMAN STORY.

From a production standpoint the most important announcement emanating from the Triangle-Kay Bee studios this week is that Director Raymond B. West has commenced work on the filming of the new play by J. G. Hawks, in which Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman will be featured.

This is a story of the stage and offers Miss Dalton the part of an actress. The other two principal parts are those of a dramatic critic and an author and they are being portryed by Mr. Hickman and Charles Gunn, late addition to the Kay-Bee forces.

SAWYER PHOTOPLAY RELEASED SOON.

Joan Sawyer's first photoplay is scheduled for release by William Fox very shortly. The picture deals in part with gypsy life, but the latter has been filmed from a new angle. Tefft Johnson had charge of the screening.

TWO STAFFS MAKING "LUMBERLAND."

To increase the weekly production the last ten chapters ('twenty reels) of "A Lass of the Lumberlands," being filled by Miss Helen Holmes and her Signal-Mutual company in California, Director J. P. McGowan has split his forces into a major and a minor company, the former under himself, the latter under the direction of Paul C. Hurst. While the McGowan staff is making the more important scenes the Hurst staff will make the subordinate ones.

Scene from "A Lass of the Lumberlands" (Mutual).

"A VILLAINOUS PURSUIT" (Paramount).

Filled with a hundred and one comedy thrills and surrounded with a consistent comedy story that is side-splitting in its every detail, "A Villainous Pursuit," from the United States studio, the next single reel comedy to be released by Paramount Picture Corporation on November 13, will far surpass anything of its kind. This single reel is a "meller drammer" and is founded on nothing in particular. The trick photography that is used in this picture is said to be great.

LATEST DITMARS ANIMAL FEATURE FOR PARAMOUNT.

Curator Raymond Ditmars, for seventeen years associated with the vast collection of animals at the New York Zoological Park, has prepared a motion picture for Paramount called "Dangerous Animals." This picture has a startling climax that will cause an audience to gasp. The scenes portray the necessity of extreme caution in the handling of animals that are liable to turn in instant attack. This picture will be released in connection with a forthcoming Paramount-Bray cartoon.

Robert Conness, long associated with the Edison Company, but now of the Famous Players, appears in the all-star cast of "The Martyrdom of Philip Strong," which will be released by the Famous Players November 30th.

"THE WAGER," WITH EMILY STEVENS, RELEASED NOV. 13.

The Metro Pictures Corporation has just announced that the elaborate Metro-Rolfe production of The Wager, with Emily Stevens as the star, will be released Nov. 13. The Wager of the Law, "Destiny or the Soul of a Woman," or The House of Terus,' have been this popular star's previous motion picture productions, and these have brought forth enthusiastic praise on all sides.

The Wager' is a gripping story of business and the underworld. Miss Stevens never before has had such scope to her liking, than that of "Diamond Lucy Lessing," a girl but imperfectly educated who is known to the police as a shoplifter. As Diamond Lucy, Miss Stevens has a wealth of opportunity for dramatic characterization and she has taken full advantage of it.

George D. Baker is the author of "The Wager." He also directed the production.

METRO TO MAKE THRIFT PICTURE.

Further evidence of the wide scope of motion pictures is demonstrated in a picture now being made at the Metro Popular Plays and Players studio to develop the saving instinct and to teach frugality in families of moderate means. It will be released broadcast throughout the country before the holidays. The film is being taken under the direction of Burton L. King, with Violet Heming and William Courtleigh in the leading roles for the Christmas Club.

The Christmas Club is composed of hundreds of banks in all parts of the country which accept nominal sums on deposit throughout the year, and just before Christmas issue a special check for the amount on deposit, thus assuring the depositors sufficient funds for their Christmas shopping without causing inroads on the family treasury.

Wallace C. Clifford, a noted scenario writer, has written a story for the screen called "Three Christmases," showing how a family suffered before the beginning of the Christmas Club and the effects after the habit of putting away a small amount each week had been started.

GEORGE LE GUERE IN ELECTRIC CHAIR.

George Le Guere has been sentenced to the death chair. He has actually been strapped in, and unless Nance O'Neill can reach the electric switch in time, that heart of his will stop beating. It all happens in "Greed," the third play of the McClure series, "Seven Deadly Sins." George is wrongly blamed for the death of a sinister character in the play, and Nance O'Neill sets to work against tremendous difficulties to rescue him. It is a big scene.

This danger is a climax to the countless perils that Le Guere faces in this series of seven five-reel feature plays. His hosts of girl admirers will heave deep sighs of relief when the series is completed, and the love of Eve Leslie (Shirley Mason) rewards him for risking life and limb to save her from those who would tear her away from him.

GORGEOUS GOWNS AND GEMS FOR EMMY WEHLEN IN "VANITY."

In "Vanity," the five-act Metro wonderplay soon to be released with Emmy Wehlen as star, will be seen some magnificent gowns. These are worn by Miss Wehlen herself, who has the part of a model in an exclusive Fifth avenue store.

Miss Wehlen's blond beauty will be seen in a garment of flowing lines made of silver brocade ornamented with diamonds. The most notable feature of the gown is the huge buckle of cut rhinestones and sapphires which covers almost the entire back of the bodice. The skirt of the gown is short, except for its graceful train.

Another creation worn by Miss Wehlen is of white tulle, its bodice topped with rose brocade, and a rose brocade train, very long. The rest of the skirt is short, in the prevailing mode.

TRAVELS 500 MILES TO FIND LOCATION.

Steve Barton, assistant to Fred J. Balshofer, president of the Yorke Film Corporation, has returned from an extensive automobile tour of the Pacific Coast, for the purpose of finding a particular type of lighthouse and rocky coast location that is vividly described by Harold MacGrath in his novel, "Pidgin Island," now being picturized at the Metro-Yorke studio.

After pages of data and photographs had been submitted to Mr. Balshofer and his co-director, Jay Hunt, it was decided that "Point Pidgin" would be the best location. The name of the lighthouse corresponds with the title of the Harold MacGrath novel. Barton's trip was suggested by Harold Lockwood and May Allison, who will star in the production, and who are keen for realistic settings. The tour extended five hundred miles from the Los Angeles Yorke studio.

SELIG-TRIBUNE ADDS FASHION DIVISION.

The Selig-Tribune, the twice a week news reel, released through General Film Service, has instituted a departmnt of fashions. The fashion department will probably be a feature of each and every issue and will add to the interest of this news film. The latest fashion creations from New York and Paris will be presented by pretty models, and the department will prove attractive to the ladies. The fashion department will be installed in the near future.

GAUMONT NOW HAS FOUR SINGLE REELS A WEEK.

The time has gone by when the exhibitor used single reels merely as fillers. To his appreciation of the value of these shorter lengths of film the Gaumont Company has largely contributed by the excellence of its product. Now the company is reaping the reward of its insistence upon quality. It has developed a highly profitable program of single reels, giving the exhibitor four a week. The latest addition to this program is "Mutual Tours Around the World." It gives entertaining pictures of places and peoples under foreign flags. It is more than a scenic release, showing as well the customs, industries and pastimes of the people. The other Gaumont single-reels are The Mutual Weekly, "See America First," and "Reel Life."

SELF-DEFENSE WITHOUT WEAPONS (Paramount).

The art of self-defense without weapons, which depends fundamentally upon your ability to startle an assailant before he has an opportunity to do you any harm, has been brought to a high state of perfection lately in America, and comprises in principle with the jiu-jitsu practiced extensively in Japan. These principles will be shown in a particularly interesting and vivid manner in the forthcoming release of the Paramount Pictographs, the "magazine-on-the-screen."

The pictures were posed for by Professor Marcellus T. Hayes, former physical instructor of Columbia University, who demonstrates the leading points which may be used by a peaceful citizen when maliciously attacked under various circumstances.

HELEN WARE WILL WEAR FINE GOWNS.

Miss Helen Ware, who plays the leading feminine role in Selig's "The Garden of Allah," wears a large number of very expensive gowns during the course of the play. These gowns were designed especially for the use of Miss Ware in the film drama. During the opening she appears in a succession of creations, one gown alone costing, it is said, $1,500. Her wardrobe in "The Garden of Allah" includes morning robes, afternoon gowns, evening dresses, etc. Miss Ware's gowns will prove very attractive to the women, as they are of the latest fashions.

Notes of the Trade

FLORENCE LA BADIE has been invited as the guest of honor to the big Hallowe'en party of the employees of the Marcus Loew offices, which will be held in the huge general office next Tuesday night. Marcus Loew and all the heads of the Loew enterprises, managers and others, will be present and Marcus Loew has personally invited Miss LaBadie.

• • •

The Universal Joker Company, directed by W. W. Beaudine, has under production a one-reel comedy, "The Dark Secret," adapted for the screen by Harry Wulze. The leads are played by Gale Henry and William Franey.

• • •

A set including a bakery, confectionery shop and lunch room is being built on the Triangle Keystone lot at Los Angeles for the next Fatty Arbuckle picture.

• • •

Keith Armour, having supported both the Gish sisters in their newest plays—Dorothy in "Atta Boy's Last Race" and Lillian in "The Children Pay"—has been summoned to Chicago by the serious illness of his mother.

• • •

Ernest Maupain has made the character of the Italian in "The Breaker," Essanay feature, one of the best portrayals of his screen career. The photoplay has been taken from Arthur Stringer's story in "The Saturday Evening Post" and the part is familiar. Bryant Washburn and Nell Craig appear in the leading roles in "The Breaker."

• • •

Lew Fields' photoplay, "The Man Who Stood Still," has made such a hit that the World Film Corporation has renewed its contract for three additional Fields pictures.

• • •

Ruth Ann Baldwin, who has been given the direction of a company at Universal City, has under production "Bred in the Purple," by John Fleming Wilson. The story is being made in one reel, the principal players being George Pearce and Elizabeth Janes.

• • •

A set occupying the entire floor space of one of the big glass-inclosed stages at Culver City is being built for a new Triangle-Kay Bee picture starring Dorothy Dalton and Howard Hickman. It shows the interior of a theater.

The appearance of Marguerite Courtot and Owen Moore as co-stars in the Famous Players-Paramount picture "The Kiss" marks the second appearance of that delightful little player with a member of the well-known motion picture family. It was while she was a Kalem star that she was presented on the screen with Tom Moore, brother of Owen.

• • •

Carter De Haven is directing his own company and playing the lead in a two-reel comedy, "Her Man Friday," which is under production at Universal City. Flora Parker De Haven plays opposite.

• • •

John Lynch and Olga Printzlau, of the Triangle-Kay Bee staff of scenario writers, have signed contracts to turn out stories exclusively for Thos. H. Ince for the next two years.

• • •

Director William V. Mong at Universal City is picturizing "In the Days of '49," written by himself, in which he plays a featured lead with Nellie Allen opposite. It deals with the gold rush in California.

• • •

Harry Rattenberry, one of the Christie comedians, has been loaned to the Lasky Company through the courtesy of Al Christie to interpret the role "Bumble" in the "Oliver Twist" production now in the course of making by Director James Young.

• • •

Three new plays are simultaneously under way in the World Film Corporation's studio at Fort Lee. They are "The Bondage of Fear," "The Parasites" and "A Law Unto Herself." The more noted of the players appearing in the different productions are Robert Warwick, Ethel Clayton, Carlyle Blackwell, Gail Kane, Muriel Ostriche, June Elvidge, Arthur Ashley, Montagu Love, Henry Hull, and John Bowers.

• • •

Director Joseph De Grasse is producing at the Universal City a five-reel feature, "The Piper's Price," adapted for the screen by Ida May Park. The story is by Mrs. Wilson Woodrow, and the featured leads are played by Dorothy Phillips and Lon Chaney, supported by Maud George, Claire DeBrey, and William Stowell.

• • •

Clyde De Vinna, of the Triangle-Ince staff of cameramen, is back on the job after three weeks in the Culver City hospital, due to a skidding motorcycle.

• • •

"The Madness of Helen," a new World Film play in which Ethel Clayton and Carlyle Blackwell have the star roles, contains certain "double exposure" effects which are said by experts to be entirely without precedent. The hero of this screen drama is a literary man who gets $1,000 apiece for his short stories, showing that he is some literary man.

• • •

Jasper, diving horse, appears with his owner and rider, Earl Soverin, in a new Triangle comedy of the Mack Sennett-Keystone brand entitled, "Bombs and Blunders." They do a 20-foot plunge into a tank erected over the well-known Keystone tank.

• • •

"A Daughter of Caliente," written by Helen Jonas, has been finished in two reels by Director Douglas Gerrard. The featured leads are played by Gerrard and Ruth Clifford. The story has a distinct Corsican atmosphere.

• • •

Charles Miller, brother of Henry Miller, has just signed a two-year contract as director for Triangle-Kay Bee.

• • •

Roy E. Aitken, head of Triangle's foreign service, with headquarters in London, has arrived at the coast Triangle studios to make an extended visit before returning to London via New York.

• • •

Bill Hart has a distinct novelty in a forthcoming Triangle-Kay Bee five-reeler called "The Devil's Double."

• • •

Mary McAlister, the little girl who pleased so many in "Borrowed Sunshine," a two-act Essanay drama, is now at work in another child picture of the same length. It is entitled, "Unto the Least of These."

• • •

Dorothy Dalton has signed a two-year contract to continue in Triangle-Ince pictures.

• • •

The second chapter of "The Voice On the Wire" is well under production at Universal City under the direction of Stuart Paton. The leads in this criminologist series are played by Ben Wilson and Neva Gerber.

Picture Theaters Projected

BRISTOL, CONN.—George J. Lacourse Company has the contract to erect a two-story addition, 40 by 50 feet, to the theater building of W. J. Tracy, 15 N. Main street, to cost $10,000.

VALLEJO, CAL.—Extensive improvements have been made to the Rex theater.

WEST PALM BEACH, FLA.—H. C. Bartholomew has the contract to remodel the Olympic theater for Sidney Maddock.

WINNETKA, ILL.—Gus Linduhl is having plans prepared by Carl W. Westerlind, 111 W. Washington street, Chicago, Ill., for a one and two-story moving picture theater, store and office building, 50 by 146 feet, to cost $50,000.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—The Dreamland theater is now being conducted by George Trevers.

CEDAR RAPIDS, IA.—A Bartola organ has been installed in the Isis theater.

FORT DODGE, IA.—A new Kimball pipe organ, costing $3,000, has been installed in the Majestic theater.

NICHOLS, IA.—The Nash theater has been purchased by C. L. Pike.

REINBECK, IA.—C. E. Aines has taken over the moving picture theater formerly conducted by C. F. Sperbeck.

WEBSTER CITY, IA.—The New Orpheum is the name of a new moving picture house opened here.

BALTIMORE, MD.—Henry Mann and Warren A. Blake plan to expend about $10,000 in making alterations to theih moving picture theater and bowling alleys.

BALTIMORE, MD.—The Red Mill theater, located at 1510 West Lafayette avenue, has been overhauled, the interior redecorated and reopened again.

MORTON, MINN.—C. E. Molling, who recently purchased the Unique theater, is making extensive improvements to the house.

BUTTE, MONT.—The Theatrical Realty Company has taken over the Broadway theater.

NEBRASKA CITY, NEB.—The Empress theater is now being conducted by E. W. Blakeslee.

OMAHA, NEB.—The Family theater has been purchased by A. H. Banks.

ROEBLING, N. J.—Under the direction of the owners of the big wire mills, a moving picture theater, with a seating capacity of 900 and costing $30,000, has been opened here.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Cortlandt Corporation is having plans prepared by J. M. Felson, 1133 Broadway, for a two-story theater and roof garden, 80 by 120 feet, to cost $75,000.

BADIN, N. C.—Archts. H. E. Kennedy Company, Home Trust building, Pittsburgh, Pa., is preparing plans for a moving picture theater and lodge building.

RYDER, N. D.—Edward E. Fredeen is reported to be planning to erect a modern fireproof moving picture theater.

COLLINSVILLE, OKLA.—P. J. Duffy is having plans prepared by J. Thompson, Reeder building, Tulsa, Okla., for an opera house, 45 by 140 feet, two-story and balcony, to cost $8,000. It will be a brick structure.

SAND SPRINGS, OKLA.—Lewis Barnett, 6th and Elwood streets, Tulsa, Okla., is having plans prepared by MacDonald & Fabry, 405 First National Bank building, Tulsa, Okla., for a one-story moving picture theater, 50 by 140 feet, to cost $20,000.

DOYLESTOWN, PA.—The Princess theater has been sold by Sheriff Gantz to the Second Girard Avenue Building & Loan Association, Philadelphia, for $2,400.

STEELTON, PA.—The Strand theater, at the corner of Front and Pine streets, is now being operated by W. A. Kline.

SWISSVALE, PA.—T. J. Conlon, who recently purchased the Colonial theater, has installed new projecting machines and had the interior of the house redecorated.

CLOVER, S. C.—It is reported that J. Meek Smith will erect a moving picture theater, to be leased to J. J. Cronlin.

CHATTANOOGA, TENN.—D. S. Ethridge has purchased the Strand theater at 240 Main street.

DANVILLE, VA.—R. A. James, 968 Main street, is having plans prepared by Heard & Cardwell, Masonic building, for a two-story moving picture theater and store building, 43 by 188 feet, to cost $8,000.

LYNCHBURG, VA.—The Universal theater has been reopened by the Piedmont Amusement Company and renamed the Broadway.

ROANOKE, VA.—Robert H. Angel, 127 Center avenue, is having plans prepared by G. R. Ragan, Terry building, for a one-story moving picture theater, 50 by 85 feet, to cost $10,000.

A Genuine PIPE ORGAN
can be operated from the simple keyboard of the piano, ORGAN ALONE — PIANO ALONE — OR BOTH TOGETHER. Write for particulars
HARMO PIPE ORGAN COMPANY
128 West 46th Street NEW YORK
1423 McCormick Bldg. CHICAGO

FULL VALUE

in every weekly issue makes the worth many times its small additional cost over all other publications in the field. Thousands of Exhibitors gladly write us and renew their subscriptions promptly because of this established value. The many helpful departments, the editorial policy, and other valuable assets of this paper—and even the ideas in this and other advertisements—have been, and are still being, imitated and copied as closely as possible. Readers who know real values, however, easily distinguish and prefer to get the old steady and consistent, reliable, trustworthy and really independent trade paper that is and always has been the leader in moving picture journalism.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

OUR VALUE TO READERS

OUR VALUE TO EXHIBITORS

OUR VALUE TO ADVERTISERS

that the best and most experienced staff can provide is the reason others try to follow, and the reason subscribers tell us they would rather pay for the M. P. W. than get others for nothing. It costs a little more—but it's worth a whole lot more.

Moving Picture World

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Schiller Building
Chicago

Haas Building
Los Angeles

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

Maritime Protest Against Deposit

Local Theater Managers See No Need for the Deposit with Exchanges When Films Are Shipped C. O. D.—A Hang-over from Former Conditions—A Hardship to the Smaller Exhibitor—Not All Exchanges Demand It.

By Frederick F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Avenue, St. John, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—Maritime Province exhibitors, through their league and individually, are loudly voicing their protest against the deposit system that is being exacted by some agencies in addition to the C. O. D. method of shipping films, which was put in effect a few months ago. Previous to the inauguration of the pre-payment system, the exhibitors were obliged to make a deposit with the exchange men at the beginning of the service. When negotiations were closed the money was returned. This, it is said, was to insure the agencies against any possible loss by non-payment for service. There was little remonstrance from the exhibitors along this line, but when the C. O. D. method of shipment was put in vogue and the deposit still demanded by some of the exchanges, managers felt that it was the intention of the service people to cudgel them into submission.

Accordingly, at the organization meeting held at Halifax, in September, a vote was passed protesting against this so-called double deposit. And it is now claimed that some of the exchanges still continue demanding the deposit and exacting pre-payment charges. This has hit the small exhibitor very hard. The injustice of it has been pointed out in that an exchange may demand $100 from a theater as deposit, and whether they continue business relations one week or ten years, the money is returned without interest at the expiration of that time. A hundred theaters depositing $100 would give the exchange the use of $10,000 without having to pay one cent of interest and at the same time they are guarding against possible loss by the C. O. D. system. When the new method was inaugurated some of the agencies withdrew their other demand, but some are continuing it, and it is against these that the exhibitors are directing their storm of protest.

Halifax's New Casino Ready.

Halifax, N. S.—R. J. McAwam has announced that the new Casino theater will be opened here Nov. 15th, with special features from the Metro and Fox agencies. The Casino will seat about 1000. It was erected at a cost of $55,000 and is said to be one of the best moving picture house in the provinces. Artists are now at work on the front of the building, which will be completed when this is read. The Casino is located in one of the most thriving suburban sections, and is expected to do a record business.

S. R. O. Signs in Halifax.

Halifax, N. S.—Carl Crawford, St. John manager for the Fox corporation, has just returned from a trip through the provinces and to Montreal. He announces heavy bookings in "The Daughter of the Gods" and "Romeo and Juliet." Both of these productions are soon to be released in this section of the dominion. Mr. Crawford says that in no other city in the provinces has he seen so much enthusiasm shown over moving pictures as in Halifax. The people have figuratively gone crazy over the fine productions that are being screened there, and practically every theater displays the S. R. O. sign by eight o'clock.

Mutual Manager Kerr on Tour.

St. John, N. B.—Charles Kerr, local manager for the Mutual, is now on a ten days' tour through the three provinces. One feature that is being received by the exhibitors with much enthusiasm is "Youths' Endearing Charm" in which Mary Miles Minter is the star. It is to be seen soon in St. John at the Lyric.

Walter H. Golding Back from Bangor.

St. John, N. S.—Walter H. Golding has returned from Bangor, Maine, where he visited Stephen Boggart, manager of the Bijou, and conferred with H. L. Watkins, of the New York office of the United.

Fred G. Spencer Returns.

St. John, N. S.—Fred G. Spencer, who controls fourteen moving picture theaters in the provinces, has returned from a week's business trip to Halifax, N. S., and New York.

"Battle of the Somme" Here.

St. John, N. S.—Arrangements have already been completed for the first exhibition in Canada on Nov. 13th at the Imperial theater, St. John, of the massive production, "The Battle of the Somme." A special admission price of 25 cents will be charged. The picture is to open a two weeks' run in Halifax on the 20th.

Mitchell S. Bernstein Back.

St. John, N. B.—Mitchell S. Bernstein, the newly appointed manager of the St. John exchange of the Famous Players has returned from a trip through New Brunswick.

Closes "the Palace" for Winter.

St. Andrews, N. B.—H. W. Chase has closed his theater, "The Palace" for the winter season. This leaves the winter's patronage with the "Acme." St. Andrews is a thriving summer colony and both houses did a record business during the season just closed. Winter patronage does not warrant the maintenance of two houses.

Left to right: Manager S. W. Hand; W. H. O'Brien, M. H. Keleher, Salesmen; J. W. Allen Jr., New Bedford; J. C. Bullwinkle, Joseph Mack, Salesmen; Asst. Mgr. Gus. J. Schaefer and Mr. Phillips of Boston Herald.

PINE TREE STATE ITEMS.

By John P. Flanagan, 147 Park View Avenue, Bangor, Maine.

Bangor Has a Camera Man.

BANGOR, Me.—Bangor now feels that it is an up-to-date moving picture city, as it now possesses its first moving picture camera man, Daniel Maher, operator at the Park theater. Mr. Maher is to be the first film news correspondent in eastern Maine and with the co-operation of his friends the newspaper reporters, he will be in on the big events that happen here before the men from Boston and New York can reach here.

Goodwill Farm's Picture Show.

Waterville, Me.—The new auditorium of Goodwill Farm for boys at Hinckley, just above here, contains, among other modern improvements, a moving picture booth of the latest design. The floor seats 500 and the balcony 250.

New Fellsway Theater Organization.

Medford, Mass.—The Fellsway theater,

Medford, Mass., which was recently incorporated, has been leased by the Fellows Theatre Co., a Maine corporation, of which W. L. Tedbume is president, Richard W. Brown treasurer and clerk. The above with D. Webb Hobart constitute the board of directors and own most of all the stock.

It is the purpose to put on high class picture productions and concert work. The above named with others are owners of the new Warwick theater, now building, at Marblehead, Mass., and which is expected to open some time in December. The president's address is Hotel Lenox, and the treasurer's, 34 School street, both of Boston.

Detroit Business Notes.

By Jacob Smith.

Frank Powers, now managing the New Isis theater in Grand Rapids, writes us that the house is doing far better than was expected. Each day is getting better and the ultimate success of the Isis has already been assurred. "Its just a case of giving people a good show, conducting your house right and catering to their wants," he concludes.

Detroit will see the first Herbert Brennon production, starting November 5th at the Broadway-Strand. The attraction will be his first release, "War Brides," with Nazimova.

E. C. Jansen, special representative out of the New York office of the World Film Corporation, was a visitor in Detroit on October 23 and 24.

The Detroit office of the Paramount is working tooth and nail to win some of the money in the $2,500 prize contest now being conducted among the various exchanges. Chances look mighty good, especially in view of the increased bookings which have been made during the past three weeks. J. O. Brookes is manager of the Detroit exchange, while Will M Elliott is in charge of the publicity department.

The civic department of the Detroit Federation of Womens' Clubs has evolved a scheme whereby nearly 200 motion picture theaters may be visited by club women each week with the object in view of finding out which productions are desirable and which are undesirable. The object, says the chairman of the committee, is to eliminate objectionable films, and to find which theater managements are observing the law.

Parkway's Brilliant Anniversary

Baltimore Society Attends Special Birthday Performance at the Theater on West North Avenue—A Bower of Beauty with Chrysanthemums, Roses and Autumn Leaves—Flowers for 1,500 Ladies—Souvenirs and Program.

By J. M. Shellman, 1902 Mt. Royal Ter., Baltimore, Md.

BALTIMORE, Md., October 23rd, was the opening of the Parkway theater, 3-9 West North avenue, and all during last week a special performance for the celebration was used. This program is considered to be one of the best ever produced at the house. It opened with the showing of the "Beauty Spots of Baltimore," together with the playing of the national songs, then came a Keystone comedy, an orchestra recital, then "The Parkway Topical Review," then a harp solo, then the big D. W. Griffith feature "A Sister of Six," and during the short intermission an organ recital. On this day 1,500 roses were ordered by the management and one was presented to every lady patron who attended the performances. In addition to that a handsome souvenir in the form of a four-page booklet was presented with a cut of the interior of the house on the cover, a word of appreciation to its clientele and with the program for the week on the inside. The lobby, auditorium, tea room and stage were beautifully decorated with autumn leaves, chrysanthemums and palms and besides these flowers the tea room was a bower of roses on Monday night, when a special reception was held after the performance for sixty invited guests. At this reception a buffet luncheon was served and music was rendered by a stringed orchestra of six pieces. Many of Baltimore's most noted men and women attended, and the appearance of the lobby when visited by this writer about 9 o'clock seemed to resemble something that had been read about the first nights at the Parisian operas. At the curbing outside 26 limousines, touring cars and runabouts were banked and the thought came to us that how could any one use the word "movie" in connection with such dignity and such art as this.

Fire Destroys Cambridge Theater.

Cambridge, Md.—On Monday afternoon, October 23, the large Auditorium theater, located at Cambridge, Md., which was formerly used as a skating rink, but which was recently used for traveling shows and pictures, and which had a seating capacity of 1,000, was devastated by flames. A member of the Columbia Stock Company, which was engaged for the week, was nearly trapped in the dense smoke.

Nixon-Victoria Lease Filed.

Baltimore, Md.—On Friday, October 20, Cohen, Hartz & Gebhard leased the Victoria theater, 415 East Baltimore street, for a period of ten years, from October 1, 1916. According to the terms of the contract, $16,000 a year will be paid as rental and it is provided that the tenants will pay all taxes over the amount of assessment at the time the lease was made, which is $2,369.89.

Theater Ordinances Signed.

Baltimore, Md.—On Tuesday, October 24, Mayor Preston signed the two ordinances which have recently passed through the City Council, granting the permission to convert the old Casino building on North avenue at Charles street into a moving picture theater, and giving permission to the Southern Amusement Company to erect a photoplay theater on Light street, south of Poultney.

Party for Guy L. Wonders.

Baltimore, Md.—On Tuesday, October 17, Guy L. Wonders, manager of the Wilson theater, had a pleasant surprise awaiting him at his home, 1525 Linden avenue, after closing his theater. A number of film men were invited to the house by Mrs. Wonders to give her husband a party in honor of his birthday—which one Mr. Wonders refuses to state—and she had arranged a fine luncheon. Much speech making, singing and eating helped to make the boys enjoy themselves heartily. Among those present were: A. B. and E. R. Price, O. D. Weems, Solon Wonders and Harry Redisch.

"Youth's Endearing Charm" Liked.

Baltimore, Md.—A very complimentary letter was recently received by O. D. Weems, manager of the Mutual exchange in this city, from G. Horton Gaffney, manager and owner of the New Pickwick theater, 115 North Howard street, in which it is stated that when he ran the Mutual picture, "Youth's Endearing Charm," featuring Mary Miles Minter, he had received more favorable comments in regard to this picture over the phone from his patrons than he has for any picture he has screened for the past two months, and that it was a picture of which, he thought, the Mutual could be proud.

I. Ulman, of Salisbury, Visits.

Baltimore, Md.—I. Ulman, owner and manager of the first photoplay theater which was erected in Salisbury, Md., came to Baltimore last week to have a look around. Mr. Ulman states that business is going along at about normal. His theater is called the Ulman opera house and is located on the second floor and has a balcony.

L. H. Koch of Newport News Here.

Baltimore, Md.—L. H. Koch, proprietor of the Onyx theater in Newport News, Va., was a visitor in Baltimore last week and spent several days in the Monumental City. Numbered among the places he visited while here was the office of L. A. DeHoff at the New theater, with whom he had quite a lengthy chat upon various matters, filmwise and otherwise.

Film Bicycling Sure to Bring Trouble

Kansas City Film Salesman Has Little Trouble in Tracking a "Lost" Film and No Trouble at All in Getting It Back.

By Kansas City News Service.

Kansas City, Mo.—A Kansas City film salesman recently put a plug in a leak of films that will save various exchanges some money—and will, which is more important, protect the exhibitors of the district where the improper practice was being operated. Incidentally, he recovered for his exchange a picture that had been "lost" for six weeks, and informed other exchanges where some of their films were.

There has been more than one instance in the Western district during the past two years, in which an exhibitor has retained a picture beyond his contract, and leased it to other exhibitors. In most cases these were cheaper pictures, of the class that leases for a dollar a day; the exhibitor rented them for 50 cents a reel, or even less—it was all velvet for him. And since he simply refused to answer letters from the exchange, he didn't even pay his original contract of a dollar for the first day.

The assumption is that the exhibitor thought the exchange would never miss the picture, it being an older release, and at a cheap rental. There he was mistaken—for the exchanges are becoming more and more careful, with improved systems of bookkeeping. The traveling man had heard in the office that the last heard of a certain picture was in such and such a town. So he included this town in his itinerary. The exhibitor who was supposed to have the picture, denied that it was in his possession. But the traveler had done some detective work—he called up a nearby town, got on the line the exhibitor there who had subleased it, and found where the picture then was. And he went with the first exhibitor to recover it.

There wasn't any trouble—not much—in getting the films back. The exhibitor had very plainly misappropriated property that did not belong to him, and was leasing it without authorization, pocketing the money. A threat of replevin, and even further proceedings, was sufficient to secure the property.

The exhibitor will have difficulty in getting films from any exchange, for it is impossible to keep absolutely quiet the information as to his practice.

It is strange that any exhibitor could think he could "get away with" a plan of subleasing of this kind. The amount he could make out of the picture for himself is so small that it hardly seems worth risking so much for. It is, however, chiefly in the isolated districts that such incidents have arisen.

Eastern Pennsylvania Prospers

Not for Five Years Has Business Been So Good As Now—Big Features Are Doing Well and Runs Will Be Longer—Some Recent Hits—Annette Kellermann's Visit to Philadelphia—Other Notes of Interest.

From F. V. Armato, 144 North Salford Street, West Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa.—Eastern Pennsylvania is experiencing the greatest picture prosperity in the last five years. Especially does this obtain as to features of the first class which the big downtown theaters of Philadelphia book for one week stands, and the large neighborhood and suburban houses for three days. Philadelphia has been slow to accept the theory of long runs and a daily change of program is still considered necessary by many exhibitors. Today the signs are that pictures of real merit must be booked for more than one day if the exhibitor is to get their full patronage.

Selig's "The Ne'er Do Well" has forcibly demonstrated the value of long booking to many local exhibitors who were previously chary of risking the amount necessary to secure a booking of so much importance. "The Dumb Girl of Portici" made a successful circuit; "Manhattan Madness" did likewise, as did "The Common Law' 'and several other pictures.

The successful return engagement of "The Birth of a Nation" at a downtown theater, where it played a solid month, proved the same point, though it is admitted that this film has had the advantage of intensive advertising such as no other picture can boast. The rival productions of "Romeo and Juliet" by Fox and Metro and the Fox spectacle, "A Daughter of the Gods," have not as yet ended the "first run" stage, but it is safe to predict that they are good for "runs" almost anywhere in the local zone.

Such pictures as "The Battle Cry of Peace," "Hypocrites," "The Spoilers," "The Christian," "Carmen" and others, notably many Pickford releases, have played "runs," but it is only of late that enough exhibitors have awakened to the value of the "big" feature and so opened up a market here for pretentious productions.

Annette Kellermann Visits.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Annette Kellermann, the amphibious star, paid a flying visit to Philadelphia on Tuesday, October 23, as the guest of W. H. Taylor, special representative of the William Fox spectacle, "A Daughter of the Gods," playing to remarkable business at the Chestnut Street opera house. She managed to crowd a surprising number of activities into a few hours. A luncheon was given to her by Mr. Taylor at the Ritz-Carlton, which was attended by the dramatic and motion picture editors of the local newspapers. After lunch she visited for a few moments a Pure Food Show and then spent an hour witnessing the performance of Maud Allan, the classic dancer, who was giving a matinee at one of the local theaters. The crowning event of the day was a visit to the Chestnut Street opera house, where after the matinee of "A Daughter of the Gods" Miss Kellermann addressed an audience of women, many of them members of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, who were holding their annual meeting. Everywhere her appearance excited notable enthusiasm, especially at the theater. During the luncheon at the Ritz, Miss Kellermann talked freely of the thrilling experiences through which she passed in Jamaica, while "A Daughter of the Gods" was in the making.

Fox "Romeo and Juliet" Doing Big Business."

Philadelphia, Pa.—The William Fox production of "Romeo and Juliet" had its first showing in Philadelphia at the Broadway theater Monday, October 22, and has been doing remarkable business all week.

George Denbow, manager of the local Fox office, announces that he has already booked the picture in the following theaters: Broadway, Philadelphia; Nixon, Philadelphia; Colonial, Germantown; Hamilton, Lancaster; Lyric, Reading; Poli, Wilkes-Barre; Crandall, Washington; Blue Mouse, Baltimore, and a leading theater of Reading.

Metro "Romeo and Juliet" at the Victoria.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Frank Buhler, general manager of the Market Street Amusement Co., played Metro's presentation of "Romeo and Juliet," starring Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, for an entire week at the Victoria. Mr. Buhler was jubilant over the success of the picture, as he had spent nearly $1,000 in advance advertising. Advertisements covering nearly a quarter of a page were inserted in every Sunday newspaper, with the shrewd idea of attracting the serious public that patronize Shakespeare on the stage. The result vindicated Mr. Buhler's judgment, though it may be suspected that Mr. Bushman's feminine following helped to swell the crowds.

Abe L. Einstein Entertains.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Abe L. Einstein, head of the publicity department of the Stanley Booking Company, entertained a group of newspaper writers at a shore dinner on October 9. Abe was celebrating his birthday.

New Theater Opens at West Pittston.

West Pittston, Pa.—The Garden theater, a new and attractive motion picture house, opened last Wednesday evening, with an attendance that augurs success. The theater was constructed by the Unit-of Theaters Company, whose stock is largely in the hands of residents of this place. The house has a seating capacity of six hundred, is said to be absolutely fireproof, and is modern in every detail of construction. Charles L. Repass, the manager, is known as "a live wire" and a man who can show results. The company at present owns a chain of seven theaters in nearby territory and plans to build a chain of at least twenty houses.

They Wanted to See the Dragon.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Ed. Avelli, manager of Verdi hall, 711 Christian street, had some difficulty in explaining to several irate patrons why he did not show on the screen the big dragon displayed on a 24-sheet poster advertising "The Yellow Menace." However, he managed to explain to his alien patrons that the dragon did not have an important role in the picture, but was merely a symbol of China.

"Purity" Passed by Censors.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Leon D. Netter of the Masterpicture Feature Film Co. announced that "Purity" has now been passed by the Board of Censors to their satisfaction. It will be released and ready for booking after November 1.

Artcraft Color Scheme.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Conforming with Mary Pickford's ideas in color schemes, Boyd Cunningham, the local manager of the Artcraft Picture Corporation, at 1220 Vine street, Philadelphia, has employed light blue and grey decorating to offset the light woodwork of their large and roomy offices. Mr. Cunningham has booked their first release, "Less Than the Dust," to the Stanley theater for the week of November 6 and a week at the Palace, 1218 Market street, Belmont, West Philadelphia. The Alhambra and the Leader have given three days each.

A New Industrial Film Company.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Edw. Booth, formerly of the Lewis J. Selznick selling force, and Wm. Karrer, a pioneer of the film business, have formed a partnership to make industrial pictures. The yannounce that they will travel across the country in a high power car taking pictures for the various large firms when required.

J. Becker Takes Charge at Parkway.

West Philadelphia, Pa.—J. Becker has resumed the management of the Parkway theater in West Philadelphia, purchased by him recently. Mr. Becker is a clever showman and has had six years' experience in the picture business. He has two brothers, both local exhibitors, who are prospering in the picture business.

Eastern Pennsylvania Notes.

O. F. Bower, manager of the local Paramount, anticipates a prosperous season here. He announces that the new "Black Diamond" comedies, now being released, are booking rapidly and bid fair to become even more popular. He attributes their popularity to the fact that they are produced in Wilkes-Barre, in "our own territory, as it were."

The Spruce theater, 60th and Spruce streets, which has been closed during the summer, will reopen.

A Beautiful Roanoke Colored Theater

Work Has Been Started on the New Hampton Theater on High and Henry Streets—Details of an Attractive House—Men Behind It.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

ROANOKE, VA., October 25, 1916.—Ground has been broken at High and Henry streets as a first step toward the erection of a modern theater to be operated exclusively for colored people. This is to be known as the Hampton theater, named for the Hampton Industrial Institution.

The new building is to be of pressed brick, ornamented with magnificent marble trimmings. At the entrance a tiled floor will be laid. To the left will be located the president's office. This latter is to be enclosed in glass, giving him the opportunity of observing the interior of the building and to also supervise the work of the ushers and ticket-sellers.

The interior of the Hampton will be handsomely furnished and cushioned seats will be installed. There is also to be provided an asbestos drop curtain and appropriate scenery. Ventilation will be provided by a very modern system. The house is to have a balcony.

Tiffany Tolliver is the president of the company backing the proposition, the other officers being Green Penn, vice-president; Dr. E. D. Downing, secretary, and A. F. Brooks, treasurer. C. L. Andrews is named as manager.

It is claimed that the Hampton will prove to be the finest and largest colored amusement place in the south. The date for the opening has not been set, but the company hopes that the building will be in shape to be opened on or before December 1.

Motion picture features will be augmented by vaudeville. The house will be provided with a six-piece orchestra.

Local Theater Notes.

Washington, D. C.—H. E. Tracey, formerly connected with the Savoy theater, is now manager of the Carolina theater.

"Doc" Johnston is looking after the destinies of the Home theater, the house he assisted in organizing.

Sidney Lust Gets Selznick Films.

Washington, D. C.—Sidney B. Lust, proprietor of the New Film Corporation, is announcing the completion of arrangement under which he will market the Clara Kimball Young pictures, as well as all other of the Louis J. Selznick productions. These pictures will be handled by a corporation of which he is the secretary and manager; Harry M. Warner is the treasurer, and Mr. Selznick retains the presidency. It is said that a consideration of $60,000 is involved in this transaction, which contemplates a five-year franchise. Mr. Lust expects to market Nazimova in "The War Brides" within a very few weeks throughout this territory and he has already booked it for showing at a Ninth street theater for the week beginning November 25. He promises that when the first of the Clara Kimball Young pictures are shown in this city, he will bring that very popular star to Washington and hold a reception for her, to which all exhibitors and exchangemen in this territory will be invited.

Posters Hung From a Rock.

Washington, D. C.—Fritz B. Wathne, manager of the International Film Service in this city, has got away from a clumsy practice of laying out posters. He has a framework, and from this he has wires running to the wall six feet or more distant. When the six-sheets are mounted, large eyelets are riveted into each of the two upper corners and into these S-hooks are inserted. These hooks are looped over the wire and when a customer wants to see samples of the posters he is conducted to the rack and the different ones are brought into view by pushing them along the wire. The wire is kept taught by means of turnbuckles. Running at right angles to the six-sheet frame is another for the display of three-sheets.

Mr. Wathne has his large posters all mounted on a heavy wrapping paper at a saving over canvas of four cents a sheet. He has found that the life of a six-sheet is too limited to warrant the use of canvas. When the poster on display has served its purpose it is removed to make room for new paper, so that those of the latest releases are always on the line. The work of putting up the frame was done in the shipping department and the cost of the materials was very nominal.

Carl F. Senning in New York.

Washington, D. C.—Carl F. Senning, manager of the local office of the Fox Film, has gone to New York to participate in the convention of Fox managers coming from all parts of the United States. Headquarters are being maintained at the Biltmore Hotel. During his absence, the local office will be in charge of Miss Mary M. Jeffries, a very capable young film woman.

Get-Together of Exchange Men

Washington, D. C., Film Exchange Managers Meet at a Dinner at the Press Club—Committee Appointed to Form New Organization—Topics That Interested the Gathering—Next Meeting Scheduled for November 6.

By Clarence L. Linz, 622 Riggs Building, Washington, D. C.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The film exchange managers of Washington, D. C., participated in a banquet meeting staged at the National Press Club by Clarence L. Linz, Washington correspondent of the Moving Picture World, which is declared to have been one of the most successful events in the history of the craft of the National Capital. The managers gathered together in the lonnging room of the club and, after waiting the usual time for the delinquents, proceeded to the grill room, where preparations had been made in advance of their coming. The table was attractively decorated with a huge bunch of Johann Mock roses bearing a card "To Clarence L. Linz and the Washington Exchangemen, with wishes of success. Gude Bros. Co."

Before proceeding to dispose of the good things that the waiters were ready to place before them, J. H. Butner was selected as toastmaster. Before the dinner was half over the word "toastmaster" was changed by acclaim to "chairman," for right then and there the managers decided to reorganize the old association and to start the coming year with one that would be better able to bring about efficiency in the business as a whole in this territory generally.

Perhaps the most important topic discussed was that of the new film exchange building, for each of the managers is wondering what is going to happen if the district commissioners accept the recommendations made by the fire marshal which would necessitate the erection of a film exchange building to house all of them. All agreed that it would be an excellent thing if not attended by a "hold-up" and if the exchanges were not compelled to enter into a long lease. There was a feeling that if the matter became too "strenuous" there would be a general exodus of exchanges to Baltimore and it is not very likely that the Chamber of Commerce and the Board of Trade would look with favor upon such a movement as this.

Next in importance was the problem of express charges and service. It was a general consensus of opinion that Washington should have an owl service with a collection at night that would guarantee delivery to the trains destined to southern points. As usual, there were many complaints of delayed C. O. D.'s, to say nothing of dilatory practices in the settlement of claims. There were other questions along the same line taken up, some of which are to be referred to the home offices of the exchanges, with the recommendation that they be further taken up with the heads of the express companies.

Committee on New Organization.

At the suggestion of Chairman Butner, there was appointed a committee consisting of H. C. Wales, of the World Film; D. F. O'Donnell, of Pathe, and E. G. Evans, of the Mutual, to bring in recommendations as to the form that the new organization shall take. These gentlemen will also be the members of a nominating committee to make suggestions as to the officers to serve for the first year.

Carl F. Senning, of the Fox Film, eulogized the late J. Leo Yates. He spoke of him as a man who always did his part in making things easier for his fellows and who would always do all that he could to further the best interests of the film business. Mr. Senning, with C. R. Milliman of the Universal, were appointed as a committee to draft suitable resolutions to be presented to the widow of the deceased. G. R. Mayo and N. H. Spitzer, of the Hy Art Masterplays Company, made their "debut" into "film society," for they, with Mr. Milliman, are newcomers in the film game in Washington. Mr. Mayo promised his co-operation towards perfecting organization. Mr. Spitzer gave an interesting account of how the exchange managers in Kansas City had been brought together in a similar manner.

Fritz B. Wathne, of the International, was chief entertainer of the evening and he put home some good shots in a humorous vein and there was considerable friction between him and his side-partner, H. C. Wales, as to who would be the most successful in keeping things humming throughout the evening.

Sidney B. Lust, of the New Film, gave some very illuminating views on the subject of "Purity" and local suppression. R. Berger, of K-E-S-E, Inc., offered some valuable suggestions as to how to curb some of the evils incident to the transportation of motion picture films.

Meet Again November 6.

It was at the suggestion of D. F. O'Donnell that these meetings be continued on a permanent basis, urging at the same time that in the organization of a club of this nature care should be taken that there be not too many rules and regulations for the guidance of the members that would in the end result in disorganization. It was, therefore, agreed that the next meeting of the exchange managers be held at the same place, on Monday evening, November 6, 1916, the meeting to be called at eight o'clock, and the suggestion is made at this time that he who misses the next meeting will have missed something very much worth while.

Regrets were received from William Mack, L. M. Day and Frank B. Spurrier, all of whom were called out of town, and from George Mann.

Loew's Columbia Has Celebration.

Washington, D. C.—Lawrence Beatus recently celebrated the first anniversary of Loew's Columbia theater. The Columbia, prior to Mr. Loew's advent in Washington, played high-class road attractions. It was made a photoplay house by Manager Mann, of the Paramount, and it was proven beyond a doubt that pictures would be a paying proposition in the Columbia and would draw for its patronage from the class of people who had formerly looked down upon pictures.

Start Campaign Against Local Bad Checks

Exchange Managers and Exhibitors Will Be Helped by Retail Merchants in Collecting—An Attempt to Stop the Practice.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Exchange managers and exhibitors of Washington upon whom bad checks have been passed will now receive the co-operation of the Retail Merchants' Association. This organization has issued the following notice to business men and to the general public:

"Business men of Washington and the public generally are urged to send in the names and addresses of all those who have given bad checks, together with the amount, and the name of the bank on which they were given.

"This information is desired for use in the bad check campaign of the Retail Merchants' Association.

"All information thus gathered will be held in the strictest confidence, and when desired collections will be made, if possible, or prosecution will be brought."

It is said that since the association started this campaign it has been very much surprised at the developments. It has two cases in hand at the present time which will probably go to prosecution. The district attorney's office is taking an active interest in the matter and is aiding the association as much as possible.

The investigation has also developed remarkable examples of check kiting. All cases brought to the attention of the association are investigated and in all probability some startling news will be forthcoming within a very short while.

Washington exchange managers have considerable opportunity to complain from time to time of the return to them of checks given by exhibitors in this territory, bearing the stamp "Insufficient funds" or other phrase having the same or a very similar meaning. Naturally, they welcome the news.

Enterprise Amusement to Build

New Pittsburgh House to Be Built at 1714-1720 Center Avenue—Will Cost $60,000 and Will Embody All the Newest Ideas—Company Now Operates Four Theaters—New House to Take Place of the Victoria.

From Pittsburgh News Service, 6016 Jenkins Arcade, Pittsburgh, Pa.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The Enterprise Amusement Company, of Pittsburgh, have announced that they will add a beautiful new theater to their chain of four houses in this district. Plans are being prepared for a large, up-to-date house at 1714-1720 Center avenue. Louis O. Brosie is the architect. This company now operates with much success the Victoria theater in the same locality. The lease on the Victoria expires next spring and the new house will likely be named the New Victoria. It will have a seating capacity of 1,000 and the bleacher arrangement will be used. The construction and equipment of the house will embody the best ideas carried out in the other Enterprise theaters, and the builders will try to set a new high standard in their latest project. The structure will measure 60 by 100 feet, and four storerooms will front on Center avenue. The total cost will be about $60,000. The work is to be started within the next seven weeks, as it is planned to have the house ready for opening in the spring. Mark Browarsky is manager of the Enterprise Amusement Company, now operating the Orpheum, Squirrel Hill; the Rex, East Liberty; the New Regent, 1600 Fifth avenue, and the Victoria, Center avenue.

The Two Romeo's in Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—Just now there is spirited rivalry between the Metro and Fox exchanges, due to the releasing almost simultaneously, of the two "Romeo and Juliet" productions. General Manager Skirboll, of the Metro, reports the demand for the Metro superfeature so great that seven prints will have to be used in the Pittsburgh office alone. The picture has been booked by the Pitt theater, Penn avenue and Seventh street, and by the other leading houses in the Pittsburgh district and nearby cities. It will be shown here soon.

Manager Eckhardt, of the Fox branch, states that a record-breaking business is expected on "Romeo and Juliet" and that most of his patrons are doubling their usual runs on the film, which is being released on the regular program. The Olympic theater, Fifth avenue, put on the Fox picture a week to capacity crowds, while the East Liberty Cameraphone ran it four days with equal success.

Art Dramas, Inc., Locally Represented.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Liberty Film Renting Company, sixth floor, Film Exchange building, Pittsburgh, will be the representatives in this territory for the new Art Dramas, Inc., who are preparing to launch a feature program soon. Manager Mayer Silverman states that arrangements are progressing well and he expects to announce all details here within the next ten days. One big subject is to be released weekly.

L. W. Loranger With Famous.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—L. W. Loranger, formerly with the Casino Feature Film Company, Detroit, Mich., was recently appointed special traveling representative of the Pittsburgh office of the Famous Players service.

The entire Rowland & Clark chain of theaters in Pittsburgh have booked the Vim comedies of the General Film.

Pittsburgh, Pa.—The Pittsburgh branch of the International service reports the booking of all the Golden Eagle features by the Strand theater, Erie, Pa., a 1,000-seat house, and one of the finest in northern Pennsylvania. The Curtis scenic films, released by the International, are also being run at the Strand.

KENTUCKY NOTES.

Mother Goose Film by Edison Coming.

Louisville, Ky.—Mrs. Frederic Levy, originator of the movement in Louisville for special pictures for children, after working on plans for a year or more to get producing companies to make special nursery pictures for children, is greatly pleased with action taken by the Thomas A. Edison Co., of Orange, N. J. "An Hour With Mother Goose," an amateur play produced at the Louisville Boy's high school last year, was written by Miss Myrtle Sproule, principal of the Kentucky-street school, and the scenario was submitted to the Edison company. The latter concern has just notified Miss Sproul of the acceptance of the play. Manager Lee Goldberg, of the Mary Anderson theater, Louisville, who has been one of the leaders in the movement, has announced that he will apply for the privilege of showing this film for the first time in Louisville.

Louisville News Notes.

H. B. Strube, head of the Empire Amusement Co., recently spent a few days in Cincinnati on a combined business and pleasure trip, the pleasure end being related to watching the wind-up of the fall racing season at the Latonia.

Joe Hebbert, of the Unicorn Film Co., out of Indianapolis, Ind., was in the city recently with a "Billy West," picture said to contain a good impersonation of Chaplin.

Charles Pressy, head of the S. & P. Film & Supply Co., is back in the city after having been on the road for nearly eight months with his park concession business.

The Owl Feature Film Co., recently closed a deal with Joe Schnitzer, of Indianapolis, Ind., for several hundred reels of film to be used by the local company.

The Central Film Service Co. has made a number of improvements in its local office, including the installation of two large metal film cabinets for storing reels, each having a capacity of 200 reels. A large storage cabinet has also been erected for carrying paper, the local office having been very busy since the recent consolidation with the local Universal office. Over thirty new accounts in the smaller cities came over with the consolidation.

Theaters Consolidate in Fulton.

Fulton, Ky.—Finding that there was not enough business to warrant the operation of two picture theaters, the Rex and the Orpheum have consolidated, the Rex to be closed, and the Orpheum operated under the old title. Mr. Mobley, who has been with the Rex, is now with the Orpheum, where he will assist Manager Chrisholm. The house is now running three serials, these being "Gloria's Romance," "Peg of the Ring," and "The Secret of the Submarine."

Bowling Green's Strand to Open.

Bowling Green, Ky.—The Strand theater which has been closed for several months will be re-opened about November 15, the house now being in the hands of the decorators who are giving it a thorough overhauling. The theater will be opened when the lease on the Elite theater expires, that building having been leased by a bakery concern.

Gem Theater to Be Auctioned Off.

Maysville, Ky.—Lawyers representing the creditors of the defunct Gem theater, which has been in bankruptcy for several weeks, have practically closed arrangements whereby the theater will be reopened for a run of a few weeks, after which time it will be sold to satisfy claims of the general creditors. It is proposed to offer the house at public auction on November 25 if present plans are carried out.

Atlanta News Letter

By A. M. Beatty, 43 Copenhill Ave., Atlanta, Ga.

Atlanta Screen Club's Benefit.

ATLANTA, Ga.—The Atlanta Screen Club gave a benefit performance Sunday at the Piedmont theater for the charity fund of the club, which will be used in aiding the poor Thanksgiving and Christmas.

The performance began at 1 o'clock and continued until 10.30. Crowds attended.

Walk Out of Musicians.

Atlanta, Ga.—The musicians at the Piedmont theater, Atlanta, walked out just before the first performance Monday afternoon. An orchestra was secured before the first night performance, and the two Monday evening shows were given. A disagreement over the term of a contract was given as the cause.

New Attractions De Luxe, Inc.

Atlanta, Ga.—Attractions De Luxe, Inc., is the name of a new corporation whose charter was granted by Judge Bell, Wednesday morning, Oct. 25. William Oldknow, C. R. Beacham and W. H. Heyward filed the petition for charter for the new company, which is to deal with all phases of the moving picture industry. Capital stock of the company was named at $20,000, which is to be divided into shares with par value at $100.

"Daughter of the Gods" at the Pitt

Big Fox Spectacle Opened on October 25 at the Beautiful Penn Avenue House—The Star Present in Person.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—The great Annette Kellermann spectacle, "A Daughter of the Gods," produced by William Fox, opened at the Pitt theater, Penn avenue and Seventh street, Pittsburgh, Wednesday evening, October 25, and the event was a memorable one in local exhibiting history. The big theater was packed, every seat having been sold days in advance. Manager Patch outdid himself in the beautiful arrangement of decorations throughout the house and the elaborate stage settings that formed a fitting background for the lavish production itself. A ballet of dancers was used with pleasing effect. The Pitt theater symphony orchestra of forty musicians, directed by the composer of the score, Robert Hood Bowers, rendered a perfect musical accompaniment. The crowning interest of the Pittsburgh premier was the presence of Miss Annette Kellermann in person, who spoke briefly between the first and second acts. She was given a splendid ovation and was made the recipient of a beautiful floral tribute. William Fox was also present. The run of "A Daughter of the Gods" at the Pitt will continue for several weeks, with two performances daily. The initial triumph of the picture indicates that all previous attendance records of the Pitt will be broken.

Paul Engler With K-E-S-E.

Atlanta, Ga.—Paul Engler, a popular Atlanta film man, is now in the employ of the K-E-S-E Corporation, as traveling representative.

Prize Corn Growers Attend Show

Atlanta, Ga.—As a courtesy to the visiting members of the boys' corn clubs and the girls' canning clubs, attending their yearly convention, at the Southeastern Fair, the Criterion, Georgian, Piedmont and Grand motion picture houses admitted free to their performances on Wednesday and Thursday all members of the clubs; some of the boys and girls from the mountain sections, through the courtesy of the Atlanta managers saw their first motion picture.

I. A. Burdette Takes Over M. P. Co.

Atlanta, Ga.—Irvin A. Burdette, who has been with the Scenic film company for a number of months, has secured control of the Atlanta branch of the Motion Pictures Company of America, and will completely reorganize it.

Community Has More to Say Than Parents.

Swainsboro, Ga.—That the rule preventing pupils from attending moving picture shows on school nights is a reasonable one, was the decision of Judge R. N. Hardman of the superior court at Swainsboro, Ga., Monday. An injunction had been sought by some of the parents.

Does It Pay to Lend Theaters to Politicians

M. L. Woods, Jamestown, N. Y., Exhibitor, Says No—Found Four Years Ago That the Practice Did More Harm Than Good.

By Joseph McGuire, 5 Lewis Bldg., Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Should an exhibitor comply with the requests of political parties to use his theater during the stress of a presidential election? If this question were put to M. L. Woods, of Woods and Peterson, who conduct the Winter Garden and Mozart moving picture theaters of Jamestown, N. Y., he would emphatically reply in the negative. Mr. Woods was recent visitor in Buffalo.

"Four years ago we permitted the various parties to run political slides and have speakers at our Mozart theater," said Mr. Woods. "Our purpose was to please everybody and create a good feeling. However, the very reverse of this condition was the result. The political speeches stirred up strife and confusion, and attracted the attention of our regular patrons from the screen. This effect was detrimental to business, so that this year, when the political leaders asked us for the privilege of making speeches and using slides in our Winter Garden theater, we considered it the best policy to turn them down."

Mr. Woods and his partner have conducted the Winter Garden for three years, and the Mozart for seven.

The Winter Garden is regularly a ten and fifteen cent house, but Tuesdays, when the bill has extra attractions, the prices are advanced to twenty and thirty cents. Mr. Woods says that the admission may be even raised to twenty-five and thirty-five cents. The Mozart is a ten cent house.

"We send out 100 window cards advertising our Winter Garden attractions," said Mr. Woods. "These cards are distributed not only in Jamestown, but in the surrounding towns, and they bring good results."

An interesting point in human nature is that the passes given out in return for the display of the cards are nearly all brought to the theater on Tuesdays, when the shows are the biggest and the prices are advanced.

Albert Teschemacher to Book for Pathe.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Albert Teschemacher has taken a position as booker with the Pathe, Buffalo. He was bookkeeper, cashier and later booker at the Mutual office, this city, for four years and a half.

Unicorn Office Moves to West Swan St.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Unicorn office has been moved from 39 Erie street, to 23 West Swan street, Buffalo. The new manager is Harry Somerville, who formerly managed the Family and other theaters in this city. Charles H. Barolet, division manager of the Unicorn, was a caller at the local office.

"To meet a heavy demand for comedies," said Mr. Barolet, "we have just added a special subject, 'His Married Life,' featuring Billy West. We are having public screenings of this film. We are giving free to all our customers a full reel, with posters, entitled, 'A Day with Governor Whitman.' C. A. Saunders, in charge of our Albany office, reports a satisfactory business."

Harold Hughes to Visit Western New York.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Harold Hughes, who opened the Hughes Feature Film Service, Buffalo, will call shortly on the exhibitors of Western New York. Mr. Hughes is located at 23 West Swan street.

The Popular Exchange Moves to Chapin

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Popular film exchange has moved its offices from 23 West Swan street to the former exclusive office in the Chapin block, Buffalo.

Heralds in Three Languages.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—Heralds printed in the Italian, Polish and English languages are distributed by Tony Travis, proprietor of the Columbus moving picture theater, Niagara Falls. Mr. Travis was a recent visitor in Buffalo. He has a five cent house located in a district thickly populated with a foreign population. His patrons have plenty of work these days, and his theater is nearly always crowded.

"My audiences are fond of action and show a preference to Western shows," said Mr. Travis.

Ithaca's New Cresent to Open.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Fred B. Howe and John B. Howe will open the new Crescent theater in Ithaca in a few days.

New Ithaca Theater.

Ithaca, N. Y.—Dillon Bros., of Courtland, will open their new moving picture theater in Ithaca about January 1st. The house will seat 1,500.

New Watertown House.

Watertown, N. Y.—Work on the new moving picture theater being built in Watertown, N. Y., by James P. Papayanakos is progressing. This exhibitor has the Wonderland and Lyric theater in the city.

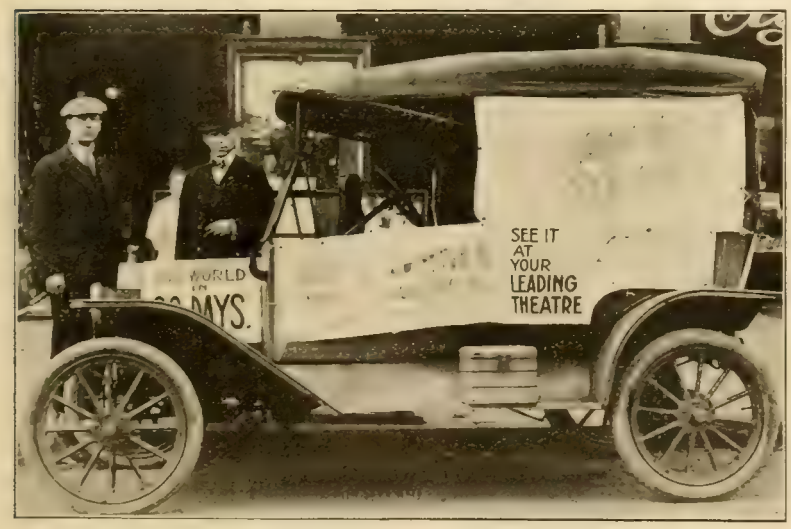
Made Money With Picture Shows on Border

Dave Edel Back at Buffalo Strand—Opened Three Picture Shows Near Texan Camps and Had Some Interesting Experiences.

BUFFALO, N. Y.—Dave Edel, drummer at the Strand theater, Buffalo, has returned from the Mexican border, where he had some interesting experiences in the moving picture business. Mr. Edel opened three temporary houses at different points. The cost of his mushroom theaters was kept down to rock bottom, and on account of the excellent patronage he received from the American soldiers, he was able to close the houses with substantial profits. The closing was caused by the withdrawal of troops from the points where he was located. Mr. Edel couldn't keep down his aspirations to have a real orchestra in one of his short-lived houses. He therefore scoured a Massachusetts regiment in his vicinity for talent and was able to get five good musicians who had played in "Bean town" high school and college orchestras. Of course Mr. Edel himself played the drums.

"The orchestra was such a hit," said Mr. Edel, "that it nearly caused a riot, and one day our receipts were increased $40 on account of the music."

Mr. Edel is now in the orchestra of the Strand, Buffalo, of which Earl L. Crabb is manager. Ever since the opening of the Strand, Mr. Edel's skill as a drummer there has attracted wide attention. Dave Edel is a brother of Harold Edel of the Strand theater, New York City. A report from Nogales says that a theater opened there by the young drummer has been taken over by the Mexicans.



Sherman Webster of Rogson Film Co. on Tour of New York State Boosting "Around the World in Eighty Days."

New Orleans—Its Picture Trade

A Good Patron City with High Daily Attendance for Its Population—Many Visitors Who Take in the Picture Shows—Suburban Theaters Doing Well—Some Interesting Local Statistics.

NEW ORLEANS, La.—According to one of the best informed and most conservative statisticians in the film business in this city, New Orleans is the best motion picture center from the standpoint of daily theater attendance in the United States, population considered. It is a tourists' town, and the floating population does much toward keeping the downtown theaters well-filled at all hours of the day. And, until quite recently, "Canal street" has been regarded as the thermometer of the business, not only for the city but for the towns in a wide territory as well. If a picture got over well on Canal street, it was enough, outside exhibitors booked it without question. If a picture had no Canal street record, it was regarded with suspicion. Recent events, however, have materially changed this attitude of the smaller exhibitors. The marked success of the Triangle theater, and the promotion of the new Strand theater by some of the most substantial financial interests of the city, have rather dimmed the old-time glamour of the Canal street houses although these new enterprises have not materially lessened the volume of their business. They have simply compelled a brightening up which may regarded as a good thing all around.

Beyond this, the picture-loving people of the city are blessed with a large number of substantial suburban houses. No other city of like size has so many of these little theaters. Nearly all of them have secured a substantial and a loyal clientele. They foster the neighborhood spirit which the wise exhibitor is not slow in turning to his benefit. And they help the picture business immensely. The feature releases and the stars become subjects of daily discussion. The daily newspapers are closely scanned for announcements of the coming of the favorites, and the wise exhibitor has his work cut out for him. These suburban theaters draw a daily attendance of 32,000 patrons in round numbers, and on Sundays the figures are swelled to slightly over 50,000. The downtown theaters show greater fluctuation in attendance, but the conservative estimate puts the week-day figure at 40,000, while on Sunday it mounts to over 60,000. The people of New Orleans and their visitors spend just about $1,500,000 for picture show admissions in the year, and this does not take into account special features at advanced prices.

Strand to Be Ready in February.

New Orleans, La.—Work on the new Strand theater is being pushed with all the haste, consistent with substantial building. The steel is being placed, and it is the intention to have the house ready for business early in February. Commissioner Newman, one of the projectors, is developing great enthusiasm for the enterprise, and he announces that the Strand will be one of the best appointed houses in the entire South.

No More Shows on Church Property.

New Orleans, La.—The Archbishop of this diocese promulgated a ruling, effective October 1, which sounded the death knell for motion picture theaters on church property, and several of the theaters in this section have been compelled to close and seek other quarters. This action was not taken because of any animosity toward photoplays as an institution, for that they were allowed to start is evidence of the kindly feeling which existed toward them. Of course a close scrutiny was kept on all of the releases in order that objectional features might be eliminated, but notwithstanding this precaution, it was found that frequently bits would appear in the best of subjects that caused adverse comment. The releases of one or two of the prominent producers were absolutely barred from these theaters, and still the danger was not entirely eliminated. At last the general order was issued. Among the most popular theaters that have been affected was the Mater Dolorosa, which boasted a select patronage, and afforded entertainment to a large clientele in the most aristocratic section of the city.

New Morgan City Theater.

Morgan City, La.—Manager H. D. Davis is putting the finishing touches on the new and modern photoplay theater which he expects to open for business within two weeks. It is to be a first-class theater in every respect. It will have a seating capacity of 600, and the equipment is to be of the latest pattern. Manager Davis has just returned from New Orleans where he was arranging his program which will be of feature releases almost exclusively. The seating will consist of upholstered opera chairs, thoroughly renovated, which have been doing service in the Tulane theater in New Orelans.

Two Romeos and Two Juliets.

New Orleans, La.—When two good theaters book the same special attraction made by rival producers, and open the initial showing of these attractions on the same date, there is naturally some lively business. At least it was so demonstrated when Pearce's Tudor theater put on the Metro spectacular seven-reel feature, "Romeo and Juliet," with Bushman and Bayne, and Miller's Empire began the showing of the Fox feature of the same title, featuring Theda Bara and Harry Hilliard, both shows beginning on Sunday, October 22. The Metro feature had been booked for exhibition on October 29, but when Fox made the flash for his release on October 22, there was some quick arrangements of bookings, and Manager Bugbee of the Metro was able to meet his competitor on even date. It made competition lively, but it gave both of the productions all the advertising they would stand.

The Mobile, Ala., Exhibitor and His Problems

Finds Plenty of Difficulties—Only Brain Work Keeps Him Prosperous, So He Is of a High Type and Progressive.

MOBILE, ALA.—Motion picture exhibitors hereabouts have not had the most rosy time for the past few months because of the interposition of events over where they have had no control. First came the European war and the consequent disruption of shipping, not that there was not an abundance of desirable material to be shipped, but the demand for bottoms to be used in the transportation of more essential commodities than lumber, which is the chief export from this port, was so great that vessels naturally sought the better cargoes with the result that business slackened, and with the reduced earnings of the wage-worker, there was a corresponding diminution in attendance at places of amusement.

Then came the severe tropical storm that did so much damage, and the city is just recovering from its ravages. However, it is worthy of note that on the day following the storm, when the entire city was in chaos, and the damage had not been approximately estimated, the picture shows were the only concerns that were opened for business, and, still more surprising, was the fact that the theaters were well filled during that time. It is a strange commentary on human nature that in times of dire distress, it should turn to pleasure as a diversion. It may be that the relaxation thus afforded prevented the break when men's minds were strained almost to the limit of endurance. In any event, the motion picture theaters took a brave stand against disaster, and they have been running ever since.

The Local Picture Theaters.

There are four theaters for whites now in operation, and there are also four theaters for negroes. The Crown, under the management of J. C. King, is the largest theater in the city with a seating capacity of 700. The Empire is a close second with 600 seats, and Manager William Luckel reports a good patronage under the present business conditions. I. J. Fienkel seats 250 in his Crescent theater, and the Queen, under the management of J. L. Speith, has room for 200. In addition to these four places of amusement the Dreamland runs a mixed program of pictures and vaudeville, and does an excellent business. The Royal theater is the only one that is not operating and its suspension is due more to the ambition of its manager than to his lack of enterprise. The Royal was doing a good business as a jitney house, and was presenting some very creditable second-run programs, but the desire of the operators to give the public something better, caused a change to higher-priced first-run features, and the load was evidently too heavy. At least that is the reason ascribed for the closing of the house. Later attempts to resume under the old policy were met with conditions in the film market that precluded the successful realization of the plan, therefore the Royal has been closed for the past three months.

Enterprise of Local Exhibitors.

Perhaps one of the reasons for the comparatively satisfactory business that is bestowed upon the Mobile motion picture theaters is that the managers spare no expense to give their patrons the best and newest releases, and that too in the face of adverse conditions. It is worthy of note that one of the Mobile theaters exhibited E. H. Sothern in "The Chattel," days before that feature was presented in New Orleans, and New Orleans is supposed to be the N'Yark of the film business in the South. The same is true of Charlie Chaplin in "The Pawnshop." In both instances the enterprising Mobile managers had the satisfaction of playing to capacity business and at advanced prices. It behooves the Alabama exhibitor to look out for the best that is going, and to make the most of every opportunity, for if he don't watch out, the tax collector will get him. Alabama heard something about putting on "all the traffic will bear" when it went about it to levy a tax on motion picture houses. On theaters of 500 or more seats the state tax is $400. Just to show that the state does not believe in Sunday desecration, it makes the $400 tax for six days' run, but if the manager wants to open his theater on Sunday, he must pay $200 additional annually. Then along comes the municipality with a legal permit to levy a local tax on the theater, which in Mobile, is 50 per cent. of the state tax. The tax is gradually lessened for theaters of smaller seating capacity, but it is enough in all cases.

No Rosy Bed of Ease.

It can readily be seen that the Mobile exhibitor must be a natural born optimist. He must be devoid of trust-magnate instincts, and nobody can accuse him of covetousness and furnish any concrete evidence to substantiate the claim. Nevertheless the Mobile exhibitors are a clever and hopeful company of gentlemen. They make the best of any condition with which they find themselves confronted. They study the film problems of the day, and the whim problems of their patrons. They make every endeavor to please the masses, and are content if they but measurably succeed in this endeavor. They dignify the motion picture business.

Metro Comedy Wins a Cup.

New Orleans, La.—Several weeks ago the New Orleans Press Club, at one of their regular functions, put on a novel entertainment. Each of the film exchange managers in the city was invited to exhibit a two-reel comedy, and the most of them responded to the invitation. The rivalry was spirited, but none the less friendly. At the close of the entertainment a rising vote was taken to determine which exhibitor had shown the best film. The vote was close — very close. Indeed it was whispered that the chairman, who may have been a little near-sighted in the darkened room, counted the shadow of one of the voters who stood near the wall and thus tipped the balance in favor of Karl A. Bugbee of the Metro exchange. Anyhow Bugee was the winner and the other exchange men were free in their congratulations, because they knew they had been in a race. Last week a committee from the Press Club invaded Mr. Bugbee's office and presented him with a silver loving cup in token of their appreciation of his aid in making the entertainment a success, and of the high character of the comedy film that won in such a good company. The loving cup now graces Manager Bugbee's desk.

First Prize Won by a Metro Comedy.

Paducah Star's Business Pleased Owners

Seats Only 450 and Runs Only Six Days—Charges Ten Cents for the Usual Programs and Gets Twenty-five Cents for Special Nights.

By Ohio Valley News Service, 1404 Starks building, Louisville, Ky.

PADUCAH, Ky.—Joe Desberger, of Desberger Brothers, operators of the New Star theater, is very much pleased with results obtained by the new house in the few weeks that it has been in operation. With a seating capacity of 470, and playing six days a week, the concern is making money, but, unlike conditions in most of the smaller cities in Kentucky, this house is getting fifteen to twenty-five cents for all of its good features, including Pickfords, Clarks, Youngs, Chaplins, Pearsons, Sweets, Baras, etc. No show is for less than ten cents, and by getting higher prices for the better shows the management has created a demand for high class features until to-day people are calling up and asking when a good feature is coming. In fact the higher priced films are the ones which are bringing attendence as well as shekels. While there is no real law against operating theaters in Paducah on Sunday, public sentiment has been so strong against it that the exhibitors have tactfully operated but six days for a year or two.

Strand, Owned by Masons, to Be Sold.

Louisville, Ky.—The Strand theater was recently closed for several days during the annual session of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Masons, owners of the building, who reserved the right to use the auditorium during the annual session. At this meeting it was decided that the building would be sold as soon as a purchaser could be found, the property being valued at about $250,000. Whether the building is sold or not will not affect the theater, probably, the Chestnut Street Amusement Company having a lease on the property. The shows started again following the wind-up of the annual sessions, "The Return of Eve," featuring the reopening of the house.

H. R. Galloway Posters All Right.

Frankfort, Ky.—Pictures of water nymphs in front of the moving picture theater of H. R. Calloway, Frankfort, have passed the censorship of three courts, the Court of Appeals having affirmed judgment of the Franklin Circuit Court, acquitting Calloway, the final opinion being by Chief Justice Miller. Calloway was first haled into the police court, where the warrant was dismissed. Appeal was then taken to the circuit court where a favorable decision was obtained. Attorneys Guy H. Briggs and Ben G. Williams testified that they saw the pictures and were not shocked, nor did they regard the posters as lewd and immoral.

Invited the Whole Lodge to See Show.

Louisville, Ky.—Adrian C. Humphries, manager of the new Strand theater, has worked out something new hereabouts in that he has undertaken to build up business through getting the members of certain lodges and their families interested in the shows. Through Beckham Overstreet, deputy grand master of the Home Lodge of Oddfellows, Manager Humphries recently arranged for a big theater party of the lodgemen and their wives, and tickets were mailed to every member and their families, there being about 400 membrs in all. Edna Mayo, in "The Return of Eve," was the feature, while a special one-reel of "American Fashions," was run for the special entertainment of the ladies present. The performance was well attended.

Alhambra Theater Co. Buys the Opera House.

Richmond, Ky.—In connction with the recent sale of the Richmond opera house by W. P. Baxter to the operators of the Alhambra theater, an erroneous report got out to the effect that the house was purchased by the Colonial Amusement Co., of Lexington, Ky., which owned the Alhambra. In reality both houses are now operated by the Alhambra Theater Co., several of the stockholders of which are also stockholders in the Colonial Amusement Co. The Alhambra Theater Co. is incorporated with a capital stock of $27,500, the controlling interest being held by Miss Annabel Ward, who is general manager of the merged houses. Her associates are J. B. Eliott, president; B. J. Treacy, secretary-treasurer; Mayor Rogers, and several other Lexington business men.

New Albany Furnishings Sold for $286.

Louisville, Ky.—L. Grauman & Co., of this city, dealers in second hand office and other furniture, recently purchased at public auction from F. W. Sauer, receiver, the entire equipment of the New Albany Theater Co., consisting of scenery, seats, fixtures, etc., used in the house on Market, near Bank street. The purchase price was $286, and the local company runs a good chance to show a profit on the investment, the furnishings being valued at several times this figure.

Switow's Shows for Children.

Louisville, Ky.—M. Switow, head of the Switow Amusement Co., of Louisville, has made arrangements to show special pictures for children in his Jeffersonville, Ind., house, this action being taken in response to a movement started by the Jeffersonville Women's Literary Club. The club has appointed a board of censors to view all films shown for children.

Memphis Inaugurates Children's Shows

Prominent Social Club of Bluff City to Hold Special Picture Shows for Children on Saturdays at the Imperial Theater.

By J. L. Ray, 1014 Stahlman Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

MEMPHIS, TENN.—In response to urgent solicitation on the part of parents in this city, it has been decided to conduct matinees exclusively for children on Saturday of each week. The move was brought about through the Twentieth Century Club, one of the leading social and civic organizations of Memphis, and arrangements have been completed to hold the exhibitions at the Imperial theater. Miss A. V. Cox, who is interested in the movement, is owner of the Imperial, and has agreed to show the pictures. Mesdames Liberman and Simmons, prominent in Memphis social circles, were largely responsible for the success of the project. These ladies, who have entire charge of the detail work, have arranged to secure some thirty or more children's subjects.

Princess Changes Program.

Memphis, Tenn.—The Princess theater, one of the largest and finest houses in this city, announces a change in its program service, and under the new arrangement will offer its patrons a diversified program, consisting of features, serials and short lengths. Manager Trimble recently returned from a trip to St. Louis, where he contracted with K-E-S-E, Pathe and several others. The serial now running at this house is "The Yellow Menace," booked through the local United office.

To Enlarge Alcazar in Spring.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—It has been decided by the Signal Amusement Company to forego the contemplated enlargement of the Alcazar, Chattanooga's beautiful feature house, until next spring. It had been previously announced by Manager Frank H. Dawler that work would begin this fall, but, owing to the fact that the company has concluded to close the smallest house on its circuit, it has been found advisable to postpone the construction.

"Scarlet Runner" Follows "Gloria."

Nashville, Tenn.—Following a most successful run of the "Gloria's Romance," the Knickerbocker has supplanted this part of its program with "The Scarlet Runner." On the opening day of the new picture, the entire back page of a local daily was devoted to a publicity announcement, and copy was set up in red and white.

Passing of the Lyric.

Nashville, Tenn.—The old Lyric theater is being torn down to make way for modern buildings. For many years the historic house has stood on Fourth avenue, and has seen a varied career. Many of the early feature films enjoyed profitable runs at the Lyric, the house later being remodeled and known as the Airdome.

Big Metro Feature Scores.

Nashville, Tenn.—"Romeo and Juliet," the eight-reel Metro masterpiece, scored a great success at the Strand during its engagement, at which time the admission price was increased to 25 cents. This picture also was shown at advanced prices at the Alcazar, Chattanooga.

Chattanooga.—"The Birth of a Nation" is billed for a return engagement at the Lyric November 23-24-25.

Holah to Head Local International Exchange

Arrangements Have Been Made to Open Local Office of the Big Hearst Film Service—Details Will Be Announced Later.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 1st Nat. Bk., Cincinnati, Ohio.

CINCINNATI, Ohio.—The news is out that the local branch office of which C. E. Holah, formerly manager, in succession, of the Pathe, the V-L-S-E and the Greater Vitagraph offices in Cincinnati, is to be the head of the International Film Service. Arrangements have been for the opening of an exchange by that organization, credited with being one of the most powerful in the distributing business, and Mr. Holah will have charge of this territory. Details of the move will be announced in a short time, with the territory to be covered out of Cincinnati, the organization of the office, its location and so forth. Mr. Holah is himself much pleased with the prospects opening before the company, and with the field which he believes it has in his old territory in this section.

McMahan & Jackson Buy New Films.

Cincinnati, O.—In their dual roles of exhibitors on a considerable scale and as owners of some valuable film rights, McMahan & Jackson have been extremely busy of late, a trip to New York on business connected with a recent acquisition being necessary. They have secured Ohio and Indiana rights for several new films credited with heavy drawing power, and are arranging bookings. "The End of the World," a big feature controlled by the firm, is to be shown in Cincinnati shortly, and much is expected of it, judging from advance notices.

Exit Cincinnati's Century Theater.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—The Century theater at Peebles corner, which has been at various times used with some success as a picture house, with interims of vaudeville, is to be turned into a public market, according to plans which have been perfected by local interests with capital behind them. The Century has been idle for the past two years, in spite of its apparently fine location, right at one of the busiest suburban corners in the city, its proximity to the popular Orpheum being largely responsible for its failure to prove a success. It was built in 1909 for use as a moving-picture house by John J. and Edward Ryan.

Shakespeare Classic Takes Well.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—The great Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet," has been shown for a week at the Walnut theater with the charges advanced to 25 cents for the entire lower floor. The unanimously favorable press notices and the enthusiastic reports of those who saw the picture served to keep the house crowded at every performance, in spite of the increased price. To make the week thoroughly classic in local theaters, the Fox production of "Romeo and Juliet" was seen at the same time at the Star, featuring Theda Bara, always popular in Cincinnati, and Miss Terry was at Keith's in a scene or two from the same play.

Charles Murphy Building Theater.

Wilmington, Ohio.—Charles Murphy, formerly a Cincinnati newspaper man, has made arrangements to go into the moving picture business, having let to N. P. Eveland, of Miamisville, the contract for the construction of a handsome and modern theater here to cost about $50,000. It will be much the finest house in this vicinity. Work is to start at once.

"Fall of a Nation" at Popular Prices.

Youngstown, Ohio.—A prosperous return engagement of "The Fall of a Nation," seen first here at high prices, was held at the Grand opera house at popular prices. The appeal of the story as a stimulus to patriotism seemed to be undiminished, and large crowds saw the picture for the second time.

Ontario License Officer Makes Statement

Questions to Be Given to Applicant for Operators' Licenses Are Prepared—No Ultra-technical and No Catch Questions Among Them.

By W. M. Gladish, 1263 Gerrard St. E., Toronto, Ontario.

TORONTO, ONT.—An announcement by R. C. Newman, official in charge of the moving picture office of the provincial treasurer's department, Parliament buildings, contains the information that examination papers for moving picture projection machine operators now includes one hundred and ten questions, mostly of a mechanical nature. According to Mr. Newman, there are no catch questions of any kind and all questions are very fair. They are intended to test the general knowledge of all new operators and can be correctly answered by every man after the required period of proper apprenticeship. No time limit is placed upon the applicant for an operator's license when the examination paper is placed before him and ultra-technical answers are not required. No details can be given as to the nature of the questions as practically the same paper is placed in the hands of every matured apprentice.

The original question paper for license applicants contained only thirty-five questions. The examination of operators was started about three years ago and the paper has been augmented because of the addition of new features to the work of picture projection. The aim of the department is to insure the safety of theater patrons and to qualify operators in such a manner that good picture projection will be the rule—says Mr. Newman.

Newman reports that conditions throughout the moving picture field in Ontario are bordering closely upon the ideal and that all exhibitors, generally speaking, are enjoying a flourishing business. "I am hearing no complaints," Mr. Newman told Moving Picture World.

Another Bi-Lingual Conference.

Toronto, Ontario.—So important do the exchange managers of Canada consider the question of providing French subtitles for all films screened in the Province of Quebec that another general conference of representatives from each photoplay distributing company in the Dominion was held at Montreal on Saturday, October 21st. An important session was held at Toronto the week before, but the Canadian magnates decided to delve deeper into the situation at a later meeting in Montreal, which is a city of Quebec. These conferences have been held behind closed doors and no announcement regarding the decision of the film interests regarding the order of the Quebec Government for bilingual sub-titles is yet forthcoming. The question of the use of the two languages, French and English, is a feature of a political situation which is becoming serious.

Start on New Theater in Cobalt.

Cobalt, Ont.—Another theater is to be built in Cobalt. Work has been started at the foundation for a theater and hotel on the north side of the Grand theater on Silver street. The theater is for pictures only. It will be on the English plan, the screen being in the front, with the audience facing the entrance.

Two Prominent Visitors.

Toronto, Ontario.—The Toronto exchanges received two prominent callers during the latter part of October when Joe Partridge, special representative of the Greater Vitagraph, and M. Auger, efficiency expert of the Mutual, appeared on the scene. Partridge conferred with W. C. Gookin, Canadian general manager for the Vitagraph, regarding a number of business arrangements, while M Auger spent several days at the Canadian headquarters of the Mutual.

Mr. Auger moved on to Montreal in order to see L. E. Ouimet, who is head of the Specialty Film Import Company, Canadian Pathe distributors.

"Intolerable" Sabbath Conditions.

Toronto, Ontario.—A deputation of Toronto divines waited upon Premier Hearst to raise objection to the manner in which moving picture shows had been held on Sundays of last winter for recruiting purposes. The speakers of the deputation admitted that they had interviewed the military authorities on the subject, but that the officers had expressed their approval of the use of moving pictures as a medium for attracting recruits to Sunday rallies. The clergymen desired the Government to exercise greater control over arrangements so that the Sabbath atmosphere would not become polluted—or words to that effect. The ministers asked that permission be granted in formal manner for the screening of pictures in theaters on Sundays for recruiting purposes only and that permits be not granted for the purposes of raising money at the performances in question "for philanthropic endeavor." The deputation declared that Sunday show conditions in Toronto last winter were intolerable.

MINNEAPOLIS NOTES.

By J. L. Johnston.

New Garrick's New Colors.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Calvert of the New Garrick theater here has had the interior of the theater completely redecorated, with many subdued tone colored lights, French design woodwork and stage effects, and the theater now presents a very beautiful appearance.

Business Items.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Bert Barnett, Jr., assistant manager of the Paramount exchange, will return Wednesday from a vacation spent in New York and Atlantic City.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Thayer of the Calhoun theater here has got out an attractive advertisement for coming features in the shape of a book. On the front cover appears what resembles a volume of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" and each of the other three pages is made to resemble some other novel, picturized and to be shown at the Calhoun.

Minneapolis Film Brevities.

Harry Rowe has put out two more road shows with "Uncle Tom's Cabin" film and pickaninny band.

M. R. Dick reports a good business for his four "End of the World" road shows.

The Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay in new quarters reports a big business with "The Return of Eve," played at the Minneapolis Lyric.

Manager Fred S. Meyer of the Universal exchange reports that "Liberty," booked in 31 theaters in Minneapolis alone, is doing a big business everywhere, and that he has worked nights trying to arrange dates for out-of-town exhibitors.

Manager C. C. Krupp of the General exchange has booked "The Girl from Frisco" serial in thirty houses in the Twin Cities.

Northwest Jottings.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Hamline theater has added Triangle features and Keystone comedies to its list.

Bismarck, N. D.—Manager Winstreen of the Bismarck theater has begun publishing a weekly house organ, assisted by the Minneapolis Paramount publicity department.

Canton, S. D.—Manager Clifford Bowman of the Empress theater has changed the theater's name to the Paramount-Empress.

Red Wing, Minn.—Axel Nelson of the Auditorium theater has arranged several novel features to advertise his future attractions.

Blue Earth, Minn.—Manager F. L. Andrews of the Royal theater here, played "The Birth of a Nation" five days at a $1.50 top, and did a big business.

Lisbon, N. D.—J. T. Conboy of the Scenic theater has returned from Minneapolis, where he booked several big features for the near future.

Portage, Wis.—George L. Koberstein, former owner of the Crystal at Kilbourn, Wis., is the new manager of the Majestic theater here.

Waverly, Iowa.—Messrs. Plorch and Bennett, formerly of Minneapolis, now control the opera house here.

Alexandria, Minn.—L. E. Blessener, manager of the Cozy theater here, has become part owner of the Grand theater at Clouquet, Minn.

Menomonie, Wis.—William Pierce of the Orpheum theater has returned from Minneapolis where he visited several exchanges and arranged for showing several big features here shortly.

Sioux Falls, S. D.—Manager A. K. Pay of the Colonial theater has returned from a visit to Minneapolis where he booked several big features.

Duluth, Minn.—A. Edeson has purchased Henry Herried's interest in the Lyceum theater, Deer River, Minn.

Montgomery, Minn.—Dan Novak has sold the picture theater here to E. E. Lynch.

Granite Falls, Minn.—William and Al Yaeger has purchased Juel Yaeger's interest in the Cameo theater here.

Aberdeen, S. D.—Roy Gilmore has bought the Maynard theater at Michell, S. D.

Langdon, N. D.—Work on the Electric theater is progressing rapidly, and it is expected to open to the public within a few weeks.

Maddock, N. D.—J. P. Kincaid contemplates opening a theater here shortly.

Hettinger, N. D.—Mr. Glassnapp has bought the Star theater here from P. W. Myron.

Butte, Mont.—D. E. Schmidt, manager of the Pathe exchange here, is beginning a whirl-wind campaign for business. The exchange is now located at 124 West Granite street.

Billings, Mont.—F. M. Hartness has taken over the Majestic, Billings, buying out W. A. Brockaway.

With Butte, Mont., Exchange Men.

Manager Walt Coughlin of Mutual, reports business jumping away up, and since putting on a road man, extra help has been employed in the shipping department.

Manager Tupton of Metro, also reports capacity business that makes close and heady bookings necessary. With "Tip" on the road supplementing his work, Booker Todd has to limp to keep up.

Manager Hudson of Universal is not saying anything. He hasn't time. Business keeps him at office nearly every night until late hours.

Pathe's force works every night, and business is good enough so that shortage of shipping cases made it necessary to borrow of other exchanges.

Harve, Mont.—F. D. Needham has bought out the interest of his partner, C. W. Koerner, in the New Lyric theater at Harve, Mont.

Detroiters Discuss Advance Prices

Some Downtown Exhibitors Are Seriously Considering Making Fifteen Cents the Regular Admission Price—Would Get As Many Patrons and Would Permit Better Show—Day of the Cheap Theater Seems Past.

By Louis Reeth, 705 Free Press Building, Detroit, Mich.

DETROIT, MICH.—The burning question of the hour with leading Detroit exhibitors is "shall we advance our prices?" It has been said to the WORLD Detroit correspondent that some of the downtown exhibitors are seriously considering making their evening prices fifteen cents straight, instead of 10 straight or dividing the house into ten and fifteen.

As Many Admissions at Higher Rates.

The Drury Lane, which started originally as a ten-cent house, advanced to fifteen cents, with no falling off in its business; the Princess and the Woodward went from five to ten cents without any loss of admissions, while their aggregate receipts materially increased. If a uniform scale of 15 cents instead of ten went into effect for the night shows, it would take in such theaters as the Empire Grand Circus, Family, all of the Woodward Theater Co. houses downtown and in the outskirts. The matinee price would continue at ten cents. "We are doing more business at fifteen cents than we did at ten and playing to more people," said Harry W. Smith, manager of the Drury Lane. "The Palace, National and Columbia theaters on Monroe avenue, who play a combination of vaudeville and pictures, advanced their evening prices for downstairs seats to 15 cents over a year ago and business is better than ever. The Washington theater advanced its prices in the balcony early this fall; the Knickerbocker theater has just announced a flat price of 15 cents for downstairs seats at night; the Majestic theater has not admission price at night less than 25 cents.

Cheap Shows Have Passed.

In other words, the day of cheap admissions is on the wane and exhibitors, in order to maintain the standard of their houses, and to meet the constantly increasing cost of doing business, are forced to get higher admission prices—that is 15 and 25 cents instead of 10 and 15 cents. The writer has yet to meet a single exhibitor who advanced his prices who is not more than satisfied with the results, and who is not playing to just as many people as he ever did.

Kunsky Books Vitagraph and Selznick.

Detroit, Mich.—John H. Kunsky announces that he has secured the first-run franchise in Detroit on Greater Vitagraph features. The first was E. H. Sothern in "The Chattel," which played to record-breaking business the week ending Oct. 28th. Mr. Kunsky has also signed up to play the Lewis J. Selznick productions in his chain of theaters. Starting November 5th, Clara Kimball Young in "The Common Law" plays a week at the Liberty theater, in spite of the fact that it recently ended a two weeks' engagement at the Broadway-Strand. Some important announcements regarding other bookings are shortly to be made by Mr. Kunsky.

Broadway Feature Moves.

Detroit, Mich.—The Broadway Feature Film Co. has moved to Suite 316 in the same building, 306 Broadway Market building. C. C. Beals, manager of the exchange, reports a big October business, and says he is getting many rebookings on "The Battle Cry of Peace," "The Christian," "The Melting Pot," "Where Are My Children" and others.

Blankmeyer Conducting Exchange.

Detroit, Mich.—Arthur W. Blankmeyer, formerly manager of the Grand Circus theater, Detroit, is handling the "Christie Comedies" for the state of Michigan, and makes his office at 71 Griswold street, Detroit. The business is conducted under the style of the Superior Film Co., and those associated with him are Mr. Randolph, formerly with the Wolverine Film Co., and Mr. Pelley, formerly with Warner's Features. Mr. Blankmeyer has also taken the Ohio rights on these comedies and is now negotiating for permanent offices in Cincinnati and Cleveland.

Geo. Lightman Running Wolverine.

Detroit, Mich.—George Lightman has taken charge of the Wolverine Film Co. business, 71 Griswold street, Detroit. He was formerly with Fox and the World.

R. Von der Goltz Heads Local International.

Detroit, Mich.—When John F. Bowman, of the International Film Service of Chicago, was here the other day he made official the appointment of R. Von der Goltz as manager of the Detroit exchange in the Campau building.

Louis Nathan in Peter Smith Building.

Detroit, Mich.—Louis Nathan, of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service, is now comfortably located in his new quarters at 712-713 Peter Smith building.

New Theater on Adams Avenue.

Detroit, Mich.—The Frank Farrington Co., Detroit, has been awarded the contract to build the new theater on Adams avenue west, which will be leased by A. J. Gilligham and John P. Harris. The cost of the building alone will be $85,000. It will be 90 by 120 feet in size, and will be of steel and concrete. It will be completed about the first of February.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Harry Trask With Artcraft.

Detroit, Mich.—Harry Trask, formerly with George Kleine at Detroit, is now assisting in the management of the Detroit exchange of Artcraft.

C. L. Pervey Appointed Manager.

Detroit, Mich.—C. L. Peavey has been appointed manager of the Detroit office of the Artcraft Film Corporation, located in the Peter Smith building. He succeeds Frank Rutledge, who resigned Oct. 21 to become manager of the Chicago exchange of Paramount. Mr. Peavey has been acting as assistant manager at Detroit since the exchange opened, and was previously with the Famous Players Film Co., at Pittsburgh.

E. R. Keef Takes Temple Theater.

Detroit, Mich.—E. R. Keef has taken over the Temple theater of Birmingham, Mich, a suburb of Detroit. Mr. Keef formerly operated theaters in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, North and South Carolina. He is conducting a very novel stunt of publishing a "Temple Theater Daily." It is a daily publication containing new matter each issue. It gives the program for that particular day.

St. Louis Is to Have a Screen Club

Meeting Called of Prominent Exhibitors and Exchange Men to Form New Organization—Will Accent the Social Side.

By A. H. Giebler, 236 Vandeventer Place, St. Louis, Mo.

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—It seems that St. Louis is to have a screen club at last. There has been much talk of an organization of this kind in the past, but action has never been taken. The subject has been revived, however, and a meeting of several prominent exchangemen and exhibitors will be called within a few days, and a nucleus formed that will no doubt become the parent of a permanent organization.

There is need of such an organization in St. Louis. It will promote good feeling and friendliness among the people in all lines of the film industry.

According to the plans discussed at an informal meeting recently, the social side of the screen club will be given the most consideration, and if the plans carry out successfully, club rooms will be fitted up and maintained for the entertainment of the members and visitors.

Changes at World Film Offices.

St. Louis, Mo.—George W. Fuller, who has been managing the World Film offices at 3626 Olive street, resigned his position last week to take charge of the Pathe exchange at Pittsburgh. Mr. Fuller left St. Louis for Pittsburgh on the 23rd to assume his new duties.

Jack Weil, of Detroit, succeeded Mr. Fuller as manager of the exchange. St. Louis is the "old home town" to Mr. Weil. He says it is coming back to the old "stamping grounds" to come here, and he anticipates a great deal of pleasure in renewing old acquaintances as well as making new ones. Mr. Fuller made a great many friends while in St. Louis, and his leaving was the cause of much regret to his many friends.

A Midnight Matinee for Lew Fields.

St. Louis, Mo.—Lew Fields, who has been playing in St. Louis in a musical comedy, was given an opportunity last week by George Fuller, of the World Film, and William Sievers, of the New Grand Central theater, to see himself on the screen in the Brady-made feature, "The Man Who Stood Still," in which Mr. Fields was starred.

The private showing took place after the regular closing time at the Central theater, and the guests comprised the entire Lew Fields company, the dramatic editors on the various newspapers, the World correspondent and a number of film men of the city. The Musical company enjoyed the film very much, to judge by their vigorous applause, and in the last reel, where Fields has the baby in his arms, he made a distinct hit with the selected audience. We hope that the film is received as well everywhere it is shown as it was by the little audience that sat up till one a. m. to see it.

Indiana Filmdom Notes

Special to Moving Picture World From Indiana Trade News Service.

New Hartley Theater Opens.

INDIANA HARBOR, Ind.—The new Hartley theater was opened Friday night with motion pictures and a vaudeville bill. The theater is a cozy and most attractive building, and, if the opening crowds are an indication, probably will become one of East Chicago's most popular photoplay houses.

Shoots the Villain from His Seat.

Hammond, Ind.—Members of the Hammond police department discovered a real up-to-date hero, last week, in John Sebastian, an East Chicago foreigner.

John was one of the many attending a very thrilling motion picture melodrama, Wednesday night, at the Lyric theater. The villain was choking the heroine, and was about to drown her. Everybody in the theater was quiet.

Just at this point John whipped out a revolver and punctured the screen. The sound of the shot was the signal for considerable confusion. The police arrived later, and, after quieting the crowd, took the foreigner into custody.

"I coulda not see that a man drown that a poor girl," was John's defense of his misconduct. The judge made it $5 and costs. Who'd play real melodrama in a theater with that kind of patron?

Illinois News Letter

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

Two Weeks of Big Features.

MASON CITY, Ill.—A. W. Ackerman, a local exhibitor, is going to put on some big features after the manner of the Lyceum house. He has selected the following films and will give them two weeks apart: "The Battle Cry of Peace," "God's Country and the Woman," "Ne'er Do-Well," "The Light at Dusk," "The Law Decides."

Single admission will be 25 cents, but season tickets are sold for $1.

Burr Swan and "Pinched" Patrons.

Pittsfield, Ill.—Burr Swan tried to book "The Alien" for his last Christmas show but was unable to get it. He ran it October 11, giving but one show at 25 cents for everybody. He thought so well of the picture he announced that if anybody was "pinched" for the admission price he would see that they got to view the picture.

Princess Theater Man Embarrassed.

Quincy, Ill.—The Princess theater was closed by action of the sheriff, the Universal company having obtained judgement for the sum of $1,300, claimed to be due for the rental of films over a period of time in 1915. The Mercantile bank is said to handle a $6,000 mortgage on the place. By agreement between the film company and the bank the theater was re-opened with John Heisler in charge for the creditors. John Spanople was manager of the theater. Loss of money in another theater venture is said to be responsible for the present embarrassment. The location is good and it is believed the storm will be weathered.

N. M. Plociusky Goes to War Film Syndicate.

Chicago, Ill.—Nate M. Plociusky, who for the last twelve months has been connected with the General Feature Film Company of Chicago, is now representing the War Film Syndicate of that same city and is handling the Durborough War picture, "On the Firing Line with the Germans," in West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, Maryland and will probably work down to Florida. Mr. Plociusky finds things very favorable in this territory.

Illinois Theater Changes.

Urbana, Ill.—The Colonial theater, which was closed for a week for redecoration and installation of new equipment, reopened October 23 under the management of R. R. Harmison. Mrs. J. S. McCullough retains the ownership of the theater.

Oregon, Ill.—Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Cutting have sold the Star theater to Edward Coddington and his sister, Mae Coddington.

Rushville, Ill.—A stock company will be formed to rebuild the Princess theater, which was destroyed by fire.

East St. Louis, Ill.—Percy Knoebel has taken an option on the property at 209-213 Collinsville avenue with a view to erecting a theater. A previous option was held on the property by Frank R. Tate, a theatrical man of St. Louis.

Mattoon, Ill.—Loss of $150 was caused by a film fire at the "K" theater.

East St. Louis, Ill.—Darwin Karr, Essanay star, appeared in person at the Majestic theater.

Freeport, Ill.—The Princess theater reopened with "The Shadow of Doubt."

Peoria, Ill.—The moving picture operators' local held its annual ball at Eagle Hall, October 30.

Farmington, Ill.—The Strand theater has installed a new steel operating room and new seats.

Quincy, Ill. Loss of $500 was caused by a film fire at the Colonial theater on North Sixth street.

Marseilles, Ill.—The Board of Education has purchased a moving picture machine which it has installed in the public schools.

Elgin, Ill.—A home talent moving picture, "The Wreckers," was produced here to be shown at the Grand theater.

Profit in Theater Booth at a County Fair

Farmers Attracted by Chance to See Projector in Operation and Become Interested in the Picture Show.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

ADRIAN, MICH.—Elwyn M. Simons, manager of the New Family theater, believes that his enterprise in having a booth at the county fair was a satisfactory investment. In the matter of reaching the farmer, the plan is one of the best that can be devised. Of course, the exhibitor can always get in personal touch with the rural patrons, but his duties in conducting the house very often interferes. By having a booth at the fair, equipped with machines—the exhibitor would be surprised to know how many persons have never had a close-up view of a projector—he can get the farmer at his leisure and get him really interested. "It always appealed to me," said Mr. Simons, "that it would be a good idea to do this for several years back, as it would acquaint us with an entirely new clientele, the farmer, which was somewhat difficult to get. However, I believe the results of doing as I have this year will more than pay for the efforts."

Exhibitor Demonstrates Safety Projector.

Three Rivers, Mich.—Luther Warner, owner of the Vaudette theater, purchased a new projector equipped with automatic safety devices. In order to fully advertise his progress to his patrons, he placed it in the display window of the Constantine Hydraulic Company. It was connected, placed in operation and Manager Warner was on the scene.

Co-operation on Children's Films.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Following an address to members of the Drama League by Miss Mary E. Peck of New York, representative of the National Committee on Films for Young People, the local league adopted a resolution to aid the national organization in its work. The resolution provided that the local president appoint a committee to co-operate with the managers of the local theaters.

Opera House Sold.

Williamston, Mich.—C. H. Bennett has sold the Williamston opera house to H. A. Thompson.

Fell in Darkened Aisle.

Flint, Mich.—While ascending a darkened aisle in a local moving picture theater, Mrs. Amander Raby, 56 years old, tripped on a step and fell, suffering a fracture of one hip.

Neil Jackson Lengthens Lease.

Three Rivers, Mich.—Manager Neil Jackson of the Rex theater has taken another two-year lease on that house.

NEBRASKA STATE NOTES.

By Frank H. Madison.

Mrs. Margaret Carnes Champions Films.

Hastings, Neb.—"Let me make the films of this nation and I don't care who makes the laws," was the plea of Mrs. Elizabeth Smith of Chadron, before the State Federation of Women's Clubs in convention here. She wanted pictures regulated, but suggested the co-operative method. Mrs. Margaret Carnes of Lincoln, championed the moving picture shows of her city, and said that the Lincoln club women had brought about remarkable changes. The penny arcade in Lincoln, she said, was far more debasing than the films.

Oakdale Picture Show Burns.

Oakdale, Neb.—The moving picture show owned by Bowen & Lawrence of O'Neill, Neb., caught fire prior to its initial performance. The films and equipment were destroyed and the interior of the building was badly damaged. The fire is believed to have been caused by electric wires.

Nebraska Joltings.

Alliance, Neb.—T. A. Busey, proprietor of the Lyric theater of Sterling, secured an option on the Imperial theater here which was operated by H. A. Dubuque.

Kearney, Neb.—The restriction against persons under twenty years of age, which was made while an epidemic of scarlet fever was in progress, has been removed by local officials and local moving picture houses have had an increase of business.

Lincoln, Neb.—Word has been received here that Mrs. Claire Lois Butler Lee, who was one of the winners in the Beauty and Brains Contest given by the Photoplay Magazine, has accepted a position with the Essanay company.

Miss Farrar Says "Joan of Arc" Is Splendid

Tells Minneapolis Correspondent of the World That She Did Her Best to Put Force Into Her Interpretation of the Part.

By [illegible] 811 Produce Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—When Geraldine Farrar, Lina Cavaliera and Lucien Muratore arrived here last Friday with the Ellis Grand Opera Co. moving picture exchange men were the first to greet them. C. J. VerHalen, publicity manager of the Minneapolis Paramount Exchange, greeted Miss Farrar and when she was asked about "Joan of Arc" by the World correspondent Miss Farrar stated that "the story is a splendid one and she had done her best to put force into her interpretation of 'Joan of Arc.'" Being shown the cut of the leather on the last issue of the World, Miss Farrar smiled and asked for a copy of the magazine.

It took all of the cleverness of Manager H. E. Friedman and J. E. Schwartzbein of Pathe and the World correspondent and a secretary, Sig. Brunacci, to get statements from Mme. Cavaliera and her husband because the latter did not speak English and the former trio did not speak French. However, smiles and handshakes were plentiful and at length with assistance all Hearst-Pathe interest was made by the stars. "We enjoyed acting for Pathe very much," said Mme. Cavaliera, "and although my husband and I are wedded to our opera work we certainly will be glad when we can devote some more time to acting before the camera. Moving pictures offer so wonderful a field; one can feel so free and express so much without a spoken word, and just think of the many thousands who can see your work at once in so many different cities. It's wonderful."

"'The Shadow of Her Past' was much to my liking," added Mr. Muratore, in French, "for you know I am a painter as well as a singer, and in the film I actually worked on one of my figure paintings." Following the opera on Friday evening in St. Paul, Manager James Keough of the Minneapolis Strand put on a special showing of "The Shadow of Her Past" for the benefit of Mme. Cavaliera and her husband.

Snow Falls and Fills Theaters.

Minneapolis, Minn.—With the first snowfall last week attendance figures for local theaters took another jump skywards and as it looks as if the chilly atmosphere is here to stay a very cheery business for the rest of the year seems imminent. Competition is keen here this week inasmuch as the Strand and the New Astor are both showing "Romeo and Juliet." The Strand, which has made elaborate preparations for the Metro feature with Bushman and Bayne, is larger than the New Astor, which is displaying Fox's feature with Theda Bara, and is naturally getting the larger crowds, but the Astor reports a capacity business also. The New Garrick returns to the Paramount program Sunday, following a week's run of "War's Women," and the Lyric is starting the week with "The Chattel," featuring E. H. Sothern and Peggy Hyland. The Pantages, scheduled to open October 15, has not as yet swung its doors open.

Is Local Admission Limit 20 Cents?

Minneapolis.—It seems as though the public in St. Paul and Minneapolis will not spend more than twenty cents for moving pictures unless they are of "Civilization," "Birth of a Nation" or "Ramona" types, at least at this time. At the St. Paul Strand several big features have been displayed to capacity at twenty cents but "Purity" at fifteen and twenty-five began rather poorly, but picked up marvelously later. At the New Garrick, Minneapolis, "War's Women," at a quarter did a very fair business. Both "Purity" and "War's Women" are certainly worth twenty-five cents admission according to the writer, who has viewed them both, but it appears that a majority of the film fans of the Twin Cities agree with him.

Westcott Film Incorporates.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Westcott Film Corporation, with headquarters in Minneapolis, incorporates for $250,000. It is being backed by well known financial men of the Northwest.

E. A. Westcott, for two years local manager of the Fox Film, is to be secretary and general manager, to buy territorial rights for all Northwestern states. The company is organized and prepared to handle anything on the open market, but it is also incorporated to have its own theaters if necessary.

Film and Amusement Co. Fills Hurry Call.

St. Paul, Minn.—James A. Morrison of the Film & Amusement Company, Metropolitan Theater building, St. Paul, writes to this paper: "We have at last a real film exchange where the exhibitors of our city as well as those of Minneapolis can get a program of features on a minute's notice.

"It is the only exchange in St. Paul that handles features exclusively, and I might add proved a god send to the Starland theater last Monday evening, when they had the misfortune of burning up some 2,000 feet of a serial they were showing. After a hurried telephone call I had a program in his theater ten minutes from the time I received the call."

De Luxe Bowlers in the Lead.

Minneapolis, Minn.—At the end of the first month the DeLuxe team is leading the Film Men's Bowling league, with the Mutuals second. Considerably strengthened, the Reel Fellows are gradually creeping up and are expected to pull the DeLuxe five down when they clash on Monday.

Harry Rathner Back from Ince Visit.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Harry Rathner, manager of the Supreme and Unity exchanges here, has returned from a visit to Thos. H. Ince at Culver City, Cal. The Unity exchange has begun operations with a very prosperous first week and Mr. Rathner looks forward to [illegible]

What "No Children" Signs Did in Kenosha

Commissioner Beatrice L. Welles Begins Campaign Against Certain Houses That It is Claimed Let Children In, Notwithstanding.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago.

KENOSHA, WIS.—A fight upon the theaters which advertise pictures "For adults only" and "no one under 21 years admitted" has begun in Kenosha. The movement was inaugurated by Mrs. Beatrice Ives Welles, commissioner of the school board from the second ward, and she has the backing of the City Club of Kenosha. Mrs. Welles was instructed to appear before the Common Council and urge the necessity of an ordinance to make impossible the projection of sensational pictures. At the meeting of the school board it was said that some of the Kenosha exhibitors had not adhered to the announcement, and young boys and girls had been permitted to see pictures which had been advertised "For adults only." It is said the local exhibitors will co-operate, as a number of them are in accord with the fight made by the Moving Picture World against the disorderly white slave and other similar pictures.

A Milwaukee Protest.

In Milwaukee, the Rev. Herbert Noonan, S. J., president of the Marquette University, in an address before the Knights of Columbus, said: "I wonder if those who are responsible for films used in our movie theaters can book nothing but plays that deal with the underworld. Of course, they tell us these plays have a moral. This is true, but one does not have to be a keen judge of human nature to know that it is the lure of the senses.

Will Test Ill-Considered Ordinance.

Milwaukee, Wis.—A test will be made in the district court of the ordinance which prohibits motion picture theater proprietors from displaying pictures of murderous attacks. Hugo Heller, an exhibitor at Third street and North avenue, who recently was arrested for violation of the ordinance, determined to fight the case.

Local Idea vs. State Censorship in Kansas

Exhibitor in Kansas City Arrested for a Cigarette in a Theda Bara Film—Jury Finds Him Innocent of Harm.

By Kansas City News Service, 206 Corn Belt Building Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—Kansas exhibitors are safe showing any picture that has the stamp of the state board of censors - if they have no guilty knowledge of the film having been tampered with.

This precedent has been established by a case tried in the district court in Kansas City, Kan., in which T. L. Ricksecker, of Rosedale, Kan., was the defendant. Mr. Ricksecker had shown "The Trail of the Tigress"; some of the local people complained that it had smoking in it, and that they believed the picture had not been approved by the state board. The Parent-teachers association of Rosedale succeeded in having proceedings brought against Ricksecker; and his trial occured a short time ago. The wrangle over whether there was much smoking in the picture, resulted in the judge ordering the film to be shown to the jury. At the same time Miss Carrie Simpson, one of the Kansas censors, who had been called as a witness by the state, viewed the picture. In it, Miss Theda Bara was shown in a flash with a cigarette in her mouth, and for a second or so, the clouds of smoke were seen drifting over her shoulder, her head being turned away. Miss Simpson testified that apparently the picture was as recommended by the board, and she could suggest no changes, except possibly a very short cut.

This testimony, and the views of the jurors as to the amount of smoking shown and its probable demoralizing effect, had some weight in the decision, which was in favor of Ricksecker after only 10 minutes of deliberation. The court had instructed the jurors that if they believed the stamp of the board of censors was in its proper place on the film, and if they believed that Ricksecker had no guilty knowledge of any variation from the verdict of the board in the elimination, they must give a verdict for him. The fact that the jurors did not disapprove of the film when they saw it; and that they took into consideration Miss Simpson's testimony, helped them to their verdict, it is said.

Following his vindication, Mr. Ricksecker showed the picture in his theater, having invited the objectors to view it again. He invited them the next night, too, to see "Madam X," which had been passed by the board without a cut, and which contained smoking.

The verdict is particularly welcome to the exhibitors, since it relieves them of all worry in case their films have the stamp on the end piece, showing the approval of the board of censors or of the appeal board.

Mr. Ricksecker has fought the case at considerable expense, the fine of $25 possible in case of conviction being a small factor against the principle he was trying to establish. A feature of this principle is that the censor board would do well to inspect the pictures it orders eliminations on, if there is to be any responsibility attached to anybody after the film leaves Topeka.

THE ELECTRIC BLAZES FORTH.

Springfield's New Theater Showed to 12,000 Persons the First Day.

Springfield, Mo.—The new Electric theater at Springfield, Mo., opened recently in a blaze of glory, with a total attendance on the Sunday of 12,000. Henry Grubel of Grubel Bros., Kansas City, Kan., was present, and was delighted with the response of the people of the city to his efforts to provide so sumptuous a picture playhouse. A few days later, an equally striking event occurred at the theater, when W. B. Beckley, manager, made arrangements with the superintendent of schools, and with the manager of a home for children, for all the children to attend the theater. The house was crowded with the young folks from noon until 5:30, and more than 6,000 of them saw "The Lights of New York" as the guests of the Electric.

Maze Theater to Go.

Kansas City, Mo.—Bennie H. Allen, proprietor of the building in which is the Maze theater, is planning to convert the entire structure to hotel purposes in a few months, giving the Sexton hotel a corner entrance at Twelfth and Baltimore—and eliminating the Maze. Mr. Allen will, however, not abandon connection with the industry, for he is planning a suburban theater, the location of which has not yet been decided upon, and to which the equipment of the Maze will probably be taken.

Universal Publicity Plans.

Kansas City, Mo.—G. H. Bowles, publicity manager for the Kansas City branch of the Universal Film and Supply Co., reports that he gradually taking over the handling of the entire midwest territory which is under the direction of Mr. Cropper. This will include Kansas City, St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Omaha, and St. Joe, and also four branches at Wichita, Kansas, Fort Smith, Arkansas, Sioux Falls, South Dakota, and Cairo, Ill. Some man in each exchange will be appointed to give a part of his time to the publications sent by Mr. Bowles. P. L. Ryan, head of the sales department of the Universal Co., at Kansas City, is installing a publicity department.

Kansas City Screen Club's Friday Nights

Are Getting Popular—Entertainment Committee on the Job—"The Screen Club Rag" a Song Hit, by G. H. Bowles.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Kansas City Screen Club, which has been holding open house every Friday night, recently instituted an entertainment committee consisting of Lester Scott, of the local Vitagraph, and D. O. Reese, and G. H. Bowles, of the Universal. The committee has provided the entertainment for the past two meetings, consisting of vaudeville from the Empress and the Orpheum theaters of the city, and some local talent. At the last weekly meeting Pat Rooney from Orpheum gave some very good dancing. A song was rendered by G. H. Bowles. It was of his own composition, was entitled "The Screen Club Rag," and was received with enthusiasm. Messrs. Fazer and Dale, from the Empress theater, also gave some some good musical performances.

Dancing and refreshments are always a part of the weekly entertainment, and the new committee has been making such a good showing in producing good entertainment, that the attendance has doubled itself in the past few weeks.

South Dakota People Favor Sabbath Shows

There Have Been Many Arrests on Sunday Charges, but No Convictions—Latest Victim a Manager of Theater in Mitchell.

MITCHELL, S. D.—Dr. A. J. Dix, manager of the Gale theater, was arrested on charge of illegally operating his theater on Sunday. He pleaded not guilty in the municipal court and decided to stand trial. Prior to his arrest an ordinance which provided that a theater would forfeit its license by showing on Sunday was repealed.

This case is similar to many in South Dakota and it is the rule that no convictions have been secured. If there has been nothing objectionable in the performance or films the defendants have been acquitted. The number of arrests have attracted considerable attention throughout the state, and it is the conviction of the leading newspapers that the people are in favor of the Sunday shows. A special law prohibiting Sunday amusements was passed by the legislature. It was then referred to the people and approved by them by a majority of something less than 300. Inasmuch as the law was made when the moving picture did not amount to much, it is the consensus of opinion that a new test of sentiment should be had.

New Shows and Changes in the Dakotas.

Belfield, N. D.—Ed. Ziebarth has sold a half interest in the Princess theater to Colonel Hilke.

Mitchell, S. D.—Roy Gilmore has purchased the Maynard theater.

Bismarck, N. D.—Manager Wolf of the Grand will use vaudeville in connection with the Tuesday and Friday night programs.

Egan, S. D.—The moving picture theater has been sold to P. R. Matson.

Stanley, N. D.—Connor Brothers are erecting a moving picture theater here.

Forbes, N. D.—A moving picture show has been opened in the opera house here.

Files Suit Against Fox Corporation.

Ft. Madison, Ia.—L. V. Murphy has filed a suit in the district court against the Fox corporation, asking $3,000 damages for alleged breach of contract. He declares that on Aug. 26, 1915, he entered into a contract for showing the Fox films at the Empire theater here for a period of fifty-two weeks; that he paid as the first installment $140; that the company had signified that a feature bill, "The Two Orphans," starring Theda Bara, would be released to him for October 8, 1915; that the plaintiff went to considerable expense to advertise this attraction, which was to be a 15-cent program, but the company cancelled their contract on September 23. Murphy asks $50 for the amount he was out in advertising the feature, and $2,950 for loss of profit, etc., for the remainder of the year.

R. F. Crawford Representing the Laemmle.

Des Moines, Ia.—R. F. Crawford, manager of the Amuzu theater in Des Moines, was recently added to the sales force of the Laemmle film service, and is now representing that company on the road. Mr. Crawford was at one time booker for the General Film in Des Moines and Minneapolis, and later with the Laemmle Film Service here. He resigned to become an exhibitor. Mrs. Crawford is managing the theater during the absence of Mr. Crawford.

Manager Lederman Entertains.

Des Moines, Ia.—D. B. Lederman, manager of the Laemmle Film Service, Des Moines, recently entertained the thirty members of his force at his country home. The gathering followed a week of night work, due to taking an invoice. The first event of the evening was a lunch, followed by "stunts" given by various departments. One of the features of the evening was the singing of the Bluebird quartette, consisting of Messrs. Peel, O'Hare, Billings and Stevenson. Mr. and Mrs. Lederman entertained their guests with a series of fancy dances. The latter part of the evening was spent in dancing. Mr Lederman is of the opinion that gatherings such as this tend to increase the efficiency of his force, and helps to increase the present spirit of co-operation and friendship, both as to the firm and to the individual workers.

New Iowa Theaters—A Swedish Film.

Strawberry Point, Ia.—A. A. Beghun has resigned his position as instructor in manual training in the Monticello schools and has purchased the Lyric theater through B. A. Smith.

Ida Grove, Ia.—Tom Dugan purchased a moving picture theater here.

Little Rock, Ia.—J. W. Consell and son Harry purchased the Gem theater from John Claussen.

Washington, Ia.—W. M. Griffin, for three years operator at the Fox theater, has purchased the Star theater from R. J. Diehl, who has been its owner and manager. The new proprietor will enlarge the stage so that vaudeville acts can be used and later will install a four-piece orchestra. For the present Mrs. Griffin will have charge of the musical program.

Fort Dodge, Ia.—Eight reels of Swedish pictures under the auspices of Swedish government were shown at the Lyric theater under the auspices of Adolphus Chorus.

San Francisco Notes

A moving picture outfit has been placed in commission aboard the steamer Great Northern, which plies out of this port.

The Masterpiece Film Attraction is the name of a new concern recently incorporated here with a capital of $20,000 by E. Salomon, Jacob Samuels and Oscar Samuels.

Louis Lurie, of the Rialto theater, has returned from a business trip of several weeks to New York and other Eeastern cities.

The All Star feature distributors are finding such a demand for "Dante's Inferno," that a fine lobby display has been prepared and the film will be featured strongly once again. It has been booked at the Empire theater for a week's run.

Ed. Jones, for several years operator at the Princess theater, is now with the "Intolerance" show at Columbia.

The Western Poster Company is now handling the posters and advertising matter for the International.

Alfred Smith, of the Rex theater, Lakeview, Ore., the only moving picture theater there, was a recent visitor.

Walter Preddy has furnished a moving picture outfit to be installed on the U. S. S. Yorktown, now off the coast of Mexico.

California Briefs.

San Juan, Cal.—C. Brixen has disposed of his moving picture interests to E. P Giacomazzu.

San Rafael, Cal.—Burglars entered the office of the Lyric recently, and rifled the cahs dramer, securing $180.

Sacramento, Cal.—The Fairyland has been closed and is being converted into a store.

Hanford, Cal.—B. E. Weaver and C. J. Shelton, of San Francisco, have purchased the Hanford opera house from C. Roberts, who is to go to Oakland to become assistant manager of the Macdonough theater.

Kings City, Cal.—A. J. Goetz has reopened the Novelty and is showing Fox features.

Atascadero, Cal.—The Colony holding company is erecting a temporary theater, and plans to feature educational films. Plans are being made for a theater to cost $150,000, but this will not be built for a year or more.

Monterey, Cal.—J. N. Rice has taken over the Star, and is conducting it as the Rex. His new house, the Strand, will be ready about the first of the year.

Dinuba, Cal.—Walter Evans is remodeling his moving picture house.

Pathe's Frisco Exchange Moves

Splendid Quarters in the Musical Building at 985 Market Street Have Been Occupied by Manager H. E. Lotz for Pathe Local Office—Arrangements Favor Efficient Work—Screenings at Any Old Time.

From T. A. Church, 1507 North Street, Berkeley, Cal.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal.—The Pathe Exchange, Inc., located for the past two years at 67 Turk street, has taken over splendid quarters in the Musical building, 985 Market street, the new home being on the third floor of this big fireproof structure, directly on Market street, the main artery of the city, and overlooking Film Row, as the lower part of Golden Gate avenue is known. In its furnishings and arrangement this new exchange marks a distinct advance, and it is now to be classed as one of the very finest of its kind to be found on the Pacific Coast.

A total of six thousand square feet of floor space is available in the new location, and the crowding of department, formerly such a disadvantage, has been done away with. The shipping and poster departments are near the main entrance, for the convenience of exhibitors, the offices being arranged along the front to take advantage of the excellent lighting facilities. All of these offices are of the open type, enabling visitors to know at a glance whether the persons they desire to see are in, and whether they are busy. An information desk, presided over by a charming young lady, is located just within the reception room, off which is the manager's office and a projection room. The latter has a capacity for fifty persons, and in addition to the usual furnishings there is a Wurlitzer player installed to enable the showing of films with appropriate music.

Screenings Any Old Time.

This projection room is expected to play an important part in the booking of films in the future. In speaking of this Manager H. E. Lotz said: "In the past we had certain days for reviews, in common with other exchanges, and if exhibitors did not find it convenient to come at the appointed time they did not get to see the pictures. Our new policy is service to the exhibitor, as we realize that exhibitors are very busy men, and in the future any picture will be shown for any exhibitor at any time it is convenient for him to come and see it."

Newspaper Advertising Increasing.

San Francisco, Cal.—One of the most noticeable developments in the moving picture business during the past few weeks has been the decided increase in the amount of newspaper advertising space that is being used. This form of advertising has never been taken up strongly by local exhibitors, due in a measure to the unusually high advertising rates prevailing here, as compared with those of other Coast cities. For a long time the bulk of the newspaper advertising was done by about three downtown houses, but with the advent of the Rialto and the St. Francis theater, and later the Savoy theater, in this field, there has been a marked increase in the number of houses using this form of publicity, as well as an increase in the space. The Market Street theater is now a regular advertiser, and the new Royal at California and Polk streets has also been added to the list. With this increase in advertising there has come some increase in the amount of reading matter allowed in some of the daily papers, but not in the proportion that might be expected, and billboards are still being used by many of the large houses to the exclusion of newspapers.

Warner Gets Rights to "The Crisis."

San Francisco, Cal.—J. L. Warner, manager of the Warner Film Attractions, 120 Golden Gate avenue, states that this concern has secured the California, Arizona and Nevada rights to "The Crisis," and expects to be booking the production within a short time. Rights to "The Ordeal" have also been secured, in addition to six two-reel releases based on Ella Wheeler Wilcox's poems. Bookings on "Purity" continue heavy, this film now being shown in the suburban cities.

Exchange Adds Supplies.

San Francisco, Cal.—The Independent Film Exchange, 122-124 Golden Gate avenue, owned by George Chamberlain, has taken over the quarters at this address formerly shared with the Union Film & Supply Co., and has fitted up this space for the carrying of a full line of theater supplies. This will not be an entirely new venture on the part of Mr. Chamberlain as he has carried a limited line of supplies, as well as machines, in the past. His stock will be much more complete than ever, and this line is expected to work in well with his extensive film rental business.

Atlas Man Visits Factory.

San Francisco, Cal.—R. R. Rehm, of the local office of the Atlas Educational Film Company, is making a trip to the factory at Chicago to look over some of the improvements being made in the Atlas projector and plans to be away about six weeks. Several complete outfits have been disposed of lately, among these being a machine and metal booth for the high school at Dos Palos, Cal., and another for the Modoc Union high school in Alturas county.

Fox Film Happenings.

San Francisco, Cal.—William J. Citron, manager of the local office of the Fox corporation, left a short time ago for New York to attend the second annual meeting of branch managers.

Charles I. Luntz, who recently joined the traveling force of this concern, has returned from a trip through Nevada and Northern California. He found business quite good in most places, and was well received by exhibitors. He will leave shortly on a three week's trip through the San Joaquin valley.

Harry Carney, who also joined the staff of this firm a few weeks ago, has just completed a trip through the southern Coast territory as far south as San Luis Obispo, and will soon go to Eureka and the northern part of the State.

Film Man in Train Accident.

San Francisco, Cal.—Dick Taylor, Los Angeles manager of the International, was a passenger on the Lark, which was recently wrecked about one hundred miles south of San Francisco. He was on his way to this city on a business mission, but escaped without injury.

Censor Bans Nature Films.

Oakland, Cal.—Chief of Police Walter J. Peterson has issued the fiat to exhibitors that moving pictures made apparently for no other purpose than to show nude figures will not be tolerated. Not only has he issued this warning, but he has stopped the exhibition of one, in virtue of his position as censor, declaring that it was without redeeming feature. H. H. Sallinger, who conducts the house in which it was being shown, applied for a restraining order to prevent the interference of the censor, but this was refused by Superior Judge W. H. Waste. Following this episode the production, "Purity," which was booked for the Macdonough theater, was shown to him at a private review, and was passed, the Chief of Police having been impressed with its artistic qualities.

Portland's T. & D. Theater Closes

Portland, Oregon's Largest Photoplay Theater, Quits—Turner & Dahnken Prepare to Move Equipment to San Francisco—Failure to Make Satisfactory Lease Arrangements at Expiration of Six Months' Option the Reason.

By Abraham Nelson, 601 Journal Building, Portland, Ore.

PORTLAND, Ore.—The T. & D. theater closed its doors and moved from Portland Oct. 21. Local film men were surprised at the action of the California corporation. The T. & D. had been rapidly building up a splendid patronage for its big show house. Patrons who heard the news a day or two before the closing were equally surprised. They liked the T. & D., they said, after they had come to know it; they liked the pictures and the way they were put on over there, they liked the way the employees theated them and they liked th big organ.

The reason for closing the house is that Turner & Dahnken were unable to make satisfactory lease arrangements with the Blodgett company, the owners of the building. Manager Leonhart stated that after operating the theater for six months, Turner & Dahnken concluded that they could not conduct the house profitably under the conditions demanded by the Blodgett company to renew the lease.

Turner & Dahnken have packed up approximately $50,000 worth of equipment to move to San Francisco. This included electric signs, curtains, machines, scenery, screens and organ. Three cars have been engaged to transport this material.

Manager Leonhart is the only one of the T. & D. staff who will be retained by the company and he will undoubtedly be placeded in charge of one of the California theaters. He has been an active member of the Oregon Motion Picture Men's Association and his departure from Portland is regretted by the film fraternity.

At the time of this writing no disposition of the showhouse had been made by the Blodgett company, nor of the seats and furnishings controlled by Ackerman & Harris.

More Labor Difficulties.

Portland, Ore.—Stage hands employed for vaudeville and musical acts in connection with picture shows are giving the Portland exhibitors some concern by demanding increased wages and more men on the stage.

H. C. Stevens, who manages the Casino and American theaters, and who uses a small 30 minute act in connection with his show, and who employs one stage hand in each house, was recently called upon by the union for an increase in wages of $5 a week. Mr. Stevens says he is giving his stage hands all his business permits. The picture men and the vaudeville managers met Oct. 21 and it was agreed to stand together throughout the controversy and a meeting with the union was scheduled for the near future.

Peoples' Changes Policy.

Portland, Ore.—The People's theater has stepped into the market for super-features. Commencing with "Purity" a few weeks ago, the new policy was put into effect. Following "Purity" came "The Common Law," which did excellent business, then "Romeo and Juliet." No change is being made from the regular program, Paramount service being retained.

Plans are being made to rejuvenate the Pickford theater, also owned by the People's Amusement Company. The management is seriously considering giving the theater a newer, shorter name.

The Two "Romeos" Here.

Portland, Ore.—The People's and Majestic theaters were rivals in presenting "Romeo and Juliet" during the week of Oct. 22. The Majestic had the Fox version with Robert Hilliard and Thedo Bara in the title roles and the People's featured the Metro production with Francis Bushman and Beverly Bayne. These theaters were rivals in presenting the Lasky and Fox "Carmen" about a year ago.

Centralia Censors May Go.

Centralia, Wash.—The city council intends to abolish the censorship of motion pictures. The city attorney is preparing an ordinance that prohibits the showing of objectionable films and it is apparent that it is the intent of the council to give authority to the chief of police to pass on the merits of films.

Elite Theater Sold.

Portland, Ore.—The Elite theater, located on the Sandy boulevard, in the Rose City park district, was sold recently by E. H. Young to J. E. Tauch. Mr. Young had made the show house very successful by holding children's matinees and giving special children's programs.

Heard on Portland's Film Row.

F. A. Parin, who recently sold his interest in the Savoy at Eugene, is scouting around for a new location. He was a visitor on the Row recently.

Chris Englemen, who used to run the Palace in Vancouver, Wash., was seen in his old haunts on Film Row. Chris is out of the game now, but says he is not happy. Only one house is running in Vancouver for the reason that the soldiers have all gone to the border.

Reports come from Corvallis that the Sunday closing situation is getting exciting. The students at the Agricultural College have entered the controversy, one of the theaters is said not to meet with their favor and 14 boys have been ducked because they attended the show. The college has 2,000 students. The city council is working on another theater ordinance.

Van D. Brink came to Portland recently to arrange service for the Lyric, Princeville, Ore., with which he is again connected. He formerly owned the house.

Theater License Situation in Dallas, Oreg.

Fees for Picture Shows Raised After Exhibitor Wins Fight for Sunday Opening —Business Men Petition for No License Fee Policy.

DALLAS, Ore.—We reported last week an increase in the theater licenses here, but did not have the figures to give. We have them now. The city council exacts $2.50 a day, $10 a week, $15 a month, $30 a quarter, $60 for six months and $100 a year if paid in advance. The license fees were raised to these amounts after Manager O. C. Smith, of the Orpheum, had won his fight for Sunday opening. Prior to that time the license was $15 a quarter or $40 a year.

On October 16, after the passage of the new license ordinance, Manager Smith presented to the city council a petition signed by 93 out of 100 of the representative business men of Dallas, to abolish the licenses on picture theaters entirely. The council turned down the petition. Another license ordinance was proposed by the council. This is still pending.

During the controversy the Orpheum was closed for two weeks. When it reopened Oct. 17, it did excellent business. Mr. Smith believes he has the public with him. The Orpheum is considered by Portland road men to be one of the most up-to-date theaters in the Willamette valley.

Prior to Mr. Smith's Sunday opening he had to compete with the Chautauqua, which paid no license, showed pictures on Sunday and even received a guarantee of $1,500 to come to Dallas.

Problems of Shopping District Theater

Manager of Small Seattle Picture House Talks of the Show Business—Says She Needs More Posters and More Short Films.

By S. J. Anderson, East Seattle, Wash.

SEATTLE, Wash.—We were around the other day among the five cent theaters down on First avenue near the wholesale district. None of the managers could be located, however, except Miss B. M. Studebaker, of The Dream; but if the men who operate the neighboring theaters can talk business as ably as Miss Studebaker, we intend to keep going until we have interviewed every one of them. The Dream is a clean looking house, both outside and in, and the pictures are clean too. We found the manager right on the job at the box office.

"Of course I am in the business only in a small way," she said. "This house seats only 327. But, comparatively speaking, I expect my profits are almost as much as those of the larger houses uptown just now. I spend nothing for music and advertising. The piano furnishes one and the posters the other. We do need better posters, though, and more of them. Because we depend entirely on our fronts to draw the crowds, we've got to have really good posters if we expect to get the business. People who come to these theaters are no longer attracted by the overdrawn, overcolored sheets that once took their eyes and their nickels. What they want now are true pictures of the scenes in the play, and they like a variety; and that's what the manufacturers don't give us with the shorter features that we use. With a five-reel play we ought to have two good six sheets, two good three sheets, and at least more than one kind of one sheet, instead of just one of each."

"What kind of picture do you find most popular among your patrons?"

"Westerns."

"And the shorter lengths go better than the longer ones?"

"Yes, much better. You see, people who come here usually drop in to pass an hour or less while they wait, and naturally they had rather see one play through than to come in at the first of a long feature and have to leave before the end. And right here I want to say that the showing of too many reels by this class of theater is killing the game, not only for the one where the long feature is given, but for the others as well. By the time a person sits through one of those shows he doesn't want to go to another one for a week, and it's impossible for him to take in two or three in an evening as he used to do in the days of short programs. The exhibitor who runs the long features is paying more for them than he can afford to for the admission he charges, and he is making it harder all the time for the others to get the short subjects. Universal, Mutual, and General are about the only companies that produce short lengths now; and General hasn't nearly the number of them it used to handle, while Universal has just cut down the number of its short releases. Mutual is the only one putting out as many as it ever did, and they can't supply the market.

New Theater at Sprague.

Seattle, Wash.—Wilbur E. Moon, of Ritzville, was in the city several days this week attending to the equipping and furnishing of his new theater in Sprague. The new house will have the same name as the Rex, which he is already operating in Ritzville. The best equipment has been bought.

Hippodrome Theaters Book Pathe.

Seattle, Wash.—While in Seattle on a tour of inspection, Sam Harris, managing director of the Hippodrome theaters on the Pacific Coast, operated by the Harris and Ackerman interests, closed a contract with the Pathe Exchange, Inc., to use Pathe service exclusively for the full week's change in all the Hippodrome theaters in the Pacific Coast States, and in Canada.

World Film Office Notes.

Seattle, Wash.—Hugh Rennie, Northwest manager for World Film, has gone down to Portland to spend a few days.

A new salesman, R. Clint Montgomery, has just been added to the World force. He formerly traveled for Fox through Oregon and Idaho. Mr. Montgomery will cover the territory in around Boise.

Takes Over Sun Photoplay Films.

Seattle, Wash.—"The Whirl of Life," featuring Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle, "Marvelous Maciste," and "The Burglar and the Lady," featuring James J. Corbett, formerly controlled in the states of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, and Montana by the Sun Photoplay Company, have been taken over by the Reel Play Feature Film Company.

W. S. Quinby Changes Policy.

Seattle, Wash.—W. S. Quinby, manager of the Liberty and Bell theaters, Bellingham, Wash., was in the city this week and contracted for Vitagraph films.

British Columbia Notes.

Calgary, Alberta.—Manager Belmont of the Bijou theater, one of the livewire managers of this city, has lately installed a very pretty fountain in the lobby of the house, and has also fitted up an attractive ladies' room, in charge of a colored maid.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Majestic theater, formerly managed by M. Sherman, has recently been taken over by M. J. Williamson, who also conducts the National and Osbourne theaters, and has reopened after a complete renovation, as the Imperial.

Vancouver, B. C.—W. P. Nichols, managing director of the National Amusement Company, has taken out a building permit for $5,000, covering alterations to the Globe theater, and the improvements called for are now under way.

Winnipeg, Man.—J. H. Boothe, manager of the local Mutual branch, recently returned from a trip covering the territory served by his exchange, and reports big bookings on the new Mutual Star Series, with Richard Bennet, Mary Miles Minter, and other favorites.

Prince Rupert, B. C.—The Westholme Opera House has just been taken over by new interests, and will be in charge of E. E. Stilwell, formerly manager of the Majestic theater. Mr. Stilwell is a progressive exhibitor, and has been giving consistently good programs here, using Paramount and Mutual productions, including "The Girl and the Game."

Winnipeg, Man.—A. L. Johnson, manager of the Winnipeg office of the General Film, has just returned from a trip to New York, wher he conferred with the heads of the organization.

Winnipeg, Man.—Manager E. J. Sullivan of the Orpheum theater gave the use of the house on a recent Sunday afternoon, when a concert was held for the benefit of the National Institute for the Blind. Musical selections were rendered by the band of the 222d Battalion, and by various individuals, and moving pictures of the care and training of blinded soldiers and sailors were shown.

Vancouver, B. C.—"Reel Life," the Greenmont educational film, has just made its appearance in this territory, and has attracted a great deal of favorable attention from exhibitors during the past week.

Vancouver's Broadway Now Open

New Picture Theater Has Its Premier on October 16—Has 750 Seats on Main Floor, with 250 in a Spacious Balcony—F. H. Gow to Be the House Manager—Other Members of the Company—Crowds on Opening Night.

By E. C. Thomas, 821 Rogers Bldg., Vancouver, B. C.

VANCOUVER, B. C.—The Broadway theater, the finest suburban house in British Columbia, and situated at the corner of Broadway and Main street, Vancouver, was opened to the public on the evening of October 16, and an immense crowd was on hand for the initial show.

Broadway Theater, Vancouver.

The theater is owned by the Broadway Theatre Company, Limited, formed by the following leading film men: W. P. Nichols, managing director of the National Amusement Co., Ltd., president; J. A. Schuberg, general manager of the Province and Bijou theaters in Winnipeg, vice-president; F. H. Gow, former manager of the old Broadway theater, managing director and secretary-treasurer; W. P. Dewees, general manager of the Rex Theatre Co., Ltd., director. These four men are interested equally in the new enterprise, and all were present at the opening, Mr. Schuberg having made a special trip from Winnipeg. The old theater, one block from the new house, has been closed.

The Broadway has a seating capacity of one thousand, with 750 on the ground floor and the remainder in a spacious balcony. All seats are upholstered in leather, and wide spaces have been provided between rows, so that patrons can sit in comfort. Fifty-three box seats occupy the front of the balcony.

The interior is finished in white, with the single exception of floral decorations flanking the screen. A continuation of the spacious lobby, 12 by 75 feet, extends across the rear of the auditorium, and is pleasingly decorated with potted palms and photographs of various film stars. Music is supplied by a large pipe organ. The operating room is equipped with two projection machines of latest model, spotlight, compensarc, etc., and is in charge of Ray R. Hanson and R. D. Freeman. Pauline Frederick in "The Moment Before" (Famous Players), was the opening attraction, and it is planned to use the Paramount program.

Mr. Gow is a popular and efficient house manager, and has the correct idea regarding the conduct of a theater. Although on the opening night his brother, W. A. Gow, had considerable difficulty in keeping an impatient crowd outside the doors until the first show was over, Mr. Gow remarked to the World man: "Every minute we delay the closing of the first show is costing us money, but I wouldn't allow any overspeeding on a good picture under any circumstances."

Sam Whitehead to Manage Local Standard.

Vancouver, B. C.—Sam W. Whitehead, joint owner of the Canadian rights for "The Spoilers," has just been appointed manager of the Vancouver office of the Standard Film Service, Limited, handling the distribution of the Metro program in Canada, and is now in charge of the entire British Columbia territory, with headquarters in the Orpheum theater building in this city. Abe Smith, formerly booker at the Metro office in Montreal, has come West to occupy a similar position in the local branch.

Mr. Whitehead will continue to handle "The Spoilers" in conjunction with the Metro features, and the big Selig production will undoubtedly prove a valuable asset. Out of his experience gained through four trans-continental booking trips, Mr. Whitehead counsels buyers of Canadian rights for pictures to investigate carefully the license fees demanded of traveling exhibitors before making any purchases, as the exhorbitant fees levied in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta are out of all reason, and throw an almost unbearable burden on buyers of provincial or Canadian rights. An example of this was the payment exacted from the owners of "Cabiria," who were forced to pay $874 before they were permitted to exhibit in Manitoba.

Herbert Lubin of the Metro forces, who has been in Vancouver for some weeks, has left for Winnipeg, where he will confer with A. H. Sawyer, president of the Standard Film Service.

Pythias Lodge Will Build Theater.

Trail, B. C.—N. M. Trafton of this city, and head of the O-Row-Nay circuit of theaters, has just announced that the local Knights of Pythias Lodge, No. 23, of which he is a member, has decided to build a theater for moving pictures on a plot of ground 75 by 100 feet, which is owned by the lodge. The building is to cost $20,000, and on completion will be leased to Mr. Trafton, who will add it to his string of houses.

Will Double Strand's Seating.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Strand theater has closed for a period of two weeks, during which extensive alterations will be made in the house, involving the vacating of the stores in the same building, and the use of this space for theater purposes. The seating capacity will be practically doubled, new seats will be installed, the lobby will be greatly enlarged, and countless electric light bulbs will be attached to the exterior. ladies' rest room will also be provided on the mezzanine floor.

After the reopening an episode of the Unity-Famous Players Film Service serial, "The Yellow Menace," will form part of the bill each week.

Dominion Theater as Picture House.

Winnipeg, Man.—The Dominion theater, considerably changed since its vacation by the Permanent Players, has opened as a picture house, and is now doing a heavy business with Paramount pictures, which have been secured for exclusive first run. W. E. Lawrence is general manager of the enterprise, with Glen Campbell as house manager.

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending November 11 and November 18

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 922, 924, 926, 928.)

General Film Company.

Current Releases.

(Serial No.)

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.

SELIG—So Shall Ye Sow (Two parts—Drama).... 21371-72
VITAGRAPH—New York Rapid Transit (Educ.).. 21373
SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 89, 1916. (Topical).. 21374
BIOGRAPH—The New York Hat (Dr.) (Biograph-Reissue No. 95)..... 21375

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.

ESSANAY—Easy Ed (Two parts—Comedy)..... 21376-77
KALEM—A Desperate Duel (Comedy)..... 21378
BIOGRAPH—The Science of Crime (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph-Reissue No. 96)..... 21379-80

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.

ESSANAY—A Safe Proposition (Comedy)..... 21381
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—Marked "No Funds" (Comedy)..... 21382
KALEM—The Witch of the Dark House (No. 14 of "The Girl From 'Frisco") (Two parts—Dr.).... 21383-84

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.

SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 90, 1916 (Topical).. 21385
VIM—A Warm Reception (Comedy)..... 21386

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—The Question Mark (Three parts—Drama).....21387-88-89
KALEM—The Man From Yukon (No. 4 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama)..... 21390
VITAGRAPH—Weary Willie's Birthday (Comedy). 21391
VIM—Hot Dogs (Comedy)..... 21392

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.

ESSANAY—What I Said, Goes (Three parts—Dr.)..21393-94-95
KALEM—The Lone Point Mystery (No. 105 of "The Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series (Drama).. 21396
SELIG—When Cupid Slipped (Comedy)..... 21397

General Film Company.

Advance Releases.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1916.

SELIG—The Temptation of Adam (Three parts—Drama).
VITAGRAPH—The Second Story Ringer (Comedy).
SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 91, 1916 (Topical).
BIOGRAPH—Near to Earth (Drama) (Biograph-Reissue No. 97).

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1916.

ESSANAY—Not in the News (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—The New Salesman (Comedy).

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1916.

ESSANAY—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 20 (Cartoon-Com.). —A Scenic on the same reel.
VIM FEATURE COMEDY—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).
KALEM—The Mystery of the Braff Bound Chest (No. 15 of "The Girl from 'Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).
BIOGRAPH—Lord Chumley (Three parts—Drama) (Biograph-Reissue No. 98).

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1916.

SELIG—The Selig-Tribune No. 92, 1916 (Topical).
VIM—Mother's Child (Comedy).

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1916.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE—Target of Dreams (Two parts—Drama).
KALEM—The Rogues' Pawn (No. 5 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
VITAGRAPH—The Luck of Jane (Comedy)
VIM—Good and Proper (Comedy).

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1916.

ESSANAY—His Moral Code (Three parts—Drama).
VITAGRAPH—The Man Who Went Sane (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).
KALEM—The Runaway Sleeper (No. 106 of the "Hazards of Helen," Railroad Series) (Drama).
SELIG—The Girl Detective (Drama).

COMPLETE AND ACCURATE LISTS of Regular Program and Feature Pictures Can Always Be Obtained from the Pages of the Moving Picture World. These are Published Two Weeks in Advance of Release Days to Enable Exhibitors to Arrange Their Coming Programs. The Stories of the Pictures in Most Cases are Published on a Like Schedule. Each Synopsis is Headed by a Cast, the Players' Names Being in Parenthesis. Lay Out Your Entertainment From the Information in the Moving Picture World and You Will Not Go Wrong.

BERT WILLIAMS

Produced by

Biograph Company

of the Ziegfeld Follies presented in

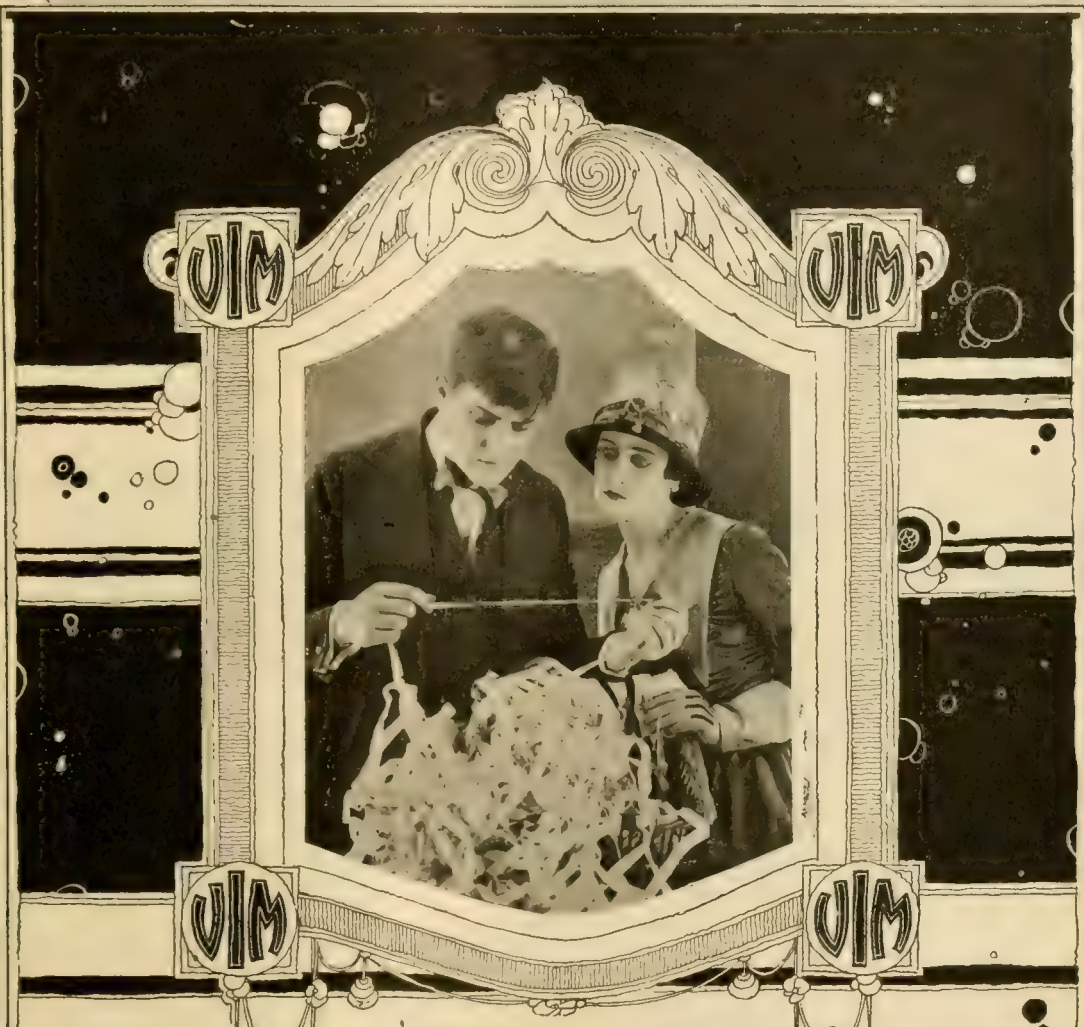
FISH

One Reel Comedy

Released Nov. 21
Through
General Film
Service

General Film Service



REFINED
FEATURE COMEDY
HARRY MYERS &
ROSEMARY THEBY
IN "MARKED, NO FUNDS"
NOVEMBER 8

Calendar of Daily Program Releases

Releases for Weeks Ending November 11 and November 18

(For Extended Table of Current Releases See Pages 922, 924, 926, 928.)

Universal Film Mfg. Company.

Serial No.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1916.

REX—Her Vanished Youth (Drama)..... 01892
BIG U—The Bandit's Wager (Comedy-Drama)..... 01893
L-KO—No release this day.

SPECIAL FOR WEEK OF NOVEMBER 5, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Liberty No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow" (Two part—Drama)..... 01914

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.

RED FEATHER—The Place Beyond the Winds (Five parts—Drama)..... 01896
NESTOR—A Political Tramp (Comedy)..... 01897

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.

L-KO—Alice in Society (Three parts—Comedy) 01898
VICTOR—No release this day.
SPECIAL IMP—The Voice Upstairs (Drama)..... 01899

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.

GOLD SEAL—The Cry of Conscience (Two parts—Drama)..... 01900
L-KO—No release this day.
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—Number 45 (Topical)..... 01901
SPECIAL VICTOR—A Romantic Romeo (Comedy)..... 01902

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.

VICTOR—No release this day.
REX—The Mantle of Deceit (Two parts—Drama) 01903
POWERS—A Pen Trip to Palestine (Cartoon-Educ.) 01904

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.

IMP—The Eel (Two parts—Drama)..... 01905
REX—The Eyes of Love (Drama)..... 01906
NESTOR—Sweedy the Janitor (Comedy)..... 01907
SPECIAL BIG U—The Explosive (Drama)..... 01908

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.

BISON—The Quitter (Two parts—Drama) 01909
LAEMMLE—No release this day.
JOKER—In Love with a Fireman (Comedy)..... 01910

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1916.

VICTOR—Any Old Port in a Storm (Comedy) 01911
LAEMMLE—Shadows of Suspicion (Drama) 01912
L-KO—No release this day.
SPECIAL BIG U—The Powder Trail (Two parts—Drama)..... 01913

SPECIAL FOR WEEK OF NOVEMBER 12, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Liberty No. 14, "A Modern Joan of Arc" (Two parts—Drama)..... 01933

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1916.

RED FEATHER—The Heritage of Hate (Five parts—Drama)..... 01915
NESTOR—Knights of the Bath Tub (Comedy) 01916

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1916.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL—Honor Thy Country (Three parts—Drama)..... 01917
VICTOR—No release this day.
VICTOR—A Case of Beans (Comedy) (Special)..... 01918

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1916.

LAEMMLE—No release this day.
L-KO—A Million Dollar Smash (Two parts—Comedy) 01919
UNIVERSAL ANIMATED WEEKLY—No. 46 (Topical) 01920
BIG U—The Tattooed Drama (Special)..... 01921

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1916.

REX—The Diamond Lure (Drama)..... 01922
BIG U—Lola's Mascot (Two parts—Drama)..... 01923
POWERS—Motor Mat and His Fliv (Cartoon-Com.) 01924
—Ceylon (Educational)..... 01924

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1916.

IMP—Guilty (Two parts—Drama)..... 01925
REX—No release this day.
NESTOR—A Capable Lady Cook (Comedy)..... 01926
BIG U—The Long Search (Drama) (Special)..... 01927

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1916.

BISON—The Son of a Rebel Chief (Two parts—Drama)..... 01928
LAEMMLE—No release this day.
JOKER—Their First Artist (Comedy)..... 01929

Mutual Film Corporation.

Serial No.

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1916.

VOGUE—Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow (Two parts—Comedy)..... 05146-47
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 27 (Mutual Film Mag.).. 05148

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1916.

FILM D'ART—The Ten O'Clock Mystery (Three parts—Drama)..... 05149-50-51
MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—And the Law Says? (American—Five parts—Drama) No. 150)..... 05152

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1916.

GAUMONT—Mutual World Tours (Travel)..... 05152

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1916.

MUTUAL WEEKLY—No. 97 (Topical)..... 05153
GAUMONT—See America First, No. 61 (Scenic)..... 05154
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).... 05154

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9, 1916.

MUTUAL—The False Clew (Two parts—Drama).... 05155-56
AMERICAN—The Fight on the Dam (Drama)..... 05157
MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama; (No. 151)..

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1916.

CUB—His Blushing Bride (Comedy)..... 05158

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1916.

ECLAIR—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Dr.) 05159-60

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1916.

VOGUE—Picture Pirates (Two parts—Comedy).... 05161-62
GAUMONT—Reel Life No. 28 (Mutual Film Mag.).. 05163

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1916.

MUTUAL His Guardian Angel (Two parts—Drama)..... 05164-65
MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTION—Peck o' Pickles (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 152)..... 05166

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1916.

GAUMONT—Mutual Tours of the World (Travel).. 05166

WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1916.

MUTUAL WEEKLY—Number 98 (Topical..... 05167
GAUMONT—See America First No. 62 (Scenic).... 05168
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).... 05168

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 1916.

FILM D'ART—(Title to be announced later)....05169-70-71-72
MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE DE LUXE—Immediate Lee (American—Five Parts—Dr.) (No. 153)....

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1916.

CUB—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy)..... 05173

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1916.

ECLAIR—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama) 05174-75

$$$

Stories of the Films

General Film Company

BIOGRAPH.

THE NEW YORK HAT (Reissue—Nov. 6).—The cast: The girl (Mary Pickford), the minister (Lionel Barrymore); the girl's mother (Kate Bruce); the girl's father (Charles H. Mailes); villagers (Mae Marsh and Claire McDowell).

Before Mary's mother dies she gives to the minister a small pasteboard box, requesting that he open it in secret. At the parsonage he opens the packet and finds that it contains a few bills and numerous coins of various denominations. The minister also finds a letter which reads: "My Beloved Pastor: My husband worked me to death, but I have managed to save a little sum. Take it and from time to time buy my daughter the bits of finery she has always been denied. Let no one know. Mary Hardinge."

Some time after her mother's death Mary becomes dissatisfied with her small old black velvet hat. She summons up courage to ask her austere father for a new hat, but is met with an emphatic refusal. After further inspection of herself in the glass, Mary decides to go out without any hat. She passes two girls of the village who receive her smiling face kindly enough, but refuse to accept her society. At the local millinery store there has just been received a hat from New York with the magnificent price of ten dollars attached. Mary is gazing fondly on the beautiful creation when the minister happens along. He and Mary admire the hat together, and after her departure, remembering the bequest left by the mother, he goes into the store to inspect the hat. The ladies of the church within are aroused to a high pitch of suppressed excitement. After bidding him a polite departure, they at once begin to speculate. Mary at home is dreaming of the hat, when the minister enters with a bandbox. He presents it to Mary with little comment, and goes. Mary is greatly astonished upon opening the box to find the object of her desire.

The next Sunday morning Mary dons her new acquisition and marches off to church. On the way she passes and bows to other church-goers in her innocent endeavor to display the hat, but it is not until after church that the minister and Mary really are linked in a scandal. On her way out of church she passes the three ladies on the Church Board, the gossips at the store who witnessed the purchase, who show their disapproval. Later these three ladies meet the father of his way from church and acquaint him with the facts of the case. He arrives home before Mary. She enters guiltily, remembering the snubs received after church, and hides her hat behind her. He demands that she bring it forth, and in a tirade proceeds to tear it to shreds. He leaves Mary hugging the remains of the fond creation to herself, while he goes forth to seek reparation from the minister.

When Mary realizes this she hastens after him and meets the Church Board on the way to the minister's to investigate the scandal. Mary intercepts them and arrives before them. In telling him she sinks on her knees before him and he lifts her face the better to hear what she is saying. The men and women of the board enter and demand an explanation. The minister shows them the request of the dead mother, and they are about to retire with apologies, when the father, having failed to find the minister at the church, comes. He also is shown the letter, and perhaps sees his character in its true light for a moment. The board departs, while the minister is suddenly filled with desire to assume another trust.

THE SCIENCE OF CRIME (Two Parts—Nov. 7).—The cast: John Blackwell (Franklin Ritchie); Henry Jameston (William Russell); Frederick Blackwell (George Morgan); Mrs. Blackwell (Kate Bruce); Frederick Blackwell's Sweetheart (Louise Vale); Mrs. Jameston (Isabel Rea); Gangster (William Jefferson).

John Blackwell had a great reputation as a criminologist. A certain West had been terrorizing the district of late, but the little evidence which was obtained was insufficient to convict him. However, upon the eloquent testimony of Blackwell, the gangster was sent up for a term of five years. During that time John Blackwell's son Fred had also risen to prominence and had made a mark as a criminal lawyer. One of his theories seemed to be that a type was marked for a criminal—that crime came not so much by association as by heredity. It was by this argument that he won his first case.

Later, young Blackwell was also in the habit of going on frequent slumming trips to study criminology. On one of these occasions he was seen by West, now released from prison, and, mindful of the fact that young Blackwell was the son of the man who sent him up, he sought a chance for revenge. Coming into the front dance hall from the back saloon, he knocked against one of the party and at the same time the lights were suddenly put out by another member of the gang. Many shots were exchanged, but when the affair was over young Blackwell was missing. West had taken him to the headquarters of the gang. A blow on the head had caused loss of memory. Although the father, John Blackwell, put many detectives on the case, he was unable to trace his son, who, a changed man with loss of memory, now lived as a crook. The case reached a crisis at the annual Stedman ball, given by Senator Stedman on his return from Washington. Here he met the very girl whom he had previously promised to marry and robbed her of her necklace. She was unable to recognize him on account of the growth of his beard.

The head of the police department asked John Blackwell to take charge of the investigation against the burglars. In his den West read the account of Blackwell's taking charge of the case. He saw another chance for revenge. He wrote the following note to Blackwell: "Be at 132 Beverly Place tonight and youse can get your burglar." Blackwell went to 132 Beverly Place that night and the house was put in darkness ready to receive the burglar. Young Blackwell entered and was suddenly confronted by the police. The lights were turned up and there stood the father holding up his own son, yet both quite unaware of the fact. In his den West gloated over his revenge. At the trial the senior Blackwell used the same arguments which young Blackwell had used five years before in convicting the criminal under his first case. "He is a marked type, not a criminal by association, but by heredity." The surroundings, the face of the man before him and the words brought the light of reason to the young man's face. His memory was restored and son and father recognized each other. So the family was again united; but it is doubtful if the noted experts on crime ever used the argument that crime was a matter of heredity, not association again.

VITAGRAPH.

THE GAME THAT FAILED (Nov. 3).—The story tells of Mable and Willie, who are sweethearts. They quarrel. Each one plans to make the other jealous by appearing with other girls and other fellows respectively. Through unforeseen circumstances the plots of each go astray and they finally decide to beg one another's forgiveness and write tender letters. They meet at the mail box! Of course, the letters are never sent!

THE HEART OF A FOOL (Broadway Star Feature—Three parts—Nov. 4). The picture tells a story of a man named "Gash" who, through his love for children, attempts entering a burning building and loses his memory. He and his mother are soon in stringent circumstances owing to his mental deficiency and he continually hangs about the railroad station. One day a Mrs. Meredith stops at his station with a baby in her arms. She leaves the baby with "Gash," while she crosses the road to the dairy to get some milk.

Unknown to "Gash" she is run over and hastened to a hospital. Realizing that he is left with the baby, "Gash" returns home and he and his mother care for the child. The father, who is a wealthy man, receives a letter from a blackhand stating that the child will be stolen during the journey which his wife has undertaken unless he sends a large amount of money.

He immediately sends detectives to find his wife and baby who, he learns, never arrived in Chicago. Through an accident the men and father come across "Gash" and are soon led to the baby. The mother is then found and a happy reunion follows, wherein "Gash's" queerness is overcome by an operation.

VIM.

TWIN FLATS (Nov. 2).—Babe and Raymond, two pals, and tenants in the Riverside Apartments, are both ruled by wives who insist on their remaining home nights. The night of a big poker game at the club, the pals, frame up a scheme whereby, appearing to flirt with each other's wives, a fight will follow and in the melee, Babe and Raymond will beat it to the club. The scheme works fine, for after the fake fight is over an ambulance is summoned to carry Raymond off to the hospital. On the way to the hospital, Raymond makes a spectacular escape from the ambulance and reaches the club only to learn that Babe has not yet arrived.

Raymond with the assistance of the other club members, masked as burglars, force an entrance into Babe's flat. Kate, Babe's husky spouse, mistaking Raymond and his pals for regular burglars, enters the combat, and routs the entire crowd, reserving Raymond as her last victim. During the confusion, Babe escapes and arrives at the club, where he learns with consternation of the treatment meted out to his club mates. Raymond has fared even worse than the others, and when Kate gets through with him he surely is a fit subject for the hospital, and this time he makes no objection to being carried there, where he is bandaged and put into bed.

Babe, in the meantime, has been a heavy winner in the card game and also has partaken of innumerable liquid refreshments. When he arrives at the apartment house he stumbles into Raymond's flat. Mrs. Raymond, waiting with rolling pin armed for the return of her hubby, brings down meant for Raymond's reception. Stunned and battered. Babe is also carried to the hospital, where he finds himself in the next bed to his pal.

IN THE RANKS (Nov. 3).—The cast: Pokes (Robert Burns); Jabbs (Walter Stull); A Deserter (Frank Hanson); Pokes' Sweetheart (Ethel Burton).

Realizing the peculiar attraction that soldiers' uniforms seem to possess for all girls, Jabbs, after being rejected by Ethel, in favor of Pokes, decides to enlist in the army. In this case, however, the exception seemed to be the rule, for instead of admiring glances from Ethel, Jabbs receives only laughter and sarcasm. Later, Ethel has cause to regret her decision, for Poke's coming to Ethel's lawn fete attired in a soldiers uniform, which he has secured from a deserter, becomes enamored of the danseuse whom Ethel has engaged to entertain her guests. Enraged at Pokes' perfidy, Ethel, to secure revenge, informs the soldiers who are seeking the real deserter that Pokes is the man for whom they are searching. Pokes is led back to the camp grounds despite his protests that he is only wearing the uniform as a masquerade. At the camp he is brought before Jabbs (who is now a general) and other officers for trial, and Jabbs immediately sentences Pokes to be shot. Pokes is led off by a firing squad for execution but chance intervenes and Pokes, making the most of his advantage, pulls the bullets from the cartridges and makes a dash for liberty.

A WARM RECEPTION (Nov. 9).—Just because Mrs. Price, known to her old associates in Shanty Alley, as Kate, has suddenly acquired heaps of money, she decides that as a suitor for the hand of her daughter, Florence, Babe is as welcome as a glass of poison. Babe is in despair, but learning that Kate is planning a big reception in honor of Count Brokski, to whom she hopes to marry Florence, Babe has

If your newsdealer cannot or will not supply you every week with a copy of this paper, send your subscription direct for one year or six months to address below. You cannot afford to miss a single issue.

See Title Page for Rates.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Ave., N. Y. City

his friends kidnap Kate and with the help of Florence and the maid, dresses up in Kate's clothes and receives the guests.

What Babe does to the guests and the Count in particular, is a shame, and although the money looks over-inviting to the Count, nevertheless the wallops handed to him by the supposed mother, takes away all the ardor of the poor Count. Kate, meanwhile, is putting up the battle of her life with the kidnappers, but finally they subdue her and bind her securely. Babe appears on the scene, and after pretending a wonderful fight, succeeds in releasing Kate, and bringing her home. The grateful mother decides that our hero, even if he is fat and of humble birth, is good enough for her as a son-in-law.

HOT DOGS (Nov. 10)—Nobody could ever accuse Pokes of being afraid of hard work; he like it so well that he could sleep right alongside of it. The morning Mrs. Pokes receives word that her husband has received an appointment as City Dog Catcher, she loses no time in routing her tired spouse from his downy bed and rushes him over to the dog pound, where Jabbs is waiting for him. Jabbs instructs Pokes in the gentle art of swinging the net on all stray dogs and orders him to go out and make good.

In his anxiety to win the medal as champion dog catcher, Pokes tries to capture every dog he spies, no matter where they are or to whom they belong. After getting into all kinds of trouble because of his misplaced zeal, Pokes decides to partake of a little liquid refreshment. Inside the cafe, his attention is attracted by the free lunch. After devouring about a ton of "hot dogs," Pokes is transformed into a dog, and only after the strenuous action on the part of Jabbs and Mrs. Pokes is the would-be dog catcher subdued and safely muzzled.

ESSANAY.

EASY ED (Two parts—Nov. 7).—The cast: Easy Ed (Harry Dunkinson); Imogene Hey (Florence Oberle); Archibald Nasturtion (Royal Dezinger); Elsie Allcush (Virginia Bowker).

As the freight pulls in, Easy Ed clambers down from his side-door Pullman and takes a seat under the water tank. Feeling the need of food he takes it away from an Italian and is chased by the whole gang. He clambers up the fire escape of an exclusive hotel and finds himself in the room of Archibald Nasturtion, who mistakes him for his eccentric millionaire uncle, who goes about as a tramp. With his sweetheart, Elsie Allcush, Archibald takes his uncle out to dine. Ed finds a hair in the soup and goes back to the kitchen to discover its origin. It belongs to the French chef and a riot ensues. The party hastens out to attend a dance, where the real Uncle Ed appears. The hobo uncle is set upon by all the dancers and in escaping, finds himself in the room of Imogene Hey, spinster, who has determined to become a vampire. She tests her amateur wiles on the tramp until he screams for help. Leaping out of the window with the old maid vampire on his trail, Easy Ed plunges into the lake to escape. At this point the hobo wakes up and finds the train crew has turned the water pipe on him.

A SAFE PROPOSITION (Nov. 8).—The cast: The Burglar (Ben Turpin); the policeman (Victor Potel).

Ben Turpin decides to become a burglar. The first thing is to find a place to rob. He notices a householder installing a safe. The movers go from the house to the yard, back and forth as the man's wife, who doesn't want the safe, drives them out with bribes. The man raises the tip each time and the movers continue their trips with increasing profits. At nightfall Turpin and his accomplice break into the house and find the safe empty. This will never do. So they fill it with cigars, wines, tapestry and everything else available. Then it becomes a safe worthy of stealing. Victor Potel, the policeman, is frightened in the midst of his spooning with the maid so the burglars get out of the house with the safe. Before a squad of police can capture them the lady of the house comes out and presents them with plenty of money for removing the safe.

WHAT I SAID, GOES (Three parts—Nov 11)—The cast: Dick Mason (Richard C. Travers); Dorothy Manners (Gertrude Glover); her father (John Cossar); Mason, Sr. (Thomas Commerford); Frank Esmond (Fred Malatesta).

Shortly after the engagement of Dorothy Manners to Frank Esmond, manager of her father's contracting firm, is announced, she is visited by a girl who warns her against the man. Suspicious, Dorothy arranges to disappear, ostensibly on a visit to her aunt. Instead, she sends her aunt a series of letters to be sent her father, and obtains a position—disguised as much as possible—in her father's office to observe Esmond. The manager is puzzled. He is certain she is Dorothy, but he is constantly receiving letters from her in another city.

Dick Mason, has been put out by his father, a rival contractor. He meets Dorothy as a working girl in the same boarding house. Manners gives him work, thinking it is a good joke on his rival. Esmond, growing bold, makes advances to the girl and is frustrated by Dick.

When the elder Mason finds his son is making good he invites him to return home. Manners and his daughter are dinner guests. When the two clerks meet in these surroundings the girl produces a note written the day before by Dick. It reads, "I told you I was going to marry you. Well, what I said goes." "I found your note," she says, and everything is all settled before the father's reveal to the young persons their true identities.

SELIG.

SELIG TRIBUNE NO. 84 (Oct. 19).

Los Angeles, Cal.—Mrs. Shorpless, said to be the oldest white woman in the United States, celebrates her 106th birthday.

Pesaro, Italy.—This town lies in ruins as the result of the great earthquake felt here on September 10.

Brownwood, Texas.—It has remained for the Lone Star State in this country of champion worshippers, to develop the champion goat roper of the world, who ropes, throws, and ties in 91½ seconds.

Denver, Colo.—This picture proves that baseball's a national institution. Crowds here watching the score board of the world's series games.

Madison, Wis.—The graceful dome on Main Hall, University of Wisconsin, is completely destroyed by fire.

Indianapolis, Ind.—President Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson and his staff, attends the Centennial celebration.

Lascruces, N. M.—The boys of the Massachusetts, Ohio, Kentucky, New Mexico, and Tennessee militia, took part in a series of maneuvers between this place and El Paso, under command of Brigadier General Morton.

New York, N. Y.—Our ambassador to Germany, Mr. Gerard, reaches home and is rumored to be charged with personal communications from the Kaiser to President Wilson regarding peace proposals.

New York, N. Y.—Among the notables arriving in America is Lina Cavillieri, the beautiful prima donna on her way to join the Chicago-Philadelphia Opera Company.

Chicago, Ill.—Many lives are imperiled and more than a score of firemen are injured in a fire which destroys a huge furniture plant here.

New York, N. Y.—Miss Nancy Power, the prettiest girl to arrive on the steamship St. Louis, comes from London to fill an engagement on the American stage, after selling $5,000 worth of silk flags for the Red Cross on the streets of London.

Washington, D. C.—The distinguished body of experts appointed by the Secretary of War as the "Machine Gun Board," meet for the first time and are here seen examining the Lewis gun, adopted almost universally by European nations.

SELIG-TRIBUNE NO. 85 (Oct. 23).

Washington, D. C.—The new Japanese Ambassador, Aimaro Sato, pays his first official call on the Secretary of State.

Golden, Col.—In line with the policy of the War Department to replace national guardsmen, ordered home, with an equivalent number from state mobolization camps, the First and Second Battalions leave here for San Antonio.

Bayonne, N. J.—Members of the fire department, armed deputies, and all available officers are active here to prevent a continuance of the rioting, bloodshed and looting which have occurred during the strike of Standard Oil employees.

Newport, R. I.—Society attends the circus given by the "Jackies" of the United States Naval Station for the benefit of the Naval Aid Society.

London, England.—General Sir Sam Hughes of Canada, as an interested spectator at a baseball game between Canadians and Americans on the Queen's Club Grounds.

London, England.—Having received their final training, these young Canadian boys leave for the front to fight for "Old England."

Chicago, Ill.—Charles E. Hughes, Republican nominee for President, en route to Michigan, stops here for an hour to confer with Republican party managers. Mrs. Hughes is seen at her husband's side.

Niagara Falls, N. Y.—The "Maid of the Mist," with a record of many thousands of trips without a mishap, finally meets with an accident to her machinery which puts her out of commission for the balance of the season.

Chicago, Ill.—Using acetylene gas torches to cut steel girders, saves four months' time in the destruction of an old building to make room for a new railroad terminus.

Chicago, Ill.—Sidney Hatch, of the Mystic Athletic Club, breaks the record made in 1907 by Corey, for 91 miles from Milwaukee to Chicago, by four hours and twenty-three minutes.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The submarine Holland No. 9, first successful underwater craft ever constructed, is cut to pieces with acetylene gas before being taken to New York for exhibition at the Bronx International Exposition.

SO SHALL YE REAP (Three parts—Nov. 6).—The cast: Francis Norton (E. J. Brady); Madeline, his wife (Lillian Hamilton); Robert, their son (Robyn Adair); Mary Norton, Robert's wife (Virginia Kirtley); Agnes Welton (Eugenie Forde). Scenario by Leo D. Maloney and Leo Pierson. Directed by Burton L. King.

Madeline, wife of Francis Norton, has all her life been neglected, and on her death bed she is happy in anticipation of a sweet relief from misery and woe, for Francis Norton has taken into their once happy home, another woman; this fact unbeknown to Robert, their only son. When called by his mother's last illness Robert and his wife Mary, enter his father's home, and the young man is amazed to see another woman in the arms of his father. This fact, together with the sudden death of his beloved mother, causes Robert to become prostrated.

As he raves, his father urges the physician to give him morphine and this is done. A year has passed, and Mary Norton, the wife of Robert, is happy in the anticipation of approaching motherhood. Her husband, in the meantime, comes to the awful realization that he is bound with the shackles of the morphine habit. As time goes on, he sacrifices wife, home, happiness, everything, for the insidious drug.

Francis Norton has married the woman for whom he had an infatuation. However, he, too, realizes the wages of sin when he finds this woman in the arms of another man.

Morphine has exacted an awful toll, causing a childless wife to become poverty stricken, and a once loving husband to become a wanderer. One night a vision of what might have been comes to Robert Norton as he sleeps under the influence of dope. With one mighty effort, he severs habits cable and becomes a man again. With his wife, again comes happiness, while the father, the cause of his downfall, sinks into the dregs.

WHEN CUPID SLIPPED (Nov. 11)—The cast: Lizzie (Victoria Forde); her father (Pat Chrisman); Hiram (Sid Jordan). Written and produced by Victoria Forde.

Lizzie and Hiram, in love with one another, decide to elope. Lizzie's Pa does not favor the union. The sheriff of the county receives word that a couple of "nuts" have escaped from an asylum.

Lizzie and Hiram steal downstairs, clamber into a buggy and drive away, seeking a minister. Pa discovers their escape and starts in pursuit. He unfortunately spies the nutty couple, who are also driving along, and follows them, but too late discovers that they are strangers to him. However, he places them in jail.

The sheriff has gone forth in search of the two lunatics and mistakes Lizzie and Hiram for them. He arrests the elopers, and places them in jail as the supposed lunatics. There Lizzie and Hiram meet Lizzie's Pa. He escorts Lizzie home and sets her to peeling potatoes.

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURE.

THE QUESTION MARK (Three Parts—Nov. 10).—George Harding, a farmer boy, driving home from the minister's with his young bride, is passed by a stranger who throws a bundle into his rig. A moment later another rig, containing a young couple, rounds the bend in the road and passes Harding in pursuit of the first team. After the two teams have disappeared, Harding and his bride open the bundle and discover a tiny baby girl. When George arrives home with his bride his mother is horror-struck at the sight of the baby and refuses to acknowledge her son's wife. George and his wife leave for the city, taking the baby with them, and a farmer who had seen the incident, tells George's parents about it. The old farmer writes George, confessing his error and pleading with him to bring his wife home. George chooses to locate in the city, where he opens a theatrical supply shop.

Ione, the adopted child, grows to young womanhood and becomes an expert costumer and wig maker. One day while at the seashore Ione ventures too far up the cliff. Harding, in trying to rescue her, breaks his hip and becomes permanently injured. Ione undertakes to row back to the resort. She is caught in a storm, breaks an oar, and is about swamped when Bert Alguire, the son of the rich Henry Alguire, discovers her boat and rescues the party, accompanying them back to the city.

Blair, a noted crook, and Neil, his accomplice, plan to rob the Alguire home. Blair visits the Harding store for wigs and becomes infatuated with Ione. He buys a blonde wig for Neil, who is later engaged as a nurse and companion to Alguire's invalid wife in order that she may locate the family jewels and money.

Bert Alguire goes to the store for wigs and costumes to use in private theatricals and induces Ione to take part in his play. While a rehearsal is in progress at the Alguire home, Nell admit Bert disguised with wig and beard bought of Ione. Bert succeeds in robbing the safe but is surprised by Bert. A fight ensues and Blair and Nell escape. Ione tells of the blonde wig and other goods sold to Blair. Bert requests his father to keep the affair out of the officers hands and let him and Ione ferret the case.

Among the papers stolen from the safe is a clipping nineteen years old, in which Alguire advertised for information concerning a kidnapped child, offering a reward, and stating the baby had a heart-shaped birthmark under the left arm. Blair finds the clipping. The next day he tosses the blonde wig back to Ione to dye. Ione raises her arm and he discovers a mark corresponding to the one mentioned in the clipping. Concluding he has discovered the lost child, he writes a letter to Mr. Alguire asking if his offer of a reward made nineteen years ago still holds good. Alguire is about to renew the offer when Bert again gets permission to work on the case.

During this time Bert and Ione become engaged, the engagement being sanctioned by both Ione's foster parents and Bert's parents. Ione is unsuspicious that she is other than the Harding's own child. Bert determines to visit the locality where his little sister was kidnapped. Ione is to disguise herself as an old woman and sleuth Blair. While in the park looking over papers and letters stolen from the Alguire safe, Blair drops the cliping telling of the kidnapped child. Ione is watching, secures the paper, hides it on her person and follows Blair to his rooms. The officers are sent to arrest Blair and Nell. Blair knocks both officers down and escapes. A chase ensues, Nell takes one direction and Blair another. He joins Nell at the docks and then jumps into a small boat. The officers arrive and shoot, wounding Blair. Nell endeavors to aid him when both fall overboard and are drowned.

Ione reads the clipping picked up in the park and learns that the Alguires once lost a child with a birth-mark similar to hers. She tells Harding and his wife, who realize that she is the daughter of the rich Alguires and that she is engaged to marry her own brother. Ione is prostrated.

In the meantime Bert visits the locality of the kidnapping and discovers that George Harding adopted the child which came to him so mysteriously and that he is engaged to his own sister. He returns heavy hearted, and tells his parents that Ione is their long lost daughter. Ione and the Hardings are sent for. The two young people are heartbroken. The invalid mother, however, tells them that Bert was taken from an orphanage by her shortly after Ione was stolen.

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

MARKED 'NO FUNDS (Nov. 8).—Harry is a stock broker, but business is poor and he cannot buy Rose the new automobile coat she wants. He is sitting in the office worrying about last month's rent, when a prosperous stranger is ushered in. The stranger gives an order for ten thousand shares of General Munitions, preferred, and gives his check for ten thousand dollars to cover the margins. Harry is so overjoyed at the order that he does not take the precaution to ask the stranger who he is. He 'phones the order to another broker and gets the stock. Then he 'phones Rose to come down and get the coat.

They celebrate the occasion, and next morning Harry goes to the office hoping that more prosperous strangers will come in. He is taken aback when the first visitor is a bank runner with the check marked "No funds." He starts to "flirt" with a nice nickle-plated revolver when he takes a look at the tape. "G. M." is going up by quarters and halves and then some. Harry does not know how to conceal his joy. But in walks the prosperous stranger with a demand for his stock and a check to cover the entire amount. Harry shows him the other check and the stranger explains that he forgot that he no longer had an account there and offers to go over to the bank and get the larger check certified.

It looks very much as if Harry would have to be satisfied with a buying commission only, when in walked a couple of huskies who grab the stranger and explain that he is an escaped lunatic with a penchant for playing the market. Clearly the stock is Harry's and he takes down a handsome profit.

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

LAEMMLE.

THE EEL (Two parts—Nov. 10).—The cast: "Three-Armed Maggie" (Betty Schade); Jack Carter (Harry Keenan). "Eel" (Percy Challenger). Scenario by William Parker. Produced by H. Millard.

A hatless man, in evening dress, breaks the window on the eighth floor of a down-town office building and dashes down the fire escape, followed by a policeman, who is firing a revolver at him. The fugitive escapes.

"Three-Armed Maggie" is telling the "Eel" an amusing episode of stealing a purse from a society dowager, when the young man enters by way of a secret door. He is Jack Carter, a recent arrival in the criminal circles, but whose dash has endeared him to the Eel. Maggie is also a recent recruit and a love interest has sprung up between them. The Eel notes this and his fiendish jealousy is aroused. Jack says that the police have just raided the gambling establishment of "English Joe," the Eel's first lieutenant. In the raid the police kill "English Joe." The Eel says that the chief must die and determines to get rid of Jack at the same time. He juggles the ballot box so that when lots are drawn to kill the chief the job falls to Jack.

Maggie pleads with Jack not to carry out the deed, but he is determined. Maggie makes known to the chief over the telephone her identity as a Secret Service worker. She warns the chief of the death plot so that the man she loves will not be a murderer. To her surprise the chief laughs heartily and says he is not afraid of any one of the name of Jack.

At midnight as the crooks are all gathered in Eel's headquarters Jack leads a police raid on the place. In the thrilling battle that ensues Jack urges Maggie to escape and try to reform. She refuses to go. When all the crooks are subdued Jack urges the chief to give Maggie a chance to reform. The chief says:

"I guess you don't know each other. Miss Ruth Neal, shake hands with Stephen Gray, the millionaire vice crusader, recently elected District Attorney."

SHADOWS OF SUSPICION (Nov. 12).—The cast: Henry Dixon (Lee Hill), Oliver Dixon (Maude George); Frank Bryce (Clyde Benson); May Latham (Gertrude Astor). Written by Arthur Maude and Constance Crawley. Produced by Donald MacDonald.

Frank Bryce is infatuated with Olive Dixon and endeavors in a subtle way to poison her mind against her husband. Olive will not believe that her husband is unfaithful and spurns Bryce's love. But Bryce takes her for a stroll in the garden, and, coming to a small summer house, she observes through the curtain a man whom she supposes is her husband caressing a woman whom she thinks must be May Latham.

Leaving a note for her husband, telling him what she has seen, she goes to their winter apartment, which has been closed, followed, unknown to her, by Bryce.

She prepares to retire when there comes a knock at her door, and, opening it, she is confronted by Bryce, who madly declares his love for her. She repulses him, telling him that she still loves her husband. Suddenly they hear a knock at the door. She pushes him into the bedroom and opens the door to find her husband, who had followed her. He explains that the man whom she saw caressing her cousin was her cousin's husband.

For the moment, in the joy of being reunited she forgets the man in the bedroom, but is terrified when she thinks of him. Dixon declares that he could find her if he were blind, and she places a bandage about his eyes, declaring she will put him to the test. And so it is that Bryce makes his escape and the husband and wife are happy.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY NO. 43 (Oct. 25).

One Dies Thirteen Hurt in Wreck.—500 passengers saved by engineer who slows up train before crash comes—Minneapolis, Minn.

250,000 Honor Slain Nurse.—Whole province join in demonstration at funeral of Red Cross girl, killed on battle line—Aritzo, Italy.

The "Drys" in War.—Camels replace horses and mules in transporting army over waterless desert.—Somewhere in Turkey.

Throng to See Wrecked Zeppelin.—Crowds of curious pleasure-seekers view warship of air, "sunk" by gun fire.—London, England.

Stork Visits Lioness.—Christening three baby lions in Central Park "Zoo."—New York City.

25,000 Glorify Cheese.—Record throng makes third annual "cheese" day pageant huge success.—Monroe, Wis. Sub-title: Handing out welsh rarebits.

Dewey's Ship in Drydock.—The Olympia, famous flagship, at the battle of Manila Bay, is given thorough overhauling.—Charleston, S. C. Sub title: Air choppers cleaning off barnacles.

She Cheats Death Often.—Ruth Law, queen of aviators, risks life at Fair.—Wichita, Kan. Sub-titles: Looping the loop. Throws dimes to newsies. Champion stilt dancer.

President Given Rousing Welcome.—Tremendous demonstration given President Wilson as he leads parade to reviewing stand.—Indianapolis, Ind.

Archers Show Skill.—Many compete with bow and arrow at tournament when ancient sport is revived.—Newton Center, Mass.

They're Cops, Not Soldiers.—Police who studied war game in preparedness plan, parade in khaki to show military achievement.—New York City. Sub-titles: In police uniform. As soldiers again. Mayor Mitchel and Police Commissioner Woods. The machine gun squad.

College Has Birthday.—Historical pageant marks the 200th anniversary of the establishing of Yale University in New Haven, Conn.

Giant "Baby" Joins Navy.—Arizona, newest and most formidable dreadnought, goes into commission—Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y. Sub-titles: Capt. John D. McDonald. Powerful 14-inch three-gun turrets.

Monkey Lives Like Millionaire.—Pete Montebello travels first cabin across ocean, then lives at high-priced hotel.—New York City. Sub-titles: Leaving his hotel for morning ride. Riverside drives pleases him. Carries $50,000 life insurance policy.

Cartoons by Hy Mayer.

BIG U.

"THE EVIDENCE" (Special Release—Nov. 10).—Bob is the head of a placer mine where they get the gold out of the ground by troughing great streams of water on the earth and then sifting the earth that is washed down. In the camp there is a girl who waits on the table, and a cook who is all the time trying to force his attentions on her. At one time Bob protects the girl and in this way earns the undying hate of the cook.

Then there comes about the camp a tramp, who refuses to leave at Bob's command. They have a fight on the hill, over where the streams of water have been arranged to play against the hill. In the struggle Bob is overcome and is about to be thrown to a sure death, as some one has turned on the water. But the girl sees his plight and turns off the stream in time to save him. They do not know who turned on the water, but at last it is found to be the cook, as his finger print on the handle gives him away.

"THE POWDER TRAIL" (Special Release—Nov. 12).—The cast: Captain Alverez (Francis Ford); Senora Alverez (Grace Cunard); Lieut. Jones (Sherman Bainbridge). (Written by Grace Cunard. Produced by Francis Ford.

Captain Alverez is the captain commanding the Spanish forces that are stationed at Manila at a certain fort that is essential to the Americans, who are invading the city. The captain is a dissolute sort of man, and, in spite of the fact that his wife is pretty, he prefers the company of the other officers and spends all his time in gambling. One day the Senora gets sick and calls the American army surgeon, who is in camp near by. As yet there are no actual hostilities between the armies. The doctor comes and a mutual interest arises between the two.

Then comes the actual battle, and the captain, fearful that his wife is going to give away some secret to the enemy, locks her up in a barn. There she finds a dead soldier and dresses up in his uniform. In the meanwhile the battle has been raging and there is not much to choose between the two armies. Lieut. Jones, although with the medical corps, is fighting with the troops, and they are in great danger from the battery that is commanded by Alverez. So the Senora gets a barrel of powder and, making a whole in it, rolls it toward the battery. Then she lights the trail that the powder makes, and the whole battery and her husband as well are blown to kingdom come.

JOKER.

"IN LOVE WITH A FIREMAN" (Nov. 11).—The cast: Bill (William Franey); Gail (Gail Henry); Heine (Charles Conklin); Lillian (Lillian Peacock); Moranti (Milburn Moranti). Written by Walter H. Newman. Produced by W. W. Beaudine.

Bill is the head of the fire department and boards at the house that is kept by Gail. They are in love with each other, but Heine interferes. Then there comes to town an actor by the name of Moranti. He suggests that they give a play with all the local talent, and they agree that it is a very good plan. But Heine is not allowed to be in it and gets peeved.

On the night of the performance he decides that he must break up the show, so he gets out and rings the fire bell. The firemen in the play all leave and the show has to stop until they go to the false alarm. But then a little while later the house that Gail runs actually takes fire and Heine rings the bell for all he is worth, but this time they all think that it is a joke and do not come. The old house burns, and when Gail finds it out she faints.

VICTOR.

"A ROAMING ROMEO" (Special Release—Nov. 8).—Nellie is of a romantic nature, and when she hears the tenor at the concert sing she thinks that she was made for him. So she starts to write a note, but as she begins there comes a tramp singer in the street outside and she throws him a kiss com- in the spot on which the alarming note is written. The next three that she is in love with him and the next six comes at the invitation specified. The other that also sets a note and the two of them come to her house.

When both of her lovers are in the house she is terrified to hear her husband coming home. She put the two angry in a wardrobe that is in the room and then trusts to luck and her head. Her husband finds the men and then they are so angry at the reception that they receive that they beat up hubby and then depart.

"ANY OLD DUKE WILL DO" (Nov. 12).—The cast: Lord Dunraven (Ernie Shields); Tramp (Harry Depp); Mrs. Murfe (Countess Du Cello); Elizabeth (Verne Mitchell). Written by R. A. Dillon. Produced by P. C. Hartigan. Mr. Murfe decides that she will give a big party for her daughter, Elizabeth, and invites only the elite of the town. She learns that Lord Dunraven is visiting the Hermit Club, so she decides to invite him.

Lord Dunraven, upon receipt of the invitation, laughingly tells some of the club members that it is the title she is after. He makes a wager that he will secure a tramp, dress him in his clothing he himself will don the tramps attire, and Mrs. Murfe will accept the tramp as Lord Dunraven.

He carries out his plan, and the tramp is accepted as Lord Dunraven in spite of his crude and uncouth manner. The real Lord Dunraven watches outside the window, but not for long, for a policeman annexes him and hauls him off to the police station, from which he frantically phones some of the club members. They think it a good joke and leave him there for a while.

He finally manages to escape from the jail and bursts in upon the startled Mrs. Murfe and her daughter and tells them what has happened, much to their amazement and confusion.

IMP.

THE VOICE UPSTAIRS (Special Release—Nov. 7).—Pierre is an anarchist who makes bombs in a little cellar that the police have never been able to find, although they have tried many times, as Pierre is notorious. He is engaged to be married to Leah and the two are very happy in their love. But one day he sees her in the arms of another and thinks that she has been untrue. When she finds out that he is not going to marry her she is so incensed that she tells the police where his den is. Then later she repents and goes to warn him of his danger.

Just as Leah arrives the officers knock at the door. Pierre is about to blow the whole place to atoms with a bomb when he hears a child playing upstairs and he cannot bear to kill the innocent creature. So he allows himself to be taken into custody, although it means certain death.

POWERS.

HIGH LIFE ON A FARM (Nov. 9).—This is just a little film designed to show the progress that farming has attained in the last century. The methods of yesteryear are shown and beside them are demonstrated the way that things are done to-day. Interpolated in the film at appropriate points are some of the cartoons that have made the name of Hy. Mayer synonomous with mirth.

NESTOR.

A POLITICAL TRAMP (Nov. 6).—The cast: Pete (Eddie Lyons); Sandy (Lee Moran); Mayor (Fred Gamble), His Wife (Countess Du Cello); Jane (Priscilla Dean); Gurgle (Harry Nolan). Scenario by Charles J. Wilson, Jr. Produced by L. W. Chaudet.

Pete and Sandy, fellow tramps, come across the auto of Oscar Gurgle, the Prohibition candidate for Senator. Oscar is busy trying to get votes and the two seize the opportunity to examine the machine and get in.

Pete accidentally starts it, and as neither one knows how to stop it, they are finally halted by a tree in the village where they are greeted by the Mayor and his committee. They take Pete for Oscar Gurgle, the candidate, he being scheduled to give a talk on prohibition that afternoon at the town hall.

Pete finds a card in the duster which Oscar had left in the machine, and, presenting the card, impersonates the candidate, introducing Sandy as his secretary. The Mayor takes them to his home for luncheon and as they are about to sit down to dinner a boy enters and announces that the crowd in the hall are becoming impatient, so Pete and Sandy are marched to the hall for a speech.

In the meanwhile Oscar has discovered the loss of his machine and arrives at the village in the farmer's buggy, where he is informed that he himself is now lecturing in the town hall. He indignantly enters the hall, where he presents his card, and Pete realizes the jig is up.

L. A. MOTION PICTURE CO.

Manufacturers of high grade studio equipment

215-217 E. Washington Street

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Get acquainted with "FULCO" The Department Store of MOVING PICTURE TRADE

MACHINES ⟷ EQUIPMENT ⟷ SUPPLIES

Our catalog covers the line from A-Z

E. E. FULTON COMPANY

152 W. Lake St. CHICAGO, ILL.

The "M. P. World" carries more classified ads than all other trade papers combined—WHY?

All The Players

of prominence in any sized picture can be furnished instantly—WIRE US YOUR WANTS—If you fail to display the face of a popular player who is appearing at your house, you are overlooking an opportunity for larger receipts. THE FACE OF A WELL-KNOWN PLAYER prominently displayed will draw more money than the mere announcement of a name.

LARGE HAND COLORED PICTURES

Size 22 x 28 inches, 75 cents each. Every prominent player.

FAC-SIMILE OIL PAINTINGS, all sizes, from $8 to $25 framed. Quotations submitted on any size, framed or unframed.

THE SEMI-PHOTO POST CARDS, $3.50 PER THOUSAND, of over 600 players. The indispensable article for your mailing list.

PHOTOGRAPHS, SIZE 8 x 10, of all the prominent players, 600 different names, 20c. each.

LARGE PICTURES, HAND COLORED, size 11 x 14, all the prominent players, $2.00 per dozen; in aluminum frames, 50c. each.

GRAVURE FOLDER, containing pictures of the prominent players, including stars from the stage, $10.00 per thousand.

SINGLE COLUMN CUTS of every prominent player, 40c. each.

KRAUS MFG. CO.

220 West 42nd Street, NEW YORK

12th Floor Candler Building

Send for Catalogue of over 600 players and samples free. Write us, giving details of your dull nights, and we will send you a remedy.

SWEEDY THE JANITOR (Two Parts—Nov. 1).—The cast: Janitor (Walter Rogers); Mr. Newlywed (Bill Bennett); Mrs. Newlywed (Ruth Hart). Produced by Wadsworth Harris.

Sweedy's wife is somewhat extravagant, and so when they married it proved a hard matter to make both ends meet, and she would never give them to be separated. Finally she finds a necklace that belongs to the wife of a man who lives in the apartment next to them. She tells her husband that she will pawn it and buy herself a new outfit. But then Mr. Newlywed comes home and finds the necklace and he and his wife both begin to regret having given it to Mrs. Sweedy to pawn. He tries to get it back, but his wife guards it so carefully that he has to wait for it at night.

When Sweedy brings it back to Mr. Newlywed's husband comes in and complications follow. There is a discussion as to who is the owner of the necklace and it ends in the police court. There Sweedy has to admit to her wife that the necklace is not hers and she takes him home to cure.

BISON.

THE QUITTER (Two Parts—Nov. 11).—The cast: Mavis (Hoberta Wilson); Kane (Charles Pearley); Tommy Eversley (Maywood Locke); Isabel (Jean Christie); Martinez (T. D. Crittenden). Olive Living Dope (Harry Schenck). Betty Livingstone ("Babe" Seidgwick). Scenario by Allen Von Samar. Produced by Burton George.

Kane Malloy has become a successful rancher by dint of a hard struggle. He came from the East a tenderfoot and now he and his wife, Mavis, are in comfortable circumstances. Mavis never has been in sympathy with her husband. She hates the ranch, she hates the desert, she even hates him because he compels her to live so far from luxuries. At last it becomes unbearable and she starts planning to leave it all and return East to her Aunt Julia.

Just as the train is pulling out she is much surprised to find Kane there to bid her good by.

Arrived in the East, she tries to forget all the seathing remarks of her husband and thinks to find enjoyment and happiness in the great swirl of society. But everywhere she goes she is reminded of her husband by the questions of her friends. One day she meets Isabel a former sweetheart of Kane's, and she is not a little perturbed some few days later when she finds that Isabel has started for a visit to some neighbor friends of Kane's.

She allows Tommy Eversley, a society fop, to take her about, but it is not long before Tommy oversteps his bounds and then Mavis awakens to the realization that this life that she longed for so long, does not spell happiness for her.

When Mavis arrives at the station out home the agent informs her that Martinez, a Mexican laborer, who has been causing her husband considerable trouble, must be somewhere in the neighborhood. He lends Mavis a horse and she starts for home. As she is riding through the country she is quite startled to notice a man crouching near the dam which her husband constructed. She finds that it is Martinez, and that he has lighted a fuse, intending to blow up the dam. Frightened, Martinez leaves and Mavis puts out the burning fuse. Mounting her horse, she starts in pursuit, intending to capture him before he can do any further damage. She shoots his horse from under him and the two exchange shots, in which both are wounded, but Mavis has the upper hand and compels Martinez to walk before her to her husband's home.

Some time later she explains to her husband what happened, and tells him that now she realizes where her heart is, and that she wants to make good in his eyes.

L-KO.

ALICE IN SOCIETY (Three Parts—Nov. 7).—The cast: Alice (Alice Howell); The Boss (Fatty Voss).

Alice and another girl who work in a tailor shop are much mistreated. They are not even allowed to have enough to eat, as the Boss is so greedy that it hurts him to see other people happy. After dinner he makes Alice and her friend go to work. But they rebel and try to get the old man in an uncomfortable position. This succeeds at first, but in the end he gets out of their clutches and begins to drive them all the harder.

Alice is told that she must go out to drum up some trade. This is done by ripping men's pants with a hook and then presenting him with a card that says that very neat pressing and mending is done at the Boss' establishment. In this way Alice hooks Mr. Astorbilt, who goes with her to the shop. Here he takes off his pants so that they can be mended and in them the Boss finds an invitation to a ball that is to be given that night addressed to a count. This he takes. Then he decides to hold up the wealthy man and throws him into the cellar. There he has an instrument of torture rigged up so that if the man does not sign a check for a million dollars he will be crushed by a rock that is hanging over his head.

Alice rescues him, and the grateful man invites her and her companion to the ball. At the affair Alice creates a sensation by a dance which she performs. The Boss arrives disguised as a count. At last the time for the "eats" arrives, and the count sneaks upstairs to steal the jewels. He gets them, but as he is leaving the house the butler sees him and makes him come in to dinner. It is there that he is unmasked, as Alice remembers the music of his soup inhalation and exposes him. Then there is a great battle to see if they can catch the crook. At last they do get him and the dinner continues. At the end of the meal Mr. Astorbilt says that he is going to announce his engagement and Alice is excited as she thinks she is going to be the lucky one. But the man says that the other girl is the lucky one and Alice is crestfallen. Sadly she goes home to her Boss, cured of her high aspirations.

GOLD SEAL.

THE CRY OF CONSCIENCE (Two Parts—Nov. 8).—The cast: Betty (Vola Smith); Mart Oliver (Ed. Brown); Rush Enderby (G. Raymond Nye); Belden (Marc Robbins); Tot Belden (Charles Gunn); Toliver (E. P. Evers). Written by Olga Printzlau. Produced by C. S. Elfelt.

Betty Oliver is the little crippled daughter of old Mort Oliver, a woodman. They are poverty-stricken and Oliver is continually hounded by a brutal woodsman called Rush Enderby. Oliver is compelled to part with the greater part of his pay to keep Rush Enderby from revealing something mysterious in the past. At the same time Tot Belden, the dissolute son of Sheriff Belden, in a neighboring district, is sent out as deputy sheriff to hunt for a man called Mort Oliver, who is wanted in Carolina for murder. Tot goes on the mission and becomes lost in Hell's Mountain.

Betty finds him unconscious in the woods and cares for him. Her father is away for a week. Then she drags Tot into the cabin and here she nurses him. When he regains consciousness she gives him all the food her father left. When able to get up she takes him to a little grave and shows him an empty bird's nest, and tells him how Rush Enderby killed the mate, which she bruied. She adds: "Any man as would kill a married bird would kill a man as quick, wouldn't he, Mister Tot?"

The young sheriff sets out to find the man he is searching for and meets Rush Enderby in the woods. Rush tells him that the man he wants is Betty's father. Tot is crushed at this and goes into the woods to think things over, telling himself that he can not arrest the father of the poor little crippled girl. That night Rush attacks Betty in the cabin and her screams as she defends herself with her crutch brings Tot to her aid and a fight ensues. Dawn finds the room spattered with blood and Tot and Rush senseless, while Betty crouches outside trembling. Her father returns and finds them thus. Rush is dying and confesses that he himself is the murderer; that he killed the man in Carolina, and not Mort Oliver.

Mort Oliver is at last free and some time later Betty's foot is cured and she finds happiness in the love of the young sheriff, who has become a man through the regenerating effect of her innocence and love.

REX.

THE MANTLE OF DECEIT (Two Parts—Nov. 9).—The cast: Grace (Claire Mersereau); Ralph Benton (Stanley Walpole); Alice Benton (Helen Slosson); Mrs. Benton (Nellie Slattery); Albert Kruger (Joseph Granby).

Grace is left almost penniless by the death of her father. Her mother died years ago. Before her father passes away he places her in the guardianship of Albert Kruger, one of her father's old friends. It was not long, however, before he showed his true colors and asked that he be more than her guardian as the price for her support. Grace was hardly more than a child and was frightened at this man who had designs upon her. At the school where she went there was a girl by the name of Alice Benton, and the two soon became friends. Alice had a big brother by the name of Ralph, and it was not long before Grace and Ralph were on very good terms and a love interest grew between them.

Kruger, although he coveted Grace, did not want to marry her, as she was penniless and sought the hand of Alice. Her parents seemed to favor the match, as they did not know the man's true character. One time they were all invited to a house party at the home of the Bentons, and there it was that Kruger showed his colors. There was to be a masquerade ball and he dressed as a devil. Just before it was time to go down to the ball he entered Grace's room and tried to force his attentions upon her. She rebelled, but he said that if she made a fuss he would call the rest and say that he had been invited there.

Then Grace went in to see Alice and they had the happy idea of changing costumes, as Ralph had seen his sister, and they thought that that would spoil the fun. At the ball Kruger began to make very violent love to Alice, thinking that she was Grace. She took it in good fun until he became so forward that it was not longer possible to mistake his intentions. Then she unmasked and the jig was up. But Kruger was not to be foiled and as he was shown up he tried to wreak his vengeance upon Grace and said before the crowd that she had been his mistress. This Ralph could not stand and he threw the other out of the house. The picture ended happily with the defeat of the villain and the marriage of Ralph and Grace.

THE EYES OF LOVE (Nov. 10).—The cast: Martha (Leah Baird); Mary (Agnes Vernon); Robert (Jack Mulhall). Scenario by M. B. Havey. Produced by Fred A. Kelsey.

Mary and Robert are sweethearts and clever musicians, Mary possessing a very good voice and Robert ability as a performer on the violin. Mary receives many offers to join a certain opera company, but refuses. Martha, her sister, unknown to the others, is in love with Robert.

One day in saving the life of a child Robert is made blind for life. He offers to release Mary from her promise, but Mary affirms that she wants him just the same. Ere long, however, she changes her mind and takes up the offer of the opera company. Martha, so great is her love, cannot endure the thought of Robert's suffering, so she lets him believe that she is Mary and so marries him.

One day as Mary is lunching in a cafe one of the party suggests that she remain to hear the blind violinist. Much to her amazement it is Robert. She obtains his address from the waiter and finds that it is her old home. She learns what has taken place, but leaves the couple in their mutual bliss.

RED FEATHER.

THE PLACE BEYOND THE WINDS (Five Parts—Nov. 6).—The cast: Dick Travers (Jack Mulhall); Priscilla Glenn (Dorothy Phillips); Jerry Jo (Lon Chaney); Anton Farwell (Jos. De Grasse); Nathan Glenn (C. Norman Hammond); Mrs. Glenn (Miss Youse); Dr. Leydward (Mr. Powers); Joan Moss (Grace Carlyle); Mrs. Travers (Countess Du Cello). Adapted for the Screen by Ida May Park. Produced by Joseph D Grasse.

Priscilla Glenn is a product of the woods, a wild, impulsive, nature-loving child. Her father is her antithesis, seeing none of the beauties of nature, thinking women only creatures to be browbeaten. Between her mother and herself there existed a strong bond of love and understanding—understanding that they were companions in the same misery and unhappiness. Priscilla had to fight for an education. At last, through the efforts of Anton Farwell, the schoolmaster, Priscilla had the opportunity of beginning her education.

For a rest there came to the spot Mrs. Travers and her crippled boy, Dick, and later a specialist, Dr. Leydward, who was to eventually straighten the crooked limbs of the boy. Priscilla and Dick met and a romance between the two was begun.

Jerry Jo, a half-breed, coveted the girl, and lured her to a house on the hill where there was a library. Although the girl was as sweet and pure when she returned home the next day her father sent her from his roof. Priscilla went to her only friend, Anton Farwell, and together they started for a new country. For Farwell was hiding from the world.

In the long ago he had loved Joan Moss, and for the love of her killed the brother of Dr. Leydward. Before Priscilla and Farwell had gone far he received word that he must choose the alternative of living buried in the woods or in prison. So Priscilla went on to find her way alone in the big city with the mission to look for Joan. Priscilla devoted her life to the care of the sick, and so once more she and Dick Travers met—and worked hand in hand for suffering humanity. It was thus that she knew Dr. Leydward and his daughter, Margaret, who was to wed Clyde Hunter.

One day as Priscilla was strolling in the park she saw Jerry Jo, now a nondescript beggar. Towards him she bore no malice, but a strong desire to make life happier. On following Jerry Jo to the tenement room he called home, some of the inmates mistook her for an angel of mercy for a dying woman, who was none other than Joan. From her lips she learned that the crippled child belonged to the affianced of Margaret Leydward, and also secured Farwell's exoneration.

She showed Leydward and Margaret the true type of the man the latter was about to marry. Then she wandered back to the "place beyond the wind" to find comfort and peace. She found that her mother had died and her father had been stricken blind and still refused to own her as his own flesh and blood, and a second time sent her from his home. And then, crushed and wounded, she again found solace in her old friend, Anton Farwell, who a short time previous had returned to his home. To Farwell she told of the finding of Joan, but left with him his ideal of her—of her trueness and worth of trust.

Priscilla returned once more to her little sanctuary in the woods, where she had erected her own altar to her own God—and where, too, she first met Dick. And there he found her.

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal.

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

Get acquainted with the
ERBOGRAPH WAY
of Developing and Printing
ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
283-11 West 146th St., New York City

MENGER & RING, Inc.
MANUFACTURERS OF Poster and Lobby
Display Frames
104-6 W. 42d St., NEW YORK
Phone Bryant 6621-22

HIGHEST GRADE
Developing and Printing
FILM TITLES
We guarantee all work, give prompt delivery, at lowest prices. Can furnish Expert Camera Man on short notice.
STANDARD MOTION PICTURE COMPANY
R. 1628, 5 S. Wabash Ave. Chicago
Phone Randolph 6693

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributors for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

WATCH FOR
E. & R.
Jungle Film Comedies
E & R JUNGLE FILM CO.
Los Angeles, Cal.

The EASIEST and BEST
WAY to secure the
Moving Picture World
IS TO
Subscribe For It
Then It Will Reach You Regularly and Promptly Each Week.
Domestic $3.00, Canada $3.50,
Foreign $4.00

For realizing his love for her, he had followed her to the "place beyond the wind" and for a second time, with his old violin he started a new spark in the life of the one woman—the one whom he would cherish and love and protect as long as time went on.

Mutual Film Corporation

CUB.

HIS BLUSHING BRIDE (Nov. 10).—The cast: The boys (Nolan Leary and Harry Hamm), the landlady (Stella Adams); the girl (Billie Rhodes); Ethel (Ethel Lynne); Constable Bibbs (Eddie Barry).

Nolan and Harry are temporarily financially embarrassed, and Mrs. Prune, the landlady, is not a person to be trifled with. Her keen nose detects the odor of the cooking which comes from the oil stove concealed in the boys' suitcase. She bounces in and demands her money by noon and the boys decide to pack their clothes and quietly sneak. The landlady is too sharp for them and holds their belongings until she gets her money.

Homeless and friendless the boys go out to face the world, and in search for work Nolan meets his sweetheart, Billie, and carrying her parcels forgets to give her a bag of doughnuts. This furnishes a feed for the two pals. They discover an ad in the paper that the New Hotel Honeymoon will give a week's board to the first married couple to arrive Saturday, May 25. This gives Nolan an idea and he insists on Harry being the bride. Harry reluctantly consents and has to part with his best suit of clothes for a bride's outfit.

Ethel, a friend of Billie, is the stenographer at the hotel, and invites Billie down to the opening. Billie accepts and leaves for Hotel Honeymoon. The bride and groom arrive and are welcomed as the first couple by the host and shown to the bridal chamber. Cupid, however, gets busy and the bride falls in love with the fair stenographer. By threats of disclosure he forces the groom to loan him his suit of clothes, and Harry goes to further his acquaintance with Ethel. He pretends to Ethel that he is a friend of the bride, and all is going smooth until Billie arrives with the news of the bride being ill. Harry hastens back and learns that Nolan, during his absence, has put on the bridal dress and attempted to go for a smoke. He runs into Billie and dashes back to his room, causing Billie to think "she" has a fit.

The constable of the town gets a notice that a desperate hotel crook, known as "Dolly, the Dip," a man who disguises as a woman, is likely to come to the new Honeymoon Hotel, and he is on the lookout for the crook. Dinner time arrives and Nolan and Harry, who is again the bride, go into the cafe. The bride drinks copiously of beer and after an argument she and her husband go into the lobby. Here their scrap continues and in the scramble the bride's wig comes off. The constable sees this and at once arrests the bride as "Dolly, the Dip." Billie identifies the boys, and Ethel, the stenographer, is very pleased. The host of the hotel forgives all if the four will marry and spend their honeymoon in his house.

NEARLY A HERO (Nov. 3).—The cast: The Sheriff (Harry Rattenberry); Betty (Betty Compson); Ma (Stella Adams); The Timid One (Neal Burns); The Brave One (Dave Morris.)

The town of Mosquite is excited over the exploits of a bandit, known as Terrible Pete. The Sheriff of Mosquite has a daughter and a loving wife, but his one weakness is cards. Many hours he spends in the Long Horn saloon, playing poker with the boys. Betty, his daughter, a romantic girl, hears of the daring of Terrible Pete and vows to her two ardent swains that the man who wins her must be as brave and daring as this bandit. The boys accept this challenge and Neal, the Timid One, and Dave, the Brave, decide to do and dare for their fair lady. Neal procures a couple of fierce looking guns and from a piece of black cloth makes himself a mask. Being now ready for his desperate attempt he rides forth to hold up the stage.

Dave, the Brave One, decides to loot the very house of his sweetheart. The sheriff, meanwhile, under the watchful eye of his wife finds it impossible to get away and join the little game at the Long Horn. The attack made by Neal on the stage coach proves a failure as the driver and the guard fire on him. He flees like a frightened rabbit and takes refuge under the bed in his room. The passengers report the attempted robbery to the Sheriff and he is liberated from his wife. Not finding a trace of the bandit, he retires to the Long Horn for a little game.

Dave, armed and with a sack for the plunder, now enters Betty's house and at the point of a revolver forces her to give him her pocketbook. He proceeds to load the sack with all the valuables he can find. Betty's mother hears the noise and running with the burglar is forced to hand over her rings. About this time Neal, the Timid, plans to rob Betty's house. Sneaking there, he enters through the window and chasing mother into the next room runs into the masked Dave. One burglar now chases the other. Dave is victorious and Neal dives through the window. Dave takes his loot, places the sack on the back porch, and re-enters the house.

The Sheriff meanwhile has lost at cards and returning home sees the sack of loot. He examines it and finds Betty's pocketbook. He extracts this and hikes back to the Long Horn saloon. Dave now unmasks and tries to impress Betty with his bravery. She sees the joke and demands her purse. Dave goes to get it, and finds it's gone. Mother, angry, takes his gun and accompanied by Dave and Betty sets forth to find the thief.

Meanwhile, Neal, discouraged, has gone to the Long Horn and in the game has cleaned a big roll. The Sheriff on leaving meets mother, Dave and Betty. He suddenly gets an idea and goes back into the saloon. He promises Neal that if he will loan him enough to replace Betty's money he will swear Neal was the brave robber. Neal agrees and when the purse is returned and Dave out-forced by the Sheriff's statement, Neal sees visions of future bliss as Betty gazes at him in hero worship.

SIGNAL.

A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS (No. 2, "The Wreck in the Fog"—Two parts—Oct. 30).—"Dollar" Holmes lays the foundation for and then builds upon it the vast power and wealth possible to one who dominates the great lumber industry. Believing that his wife and infant daughter have lost their lives in a river accident, Holmes weds the daughter of Greer, president of the Amalgamated, and a son is born to him. In reality, the wife and child he drove from his cabin in his humble days, have been rescued and given a permanent home in a logger's cabin.

Twenty years elapse. Holmes' son, Stephen, finished his university schooling and starts home on the steamship Marathon. Helen has developed into a young woman of beauty and courage. The Marathon runs on a reef in a fog, and Stephen, panic-stricken, leaps overboard and swims out to sea instead of into land. Helen, witnessing his plight from a high cliff, but not knowing he is her own father's son, dives into the ocean and rescues him. In appreciation the elder Holmes gives her a position in a station on his railroad.

Through that station he sends a telegram ordering his camp foreman to buy the holdings of a small timberman and thereby ruin a group of his neighbors. Helen goes to the man's cabin and warns him. When Holmes' emissaries come to the cabin he refuses to sell, and they shoot him to death. Then comes a wild race by Holmes' men in an automobile and Helen by locomotive and canoe, each intent on first reaching the recorder's office, miles away, and filing on the dead man's lands.

The automobile crashes through a condemned bridge and falls forty feet into a river. The occupants of the car swim to shore. On a high trestle Helen's locomotive is stopped, and by means of a rope sling she is lowered into a canoe surface of a stream far below, and starts paddling along a short cut to the recorder's office. At this point the chapter fades out.

NATIONAL DRAMA CORP.
1465 BROADWAY
NEW YORK CITY

QUICK WORK IN THE BOX OFFICE
SPEED Plus ACCURACY
15 Sales per minute —900 to 4500 per hour.
One ticket seller does the work of three with the AUTOMATICKET
AUTOMATIC TICKET SELLING AND CASH REGISTER CO.
1727 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

EVERYTHING FOR YOUR PLAYHOUSE
MACHINES
SUPPLIES—REPAIR PARTS

All makes of machines carried in stock. We equip theatres completely.
"The Exhibitors Mail Order House"
HOMMEL'S
947 PENN AVE. PITTSBURGH, PA.

In answering advertisements, please mention The Moving Picture World

Dependable Light

Direct current—steady, non-flickering light. Up to 4 K.W. capacity. 60 to 110 volts. 200% overload above current required for picture machine, handling 25 to 50 lamps in addition. Motor, 4-cylinder, 4-cycle, high-grade and fully guaranteed. Compact inexpensive. Write today for Bulletin No. 20.
Universal Motor Co., Dept. W, Oshkosh, Wis.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES
Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.
CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

The Moving Picture World Carries More Classified Advertisements Than All Other Papers Combined--Why?

ECLAIR.

THE UNPARONALLE SIN (Two Parts—Nov. 11).—The cast: Simon Brower (Hal Wilson), Ruth (Edna Payne), Herbert Sloane (Norbett A. Myles), Grace Howard (Lucie Hamilton).

Herbert Sloane meets Ruth Brower and they are photographed together on an old tin type. Later the girl gives birth to a son, but Sloane has left her. Five years after Sloane marries Grace Howard and they decide to adopt a boy. They go to a home and there adopt Frank Sloane, own son. Ruth has passed away and after her father dies and there is a sale of his effects. Grace attends the sale and there she is shown the tin type taken years before and is told the story connected with it. She nurses her grief and determines to bring the boy up so that when the time comes his father can make amends to him. Frank grows up to be a splendid youth and falls in love with a young girl next door. His father objects to the boy on questionable parentage marrying the girl and then it is that Grace produces the photograph.

VOGUE.

PICTURE PIRATES (Two Parts—Nov. 12).—The Picture Pirate (Larry Bowes); the Norbo Webs (Rube Miller, Ben Turpin); their wives (Lillian Hamilton, Rosie Rosee).

Rube's and Ben's wives are waitresses. An art collector purchases a rare picture and the "picture pirate," representing himself as another collector, calls on the first collector. As he is leaving the place Rube and Ben try to pick his pockets, and admonishing them as amateurs, he tells them to join in with him and try to steal the picture. They take the art collector's wife with them to the same cafe wherein their wives are waitresses. Ben and Rube leave her there and hasten to her home to steal a copy of the picture the owner having hidden the original. They also drink some poisoned whiskey left for them and fall into a fit. Later the "picture pirate" pays Rube and Ben for the picture, thinking it is the original.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE.

AND THE LAW SAYS (American—Five Parts—Nov. 6).—The cast: Lawrence Kirby (Richard Bennett), Dr. Cartmell (George Periolat), his daughter (Adrienne Morrison); Kirby's son (Alan Forrest), Torry (William Carroll).

Lawrence Kirby, a young law student, meets the daughter of Dr. Cartmell and becomes infatuated with her. He, however, meets her under an assumed name and he is known under an alias when he leaves to escape the responsibility of the child which is later born to the young girl.

Years later we see Kirby a judge. His own son is arrested on circumstantial evidence and accused of a murder of which he is innocent. Kirby insists that circumstantial evidence is sufficient to convict anyone and sentences his own son, unknown to him, to the chair.

Dr. Cartmell is a staunch opponent of capital punishment and believes that even after the victim had supposedly been electrocuted there is a chance for them to be brought back to life. Just as the lad is being dragged to the chair his identity is revealed to Kirby. The lad is taken to the chair despite the judge's pleading, and Dr. Cartmell declares that he can bring him back to life. Within an hour the youth is brought back to his mother's arms and Judge Kirby with tear-filled eyes stands by.

EAST IS EAST (Turner—Five Parts—Nov. 9).—In the East London tenements lives one, Alexandra Vickers, better known as "Viccy." She is rough tongued, quick tempered, and generous as far as her slender means allow. Her parents died when the girl was very young and left her to shift for herself. Later she takes up her abode with Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Smith and their nephew, Albert Grummett. In the month of August the family decides to go to the hop fields and earn their living picking the sticky vegetable from which is made the national beverage—beer.

About this time in America a wealthy contractor dies and leaves his immense fortune to Victoria Alexandra Vickers, the only daughter of his brother. A search is made for the girl and she is finally located in the hop fields. She is placed under the care of a Mrs. Carrington, to become polished. After "Viccy" leaves, Grummett, with five hundred pounds given him by the girl, sets himself up in business and is soon prosperous. Mrs. Carrington's son asks "Viccy" to marry him, as he needs money to pay his debts, and the girl accepts him. She later sees Grummett, however, and after discovering that Carrington wants only her money she goes back to Grummett, and East returns to East.

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
FIRE PROOF
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

MAKE YOUR OWN CURRENT WITH A
Brush Electric Lighting Set
Send for 125-page catalogue with very complete information about electrical matters.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series:
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1163 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

Will you give one family
A MERRY
XMAS
DINNER?
We are but your agents—you are the host.
300,000 poor people cheered last Xmas in the U. S. by The Salvation Army.
Help us in this way to get close to these people. Give them at least one happy day in the year.

$2.00 Feeds a Family of Five
Send Donations to Commander Booth
118 West Fourteenth Street, New York City
Western Dept., Comm. Estill, 108 N. Dearborn St., Chicago

GAUMONT.

REEL LIFE NO. 25 (Oct. 22).—The great industrial changes brought about in Europe by the war are shown in startling fashion in pictures of "French Munition Workers." A second section of this issue contrasts Eastern and Western Barbecues in the United States. The third section shows the method of ferrying trains across the Sacramento River in California.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 59 (Hot Springs, Va.) (October 25).—This release is devoted to Hot Springs, Va. These pictures make plain to one why society has chosen it for a playground. The hotels, mountain drives, and springs have prominent places in the release. On the same reel is an animated cartoon by Harry Palmer.

MUTUAL.

MUTUAL WEEKLY NO. 96 (Nov. 1).

Somewhere in France.—With the Light Infantry men at the front.

New York City.—New floating station house for harbor police. Squad "B" takes possession of new quarters built by themselves.

Fresno, Cal.—Exploding 30 tons of dynamite; 30,000 cubic yards of rock are moved with giant blast.

New Haven, Conn.—The Yale Pageant. In commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the coming of Yale College to New Haven.

Newest New York Fashions—Photographed in the Italian Gardens of the Hotel Biltmore. (Gowns by Faibisy, Fifth avenue, New York.) Subtitles: Emerald green velvet empire evening gown, trimmed with brilliants and emeralds. Dancing frock, orchid taffeta, opalesque bodice. A rainy day coat.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Powerful magnets are used to lift cargo of pig iron. Works more efficiently than men.

Oakland, Cal.—Steamship "Capto" glides into water. First of fleet of seven ships is christened.

New York City.—One of New York's windy corners. West Indian hurricane blows at 70-mile-an-hour gait.

Provincetown, Mass.—American-made submarine for Spain has trial trip. The "Isaac Paral" is delivered to the Spanish government after successfull run.

Jersey City, N. J.—Signal Corps welcomed home. Boys of the First New Jersey Field Company return from border duty.

San Francisco, Cal.—The discovery of America re-enacted. Fifty thousand people witness spectacular aquatic event.

Riverside, Cal.—Milk maids and diving girls entertain visitors at Fair. Subtitle: From producer to consumer direct.

Chicago, Ill.—Northwestern defeats Chicago 10 to 0. Scores first football vistory over Maroons in 15 years.

Miscellaneous Subjects

GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE LAST MAN (Five parts—Oct. 30). A young army surgeon returning from furlough finds his wife pretending to love another officer. In reality she is a butterfly of fashion flitting from conquest to conquest for the pure excitement of the game. Realizing his wife's true character he leaves her in order that she may get a divorce and marry the man she has captivated. This he does, at the same time falling in love with a slip of a country girl who journeys to the tropics with him and becomes a nurse. When he is called to quell an uprising of natives he promises to marry her on his return.

Arriving at the attacked post he finds his former wife and her husband in dire peril. He compels them to flee while he follows and finally saves them from a terrible fate. He then returns to the other post where he claims the faithful girl who awaits him. The despair of the butterfly comes when she realizes she has played her game and lost.

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS
1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

THE SCARLET RUNNER (Episode No. 6. The Mysterious Motor Car—Two Parts—Nov. 6).—Christopher Race, trying out his Scarlet Runner in a swift run along the beach, comes upon a group of fishermen gazing out at an automobile in the surf. Race attaches a line and hauls it ashore. A policeman arrives and the affair is recorded as murder or suicide. Hauling the car to the police station, Race learns there of another car which was found on a country road and which is similar to the one he has hauled from the surf.

Christopher thinks nothing further of the matter till the next day, when a representative of a newspaper calls on him offering him inducements to clear up the mystery for his paper. Race accepts and starts his investigations. He takes it for granted that the discovered cars are the same, and he traces its course from the road to the beach. He finds traces of a mysterious man, John Brown, and also of a young girl who is also looking for John Brown.

Christopher meets the latter while at a meal. The man makes a dash and gets away in an auto. Race follows him to London, notifies the police, and awaits developments. The girl calls upon him. She is quickly followed by John Brown himself. The entire affair is cleared up as evolving from a love spat between the two, wherein Brown faked an accident with his car, thereby bringing the girl back to him. Christopher gives up detective work as a bad job.

THE SCARLET RUNNER (Episode No. 7. "The Red Whiskered Man"—Two Parts—Nov. 13).—Wealthy Peter Maritz commissions his nephew, Ean Van Courtlandt, to get for him a valuable diamond which has been cut and is in Amsterdam. Tom Astley, a jewel thief, learns of this and plans to have the stone. Van Courtlandt hires Race and his Scarlet Runner on a pretext of making a pleasure tour of the continent. He gets the stone, unknown, to Race, then calls the trip off and returns to England.

He is to meet old Jacobs, a trusted servant, and Miss Warren, each of whom will carry a package similar to his own, one of which contains the diamond. Old Jacobs is caught and drugged. Astley takes his place, disguised, and meets the others in England. They all set out in Scarlet Runner. Astley arouses suspicions by his actions and Van during a delay caused by the disguised crook, hides his package in the car. They are held up by Astley's accomplices clad as policemen and placed under arrest.

Race escapes and sends back genuine policemen to the rescue. He speeds to an address which Van shouted as he ran away and which he recognizes as that of Peter Maritz. The latter is suspicious when he finds that no message is brought by Christopher. A search fails to reveal the package he seeks. Van and Miss Warren arrive and explain. Van produces the package containing the diamond from its hiding place and the affair ends happily for all, save the unlucky crooks.

THE DEVIL'S PRIZE (Five parts—Nov. 6.) The cast: Hugh Roland (Antonio Moreno); Adeline St. Clair (Naomi Childers); Arnold St. Clair (Albert S. Howson); Myra Roland (Clio Ayres); Emmy Roland (Mildred Platz); Mark Stratton (Templar Saxe); John Baldwin (Lark Taylor). Written and directed by Marguerite Bertsch.

When it is a question of "My Neighbor—or Myself?" Arnold St. Clair always manages to save his own skin. He became wealthy through his marriage to Adeline Stratton. Before his marriage he dishonored Myra Roland who, unable to face her shame, married Hugh Roland, a newspaper editor. She writes St. Clair a letter telling him of her marriage and the birth of a child which, although his, will be believed her husband's.

The note falls into the hands of Adeline's uncle, Mark Stratton, who manages to further his own ends by its possession. The coal mines which he owns are failing and he tells St. Clair that he has decided to divide the ownership of them with the people—in other words, he appoints a day when the workmen will be able to invest their hard-earned savings by purchasing shares. St. Clair dares not refuse his aid in this movement but not quite trusting his uncle he goes to his friend, Roland, and tells him that he wants him to get the credit for the philanthropic movement and for him to per[illegible] by means of his pre[illegible]

Roland trusting St. Clair and enthusiastic over the prospects for the poor orders his aspirations to land the movement with the result that the laborers everywhere have their savings. But eventually face them. St. Claire sees Mark Stratton's devotion to Myra and realizes that Myra may tell her husband of her past. To prevent this St. Claire saves his skin by killing Mark Stratton. This last move brings him into the power of John Baldwin, brother of Myra, and the childhood lover of Adeline, for both he and Adeline see the murder. St. Claire who is so in the habit of blaming others for his crime tells his wife Adeline, that he saw John Baldwin commit the murder. Disgusted with the man whom she now sees in his true light, Adeline turns to Baldwin for consolation.

Accidentally Roland learns the truth about the child he has believed his own, and, insane with anger, he rushes to St. Clair, intending to kill him. He arrives at the house to find that the Devil has claimed his prize. Adeline is bending over the dead body of her husband, who died of fear when the detectives learned the truth about the murder. Still infuriated he returns home and is greeted at the door by his little daughter whose love has made his life worth while, but his fury is beyond control and he reaches forth to choke the little girl, who cries that her mother has taunted. Coming to his senses he goes to his wife whom he had thrown from him in anger when he learned the truth, but the love that he has given her through their married life conquers his hatred and he takes her to his heart again.

UNITY SALES CORP.

THE YELLOW MENACE (Episode No. 11—"The Half Breed's Hatred"—Two Parts—Nov. 13). In this episode Manning decides to give himself up to Ali Singh, apparently resigned to his fate, in order to save his sister and his sweetheart, but Hong Kong Harry, moved by his desire for revenge, born of the fierce torture inflicted on him by Ali Singh, again turns traitor and leads the police to the arch-fiend's den. A fight ensues, in which the police, Manning, Margaret Bronson, and May Manning are well-nigh overpowered, but finally succeed in saving themselves and escape the clutches of Ali Singh. All efforts, however, to capture the Demon are of no avail, as Ali Singh continues to outwit his enemies and makes his escape.

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

THE SEX LURE (Six parts—October).—The cast: The Boy (James Morrison); The Mother (Louise Vale); The Girl (Frankie Mann); The Father (Donald Hall). Directed by Ivan Abramson.

The story concerns a wealthy manufacturer who years after his wife has befriended and helped an orphan girl and taken her into their home lures him away and causes him to cast aside his wife, pleading as an excuse the constant melancholy in which she is wrapped as the result of the loss of their only child, a son, who, they believe, was drowned, but whose disappearance was caused by the girl.

The son returns and meeting his mother learns of her separation from his father and its cause. Against his own inclinations, to please his mother he goes to his father's home to inform the latter that he is alive. There he meets the woman who brought about his own disappearance and his mother's woe. She becomes enamored of him and he, realizing the fact, determines to repay her in her own coin. He permits her to make love to him and thereby succeeds in releasing his father from the lure of sex and in addition effects the reconciliation and reunion of his parents.

Expert Cameraman Furnished

CINEMA CAMERA CLUB

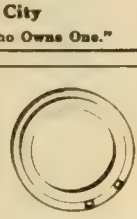
1006 Times Bldg. Phone 6558 Bryant

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, INC.

220 W. 42d Street
New York City
"Ask the Exhibitor Who Owns One."

CONDENSER BREAKAGE STOPPED

by using the Preddey Mount; fits any lamp in a moment. Very simple and rugged. Pays for itself in a week. Lasts forever. Get circular. Positively stops breaking. Price $4.50. Used everywhere. Condenser expenses ended or money back.



W. G. PREDDEY,
158 Eddy Street
San Francisco, Cal.

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"

DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

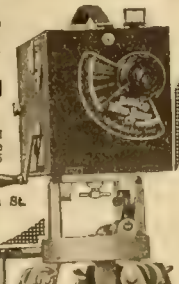
A PROVEN SUCCESS

THE DAVSCO MOTION PICTURE CAMERA

for Motion Photography, 200 ft. capacity. Aluminum Magazines. 50 M.M. B & L Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens in patented focusing mount with the Davsco Exposure Indicator, Patented Intermittent, new Cam and Shuttle type. Weight, 10½ lbs. Price, complete, $110.00.

Lightweight Panoramic and Tilting Top Tripod, $25.00.

This is the camera YOU have been waiting for. Write for details.



DAVID STERN COMPANY

The National Camera Exchange Established 1885

1047 R. Madison St.
Chicago, Ill.

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St New York City

Quality means EVANS means Perfection

We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People
Developing and Printing ONLY

EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY

Telephone 6911 Audubon
416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

WORLD PICTURES

THE MAN WHO STOOD STILL (Five parts—Oct. 30).—Kraus' little jewelry shop on the east side of New York is typical of that locality thirty years ago, and while his competitors advance with the times, he stands still in the simplicity of his kindly old soul, and devotes more time to his domestic affairs than to his business. In the rear of his small shop are the few immaculate rooms presided over by Katie, his mother-in-law's old housekeeper for many years, who also fills the vacancy of mother for Marie, the daughter of Kraus.

Kraus' most intimate friend and neighbor is Spiegel, a kindred soul, and the father of Fred. Both parents have planned for years the ultimate union of their children. Marie, however, has other ideas on the subject, and has given her heart to Frank MacPherson, a worthless young "sport" and the son of her father's keenest competitor. From time to time a pinochle game at the home of one or the other is arranged by the two old Germans, as a pretext to throw Marie and Fred in each other's company. Fred's attentions to Marie on these occasions mislead the old folks, who do not see that Fred's sincerity is not returned.

Marie's eighteenth birthday arrives, and in honor of the event, Kraus closes up shop, and with Marie, Katie and the Spiegels, journeys to the Jersey shore for a picnic in the woods. Frank follows them, and in the midst of their gayety calls Marie to him. She slips away unseen, and tells him of the predicament that her blind love for him has placed her in. Unsympathetic, he speaks of her delicate condition as his "rotten luck." His craven mind plans further deception, and she becomes the victim of a mock marriage. Before leaving with Frank she sends a boy back to the picnic with a note to her father, telling of her intention. Old Kraus' grief upon its receipt is pitiful, and the holiday's joy is turned to sorrow.

No word comes from Marie and Kraus broods over his loss until poverty and want confront him. He is at last compelled to accept a position in the store of his former salesman and a home with the Spiegels. Meanwhile, Marie and Frank have traveled down a parallel scale until he leaves her with her baby and goes away. Without support she is eventually dispossessed from her squalid room, and, going she knows not where, encounters Fred, her father's choice. He persuades her to come home with him, where his sister Alice makes her comfortable.

The Spiegels now plan a reconciliation, and by shrewd means bring father and daughter back to each other's arms. MacPherson has turned against his son Frank and is the means of bringing him to an accounting. With his grandchild in his arms, Kraus' anger melts, and the glances he detects between Fred and Marie, make him believe that his fondest hopes may yet be realized.

PARAMOUNT PICTURES CORP.

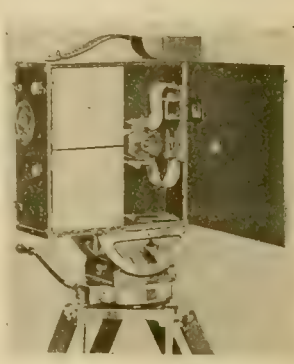
THE HEIR TO THE HOORAH (Lasky—Five Parts—Oct. 26).—The cast: Joe Lacy (Thomas Meighan); Geraldine Kent (Anita King); Mrs. Kent, her mother (Edythe Chapman); Bud (Horace B. Carpenter); Bill (Charles Ogle); Mr. Marshall (Ernest Joy); Mrs. Marshall (Joane Woodbury).

The Hoorah, richest mine in California, has made millionaires of its three bachelor owners, Joe, Bud and Bill. It occurs to the two latter men that this wealth, representing the labor and sacrifices of many long years, must, in the event of their death, revert to strangers. They decide that Joe, the most eligible partner, should marry and give them an heir. This Joe refuses to do. However, Bud and Bill set about to find a suitable wife for him. Their efforts are unrewarded, and Joe, in disgust, leaves town.

Geraldine Kent, daughter of a poor but aspiring society woman, accepts the invitation of a friend to take a western trip. The mother, of her own invitation, accompanies them. Arriving at the hotel, they discover Joe in an undignified position on the floor playing with a youngster of five. The mother is shocked, but when she learns that Joe is wealthy, she is attentive to him, and persuades Geraldine to accept his proposal of marriage. Joe's lack of polish is such a source of constant embarrassment to him and his wife that his suggestion to Geraldine that they run away from it all is gladly accepted. Discovered by her mother just as they are about to leave, Joe is enlightened by Mrs. Kent's expression of her sorrow at forcing Geraldine to marry such a boor because they were so sadly in need of money. Heartbroken, Joe gives them the money and departs.

At the end of a year, Geraldine sues for divorce. Bud and Bill leave Hoorah City for a trip to see Joe's baby. Not until Joe reads in the paper an account of the divorce proceedings does he know that he has a son. He also starts out to see the baby, and the three men meet. Both Bud and Bill claim the right to be the namesake of what they consider a "partnership baby," but learning the little one is a girl, they order at once baby wardrobes by the carload. Joe realizes the mother-in-law's responsibility for his unhappiness and sends her East by the first train. Geraldine has learned that Joe's greatest desire was for a child, and when he accuses her of marrying him for his money, she meets it with a statement that he married her for the baby. He suggests that she take the money and he the baby, but as the little one starts to cry, he is frightened, and hands it to the mother. As they look at the baby, and then at each other, they realize how foolish they have been, and Joe takes both mother and child into his arms.

Universal Camera



Advantages

THE PICTURE ABOVE--gives you a side view of the complete machine, with the magazines in place—Note the compactness and simplicity in construction—The Universal is

A ONE-PIECE MACHINE--every moving part is directly connected to one main casting—thereby insuring perfect operating mechanism.

ALTHOUGH SIMPLE AND COMPACT—in construction—nothing has been omitted—that is really essential to the very best machine—and though—

BUILT FOR LONG AND HARD USAGE and used extensively by professionals throughout the country—it can be operated without difficulty by the "unprofessional."

Incidentally, we can now make immediate deliveries—Our increased production facilities have allowed us to catch up on back orders and it is now possible for us to fill new orders same day as received.

SEND YOURS IN NOW!

Universal Camera Company

559 W. JACKSON BLVD., CHICAGO

1209 Times Bldg., New York
821 Market St., San Francisco
229 East Sixth St., Los Angeles

Our descriptive Catalogue will be sent on request.

METRO PICTURES CORPORATION

THE GATES OF EDEN (Columbia Pictures Corp.—Five parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Evelyn, the mother, and Eve, her daughter (Viola Dana); Joseph (Augustus Phillips); William Bard (Robert Walker); Rodney Drab (Edward Earle); Eldress Sarah (Grace E. Stevens); Huxley (Fred Jones); a Brother of the Shaker Community (Harry Linson). Written and directed by John H. Collins.

When Joseph Case's wife dies, he takes his baby daughter, Evelyn, to the Shaker Community, where he lives. His life there makes irrevocable his vow to marry again, for the Shakers do not believe in marriage. The theory is all very well for Joseph, but works havoc in the lives of his daughter, Evelyn, and a foundling brought up by the community, William Bard. William and Evelyn love each other, but are not permitted to make their union legal. Evelyn confesses to Joseph, who has become Elder of the Shaker Community, and who no longer considers himself her father, but is simply the head of the community. Evelyn is reprimanded, and Bard is flogged and driven out of the gates of "Eden."

Five years later, Bard goes back to claim Evelyn and her child. Evelyn has died, and Elder Joseph, on seeing Bard, hides little Eve, the child, and tells him she, too, is dead. Bard leaves "Eden," swearing to be revenged on the community. The vow occupies his thoughts to the exclusion of almost everything else, and he becomes known as "the man of hate." He even changes his name, spelling it backwards, and is henceforth known not as Bard but as Drab.

He adops a son whom he calls Rodney. Rodney is fond of wandering about in his racing automobile. He meets with a slight accident near the Shaker village. Going there for aid, he sees Eve. Struck by her charm, he remains in the village, and the two young people fall in love with each other. Drab, in the pursuance of his plan of revenge, has from time to time loaned money freely to the Shakers. He has them so deeply in debt to him that they can never pay him back, and the time is ripe for the foreclosure of the mortgage. He writes a scathing letter to Elder Joseph, telling him of his decision. Joseph pleads for clemency, but Drab is obdurate. When Rodney tells Joseph that he is the foster son of William Drab, the great financier, both he and Eve believe that his coming there is only part of Drab's scheme, and Eve tells him to go.

Rodney on his return home asks his foster father for an explanation, and is told the old story of broken hearts and vowed revenge. Rodney is sorry his father cannot find room in his heart for forgiveness, and he goes back to help Eve. Drab reveals his identity to Joseph by means of a letter, which gives the reason for his pitilessness. "I am the broken-hearted man you flogged from your gates," he says, "Drab spells Bard turned to hate."

Rodney arrives in a storm, and the Elder shuts the door in his face, whereupon Eve calls him to task for not practicing the love and kindness the Shakers are sworn to consider. She shames him into admitting Rodney. Drab comes to oust the Shakers from their Eden. Joseph sends a messenger to ask that they be allowed to leave peaceably, but Drab strikes the messenger with a great snake-whip. As the Shakers pass out of the gates with their cattle, horses and wagons he strikes them all with the whip. Eve alone does not flinch at the touch of Drab's whip. She takes his hand and makes him come with her to see Joseph. He refuses at first, but goes with her when he sees the resemblance to her mother.

Joseph confesses that Eve is Drab's daughter, and that he has lied to him. Drab is deeply touched, and sends Rodney to bring back the Shakers, promising to build them a bigger and a better Eden. Joseph confesses that the dying wish of the mother had been that Eve on coming of age should be able to choose her future mode of life. Both Joseph and Drab leave her to her own decision. She calls for her father, and he and Rodney take her away to a home and happiness.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL NO. 85 (Oct. 24).

New York City.—Braving the dangers of lurking submarines in the Atlantic Ocean, the Holland liner Ryndham departs for Europe. The French liner Lafayette, carrying eighty Americans and armed for defence, sails past the Statue of Liberty en route for Bordeaux.

Palmdale, Cal.—Hundreds of rabbits are rounded up by hunters who pound the Mojave Desert and trap the long eared animals, killing them and taking them to Los Angeles to be sold for charity.

Boston, Mass.—The Fifth Massachusetts gets back from the Mexican border and marches in review before Governor McCall.

New Haven, Conn.—The 200th anniversary of Yale is celebrated with a gigantic historical pageant in the Yale Bowl, showing the progress of the university since it was founded here by Elihu Yale.

Montivideo, Uruguay.—Multi-millionaire Manuel Rios establishes a private zoo, costing him one and a half million dollars, for the entertainment of his children and their little friends. The zoo is filled with rare specimens of animal and bird life from all parts of the world.

Riverside, Cal.—Expert diving girls of Southern California compete in a fancy diving contest here.

Chicago, Ill.—Charles Evans Hughes, Republican nominee for the Presidency, is greeted by a large crowd when his special train stops here for a brief stay.

On the Austro-Italian Front.—Three hundred Italian prisoners and the flag of their regiment are captured by Austrians. The prisoners are marched over the mountains to the Austrian headquarters.

Paris, France.—President Poincaire attends a ceremony at which motor ambulances presented to the French government by wealthy Americans are sprinkled with holy water and blessed for their duties of mercy at the battlefront.

Media, Pa.—The Rose Tree Hunt Club holds its fortieth annual sweepstake races here, attended by Pennsylvania society folk.

Footlights and Fashions.—Miss Ivy Sawyer, leading lady of "Betty," a current Broadway success, poses exclusively for the Hearst International News Pictorial in the latest gowns of her own design.

Albany, N. Y.—President Wilson is enthusiastically received here by a large crowd as he proceeds westward on a speaking tour.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL NO. 86 (Oct. 27).

Red Bank, N. J.—The Monmouth County Club holds a drag hunt over the rough country surrounding this city. The hounds and horses take sensational jumps in which the riders risk their necks.

Berlin, Germany.—Exclusive pictures by Nelson E. Edwards showing women doing men's work in the streets of the German capital. French women in conquered territory go into the fields to work as harvest hands. General Krause meets a fellow officer in a crowded Berlin street.

Oakland, Cal.—The Hughes' Woman Special ends its trans-continental journey here, and the women boosting the Republican presidential candidate are enthusiastically received by Oakland and San Francisco crowds. The women speakers address girl workers of the Alameda cotton mills.

New York.—Thomas A. Edison, the noted inventor, is the guest of honor at the big Electrical Show in the Grand Central Palace. Atop the building in which the show is held, a giant searchlight illumines the surrounding buildings. A remarkable feat of night photography.

Season's Latest Fashions.—The most recent creations of Lucille, Lady Duff-Gordon, are displayed by beautiful Lucille models in appropriate settings.

Shadow Lawn, N. J.—President Wilson receives Ambassador Gerard, who recently returned from Germany, and the two hold an important conference at the Summer White House.

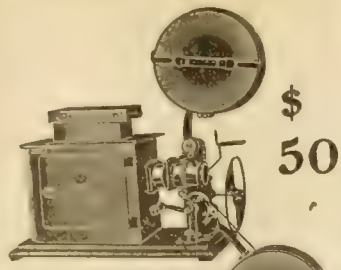
Buenos Aires, Argentine.—Palermo Race Track on Sunday, attracts a throng of South American society people, who watch a running race for a purse of $40,000.

Elephant Butte Dam, Sierra County, N. M.—The Elephant Butte Dam, one of the largest irrigation projects in the world, which cost $10,000,000, is dedicated here by the delegates of the National Irrigation Congress. A. A. Jones, who represents President Wilson, delivers the dedication address.

Haverford, Pa.—A Philadelphia team of girl hockey players wins a hard-fought contest here by a score of 7-2, the Philadelphians retaining their title of champions of the Women's Inter-Club Hockey League.

New York City.—A new police patrol boat is launched into the Hudson River, equipped for water duty. The new precinct station, which is to be used as a headquarters for police boats, is moved to its wharf in the East River.

El Paso, Tex.—Part of a mountainside is blown down by a giant blast of dynamite, which is set off to uncover 100,000 tons of raw cement.



$50

Bing's Home Entertainer

Here's a little machine, simple in its construction, and easy of operation, for which there is a place in every home.

It projects motion picture film as perfectly in the home as is possible in the average theater.

Light is provided by a baby arc, supplied with current from the ordinary electric light socket, controlled through a special rheostat.

The baby arc develops 800 candlepower, with about six amperes of current. The rheostat supplied is suitable for 110, 150 or 220 volts.

Pictures projected are about 6 x 8 feet in size, and splendid results are possible with a throw up to twenty-five feet.

Standard size film is used, making every film exchange in the country a constant source of supply for subjects. Reel boxes are of 1,000 feet capacity.

Set up and ready for use, the machine measures 31 inches long, 31 inches high, and 10 inches broad. The lamphouse is 10 x 6. Weight of machine, complete with arc and rheostat, is 24 pounds. Packed for shipment, the weight is 55 pounds.

There is absolutely no fire risk—"Safety First" has been the watchword in construction.

Remember the Price Complete is $50

DEALERS

Write for Special Discount

BING BROTHERS

MANUFACTURERS

John Bing, Sole Representative

381 Fourth Ave., New York

BEATRICE FAIRFAX (Episode No. 11—"The Wages of Sin"—Two Parts—Oct. 16).—The cast: Jimmy Barton (Harry Fox); Beatrice Fairfax (Grace Darling); Jane Hamlin (Betty Howe); Clayton Boyd (Nigel Barrie).

Jane Hamlin's father, a wealthy inventor, has just died and the young woman is going over his private papers. She finds a note addressed to her, which reads: "Open the safe and drop the contents into the ocean. Do not touch the third button. The machine is loaded with poison gas." She opens the safe and draws forth an infernal machine. As she does so, her fiance, Clayton Boyd, enters. He has a handsome face, but it displays weakness of character. They sit conversing in the dark room far into the night.

The scene changes and shows the interior of a room occupied by a gang of anarchists. They had tried to secure Hamlin's invention before his death and now plot to steal it. One of their number, Sverdrup, is delighted to commit crime. As Jane and her lover are talking in the dark room, they see Sverdrup at the window. As he jimmies it and enters they hide behind a couch. Covering the anarchist with a revolver, Boyd compels him to throw up his hands. Jane switches on the lights and leaves the room to phone the police. When she is gone, the anarchist offers Boyd $1,000 to free him and help him get the "only perfect infernal machine." He accepts, allows the anarchist to escape and then throws himself on the floor.

When Jane and the police arrive he feigns unconsciousness and as he recovers, claims the burglar beat him over the head. The police doubt his story and leave in disgust. Jane is greatly troubled and writes to Beatrice Fairfax for advice.

Meantime, Boyd and the anarchist lay the plot to secure the infernal machine. Boyd makes up as the ghost of Jane's father. That night he gains entrance to the Hamlin house and, as the ghost, tells Jane to give his secret to the man she loves. Jane falls in a faint.

Beatrice and Jimmy visit her the following day. After Jane has told her story, Beatrice agrees to spend the night with her. Jimmy has been shadowing Boyd and late that night follows him and the anarchist to the Hamlin house. He sees them go to the roof through an adjoining vacant house, sees Boyd disguise himself as Hamlin, wind a sheet about himself, and descend through the trap door to the Hamlin house. Sverdrup has been left on guard and Jimmy overpowers him. Then, winding a sheet about himself, Jimmy descends, too.

Boyd appears before Jane and frightens her almost to death. As he is talking to her, he hears a noise behind him. He turns to confront another ghost—and almost collapses himself from fright. Jimmy drops his sheet and covers Boyd with a revolver. But Sverdrup has recovered and enters behind Jimmy. He is about to deal him a blow over the head when Beatrice, emerging from the room adjoining that of Jane, fires from the doorway and drops the anarchist.

Jimmy then tears the sheet from Boyd and strips from his lips his false moustache, revealing him in his true character. Two policemen summoned by Jimmy take away the plotters and Jane takes Jimmy and Beatrice to the library to show them the infernal machine. As they are examining it, other members of the gang surprise them, compel them to surrender the infernal machine, and escape. As Beatrice scolds Jimmy for his carelessness he explains: "Don't worry. I pressed the third button."

BEATRICE FAIRFAX (Episode No. 12—"Curiosity"—Two Parts—Oct. 23).—The cast: Jimmy Barton (Harry Fox); Beatrice Fairfax (Grace Darling); Henry Hanson (Nigel Barrie); Mrs. Hanson (Evelyn Fariss).

Henry Hanson and his wife are newlyweds and Mrs. Hanson is much perturbed because of her inability to learn anything about her husband's business. At the close of a pleasant evening together, he sends her to bed. No sooner has she retired than he admits a disreputable looking man. Mrs. Hanson's curiosity overcomes her and she comes downstairs and overhears a part of the conversation between her husband and his visitor. Among other things, she hears her husband tell the man:

"You needn't fear me. I did two years in Atlanta prison and escaped."

Mrs. Hanson returns to her room, and writes to Beatrice Fairfax. Beatrice receives the letter and decides to go to Mrs. Hanson. Jimmy, the reporter, promises to call later.

The next scene shows the living room of the criminal gang. The man who called on Hanson at his home enters with him and introduces him to the chief as one who desires to join the gang. He is put through a rigid examination. After he has proved his worth, he is told that the big job the gang is pulling off is to place a bomb aboard an outgoing steamship, which the gang has been hired to destroy. An old hag is the housekeeper for the gang. As they are leaving the house Doyle, the leader, complains of the littered condition of the place and suggests she hire a woman to help her with the work. She hangs out a sign bearing the legend "Strong Woman Wanted."

The gang with Hanson in the lead, shown riding through a country road in a rough wagon. In the bottom of the wagon is a long box resembling a coffin. At a lonely spot they meet an undertaker's cart. The box is placed in a long case, such as those in which coffins are shipped, and then into the wagon. As the gang completes its work they see Beatrice and Mrs. Hanson, who had followed the latter's husband, peering through the bushes. They had followed Hanson to the scene. Hanson rushes to protect his wife, but is prevented by Doyle. The two women are forced to go to the house occupied by the gang, where they are bound and thrust into the cellar.

Meantime, Jimmy, assigned by the city editor to investigate the actions of the gang, has located their headquarters. Seeing the sign for a strong woman wanted, he disguises himself as a Swedish girl and secures the place. He sees Beatrice and Mrs. Hauson brought in and thrust into the cellar. Jimmy releases them and prepares for the fight which is to follow. Hanson, upstairs, is seated by a window, smoking. Two men pass by the house. Hanson, nervously throws his cigar through the window to the sidewalk. One of the passing men picks it up and they hurry away. The gang hears voices in the cellar and attempts to descend. Jimmy holds them off with a revolver. Then Doyle throws a bundle of burning straw downstairs, smoking out the prisoners. As they come up the stairs a battle is fought, in which Hanson joins Jimmy and the two women.

While the fight is in progress, the scene changes again and shows the man who picked up Hanson's cigar. He tears it apart and finds a message inside. It instructs him to wireless the steamship "Mandalay" to throw the coffin overboard, as it contains a powerful bomb, to be discharged in midsea. Having performed this service, the two men return to the house of the gang, just in time to take part in the fight and place the gangsters under arrest. Then, for the first time, Hanson is disclosed as the chief of the Secret Service. As he clasps his wife to his breast he explains: "There would be no secrets in the Secret Service if we told them to our wives."

BEATRICE FAIRFAX (Episode No. 13—"The Ringer"—Two Parts—Oct. 30).—The cast: Jimmy Barton (Harry Fox); Beatrice Fairfax (Grace Darling); Cutie (Miss Cherrie); the Dwarf (Major Rice).

Whitestocking, a famous race horse, has mysteriously disappeared. Jimmy Barton ascertains of Bitney, the owner, that a thoroughly reliable stable boy slept in the stall with the door locked and the key in his pocket. He was found doped and the horse gone. The only opening to the stall except the door was an opening over the manger too small to admit a man.

About the time Jimmy is receiving this information, Beatrice Fairfax gets a letter from Cutie, the fat lady in a country fair sideshow, saying that her sweetheart, the dwarf, absented himself from the show for three days and would give her no explanation. She asks advice. Beatrice shows the letter to Jimmy, who explains about the stolen race horse. They go to the country fair and enter the freak tent. Beatrice talks with the fat lady, who points out the dwarf. Jimmy goes over to the dwarf's station and talks to him. He sees Wilder, a bookmaker, come in and slip a note to the dwarf. The note reads: "Sam arrested for shell game. We divvy after race." The dwarf laughs in delight and tucks the note in his belt. Jimmy, under pretense of whispering a joke to the dwarf, picks him up and filches the note.

The scene changes to the main avenue of the fair grounds, where Jimmy, disguised as a fakir, starts a shell game. He is arrested and locked in the jail in a cell next to Sam. As he is being thrust into the cell, Jimmy steals the keys from the jailer. Sam is induced to talk and tells Jimmy how the dwarf was put through the opening in Whitestocking's stall and doped the stable boy. Jimmy lets himself out of jail, and hurries off to stop the "Free-for-All" race. In the mean time, Beatrice urged on by Cutie, asks the dwarf where he was during his absence of three days. The dwarf is frightened and runs to warn Wilder, the bookmaker. He finds him in another box stall superintending the blacking of Whitestocking's legs, the name of the ringer being Black Joe, as indicated by a sign on the door. Wilder sends the dwarf back with directions and he, returning to Beatrice, says: "If you'll come with me, I'll tell you." Beatrice follows the dwarf to the stable, where Wilder and his stable boy seize her and bind her in the stall, while the ringer is led out to the race.

Jimmy ascertains from Cutie where Beatrice went and follows. He is recognized by the constable who arrested him and is followed by the crowd. At the stable he breaks down the door, overpowering the stable boy, who is on guard and rescues Beatrice. He explains to the constable and hurries off to stop the race. Too late, they are off, Black Joe, the ringer, in the lead. Wilder and his confederates, who have wagered immense sums on the ringer at staggering odds, are arrested and when the race is over, Jimmy rushes to the judges stand and protests the race. He proves his charge by washing the stain from Whitestocking's ankles and is applauded by the crowd.

Beatrice attempts to console the fat lady while the detectives carry away the struggling dwarf.

— —

THE OCEAN WAIF (Golden Eagle—5 Parts Nov. 2).—The cast: Ronald Roberts (Carlyle Blackwell); Millie (Doris Kenyon); Hy Jessop (William Morse); Sem (Fraunie Fraunholz); Beatrice (Lyn Donaldson).

Millie Jessop, is an ocean waif, who was washed up by the waves and deposited at the door of 'Hy Jessop, a disreputable, drunken fisherman on the Atlantic Coast. Millie grew into beautiful womanhood as the drudge of Hy with no knowledge of her parentage and loved and protected only by Sem, a hunchback neighbor boy.

To her island home comes Ronald Roberts, in a big splendid yacht. He is an author seeking solitude to complete a novel. He rents a deserted mansion, supposed to be haunted, and takes possession of it the day after Millie leaves the hut of Jessop following a beating he had administered. She hides in the attic of the supposedly haunted house and furnished delightful comedy by assuming the role of the ghost. Then Ronald discovers her and promptly falls in love with her and she with him.

But a cloud appears when Ronald's fiancee and a party of friends come to visit him. Millie realizes her position, discards the fine raimant in which she has arrayed herself and goes back to her rags and the fisherman's hut. Jessop attempts to beat her upon her return and Sem shoots through an open window and kills him. Ronald arrives soon after in hunt of his sweetheart and is found bending over the prostrate form of Hy and is accused of the murder. He is tried and there is a wonderful court scene. While the jury is out and just as he is about to be convicted, Sem appears and confesses and then escapes. Beatrice, Ronald's fiancee, had deserted him in his hour of need. As he is freed he takes Millie back to New York with him as his bride, while Sem is left behind to face the consequences of his crime, a martyr to his love for "The Ocean Waif."

— —

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS NO. 85 (Oct. 21).

Hammond, Ill.—The first armored steel car, which undergoes a successful trial, is added to the equipment of the United States Army.

Hoboken, N. J.—Flames leap high as the well-filled stock of a large lumberyard feeds a ravaging fire which threatens to consume many adjoining houses. Sub-title: Buildings collapse like toy structures.

Newark, N. J.—With several Civil War comrades of her deceased husband acting as a guard of honor, the first widow's pension is given to Mrs. Mary A. Lovejoy. Sub-title: Mrs. Lovejoy is now over a hundred years old.

Athens, Greece.—King Constantine, whose throne is seriously threatened as the turbulent Balkan tangle, gradually draws Greece into its grasp, with the royal family.

On the Somme.—The war on the Western Front has now settled down to a fierce artillery duel and the belligerents compete in the number of shells they can hurl from their hidden guns. Sub-titles: The hope of France—the great 450 mm. gun, which relentlessly sends its havoc-raising message into the enemy's lines. Every advance of the Allies nets many German prisoners.

Are We Prepared for the International Trade Hunt After the War?—An Animated Cartoon by A. D. Reed. Process patented by J. R. Bray, August 11, 1914; November 9, 1915; February 26, 1916.

New York City.—The value of military instruction is strikingly shown as three thousand policemen, fresh from Government training camp, march with true soldier bearing. Subtitles: The auto machine gun corps. Mayor Mitchel and Commissioner Woods are proud of this notable improvement in the police force.

Corbin, Ky.—"Teddy"—is he still to the great crowds that greet Colonel Roosevelt on his transcontinental trip in aid of the Republican party. Sub-titles: Crowds also gather around his train at Falmouth. "Dee-lighted."

New York City.—Built in record-breaking time, the powerful superdreadnought Arizona, is now ready to join Uncle Sam's navy, and is commissioned at the Brooklyn Navy Yard. Subtitles: The chief feature of the Arizona is the double turret with three 14-inch guns mountel in each. The Arizona is a sister ship of the U. S. S. Pennsylvania. The National standard, which this mighty ship shall sacredly guard, is then raised. The battleship Maine passing out to sea for target practice.

Massillon, Ohio.—A monster parade marks the industrial celebration held by this prosperous little city. Sub-title: Governor Willis attends.

PATHE NEWS NO. 86 (Oct. 25).

Brooklyn, N. Y.—The reward of their toil is at last to be reaped and school children studying the tasks of rural life eagerly harvest the crops they planted. Subtitles: 1. A prize farmer. 2. One of the happiest moments in a boy's life.

New Haven, Conn.—In the presence of thirty-five thousand graduates and friends, Yale celebrates the two hundredth anniversary of the founding of the college in this city. Subtitle: 1. Hundreds participate in an allegorical pageant illustrating the history of the institution.

New York City.—Thomas A. Edison arrives to visit the National Exposition of electrical devices and instruments which he made possible as the master of this mysterious force.

Las Cruces, New Mexico.—Eighteen thousand National Guardsmen, comprising a large part of the militia now left on the border, engage in battle practice. Subtitles: 1. Getting accustomed to trench fighting. 2. General Morton and staff direct the troop movements. 3. Some of the boys receive an outdoor sermon from the village priest.

Paris, France.—Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, the noted American millionairess, devotes her time to aiding wounded Americans now fighting with the Allies.

Salonica, Greece.—Russian troops are now ready to take an active part in the Allies' campaign to liberate Serbia. Subtitle: 1. Soldiers of the Entente powers are to be seen everywhere on the streets of Salonica.

The Battle of the Somme.—The light field guns are an important factor in the great artillery duel, and the Allies keep them in readiness for an attack after huge howitzers have blasted an opening. Subtitles: 1. A battery waiting for the order to advance. 2. Infantry make their way to the front line through the connecting trenches.

Most Advance Styles in Men's Smart Clothes for Fall and Winter (shown by courtesy of The Stein-Bloch Company, Rochester, N. Y.).—The Ennyweather (Cravenette proofed)—An extremely stylish overcoat for rain or shine. The Light-Weight Avebury—A coat combining jauntiness and dignity. The Dunmore—A smart belted ulster for street or motor wear. The Ormonde—Especially designed for the young athletic figure.

Chicago, Ill.—Suffragettes are out in large force to give a demonstration expressing their political feelings when President Wilson arrives in the Windy City. Subtitle: 1. Their banners are torn in riots that follow the demonstration.

Los Angeles, Cal.—The Hay-Chamberlain Act authorizing an increase in the National Guard is meeting with hearty response and one coast artillery corps of 900 men is quickly formed. Subtitles: 1. The new recruits pledge their country three years of active service and three years of reserve. 2. The coast defense guns which these men will learn to operate.

Boston, Mass. (Boston only).—Battery A of the Massachusetts crack corps of noted militiamen return from duty on the Mexican border. Subtitle: 1. Learning to be a soldier boy.

SPECIAL ROLL TICKETS

PRICES

Five Thousand	$1.25
Ten Thousand	2.50
Fifteen Thousand	3.75
Twenty-five Thousand	5.50
Fifty Thousand	7.50
One Hundred Thousand	10.00

Your own special Ticket, any printing, any colors, accurately numbered; every roll guaranteed. Coupon tickets for Prize Drawings, 5,000 $2.50. Prompt shipments. Cash with the order. Get the samples. Send diagram for Reserved Seat Coupon Tickets, serial or dated. Stock tickets 5,000 to 25,000 fifteen cents per thousand, 50,000 ten cents, 100,000 nine cents.

NATIONAL TICKET CO.
Shamokin, Pa.

Don't Lean on Excuses

because your projection is not as good as the bigger theatres. The most important consideration in projection is the quality of your light and the light depends on your electrical equipment.

Wagner Quality

The Wagner Converter

for the smallest as well as the largest theatre will provide more and better light with the same or less current cost. Its description and record of performances should interest you.

Send today for Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric

Manufacturing Company, St. Louis, Mo.

830

Your Audiences Are More Critical

than they used to be, and to fill your theatre you want to make the most out of every picture you show.

Equip your projector with the

Marlux

lens, and secure a maximum of steady, brilliant illumination.

The Marlux represents the highest development of the motion picture lens, and the perfection of its optical corrections and focusing mechanism enables your operator to bring out the full interest of every picture.

See your Dealer, or write direct to

CROWN OPTICAL COMPANY

Rochester, N. Y.

STUDIO FOR RENT

DAY, WEEK OR MONTH

Finest indoor fire-proof studio on the coast. Center of the business district. Equipped with Winfield-Kerner lights. No glare or shadows.

Superior Developing and Printing

Expert and Efficient service.
Titles a Specialty.

CAMERAMEN

We Buy Undeveloped Negative

Subjects which are novel—trick pictures—popular science—popular mechanics—microscopical, etc. Write for particulars.

SUPERIOR FILMS COMPANY

ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager

Entire Tenth Floor

643 Olive Street, Los Angeles

RICHARDSON'S

MOTION PICTURE

HAND BOOK

FOR MANAGERS and OPERATORS

Published by

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

RICHARDSON'S MOTION PICTURE HAND BOOK is a carefully prepared guide to perfect projection.

It is an invaluable help to every single individual in the trade who has to do with the mechanical handling of motion picture film or the management of a moving picture theatre.

There are over 680 Pages of Text and the illustrations include detail diagrams of all the leading makes of projection machines.

Substantially Bound in Red Cloth $4.00

Sent Postpaid on Receipt of Price by

MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 17 Madison Ave., New York City
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 917 Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
MOVING PICTURE WORLD, 305 Haas Bldg., Los Angeles, Cal.

San Francisco, Cal. (San Francisco only).—Many beautiful floats are entered in a gala water pageant depicting the Landing of Columbus. Subtitle: 1. The float carrying the King and Queen of the Carnival.

THE SHIELDING SHADOW (Episode No. 6 "The Disappearing Shadow") (Two parts—Astra—Nov. 5). The mercenary Bianca to her surprise finds her former calculating heart is capable of holding an honest love. Ravengar, kept a prisoner in her gambling house, is the unwilling object of her affections. While deep in thought over a means of winning his love she has a visitation from the Shielding Shadow and a message appears on the wall: "To win Ravengar's love, lure a confession from Sebastian concerning a crime committed by him." Hopeful, and her superstitious nature aroused by the weird visitation, she entices Sebastian to a onely shack where her men put him through a grilling third degree.

Leontine, her suspicions fully aroused by Sebastian's absence, finds a clue and follows him. Two of the men on guard before the shack seize her and block her interference by locking her in a Gypsy wagon nearby. Ravengar makes his timely appearance, overcomes the Gypsy set on guard and enters the wagon. The door is locked on them by two of Bianca's lieutenants who fiendishly start the wagon rolling down the steep incline towards the cliff with its dizzy drop. In the wagon Ravengar finds a sledge hammer and working feverishly against the seconds between their instant death, breaks the door and jumps with Leontine as it goes dashing to pieces on the rocks below.

Bianca, on being informed of Ravengar's reappearance, rushes to his prison room, unlocks the multi-bolted door and finds—Ravengar calmly sitting there!

SCRATCH OF THE PEN (Pathe—Two parts—Nov. 5). A criminal uses a forged check to blackmail another crook. To escape prosecution he uses a diabolical method to get him out of the way. An innocent man is sent to prison for the crime, but avenging justice pursues the wrongdoer, the dead returns alive and rights the deep wrong.

LUKE'S PREPAREDNESS PREPARATION (Rolin—Nov. 5). Luke begins his preparedness campaign with musical notes deliberately unfriendly, and as "Colonel Earache," acoustic rebel, he will raise a continual bombardment of laughs.

FOWL AND GAME BIRDS (Pathe—Nov. 5). An interesting reel showing the exquisite markings and iridescent colorings of our domestic and wild feathered friends brought out in Pathecolor.

HISTORIC NEW ORLEANS (On same reel as foregoing). This historic city was named after the Duke of Orleans. Besides being the second largest cotton center in the world, it has many spots of picturesque interest.

Triangle Film Corp.

A CORNER IN COLLEENS (Ince—5 parts—Nov. 5). The cast: Shamrock (Bessie Barriscale); Richard Taylor (Charles Ray); Rose, (Margery Wilson); Dan Allen (Roy Neill,; Annie Fahy (Aggie Herring); Manus McCoy (Walter Perry); Daisy (Alice Taaffe); Hyacinth (Alice Lawrence); English Commander (Charles French).

In a little cottage in Ireland lived a widow who was the self-appointed guardian to four orphan girls. The widow was poor, but was contented and happy to be surrounded by four of the prettiest girls in the country. Shammie, the eldest, was an incurable Tomboy. The family struggled along on little or nothing, without a thought or care, until one day news reached them that the owner of the cottage, where they lived rent free, was coming from America to claim his property. The widow was up in arms, vowing to protect her wards from any intruding foreigners. And so when Richard Taylor arrived and saw Shammie and her sisters he thought it wiser to conceal his identity, especially after he had seen Shammie. But the fact that he owned the property leaked out, and the girls resisted all his overtures of friendship and Shammie was obdurate. The young conspirator did everything to make Richard Taylor's life unhappy, tormenting him with a hundred tricks.

About the time when Richard Taylor's love affairs were faring worst all kinds of trouble were happening in Dublin. There was a general uprising with street fighting and shooting. The unrest spread to the little village where Richard Taylor was having his own trouble with Shammie. There were meetings in the village and a regiment was sent down from Dublin to keep watch.

One night a secret meeting of the rebels was held, in spite of the commanding officer's order. This so piqued the curiosity of Shammie that she determined to be present, and was enjoying herself immensely when the constabulary swooped down and put the rebels to flight. Rushing away frightened the dazed Shammie found herself at the door of Richard Taylor's house. To save her Taylor equips her with a suit of his old clothes and attempts to pass her off as his secretary. When the military break into the house a free-for-all fight ensues, in which Richard Taylor greatly distinguishes himself.

The good-natured colonel, divining the reason of Taylor's determined resistance, orders the captured Shammie to be brought before him and, with a wink, orders Taylor to be shot. This brings Shammie to a realization of a certain feeling that she has struggled to conceal, and she pleads for the life of the condemned man who owns her love. The colonel commutes Taylor's sentence on certain conditions, to which Shammie agrees.

ATTA BOY'S LAST RACE (Fine Arts—Five parts—Nov. 5). The cast: Lois Brandon (Dorothy Gish); Jim Spencer (Keith Armour); Jarvis Johnson (Carl Stockdale); Lucille Stone (Adele Clifton); Mrs. Brandon (Loyola O'Connor); Phil Strong (Fred H. Turner); Bill Golden (Tom Wilson); Jockey (Joe Neery).

Jim Spencer owns a small "string" of horses and is racing them at the Gilmont track. In order to keep down expenses and to be near his horses, he boards with Mrs. Brandon, near the track. The "breadwinner" of the string is Atta Boy and he keeps him apart from the others in a barn back of the boarding house.

Lois, the daughter of Mrs. Brandon, has an inherited affection for horses and likes Atta Boy very much. She later falls in love with the owner, Jim, and he proposes marriage. Despite her confession of love for Jim, she rejects him, and when pressed for a reason, declares her hatred for his business—a race-track man. In explanation, she tells how her father, a horse owner, was driven to ruin and suicide by betting. He promises to quit the game if she will consent to marry him, and Lois gladly agrees.

He plans to make one big "killing" and retire; so he mortgages his entire "string" of horses to Johnson and bets the money on Atta Boy. The gambler concludes that Jim has something up his sleeve and sends Lucille, his consort, to Mrs. Brandon's boarding house to obtain the information. Her efforts to infatuate Jim are unsuccessful, but she gets the tip on Atta Boy from Bill Golden, a trainer, who has just been discharged by Jim. Johnson pays the tip heavily and Jim stakes his all on the horse.

Atta Boy runs a strong race, but goes lame in the home-stretch and loses. Johnson forecloses on the horses. He is bitter against Atta Boy, and when no one will bid on him at the sale, orders him to be shot. Lois pleads for him, and Johnson lets her have the horse on her promise to pay $50.

Jim quits the track and gets a job. Atta Boy is brought back to the barn and under the tender nursing of Lois, recovers. The discharged trainer happens to see Jim try out the horse and reports to Johnson that the animal is in good order again. He still has the unsatisfied claim of $50, and disregarding the verbal agreement with Lois, he has the sheriff take the horse away. All try to scheme out some way to raise money to satisfy the claim. Mrs. Brandon has money put away for the last payment on the house she is buying and redeems Atta Boy.

Lois goes to the barn and mourns in the empty stall, when Atta Boy, who has broken away from the gambler's stable, canters in and muzzles her lovingly. She has a vision Atta Boy winning another race and getting them out of all difficulties. She decides to overcome her scruples, just once.

Johnson has a race "fixed" and Lois enters Atta Boy in the same race, without knowledge of the "frame-up." It interferes with the gambler's plans and he seeks some way to compel the withdrawal of Napier Boy. Learning that the last payment on the house is overdue, he buys up the claim and then threatens foreclosure if the horse is not "scratched." Lois is intimidated at first, but resolves to pin her faith to Atta Boy. At the last minute, Johnson learns that the horse will run and he conspires with several jockeys to "pocket" Atta Boy. Lois overhears and tries to reach Jim in the betting ring to tell him to "switch" the bets to Johnson's horse. As no women are permitted to enter the betting ring, she calls to him excitedly but cannot tell whether he has heard her.

Atta Boy breaks the pocket and wins. Lois collapses, fearing Jim has switched the bet; but the latter had not understood the warning and the bet remained on the winning horse. With the money won they save the house and quit the race track forever.

The largest staff of experts in all departments makes the MOVING PICTURE WORLD the one paper in the trade that fully fills the requirements of every reader.

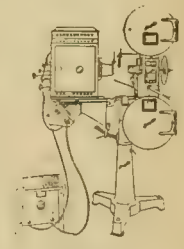
POWER'S 6 B

Nowadays Wise Mr. Exhibitor

Consults His Supply Man When Projection Difficulties Arise

It is through these consultations, held with hundreds of exhibitors, and the knowledge we gained suggesting remedies which has worked out advantageously to our customers at little or no cost to them. That makes us proclaim that we are foremost in the art of

PROJECTION ENGINEERING



SIMPLEX

Piteco Condensers Improve Your Projection. Ask about them.

Consult Our Engineering Department To-day

We Are Distributors for

NATIONAL and SILVER TIP CARBONS

Send for Prices

We Equip Motion Picture Theatres Completely.

PICTURE THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.

PROJECTION ENGINEERS

1604 BROADWAY, at 49th Street

NEW YORK

Classified Advertisements

NOTE OUR NEW RATES!

Remittances must accompany all orders as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

ATTENTION.

CONVICT SHIP "Success" film. Wanted, present address of J. C. Hearey, lecturer. Have good business proposition. Coupe, 2748 Canal St., New Orleans, La.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

DIRECTOR AND CAMERAMAN at liberty, creative ability and original ideas. G. O., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

PHOTOPLAYWRIGHT, five years' literary experience, seeks position as editor or continuity man. Unusual adaptations, etc., to order. Apartment 2, 98 Morningside Ave., N. Y. City.

OPERATOR AND WIFE, pianist and Seeburg player, experienced, reliable; joint position; South preferred. Best references. Reliable, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MANAGER picture vaudeville theater. Capable, married, sober. Best references, 10 years' experience. Address R. C., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN, with complete outfit, including stills, all-round experience, now at liberty, would like to locate with reliable concern. Moderate salary. Expert, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

SALESMEN wanted for advance slides of players. Exchanges, supply dealers, film salesmen or private parties. No investment required. Frank B. Howe, 6822 Sunset, Los Angeles, Calif.

YOUNG MAN to assist manager of 600-seat theater in heart of N. Y. City. Must be thoroughly familiar with the business, live wire. State age, experience, record, references and salary expected to begin. J. L., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

TODAY is the time to buy a movie. Why not purchase now when the prices are low and reap the harvest which comes during the fall, winter and spring. Here is a beauty which can be purchased for $1,500 or $2,000 down. Forty miles from Buffalo in a town of about 8,000 habitants. Leading show house in town. Profits $40 to $50 week year around. Price, $3,500. Lewis, 580 Ellicott Square, Buffalo, N. Y. Send for catalogue FREE.

FOR LEASE—Fully equipped modern picture theater, seating capacity 560. City 45,000. Immediate possession given. Star Theater, Elmira, N. Y.

FOR SALE—A new theater in city 70,000, with best equipment money can buy, on reasonable terms. Address Fogarty, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

A GOOD, BUSY moving picture show, admission, 10c. Run first-class features, stand the closest investigation, capacity 350 chairs, in the most prosperous manufacturing town of size in the U. S.; population 30,000. Write for particulars. Box 609, Hopewell, Va.

FOR SALE OR RENT—One of the best paying moving picture theaters in eastern part of Pennsylvania. City of over 100,000 population, theater is thoroughly up to date, seating 700, with 10c. admission price afternoon and evening. Best reasons for selling. Only bona-fide parties will be considered. Address J., care M. P. World, N. Y. City

SPLENDID CHANCE to purchase moving picture and vaudeville theater. (Brick building) seats 800, large stage, only house in town of 6,000 inhabitants. Fully equipped Now in operation. Free & Brannigan, Tarrytown, N. Y.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—One Power's 6A moving picture machine in good running condition. Price $135.00. J. S. White, Wakefield, Va.

GUARANTEED REBUILT MACHINES—1908 Motiograph, $60. 1913 Motiograph, $90. Power's No. 6A, $150. Edison type B, $75. 1911 Motiograph, $75. Simplex Motor Drive, $250. Edison Exhibition, $65. Power's No. 5G, $65. Going quick. Rush your order. Amusement Supply Company, 300-2 Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

300 OPERA CHAIRS for sale, used three months. Guaranteed same as new. 40c each. Color mahogany veneer. C. Jackson, Scenic Theater, Bloomington, Ill.

FOR SALE—One Power's 6A picture machine, one Simplex nineteen fourteen model picture machine, one Fort Wayne Compensarc, six Fourteen-inch oscilating fans, one thirty-inch exhaust fan, 220 nice opera chairs. The above material has only been used six months and is in excellent condition. Write P. R. Parrish, P. O. Box 417, Greensboro, N. C., for particulars.

OPERA CHAIRS—3,000 slightly used, 40c. up. Upholstered, $1.25. New opera, 95c.; maple folding, 40c. Atlas Seating Company, 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

NEW GOLD SCREEN, 9x12, $25.00, sold on trial. Free sample. Stretcher frame, $6.00. Guaranteed satisfactory. Cox Scenic Co., Estherville, Ia.

FOR SALE—Two 40 ampere type No. 115.672 General Electric Mercury Arc Rectifiers complete with extra relays, hand regulators and enclosed fuses. Full 50 amps. D. C. at arc guaranteed. Price $125 each. Collins & Hill, 10 S. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS—Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

RICHARDSON SAYS—"Install 'Amberlux' Lens Filters." Don't hesitate to spend $3.50 to protect your patrons from sight destroying eyestrain. W. D. Warner, Wyandotte Bldg., Columbus, Ohio.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

FOR SALE—One Williamson de Luxe camera with side focusing attachment, fitted with original Carl Zeiss lens. Focusing and diagram scale fitted to front of camera. Sunshade hood. Ten extra magazines. One imported Williamson extension tripod with tilt-top and panorama. Camera and magazine in cases. Outfit new. J. P. McDonnell, 416 W. 216th St., N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Pathe camera, outside magazines, equipped with two cases, six magazines, metal rails, two lenses, veedor counter, focusing tube, volute exterior shutter and other extras. Pathe camera enclosed magazines, six magazines, veedor counter, metal rails, trick attachment, two cases, two lenses. Universal tripod and tilt, cost new $833.00, sell $550.00. Universal Camera Company, 1007 Times Bldg.,

THE MOTION PICTURE CAMERA Clearing House offers the biggest values possible in high-grade tested Cinematograph cameras. 1st: 150 ft. Vista, late model, equipped with Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, $50.00; 2nd: 100 ft. Ernemann M. P. camera, equipped with Ernemann F:3.5 lens, $50.00; 3rd: 400 ft. Urban Professional, regular and trick crank, focus direct through rear. Two Voigtlander lens 70 M.M. and 90 M. M., interchangeable, $125.00. 4th: 400 ft. Pathe Cinematograph Hellar F:4.5 lens, $135.00. 5th: 200 ft. Ernemann Model A, regular and trick crank, Zeiss Tessar lens, F:3.5, $135.00. 6th: 400 ft. Ernemann Professional Model B. Finest mechanism, all adjustments, equipped with Zeiss Tessar, F:3.5 lens, $225.00. 7th: 400 ft. Ernemann Model B same as above, equipped with 2" Ernemann F:3.5 lens, 3" Heiomar F:3.5 lens and 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto lens, complete, $275.00. 8th: The Davsco Professional, 200 ft capacity, Zeiss Tessar lens. Biggest value possible, $110.00. Panoramic and tilting top tripods from $14.00 to $60.00. Write today. Information on any camera cheerfully answered. David Stern Company, The National Camera Exchange, 1047 R. Madison St., Chicago, Ill.

MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS and tripods for sale and for rent. Cameramen furnished anywhere. H. R. Hoover & Co., 229 West 42nd St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAMEN'S NOVELTIES—Laboratory outfits, special machinery, photplay directors viewfinders, flexible cranks, effect devices, static preventers. All film work, repair. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. and Second Ave., N. Y. City. N. Y. City.

FILMS WANTED.

WANTED—"Quo Vadis" for school use; also used 3, 6 reelers in good condition. State price, etc., F. Szczepanik, 1945 Hunting Park Ave., Philadelphia, Pa.

OPEN BOOKING—Have you a special picture to run on percentage or rent by the day? Capacity 350 chairs, population of town 25,000 people. Box 609, Hopewell, Va.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. Especially series. State price, etc., to F. Thomander, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WANTED—Undeveloped or developed negative, concerning coal mining. Pictures of mine interior desired. State price on amount you have in first letter. The David Davidson Studio, 57 Whitemarsh St., Providence, R. I.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of film and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

FILMS FOR SALE OR RENT.

OVER SEAS BUYERS should communicate with me, second-hand American pictures at European prices. Donald Campbell, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WE SPECIALIZE in used educational industrial, scientific and scenic films. Good subjects at 1½c. per foot and up. We have what you want. Send for our lists and terms. New York Film Laboratories, Film Sales Dept., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

ONE AND TWO-REEL subjects (Kriterion Brand), plenty posters, also features, first-class condition, full lobby displays. Bargains. Queen City Feature Film Co., 123½ Opera Pl., Cincinnati, Ohio.

SELLING OUT—Charlie Chaplin in "Ambition," 4 reels; "Charlie's First Vacation," 3 reels. Practically new film. Lot of three-reel features very cheap. Plenty of mounted and unmounted posters. Yale Feature Film Co., 3917 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo.

FOR SALE—Largest and finest stock of film in this country, consisting of single reel comedies, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 reel features, totaling over five thousand reels. Splendid paper. These films are not old program releases. First come, first served. Act Quick. This is also wonderful opportunity for foreign buyers. Chicago Film Trading & Exporting Co., Shops Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

PIPE ORGAN FOR SALE—Three-manual, thirty-stop Karn-Warren pipe organ, with echo organ, harp, chimes, Vox Humana, electric action and detached console. This organ has roll attachment and would be just the thing for a picture house. The owner, finding the organ too powerful for his residence, is willing to dispose of it at a great sacrifice, in order to make room for a residence organ. For full information, specification, price, etc., address Pipe Organ, care M. P. World, Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

A RUDOLPH WURLITZER automatic piano-band orchestrion, 8 ft. by 6 ft. 6 diameter, 8 ft. high, used five years, good as new; cost, $5,100.00, sell for $2,000.00 cash. D. B., 491 State St., Bridgeport, Conn.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

INDEX

TO CONTENTS

Advertising for Exhibitors 847
Again Rules to Override Orders 868
Aircraft Seeing Much Publicity 847
At Leading Picture Theaters 882

Barrymore, Ethel 877
Bad Checks Start Campaign Against 889
Beecroft, Chester in New Role 830
Behind the Scene 826
Bennett and Turner for Mutual Nov. 5 874
Bluebird Will Release a Special 870
"Boots and Saddles" (Morosco) 845
Brady Makes Bought and Paid For 878
Buffalo Unicorn Changes Quarters 833
Bushman and Bayne at Broadway 870
Buy "Yellow Menace" for New York 871

Calendar of Daily Program Releases . 902, 904
Camel man and the Soldier, The 868
Catalog of Educational Pictures 858
"Carewe Edwin, in Hospital 836
Chamberlin, Riley 867
Chicago News Letter 831
"Civilization" Territory Going Well 836
Classics and the Screen 861
"Cobb, Ty, Playing Before Camera 879
Comments on the Films 887
"Crimson Stain" Doing Big Business 877

Daughter of the Gods" at Fitt Theater 890
De Mille, Cecil, Heads Morosco-Pallas 875
"Desperate Duel, A" (Kalem) 844
Detroiters Discuss Advance in Prices 895
"Devil's Prize, The" (Vitagraph) 846
Diamond Trade Mark in Selig's 864

Eastern Pennsylvania Prospers 888
Enterprise Amusement Co. to Build 890
Essanay's November Output Large 869
Exhibitor Complains of Betrayal Stories 872

Facts and Comments 825
Famous Players End $100,000 Offer 866
Farnum, William Returns to Screen 874
Farrar Says Joan of Arc" is Splendid 897
Fashion Show Popular in Minnesota 864
Film Bicycling Sure to Bring Trouble 887
Film Men at the Border 830
Five New Kalems are Shown 843
Florence Rose Fashion Show Films, The . . . 871
Fox, William to Produce Comedies 874

"Gate of Death, The" (Kalem) 843
Gaumont Has Program of Singles 870
General Film to Go After Thieves 867
Get-Together of Exchangemen 889
Gibbs, Charles Now with Selznick 870
Give Credit Where Credit Is Due 827
Gloria's (Bluebird) 844

Hazards of Helen" in Third Year 869
Heart of a Hero, The" (World) 840
Heir to the Hoorah, The" (Lasky) 842
Hidden Valley" (Pathe) 841
Holah to Head Local International 894
Honor System, The 879
Honorable Algy, The" (Triangle) 844
Hungry for American Pictures 829

Ince, Ralph Leaves Vitagraph 876
International Adds to Product 864
"Interrupted Nuptials, The" (Unity) 845

Kalems for November 877
Kansas City Screen Club's Friday Night . . 898
Kane Writes of Big Theaters 836

List of Current Film Release Dates,
922, 924, 926, 928
Local Idea vs. State Censorship in Kansas . . 898

Man from the Yukon, The" (Kalem) 843
Manufacturers' Advance Notes 880
Maritime Protest Against Deposit 886
Masque of Life, The" (Signet) 841
Meeting of Miami Valley Exhibitors 872
Memphis Inaugurates Children's Matinees . . 896
Microscope Mystery, The" (Triangle) 844
Mobile, Ala., Exhibitor 892
Motion Picture Educator 858
Motion Picture Exhibitor, The 872
Motion Picture Photography 855
Music for the Picture 856
Musidora, Juliet 861
Mutual to Release "Charity" 864
Myers, Carmel New Griffith Protege 862

New Gloria in the Field, A 876
New Jersey Candidate Opposes Censorship . 872
New Orleans Its Picture Business 892
New Salesman, The" (Kalem) 843
News of Los Angeles and Vicinity 833
New York Has a Monkey Dinner 874
"No Children" Sign, What It Did in Kenosha 897

Notables in General Film 836
Notes of the Trade 883

Ocean Waif, The" (International) 842
Ontario Licensee Officer Makes Statement . . 894

Paramount Doings for Election Week 864
Parkway's Brilliant Anniversary 887
Pathe's Frisco Exchange Moves 889
Peters and Stedman to Co-Star 836
Photoplays Popular in Guatemala 868
Patria" to be Released December 4 876
Photplaywright, The 850
Picture Theaters Projected 884
"Place Beyond the Winds, The" (Universal) . 843
Politicians, Does it Pay to Lend Theaters to? 891
Portland's T. & D. Theater Closes 900
Poster Contest Under Way 874
Problems of Shopping District Theater 900
Projection Department 851

Real Color for "Frisco" 866
Red Thrills in Battle Pictures 857
Reviews of Current Productions 840
Roanoke, Beautiful Colored Theater in 888
"Romeo and Juliet" (Fox) 840

St. Louis to Have Screen Club 896
Selznick Leases Great Biograph Studio 871
"Sex Lure, The" (Ivan) 841
"Shadows and Sunshine" (Pathe) 842
"Son of Cain, The" Kalem) 843
"Son of Erin, A" (Paramount) 845
"Soul of Kura San, The" (Lasky) 846
South Dakota People Favor Sunday Shows . . 898
Spoor Outlines Essanay's Activities 869
"Splendid Openings" 827
"Spy and the Submarine, The" (Unity) . . . 845
Sievers Buys "Crisis" for Missouri 867
Stories of the Films 906

Theater Booth at County Fair Paid 896
Theater License Situation in Dallas 900
Three Fox Photoplays Set for November 876
Triangle Program 844
Two Prize Winners on Selznick Program . . 857

Unicorn Reports Successful Business 873

Vancouver's Broadway Now Open 901
Visit to Bridgeport Picture Shows 862

What's What on Universal Program 878
White, Miss, to Have New Serial 875
Will Tour Forty Companies 877
Word About Ourselves, A 828

Yellow Menace, The" (Unity) 845

TO ADVERTISERS

ASBESTOS SUPPLIES.
Johns-Manville, H. W., Co 925

CARBONS AND CARBON ACCESSORIES.
Jones & Cammack 910
Speer Carbon Co 931

CHAIR AND SEATING MANUFACTURERS.
American Seating Co 933
Steel Furniture Co 933

ELECTRICAL & MECHANICAL EQUIPMENT.
Amusement Supply Co 930
Calehuff Supply Co 911
C & C Electric Co 931
Erker Bros 927
Fulton, E. E 909
Hallberg, I. H 922
Hertner Electric & Mfg. Co 927
Hommel, Ludwig & Co 911
Lucas Theater Supply Co 932
Picture Theater Equip. Co 918
Porter, B. F 930
Strelinger, Chas. A 912
Typhoon Fan Co 912
Universal Motor Co 911
Wagner Elec. Mfg. Co 917
Westinghouse Elec. & Mfg. Co 923

FILM EXCHANGES.
Bradenburgh, G. W 931

LENS MANUFACTURER.
Crown Optical Co 917
Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co 932

MANUFACTURERS OF MOVING PICTURES.
Art Dramas Inc 790-1
Arteraft Picture Corp 796-7
Biograph Co 902
Bluebird Photoplays, Inc . . . . . Colored Insert
Christie Films 802
Civilization Feature Co 793
Clara Kimball Young Film Corp 784
E & R Jungle Film Co 916
Essanay Film Mfg. Co 779, 823
European Film Co 905
Fox Film Corp 787
Frohman Amusement Corp 788-9
Gaumont Co 810-11
General Film Co 819
Grafton Pub. Co 913
Harper Film Co 792
Herbert Brenon Film Co 785
International Film Service . . . . . Colored Insert
Ivan Film Productions 812-13
Kalem Co 824
Kleine, George 815
Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Service 816-18
Knickerbocker Star Features 821
Masterpiece Film Co 814
Mecture Pictures 799
Metro Picture Corp . . . . . Colored Insert
Moss, B. S 794
Mutual Film Corp . . . . . Colored Insert
National Drama Corp 911
Norma Talmadge Film Co 786
Paramount Pictures Corp 803-806
Pathe Exchange, Inc . . . . . Colored Insert
Selig Polyscope Co 822
Sherman-Elliott Co 795
Signal Film Corp 808-9
Thanhouser Film Corp 778
Triangle Film Corp 800-1
Unicorn Film Service 798
Universal Film Mfg. Co 780-1
Vim Comedies 820, 903
Vogue Films, Inc 807
World Film Corp 722-3

MISCELLANEOUS.
Automatic Ticket Selling & C. R. Co 911
Baltimore Operators' Ball 929
Bioscope, The 932
Botanical Decorating Co 933
Bulletin, The 930
Cinema Camera Club 913
Cine Mundial 933
Classified Advertisements 919
Corcoran, A. J 910
Eastman Kodak Co 925
Erbograph Co 910
Ewais Film Mfg. Co 913
F. I. L. M. Club of N. Y 934
General Chemical Co 932
Gunby Bros 930
Il Trisco Al Cinematografo 930
Kinematograph Weekly, The 933
Kraus Mfg. Co 909
Marion, Louise M 932
Motion Picture Electricity 929
M. P. W. Circulation Coupon 930, 933
M. P. Directory Co 930
Moore, Wm. N 910
National Ticket Co 916
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co 910
Preddy, W. G 913
Richardson M. P. Handbook 917
Richardson, F. H 932
Rothacker Film Mfg. Co 935
Salvation Army 912
Standard Motion Picture Co 910
Superior Films Co 917
Willis & Inglis 911

MOVING PICTURE CAMERAS.
Los Angeles M. P. Co 909
Stern, D 913
Universal Camera Co 914

MUSIC AND MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS.
American Photoplayer Co 913
Berg, S. M 929
Seeburg, J. P., Piano Co 921
Sinn, Clarence E 912
Wangerin-Weickhardt Co 929

POSTERS AND FRAMES.
Menger & Ring 910

PROJECTION MACHINE MANUFACTURERS.
American Standard M. P. Mch. Co 912
Ring Bros 915
Enterprise Optical Co 927
Motion Picture-Scope Co 925
Power, Nicholas, Co 936
Precision Mch. Co 928

PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER.
Genter, J. H., Co., Inc 930
Gold King Screen Co 930
Radium Gold Fibre Screen, Inc 913

THEATRICAL ARCHITECTS, DECORATORS' SUPPLY CO.
Decorators' Supply Co 931

There is a SEEBURG at a price that you want to pay

There is no denying the importance and profound influence that music has on the screen. Every exhibitor, whether conducting a 200 or 1500-seat house, realizes that appropriate music is invaluable to the presentation of moving pictures. The various tone combinations in—

SEEBURG ORGANS

AND

SELF-PLAYING ORCHESTRAS

allows the player to properly interpret the action on the screen, thereby enhancing the entertaining value of the photoplay.

SEEBURG INSTRUMENTS are built to meet the most exacting requirements, and have solved the music problem for hundreds of exhibitors Why not for you?

J. P. SEEBURG PIANO COMPANY

Manufacturers

1004 Republic Bldg., CHICAGO

BOSTON 162 Boylston St
NEW YORK 729 Seventh Ave.
PHILADELPHIA 943 Walnut St.
PITTSBURGH 701 Penn St
ATLANTA 65 N. Pryor St
MINNEAPOLIS 80 So. 8th St
BEAUMONT, TEXAS 702 Pearl St.
FARGO, N. D. Stone Bldg.
ST. LOUIS 603 Princess Theatre Bldg
SAN FRANCISCO 52 Turk St

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 902, 904.)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem.

Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph.

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Oct. 30—The Goddess of Sagebrush Gulch (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 93).

Nov. 1—The Power of the Press (Three parts—Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No 94).

Nov. 6—The New York Hat (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 95).

Nov. 7—The Science of Crime (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 96).

Nov. 13—Near to Earth (Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 97).

Nov. 15—Lord Chumley (Three parts—Dr.) (Biograph Reissue No. 98).

ESSANAY.

Oct. 17—The Fable of "The Kittenish Superanns and the World Weary Snipes" (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 18—Dreamy Dud in the African War Zone (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A Scenic subject on the same reel.

Oct. 21—Marooned (Three parts—drama).

Oct. 21—Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916, arranged from "The Tramp," "His New Job," "A Night Out" (Five parts—Comedy).

Oct. 24—Borrowed Sunshine (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 25—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 18 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A scenic subject on the same reel.

Oct. 28—It Never Could Happen (Three parts—Drama).

Oct. 31—The Beach Comber (Two parts—Comedy).

Nov. 1—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 19 (Cartoon—Comedy).

Nov. 4—The Heart of Virginia Keep (Three parts—Drama).

Nov. 7—Easy Ed (Two parts—Comedy).

Nov. 8—A Safe Proposition (Comedy).

Nov. 11—What I Said Goes (Three parts—Dr.).

KALEM.

Oct. 17—A Sauer Kraut Symphony (Comedy).

Oct. 18—The Yellow Hand (No. 11 of the "Girl from 'Frisco") (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 20—The Code Letter (No. 1 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).

Oct. 21—Hazards of Helen Railroad Series No. 102, "A Daring Chance" (Drama).

Oct. 24—The Bogus Booking Agents (Comedy).

Oct. 25—The Harvest of Gold (No. 12 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 27—The Missing Heiress (No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

Oct. 28—Hazards of Helen Railroad Series No. 103, "The Lost Messenger" (Dr.).

Oct. 31—The Merry Motor Menders (Com.).

Nov. 1—The Son of Cain (No. 13 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.).

Nov. 3—The Pencil Clue (No. 3 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).

Nov. 4—"Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series No. 104, "The Gate of Death" (Drama).

Nov. 7—A Desperate Duel (Comedy).

Nov. 8—The Witch of the Dark House (No. 14 of the Girl from Frisco) (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 10—The Man from Yukon (No. 4 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Drama).

Nov. 11—Hazards of Helen railroad series No. 105, "The Lone Point Mystery."

SELIG.

Oct. 12—The Selig-Tribune No. 82, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 14—A Mistake in Rustlers (Western—Drama).

Oct. 16—Only a Rose (Two parts—Drama).
—A Boomerang (Comedy).

Oct. 16—The Selig-Tribune, No. 83, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 19—The Selig-Tribune, No. 84, 1916 (Topical).

Oct. 21—An Eventful Evening (Comedy).

Oct. 23—Out of the Shadows (Two parts—Dr.).

Oct. 23—The Selig-Tribune, No. 85, 1916 (Top.).

Oct. 26—The Selig-Tribune, No. 86, 1916 (Top.).

Oct. 28—A Close Call (Drama).

Oct. 30—Small Town Stuff (Three parts—Com.).

Oct. 30—The Selig-Tribune, No. 87, 1916 (Top.)

Nov. 2—The Selig-Tribune, No. 88, 1916 (Top.).

Nov. 3—Tom's Sacrifice (Drama).

Nov. 6—So Shall Ye Reap (Two parts—Dr.).

Nov. 6—The Selig-Tribune No. 89, 1916 (Topical).

Nov. 9—The Selig-Tribune No. 90, 1916 (Topical).

Nov. 11—When Cupid Slipped (Comedy).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Oct. 11—Their Installment Furniture (Com.).

Oct. 18—A Persistent Wooing (Comedy).

Oct. 25—Green Eyes (Comedy).

Nov. 1—Gertie's Garters (Comedy).

Nov. 8—Marked No Fund (Comedy).

Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).

VIM.

Oct. 26—A Maid to Order (Comedy).

Oct. 27—The Frame-Up (Comedy).

Nov. 2—Twin Flats (Comedy).

Nov. 3—In the Ranks (Comedy).

Nov. 9—A Warm Reception (Comedy).

Nov. 10—Hot Dogs (Comedy).

Nov. 16—Mother's Child (Comedy).

Nov. 17—Good and Proper (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Oct. 20—Strong Evidence (Comedy).

Oct. 21—The Harbor of Happiness (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).

Oct. 23—Trouble for Four (Comedy).

Oct. 27—Betty's Affair (Comedy).

Oct. 30—The New Porter (Comedy).

Nov. 3—The Game that Failed (Comedy).

Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).

Nov. 6—New York Rapid Transit (Comedy).

Nov. 10—Weary Willie's Birthday (Comedy).

Nov. 13—The Second Story Ringer (Comedy).

Nov. 17—The Luck of Jane (Comedy).

Nov. 18—The Man Who Went Sane (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).

General Film Company Features

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Vitagraph—Three parts—Drama).

Nov. 18—The Who Went Sane (Vitagraph—Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES.

Oct. 27—The Chorus Girl and the Kid (Three parts—Drama).

Nov. 3—Jess of the Hill Country (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 10—The Question Mark (Three parts—Drama).

Nov. 17—Target of Dreams (Two parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

THE HALLBERG 20th CENTURY MOTOR-GENERATOR

IS APPROVED BY ALL LEARNED JUDGES OF PERFECT PICTURE PROJECTION!

IT SATISFIES THE EXHIBITOR—IT IS APPRECIATED BY YOUR AUDIENCE.

DIXWELL THEATRE

Highwood, New Haven, Conn., Aug. 18th, 1916

J. H. Hallberg

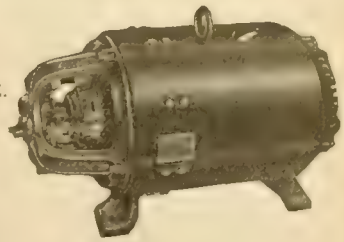
Dear Sir: I want to say for your Motor Generator that I consider it the best investment we made when putting up our house, and, in spite of the fact that it got terribly damaged in the fire there, we are so well satisfied to have it still turning out the same bright and thoroughly lighted picture that it has always produced.

Did you notice in an issue of the M. P. World that the Projection editor had made calls on most of the houses in New Haven as a guest of the local M. P. Operators' Union and said that we put on an ABSOLUTELY PERFECT picture and that he, as critical as he naturally is, could find no fault at all with our projection.

We attribute this faultless picture to the perfect white and strong light produced by your HALLBERG MOTOR GENERATOR, as no machine, no matter how good, nor screen, no matter how efficient, can produce the results without the good strong and steady white light generated by your machine.

Respectfully,

WOOD & WHITMAN.



$239 and up.

Gives best light at lowest cost. Ask for Free Bulletin No. 1. Gasoline Engine Generators save 2/3 on cost of power. Free Bulletin No. 2.

I am distributor of all makes of moving picture machines and furnish everything complete for the theatre and studio, new and used apparatus. Complete stock of "SPEER" and other carbons.

Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue send 25 cents.

Keep your moving picture machine in first class condition. Let me overhaul your mechanisms once a year. Repair parts on rush or telegraph order shipped at once.

Send for prices on miniature Portable and Advertising Projectors.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

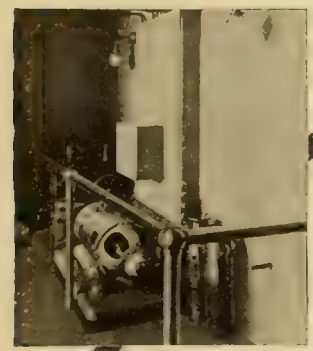
Send $4.00 for Richardson's M. P. Handbook

Send $1.50 for Hallberg's Carbon Saver

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

Member National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc.

Westinghouse



W WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC

The Best Is None Too Good

if you wish to be successful in the moving picture game to-day.

Your patrons are paying for high class photo plays and you cannot afford to disappoint them by showing flickering pictures.

Westinghouse Motion Picture Equipment changes the alternating current into the direct current you need to get the best results from the film.

Our engineers will be glad to assist in the solution of your electrical problems.

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC & MANUFACTURING COMPANY

East Pittsburgh, Pa.

473

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 902, 904.)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Nov. 1—Number 44 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 45 (Topical).
Nov. 15—Number 46 (Topical).

BIG U.

Oct. 29—A Daughter of Dixie (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 2—Sea Mates (Drama).
Nov. 3—Starlight's Message (Drama) (Special release).
Nov. 5—The Bandit's Wager (Comedy—Dr.).
Nov. 10—The Evidence, (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 12—The Powder Trail (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).
Nov. 15—The Torment (Drama) (Special).
Nov. 16—Life's Maelstrom (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 17—The Long Search (Drama) (Special).

BISON.

Oct. 28—The Better Man (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 4—For Love and Gold (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 11—The Quitter, (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Son of a Rebel Chief (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Oct. 17—The Wrath of Cactus Moore (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—The Masked Woman (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 8—The Cry of Conscience, (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 14 Honor Thy Country (Thre parts—Drama).

IMP.

Oct. 22—No release this day.
Oct. 26—(Special release—title not decided).
Oct. 27—Through Solid Walls (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 3—Stumbling (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—The Secret Cellar (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).
Nov. 7—The Voice Upstairs, (Drama).
Nov. 10—The Eel (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 17—Guilty (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—No release this day.
Nov. 19—The Thread of Life (Two parts—Drama) (Special).

JOKER.

Oct. 28—A Crooked Mixup (Comedy).
Nov. 4—A Shadowed Shadow (Comedy).
Nov. 11—In Love With a Fireman (Comedy).
Nov. 18—Their First Arrest (Comedy).

LAEMMLE.

Oct. 18—Through Baby's Voice (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—No release this day.
Oct. 25—Lucille, the Waitress (Comedy) (Special Release).
Oct. 28—(No release this day).
Nov. 1—The Midnight Toll (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 2—Her Wedding Day (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov 4—No release this day.
Nov. 11—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Shadows of Suspicion (Drama).
Nov. 15—No release this day
Nov. 18—No release this day

L-KO.

Oct. 22—She Wanted a Ford (Comedy).
Oct. 25—A Rural Romance (Two parts—Com.).
—An Alligator Hunt (Ditmar's Educational).
Nov. 1—Terrors of a Turkish Bath (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 5—No release this day.
Nov. 7—Alice in Society (Three parts—Comedy).
Nov. 8—No release this day
Nov. 12—No release this day.
Nov 15—A Million Dollar Smash (Two parts—Comedy)

NESTOR.

Oct. 20—Pat's Pasting Ways (Comedy).
Oct. 23—The Bar Fly (Comedy)
Oct. 30—Love and a Liar (Comedy).
Nov. 6—A Political Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 10—Sweedy, The Janitor (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Knights of the Bath Tub (Comedy).
Nov. 17—A Capable Lady Cook (Comedy).

POWERS.

Nov. 2—Sammie Johnson Minds the Baby (Comedy—Cartoon).
—Ceylon (Educational).
Nov. 3—Us Kids (Comedy).
Nov. 9—High Life on a Farm with Hy Mayer (Cartoon—Educational).
Nov. 16—Motor Mat and his Fliv (Com.-Cartoon).
—Ceylon (Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Oct. 16—Barriers of Society (Five parts—Dr.).
Oct. 23—The Black Sheep of the Family (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Isle of Life (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Place Beyond the Winds (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Heritage of Hate (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Oct. 13—No release this day.
Oct. 15—No release this day.
Oct. 20—The Gold Band (Drama).
Oct. 29—The Moving Finger (Drama).
Nov. 3—No release this day.
Nov. 5—Her Vanished Youth (Drama).
Nov. 9—The Mantle of Deceit (Two parts—Society—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Pen Trip to Palestine (Educ.).
Nov. 10—The Eyes of Love (Drama).
Nov. 16—The Diamond Lure (Drama).
Nov 17—No release this day.
Nov 18—Lost in Babylon (Drama).

VICTOR.

Oct. 17—No release this day.
Oct. 22—Main 4400 (Two parts—Comedy—Dr.).
Oct. 24—Kitty from the City (Drama) (Special Release).
Oct. 27—A Plumber's Waterloo (Comedy).
Oct. 29—The Burglar (Comedy).
Oct. 31—Felix on the Job (Comedy) (Special Release).
Nov. 7—No release this day.
Nov. 9—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Any Old Duke'll Do (Comedy).
Nov. 14—No release this day.
Nov. 14—A Case of Beans (Comedy) (Special).
Nov. 19—Her Chance (Comedy).

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Oct. 9—Breaking Into Society (No. 9 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me"—Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 9—Liberty No. 9, "Trapped," (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 12—Behind Life's Stage (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 16—Fame at Last (No. 10 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me"—Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 16—Liberty No. 10, "The Human Targets" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Liberty No. 11, "A Daughter of Mars" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—Society Hypocrites (Three parts—Dr.).
Oct. 30—Liberty No. 12, "For the Flag" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Liberty No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—Liberty No. 14, "A Modern Joan of Arc" (Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Oct 23—Love Never Dies (Five parts—Drama).
Oct 30—The End of the Rainbow (Five parts—Drama).
Nov 6—Gloriana (Five parts—Drama)
Nov 13—A Stranger from Somewhere (Five parts—Drama).
Nov 20—The Measure of a Man (Five parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Oct. 9—Citizens, All (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Franchise (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Professor Jeremey's Experiment (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama).

BEAUTY.

Oct. 10—That Sharp Note (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Last Thrust (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Spartan Spleen (Comedy).

CUB.

Oct. 13—Inoculating Hubby (Comedy).
Oct. 14—Those Primitive Days (Comedy).
Oct. 14—Their College Capers (Comedy).
Oct. 20—He Wouldn't Tip (Comedy).
Oct. 21—That Doggone Baby (Comedy).
Oct. 21—The Deacon's Widow (Comedy).
Oct. 27—Lovers and Lunatics (Comedy).
Oct. 28—Dad's Masterpiece (Comedy).
Oct. 28—When Clubs Were Trumps (Comedy).
Nov. 3—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).
Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 4—The Eternal Challenge (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).

FILM D-ART.

Nov. 6—The Ten O'clock Mystery (Three parts—Drama).

GAUMONT.

Oct. 11—See America First, No. 57 (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Oct. 15—Reel Life, No. 24 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 18—See America First, No. 58 (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Oct. 19—Stepping Westward (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 22—Reel Life No. 25 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 25—See America First, No. 59 (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).
Oct. 29—Reel Life, No. 26 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 1—See America First No. 60 (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 5—Reel Life No. 27 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 7—Mutual World Tours (Travel).
Nov. 8—See America First, No. 61 (Scenic).
—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).
Nov. 12—Reel Life, No. 28 (Mutual Film Magazine).

MUTUAL.

Oct. 17—The Law of Nature (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—The Folly of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 26—At Twelve O'clock (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 30—Paying the Price (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—The False Clew (Two parts—Dr.)

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Oct. 11—Number 93 (Topical).
Oct. 18—Number 94 (Topical).
Oct. 25—Number 95 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 96 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 97 (Topical).

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Vagabond (Two parts—Comedy).
One A M (Two parts—Comedy).
The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Oct. 19—The Voice of Love (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 145).
Oct. 23—The Undertow (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 146).
Nov. 6—And the Law Says" (American—Five parts Drama) (No 150).
Nov. 9—East Is East (Turner-Five parts—Drama) (No 151).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Oct. 26—The Love Hermit (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 147).
Oct. 30—Faith (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 148).
Nov. 2—The Pearl of Paradise (Five parts—Drama) (No. 149).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 926.)

A blazing film!

—a sudden white spot on the screen, rapidly widening with curling, crumbling, smoking edges —and your audience knows the film is ablaze.

Will they, will you, also know that your fire risk is localized within the projection booth?

Assure the safety of your audience and your theatre with a

Johns-Manville Asbestos Booth

Permanent and Semi-portable Booths, for theatres, halls, schools and churches, are strongly made of J-M Transite Asbestos Wood and angle iron. They are easily installed, are highly fire-resistant and insulate against electricity. Complete ventilating system supplied if desired.

The Portable Booths, made of J-M Asbestos Cloth tented over an iron frame and resting on an asbestos mat, can be set up in 20 minutes.

Made by the makers of the Original

Asbestos Curtains

Write for J-M Booklet on Curtains and Booths.

JOHNS-MANVILLE SERVICE COVERS THE CONTINENT

H. W. Johns-Manville Co.

Executive Offices:

296 Madison Ave., New York

Branches in all large cities

"The plot may thicken but the picture stays clear."

Because the basic product is right, the clearest pictures are on

Eastman Film

Look for the identifying mark stenciled in the margin.

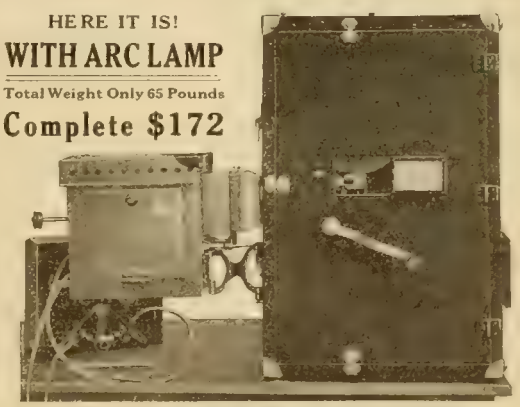
EASTMAN KODAK COMPANY,
ROCHESTER, N. Y.

HERE IT IS!

WITH ARC LAMP

Total Weight Only 65 Pounds

Complete $172



THE PORTOSCOPE

Equipped with standard carbon lamp and 25 ampere rheostat is an ideal outfit for

TRAVELING EXHIBITORS LECTURERS SMALL THEATRES
Standard Film Standard Slide

Sturdily built of the very best material, it embodies every essential feature of the large projectors. It is fully guaranteed for the same length of time as any machine on the market. It will stand knocking about. It will give the satisfactory results you expect and your audience demands.

Many PORTOSCOPES have been in service for over a year without requiring a single part replaced. A stock machine we have been using continuously for over a year in our projection room, has not needed even a simple adjustment. A record never before equalled by any machine of any type on the market.

Let us prove to you that THE PORTOSCOPE will meet your requirements. Let us show you how to save money, eliminate bother and loss of time transporting heavy, cumbersome projection equipment.

Recommended and for sale by BEST dealers everywhere.

THE MOTION PICTURE-SCOPE COMPANY
710 Sharples Building, Chicago, Ill.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 902, 904.)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 924.)

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 23—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 1, "The Lumber Pirates" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 2, "The Wreck in the Fog" (Two parts—Drama).

THANHOUSER.

Oct. 13—At the Edge of the Aqueduct (Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.

Oct. 22—Her Painted Pedigree (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 29—He Died and He Didn't (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov 5—Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 12—Picture Pirates (Two parts—Com.).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

COLUMBIA.

Oct. 30—The Gates of Eden (Five parts—Dr.).

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

Oct. 26—The Iron Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).

QUALITY.

Oct. 16—In the Diplomatic Service (Five parts—Drama).
October—Romeo and Juliet (Five Parts—Dr.) (Special Release).

ROLFE.

Oct. 23—The Brand of Cowardice (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Wager (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).

YORKE.

Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDIES.

Oct. 16—Bridget's Blunder (Comedy).
Oct. 30—A Troublesome Trip (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.

Nov. 2—Seventeen (Five parts—Comedy-Dr.).
Nov. 20—Miss George Washington (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—Nanette of the Wilds (Five parts—Drama).

LASKY.

Oct. 26—The Heir to the Hoorah (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Soul of Kurl San (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Unprotected (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Plow Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).

PALLAS.

Oct. 9—The Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Son of Erin (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.

Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.

Nov. 1—Greenland's Icy Mountains (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 8—Farmer Al Falfa Sees New York (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 15—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 22—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.

Oct. 30—Vesuvius in Eruption (Scenic).
Nov. 6—In Classic Greece (Scenic).
Nov. 13—In Modern Athens (Scenic).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.

Oct. 29—The Shielding Shadow, No. 5, "Through Bolted Doors" (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 5—The Shielding Shadow No. 6 "The Disappearing Prisoners" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—The Shielding Shadow No. 7, "The Awakening" (Two parts—Dr.).

GOLD ROOSTER PLAYS.

Oct. 29—The Sultana (Five parts—Comedy-Drama) (Colored).
Nov. 5—The Hidden Valley (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—Shadows and Sunshine (Five parts—Comedy—Drama).

PATHE.

Oct. 29—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 7, "Betty Entertains an Out-of-Town Guest" (Fashions).
Oct. 29—The Moth and the Flame (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Pearl of the Army No. 1 "The Traitor" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Scratch of the Pen (Two parts—Drama).
Historic New Orleans (Scenic).
Nov. 5—Fowls and Game Birds (Educational—Colored).
Nov. 12—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 8, "A Day in New York with Betty" (Fashion).
Nov. 12—Baseball's Peerless Leader (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).

PATHE NEWS.

Oct. 28—Number 87, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 88, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 4—Number 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 90, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 11—Number 91, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 15—Number 92, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 18—Number 93, 1916 (Topical).

ROLIN.

Oct. 22—Heinie and the Magic Man (Comedy).
Oct. 29—Luke, the Chauffeur (Comedy).
Nov. 5—Luke's Preparedness Preparation (Comedy).
Nov. 12—Luke—Gladiator (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.

Oct. 22—Fifty-Fifty (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—A Sister of Six (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Atta Boy's Last Race (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—American Aristocracy (Five parts—Drama).

INCE.

Oct. 22—The Vagabond Prince (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—Somewhere in France (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—A Corner in Colleens (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—Jim Grimsby's Boy (Five parts—Dr.).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.

Oct. 16—The Slumbering Memory (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—The Honor of the Tribe (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.

Oct. 18—Fear (Three parts—Drama).

GAYETY.

Oct. 17—Wife's Frame-Up (Comedy).

JOCKEY.

Oct. 17—The Foolish Romance (Two parts—Comedy).

JUDY.

Oct. 7—The Model (Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Lost Ring (Comedy).
—U. S. Fighting Craft (Educational).
Oct. 19—Over the Hills (Comedy).
Oct. 22—Disposing of a Lover (Comedy).

LILY.

Oct. 3—Thru the Wall (Drama).
Oct. 8—The Web (Three parts—Drama).

PURITAN.

Oct. 6—The Live Corpse (Comedy).
Oct. 19—The Honor of the Gardells (Two parts—Drama).

SUNSET.

Oct. 5—A Daring Mission (Drama).

SUPREME.

Oct. 2—Pen and Sword (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 6—The Guilty One (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.

Oct. 21—When Hands are Idle (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—The Vengeance of Dan McGrew (Drama).

Feature Releases

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.

Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Six parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.

Oct. 9—His Wedding Night (Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Making Over of Mother (Comedy).
Oct. 23—He Loved the Ladies (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 23—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 10, "The Tortured Soul" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 11 Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 13 (Two parts—Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES INC.

October—La Tosca (Two parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.

Oct. 23—Romeo and Juliet (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—Sins of Her Parent (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 13—The Mediator (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—Jealousy (Five parts—Drama).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.

October—The Conquest of Canaan (Drama).
November—The Witching Hour (Drama).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).

Oct. 23—Scarlet Runner, No. 4, "The Hidden Prince" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—Scarlet Runner, No. 5, "The Jacobean House" Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Last Man (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Scarlet Runner, No. 6, "The Mysterious Motor Car" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Devil's Prize (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Scarlet Runner No. 7 "The Red Whiskered Man" Vitagraph (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Second Mrs. Tanqueray (Vitagraph Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Price of Power (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Scarlet Runner, No. 8, "The Glove and the King" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—An Enemy to the King (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Scarlet Runner, No. 9, "The Gold Cigarette Case" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).

HERALD FILM CORPORATION.

October.—Prima Donna's Husband (Five parts—Drama).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE, INC.

Oct. 23—Beatrice Fairfax No. 12 "Curiosity" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 85, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 27—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 86, 1916. (Topical).
Oct. 30—Beatrice Fairfax, No. 13, "The Ringer" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 87, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 2—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 88, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 2—The Ocean Waif (Golden Eagle—Five parts—Comedy-Drama).
Nov. 7—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 7—Beatrice Fairfax, No. 14, "The Hidden Menace" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 90, 1916 (Topical).

Erker's

ANNOUNCE

the opening of their new store at

Detroit, Mich.

To our old customers we say, "Our increased buying facilities make it possible for us to give the most for the least and that same good service you have always had."

TO PROSPECTIVE CUSTOMERS

" 'TRY US,' That's All We Ask"

Moving Picture Machines, Theatre Equipment, Slides and Supplies

If you operate or intend to open a theatre remember

ERKER'S FOR EVERYTHING

(Read that last line over again.)

WRITE FOR CATALOG

Erker's

35 East Grand River
DETROIT, MICH.
— or —
608 Olive St.
ST. LOUIS, MO.

It Isn't Too Late to Install A TRANSVERTER

IF your projection light is not what it should be—if your pictures are blurred, dim and flickering—if you're not getting your full share of the immense fall business, you still have time to bring your equipment up to date by installing the

TransVerteR
TRADE MARK

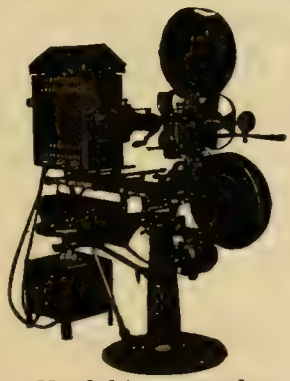
The Transverter is a motor generator and the most practical device on the market for producing a superior projection light. All modern theatres, old and new, are installing the Transverter because it insures a strong, brilliant, steady light that is always under perfect control of the operator.

We are prepared to make deliveries in two or three weeks' time. If you order at once you can have it installed in time to get the cream of the business in your section.

Write today for September Bulletin, which gives information and net prices.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Company
1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

EXPERIENCE IS A DEAR TEACHER



Hand-driven complete $250.00
Motor-driven complete $285.00
All wired orders shipped promptly.

WHY NOT PROFIT BY THE EXPERIENCE OF OTHERS

Mr. Carl Pearson says:

"I used a Late Model Motiograph and a ——— ——— machine—had a disastrous fire and the ——— ——— machine never was found, but the Motiograph can easily be placed in running condition.

"Me for the Motiograph hereafter; experience has shown me that it is made of the very best material."

CAN YOU, who contemplate placing a new projector in your booth afford to take a chance on a projector which is made of inferior material when the MOTIOGRAPH is priced right, gives satisfactory results and is made of the very best grade of material?

Write for Literature.

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. COMPANY

574 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 902, 904.)

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

October—Her Surrender (Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Sept. 11—Gloria's Romance No. 17, "The Telltale Envelope" (Two parts—Dr.).

Sept. 18—Gloria's Romance, No 18, "The Bitter Truth" (Two parts—Drama).

Sept. 25—Gloria's Romance, No. 19, "Her Vow Fulfilled" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 2—The Country That God Forgot (Selig—Five parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—The Return of Eve (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

October—World Series Baseball Film (Selig—Topical).

Oct. 30—The Heart of the Hills (Edison—Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—The Prince of Graustark (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 13—The Cossack Whip (Edison—Five parts—Drama).

Nov 20—The Chaperon (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

MORTIMER D. METCALFE.

Oct.—A Reunited Party (Two parts—Topical).

THE MOTION PICTURE FORUM.

Oct. 2—Motion Picture Portrait Studies of President Wilson and His Cabinet—the U. S. Government in Action.

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES

October—The Price She Paid (Drama).
November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.)
Nov.—The Foolish Virgin (Drama).
Nov.—Panthea (Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Oct. 30—The Man Who Stood Still (Five parts—Drama).

Nov 6—The Heart of a Hero (Five parts—Drama).

Nov 13—Bought and Paid For (Five parts—Drama).

Nov 20—The Madness of Helen (Five parts—Drama).

Nov 27—The Men She Married (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

GRAFTON PUBLISHING CO.

Oct.—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Drama).

G M BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.)

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE COR.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).

MONARCH PHOTO-PLAY CO., INC.

October—Common Sense Brackett (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORPORATION.

October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Oct. 9—Some Hero (Comedy).

Oct. 16—The Yellow Menace, No. 7, "Drops of Blood" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 16—A Scrambled Honeymoon (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 16—The Land Just Over Yonder (Six parts—Drama).

Oct. 23—The Yellow Menace, No. 8, "The Time Clock" (Two parts—Drama).

Oct. 30—Tweedledum's Busy Night (Two parts—Comedy).

Oct. 30—The Yellow Menace, No. 9, "The Time Clock Bomb" (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—The Yellow Menace, No. 10, "A Message from the Sky" (Two parts—Drama).

Nov. 6—Humanizing Mr. Winsby (Five parts—Drama).

Nov. 13—The Yellow Menace, No. 11, "The Half Breed's Hatred" (Two parts—Drama).

Nov 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).

Nov 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13 (Two parts—Drama).

THERE'S A SIMPLEX DISTRIBUTOR NEAR YOU

ASK THE ONE IN YOUR COMMUNITY TO SHOW YOU

BUILT FOR MATCHLESS PROJECTION
RUNNING ECONOMY
and
LONG LIFE

1911 1916

FIVE YEARS

OF SUPREMACY

1911 1916

Simplex

Test it thoroughly and you will find it the Projector that Fills Your Ideals

Send for Catalog "A"

Weekly Announcement
WEST POINT
MILITARY ACADEMY
INSTALLED SIMPLEX.

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

MEMBER
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION
MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

BERG'S
Incidental Series

1	Allegro Agitato—for general use	Carl Kefert
2	Hurry—for railroad scenes	Wally C. Stuart
3	Misterioso—for burglary or mystery	Adolf Minot
4	Cavalry Parade—for cavalry scenes	J. E. Andino
5	Stampede—for western scenes	Walter C. Stuart
6	Agitato—for slight disturbance or fight	Carl Kefert
7	Galop—characteristic	Adolf Minot
8	Allegro Agitato—for disputes and excitement	J. E. Andino
9	Dramatic Tension—for subdued action	J. E. Andino
10	Andante Pathetique	Irene Berge
11	Furioso—for storm scenes	Carl Kefert
12	The Melody of the Bell—for sister or church scenes	Charles K. Herbert
13	(a) Poppyland—Garden or reception scenes	Carl Kefert
	(b) Valse Caprice—Valse Lento	Carl Kefert
14	March Bizarre	Walter C. Stuart
15	Andante Dramatic—for impending danger	Chas. K. Herbert
16	Battle Agitato—Descriptive	Adolf Minot
17	Indian Intermezzo—for neutral scenes	Chas. K. Herbert
18	(a) Indian Love Song—characteristic	Chas. K. Herbert
	(b) Indian Lament—characteristic	Chas. K. Herbert
19	Indian War Dance—for fight scenes	Chas. K. Herbert
20	Mexicana—characteristic	Chas. K. Herbert
21	Hunting Scene—Allegro Vivace	Gaston Borch
22	Misterioso Dramatico—for sudden or impending danger	Gaston Borch
23	Andante Pathetique—for general use	Gaston Borch
24	Dramatic Andante—for suppressed emotions	Gaston Borch
25	Joyous Allegro—Triumph or Victory	Gaston Borch
26	Hurry—for general use	Adolf Minot
27	Storm Furioso—Descriptive	Adolf Minot
28	Pizzicato (Petite Ballet)	Irene Berge
29	Misterioso—for general use	J. E. Andino
30	Pizzicato Misterioso—for burglary and stealth	Adolf Minot
31	Gruesome Misterioso—for infernal or witches' scenes	Gaston Borch
32	Dramatic Andante—characteristic	Irene Berge
33	Hurry—for pursuit and races	Adolf Minot

SPECIAL OFFER—Each No.

Small Orchestra. 20c.—Full Orchestra. 30c.—Piano Solo only 12c.

S. M. BERG

Columbia Theatre Bldg., New York City

Weickhardt Pipe Organs

(THE UNIT ORGAN)

are built-to-order instruments, wonderful in musical flexibility; in short, GENUINE MASTER PIPE ORGANS. No other instrument, or combination of instruments, can compare with its marvelously effective tones. Let us send you our descriptive catalog.

WANGERIN-WEICKHARDT CO.

112-124 BURRELL STREET

MILWAUKEE, WISCONSIN U. S. A.

Eastern Office, 729 Seventh Ave., New York City

MOTION PICTURE
ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages. $2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

Grand Dansé

Moving Picture Operators' Protective Union

T A S E I 181

Tendered to Delegates A. F. of L. Convention
THE LYRIC, BALTIMORE, MD.
Wednesday, November 15th, 1916

Novelty Dances, Grand Electrical Effects, Cabaret and Entertainment

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRRORROID Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRRORROID INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.
Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.
Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.
Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRRORROID, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.
If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRRORROID screen installed.
Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE

D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor

B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

BOOST YOUR SALES IN CANADA
Use the
BULLETIN
"Canada's Premier Motion Picture Journal"
Sample Copy and Rates Free
106 Richmond Street WEST TORONTO

GOLD KING SCREENS
TEN DAYS FREE TRIAL
ARE BEST
GOLD KING SCREEN CO., ALTUS, OKLA.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30 to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3327 Chelsea
428 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

If You Need a New Machine

and can't afford to pay cash, write us today and we will help you out.

Our easy payment plan enables you to purchase any make machine at a small investment. DON'T DELAY—GET BUSY—WRITE TODAY for full particulars.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.,
Cor. Madison Street & Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

IL TIRSO AL CINEMATOGRAFO

The most important Film Journal in Italy.

Published every Monday at Rome. Excellent staff, special bureau of information. Correspondents in all parts of the world. Yearly subscription for foreign countries: $3.00.

Business Office: Via del Tritone 183, Rome, Italy

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Developed . 1c ft.
Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.
TITLES in any language complete 5c per foot
Cards Free Tinting Free
Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders
GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00

EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS $1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....
Cut out and mail Theatre.....

HILL MOTOR GENERATOR

For Motion Picture Arc Lamps

Delivers true direct current from alternating lines.

PRODUCING STEADY WHITE LIGHT PROJECTION OF TRUE COLOR VALUE, WITHOUT FLICKER OR FLARE.

It delivers 12000 candle power to a screen up to 50 ft throw, [illegible] is obtained from the alternating current and for the same current. It also eliminates all current wasting balancing and voltage reduction resistances, hence will pay for itself in this saving alone. Built in capacities sufficient to carry two machines during dissolve, this is accomplished without a break. Covering but 18x15 inches of floor space, it may be installed in the booth under the [illegible] control of the operator. Running in ball bearings, it is quiet and free from vibration.

Write for Bulletin MW.

C & C Electric & Mfg. Co.
Garwood, N. J. 218

G. W. BRADENBURGH

802 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa.

NAME.	STAR.	LENGTH	CONDITION	PRICE
For $5,000 a Year	Louise Huff	5000	Brand New	$200
Sealed Orders	Chas. Mason	5000	As New	200
The Butterfly	Barbara Tennant	5000	Good	80
From Gutter to Footlights	Leah Allen	5000	Good	100
Dancer and the King	Cecil Spooner	5000	Good	75
Littlest Rebel	Dustin Farnum	5000	Good	125
World, Flesh and the Devil	Chas. Mason	5000	Good	100
The Chimes	Pan Terriss	5000	Good	100
An American Gentleman	Wm. Bonelli	5000	As New	150
Hearts United	Wm. Bonelli	5000	Brand New	120
One of Millions	Laura Sawyer	4000	Good	80
Sapho	L. Borrelli	4000	Good	80
Last Days of Pompeii	Massive Production	5000	Very Good	120
Should a Woman Tell	Louise Lovely	4000	Good	75
Her Husband	Clara Kimball Young	2000	Good	50
David Garrick	Clara Kimball Young	2000	Good	40
Cupid Versus Woman's Rights	Clara Kimball Young	1000	Good Comic	15
Goodness Gracious	Clara Kimball Young	2000	Good	45

All the above are supplied with one three and six sheet posters and photos; everything high-class. Single and two reel comedies. Chaplins and others at reasonable prices. Single comedians with posters at $5.00. Write for Film Bargain list.

EXPERIENCE

IS THE BEST TEACHER

A SINGLE TRIAL
OF

SPEER CARBONS

IS ALL THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED

THE RESULTS SECURE ORDERS

Trade Mark

SPEER CARBON CO.

DEPT. "W"

St. Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading Motion Picture Supply Dealers, Including the Following

J. H. HALLBERG - - - 727 7th Ave., New York, N.Y.
KLEINE OPTICAL CO. - - - 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO.,
74 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga. 1815 Main Street Dallas, Tex.
E. E. FULTON CO., - - 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO.
813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
G. A. METCALFE - 117 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.

Ornamental Theatres

PLASTER RELIEF DECORATIONS

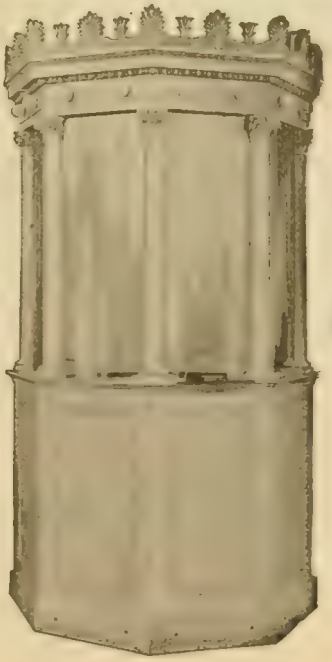
Theatres Designed Everywhere

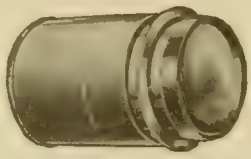
Send for our 1916 catalog. It contains forty beautiful full-page illustrations—some in colors—of theatres we have designed and decorated. It shows several styles of ticket booths, lighting fixtures and ornaments; it will give you many valuable ideas for decorating your new theatre or improving the looks of your present one.

Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Leo Street, CHICAGO, ILL.





The best theatres in the country are equipped with

Gundlach
Projection Lenses

This is in recognition of their superior illuminating power and perfect correction for a sharp, brilliant picture.

IT'S ALL IN THE LENS

Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Co.
808 So. Clinton Ave., Rochester, N. Y.

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)
Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.
For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.
For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation
American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush
of
"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.
Specimen on Application

Peace Pictures

Beautifully Colored
Also
European War Pictures
(Neutral)
Illustrated Poems
On our own country.

Terms Moderate — Accompanied by Violinist, Pianist, Operator, Lantern, etc., for Theatres, Lyceums and Clubs, in or out of town. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION
445 W. 23rd Street, New York
Phone 10306 Chelsea

FREE to all SOUTHERN EXHIBITORS, if you will cut this out and mail to us with the name of your theatre — one year's subscription to THE COSIKI the liveliest, classiest, and most up-to-date monthly humor paper in existence, will be sent to you free each month.

LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY CO.
ATLANTA GEORGIA

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
LOW Price
and CAST IRON

Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 150 Fifth Ave.

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe

The Kinematograph Weekly

The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—

The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W. Eng.

When You Want Opera Chairs Remember We Have

50,000 CHAIRS

Always in Stock
in six different designs in Antique Mahogany and Circasian Walnut finishes, assuring you of a satisfactory selection.

Immediate Service
Other designs of unupholstered and Upholstered Chairs in unlimited numbers furnished in 25 to 50 days after receipt of specifications.

General Offices 1010 Lytton Bldg. CHICAGO

AMERICAN SEATING COMPANY

Sales Offices in all Principal Cities

FLORAL THEATRE DECORATIONS

Give Artistic Atmosphere. They delight your patrons

Artificial flowers are practically everlasting and need no care—the effect is the same as natural ones.

Our expert decorators are at your service—ready to give you ideas and estimates.

Write for beautifully colored catalogue—mailed free to you. We quote absolutely the lowest prices ever offered on reliable goods.

BOTANICAL DECORATING CO., Dept. 7, 208 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturers of Artificial Flowers and Plants

CINE-MUNDIAL

A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries.

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?

ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE

CINE-MUNDIAL
17 Madison Avenue New York

$4.80 A Big Saving Each Year $4.80

On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.

It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.

ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York

.....
.....
.....

Cut out and mail Theatre.....

Reputable Exhibitors and Exchanges of New York City

Next Thursday evening, November 2nd, at eight o'clock, you are requested to attend a meeting to be held at Wurlitzer Hall, 113 West 40th Street, New York City.

Every person connected directly with the motion picture exchange business, doing business in Greater New York, New Jersey, Connecticut, and New York State including Albany and Buffalo is invited to meet with us.

We are going to put into operation a practical and feasible plan that will eliminate and rid the industry, among others, of the following evils, that have been and are rampant in this territory: Thievery and dishonest employees; inadequate express facilities between upper New York State, Connecticut and Manhattan; exhibitors holding over films without extra payment; exhibitors returning films C.O.D. to the exchange to collect fancied damages, knowing the necessity of prompt delivery to the next customer; switching or railroading films between two and more houses, illegally and without payment; films and features booked and contracted and left lying on the shelf uncalled for and unpaid; written contracts violated and broken; due notice not given on cancellations; enforced deductions from the face of invoices; excessive credits and non-payment of accounts; bad checks; no recourse against dead beats andfly-by-night exhibitors, or exhibitors who are judgment proof; no protection for legitimate exchanges against illegitimate exchanges and pirates, and for honest exhibitors against exchanges who are guilty of many crooked deals against them.

We are also going to submit a proposition to the Exhibitors' League that will undoubtedly bring their membership up to 100% for New York and adjacent territory.

If you want honest and honorable dealings to be enforced in the interdealings of the motion picture industry, meet with us, Mr. Exhibitor and Mr. Exchangeman.

F. I. L. M. Club

—OF—

New York City

(Film Industries Local Managers of New York)

ARTHUR F. BECK, President
EDW. SAUNDERS, First Vice-President
H. H. BUXBAUM, Second Vice-President
W. E. RAYNOR, Secretary and Treasurer

THE ELECTION

Of our registered trade mark is of signal importance to all progressive and ambitious members of the motion picture industry.

This trade mark is the hall-mark of the phrase we coined, others purloined, and we alone deserve.

Perfect Developing and Printing

This trade mark on a photoplay symbolizes the judicious and proper combination of art, purpose and technical perfection.

This trade mark on a contract is as good as a government bond, and ratifies an agreement of mutual benefit.

This trade mark represents fair and square dealing and noteworthy achievement—a reputation solidly built, firmly established and consistently maintained during the more-than six years we have devoted to the science of manufacturing moving pictures.

Look For This Trade Mark

Insist upon it—Be guided by it—and you will never be disappointed.

Rothacker

FILM MFG. CO. CHICAGO, U.S.A.

There are reasons—
Come and see them.

"SIXTEEN YEARS OF KNOWING HOW"

POWER'S CAMERAGRAPH 6B

SELECTED FOR THE PROJECTION OF THE WM. FOX PRODUCTION

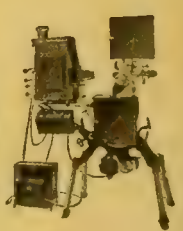
A DAUGHTER OF THE GODS

AT THE LYRIC THEATRE
NEW YORK CITY

WRITE FOR CATALOG G

NICHOLAS POWER COMPANY

NINETY GOLD STREET NEW YORK



Vol. 30, No. 7 November 18, 1916 Price 15 Cents

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

THE FILM INDEX

EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Scene from "The Pearl of Paradise" (American).

Post Office Box 226
Madison Square Station

NEW YORK

17 Madison Avenue
Telephone Madison Square 3510

Photograph by Underwood & Underwood

SEVEN DEADLY SINS

Will feature Ann Murdock, Holbrook Blinn Nance O'neill, Charlotte Walker, H. B. Warner, George LeGuere and Shirley Mason.

McCLURE PICTURES

McCLURE PICTURES

THE CRITICS SAY "exceptionally good" and other fine things about

THE FIRST

ESSANAY-CHAPLIN Revue of 1916

The Moving Picture World says: "It is literally a CHAPLIN RIOT. You will LAUGH YOUR HEAD OFF."

The Motion Picture News says: "The three pictures from which the 'Revue' is assembled are EXCELLENT. This, in addition to the original 'business' introduced ought to make it a SURE-FIRE RELEASE."

The Dramatic Mirror says: "It tells a complete story, dovetailing without a break, making a UNIQUE COMEDY feature."

The Exhibitors' Herald says: "It is a SUCCESS, EXCEPTIONALLY GOOD."

Motography says: "The arrangement should prove a delight. It is PACKED with COMEDY."

W. K. Hollander in the Chicago Daily News says: "It is Chaplin from beginning to end in every form of ludicrousness—one SOLID MASS OF MIRTH. There is genuine humor throughout and it actually forces one to laugh."

Robert McKnight in the Chicago Examiner says: "There are HEAPS of LAUGHTER in this revival."

SCREEN TIME ONE HOUR, 17 MINUTES

GENERAL FILM SERVICE

TRADEMARK Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

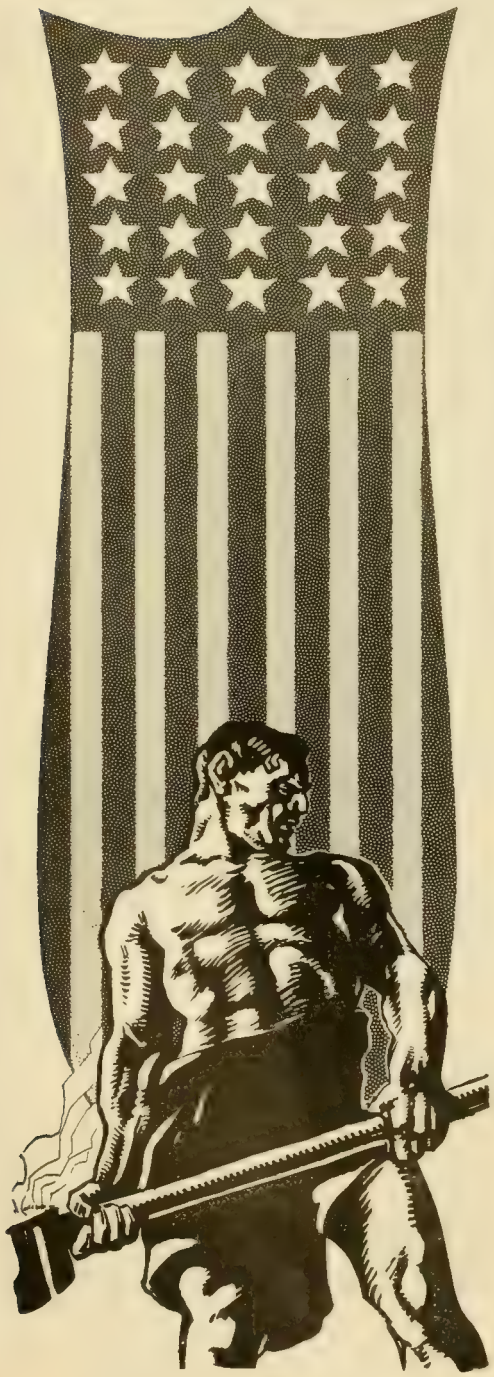
"THE EAGLE'S

A Thundering Drama with

From the Virile

BLUE

EXTRAO



THE world's greatest theme, staged in the hugest manner. Spectacles outdone by realistic scenes of the most thrilling and timely interest.

A magnificent and tremendous presentation of an absorbing story of National Defense.

Beyond description because without precedent. A box-office attraction unparalleled because it has the universal appeal; the grip direct that clutches at the heart of every American man, woman and child.

What other producers have attempted—only to stop at silly mimic warfare, paper castles and ingenious brain-storms.

"EAGLE'S WINGS" is a dignified yet fascinating drama that will hold your audiences spellbound, and send them from your theatre to tell their friends it is the greatest world-drama ever told in pictures.

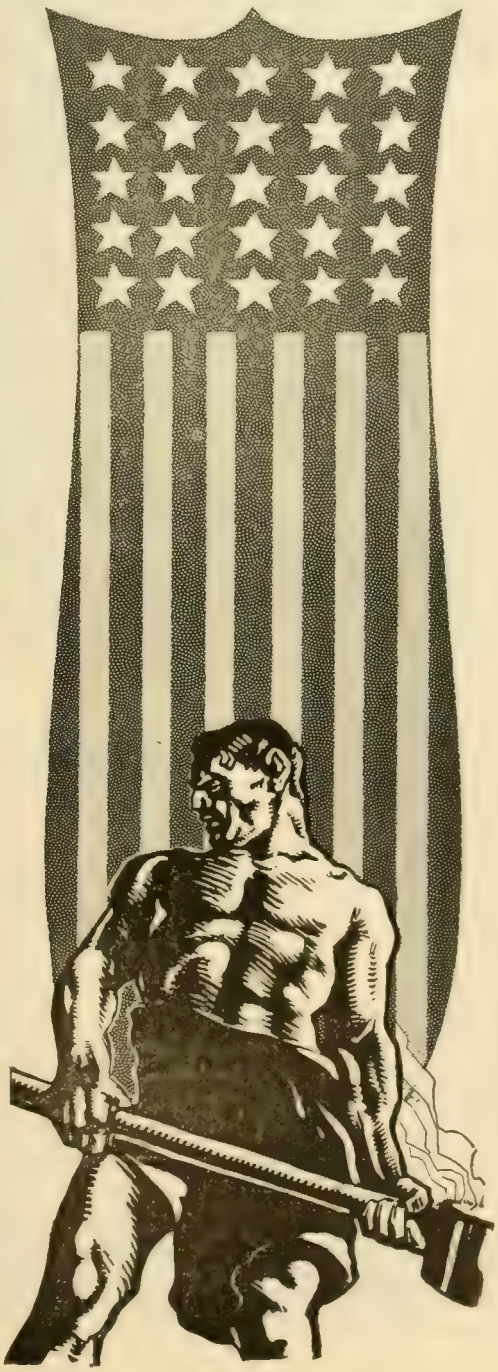
WINGS"

a Thundering Message

Pen of Rufus Steele

BIRD

RDINARY



SPECIAL Notice to All BLUEBIRD Exhibitors:
The BLUEBIRD Exchanges have paid an enormous sum for the State Rights to this exceptional picture. It is called "A BLUEBIRD Extraordinary," not merely to advertise it, but to give you due notice that it is a Special Release.

You must expect to pay a good price for it because it is so unusual that but for the action of the BLUEBIRD Exchanges it would have been State Righted. Then you would have paid as much or more—and without the prestige of the BLUEBIRD name.

We suggest that you wire for a booking reservation now. Remember, it is not on the BLUEBIRD Program. Make your reservation now.

Special posters have been prepared. Unique and distinctive paper, worthy of this great picture. There is an extra special 24-sheet, a 6-sheet, two 3-sheets and two 1-sheets. Also a magnificent window card. BOOK NOW.

A Drama of Frenzied
Finance, Love & Adventure

RED FEATHER PHOTOPLAYS

"The Mainspring"

From the Story by Charles Agnew McLean

With BEN WILSON and FRANCELIA BILLINGTON

Directed by
JACK CONWAY

Book through any UNIVERSAL Exchange

SELZNICK PICTURES

HERBERT BRENON'S
PRESENTATION OF NAZIMOVA in
"WAR BRIDES"
by MARION CRAIG-WENTWORTH

OPENS IT'S PRE-RELEASE RUN AT THE BROADWAY THEATRE
NEW YORK
AS A TWO-DOLLAR ATTRACTION
NOVEMBER 12

WATCH FOR THE COMMENTS OF THE NEW YORK PRESS ON THIS TREMENDOUS PHOTO-DRAMATIC ACHIEVEMENT

LEWIS J. SELZNICK-SOLE DISTRIBUTOR
NEW YORK

SELZNICK PICTURES

THE NEXT

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG

PRODUCTION

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN"

From The Novel by Thomas Dixon

Author of "THE BIRTH OF A NATION"

Albert Capellani
Director General

"THE COMMON LAW" HAS ALREADY BROKEN THE RECORD FOR ATTENDANCE IN EVERY IMPORTANT CITY WHERE IT HAS BEEN SHOWN.

"THE FOOLISH VIRGIN" WILL BE EVEN STRONGER AS A PICTURE AND AS A DRAWING CARD

LEWIS J. SELZNICK-SOLE DISTRIBUTOR
NEW YORK

SELZNICK PICTURES

JOSEPH M. SCHENCK
PRESENTS

NORMA TALMADGE

IN A PICTURIZATION OF THE INTENSE DRAMA

"PANTHEA"

by Monckton Hoffe

A GREAT STAR
IN HER GREATEST PRODUCTION

DIRECTED BY ALLAN
DWAN

LEWIS J. SELZNICK-SOLE DISTRIBUTOR
NEW YORK

PHOTO BY LUMIERE STUDIO

ELECTION EXTRA

Unicorn Banner

ELECTION EXTRA

VOL. 30 No. 7 NOVEMBER 18, 1916

ENTIRE COUNTRY SWEPT BY UNICORN

Huge Majorities In Every State Of The Union.

Landslide Probably Caused By Excellent Program.

Ike Schlank, Newly-Elected President Gives Interview.

New York Holds Solid

(Special to the Banner)

New York, Nov 8—Latest returns from the entire State give a sweeping victory to Unicorn The candidate came down to thé Bronx with overwhelming majorities from every exhibitor everywhere

Albany, Nov 8—Unicorn completely carried the Northern part of New York with its big program and record of promises performed

Central States Roll Up Plurality

(Special to the Banner)

Lincoln, Nebraska, Nov 8.—The middle-west states experienced a landslide for Unicorn and its service Indications are that, as returns come in from exhibitors the majority will [illegible] even heavier [illegible] first figures [illegible]

Buckeyes Rise To Banner

(Special to the Banner)

Cleveland, O., Nov 8—The Buckeye state has enrolled under Unicorn's banner, by a tremendous plurality The candidate invaded fields supposed to be solidly devoted to the opposition, but in every instance rolled up substantial victories.

Illinois Votes Big Majority

(Special to the Banner)

Chicago, Ill, Nov 8.—There was never any doubt in this and neighboring states but that candidate Unicorn would achieve a tremendous victory Still the returns from exhibitors [illegible] even more [illegible] coming to the [illegible] its standard [illegible] that Unicorn is what [illegible]

Rock-Bound State Swept

(Special to the Banner)

Augusta, Maine, Nov. 8.—New England has experienced a landslide for Unicorn Everywhere special Unicorn nights are being given and the candidate has been received with huge enthusiasm Unicorn's conquest of its opponents has been overwhelming.

Pennsylvania Is Solid Unit

(Special to the Banner)

Pittsburg, Pa, Nov 8.—A clean sweep is the only way to describe Unicorn's victory in this territory From one end of the State to the other Unicorn [illegible] with enormous gains [illegible]

"I WILL HOLD TO EVERY PROMISE MADE TO UNICORN EXHIBITORS"

President Schlank Says The Unicorn Platform Is To Be Religiously Carried Out.

(From a Staff Correspondent of the Banner)

New York, Nov 8.—"I will hold to every promise made to Unicorn exhibitors."

With these words President Ike Schlank, of the Unicorn Film Service Corporation, announced his policies.

"Every exhibitor taking the Unicorn Service whether he takes only three reels a week or the whole program of twenty-one reels of dramas, comedies and Westerns, will get a square deal.

"Unicorn Service means SERVICE in all the word im[illegible]. Our interest in Unicorn exhibitors does not cease the instant the ink on the contract is dry but continues with all the aid possible to be rendered by our twenty-eight branches."

Entire West Gives Victory

(Special to the Banner)

San Francisco, Cal., Nov 8.—The entire Pacific Coast has succumbed to a tidal wave [illegible] exhibitors [illegible] West [illegible] business men [illegible] like their brothers of the rest of the country they [illegible] der the other candidates for their favor with Unicorn

Unicorn Films
EXECUTIVE OFFICES
126-130 WEST FORTY-SIXTH STREET
NEW YORK CITY
EXCHANGES IN TWENTY-EIGHT CITIES

ANNOUNCEMENT EXTRAORDINARY

TWO SIGNIFICANT BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS

BLUEBIRD
PHOTOPLAYS PRESENT
J. WARREN KERRIGAN
WITH LOUISE LOVELY
IN THE MEASURE OF A MAN
A STRONG SCREEN DRAMATIZATION OF
THE FAMOUS NOVEL
OF THE SAME NAME
BY NORMAN DUNCAN
DIRECTED BY JACK CONWAY.

BLUEBIRD
PHOTOPLAYS PRESENT
AN EXTRAORDINARILY THRILLING DRAMA OF PATRIOTISM.
THE BUGLER OF ALGIERS
A SCREEN VERSION OF THE NOVEL WE ARE FRENCH, FROM THE ALL-STORY WEEKLY MAGAZINE BY ROBERT H DAVIS & PERLEY POORE SHEEHAN
WITH RUPERT JULIAN ELLA HALL, KINGSLEY BENEDICT, ZOE RAE & A HUGE CAST OF SUPPORTING PLAYERS DIRECTED BY RUPERT JULIAN.
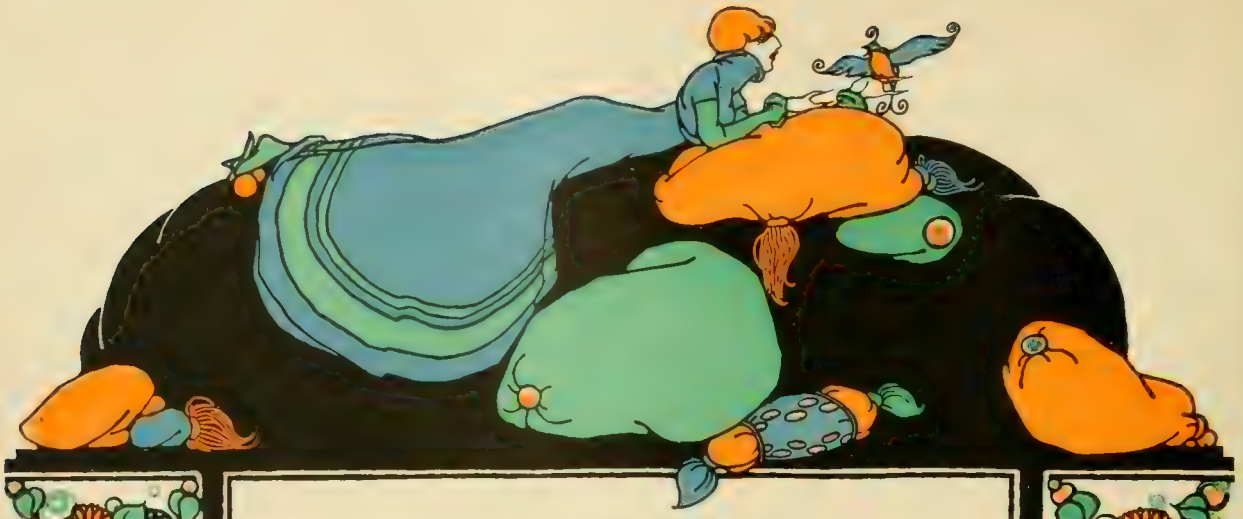
BURTON BUCK



BLUEBIRD
PHOTO PLAYS INC

Two significant BLUEBIRDS. Concrete examples of the BLUEBIRD policy of "The Play's the Thing." Two BLUEBIRDS that mark positive and progressive achievement in the production of perfect photoplay entertainment.

"The Measure of a Man" is significant because the drama is based on a big human story, written by that American master-writer, Norman Duncan. Staged in the Big Woods of California, it is vast and powerful, big with a bigness that is overwhelming. Faithful realism has been attained by giving even the minor parts to actors of the very first rank.

"The Bugler of Algiers" is a beautiful exposition of patriotism, friendship and true love. It is one of the most significant pictures ever presented. Its appeal is world wide. In sets, atmosphere, direction, photography; in that quality of charm which causes an audience to lose itself in the fascination of the play, "The Bugler of Algiers" is supreme.

"The Bugler of Algiers" was originally intended for a State Rights proposition. It made so strong an appeal to the BLUEBIRD executives that an enormous sum was paid for the privilege of releasing it under the BLUEBIRD brand. Remarkable as is its cast, including as it does four full-fledged stars, "The Bugler of Algiers" is a notable example of what can be accomplished under the BLUEBIRD policy of giving first importance to the PLAY.

If you are so fortunate as to have a BLUEBIRD contract you have only to wait until these magnificent plays come to you. If you have not, why not put yourself in line by an immediate communication with your local BLUEBIRD Exchange, or

BLUEBIRD Photoplays, (Inc.)

Executive Offices

1600 Broadway, New York

PARAMOUNT IS PATIENT

with those Exhibitors who do not use its program, remembering that it required 600 years for Noah to learn how to build an Ark.

FAMOUS PLAYERS · LASKY · MOROSCO · AND · PALLAS

present the greatest stars, produce the greatest plays, employ the newest picture-effects. If a few Exhibitors have overlooked all this, let them remember that the American Public has not.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
FOUR EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE & FORTY FIRST ST.
NEW YORK, N.Y.

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9th

PALLAS PICTURES

PRESENT

DUSTIN FARNUM

IN

A SON OF ERIN

A story of old Ireland and of a fine young Irishman's strivings to make his fortune in America

PRODUCED BY

PALLAS PICTURES

Special music for this production may be obtained at your exchange.
Canadian Distributors, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Calgary, Toronto and Montreal

Paramount Pictures of the Week

RELEASED MONDAY, NOVEMBER 13th

JESSE L. LASKY

PRESENTS

BLANCHE SWEET

IN

UNPROTECTED

A Sensational drama written especially for Miss Sweet by James Hatton.

PRODUCED BY

JESSE L. LASKY FEATURE PLAY CO.

JESSE L. LASKY	ARTHUR S. FRIEND	CECIL B. DeMILLE
President	Treasurer	General Director

Canadian Distributors, Famous Players Film Service, Limited
Calgary, Toronto and Montreal

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY

A VILLAINOUS PURSUIT

A single reel "meller drammer"

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDY

Released by Paramount
Monday, November 13th

Produced by

UNITED STATES MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION

WILKES-BARRE, PA.

J. O. WALSH, Pres. F. W. HERMANN, Vice-Pres.
D. L. HART, Treas.

Paramount Pictures Corporation
EIGHTY FIVE FIFTH AVENUE at FORTY FIRST ST
NEW YORK, N.Y.

LOVING PEACE, HE FOUGHT FOR IT-

That's Lish Henley, westerner, who finds trouble annoys him and undertakes to discourage lawlessness by battling

WILLIAM FOX
PRESENTS
George Walsh
IN THE MEDIATOR
A THRILLING PICTURIZATION OF A WORLD FAMOUS BOOK
THE AUTHOR - ROY NORTON
THE DIRECTOR - OTIS TURNER
FOX FILM CORPORATION

WHAT IS YOUR VERDICT?

Comparison is now possible between the William Fox production of "Romeo and Juliet" with Theda Bara, and that of another producer who invited the parallel.

The two productions have been given to exhibitors and the box office "acid test" applied to each . . . . Your comment and criticism will be appreciated by Mr. William Fox, President, Fox Film Corporation . . . . 130 West 46th Street, New York City

FOX FILM CORPORATION

RELEASED AT LAST

THE RIGHTS FOR

OHIO
PENNSYLVANIA
MARYLAND
WEST VIRGINIA
DELAWARE

Thos. H. Ince's Million Dollar Spectacle

"CIVILIZATION"

the mightiest, most thrilling, truest and most beautiful motion picture ever filmed

---

FOR BOOKINGS APPLY TO

The A. G. FONTANA PRODUCTIONS, Inc.

Main Office:
907 Longacre Building, New York City

Philadelphia Office:
1225 Vine Street

MUTUAL NEWS

"What's Going On In The Mutual"

WEEKLY NEWS OF THE MUTUAL FILM CORPORATION AND ITS 68 EXCHANGES

NOVEMBER 18, 1916

Huge Success of New Serial Shown By Big Box-Office Receipts

A SMASHING success was scored by the first chapter of "A Lass of the Lumberlands," recently released through Mutual exchanges. Theatres the country over played this thrilling new Helen Holmes production to capacity business. It scored an even greater triumph than did "The Girl and the Game." In one big city motion picture fans stood in the rain for a half hour or more, waiting for a chance to see the opening chapter. Chapter two proved even more startling than chapter one and audiences went away enthusiastic over the daring feats they had witnessed on the screen.

Helen Holmes' Daring.

Gritty Helen Holmes is amazing exhibitors by her daring. Nothing seems too risky for her to attempt. She is absolutely fearless. Whether swaying in a frail birch-bark canoe suspended by two slender ropes from a lofty railroad trestle, or hanging on with one hand while she peers from the cab of an engine going ninety miles an hour, she seems equally cool. In "The Girl and the Game" she performed feats that are beyond any other actress. But in "A Lass of the Lumberlands" she is outdoing all that has gone before. One tensely dramatic scene follows another. Helen foils the plotters of the lumber trust only to find that she is enmeshed in a new scheme to deprive her of the timberlands coveted by the all powerful octopus. Grimly she battles on.

Thrills of Railroading.

Though the scenes of "A Lass of the Lumberlands" are laid in the big North Woods, all the thrills of railroading which made "The Girl and the Game" popular are again in evidence. Helen again appears in the role of a telegrapher. Again she takes wild rides in the cab of a locomotive. Runaway trains of logs, thrilling dashes down the mountainside and tense moments at the telegraph key are all mingled with floating logs, lumber jams and problems of delivery at the sawmills. Off to a successful start, "A Lass of the Lumberlands" is sure to develop headway as the story unfolds. Bookings on this stupendous chapter play can still be made at the Mutual film exchanges. Those who packed their theatres with the previous Helen Holmes serial were quick to take advantage of this newer and greater film offering.

The release date on the sequel to "The Diamond From the Sky," will soon be announced.

Mutual Star Productions For November

Week Beginning November 6th.

Title. Leads.

And the Law Says.....
.....Richard Bennett

East Is East.....Florence Turner

Week Beginning November 13th.

Peck O' Pickles.....Kolb & Dill

Immediate Lee....Borzage & Little

Week Beginning November 20th.

Lone Star.....William Russell

Week Beginning November 27th.

A Dream or Two Ago.....
.....Mary Miles Minter

Miss Jackie....Margarita Fischer

GAUMONT TO OFFER

Through Mutual New Picture Called "The Vampires" Which Is

9 CHAPTER THRILLER

Crimes of the most baffling sort, intrigues of the most complicated kind, and detective skill of a surprising character, will be revealed when "The Vampires" is released by the Mutual Film Corporation. Gaumont is the producer of this series of thrilling photoplays. "The Vampires" is a brand new series of stories, based on the operations of a band of powerful law breakers. There are nine stories in all. Each is three reels in length. November 24th is the date of release for the first story of the new series. "The Detective's Head" is the title of the first installment of "The Vampires." Every episode bristles with sensational events. There are sliding panels—traps in the floor—ingenious torture chambers and all the other unique elements that went to make the "Fantomas" series so sensational. Bookings on "The Vampires" can now be made at the Mutual film exchanges.

Kirkwood Newspaper Articles

James Kirkwood, producer of the Mary Miles Minter Series of Mutual Star Productions, is writing a series of articles for publication in newspapers all over the country. They will be read by millions. All these people will be anxious to see the production staged by the man whose articles they have been reading. The exhibitor who is running the Mary Miles Minter Series of Mutual Star Productions is sure to cash in on this interest of the fans.

Fourth Kolb & Dill Mutual Star Production Now Ready

TWO feature productions of widely varied character will be the Mutual Film Corporation's offerings to the exhibitor for the week of November 13th. The Mutual Star Production is the fourth of the Kolb & Dill Series and presents the famous vaudeville headliners in an entirely new atmosphere. Its title is "A Peck o' Pickles." The other is a Mutual Masterpicture, five reels in length, featuring Frank Borzage and Anna Little. It is a story of the West, with wild riding, cow branding and typical scenes of ranch life. It is released under the title "Immediate Lee."

"A Peck o' Pickles."

In "A Peck o' Pickles" the celebrated Kolb & Dill appear in a thrilling five-act Mutual Star Production that has as its foundation the stage play of the same name, popular a few years ago, which was written by Frank Stammers. It affords the stars innumerable opportunities to display their ability, and the production, stage settings and costuming are all in accord with the story. A lottery ticket numbered 131,313 and a keg of sweet cider have not a little to do with the plot of the drama, which includes many scenes of the period of 1860 in Washington, D. C. This is the fourth of the Kolb & Dill Series of Mutual Star Productions and can be booked now at any Mutual exchange. "A Million for Mary," "Bluff" and "Three Pals" are also available in the Kolb & Dill Series.

"Immediate Lee."

The real West with its cowboys, its cattle branding and grim justice are the background for "Immediate Lee," the five act Mutual Masterpicture featuring Frank Borzage and Anna Little. Such favorites as Jack Richardson, Chick Morrison and others are in the supporting cast. Beulah, a girl of the dancehalls, loved by Hurley, a brand-blotter, is the storm center of the story around whom revolves the whole plot. It is one of the most exciting and fascinating Westerns ever released by Mutual or made by the American Film Company, Inc., at its Santa Barbara studios.

BIG FEATURE COMING.

"Charity?" a seven-reel feature, will soon be offered as a Mutual Special Feature. This unusual production which was enacted under the direction of Frank Powell, and features Linda Griffith, among others, seems likely to rival for box-office merit the great Mutual Special Feature "Damaged Goods."

MUTUAL

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.,
Presents
The Celebrated Stars

KOLB & DILL
IN A PECK O' PICKLES

An Odd Story of Small-Town Life. Five Acts. Fourth of a Series of Mutual Star Productions Featuring Kolb and Dill. Released The Week of November 13th.

Now Playing:
"A MILLION FOR MARY"
"BLUFF" "THREE PALS"

Coming:
"BUTTIN' IN DER VEST"
"DECENT DEUCES"

Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges

MUTUAL

AMERICAN FILM COMPANY, INC.,
Presents
The Stirring Drama

IMMEDIATE LEE

Featuring

FRANK BORZAGE AND ANNA LITTLE

A Vivid Story Of The West With Love, Hate, Jealousy And Retribution Mingled In Thrilling Succession. A Five-Act Drama Released The Week Of November 13th.

Now Booking At 68 Mutual Exchanges

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS

UNANIMOUSLY ELECTED BY THE EXHIBITORS.

MARY MILES MINTER SERIES

Youth's Endearing Charm
Dulcie's Adventure
Faith
Dream or Two Ago
The Innocence of Lisette

MARGARITA FISCHER SERIES

The Pearl of Paradise
Miss Jackie of the Navy
The Butterfly Girl
The Knight of Tarquizzi
Birds of Passage
The Light of Heaven

WILLIAM RUSSELL SERIES

Soulmates
The Highest Bid
The Strength of Donald McKenzie
The Man Who Would Not Die
The Torch Bearer
The Love Hermit

RICHARD BENNETT SERIES

Philip Holden—Waster
—And the Law Says
The Sable Blessing
The Valley of Decision

FLORENCE TURNER SERIES

Far From the Madding Crowd
Doorsteps
A Welsh Singer
Grim Justice
East Is East
The First Settler's Story

KOLB & DILL SERIES

A Million For Mary
Three Pals
Bluff
A Peck O' Pickles
Buttin' In Der Vest
Decent Deuces

Booking NOW At 68 MUTUAL EXCHANGES!

MUTUAL
Gaumont
GAUMONT CO., Announces
The VAMPIRES
A Series Of Nine
Detective Stories
-Three Parts Each.
EACH COMPLETE
Released November 23rd.
Booking Now At MUTUAL EXCHANGES

MUTUAL

The VAMPIRES

Gaumont

Nine Sensational, Exciting Mystery Stories—Each Complete in Three Parts

FOLLOWING a tremendously successful run in France—direct from Paris—comes this new and startling series of nine detective stories, each a complete feature in three reels. "THE VAMPIRES" is a story of extraordinarily thrilling dramas produced by the Gaumont Company and released thru the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges in America.

"THE VAMPIRES" are a powerful, secret band of arch criminals who terrorize Paris. In this gripping series of features are depicted, in thrilling reality, the operations of this fiendish society. "THE VAMPIRES" comes to American Exhibitors direct from its big success abroad. This new series assures you nine weeks of tremendous box-office receipts. A new three-reel chapter will be released each week beginning November 23rd, thru the 68 Mutual Film Exchanges.

For bookings see your nearest MUTUAL EXCHANGE—AT ONCE

MUTUAL PICTURES

TOURS AROUND THE WORLD

ARCHANGEL

AMSTERDAM

ROUEN

GORGES OF THE VESUBIE RIVER

No. 2 Released Nov. 14

Places Your Patrons Talk About Are Shown

You will find "Tours Around the World" always brings to your screen pictures of foreign places people read about and are anxious to see. Just analyze the program of the reel released Nov. 2 and you will see that this is so.

ARCHANGEL—Russia's Arctic port, whither munitions worth hundreds of millions are being shipped.
AMSTERDAM—Capital of the Netherlands, where many diplomatic battles are being fought.
ROUEN—The "Pride of Normandy" behind the battle line in France.
GORGES OF THE VESUBIE RIVER—A celebrated beauty spot in France's Maritime Alps.

Other Popular Single Reels to Brighten Your Program

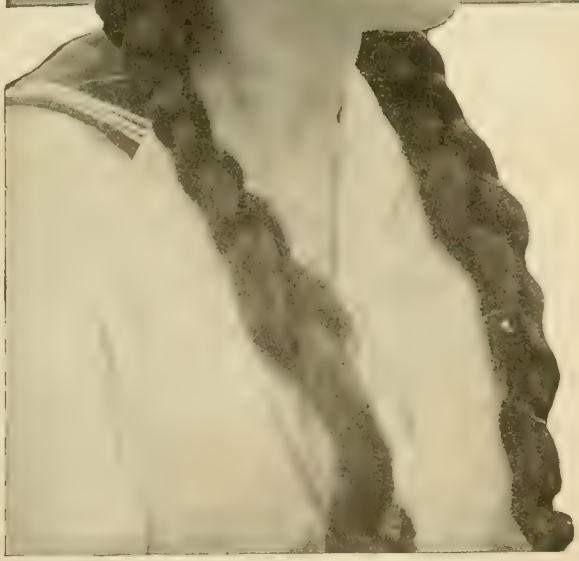
THE MUTUAL WEEKLY — NEWS on the Screen
REEL LIFE — The Mutual Film Magazine
SEE AMERICA FIRST — Scenic
with
Gaumont Kartoon Komics

Gaumont

Gaumont Co.

FLUSHING, N. Y. JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Gaumont



A LASS OF THE

A Smashing Success!

Big Box-Office Receipts Everywhere With "A LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS."

DASHING, daring Helen Holmes has captured the public again! In "A Lass of the Lumberlands" she is scoring an even greater success than she did in "The Girl and the Game." Turn-away business is being done by the theatres presenting this fearless film star in the spectacular chapter-play, "A Lass of the Lumberlands"—fifteen sensational feature chapters. New and exceptional thrills are making this the most talked about picture of the year. You can pack YOUR Theatre by booking this amazing new chapter-play TODAY.

Booking NOW—At All MUTUAL EXCHANGES.

LUMBERLANDS

Featuring Fearless

HELEN HOLMES

Read the

From among hundreds
we have chosen three typical, unsolicited testimonials from exhibitors
They tell the story of a box-office success better than we can tell it.

FREE
To secure the best suggestion for a Five reel picture to be based on the mystery events and situations of the Crimson Stain Mystery we will give away
FREE 13 FREE
OVERLAND
6 CYLINDER 1917 MODEL
TOURING CARS
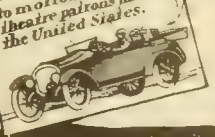
CASH VALUE $925 EACH to motion picture theatre patrons all over the United States.



MAURICE COSTELLO
The Master Star and Charming
ETHEL GRANDIN
Directed by T. HAYES HUNTER
Novelized by Albert Payson Terhune

The Crimson S

Evidence

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAM

REX AMUSEMENT CO.
HIGH CLASS PHOTOPLAYS

Metro Picture Service,
Des Moines, Iowa.
Gentlemen, Kindest regards the Erbograph Stein Mystery which we are running every Saturday in connection with your comedies
At the end of the fifth episode we are enclosed herewith the amount difference between the attendance increase without preceding episode and the natural tendency of serial programs to show the biggest at the beginning and then hunt its attendance run down with last episode
It has many points of superiority over any other serials we have seen and is a strong box office attraction that we can heartily recommend from all angles
Very truly
D. T. Baker Mgr.

Produced by the
ERBOGRAPH CO.,
Presented by CONSOLIDATED
FILM CORP'N
O.E. Goebel, Pres Ludwig G.B. Erb, Treas
1482 Broadway, New York

BOOKING NOW AT ALL
METRO
EXCHANGES

tain Mystery

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE

UNBIASED OPINION

From the BOX OFFICE angle

World Exhibitors Say:

LA BOHEME—ALICE BRADY. "Make more like it." "Thoroughly artistic." "Big success." "Perfect production."

WHAT HAPPENED AT 22—FRANCES NELSON and ARTHUR ASHLEY. "My first Brady-Made and its O. K." "Keep up the good work."

THE CRUCIAL TEST—KITTY GORDON. "A money maker." "Played it big and got big returns."

SALLY IN OUR ALLEY—CARLYLE BLACKWELL and MURIEL OSTRICHE. "Unusually clean." "Parents approve. Will repeat for special matinees."

PAYING THE PRICE—GAIL KANE. "A wonderful production." "Let us have more just like it." "Broke my house record."

MISS PETTICOATS—ALICE BRADY. "Great picture." "Made big hit. The kind of a production my patrons want."

A WOMAN'S WAY—ETHEL CLAYTON and CARLYLE BLACKWELL. "A fine play and well liked. Had many compliments." "Big pulling power."

THE RAIL RIDER—HOUSE PETERS. "A swell picture. No criticism." "Patrons all spoke highly of it."

HUSBAND AND WIFE—ETHEL CLAYTON and HOLBROOK BLINN. "Very strong." "True to life." "A splendidly cast picture. Received much praise."

THE DARK SILENCE—CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG. "Very excellent picture." "Played capacity. Want return."

THE GILDED CAGE—ALICE BRADY. "Pleased my audience immensely." "Settings and star's work of exceptional merit." "Big."

THE ALMIGHTY DOLLAR—FRANCES NELSON and E. K. LINCOLN. "Picture exceptional." "Photography and settings great. Subway scene very realistic."

THE VELVET PAW—HOUSE PETERS and GAIL KANE. "Give us more productions of this class." "Patrons liked every foot of it."

FRIDAY THE 13th—ROBERT WARWICK. "Whole picture A1" "Exceptional." "Extra fine"

THE REVOLT—FRANCES NELSON and ARTHUR ASHLEY. "Packed house." "Told big story" "Had real advertising possibility"

THE HIDDEN SCAR—ETHEL CLAYTON and HOLBROOK BLINN. "The right kind of a drama for big appeal." "I want it for three days more'

THE SCARLET OATH—GAIL KANE. "Simply great." "Played to a capacity house. All well pleased"

THE MAN WHO STOOD STILL—LEW FIELDS and DORIS KENYON. Has been repeatedly called "The Music Master of the Screen." "Acting supreme."

Coming

BOUGHT AND PAID FOR—ALICE BRADY. George Broadhurst's Great Play

THE MADNESS OF HELEN—ETHEL CLAYTON and CARLYLE BLACKWELL.

THE HEART OF A HERO—ROBERT WARWICK and Gail Kane.

THE MEN SHE MARRIED—GAIL KANE—Arthur Ashley, Montagu Love and Muriel Ostriche.

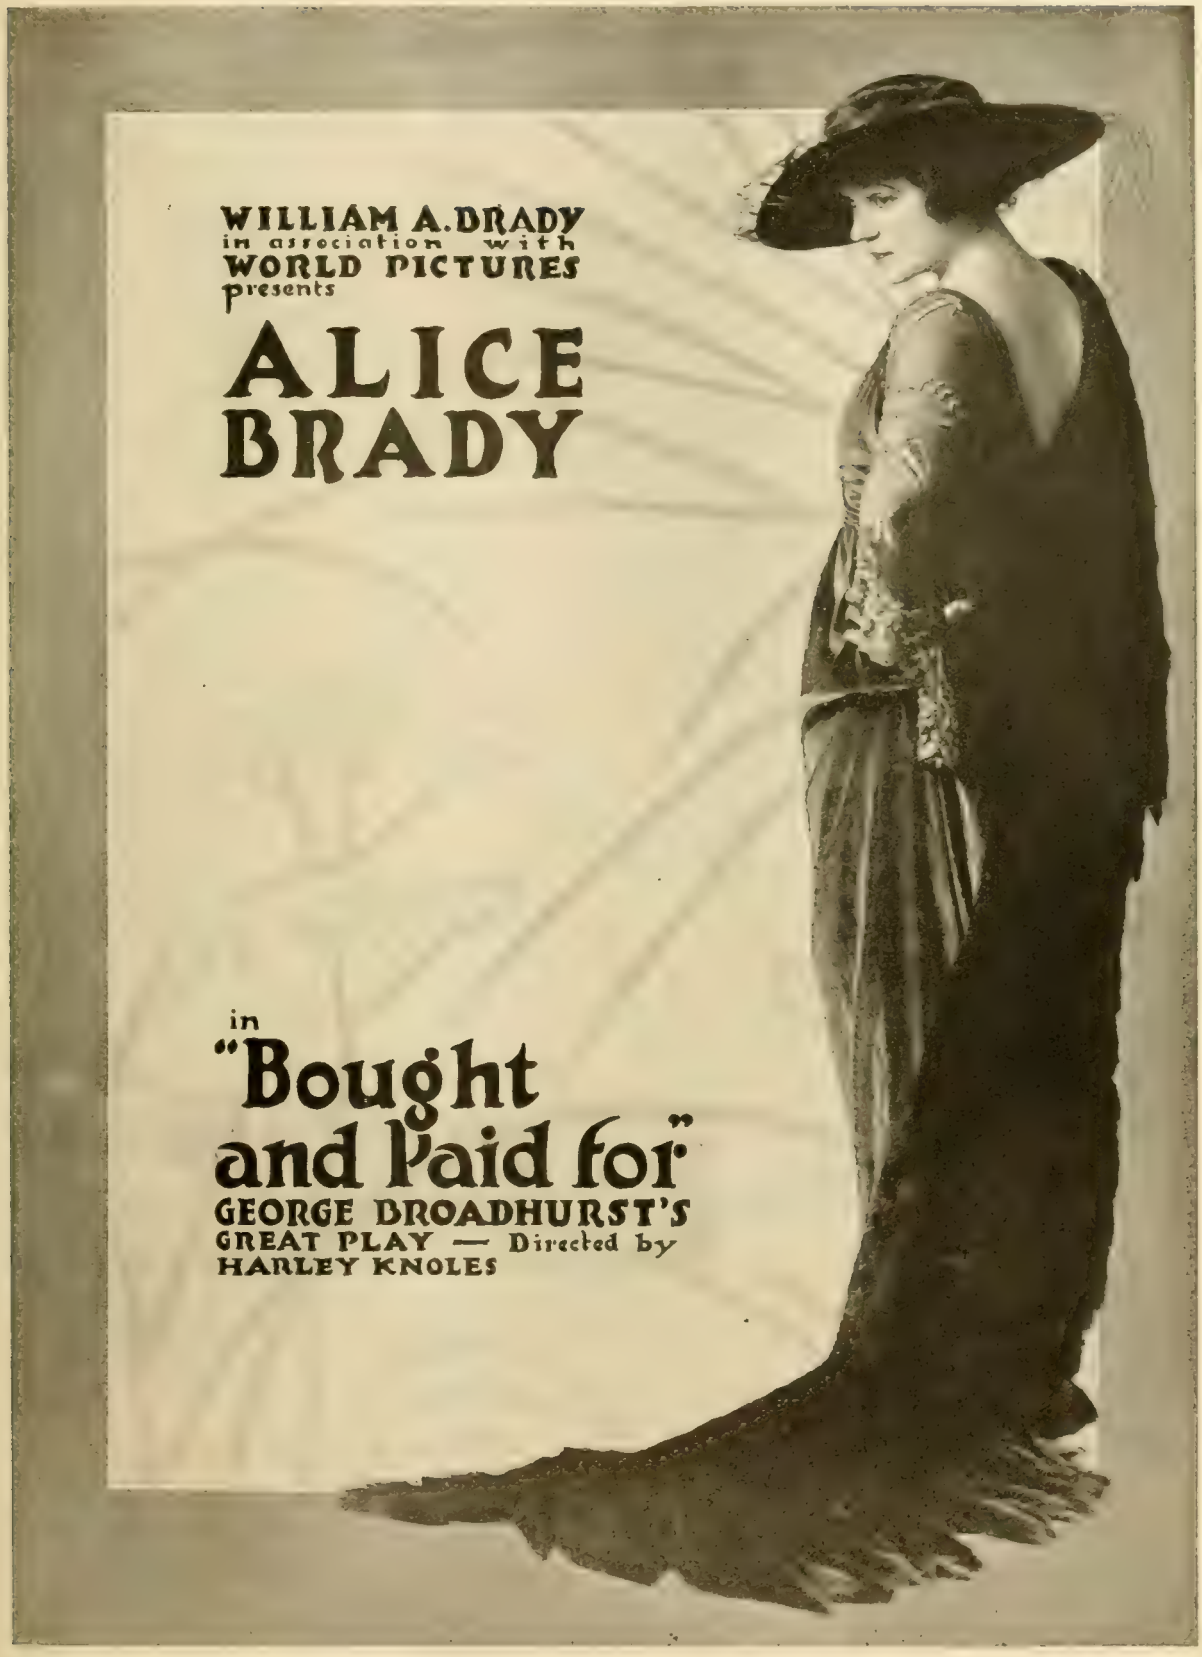
ALL MAN—ROBERT WARWICK and Mollie King.

THE RISE OF SUSAN—CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG.

BROKEN CHAINS—ETHEL CLAYTON and CARLYLE BLACKWELL.

A WOMAN ALONE—ALICE BRADY.

WORLD PICTURES BRADY-MADE ARE OCCUPYING THE MOST CONSPICUOUS PLACE IN MOTION PICTURE PRODUCTIONS TODAY



WILLIAM A. BRADY
in association with WORLD PICTURES
presents
ALICE BRADY
in
"Bought and Paid for"
GEORGE BROADHURST'S
GREAT PLAY — Directed by
HARLEY KNOLES

CIVILIZATION BREAKS ALL RECORDS IN NEW YORK PICTURE THEATRES

WHO BOOKED THE PICTURE THROUGH US IN THE PAST TEN DAYS

CIVILIZATION
FEATURE COMPANY
NATHAN HIRSCH, PRESIDENT
130 W. 46th St., New York City
Phones Bryant 9037-9038

Announces

THOS. H. INCE'S
$1,000,000 Photo Spectacle
CIVILIZATION

WE ARE READY TO BOOK EXHIBITORS IN GREATER NEW YORK, LONG ISLAND AND UPPER WESTCHESTER

YORKE
FILM CORPORATION
presents

HAROLD LOCKWOOD and MAY ALLISON

in

BIG TREMAINE

From the famous book of Marie VAN VORST

A METRO wonderplay of charm and power.
Directed by Henry Otto

Released on the METRO Program
November 20*th*

Without Exception—Praised by the Critics

"A picture of universal appeal, that the multitudes can appreciate * * * will live forever as a classic masterpiece and a triumph of dramatic screen construction."—Motion Picture News.

"A great production * * Metro has done the screen a distinct service."—Moving Picture World.

"A picture that deserves to rank with the classics."—Dramatic Mirror.

"For the first time in the history of motion pictures Shakespeare has successfully been immortalized."—Morning Telegraph.

"All in the picture was wonderful."—Billboard.

"Not a dull moment."—N. Y. Tribune.

"The most prodigal film spectacle ever seen."—N. Y. American.

"Like a beautiful dream."—Zit in N. Y. Evening Journal.

"A masterpiece."—Phila. Record.

and a thousand of others

Romeo and Juliet

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN
and BEVERLY BAYNE

METRO
PICTURES CORPORATION

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

By Arrangement With F. Ziegfeld, Jr.
GEORGE KLEINE Presents
The World-Famous Star

MISS BILLIE BURKE
IN
GLORIA'S ROMANCE

Supported by HENRY KOLKER
A Motion Picture Novel By Mr & Mrs RUPERT HUGHES

SATISFIED Audiences have been the rule at every theatre where Gloria's Romance has been shown. Its dainty star—its superb stage settings—Its gorgeous costuming—its interest-compelling story have made this twenty-chapter feature truly a production extraordinary. If you are seeking a box-office magnet of real drawing power get in touch with the nearest Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay Exchange or with

GEORGE KLEINE
80 5th Avenue
New York City

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY
SERVICE

The Latest Great Hit!

"THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK"

George Barr McCutcheon's sequel to Essanay's success, "Graustark," is sweeping the country by storm. Greater even than the original, is the opinion of the critics.

Presenting

BRYANT WASHBURN

and

MARGUERITE CLAYTON

Directed by Fred E. Wright

Screen time 1 hour and 21 minutes

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

NOW BOOKING!

Fascinating

VIOLA DANA

in EDISON'S Marvel-Play

The Cossack Whip

By JAMES OPPENHEIM

A Five-Part Drama of Romance and Revenge—Plotting Nihilists! The Imperial Ballet Behind the Scenes! Furious Cossack Raids!

Already booked for showing in a long list of America's leading theaters, headed by Marcus Loew's chain of New York houses. Arrange NOW for your date with this box-office winner.

EDISON'S

The Heart of the Hills

Five Parts

with Mabel Trunnelle and Conway Tearle

"Well made and will afford strong entertainment."—Blaisdell, Moving Picture World.
"A good offering for any house."—Ray, The Billboard.
"No first-class house need doubt its success."—"E. S.," Dramatic Mirror.
"A good lead feature for the average programme."—Buckley, Motion Picture Mail.

Write or Wire Our Office Nearest You

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

80 FIFTH AVE., NEW YORK, and All Principal Cities

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

GET TO IT!

Get to it! Yep, the getting is good—mighty good! Referring, of course, to the Selig World's Series Baseball Games of 1916!

The Selig Company has exclusive rights to these motion pictures—they are the only genuine scenes of the games played by Brooklyn and Boston.

There's nothing to it but gladsome reports of fine and dandy business. Exhibitors everywhere these pictures are shown are gathering in the sheaves!

The World's Series Baseball games retain their interest, and wise Exhibitors cash in on the wonderful publicity accorded the World's Series in every newspaper.

Four reels of exciting action. Each and every play presented. All the stars of the ball field shown.

Ask your nearest Exchange about this money-making feature!

BOOK TODAY AND CASH IN

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

Selig Polyscope Co., 58 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY

SERVICE

Edna Mayo

and

Eugene O'Brien

are presented in

"THE CHAPERON"

Screen time 1 hour and 19 minutes

By Marion Fairfax

Directed by Arthur Berthelet

The fascinating story of the love of a young American for an heiress; her wooing by a count and the final triumph of the American.

ESSANAY

GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT

1333 Argyle St., Chicago

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY SERVICE

HENRY B. WALTHALL
with
ANTOINETTE WALKER
is presented in

"The Sting of Victory"

Screen time 1 hour and 20 minutes

EDNA MAYO
with EUGENE O'BRIEN
is presented in

"The Return of Eve"

Screen time 1 hour and 23 minutes

ESSANAY FEATURES

"According to the Code"
"That Sort"
"Sherlock Holmes"
"The Little Shepherd of Bargain Row"
"Charlie Chaplin's Burlesque on Carmen"
"The Havoc"
"The Discard"
"Vultures of Society"
"The Misleading Lady"
"Captain Jinks of the Horse Marines"
"A Daughter of the City"
"The Alster Case"
"The Raven"
"The Crimson Wing"
"The Man Trail"
"The Blindness of Virtue"
"In the Palace of the King"
"The White Sister"
"The Slim Princess"
"Graustark"

ESSANAY
GEORGE K. SPOOR, PRESIDENT
1333 Argyle St., Chicago

The Crisis
SHERMAN-ELLIOTT, INC.
H·A·SHERMAN, PRES.
PRESENTS
WM N·SELIG'S
"The Crisis"
By WINSTON CHURCHILL
AMERICA'S GREATEST AMERICAN STORY
220 W. 42ND ST.
NEW YORK CITY

THE FABLE OF THE BIG HEAVY MAN AND THE SMALL HAPPY MAN

Written for Children but Exhibitors may read between the lines.

CHAPTER II.

"HERE you are, young ladies," shouted MR. HEAVY FEATURES, the big Impressive Man. "Here's one of the most magnificent motion pictures ever conceived. Don't miss this. It combines all my knowledge of art, poetry and music. You never saw such wonderful acting; such tense situations; such a tremendous climax. Come right in and see Gladys Sadeyes in 'The Cup of Misery.'"

"Aw Nix," said a Sweet Young Thing, "let's don't, they bury everybody in the last reel. Let's go down and see Bougless Bareshanks in 'Crazy in New York.'"

The WISE OLD EXHIBITOR watched this incident. "Whew," he exclaimed, "I wonder if that isn't something for me to think about. I always knew people would rather laugh than cry."

"You just bet that's something to think about," said MR. CHRISTIE COMEDIES, the Small Happy Man. "You want to put some fun in those programs of yours. Let it be clean and jolly and kinda human. You'll be surprised at the difference in your receipts at the end of the week.

"Come over to the Independent Exchange man—ne's all right. He'll show you 'SOME KID,' my Open Market Release for November 20th. This features Betty Compson and Neal Burns. Directed by Horace Davey. You don't have to take it unless you like it, but you will like it. It's funny and good. Al. E. Christie saw to that."

MORAL: The wrong time to do the right thing is after somebody beats you to it.

Christie Comedies

Christie Film Co.

HEAD OFFICE AND STUDIOS—
SUNSET BLVD. AT GOWER ST.
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA

NEW YORK OFFICE
LONGACRE BUILDING
F. J. HAWKINS, REPRESENTATIVE

Christie Comedies

PEARL OF THE ARMY

Announcing

PEARL WHITE

THE GREATEST DRAWING
CARD IN MOTION PICTURES

In a new serial, unmasking America's secret foes, directed by Edward José, the director of "The Iron Claw."

[redacted]

RELEASED DECEMBER 3

PATHÉ

Produced by

ASTRA FILM CORP'N

PATHÉ

THE SHIELDING SHADOW

Featuring GRACE DARMOND, RALPH KELLARD and LEON BARY

Produced under the direction of
Louis J. Gasnier and Donald Mackenzie

"THE SHIELDING SHADOW is a splendid serial—the best Pathe has put out. It is different, it is unique, it is thrilling."
P. Kearney in Motion Picture Mail.

"It will probably establish an epoch in the production of mystery serials, since it combines strong melodrama and rapid action with an almost impenetrable mystery . . . . Without doubt the best serial produced by Pathe and should prove to be one the most successful ever released."
E. Smaney in Dramatic Mirror.

"The serial question offers no unsolved problem to Pathe. The proven money makers they have handled in the past is enough of an attribute to their ability to pick a winner and make it go. . . . The Shielding Shadow possesses thrilling scenes in abundance."
P. Milne in Motion Picture News.

"The first four episodes convinces us that it is superior to any serial thus far offered by Pathe. . . . They are sufficient in every way to make The Shielding Shadow a huge success."
T. C. Kennedy in Motography.

Exhibitors can rely on these comments by expert reviewers.

This is the best serial ever produced.

Book it Now!
Complete Publicity Booklets.

PRODUCED BY
ASTRA FILM CORPN

Pathé

Announcing
Jeanne Eagels
The Stage Favorite
in the five part Gold Rooster Play
"The World and the Woman"

Produced by Thanhouser
Released Nov. 19

A striking story of the regeneration of a fallen woman through faith.

Recent and Forthcoming Pathé Gold Rooster Plays:
"The Hidden Valley" Nov 5th - "Shadows and Sunshine" Nov 12th
"The World and the Woman" Nov 26th - "Divorce and the Woman" Dec 3rd

Luke - Gladiator

In one year a comedian previously unknown to the screen

Harold Lloyd

has won the distinction of being one of the two best comedy stars of the day.

In one year

Rolin

comedies have been found by Exhibitors to be second to none in real value.

Real merit in comedies is rare, Mr. Exhibitor. Ask our nearest Exchange to run off several of these "Luke" comedies for you. You'll recognize real merit.

Pathé

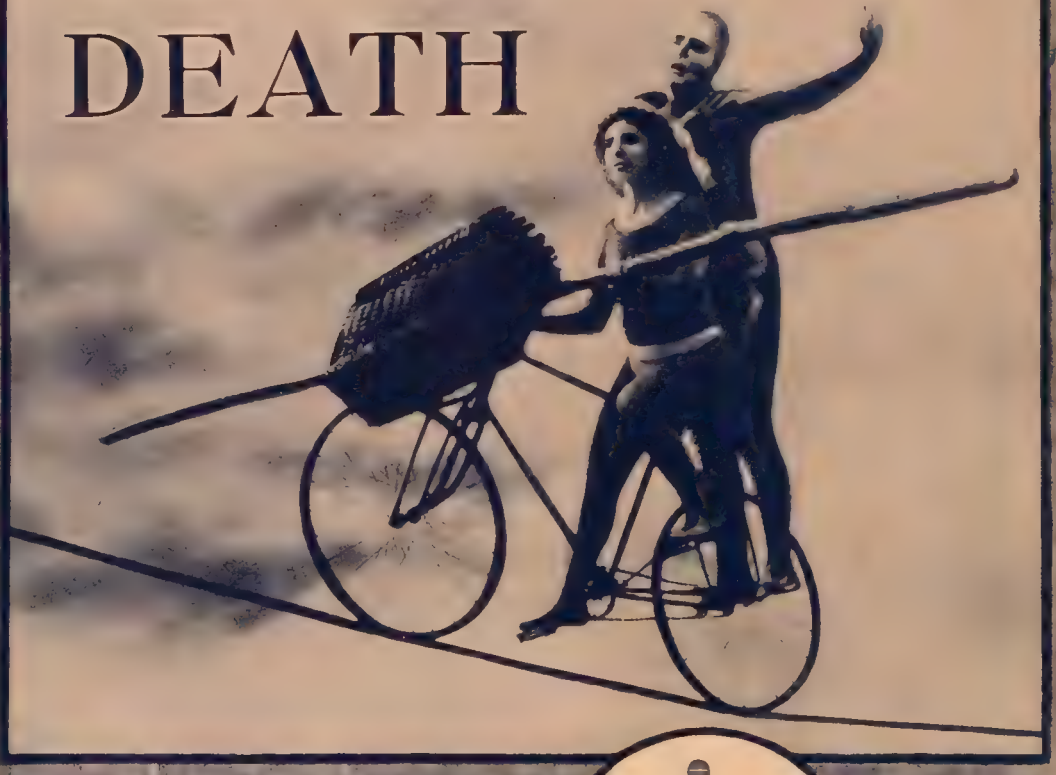
AN ATTRACTION that will bring money into the box office in a golden stream. You know Mrs. Castle's success as a dancer. She is just as wonderful on the screen.

Everyone will want to see this remarkable woman in this remarkable serial, whose patriotic theme is the nation's defense.

THE FIRST EPISODE OF PATRIA WILL BE RELEASED SOON. NOW BOOKING

INTERNATIONAL

THE JOCKEY OF DEATH



INTERNATIONAL announces the "Adventure Series" of five and six reel features, to be released each month.

First is "The Jockey of Death," a thrilling story of circus life.

Dare-devil performers engage in amazing acts of heroism.

Every scene so intensely interesting and every act so daring that the spectators are held spell-bound.

The circus is always welcome.

This picture has all the elements of the circus, plus a clean, wholesome story.

EXCHANGES		AGENCIES
ATLANTA 146 Marietta St.	NEW YORK CITY 729 Seventh Ave.	ALBANY 68 State St.
BOSTON 148 Piedmont St.	OMAHA 1417 Harney St.	BUFFALO 39 Erie St.
CHICAGO 207 So. Wabash Ave.	PHILADELPHIA 1335 Vine St.	DETROIT 71 Griswold St.
CINCINNATI 532 Walnut St.	PITTSBURGH 804 Penn Ave.	MINNEAPOLIS 606 Produce Exch. Bldg.
CLEVELAND 750 Prospect Ave., S. E.	SAN FRANCISCO 280 Golden Gate Ave.	NEW ORLEANS 315 Carondolette St.
KANSAS CITY 1305 Walnut St.	ST. LOUIS 3313 Olive St.	INDIANAPOLIS New Lyric Theatre Bldg.
LOS ANGELES 912 So. Olive St.	WASHINGTON 712 11th St., N. W.	SALT LAKE CITY 131 East Second South St.

INTERNATIONAL

EVERY COMEDY A FEATURE

Maintaining the Record of Tweedledum's Famous Release "A Near-Sighted 'Cyclist."

TWEEDLEDUM

"The Scream of the Screen"

IN A SIDE-SPLITTING COMEDY

"Lend Me Your Wife"

IN TWO REELS

RELEASED OCT. 30th

PRODUCED BY
EAGLE FILM MFG. CO.
Jacksonville, Fla.

BILLY DUNN
Supervising Director

EXCLUSIVELY DISTRIBUTED BY

UNITY
729 7th AVE. NEW YORK

TRIANGLE

RELEASES FOR WEEK OF NOVEMBER 12

Wilfred Lucas and Constance Talmadge in "THE MICROSCOPE MYSTERY"

FINE ARTS

A photoplay that will grip and hold to the end.

There is mystery, humor, love, violence, retribution. The situations unfolded are an endless chain of surprises and the climax leaves satisfaction.

Fine Arts will not often excel this production, while Wilfred Lucas and Constance Talmadge leave nothing to be desired in telling the story of "THE MICROSCOPE MYSTERY."

Charles Ray, Supported by Margery Wilson and Margaret Thompson in "THE HONORABLE ALGY"

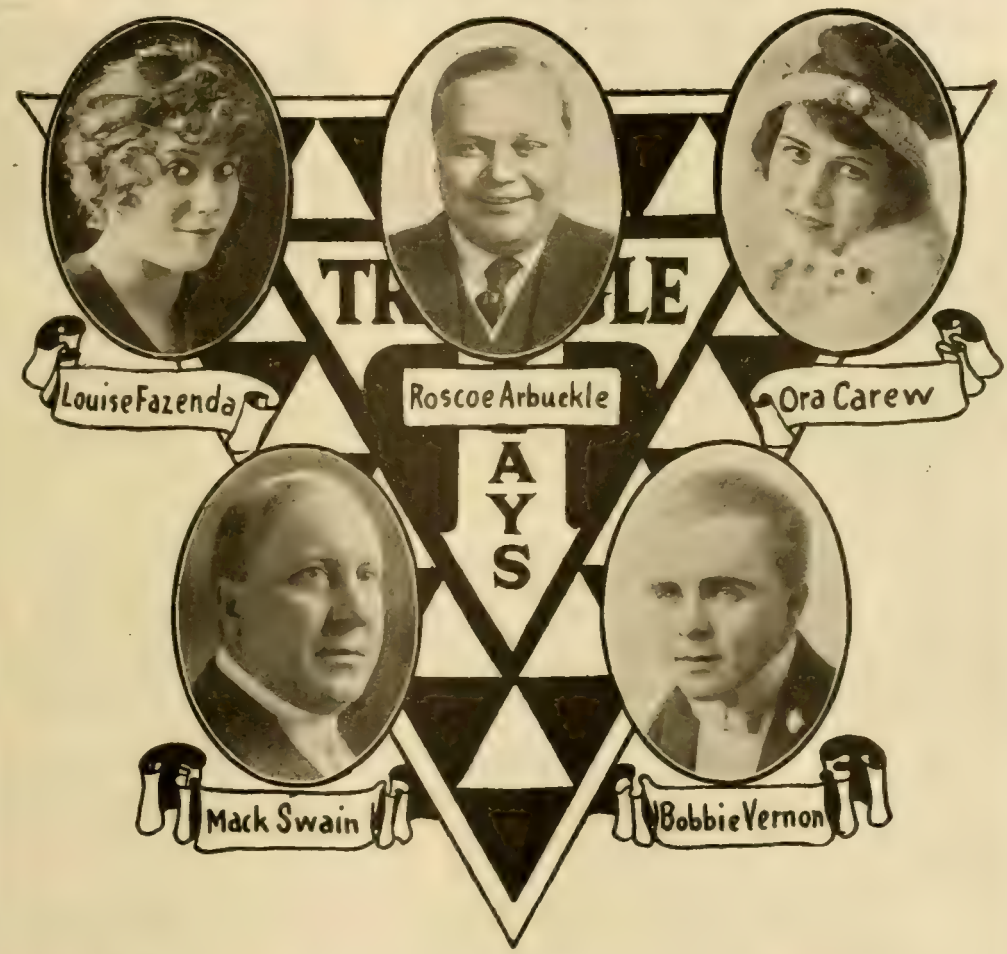
KAY-BEE

A King's ransom in jewels, a renegade English Lord, another of a different stamp, who wins fortune in America, but leaves his heart with little "Pat" back in Old England; these all combine in making a story of appeal and intensity, a typical Triangle Kay-Bee; and the interest is but heightened by the presence of Charles Ray, Margery Wilson and Margaret Thompson.

KEYSTONE COMEDIES

There are Two, Brimming with Snap, Fun and Cleanliness

Five Comedians Seen Only In TRIANGLE-KEYSTONE COMEDIES



Keystone Comedies

are released exclusively by

TRIANGLE FILM CORPORATION

MASQUE Already a proven box office Success
SIGNET FILM Co
220 WEST 42nd St.
NEW YORK CITY
J. L. Kempner

LIFE
BIGGEST FILM SHOW ON EARTH
REAL ROMANCE !
TERRIFIC TRAGEDY !
BEAUTIFUL ALLEGORY !
TREMENDOUS CIRCUS !
EXCITING SUSPENSE !
HEART THROBS !
LAUGHS !
TEARS !
7 REELS
ALL IN THIS ONE ABSOLUTELY DIFFERENT SPECTACLE
HESSER PUBLICITY BUREAU

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION

announce that the following eighty-one theatres will show Mary Pickford's first Artcraft production, "LESS THAN THE DUST," commencing November 5th, for one week or more; and that over a thousand other houses have already contracted to run the picture for shorter periods. The character of these theatres must encourage Exhibitors who have not yet contracted, to do so at once.

THEATRE	CITY	STATE
Strand	New York City	N. Y.
Broadway	New York City	N. Y.
Academy of Music	New York City	N. Y.
Keeney's	Brooklyn	N. Y.
Century	Brooklyn	N. Y.
Keeney's	Newark	N. J.
Majestic	Detroit	Mich.
Liberty	Detroit	Mich.
Strand	Syracuse	N. Y.
State St.	Trenton	N. J.
Olympia	New Haven	Conn.
Olympia	New Bedford	Mass.
Park	Worcester	Mass.
Emery	Providence	R. I.
Bijou	Springfield	Mass.
Shea's	Fitchburg	Mass
Strand	Lynn	Mass.
Merrimack Sq.	Lowell	Mass.
Arcadia	Reading	Pa.
Garden	Paterson	N. J.
Regent & Garden	Rochester	N. Y.
Globe	Boston	Mass.
Salem	Salem	Mass.
Palace	Philadelphia	Pa.
Stanley	Philadelphia	Pa.
Stanley	Atlantic City	N. J.
Queen	Wilmington	Del.
Granby	Norfolk	Va.
Parkway	Baltimore	Md.

THEATRE	CITY	STATE
Belmont	Philadelphia	Pa.
Columbia	Washington	D. C.
Wizard	Baltimore	Md.
Triangle	New Orleans	La.
Criterion	Atlanta	Ga.
Stillman	Cleveland	Ohio
Metropolitan	Cleveland	Ohio
Knickerbocker	Cleveland	Ohio
Strand	Akron	Ohio
Regent	East Liberty	Pa.
Dome	Youngstown	Ohio
Walnut	Cincinnati	Ohio
Pastime	Columbus	Ohio
Circle	Indianapolis	Ind.
Majestic	Dayton	Ohio
Temple	Toledo	Ohio
La Salle	Chicago	Ill.
Bijou Dream	Chicago	Ill.
Apollo	Peoria	Ill.
Alhambra	Milwaukee	Wis.
Strand	Minneapolis	Minn.
Strand	St. Paul	Minn.
Garden	Des Moines	Iowa
Orpheum	St. Joseph	Mo.
New Grand Central	St. Louis	Mo.
Twelfth St.	Kansas City	Mo.
Strand	Omaha	Neb.
Queen	Dallas	Texas
Queen	Houston	Texas
Pike	Colorado Springs,	Colo.
Strand	Denver	Colo.
Clemer	Spokane	Wash.
Beauty	Butte	Mont.
Columbia	Portland	Ore.
Coliseum	Seattle	Wash.
Portola	San Francisco	Cal.
Broadway	Los Angeles	Cal.
T & D	Oakland	Cal.
T & D	Sacramento	Cal
Cabrilla	San Diego	Cal.
Majestic Gardens	Grand Rapids	Mich.
Regent	Toronto	Canada
Dominion	Winnipeg	Manitoba
St. Denis	Montreal	Que.
Orpheum	Malden	Mass.
Strand	Buffalo	N. Y.
Empire	Bridgeport	Conn.
Isis	Richmond	Va.
Fairyland	Cleveland	Ohio
Eagle	Manchester	N. H.
Fifth Ave.	Nashville	Tenn.
Alacazar	Birmingham	Ala.

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORPORATION
729 7th AVENUE NEW YORK

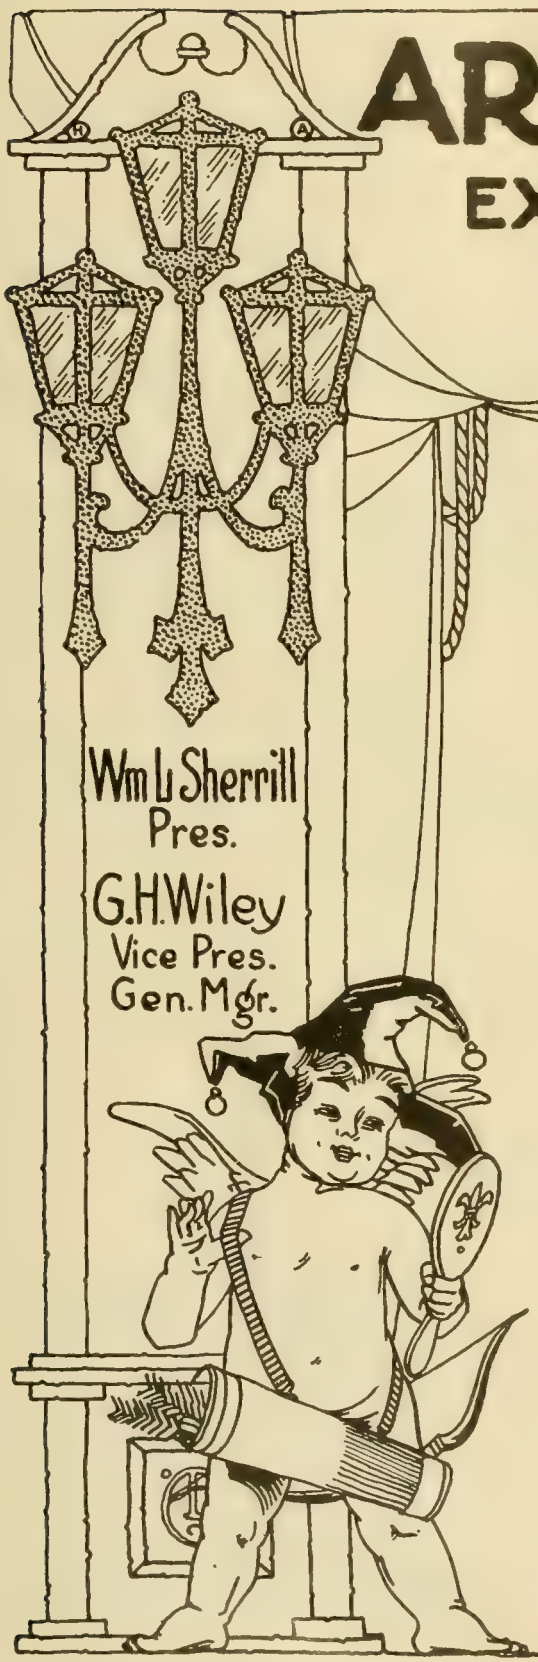
ART DRAMAS
EXECUTIVE OFFICES



No Crazy Salaries!

"Through!" are the foolish salaries.

"Gone!" are the stage stars who Used to Was.

"Fired!" are the temperaments that tack Wasteage onto picture costs.

"DECEASED! FINISHED! DONE!" is the Day of the thousands-per-week Stage Star in OUR pictures!

On this, the following leading manufacturers, composing the Art Dramas program, have finally and solemnly decided:

W. L. SHERRILL FEATURE CORP.
Wm. L. Sherrill, President.

U. S. AMUSEMENT CORPORATION
Herbert Blache, President.

ERBOGRAPH COMPANY
Ludwig G. B. Erb, President.

VAN DYKE FILM PRODUCTION CO.
G. H. Wiley, Vice-Pres. and Gen. Mgr.

"Safe Features at Sane Rentals!"

INCORPORATED

116 WEST 39"ST.

Just Good Pictures!

Art Drama Pictures (a feature a week) will be visualizations of the best books, plays and original stories its producers can find. The stars who will present these stories will be the best. BUT THEY WILL NOT BE WORN-OUT STAGE STARS—just screen headliners WHOM EVERY ONE KNOWS!

The umpty - thousand - a - week salaries that WON'T BE PAID will be deducted from YOUR rental bill! The ruinous pay envelope will be charged in as YOUR PROFIT by the following Art Dramas distributors:

Art Dramas Film Service, 729 Seventh Ave., New York.
Electric Theatre Supply Co., 13th and Vine Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.
Art Dramas Service, Mallers Bldg., Chicago, Ill.
Art Dramas, Inc., 200 Pleasant Street Boston Mass.
Liberty Film Renting Co., 934 Penn Ave., Pittsburg, Pa.
Art Dramas, Inc., 75 Broadway, Detroit, Mich.
Deluxe Film Lasky Corp., Humboldt Bldg., San Francisco, Cal.
Deluxe Film Lasky Corp., Los Angeles, Cal.

Distributors of Art Dramas pictures in Kansas City, Cincinnati, Atlanta, Dallas and Seattle will be announced shortly

First Release About November 27

Herbert Blaché

Secretary Treasurer

MONMOUTH

JIMMIE THE GREY

Supported by
ELEVEN HUNDRED NEWSPAPERS AND A
GALAXY OF STARS

16 STARTLING ADVENTURES 16

EACH EPISODE A COMPLETE STORY IN 2 REELS

E. K. LINCOLN

DORIS MITCHELL

WRITE WIRE
PHONE Nearest UNICORN EXCHANGE
FOR BOOKINGS NOW

28 Branches Throughout the U.S.

Executive Office 126-30 W. 46TH ST. N.Y.CITY

MONMOUTH

DALE ALIAS SEAL

16 Thrilling EPISODES 16

EACH ADVENTURE A COMPLETE STORY IN 2 REELS

ADAPTED FROM THE PROFESSIONAL ADVENTURES OF JIMMIE DALE APPEARING IN PEOPLE'S MAGAZINE

DIRECTED BY
HARRY McRAE WEBSTER

EDNA HUNTER

PAUL PANZER

Produced By

Monmouth Film Corporation

Harry McRae Webster President
Jules Burnstein Gen. Manager
Brokaw Building New York

General Film Service

More Straight Facts!

Telegram

Kalem Company,
New York, N. Y.

T. F. McCullough, President San Francisco Exhibitors' League, after running seven day features a week, has returned to varied programme on certain days of each week. He has arranged to show your two-reel "THE GIRL FROM FRISCO" and one-reel "GRANT, POLICE REPORTER" series. He did not buy in the dark but made us screen the pictures and show the posters. His action proves that we delivered the goods.

General Film Company,
San Francisco, Cal.

Have Your Exchange Screen These Super-Features:

"The Rogue's Pawn"
Thrilling "Grant, Police Reporter" Episode.
With GEORGE LARKIN and OLLIE KIRKBY.
Released Friday, Nov. 17th.

"The Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest"
Gripping "Girl from Frisco" Episode.
With MARIN SAIS and TRUE BOARDMAN.
Released Wednesday, Nov. 15th.

"The New Salesmen"
A Side-Splitting "Ham Comedy."
With HAM, BUD, ETHEL TEARE and HENRY MURDOCH
Released Tuesday, Nov. 14th.

"The Runaway Sleeper"
An Exciting "Hazard of Helen" Episode.
With the Screen's Most Daring Actress, HELEN GIBSON.
Released Saturday, Nov. 18th.

One and Three Sheet Posters on All One Reel Releases; One, Three and Six Sheets on "The Girl From Frisco"

"THE SOCIAL PIRATES" ALSO PACKS HOUSES WITHOUT STEALING PROFITS

KALEM COMPANY

235 West 23rd Street New York City

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
THE FILM INDEX
EXHIBITORS' GUIDE

Entered at the General Post Office, New York City, as Second Class Matter
J. P. CHALMERS, Founder.
Published Weekly by the
CHALMERS PUBLISHING COMPANY
17 MADISON AVENUE, NEW YORK CITY.
(Telephone, 3510 Madison Square)

J. P. Chalmers, Sr.....President
J. F. Chalmers.....Vice-President
E. J. Chalmers.....Secretary and Treasurer
John Wylie.....General Manager

The office of the company is the address of the officers.
CHICAGO OFFICE—Suite 917-919 Schiller Building, 64 West Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Telephone, Central 5099.
PACIFIC COAST OFFICE—Haas Building, Seventh St. and Broadway, Los Angeles, Cal. Telephone, Broadway 4649.

SUBSCRIPTION RATES.

United States, Mexico, Hawaii, Porto Rico and Philippine Islands.....$3.00 per year
Canada ..... 3.50 per year
Foreign Countries (Postpaid)..... 4.00 per year

Changes of address should give both old and new addresses in full and be clearly written. Two weeks' time may be required to effect the alteration.

ADVERTISING RATES.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING—One dollar for twenty words or less; over twenty words, five cents per word.

DISPLAY ADVERTISING RATES made known on application.

NOTE—Address all correspondence, remittances and subscriptions to MOVING PICTURE WORLD, P. O. Box 226, Madison Square Station, New York, and not to individuals.

(Index to this issue will be found on page 1070.)

"CINE-MUNDIAL," the monthly Spanish edition of the Moving Picture World, is published at 17 Madison Avenue by the Chalmers Publishing Company. It reaches the South American market. Yearly subscription, $1.50. Advertising rates on application.

Saturday, November 18, 1916

Facts and Comments

SPEAKING of present business conditions an experienced exchange man in a medium-sized town in the East referred to an improvement in the demand for single reels. This greater demand for short lengths he thought was largely due to a decline in the quality of features. "Slumps" in quality are unavoidable, but there are times when they last uncommonly long. An exhibitor, who had been getting poor features for what he deemed an unconscionably long time, complained to the exchange manager, and was told that he must take the "bitter with the sweet." "That's well enough," replied the exhibitor, "but I don't want to be poisoned." A good story and a true one.

* * *

THE Ladies Home Companion, which takes an active and intelligent interest in motion pictures recently conducted a canvass, country-wide, in scope to learn the views of its readers on motion pictures. The astonishing number of fifty thousand replies were received showing the deep interest which the public take in everything that pertains to motion pictures. The responses were particulary clear on the question of clean pictures. Out of the fifty thousand there were only a very few which were even ambiguous on this question.

* * *

A PROMINENT religious denomination has recently held a convention and adopted resolutions favoring national censorship. This protest against the motion picture seems founded rather on aberrations of taste than on any distinctly moral grounds. Our clerical friends protest against "distorted views of affection." Will they supply us with the only orthodox views of affection? We are also told that the screen shows "suggestions of lust and license and details which combine to develop a school of crime." We invite the reverend gentlemen to furnish us with more specific information on the subject. Will they be kind enough to produce a single concrete instance where motion pictures have led any human being to become a criminal? Just as soon as they do that we will take up the "school of crime."

* * *

THE keynote of the reply by Governor Whitman to the film men's plea against censorship is well worth dwelling upon. He abhors censorship, but hopes that the industry will kill all agitation for censorship by its own conduct. The industry fully realizes its responsibility. The trouble lies in the ease with which the occasional outsider is enabled to besmirch the screen. There have been prominent film companies whose skirts are not entirely clear on the question of doubtful pictures, but these instances have been exceptional and as a rule the so-called "purple" picture issues from the hands of the outsider who thinks the screen affords him a chance to get rich in a hurry.

* * *

NOT a bad idea to keep the boys out of mischief on election night by making them guests of the motion picture. The papers report that the Commissioner of Police is going to do this very thing next Tuesday. It's, of course, none of our business, but we respectfully suggest that no highly educational or sterilized films be used on election eve for the entertainment of the adolescents who otherwise would be engaged in hunting barrels for bonfires. In fact to judge from our own recollections of the joy the young savages find in celebrating election eve we feel that the program ought to be made up of detective stories and stories of wild adventure. We would make the educational item homeopathic in size—at least for this particular occasion.

* * *

WHEN this issue meets the eyes of the readers of The MOVING PICTURE WORLD the great political contests will have passed into history. One thing is sure as far as we of the film world are concerned: No matter which way the elections go we have emasculated censorship agitation all over the country. While two or three years ago it was by no means easy to get a political candidate to commit himself on censorship, today these candidates are glad of the chance. The counsel to the National Association states that his mail now is flooded with assurances from candidates who are anxious to get on the anti-censorial band-wagon. It looks as if the Crafts and Chases will have a much harder road to travel hereafter.

Infant Picturalysis

By Louis Reeves Harrison

NOT in the lower limbs—they travel along steadily as directed from above. Not even in the upper body of actors and art directors. Not in the medulla oblongata of distributive forces. In the cerebrums of authors and general managers, or in the directorial cerebellum, the insidious microbe lies in wait for its victims. The exhibitor has grown wise. He no longer wants only a flash on the billboard to bring people into his theater—he must have good plays to make the visit worth while and to establish that sort of good will which causes a very large number of people to go to this or that place because of its own reputation. He requires both flash and quality.

Americans may not be as deeply and strongly imbued with artistic appreciation as the people of older civilizations, but we are strongly inclined that way and learning so fast that we crave the best that can be shown. There is not the slightest doubt that we are being shown the best actors who can qualify for the interpretation of screen stories. The trouble is not with them—they play up very close to the limitations of their opportunities, but only a few of them are given that excess of opportunity, the intense limelight, known as the "vehicle."

A "vehicle" is a machine-made conveyance intended to contain all the little tricks of this or that popular performer, and it usually has wheels. It will run along fairly well for a short distance, but it is not very solidly built, and it soon begins to creak and jar the average audience. In every mixed audience there are people who do not like this or that star, who could tolerate him, or even learn to like him, in an interesting story, who become nauseated when he is spread all over the screen.

Now there are producers who have not suffered much from Picturalysis—perhaps they have had it in mild form and are immune—but they are very few in number. Most of them are men who have been long in the business and are established artistically and financially. Their path to right judgment of what the screen exhibit should be is a short and straight one cleared of embarrassments. They have grasped the fact that this new medium is intended to replace language to a certain extent.

It takes many long centuries for a community to acquire a system of signs and words for the purposes of communicating, recording and carrying on the processes of thought. Language is principally an expresion of thought, more or less intelligible. Are not moving pictures designed for the expression of thought without dependence upon signs or utterance? In language the clearness and beauty of interpreting thought lies in the choice of words and sentences and arrangement. That same process is carried on to an extent in moving pictures by author and director through the human interpreter, the actor.

The actor elucidates and unfolds the story, making its meaning clear and forceful more or less according to his personality and his intelllgence. It is plain to the stupidest audience of shockheads that the actor is of great importance. Nothing is more obvious in moving pictures than that we must have suitable interpreters of their meaning. This epidemic of picturalysis in our infant industry can only be cured by one or another form of enlightenment. The interpretation of thought on the screen is an art in itself. That far the half paralyzed can see—beyond that it is obvious to all but themselves that consideration must surely be given to the thought to be interpreted.

Take the case of a producer afflicted with the epidemic, Mr. Howe D'Zeno. D'Zeno has capitalized at a few hundred thousands and made a contract with a big Distributing Company. In this agreement, or out of it, is reference to the kind of story to be pictured. It must not be a "costume play," and therefore not a military romance. It must be a vital story of human life. The most vital subjects all over the world at this moment are deeply affected by the European War. What else is more vital that provides dramatic material for the photoplay?

Loaded down with this restriction, Mr. D'Zeno proceeds to add to his burden. He contracts with a "star." It is in his contract with the distributing company that he must have one or more "stars," or he is compelled by the demand for a billboard flash to bill a big name. He now looks around for a story that is big enough for a five-reel presentation, that is vital, that is not of the war, that follows no period but the present in costume. Where is he to find it. Aside from a few clever writers especially engaged by this or that concern to make adaptations and vehicles, there are possibly a dozen authors, most of them permitted to live on nothing a year.

No genuine author ever wrote a story to order. He may adapt what he has written to screen purposes, but it is impossible for him to create big and vital stories to be delivered when wanted unless he has an ample private income and writes for the love of it. Mr. D'Zeno is obliged to search for a modern novel or stage play and submit it to his "star." The thought must suit the interpreter, not the interpreter the thought. He ceases at once to be an interpreter—he is the whole thought. At least, he gets that impresion.

From the outset Mr. D'Zeno has given no consideration to putting on what is bright, new, entertaining or really vital. He has imposed limitations on himself, and he claims that the exhibitor imposes others. It makes little difference whether the story is suited to screen presentation, whether it contains enough material to keep people really interested through five reels and so greatly delight them that they will come again and bring all their friends. It must have a "big name." It may be stupid from today's viewpoint; it may be false to our latest ideals; it may represent nothing that people really care about.

Mr. D'Zeno feels that he must adhere to convention, and it is the rule just now to do so and so. He burdens himself with limitations and attempts to carry all the bigotries which have dulled screen presentation. Do not blame him. There are others in his company with Infant Picturalysis. He must suit them. He must make sure to pay them dividends by doing as others do. He is only half bright. The best paying concerns today are not guided by past performance—they are progressive.

It may be all right for a man entering a purely commercial pursuit to take the attitude, "they gotta come to me," but never where there is any art of expression concerned. Those authors who are big enough and broad enough mentally to compass all the difficulties of an adequate expression of vital thought and feeling are never responsive to that attitude. Only where the theater has thrown off the shackles is it reaching out powerfully to the people, and the same is true of printed fiction. Absolute liberty, always within decency, is essential to artistic production, but we are having an epidemic of stupefying Bigotry and Howe D'Zeno.

Give Us Your Opinion

By W. Stephen Bush.

WE ARE very glad indeed to give space to a letter from a reader in a small Southern town Here is the full text of the letter:

October 26th, 1916.

Editor Moving Picture World
New York, N. Y.

Dear Sir: I should like to know through the columns of your publication what are the general views of the successful exhibitors over the country and what percentage of the gross receipts should be spent for film service. I think this is a very important end of the business that has, so far as I know, never yet been touched upon by your magazine, and at no time has it loomed up with so much significance as at this writing.

In the old days when the exhibitors were doing business with one and two-reel subjects exclusively, and the prices were based on so much per reel, the question didn't arise, but, with these special star features now being released in the market (at least one costing as high as $100 per day), there should be some interchanging of ideas and views from the different sections of the country on the part of successful exhibitors as to what their business really can stand for.

A large theater, naturally, can pay more for a feature than a small one. But I am not discussing the large theaters. What I have in mind is the regulation moving picture house with a seating capacity averaging from 400 to 600, and charging an admission price of, say 10c. If an exhibitor is paying out an average of 35 per cent of his gross receipts for film service, and he finds that, on the day he puts in an extraordinary star feature at a large price of film rental, the same ratio of 35 per cent will remain, it conclusively proves that the feature is worth the money. Another consideration is whether his business for the other days of the week would drop off.

I think a little publicity on these ends with the suggested exchange of views, same to be published in your columns, will do a whole lot of good, and I sincerely hope you will see it in this same light and extend your friendly offices in the matter.

We have printed this letter in full because from our own knowledge we know that the same question which our friend has propounded is being asked by exhibitors all over the country. There is little that we can add to what our correspondent has set forth. We cheerfully comply with his request to publish the letter because we believe, as he says, "that at no time has the subject loomed up with so much significance as at this writing." We hope that our readers will take up the matter for discussion in our columns. Again quoting the language of our friend we do indeed believe that "there should be some interchanging of ideas and views from the different exhibitors as to what their business can really stand for."

* * *

The Prime Need of the Hour

By W. Stephen Bush.

THE best organizer in the world is stern necessity. Make a plea to a body of men, telling them about the advantages of organization, and they will agree with you in theory, whether they will keep up the work of organization after you are gone is quite another question. The very moment, however, that they are confronted with an actual danger they rally and take concerted action.

Necessity is the real organizing force. More than ever before in the history of filmdom is there need for a strong exhibitors' organization. It is common knowledge that in many cities scarcely ten per cent. of the exhibitors are making any money. The exhibitor who, to-day, does more than make a livelihood for himself is the exception. A very prominent owner of a chain of excellent theaters with an investment of a quarter of a million recently said he could not even get bank interest on his capital.

Unfair competition, petty exactions, and above all things the constantly soaring cost of film service are, generally speaking, responsible for this condition of affairs. We know of towns where three exhibitors might make a reasonable success, but where none are doing any good, because one man in a frenzy of competition has tied up all the principal feature programs. His competitors are just "existing," he himself barely manages "to get by." If these three men were to get together, talk over the situation, and divide the output fairly among themselves, the chances are that they would immediately cut down their film bills and exist comfortably. There are cities where this is done and where the exhibitors are a happy family, but they are the exception when they might just as well be the rule. When we except the big cities like New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and others with a large transient population it may be assumed as an axiom that each community will spend so much and no more for amusements. It is quite possible to increase the box office receipts on any particular night, but the weekly and monthly receipts will run about the same. Here is a basis for exhibitors to work on and get to a profitable understanding among themselves.

To Our Friend and Reader the Exhibitor

IS THERE in your community or in your neighborhood any church or any social or civic club or any educational institution or any library association which is interested in motion pictures, not as a spectacle, but as a factor and problem in our daily lives? Have you, perhaps, been asked to appear before them for a talk on the subject? Do you feel that such societies and institutions are ready to give a fair hearing to the motion picture side of the problem? Is there censorship discussion or agitation in your town which might be arrested by a strong plea on behalf of reason?

If such is the case the Moving Picture World is ready to help you. If you are not too far from New York we will send a competent member of our staff to give an entertaining talk on the origin and the making of motion pictures, on the development of the screen, on its educational possibilities diversified with humorous sidelights and ending with an appeal for rational regulation in place of drastic and arbitrary censorship. The lecture may be accompanied by or illustrated with pictures if you will furnish the projection machine and the pictures, or it may be given without any such accompaniment.

In either event the good resulting to the industry in general and to the exhibitors in the respective localities in particular is obvious. Such work will promote a better understanding between exhibitors and the public at large. It will show the public, whether they are patrons of the screen or not, that motion picture men are progressive and intelligent, that they take a serious and enlightened view of their vocation and that it is their desire to keep pace with the best civic spirit in every community. A letter to the Moving Picture World will bring you all further information you may want to have. We are willing and anxious to co-operate, but wish to emphasize the fact that the present scope of this service does not look beyond a reasonable distance from New York.

Governor Whitman Against Censorship

By W. Stephen Bush

Governor Stigmatizes It as Abhorrent to American Spirit—Senatorial Candidate Calder Decries Federal Censorship

THE reception arranged for Governor Whitman and Senatorial Candidate Wm. M. Calder, at the Rialto Theater for the morning of Oct. 31, failed of realization. As far as the Rialto and its general director were concerned the preparations were complete. General Rothapfel had his light infantry consisting of a battalion of highly uniformed ushers, in readiness for any military or spectacular action that might be needed. More than that. A bugler was ready and eager to salute the Governor, keeping in practice by frequent rehearsal in different parts of the theater. General Rothapfel himself looked like the famous Hindenburg on the eve of one of his celebrated drives.

Governor Whitman Receiving Film Men at Hotel Manhattan, New York.

The ceremonies were to begin at 10.30 A. M. The tremendous crowd which had been confidently expected was not in evidence. There were probably a hundred persons in the lobby, while a score or two of optimistic Americans had taken seats in the orchestra. A good many of those present were New York exhibitors; the exchange and manufacturing interests being mainly represented by Walter W. Irwin.

As the hour of eleven approached the situation remained painfully obscure. Nobody seemed to know what the ceremonies were going to be. There was a hurried conference between some prominent figures in the film world. Then came the announcement made by Counsellor J. Robert Rubin, that "the size of the audience present did not warrant the Governor in coming." Mr. Rubin added that the best way might be for those present to form themselves into a committee and wait upon Governor Whitman and Mr. Calder at the headquarters in the Hotel Manhattan. The Governor, said Mr. Rubin, was quite willing to receive the film men and talk to them on censorship.

Rarely was a suggestion carried out more swiftly than this suggestion of Mr. Rubin. The strategic move was carried out in less than half an hour and presently the film delegation stood before the Governor of the State and the Republican senatorial candidate. Headquarters in the Manhattan are decidedly small and the delegation made a far better showing there than it would have made if distributed through the Rialto theater.

Governor Whitman Stigmatizes Censorship as "Abhorrent."

The Governor and the senatorial candidate gave the film men a pleasant and cordial greeting whereupon Mr. Irwin at once plunged into his speech. He gracefully thanked the Governor for his veto of the Cristman-Wheeler Bill. He emphasized the fact that the film men know that the Governor, in the exercise of his veto power, simply did his duty as he saw it and that therefore the expression gratitude would be absolutely out of place. Mr. Irwin then dwelt upon the vastness of our industry and rapidly sketched the dangers of censorship. He declared that censorship was not only an infringment upon our liberties but would mean confiscation of property.

The Governor responded to Mr. Irwin in a way which highly pleased the film men. He denounced censorship as abhorrent to American ideals and traditions. The keynote of his address was easily perceived. He made it clear that in his opinion the future of the industry and the very fate of censorship depended on the way the film men themselves would discharge their duties toward the public. The Governor's speech taken down verbatim was as follows:

The word censorship conveys an idea that is essentially inconsistent with our ideas of American liberty. It is my firm belief that the best, the only, safeguard against possible abuses of the motion picture art lies in public opinion and is in the hands of the people, whose wholesome entertainment is the business in which you gentlemen are all engaged.

Now the American public is wonderfully clean-minded and there is no country in the world where the schools, the parents, the churches and the press are so mighty in forming and maintaining a healthy condition of public morals. Public opinion, so influenced and directed, is and must be the ultimate power of censorship of motion pictures, and it is not in reason to suppose that you leaders in this greatest amusement industry will undertake in any marked degree to affront that public opinion.

As Governor of the State I refuse to bind myself with regard to future possible legislation for the regulation of the films. It would be manifestly unwise and improper for me to do that, and I know you do not expect it of me. Conditions may arise that would make new restrictions necessary. At present public sentiment in this State is all for cleanliness, wholesomeness and right living. I think this sentiment will increase rather than diminish, and I believe it is your desire and intention not only to cater to the pure and wholesome public desire for entertainment, but I know, as you certainly must know, that even your selfish material interests must deter you from anything objectionable in your output of pictures.

Censorship is a big word with a wide meaning. Thus every policeman is, to a certain sense, a censor. If someone goes out in the street improperly clad—or unclad—the policeman quickly exercises his power as censor, as the law requires him. Health departments censor the health of cities. These forms of censorship are necessary services, for, after all, they are based on expressed public opinion. I couldn't for a moment think that a body of men like you, would ever tolerate the output of pictures that could spread moral disease, or affront public decency by exposing vile pictures.

My attitude towards censorship now and in the past is known to all of you. It is based on conditions as they were or are. But it is possible that conditions may arise which would compel me to favor regulative legislation. Certainly I believe that no board of three men should be empowered to meddle with and legislate for an industry of such vital importance in the educational, amusement and business affairs of this State.

Mr. Calder followed Governor Whitman and declared himself unequivocally opposed to censorship of any variety and Federal censorship in particular. He stated that all his instincts and inclinations were against it and that he did not think any thing could occur to change his views. Like Governor Whitman, he emphasized the responsibility of the film men. "If," he said, "the men in whose hands the industry lies conduct their business—if they continue to conduct it as they have conducted it in the past, it is altogether likely that you have nothing to worry about. Public opinion is the censor; the only censor we recognize in this country."

SOL LESSER MAKES FIFTH TRIP ACROSS CONTINENT.

In the interest of the All Star Features, Inc., and the big possibilities for expansion which his eastern office has brought forth, Sol Lesser is making his fifth trip across the continent this year.

Stopping en route at his Denver and Chicago offices, he will transact the necessary business incumbent on his purchase of the Clara Kimball Young franchise for the coast, will confer with George K. Spoor, President of Essanay, regarding "The Little Girl Next Door," and then in Philadelphia in conjunction with Leon D. Netter, he will center his attention on the exploitation of "Purity."

Norma Talmadge and Joe Schenck Marry.

Norma Taldmage, who has made a considerable reputation since joining the Triangle forces in Los Angeles, has become the bride of Joseph M. Schenck, general manager of the Marcus Loew enterprises. The ceremony was performed quietly at Stamford, Conn., one day last week. Following this comes the announcement that Miss Talmadge will soon appear in "Panthea," directed by Allan Dwan and to be released by Selznick.

Max Linder, Celebrated Comedian, Is Due

French Screen Star Expected to Arrive in New York on November 7— Brought to America by the Essanay Company

MAX LINDER, the photoplay comedian of international reputation, is on his way to America with 46 trunks full of clothes. He sailed from Cherbourg, France, on Saturday, October 28, and is now dodging submarines on his way to the United States. He took a channel boat to Livepool, and from there went to London, where he had a conference with H. A. Spoor, the European representative for Essanay. On Tuesday, October 31, he sailed from Liverpool for New York, where he is expected to arrive about November 7. George K. Spoor, president of Essanay, will meet Mr. Linder in New York personally and take him to the Essanay studios in Chicago, where he will start work immediately on a new line of comedies.

Max Linder.

Mr. Linder probably is better known on the continent than in America, although his comedies are well known in the United States, he having been a leading photoplay comedian for eleven years, his comedies being released through the Pathe company. Two years ago he quit the stage and offered his entire personal fortune and his services to the French Government when the war broke out. He was a scout in both the automobile and the aeroplane service, furnishing his own machines. While on one of his aeroplane expeditions he was seriously wounded, so seriously that he was reported as dead. He was sent by the French Government to the military hospital at Contrexville and was there several months.

It was when at Contrexville, not yet recovered from his wounds, that President Spoor, of Essanay, opened up negotiations for his services. H. A. Spoor, the European representative in London, visited Mr. Linder and made the proposition. Mr. Linder was loath to leave the service of the army, but decided he could be of more use to his country in furnishing money he could earn than by re-entering the service. He has pledged a large part of his salary to the cause.

"I wish my American friends to understand, however," said he, "that I have no personal animosity toward any people. It is a great regret to me, as it is to every one in Europe, that such a stupendous war is in progress. I am, however, a Frenchman and my heart goes out to my country. I know that even the nations opposing us now will recognize the love of every individual for his own country and his duty and necessity to fight for and aid her. While Germany is now our enemy, I respect the German who battles for his country, and I do not think that even the bitterness that war engenders can make them feel otherwise for the Frenchman who fights for his country."

Mr. Linder is the top-notcher in dandyism. In this country he probably will be known as a dude. After leaving Contrexville he went to Switzerland for recuperation. He was there a month and then went to Paris to equip himself with a wardrobe. How well he succeeded is told in his cablegram to Mr. Spoor in which he stated he was leaving Cherbourg with 46 trunks. Why Max mentioned the 46 trunks is not explained. It sounds as though he either has a reckless disregard for cable tolls or else he is putting in his oar as a good press agent for himself.

The popularity of Mr. Linder abroad is shown in the fact that one company is negotiating with Mr. Spoor at the present time for the release of all his films in England, France, Germany and Russia. S. Hertzberg, who represents a Chinese film organization with headquarters in Shanghai, China, is now in Chicago negotiating for exclusive rights to Linder films in China and Japan.

Max Linder has signed a one-year contract with Essanay, holding an option on renewal for the same term. Each week the ex-soldier will make more than General Joffre, commander-in-chief of the French army, does in a year.

Europe disliked to see its idol depart. The following excerpts have been taken from "Le Film," a Paris motion picture journal:

"Sympathetic Max has gone! Before he leaves Paris, thinking of the famous engagement which he is entering into, we wanted to ask him a few particulars as to what he was going to do in Chicago. We found Max occupied with his packing, in the midst of his hampers, baskets and portmanteaux in his swagger apartment on the Champs-de-Mars.

"'I shall be working principally in Chicago,' he said, 'but if my health will not permit me to reside there, the Essanay company has very kindly promised to construct a studio in any place I may choose.'"

Both British, French, German, Russian and Italian journals have been filled with interviews with the famous warrior-comedian. The strange contrast between the bloody battlefields and the comedy cinema appeals to their romantic temperaments. Mr. Linder will select his own scripts from material obtained for him by Essanay. He will have the selection of his own comedy company. The creator of a billion laughs will soon be at work creating a billion more.

Juanita Hansen Becomes Triangle Star

JUANITA HANSEN is the latest addition to the Triangle-Mack Sennett-Keystone studios. Miss Hansen signed her contract Friday, the 13th of October, and declares that unlucky days and dates mean nothing in her life. The pretty golden haired, blue eyed Juanita received her first comedy experience under the direction of Mack Sennett and has been engaged to appear in a series of light comedies. She has resided in Los Angeles most of her life and entered the moving picture field about two years ago. Her last picture before coming to the Keystone studio was "The Secret of the Submarine," a serial in which she played the leading role.

Juanita Hansen.

Miss Hansen will head a company directed by Harry Williams, the well known song writer, who received his initial experience in the scenario department of the Keystone plant. Of late Mr. Williams has been co-directing with William Campbell in the company headed by Chester Conklin.

Playing across from Miss Hansen in the light comedies will be Lew Cody, who has been appearing in the Mabel Normand picture now nearing completion. Miss Hansen has had a most interesting and successful career in moving pictures and will no doubt prove a decided attraction in future Triangle-Keystone comedies.

To Review Machine Patent Case

U. S. Supreme Court Will Examine Papers in the Action on Latham Loop Infringement.

THE United States Supreme Court has granted a writ of certiorari upon the application of the Motion Picture Patents Company bringing its case against the Universal Film Manufacturing Company, Universal Film Exchange of New York, and Prague Amusement Company up from the United States Circuit Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit.

This is one of the most important cases coming before the court at this term. The Patents Company is the owner of a patent for improvements in projecting machines, which includes "a novel means for moving a quantity of motion picture film having considerable bulk through a moving picture machine, with an intermittent movement, in such manner as not to expose the film to excessive strain and wear and tear, and with a regular, uniform and accurate feed."

This company has licensed the Precision Machine Company, of New York, to manufacture and sell machines embodying one or more of its inventions, coupling with this the restriction that each machine put out by the licensee should be sold only "under the restriction and condition that such exhibiting or projecting machines shall be used (1) solely for exhibiting or projecting motion pictures containing the invention of reissued letters patent No. 12,192, leased by a licensee of the licensor while it owns said patents, and (2) upon other terms to be fixed by the licensor and complied with by the user while the said machine is in use and while the licensor owns said patents (which other terms shall only be the payment of a royalty or rental to the licensor while in use)."

The petitioner states that the sale and purchase of this machine gives only the right to use it solely with moving pictures containing the invention referred to. It is alleged in its brief filed with the court that the Prague Amusement Company, since November 2, 1914, without the payment of royalty, has been using a machine procured from the Precision Machine Company, in connection with "unlicensed" film made by the Universal company.

On March 18, 1915, the petitioning company filed a bill of complaint against the respondents in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. The respondents at the trial of the case urged in defense the alleged illegality of the conditions of use imposed by the agreement between the Motion Picture Patents Company and the Precision Machine Company. These contentions were upheld by the court, and upon an appeal being taken, the Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed the decree and denied an application for a rehearing.

The Motion Picture Patents Company contends "that consideration of these opinions shows that its contention as to infringement is and has always been that the use of the Precision machine by the Prague Amusement Company was an unauthorized one and therefore an infringement of the patent, because, in using said machine the Prague Amusement Company did not comply with the following conditions of use imposed by petition upon users of machines, namely:

"License Condition No. 1.—That the machine should be used only with motion pictures leased from a manufacturer licensed by the petitioner; and

"License Condition No. 2.—That the user of the machine should pay to petitioner a royalty or rental (to be fixed by petitioner), while the machine was in use.

"That non-compliance by respondent, Prague Amusement Company, with either condition, resulted, as petitioner claims, in an unauthorized use of the machine, and therefore an infringement of its patent."

The Court of Appeals held both of these conditions to be unlawful and unenforceable, and as constituting no lawful restriction upon the right of use of the machine purchased from the Precision Machine Company.

Broadway Theater Changes Hands

Laemmle, Selznick and Brenon Take Over Big Picture House at Broadway and 41st Street—To Show Big Features

IT HAS been officially announced that Carl Laemmle, Louis J. Selznick and Herbert Brenon have jointly negotiated the lease of the Broadway theater at Broadway and 41st Street, New York, and that they will take possession almost immediately. The house will be devoted to the showing of large screen productions of the Universal and Selznick companies.

The Broadway theater has been showing motion pictures for some time. For a while it was the New York home of the Paramount program. Later the Metro Company secured a regular showing of its productions at this house which was under the management of Stanley V. Mastbaum of Philadelphia. It was through Mr. Mastbaum that the present combination secured possession.

The first picture to appear at the Broadway under the new management will be Herbert Brenon's production "War Brides," in which Mme. Nazimova is featured. Following the Brenon picture the Universal will put on the big feature "20,000 Leagues Under the Sea," which is having such a sensational run in Chicago. This will probably be followed by Selznick's production "The Foolish Virgin," in which Clara Kimball Young is featured.

National Theater in Jersey City

A Big Opening Night Augures Well for Future of Jersey's Handsomest Picture House.

THE greatest event in the motion picture history of Eastern New Jersey, took place on the night of November 1, when the National Theater on Central avenue, was formally opened to the public. The splendid playhouse, which had been under construction for some months, had been the talk of the neighborhood. Long before the coming of darkness, crowds began to appear in the neighborhood, and by 8 o'clock the house, which has the comfortable seating capacity of 1,400, was jammed to the doors. The special details of firemen and policemen assigned to duty for the opening night had their hands full all the evening. The lobby was filled with testimonials to the projectors and owners of the new theater and there was an unceasing stream of congratulants not only from the immediate neighborhood, but from many people prominent in the social and political life of Jersey City. The program consisted of a splendid variety of motion pictures interspersed with songs and musical renditions, of which the organ recitals were a special feature. Just before the feature was projected W. Stephen Bush, of the staff of the Moving Picture World, made a brief dedicatory address in the following words:

LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—In these days the opening of a big motion picture theater, like the one we are admiring tonight, is an event of considerable importance to the community in general and to the neighborhood in particular. It represents the confidence of my enterprising young friend, but it represents far more than that. It illustrates better than a thousand sermons or editorials the wonderful advance which has been made by the motion picture. Compared to the little houses of five and six years ago, this splendid structure is like the Twentieth Century Limited compared to a canal boat. In point of equipment and comfort, in lighting and in heating, in the art of projecting the picture in sharp, clear outlines and with absolute steadiness, in its policy of courtesy to patrons, in its rare musical features, it truly typifies the best there is in motion picture houses not only in this country, but throughout the world. I speak with some assurance on this subject, because I have seen thousands of theaters, both here and abroad. I know you will ask no further description from me when you are on all sides surrounded by the things which I am supposed to describe.

There is one topic, however, on which I would like to say a few words with your gracious indulgence. I want to say something of the pictures which you will see on this screen after you have made the National your favorite theater. We who know the young man who has built such generous hopes upon your patronage, know him for one of the best choosers of good, clean, suitable motion pictures. Now that means a whole lot. Any one can open a motion picture house and show an occasional good picture, but it takes a man of keen judgment and one who enjoys uncommon facilities of choice to provide a high average in your entertainment. This not only costs money and lots of it, but it takes infinite care and taste and experience. I assure you that the owner of this house measures up to the best standards, and the highest qualifications. He fully understand his responsibilities, and I want to assure you that no film which you do not want your children to see will ever be found on this screen. The first motto of this house will be to entertain. We assume that when you come here to spend your evening you are in search of genuine entertainment; you want to forget the cares of the day, the worries of business and all that grinding routine that makes us forget there are stars above us, that there is a beautiful world around us, and in the midst of the commonplace we always find the heroic, the noble, some times the tragic and often the sweet and the pathetic. Nor will we fail in our endeavor to give you the laughing treatment. Laughter has been called the twin sister of Hope, we will have a permanent home here for both sisters, I assure you.

I now dedicate this magnificent temple of amusement to you, my friends and neighbors, to you and to your families. The future of the National depends entirely upon the favor you may be pleased to show us. The sweat of the architect, the toil of the musician, the art of the picture-maker and all the zealous efforts of the management will go for nothing unless you give us your approval and your continued patronage. It is not in ourselves to achieve success, but we can at least try to deserve it. That will be the motto and the guiding rule of the National.

At the end of his remarks Mr. Bush introduced Congressman James A. Hamel, who spoke words of congratulations and encouragement, to be builders and owners of the National. The theater is under the personal supervision and direction of L. F. Blumenthal.

George Fawcett, the well known actor is in Chicago, en route to Los Angeles, Cal., where he will resume leading roles for the Selig Company.

The Picture Show Business in Trenton

By Hanford C. Judson

New Jersey's Capital City Shows Interesting and Somewhat Typical Development of the Exhibiting Business

THE City of Trenton has some 110,000 population, and while there is a healthy amount of business done there one sees little of the rush and boom noticeable in many of the New England towns in these War Bride times. There are about twenty-two theaters devoted exclusively or largely to moving pictures at present serving Trentonians and about eleven of these are not far from the corner of Broad and State streets, the business heart of the city. The picture business in what may be termed the neighborhood districts is largely controlled by a combination known as the Hildinger Enterprises, whose chief holders are Charles C. Hildinger, Phillip Papier, Russel H. Lamont, George D. Bishop and Fred. R. Parker. These different interests have been drawn together by community of business advantage. The combination has given the city and its suburbs a much higher class of theater and a much better class of picture on the screen than fierce competition would, it is probable.

The houses which this group control are the Star, with 300 seats; the Strand, with 700 seats; the Princess theater, seating 700 and on the corner of Mead street and Clinton avenue; the Park theater, with 650 seats, at 11-13 Pennington avenue; the Garden, with 350 seats; the Majestic, seating 800; the New Bijou, a fine new house that cost $35,000 and seating 900, and the Center Street opera house, with 650 seats. Beside these the company has a theater in Doylestown, a village with about 3,300 inhabitants, and a theater in Lambertville, a somewhat larger nearby village. The Hildinger Enterprises have no competition in the outskirt districts or in the two neighboring villages; but their downtown houses have to contend with vigorously conducted opposition, some of it combining vaudeville with pictures.

The advantages the combination has is chiefly in the buying. As one would expect, the booking is done from the head office at 135 Hanover street and the problem of getting the most out of each film is helped by the fact that a family living in the East End of a fairly spreadout community normally has little reason for travelingfi to the West End for its amusement. When special features are to be shown an extra nickel or dime is asked for admission; but the tendency in all Trenton theaters is to ask ten cents admission to the regular program. The house managers under these conditions are chiefly valuable on the score of their personality, and the more important theaters are put in charge of men who have made good in the smaller houses. For the programs Metro, Paramount, Pathe and other leading makers are drawn upon. The company believes in big advertisable features. "The more we spend for a picture, the more we make of it" was the expression of the member of the firm we interviewed. He also counted Trenton a good serial town.

Among the opposition houses the State Street theater comes first to mind. It is on East State street, only a few doors from Broad and includes four acts of vaudeville with first class features and other pictures. Triangle service is advertised and posters in the lobby promise the Pickford films. The prices asked are ten cents in the afternoons and five, fifteen and twenty cents at night. The house manager is H. Wahn. This house has profitably used "The Yellow Menace" and "The Shielding Shadow."

Also on State street and not far from the corner of Broad is the St. Regis theater, of which W. J. Vernon is the manager. It is an attractive looking house with 950 seats, makes good music one of its drawing cards and does a good business. Mr. Vernon is a pleasant man to meet and has clear-cut ideas about the picture business. He is running a Paramount, Fox, World Film, Metro and other of the good makes. They are not necessarily first runs, but they are new. Very few of the superfeatures are booked. It has been Mr. Vernon's experience that a superfeature, at a high price, comes sometimes after a program feature that not only tells a better story, but is apt to be better acted as a whole. The patrons who have paid less to see the good film the night before fail to see the profit in it and have a less ready opinion of the exhibitor's showmanship. He thinks that for the good of the business the manufacturers should tend rather to decrease the cost of pictures than increase it.

The Grand theater, four or five blocks south along Broad street, has been a burlesque house, but during the week of October 15 showed "Fighting for Verdun," which was lectured by Captain D. G. Hertz, an Englishman, who led a company of a South Lancashire regiment until a few pieces of schrapnel disqualified him from the kind of work that soldiers have to do in Europe these days. The Grand is under the management of Charles Finberg and is planning to include films in its regular shows from now on. While at this house we met R. K. Bartlett, formerly of the Stanley Film agency, who is handling the picture, "Fighting for Verdun."

The Trent theater, a legitimate house on Warren street, a few steps north of State, showed "The Fall of a Nation" as an attraction for three days from October 16; but this house is not directly in competition for the picture trade.

Taylor's Opera House, on South Broad street, advertises vaudeville and bills a few pictures.

One interesting phase of the picture business in Trenton is the automobile express service run on a co-operative basis between Philadelphia and the local theaters.

The local rates for theater licenses is $50 a year. In Lambertville $100 is asked. Doylestown asks only $25 for the year.

Adrienne Morrison Wins Recognition

FOR versatility, for finish, for screen presence and charm, Adrienne Morrison, the brilliant wife of Richard Bennett, the popular Mutual actor, has won a distinctive place for herself in the brief four months in which she played in supporting casts with her husband at the American studios at Santa Barbara.

The charmingly sympathetic and subtly humorous role of the sister-in-law to the "Philip Holden" of Mr. Bennett's characterization in his first Mutual Star Production which went out recently, "Philip Holden-Waster," which Miss Morrison created, is worthy of mention.

Her versatility, as well as her dramatic power is tried in the exceptionally strong drama, "And the Law Says," which will mark her husband's second appearance in Mutual Star Productions, as well as in "The Highest Good," a picture in which she will appear later.

Adrienne Morrison.

Mr. Bennett and his wife and their two daughters returned to New York October 14, in time for the popular actor to commence rehearsals in "Zack," the production in which he will appear on the stage in New York this winter.

THEATER CHANGES POLICY.

R. Wagner and James Wallingford have bought the Keith's theater on Main street, Buffalo, from J. A. Schuchert. This theater was previously a five-cent house, seven nights a week, and it is the intention of the new management to run two ten-cent nights for the time being and will endeavor to increase the price of admission to ten cents seven nights a week.

CHANGE IN SELIG TITLE.

"So Shall Ye Reap" is the name of a Selig production to be released Monday, November 6, in General Film Service. The name has been changed from "As Ye Sow." The production, "So Shall Ye Reap" is of unusual excellence, according to advance reviews.

George M. Cohan to Play for Artcraft

Famous Author and Actor Will Be Seen in His Own Popular Subjects.

FOLLOWING several years of absolute indifference to all inducements, even those of the most flattering and substantial nature, George M. Cohan, one of America's foremost figures in the theatrical world, has decided to enter the motion picture field. The announcement is made by Artcraft Pictures Corporation on the eve of its first release, Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust."

For several weeks Walter E. Greene, president of Artcraft, has been promising that Mary Pickford would soon have a famous companion in the Aircraft circle, which he describes as the foundation of a system to "handle the headliners in motion pictures." Certainly Mr. Cohan is a headliner. The new corporation is to be congratulated on the success of its negotiations with Mr. Cohan and the motion picture industry in general is fortunate in the acquisition of this popular American.

Perhaps the most interesting feature of the preliminary announcement of the formation of the George M. Cohan Film Corporation is the statement that in addition to his services as producer and player Mr. Cohan is to devote much of his time to original writing for the screen. That, in itself, is a matter of importance.

Work on the first production of the Cohan Corporation will begin at once. Mr. Cohan will, of course, appear as the star and the vehicle will be one of his most successful plays. The selection will be made from the group which includes "Little Johnny Jones," "Forty-five Minutes from Broadway," "The Governor's Son," "The Miracle Man," "The Yankee Prince," "George Washington, Jr.," "The Talk of New York," "Seven Keys of Baldpate," "Hit the Trail Holliday," "The Man Who Owns Broadway," "The Little Millionaire," and others.

As a writer of popular musical comedies and in more recent years of serious plays, Mr. Cohan has achieved a position as a writer for the stage which is fully as lofty as the niche he made for himself as an actor and producer. While his abilities as player and director are eagerly welcomed it is the acquisition of his talents as author of virile American drama that is of particular cause for gratification in the motion picture field. For some time he has quietly been absorbing the atmosphere of the new amusement giant and making a close study of its technique. When convinced that here was the opportunity for a tremendous amount of work of the highest order he began to consider seriously the offers which had come to him. Artcraft was able to convince him it possessed "the goods."

"Every one within the motion picture industry has a definite conception of the great potency of Mr. Cohan as a popular idol," said Mr. Greene. "Every motion picture exhibitor throughout the United States is asked frequently why he does not show pictures either written by Mr. Cohan or those in which he appears. It is of course a matter of extreme satisfaction to me and my associates that Artcraft can announce the Cohan pictures will be distributed through our exchanges. It looks like a busy year for Artcraft."

"WAR'S WOMEN" WIN AGAINST CENSORSHIP.

News has just come to Joseph Perl, the Eastern representative of the Pacific State Rights Company, at 547 West 147th street, of a sweeping victory which the company gained over the San Francisco and Los Angeles censorship, the courts having decided that the company's picture, "War's Women," was entirely fit for public exhibition and that the censorial rulings to the contrary must be reversed. This victory, Mr. Perl says, was largely due to the unremitting efforts of Ferd Bloch, the president of the Pacific State Rights Company.

SELIG CHICAGO STUDIOS TO OPEN.

The Selig studios, Chicago, will open next week. Al Green will direct the production "The Princess of Patches." Gilson Willets wrote the scenario version of the play. Many of the exterior scenes will be filmed in Louisiana.

GERRARD DIRECTING "THE ORGAN GRINDER."

"The Organ Grinder," an Italian drama in two reels, is under production at Universal City by Director Douglas Gerrard, who also plays the lead with Ruth Clifford and Al MacQuarrie in support.

"Conquest of Canaan" Rights Selling

New Lasky Exchange Takes California Territory—Abrams, Mastbaum and Greene Other Buyers.

HIRAM ABRAMS has closed with the Frohman Amusement Corporation for the rights to "The Conquest of Canaan" in the California territory controlled by the Lasky Pictures Corporation and covering California, Nevada, Arizona and New Mexico. Mr. Abrams, acting for his own organization distributing through New England, secured the New England rights and will give the picture immediate release. He acted as agent for the Lasky enterprise.

"The Conquest of Canaan" was the initial release of the newly organized Lasky exchange at San Francisco and was released by that concern November 2. Mark Lasky, who controls the new 'Frisco exchange, entered the film business about three years ago, but gave up his offices in Philadelphia when Paramount was formed.

Stanley Mastbaum has secured the Pennsylvania, Virginia, Maryland, District of Columbia and Delaware territory for "The Conquest of Canaan" and will issue it as the first important release through a new exchange recently opened.

Greene Photoplay Company of 729 Seventh Avenue, obtained New York and Northern New Jersey for "The Conquest of Canaan."

Kenneth O'Hara, Regular Writer

PROMINENT among the younger publicity men who have achieved an unusual measure of success is Kenneth A. O'Hara, of the Ince forces at Culver City. During the past two years as Coast publicity manager for the New York Motion Picture Corporation Mr. O'Hara organized the department of which he is head and directed its work so astutely that the fame of these Triangle producers widened perceptibly.

Having been a newspaper man, Mr. O'Hara is not given to the constant use of superlatives, but has a "nose for news," and puts the news in his copy. Every picturesque incident that took place in the Inceville studio, where his headquarters first were, drew many interesting recitals from Mr. O'Hara's typewriter and saw subsequent publication in many newspapers and magazines eager to get good copy about moving picture incidents.

Kenneth Anthony O'Hara.

Mr. O'Hara is only twenty-five years old, yet is credited with being one of the cleverest men in his branch of the industry. He is a writer of clean-cut English of magazine quality. He was born in Brooklyn and educated at Rockville Center, L. I. He went through Seton Hall, in South Orange, N. J., became a football star and won a gold medal for general proficiency. He entered Brooklyn College Prep School and Bishop McDonnell presented him with his sheepskin and also a medal for dramatic declamation. He studied at Fordham Law School for a year before he realized his was not a legal mind. He got a job as a cub on the Brooklyn Eagle, being assigned to scholastic sports. He became head of that department and gained a reputation throughout scholastic circles in the East.

Mr. O'Hara then joined the staff of the Los Angeles Tribune and during the fourteen months following handled almost every department of the paper. In August, 1914, Thomas H. Ince employed him to push the Kay-Bee, Broncho and Domino brands. It was rough traveling at first to establish a press agenting bureau. Then came the Triangle organization and O'Hara found himself face to face with a big opportunity—and made good. He is popular with the players and directors and newspaper representatives.

"LITTLE ITALY" ALMOST COMPLETED.

Hobart Henley has about completed at Universal City a five-reel drama, "Little Italy," in which he plays the featured lead with Gertrude Selby. The story is by Willard Mack.

The Motion Picture Exhibitor

WRITE US EARLY AND OFTEN

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD carries the most complete record of Exhibitors' News. This department aims at being the fullest and fairest chronicle of all the important doings in the ranks of organized exhibitors. To keep the department as complete and as useful as it is now we request the secretaries of all organizations to favor us with reports of all the news. Coming events in the ranks of the organized exhibitors are best advertised in this department of the Moving Picture World.

DISTRIBUTORS AND EXHIBITORS "DISCUSS THINGS."

A Protracted Meeting at Wurlitzer Hall Which Heard Much Debate But Got Small Results.

THROUGH the advertising columns of The Moving Picture World, an invitation had been extended by the F. I. L. M. Club of New York City to "every person connected directly with the motion picture exchange business" and to all exhibitors doing business in the Metropolitan District. The meeting was called by Arthur F. Beck, president of the Film Club; Edward Saunders, first vice-president; H. H. Buxbaum, second vice-president, and W. E. Raynor, secretary and treasurer. The call promised "to submit a proposition to the Exhibitors' League that will undoubtedly bring their membership up to 100 per cent. efficiency for New York and adjacent territory."

In response to the invitation about a dozen exchange men and about a hundred exhibitors came to Wurlitzer Hall on the night of Thursday, November 2. Among the exhibitors were Lee A. Ochs, president of the New York Local; John Manheimer, president of the Brooklyn organization; John J. Wittmann, president of the Bronx Local (Cinema Club), and Dr. H. Charles Hespe, president of the Exhibitors' League of the state of New Jersey.

Mr. Beck in the chair read the call and then outlined a plan of co-operation between exchanges and exhibitors, spoke of the Hoy Collecting and Rating Agency, which he said would hereafter act as the arbiter of any difficulty between exchanges and exhibitors. He said that a committee consisting of twelve exchangement and eighteen exhibitors would be formed to work in unison with the Hoy Agency. This statement at once precipitated a storm of dissent from the exhibitors. Representing the three presidents of the Greater City, Exhibitor Sanders, from Brooklyn, said there could be no discussion of any co-operative plan until the Mutual Exchange had rescinded its order compelling exhibitors in and around New York to pay the return express charges.

Mr. Beck countered by announcing that he considered the question of return express charges closed and that he would not under any circumstances consent to reopen it. He took occasion to say that the campaign conducted by the exhibitors against his exchange had made no difference whatever to him. "The sheriff," he said, "had not been at the doors of the Mutual, in spite of the penalties inflicted upon me and we propose to do business at the old stand for some time to come. There is nothing to arbitrate as far as the express charges are concerned."

Mr. Beck's statement was followed by a strong murmur of disapproval among the exhibitors and a dozen rose to their feet at once. It was not long before the debate degenerated into a wrangle. Exchangemen told of the troubles they had with exhibitors, citing cases and giving a wealth of detail, to which the exhibitors replied with great emphasis and with at least equal enthusiasm. Mr. Shafer of the World Film, Mr. Tobias of the 46th Street Exchange and Edward Saunders of the Metro, talking for the exchanges while Ochs, Wittmann, Manheimer, Charles Steiner, Charles Haring, Dr. Hespe and many others took the exhibitors' side.

Though the chairman declared again and again that he would not recede from the position of saddling the return express charges on the exhibitors, that subject always came back and easily occupied the centre of the stage. For almost three hours the battle raged with no semblance of parliamentary or business procedure. The chairman insisted that the presidents of the locals declare themselves on the proposition of the Hoy Agency and the Committee of Co-operation and the presidents pointed out they had no authority to bind their organizations without first calling a meeting and consulting them. It looked as if the meeting was to be wholly barren of any results whatever when after more discussion the chairman consented to have the future return charge policy referred to arbitration. This came on top of a statement by H. H. Buxbaum, of the General Film Company, who said he would personally reimburse exhibitors who felt that their return express charges were an unjust burden. This statement was loudly cheered and helped to create a better atmosphere.

A motion was then made and carried that the three local presidents and Dr. Hespe, of New Jersey, report the offers of the F. I. L. M. Club to their respective organizations and then get in touch with Chairman Beck in about two weeks time. Even after adjournment excited groups on the sidewalk gave themselves up to the discussion of the return express charges quite reckless of the cold winds that began to blow just before midnight.

SUBSTITUTE CENSORSHIP PROPOSITION.

Minneapolis Exhibitors Appeal to the Public—Have Plan for a Board of Review.

A JOINT meeting of officers of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, Inc., of the Northwest, and the film exchange managers of Minneapolis, was held Monday, October 23, at the association headquarters, Bijou theater building. The following plan for trade regulation in lieu of the present censorship board was adopted:

AN OPEN INVITATION TO THE PEOPLE OF MINNEAPOLIS.

Addressed especially to the municipal authorities, the churches, the civic organizations and the great army of motion picture fans.

Your theatre manager will furnish you at any and all times an official blank which you are at liberty to fill out with any complaint against any film shown, or to be shown, at his respective theatre.

This in turn is immediately handed to the Motion Picture Trade Film Review Board of Minneapolis, or you can even send same direct to the board.

Quick action is taken by a democratically organized, unbiased board composed of men in keen competition in the following lines:

One state's rights film exchange manager.
One regular releasing feature exchange manager.
One regular releasing regular service exchange manager.
One exhibitors' supply house manager.
One local film producing manager.
One motion picture trade journal manager.
One representative appointed by the mayor.

And the nine active motion picture theatre proprietors forming the officers and executive board of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association, Inc., of the Northwest.

The various lines of the motion picture industry represented in the personnel of the above-mentioned board of fifteen will positively insure the public against unclean pictures, as no favoritism toward any particular picture or theater could be manipulated.

With the cordial help of the general public the motion picture industry feels perfectly able to run its own business to suit the public and does not propose to have a self-constituted so-called film censor board of busybodies to run the general public or the motion picture business.

Therefore, we ask your hearty co-operation, for, after all, you are the best judges and our board will act according to your desires.

President Gilosky appointed a grievance committee, Messrs. C. H. Hitchcock, W. B. Watson, J. A. Keough, S. Greene and F. W. Thayer, all of Minneapolis, and a legislative committee, Messrs. J. Agnew, D. G. Rodgers, D. W. Chamberlain of Minneapolis, M. L. Finkelstein, J. Friedman, O. Rowe and H. Breilein, St. Paul. A motion was made and seconded that the association insist that the operators' union have an agent that can be reached at any time necessary. Secretary Goenig read off a list of new members and told of his campaign for more. The association voted to hold its future meetings on Tuesday at noon, instead of on Monday.

MICHIGAN EXHIBITORS' MEETING CALLED.

Secretary Moeller Wants Them in Detroit on Dec. 12—President Ochs to Attend.

THE Detroit office of the World is in receipt of a communication from A. J. Moeller, of Howell, secretary of the Michigan State Branch of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America. This communication should be read thoroughly because it is of importance. We would also like to suggest that exhibitors bear in mind the date of December 12 and plan to be in Detroit to attend the annual meeting. The Hotel Statler has already been decided upon as headquarters. The letter read as follows:

The article in the various trade journals relative to the $300 to $1,000 State license, was undoubtedly noted by the majority of Michigan exhibitors, and I regret to state the fact that I received three communications from interested exhibitors, asking for advice regarding same. Think of it—three exhibitors out of more than 800 in the State of Michigan cared enough about their business to inquire about it.

It seems to me that Michigan exhibitors are a lot of self-satisfied individuals who care for nothing but the present, unconcerned about the future, and absolutely unwilling to do anything except to kick about the existing conditions and poor business.

Unwilling to raise a hand or give support to the elimination of a legislative measure that means their bread and butter.

Willing always to tell you what a poor business their competitor did, and how he beat them to it. Caring apparently for nothing except the dimes that come through the box office window.

What kind of exhibitors have we in the State of Michigan?

Wake up, men, to the realization of facts and to the issues that are confronting you. Try to realize the fact that you are an individual factor in this fourth the largest industry in the world today. If there is an ounce of co-operation or an iota of progressiveness, make it known. I challenge every one of you.

Our next meeting will be held at the Hotel Statler, Detroit, on December 12. And I dare you to be there. National President Lee Ochs, of New York, and our old friend and counselor, Fred Herrington, will also be in attendance, and what will be put before you at this meeting will be, to say the least, something that will surprise you not a little. Make your preparations now and let your slogan be "Detroit on December 12."

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN BALL.

Organized Exhibitors of New York Are Making Big Efforts to Make it "the Biggest Ever."

THE Movie Ball, which will be held in Madison Square Garden, Thanksgiving night, November 29, promises to be the biggest social event of the season for the members of the moving picture fraternity.

Last year between twenty and thirty thousand people attended and the doors had to be closed at 8:30 because of the crowd. This year the jam promises to be greater than ever and it is feared that it will be necessary to close the doors earlier than last year.

All of the boxes with the exception of six have been sold and over seventy applications have been received for those that remain. Among the concerns which have bought boxes and the number taken are the following: Metro, 26; Universal, 9; Pathe, 8; Vitagraph, 5; International, 3. From one to three boxes have also been taken by the following: Essanay, Kalem, Brenon, Feature Film Company, Sherman Elliott, V-L-S-E, Powers, Simplex and Unicorn.

The contract for decoration involving an expenditure of over $6,000 has been awarded to W. H. Masten Co., of this city. During the evening six of the leading New York firms will conduct a fashion review of imported gowns which will be shown on living models. One of the novelties this year will be a cabaret which will be held in the basement from the time the ball opens until closing. A colored band consisting of fifty-five pieces will provide the dance music, and one of the new stunts will be the singing of the band members while the movie people and their friends dance the night away.

Three prizes of $100, $50 and $25, respectively, have been offered to the three manufacturers who provide the most novel stunt for th evening's entertainment.

BROOKLYN EXHIBITORS TO DANCE.

Committees Are Named to Make Arrangements for a Big Affair on Eve of Washington's Birthday.

THE annual ball and reception of the Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of America, Brooklyn Local, will be held on the eve of Washington's Birthday at Stauch's at Coney Island. Brooklyn Local, which is one of the strongest branches in the United States, is planning to have at least 100 of the leading film stars present and to make the occasion the greatest in the history of the organization.

Two bands have been engaged to furnish the dance and concert music. The hall will be decorated from top to bottom and special arrangements will be made for automobile parties. The committees are arranging many features in which the film stars will have prominent parts.

The committees are:

Ball committee, William Hollander, chairman; Maurice Goodman, treasurer.

Arrangements committee, Louis Levine, chairman; Billy Bland, J. C. Wesserbach, G. Gerhauser, H. Shapiro.

Printing, William Brandt, chairman; Michael Glynn, Julius Caller, S. Barr.

Tickets, J. Foster, chairman; E. Fulmer, H. Schaeffer, S. Rosenthal, H. Weingarten, Fred Huchner, J. Ensler.

Entertainment, R. Sanders, chairman; S. Lesselebaum, C. F. Martin, Gus Koenigswald, E. Dunning, S. I. Berman, J. H. Vreeland.

Reception, H. C. Mooney, Ben Title, Louis Christian, E. Salkin, I. W. Richards, Paul Thiele, Harry Harring, Manuel Motta, S. Sonin, Harry Traub.

Publicity and program, H. C. Mooney, William Brandt, Otto Lederer.

Badges, E. Stockheimer, S. Schwartz.

Ladies' reception committee, Mrs. Reitmeyer.

Floor committee, J. Sokoloff, chairman; William Bigalli, J. Jenell, J. Bruno, S. Pellagrano, A. Flaum, Charles Cranidas, E. Chrystmus, B. Zeitlen, M. Seger, D. Kerman, T. Gate, S. Marcovitch, M. W. Lane, Louis Smith, D. J. Askin, H. Whitner.

Projection committee, M. Warshauer, chairman.

TEXAS AMUSEMENT MEN MEET.

Censorship and Sunday Opening Were Chief Questions of Discussion—No Change in Organization.

CENSORSHIP and Sunday opening were the livest topics discussed before the Southwestern motion picture exhibitors and theater managers at the convention Wednesday, October 25, at the Hall of the Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers' Association, Dallas. This meeting marked the successful culmination of a state-wide organization campaign carried on by the organization known as the Texas Amusement Managers' Association, composed of the Dallas amusement institutions and their state affiliations. The organization work has been done by Robert H. Campbell, executive secretary for the organization, and has been in progress for the past three months.

Starting with an informal reception at the Oriental Hotel in the morning, the session was continued with a lunch by the film exchanges and supply houses. At this function James B. Dugger, Vitagraph man, presided, and E. T. Peter, of Little Rock, formerly of Dallas, was a guest of honor. At 1:30 o'clock a general conference was held in the auditorium of the Chamber of Commerce and Manufacturers' Association Building, where a program of addresses and discussion was heard.

E. T. Peter spoke on "Co-operation and Affiliation"; Joseph Phillips, Fort Worth, "The Theater and the Public." Mr. Phillips called attention to the power of the screen when he recited how Judge Harper, who had rendered an obnoxious decision, as a member of the Court of Criminal Appeals, was defeated by Judge Morrow before the last primaries. Harper read into the law a decision that all the employees, actors, stage employees, ticket sellers and takers, ushers, as well as the manager was guilty of violation of the Sunday law when they worked in a motion picture house or theater on Sunday. Slides advocating the election of Morrow, said Phillips, were run in picture shows all over Texas and Harper was defeated by more than 4,000 votes. James Hill, Dallas, "Theater and Censorship"; Robert H. Campbell, "The Theater and the Sunday Law"; Lawrence Stewart, "The Theater and the House Manager"; S. G. Howell, Motion Picture Journal, "The Theater and the Press"; Eph Charninsky, "The Theater and Organization"; Mr. Clegg, Mutual Film Exchange manager, "Action."

George M. Blackburn, vice-president of the Texas Theater Managers' Association, presided at the conference because of the unavoidable absence of President E. H. Hulsey, who was suddenly called out of the city.

After adjournment the members went to the Fair, where they spent the remainder of the day. At night they were the guests of the local theatrical managers, who divided the delegates among themselves as individual hosts. All were admitted free to the local theaters and playhouses.

No attempt was made at reorganization of the present state body, and the officers will stand until the next convention, which will likely be held in Dallas the latter part of January.

The officers now are E. H. Hulsey, president; George M. Blackburn, vice-president and chairman executive committee; Leon S. Gohlman, recording secretary; W. D. Nevills, treasurer; David Bernbaum, sergeant-at-arms. Members executive committee: George M. Blackburn, P. G. Cameron, E. H. Hulsey, W. E. Weatherford, S. von Phul and Phil H. Greenwall.

Finance committee: S. von Phul, W. E. Weatherford and

W. D. Nevills. Executive secretary and organizer, Robert H. Campbell.

Dallas will continue to be the headquarters for the association, as it is considered the leading amusement city of Texas.

What Constitutes a Guardian?

Law Governing Admission of Minors to M. P. Theater Contested in Court of Appeals at Albany—Section of Penal Code Claimed to Be Class Legislation.

W. Stephen Bush.

A CASE of extraordinary importance to the motion picture exhibitors, both in this State and throughout the the country, will shortly be decided by the Court of Appeals at Albany. The case may be argued any day this or next week. The title of the case is as follows: The People of the State of New York, respondent, against Jacob Van Brink, Defendant-Appellant.

The appeal which brings the matter before the court of last resort in this State, comes up on a decision of the Court of Special Sessions in New York. The decision resulted in a conviction of Mr. Van Brink on the charge of having admitted a minor under sixteen years of age to the Franklin Theater, Lenox Avenue and 132nd Street. The Franklin Theater is operated by Oestreicher and Van Brink. Mr. Oestreicher is the vice president of the New York local organization and very well known in exhibiting circles.

The Facts in the Case.

On the third day of January of this year three boys entered the Franklin theater, one being admittedly under sixteen years, while the other two claimed to be over sixteen years of age. An officer in plain clothes saw the boys enter the theater, went after them and took them into custody. He also arrested Mr. Van Brink and the doorman and immediately took them to the station house. Mr. Van Brink was tried at the Special Sessions and convicted in spite of the fact that the mother of two of the boys testified that she had permitted them to go to the theater and had put them in charge of the boy whose age was admittedly over sixteen. Sentence was suspended. Mr. Van Brink immediately took an appeal to the Appellate Division of the First Department, where the conviction was affirmed unanimously, but without an opinion. The attorneys of Mr. Van Brink thereupon obtained permission to appeal to the Court of Appeals.

Points Raised in Favor of Exhibitors.

In his brief for the Court of Appeals counsel for the appellant raises some very interesting issues. He contends that the following section of the Penal Code is unconstitutional: "A person who admits or allows to remain in any moving picture performance or in any place of entertainment injurious to health and morals any child, actually or apparently under the age of sixteen years, unless accompanied by its parents or guardian, unless such moving picture exhibition is given under the auspices of any school or church or educational or religious institution not operated for profit, is guilty of a misdemeanor." Counsel claims that the provision is unconstitutional because it is class legislation. The free and equal benefit of the laws has been defined as follows:

It is intended that there should be no arbitrary deprivations of life or liberty or arbitrary spoliation of property, but that equal protection and security should be given to all under like circumstances in the enjoyment of their personal and civil rights; that all persons should be equally entitled to pursue their happiness and acquire and enjoy property; that they should have like access to the courts of the country for the protection of their persons and property; that no impediments should be interposed to the pursuits of any one, except as applied to the same pursuits by others under like circumstances; that no greater burden should be laid upon one than are laid upon others in the same calling and condition and that in the administration of criminal justice no different or higher punishment should be imposed upon one than such as is prescribed to all for like offenses." Another point made by counsel for defendant is the definition of the word guardian as applied to the section of the Penal Code. Judge Gaynor gave an interpretation of this word in the following manner:

"The word 'guardian' does not there mean a guardian appointed by the court. If children be sent or taken into the theater by a person other than one of their parents or their legal guardian—by their elder brother or sister or by a neighbor or friend for instance—he or she is their guardian for the time being within the meaning of the said statute, if not excluded in some way or for some reason by law. Courts and police officials should not strain criminal statutes or try to be better in the administration of the law than the law itself is."

Mr. Oestreicher says that the decision of the Court of Appeals if favorable to the contention of the appellant, will affect every motion picture theater in the State and render it safe from arbitrary meddling by the authorities.

Counsel for Mr. Van Brink are Goldstein and Goldstein.

TROY EXHIBITORS FIGHT RETURN CHARGES.

At a meeting of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Troy and vicinity, held on the night of the 2nd of November, at the League headquarters, 24 King Street, it was decided unanimously that the Troy exhibitors will absolutely refuse to pay express return charges on any films. Rather than do that the members of the League declared they will cancel all contracts with exchanges that insist upon return charges. In a letter to the State Secretary, Thomas Howard, it is stated by the Troy secretary, Benjamin Apple, that at present the minimum charges of admission to any motion picture theater in Troy or vicinity is 10 cents.

INVESTIGATING CHARGES AGAINST OCHS.

The Manhattan Local of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League is reported to have considered the charges made by Fleischman & Goldreyer against Lee A. Ochs, president of the National and State League, which were published in a recent issue of Variety, to be of sufficient gravity to require an investigation. The committee appointed at a meeting of the Manhattan Local on Wednesday, November 1, consists of the following members: Messrs. Ronheimer, Ascher, Ostreicher, Steuer, Needles, Anson, Samuelson, Glynn and Trigger.

PRESIDENT OCHS TO ADDRESS MARYLAND EXHIBITORS.

Within the next two weeks a special meeting of the Maryland exhibitors is to be held at Baltimore in the Emerson Hotel when matters of considerable importance will be discussed. President Ochs has been invited to attend and will address the meeting on the importance of speedy and thorough state organization.

Smart Returns from Vacation

WILLIAM G. SMART, the technical expert who lately severed his connections with the Biograph Company, has just returned from his vacation. Mr. Smart looks fit, and announces he is ready to plunge back to work. This has been Mr. Smart's first vacation in nine years, for the life of a technical director has never been likened to a bed of roses. In Mr. Smart's case it has meant one hard work day after another ever since he first co-operated with D. W. Griffith on the many Biograph subjects produced by that genius. Among these was the wonderful masterpiece "Judith of Bethula," which owed not a little of its success to Mr. Smart's settings.

William G. Smart.

Among other prominent Biograph directors besides Griffith with whom Mr. Smart "worked" were James Kirkwood, W. Christie Cabanne, Frank Powell, Mack Sennett, Eddie Dillon, Lawrence Marston, Barry O'Neill, and many others. In fact, while the Klaw & Erlanger subjects were being produced he assisted nine directors at one time.

What Mr. Smart's plans are for the future is not known, although it is not very likely that the motion picture industry will lose the orginator of attractive stage settings.

Crosses Water for "Civilization"

William J. Hanley and J. Parker Read, Jr., to Negotiate Rights in England, France and Spain.

WILLIAM J. HANLEY, well known in the theatrical and motion picture business of Europe and America for the past twenty years, will sail for Spain on November 6 as a special representative of "Civilization." Mr. Hanley will stop at Barcelona and Madrid for the purpose of disposing of the rights to "Civilization" in Spain and Portugal.

From Madrid, Mr. Hanley will go direct to Paris, where he will arrange a special showing for the many Paris buyers who have flooded the New York office with inquiries for the rights to France. Then he will go to London and meet J. Parker Read, Jr., general manager of the Harper Film Corporation, who will make a flying trip to London to negotiate the British rights.

A social affair has been arranged by Mr. Read. Mr. Hanley is to give a private exhibition of "Civilization" for the Infanta Isabella at her palace in Madrid. Infanta Isabella is the aunt of Alfonzo, King of Spain.

Selling South American Rights.

J. Parker Read, Sr., who left New York some thirty days ago to represent "Civilization" in Buenos Ayres, cabled within forty eight hours after landing that he had sold the rights to Brazil and Uruguay. He reported that bidding was spirited and in consequence he was able to establish another record.

J. C. Searcy, film magnate of the Republic of Panama, made a special trip to New York to purchase the rights of "Civilization" for Panama, Costa Rica, and Jamaica. Immediately after the deal was closed, Mr. Searcy embarked for his home port with five prints in his possession.

J. Parker Read, Jr., general manager of the Harper Film Corporation, has just selected three special representatives who will shortly leave for Cuba, Porto Rico, China, Japan, the Philippine Islands and India to close negotiations that have been pending for the rights to "Civilization" in these different countries.

The efficiency with which the sales campaign for "Civilization" has been handled establishes a record.

Says Business is Picking Up

Mutual Sales Manager Bennett So Concludes After Extended Trip—Some Office Changes.

"I BELIEVE the film business of the South and East is in the healthiest condition that I have seen in the last two years," remarked Hunter Bennett, sales manager for the Mutual Film Corporation, as he breezed back into the Chicago home office to report to President John R. Freuler of the Mutual last week.

"Exhibitors are building their business more solidly. They are finding the public critical but ready to recognize and to patronize good pictures. The really capable, hard working exhibitors are forging ahead more rapidly today than ever before, I believe. The reward of merit is now coming to quality pictures and quality presentation. Certainly this makes for Mutual prosperity."

In Atlanta, Georgia, Mr. Bennett conferred with Charles E. Kessnich, exchange manager, in planning a number of important changes in operation to better service to the exhibitors of that territory.

At Philadelphia W. H. Rippard of the Wilkes-Barre, Pennsylvania Branch and C. K. Campbell, of the Harrisburg office, met with the sales manager.

A number of minor changes and reassignments have been made in the sales forces. Murry Beier of the New York branch has been transferred to Philadelphia temporarily. The Cincinnati offices will be moved into their new two-story building at 112 North Seventh street on January 1. The building has floor space of 8,000 square feet, a projection room and splendid equipment.

Mr. Bennett announces some changes in the Mutual's sales force, which numbers over 100 men, which have taken effect the past few weeks.

John Hardin has been sent from Chicago to sell pictures for the Mutual at Atlanta. George F. Law, an experienced film man from Winnipeg, Canada, has been made assistant manager of the Minneapolis branch, while R. C. Fox has been added to the sales force of that city.

A. R. Patten, salesman, has been transferred from Spokane to Los Angeles; Louis Baxley and J. W. Potter have been added to the Dallas, Texas, list of salesmen, and J. W. Critchfield has been changed from head booker to salesman at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

At the Leading Picture Theaters

Programs for the Week of November 5 at New York's Best Motion Picture Houses.

Mary Pickford at the Strand.

THE Strand theater presented Mary Pickford's first independent photo-dramatic production, "Less Than the Dust," for the week of Nov. 5. "Less Than the Dust" is an elaborate production. Its scenes are laid in India and England. Miss Pickford playing the part of a castaway, a girl of English birth who having been adopted by a Hindu swordmaker, is reared among the natives of the lower caste. Its story is full of realism and dramatic strength, with an appealing love story in which the girl and an English officer are the central figures. Miss Pickford and a company of unusual size appear in the various picturesque scenes.

Another chapter of Ditmar's "Living Book of Nature," a zoological feature of rare interest, was shown, and a new scenic study from India.

On the musical program Grace Hoffman and Jan Rubini were the soloists.

Douglas Fairbanks at the Rialto.

Douglas Fairbanks in his latest and liveliest feature picture, "American Aristocracy," was presented at the Rialto. Yachts, power boats, hydroaeroplanes, and even a government torpedo boat destroyer were among the requisites in turning out the picture. Anita Loos, who wrote the scenario for the Triangle Film Corporation, provides the agile Fairbanks with a full complement of thrilling feats to accomplish, and at the same time gives Jewel Carmen a fascinating role as the girl for whom Fairbanks repeatedly risks his neck. Fairbanks plays a young millionaire who has entered the United States secret service for the fun of it, and the excitement of the story is found in his uncovering a plot to make illegal shipments of munitions to Mexico.

The usual educational and topical numbers and a Keystone comedy were on the program. Hans Kronold and Hilda Goodwin furnished the musical features.

"Less Than the Dust" at the Broadway.

Mary Pickford in "Less Than the Dust," was the attraction at the Broadway theater the week of Nov. 6. This photoplay, written especially for Miss Pickford by Hector Turnbull, is the first production in which the star appeared under her own management. The East India environment of "Less Than the Dust" is interesting and picturesque. One of the scenes shows a street in an Indian city, with all the color and ever changing views of an Eastern thoroughfare. Other scenes are the British garrison, the great stone temple and the pool of the sacred waters. An effective picture is made of a storm in the desert. The big scenes during the uprising of the natives and their repulse by the troops are most effectively worked out. "Less Than the Dust" was the only picture on the Broadway program.

Eighty-First Street Theater Bill.

At the Eighty-first Street theater, four Triangle pictures were shown. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday Dorothy Gish in "Atta Boy's Last Race," and a Keystone comedy were on the bill. Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday, Bessie Barriscale and Charles Ray in "A Corner in Colleens" and a Sennett-Keystone comedy comprised the picture features.

Durant to Write for Kay-Bee

Scenario Editor with Wide Success in Authorship Will Have His Office in New York.

H. R. DURANT, who for a year directed the scenario department of the Famous Players Company, has recently been placed under contract by Thomas H. Ince and will in future provide material exclusively for Triangle-Kay-Bee stars. Mr. Durant will not, however, join the colony of Triangle editors and authors on the Coast. His headquarters will be in the Longacre Building, New York.

Mr. Durant comes under the Triangle banner with a record of striking achievements. Previous to his connection with the Famous Players he was for five years editor of the All-Story Magazine. He has had five productions on the legitimate stage, is the author of over two hundred short stories and novels, and has written more than sixty features for the Biograph, Equitable, World, Universal, Famous Players and Triangle-Fine Arts. In addition, Mr. Durant was for a number of years play reader for A. H. Woods, picking some of the biggest winners that astute manager has produced. He is the only modern American author to have a play accepted by the Theatre Antoine, of Paris.

His wide personal acquaintance among authors will undoubtedly aid him materially in selecting new material for the Triangle program.

France Increases Film Imports

Gets More Productions from United States and Italy to Replenish Home Supply Cut by War—Growing Demand for American Pictures.

IN "Commerce Reports," U. S. Vice Consul Paul H. Cram, Marseilles, France, says that Marseilles has about fifty motion picture theaters, most of which are small. The larger establishments have seating capacities of 800 to 1,100 persons each. The entrance fees in equivalent American currency vary from 2.8 cents to 23 cents, the average being about 5.7 cents. The present volume of business is as large, if not larger, than that of 1912 and 1913.

The trade in motion picture machines and supplies is largely in the hands of large Paris firms, which have established agencies throughout the provinces. Producers frequently exhibit their films in the Paris offices, which purchase, usually on a cash basis, the greater part of the production. These films are then exhibited to representatives of the theaters. In this city the larger establishments, which usually change their programs weekly, rent films which have not been locally exhibited. The price per meter (3.28 feet) for such films may vary from 0.2 franc ($0.038) to 2 francs ($0.386) per week, the average being about 0.4 franc ($0.077). These films are then rented to small theaters, which generally change their programs twice a week. In such cases, the price per meter (3.28 feet) for three or four days' exhibition varies from 0.05 franc ($0.0096) to 0.08 franc ($0.0154).

Prior to the war the weekly production in France of new films was estimated at 25,000 meters (82,020 feet) to 30,000 meters (98,425 feet), while at present probably it does not exceed one-third of that amount. In consequence French firms are importing films in larger quantities, particularly from Italy and the United States. There is a large and growing demand for American films in comic, sentimental, and detective subjects. Those representing cowboy or frontier life are less popular than formerly.

Two firms in Paris manufacture the greater proportion of the French motion picture machines and supplies sold in this region. Shortly after the commencement of the war prices rose 25 per cent., and at present they are at least 40 per cent. above the prices ruling early in 1914.

American firms should either send a competent agent to Paris, with power to appoint subagents in the provinces, or grant concessionary rights to large French concerns. The latter method has already been used with considerable success in exploiting American films. If it is a question of selling not only American films but also machines and supplies, together with the purchase of French films, the former method, perhaps, would be preferable. Films should be packed in tin boxes. Explanatory texts should be in French. The French customs duties on machines and films are as follows, per 100 kilos (220 pounds) net weight. On exposed films the general tariff is 165 francs ($31.84) while the minimum tariff is 110 francs ($21.23). On raw stock there is a general tariff of 300 francs ($57.90) and a minimum tariff of 200 francs ($38.60). Projection machines are subject to a general tariff of 150 francs ($28.95) and a minimum tariff of 100 francs ($19.30). American productions and projections are subject to the general tariff.

SECOND ANNIVERSARY OF THE OLIVER MOROSCO PHOTOPLAY COMPANY.

November 9 marks the second anniversary of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company. From its inception in the motion picture industry this company took its place in the first rank of feature producers and has continued on its steady course, always striving to better its high standard of product which it established from the beginning. To what extent its efforts in this direction have succeeded is evidenced by the fact that today the name of Morosco in motion pictures holds the same prominent position for quality and progressiveness as it does in the theatrical world.

Among the most prominent stars who have been presented on the screen by the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company are Anna Held, Lenore Ulrich, George Beban, Kathlyn Williams, Myrtle Stedman, Fritzi Scheff, Rita Jolivet, Vivian Martin, Constance Collier, Lois Meredith, Elsie Janis, George Fawcett, Cyril Maude, Blanche Ring, Charlotte Greenwood and Sydney Grant and others of equal fame. Among its releases are included such well known successes as "Pasquale," "The Heart of Paula," "Peer Gynt," "Kilmeny," "Help Wanted," "The Tongues of Men" and "The Code of Marcia Gray." As a result of such plays on the screen the paraphrase, "A typical Morosco cast," achieved in the "legit" has also become current in speaking of Morosco photoplays.

The selection of Cecil B. De Mille to the presidency of the Oliver Morosco Photoplay Company, as announced recently, speaks well for the further advancement of this brand of screen plays as well as the industry in general.

Spedon Returns to New York

Reports Gratifying Success with "President and His Cabinet" Picture in Middle West.

SAMUEL SPEDON, after a month in the states of Illinois, Ohio and Indiana exploiting "President Wilson and His Cabinet," returned to New York the last week in October. He reports a most successful trip. The thousand feet of film, the product of the Macaulay laboratories, was everywhere received with enthusiasm. Mr. Spedon remarked had it not been shown in the heat of a campaign it would have been accepted as a most interesting educational picture. Prior to the departure for home of the publicity man, on October 28, the subject had been shown in 200 theaters in Illinois, in over 100 in Cleveland and the remainder of the state of Ohio, and there had been 150 applications from Indiana. The prints available were insufficient to fill the demand. In New York City over 500 showings of the print were made.

Mr. Spedon said that on his arrival in Chicago he was particularly fortunate in being able to meet 200 exhibitors assembled in convention and a few days later to meet up with another exhibitors' gathering in Cleveland. He added that owing to the fact he had been obliged to establish exchange headquarters in each state he felt as if he were in a fair way to add to his knowledge of the film industry some of the experience of an exchangeman.

In Indianapolis Mr. Spedon rented a store in Washington, between Illinois and Pennsylvania streets. The whole space, 50 by 180, was fitted up for showing the Cabinet picture and another single reel, "Peace, Prosperity and Preparedness," one more frankly partisan. The two, constituting a half-hour show, were exhibited to the public without charge from 11 in the morning to the same hour in the evening. The attendance was most gratifying.

Mr. Spedon said the wide interest in the Cabinet picture had been a source of keen satisfaction to the officials of the Democratic National Committee. It had demonstrated to them that national matters can be presented to the people at large through the medium of motion pictures, that questions of taxation, of army and navy expendiures, for example, can be so visualized on the screen that the public can be not only deeply interested but instructed as well.

WARWICK WILL HAVE HIS OWN COMPANY.

Well-known Player's Subjects to Be Directed by Ralph Ince and to Be Released in Selznick-Pictures.

THROUGH a transaction between Lewis J. Selznick and Harry Rapf, president of the Robert Warwick Film Corporation, Robert Warwick has been added to the roster of Selznick players. The late World Film actor will be the first male star on the new program. He will appear in about eight features a year. Two well-known novels are under consideration for the first subject in which he will be seen.

Ralph Ince, who recently left the Vitagraph Company to produce pictures at the head of his own corporation, has made special arrangements with Mr. Selznick and Mr. Rapf to direct the first of the new Warwick features. Work will begin immediately at the Biograph Studio, which has been taken over by the Selznick Enterprises.

R. K. BARTLETT OPENS NEW YORK OFFICES.

After two and a half years at the head of the Stanley Film Agency, with headquarters at Stanley House, 8-9 Sherwood street, Piccadilly Circus, London West, R. K. Bartlett has temporarily discontinued his business in the British capital and opened an office in New York. Here he will until further notice exploit the war subject, "Fighting for Verdun," for which Mr. Bartlett is now selling state rights, and also represent Western concerns. The English film man says the tax on film imposed as a war measure has probably reduced the importation of American subjects into Great Britain by fully 50 per cent. Mr. Bartlett's office is in Room 915, Brokaw Building, Forty-second street and Broadway.

HER DAY OF REST.

They had a Mabel Normand Day at the San Diego exposition, this week. Mabel went to the show, made two speeches, wrote 2,873 autographs, posed with the mayor for a news reel, had a flashlight taken at a banquet, and otherwise enjoyed a pleasant day's rest from studio work.

Australian Notes

A NEW exchange has been opened in Sydney by Crick & Jones. They are securing Australian rights for five-reel features, and current releases are "Tom Browne's Schooldays," from the Hepworth studios, and also a Barker subject, "Trapped by the London Sharks."

* * *

The first four-reel picture ever produced in Australia was made by John F. Gavin, who also played the leading part in the production. The film, which was entitled "Thunderbolt," was a bush-ranging story. The average length of a dramatic film was from 800 to 900 feet, while a comedy was considered of unusual size if the end was not reached in 200 feet.

Everyone informed him that his venture was doomed to failure, but Mr. Gavin persisted that long features were what the people wanted, and the result of his persistance was "Thunderbolt." This film was a success from the moment it was screened, and, seeing that feature films were destined to be the great draw at picture theaters, and encouraged by his initial success, Gavin went whole-heartedly into the business and in six months produced six more features which were equally successful. These were "Keane of Kalgoorlie," "Assigned to His Wife," "The White Hope," "The Mark of the Lash" and "Frank Gardiner, King of the Road."

Owing to the business of producing and renting the pictures to the exhibitors becoming too big for one person to look after, Mr. Gavin decided to form the concern into a company, and the result was the Australian Photoplay Company. However, Gavin sold out his interests some time later. He has since produced "The Martyrdom of Nurse Cavell," which has broken all Australasian records, and is now showing with great success in America and Canada. Gavin is at present busy on a new production, "The Birth of Australia," which he says will outshine anything he has previously attempted.

* * *

Some of the programs at present being presented in Melbourne and suburbs are, to say the least, startling. Unless an exhibitor can show at least two five-reel features each evening and support them with a few single-reel comedy and dramatic subjects he is not given even the right to live. For instance, the Palais de Danse, St. Kilda, screened the following about a fortnight ago on one program: Marguerite Clark in "The Prince and the Pauper," Mary Pickford in "Esmeralda," Charles Chaplin in "The Floorwalker," Roscoe Arbuckle and Mabel Normand in "He Did and He Didn't," and Lottie Pickford in a two-reel episode from "The Diamond from the Sky."

American showmen who think they give long programs wouldn't have a chance in Melbourne, I am afraid. In Sydney at present two houses are presenting a 12,000-foot program each evening, but a much shorter program is shown continuously during the day. Two five-reelers and a comedy is also getting into vogue for suburban shows.

* * *

"New York by Day and Night," Post Mason's travel picture, has had a week's run at the Crystal Palace, and proved a great box office attraction. It is undoubtedly one of the finest production of its kind shown here.

* * *

A new photoplay theater is shortly to be constructed in Sydney on very elaborate lines. It is understood that the Fraser Films, Ltd., are behind the venture. This firm at present controls the Haymarket theater, the biggest show in Sydney.

* * *

The New York theater, a comparatively new building, is to be demolished shortly, to make room for a station of the new underground railroad, now being constructed. This is the second theater to suffer under this scheme.

* * *

"The Birth of a Nation" Queensland tour has been given up, owing, it is understood, to bad business. When the big picture was first screened in Sydney the management advertised that it would not be shown at suburban theaters. In spite of this, it is now being screened to big audiences throughout the suburbs and is doing record business.

* * *

If conscription is carried by the referendum on October 28, all single men between the ages of 21 and 35 will be called up soon after. This will affect the film trade here to a great extent, much the same as it has done in England.

* * *

Alfred Rolfe has severed his connection with Australasian Films, Ltd., after a long period of service. He has just completed a big industrial subject for this firm dealing with practically every Australasian industry of note. Mr. Rolfe has not yet announced any future plans.

* * *

Australasian Films, Ltd., have decided not to produce any dramatic films for the present, and are confining their efforts to the production of the weekly-news-reel, "The Australian Gazette."

* * *

In connection with the Commonwealth Soldiers Repatriation Fund, the Premier of Western Australia proposes to raise that state's proportion to £16,000 by means of an amusement tax.

The form that this will take has not yet been stated.

* * *

Australasian Films, Ltd., held a revival last week of Mary Pickford's "Tess of the Storm Country," with great success. This was the picture which made "Little Mary" so popular here, and it was when originally shown here that the money was subscribed for the silver loving cup presented to Miss Pickford by the picture fans of Sydney. T. S. IMRIE.

Sydney, N. S. W., Australia, Sept. 21, 1916.

"Civilization" Sold for Metropolis

Nathan Hirsh, the Buyer, Pays Record Price—To Use Ten Prints.

GRADUALLY the territory for "Civilization" is being disposed of. Greater New York has been acquired by Nathan Hirsh of 130 West Firty-sixth street, New York, who has formed the Civilization Feature Company, for the purpose of exploiting the picture in the territory of greater New York, all of Long Island and the upper section of Westchester County, as far as White Plains.

This is a big and lucrative field—one of the richest in the country for picture exploitation. The price paid for the rights approached "six figures," but the exact amount will not be divulged.

It is the intention of Mr. Hirsh to exploit "Civilization" first in the larger motion picture theaters, in one and two week stands, and then in houses of smaller seating capacity. This will be the first time that a photoplay of the importance and reputation of "Civilization" has been given to exhibitors with 600-seat houses, and by which the exhibitor may obtain the full benefit of the feature on a straight rental.

Ten print sof "Civilization" go with the Greater New York rights, and more will be released if necessary. Nathan Hirsh is well known to exhibitors as president of the Pioneer Feature Film Corporation.

DIRECTOR GREEN MAKING SELIG RED SEAL.

Al Green, the Selig director, is busily engaged in preparing for the production of the Selig Red Seal play, "The Princess of Patches," visualized from the play of the same name by Gilson Willets. Mr. Green was summoned from the Pacific Coast studios by Mr. Selig especially to work on this production. He will be furnished with an all-star cast. Some of the interior scenes, which will be most elaborate, will be taken in the Chicago studios. Others will be taken in Mississippi and the Southern mountainous country, the players being sent South to film scenes in the environment called for in the story. Mr. Selig will provide Mr. Green with every facility possible.

NEW PICTURE PAPER FOR "FANS."

Volume 1, No. 1, of the Photoplay Magazine of Johnstown, Pa., has just been received in the office of the Moving Picture World. The new publication is not a trade paper, but hopes to interest the rapidly growing motion picture public in its home city, which already has four or five photoplay theaters very much above the average in their general tone.

Byron Dean Bailey, son of the late E. H. Bailey, joint owner, with Congressman Warren Worth Bailey, of the Johnstown Democrat, a daily newspaper, is editor of the new publication. Byron Dean Bailey was for a time in the employ of the Equitable Motion Pictures Corporation, working out of their New York office.

Reviews of Current Productions

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

"The World and the Woman"

Five-Part Pathe Gold Rooster Play Presents Jeanne Eagels In Original Story by Philip Lonergan.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

IN the construction of his story Philip Lonergan has used as his basic idea the difficult part of the young woman alone in the city. While he does not impose the harrowing story of her downfall, he shows us in a series of effective scenes what is evidently the second stage of her career in an unwholesome atmosphere, where a friend of the man who caused her to be an outcast, a man of wealth, and a lover of wine and women, offers her what seems to be an avenue of escape.

The necessity of a competent maid at his country home brings the woman in touch with nature and the people who live close to it. The arrival of the proprietor with a bevy of his butterfly associates advances a situation in which the pretty maid again falls into the clutches of a licentious man. After a struggle, which ends in the man having his face soundly slapped while his friends look on and jeer, the woman rushes out into the world again, and eventually becomes a faith healer.

The wisdom of this latter development may be questioned. Miss Eagels with sufficient spirituality of expression to suggest the manifestation of divine influence, has not the forcefulness of personality which seems to be required for the successful impersonation of such a character. It is exceedingly difficult to make a story of this sort convincing.

The picture, which was made at the Thanhouser studios, has been supplied with pleasing settings, many beautiful out-of-door locations being used. Special mention is due the restaurant sets, with glimpses of carbaret performances, which have been used early in the production.

Scene from "The World and the Woman" (Pathe).

In the supporting cast appear the names of Boyd Marshall, Thomas A. Curran, Wayne Arey, Grace De Carlton, Carey Hastings and Ethelmary Oakland.

"Seventeen"

Booth Tarkington's Celebrated Novel Meets With Excellent Treatment in Adaptation by Famous Players Film Co.

Reviewed by Margaret I. MacDonald.

THERE are at least three people beside Booth Tarkington who have done much toward making this production a success. These are Harvey Thew, whose exceedingly clever adaptation of the novel has been used; Robert G. Vignola, director, who has lost no trick in exploiting the comedy possibilities of the story, and Jack Pickford, whose impersonation of the young hopeful of seventeen is inimitable. Louise Huff in the feminine lead is also pleasing; prettily dressed and dainty. She makes the most of her opportunities, which are of course fewer than those of what may be termed the title role.

Tarkington's story is brimming over with wholesome humor. The picture which he presents of the character of the boy of seventeen with his impossible ideas of life, and his unphilosophic treatment of the stumbling blocks which are bound to come the way of the unsophisticated boy, is so remarkably true that it must be enjoyed by all. William Sylvanus Baxter, for such is the name the novelist has applied to his youthful hero, has reached the age where he scowls on all womankind, from his meddlesome little sister on. This condition of affairs continues until the arrival on the scene of a trifling young miss who steals his heart away and causes him to be attacked by day dreams in which he himself poses as the redoubtable hero. The most amusing incidents which take place before his disillusionment are the wearing of his father's dress suit on the wrong occasion, his decision that he has arrived at the shaving period, and his negotiation for a thousand-dollar automobile in which to elope with the pretty newcomer. And no less amusing is his suicidal attitude when on his trial trip with the machine he smashes a wheel, and for his pains faces a fifty-dollar damage fee or jail.

The production is an excellent one, and may be classed as one of the most enjoyable film comedies of the season. An excellent supporting cast consisting of Winifred Allen, Madge Evans, Walter Hiers, Dick Lee, Richard Rosson, Julian Dillon, Helen Lindroth, and Anthony Merlo appear in the picture.

Scene from "Seventeen" (Famous Players).

"The Gates of Eden"

A Metro Feature in Which Violet Dana Takes the Leading Part.

Reviewed by W. Stephen Bush.

THIS story deals with the supposed fanatical zeal of the sect known as The Shakers. According to the director of the story, this sect punishes any member sinning against its creed of celibacy by whipping, and on this theory rests the whole plot.

A young Shaker falls in love with a young Shakeress and is cruelly punished for the consequent intimacy between himself and the girl. He is tied to a tree and his body is bared to the waist to receive a brutal whipping. The young Shaker, who is exiled from his sect after receiving this punishment, returns after five years to marry the girl. He learns that the girl is dead. The Elder conceals the fact that a child had been born to him. The Shaker thereupon becomes "a man of hate," as we are informed in one of the titles. He is thirsting for revenge, and in some way secures a mortgage on the Shakers' property. The mortgage becomes due, and as the Shakers cannot pay it foreclosure proceedings follow in the regular course of law, and the whole community of Shakers is driven forth from their home.

"The man of hate," who, appropriately enough, has changed his name from Bard to Drab, uses a whip to exact a blow for a blow. He has his revenge. At the last moment he discovers that his daughter lives and for her sake he forgives the men who had wronged him and the ending is as happy as could be expected after such a prolonged symphony in gray.

The acting of Violet Dana is entitled to much praise; she had a most difficult task and performed it well. This young woman has evident talents and is manifestly capable of much better work than she is able to show in this feature. Her support was fair. There were many subtle touches of symbolism in the play, and some of the scenes were affecting. Settings and photography are most satisfactory. The atmosphere of the play was one of sustained gloom.

Scene from "The Gates of Eden" (Metro).

"Less Than the Dust"

Artcraft Makes Its Debut with a Pickford Production, One That Furnishes Excellent Dramatic Entertainment.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

ARTCRAFT'S bow to the photoplay public is a most happy one. It provides in the first place an excellent story; in the second place it brings back to the screen Mary Pickford, now for several months among the absentees. "Less Than the Dust" is the title of the subject, and at the invitation showing at the Broadway theater on Thursday, November 2, the picture ran approximately two hours—an indication that if the picture is in seven reels it is in seven "strong" reels. The story is "very much Pickford," but by no manner of means is it "too much Pickford." The popular player dominates the production, but she has fine support—from every department that enters into the making of a picture.

Hector Turnbull has written a script that under the interpretation and execution of Director John Emerson entertains for the initial two thirds; the final third constitutes "Less Than the Dust" a fine picture. There is a blending of drama and comedy, of situations tender and humorous. Miss Pickford has entered into her work with enthusiasm. You are made to feel her heart is in it. Many occasions are furnished by the script for the display of the varied Pickford individual touches. That these latter exist would seem fully to be attested by the sustained popularity of the player.

David Powell, as Captain Townsend, the British army officer on duty in India and interested in little Rahda, gives a performance that is a distinct factor in itself. His work stamps hime as an actor of the first rank. Others who figure prominently are Mario Majeroni, as the swordmaker, protector of Rahda; Francis Joyner, as a derelict; Cesare Gravina, as Jawan the patriot; and Russell Bassett, as Ahmed.

Scene from "Less Than the Dust" (Artcraft).

"Less Than the Dust" is adequately staged. The East Indian atmosphere is amply established; large numbers are employed in the "mob" scenes of soldiers and natives. The picture will qualify as a big one, one worthy of the claims that have been made for it, and of the star and her new company.

"The Price of Fame"

Vitagraph Five-Part Drama Features Marc MacDermott in a Dual Role, With Naomi Childers Opposite.

Reviewed by George Blaisdell.

THE Vitagraph will release on November 13 "The Price of Fame," a five-part drama featuring Marc MacDermott in a dual role. The script is by Franklin P. Coates, the direction by Charles Brabin. The story is of twin brothers—William, successful but inclined to be unscrupulous; John, not sucessful, but possessing a full share of integrity. In ability the two seem to be well matched. William is in love with Constance Preston, who does not appear particularly enthusiastic when in his company. When William is taken ill in the middle of his campaign for the Senate, it is deemed politically expedient to induce John to take the stump in his place. Likewise John, who for some years hitherto had been estranged from William, is in order to conceal the incapacity of William asked to call upon Constance. He does so against his wishes. The manner of indifference changes. Constance becomes the lover. On the death of William she reveals the fact that she has never been deceived for a moment.

Mr. MacDermott plays the two roles with his usual notable skill and judgment. Naomi Childers, as Constance, finely draws the role of the woman who as between two men of similar outward characteristics finds in one nothing much, and in the other the strongest possible attraction. One who has not for some time seen Miss Childers on the screen cannot escape the feeling that she has improved greatly in her work. She has cast aside the frigidity, the absence of animation. In "The Price of Fame" she is a real woman, an attractive one, a magnetic one. The transformation is marked.

Scene from "The Price of Fame" (Vitagraph).

Mary Maurice again is "Mother" Maurice—one of the sweetest, most lovable players on the screen. L. Rogers Lytton is the "boss," the politician-capitalist who controls men and things. It is a strong quartet, and they make the most of a story that is entertaining, and at times dramatic. As to the latter, this is especially true of the denouement, where Constance declares to John that from the first she was aware of his identity.

"Love and Hate"

A Five-Reel Melodrama by Fox, With Bertha Kalich in the Leading Role.

Reviewed by Hanford C. Judson.

IT will be hard to tell any exhibitor just how much box office value there is in this picture, "Love and Hate," by the Fox company. Bertha Kalich has the lead in it and she and her acting are worth something to begin with. As for the story, by itself, it might be pleasing to a good many. I have seen the same kind go remarkably well in a country theater. But if we consider it for its art, it will weigh very light. It is one of those melodramas in which one almost hears the producer saying: "It doesn't matter at all how this story is going to be arrived at; but we're going to arrive at it." This makes it very painful for one who has to watch it getting under way, yet even the critic is interested toward the end.

Melodramas generally harp on one of two motives. The first is romantic love and the other is not love at all, but is called love in the sub-titles—it is the love of the villain who gets the heroine in his power through some one she loves—in this case it is her child, and makes her consent to "marry" him. Bertha Kalich here plays a heroine who consents; but when she has taken off her hat and gone into the back room, she finds a revolver there and when the man (Stewart Holmes) comes leering in, she shoots him dead. He falls with his face beside a devil's head carved on the leg of a table. This kind of stuff is bound to get over when a Bertha Kalich plays it. There is a part in most spectators that likes it, and there is a part that feels a little disgusted at it, and it depends on whether or not the first part is dominant as to whether or not he will go to see another picture that he expects will be like it. The putting of this situation into a picture for its own sake and the making of it the chief thing in a picture, is done for a commercial reason, and one might almost add that it shows a belief that the lower part of the average spectator is the part that's dominant in him.

The hero in this picture is a weakly-played role. The other two characters, viz., the villain and villainess, are ably portrayed.

"A Stranger from Somewhere"

Five-Reel Bluebird Photoplay With Franklin Farnum in a Dual Role—Released November 13.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE new Bluebird five-reel picture, "A Stranger from Somewhere," demands considerable credulity on the part of the spectator. This criticism applies to all plots containing dual roles, however, and, as they have been accepted in all classes of fiction, it is quite within reason that the latest Bluebird release will experience no difficulty in convincing its public that a pickpocket is able to disguise himself so successfully as the hero, that the hero's sweetheart cannot tell them apart. Once safely past this important point, the story lends itself to a number of interesting complications during which Franklyn Farnum does some ingenious doubling. The picture is on the comedy-drama order, and its only mission is to entertain.

The hero of "A Stranger from Somewhere" is one Sam Brockton, a millionaire from the West, who falls for the badger game while on a trip to the city, but turns the tables on the two crooks by handing them a fake roll of bills. The two adventurers have learned that Sam has fallen in love with a beautiful young girl, the daughter of a man of wealth named Darling. The family are spending the summer in the mountains, and the crooks have made the Darling town house the scene of their badger operations.

Knowing that Miss Darling has given Brockton an invitation to call upon her at the summer resort, the swindlers see a way to add to their bank account. A pickpocket known as "Dippy" Lewis is a friend of theirs. He bears a remarkable resemblance to Brockton, so he is given a suit of clothes like Scene from "A Stranger from Somewhere" (Bluebird).

Sam's and sent to the mountains to make love to Sam's charmer. Miss Darling accepts "Dippy" as the real Brockton, but the pickpocket upsets the boat by relieving a number of the guests of their valuables, and then being obliged to flee. Another scheme of the crooks goes wrong. They have planned to have their gang seize Brockton and confine him in a cellar, but "Dippy" turns up at the wrong time and is mistaken for Sam. The Westerner goes to the mountains and meets with a cool reception, "Dippy's" behavior not having been an aid to his double's love affair. The closing scene takes place in the town house of the Darlings, and Sam is able to give Miss Darling a satisfactory explanation, after a lively fight with the whole band of crooks.

The production is excellent as to locations. Franklyn Farnum makes the millionaire a likable chap, and plays the pickpocket skilfully. Agnes Vernon, Helen Wright, Claire MacDowell, Arthur Hoyt, and Barney Furey comprise the rest of the cast. The picture was directed by Wm. Worthington from a scenario written by Willie Wood.

Two Kalems

"The Witch of the Dark House," an Episode of "The Girl from Frisco" Series, and "The Lone Point Mystery," a "Hazard of Helen."

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

"The Witch of the Dark House."

IN the fourteenth two-reel episode of Robert Welles Ritchie's, "The Girl From 'Frisco" series, titled "The Witch of the Dark House," a counterfeiter's den in a lonely house is the ultimate point to which Barbara Brent's curiousity and adventurous spirit lead. But before the climax, in which the couterfeiting gang is brought to book, and the mystery of the "haunted" house is unraveled, there take place during the action of the story many exciting and tense occurrences. This chapter is fully up to the standard set in preceding episodes. Some daredevil horseback riding is done by Hart Hoxie in this number, and further thrills are furnished by Marin Sais, who plays the part of Barbara Brent.

Scene from "The Witch of Dark House" (Kalem).

The element of mystery is not so well sustained in this release as in many preceding ones, but interest is not allowed to lag in the slightest. The plot concerns a counterfeiting gang who operate in the cellar of a house occupied by a "witch." A secret service man is shot, and when his injury brings him to a ranch house, Barbara takes up the scent. It is she who is instrumental in their capture.

In the cast are Marin Sais, True Boardman, Frank Jonasson, Ronald Bradbury, Hart Hoxie, and Edward Clisbee. Directed by James W. Horne.

"The Lone Point Mystery."

There are quite a number of sensational and daring feats performed by Helen Gibson in "The Lone Point Mystery," an episode of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series. She is bound to the track in the path of an oncoming freight train, but manages to squeeze her body between the ties in such a manner that the locomotive does not touch her. The train cuts the rope and Helen grabs the brake beam of one of the cars, is dragged along for a ways, but manages to get the engineer to stop the train. Then the locomotive, with Helen on the pilot, pursues an automobile. Helen makes a flying leap from the locomotive pilot into the tonneau of the automobile. She captures the man who falsely tried to collect life insurance. The reel is exciting, and the manner in which the scenes showing Helen under the cars were photographed is to be commended. The cast includes Helen Gibson, George Routh, G. A. Williams, and P. S. Pembroke. Directed by Walter Morton.

On the International Program

"The Jockey of Death," Five-Reel Melodrama Made by the Milano Film Company, and "The Ringer," Thirteenth Episode of the "Beatrice Fairfax" Series.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

"The Jockey of Death."

THE five-reel melodrama made in Italy by the Milano Film Company, which is now on the International program, and which bears the sensational title of "The Jockey of Death," lives up to the expectations aroused by so promising a name—if, as Abraham Lincoln once remarked, you like this sort of thing. It belongs to the order of drama that once flourished in the popular price theaters of this country, and whose watchword was "Thrills—and plenty of 'em." The picture is a story of circus life, and a number of the standard acts in that branch of amusements are utilized during the action which makes up in vigor what it lacks in probability. The production by the Italian Company is often crude, some times amusingly so. The leading characters are supposed to be English, but the Italian company doesn't make them very convincing, many of the members overacting with that delight in their efforts which is characteristic of the Latin temperament. One of the minor slips is in having the police officers dress as London "Bobbies" and Italian Carabini in the same scene. To thoroughly enjoy this picture it is necessary to be a lover of the sensational for its own sake, and to put the deed before the doer. From this point of view, "The Jockey of Death" is good entertainment. The plot is conventional. The heiress of a titled English family is stolen when a baby and turned over to a traveling showman by a rascally cousin who has poisoned her father. The child is given the training of an acrobat, and at eighteen is a tightrope walker in the circus. Henry Claremont, another relative of the girl, gets on her track and obtains an engagement in the same circus as a rider, his act giving the play its title.

The circus scenes take place in a hippodrome in Naples, and there is no end of excitement. The villainous cousin arranges with the girl's supposed father to have her put out of the way. Young Claremont warns her while she is performing on the tightrope, and they make their escape from the building at the risk of their necks followed closely by their pursuers. Then follows dives from bridges, the riding of a bicycle over a river on a tightrope, a slide for life down a wire cable, and other thrilling feats. The story ends happily, with Claremont and his cousin in possession of the English estate.

Two members of the cast deserve praise for their efforts. In view of the fact that they are acrobats by profession, the nature of their histrionic endeavors are more than acceptable. The persons referred to are Mlle. Evelyn, as Elda the stolen girl, and M. Arturo, as Henry Claremont.

"The Ringer."

The thirteenth episode of the "Beatrice Fairfax" series, "The Ringer," has to do with the racetrack and the humors of the sideshow. A famous race horse is stolen from his stable and entered in a race as a ringer. A dwarf from a sideshow assists in the theft of the horse, and Beatrice and Jimmy undertake Scene from "The Ringer" (International).

to trace the animal. The scenes shift from the sideshow to the racetrack, and a lively rate of speed is kept up. The way in which the villains are exposed and the horse restored to his owner makes an entertaining two-reel picture. Grace Darling and Harry Fox, assisted by several genuine "freaks," give a good account of the acting.

"Bought and Paid For"

Five-Reel Screen Version of the George W. Broadhurst Play Produced by Peerless, With Alice Brady and Montagu Love Featured—World Film Corporation Release.

Reviewed by Edward Weitzel.

THE Peerless screen version of George W. Broadhurst's successful stage play, "Bought and Paid For," with Alice Brady and Montagu Love in the principal roles, is in five reels. The production was directed by Harley Knoles. In its original form, the drama was one of the best acting plays turned out in the last decade. Aside from its dramatic strength, the vein of comedy running through it was one of the richest in humor and originality ever seen on the American stage. The sublime self-assurance and unfailing optimism of Jimmie Gilly was a source of constant amusement all through the play. Director Knoles has retained but a small portion of this excellent comedy. It must be admitted, however, that Gilly's laughs are in the lines and not in the situations.

Dramatically, the story lends itself readily to the requirements of the screen. The added material in the opening reel is hardly necessary. It is devoted to the early history of the heroine, Virginia Blaine. With the meeting of Virginia and Robert Stafford the real interest begins. "Bought and Paid For" is a play of one big scene. Upon this scene in the drama, the climax of the third act, depends the success of the entire play. It will also determine the popularity of the screen play. At times, this lacks the sharpness of the older version, but the strength of the Broadhurst denouement has been retained to a commendable degree. The incidents leading up to this climax are these: Virginia Blaine, a beautiful young girl of good birth but slender fortune, makes a conquest of a millionaire whose one fault is his fondness for liquor. The young man is more than willing to overlook the difference in their positions and make Virginia his wife. He lavishes his wealth upon her, and, except when he gives way to his falling, is all a wife could ask.

When intoxicated Stafford's actions are such as to offend Virginia; he assumes an air of ownership over her that wounds her sensitive nature. One night he leaves her at the opera and goes to a bachelor dinner. When he reaches home he stumbles into the house, and so revolts Virginia by his caresses that she cannot hide her disgust. Stafford then informs her that she has no right to object, as he has bought and paid for her—that she never would have married him if he had been a poor man. Stung by the truth of this remark, although she has since learned to love her husband dearly, the wife rushes into her room and bolts the door. Mad with passion, Stafford picks up a heavy andiron and breaks down the barrier. The next morning he has no recollection of what has occurred, but Virginia explains the meaning of the splintered door and leaves her husband, after failing to secure a promise that he will give up drinking for her sake. The rest of the action shows Scene from "Bought and Paid For" (World).

Virginia supporting herself as a shopgirl, until a brilliant scheme of Jimmie Gilly's, her brother-in-law, brings about a reconciliation between the Staffords.

The weight of the acting in the screen production is carried by Alice Brady as Virginia and Montagu Love as Robert Stafford. Miss Brady makes Virginia an attractive young woman and indicates the refinement and charm of her personality in the quieter scenes. She does not, however, sound the full depths of the woman's nature in the big situation. The task is one demanding wide experience and exceptional gifts for dramatic expression. Montagu Love is an earnest and at most times a satisfactory Stafford. If there is any criticism to apply to his performance it is that his suggestion of tenderness and affection for Virginia might have been more marked when he was entirely himself. Frank Conlan acts Jimmie Gilly in the right spirit, and Josephine Drake is a fairly good Fanny Blaine.

The sub-titles are not always clear, unless one is familiar with the stage play.

Triangle Program

"The Devil's Double," a Fine Five-Reel Triangle Kay-Bee, by J. G. Hawks, with William S. Hart in the Best Work He Has Ever Done, and "Haystacks and Steeples," An Amusing Two-Reel Keystone.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"The Devil's Double."

"THE Devil's Double" is one of those rare screen stories which deserve a very high rating because of the satisfying harmony and balance in all its parts. Hats off to the author for fine conception and construction, to the director for admirable handling, and to Hart for his intelligent interpretation of an extremely difficult role. This statute should include all those responsible for artistry of background and title setting. "The Devil's Double" can be laid away after it has run its natural course on the program and taken out again later on for a second distribution. The rare joy moments in a critic's life are when he can accord deep and heart-felt appreciation of good work done by those who are trying to do their duty as sincerely as he is trying to do his, only he more rarely gets a kind word of recognition.

In first acknowledgment of fine work in this play must reference be made of an exceptional characterization, that of an artist truly temperamental. True genius is always temperamental, but not in the manner usually shown on the stage. The creative artist in this story is a singularly accurate protraiture of the creative artist in real life, not selfish, not egotistical, but so absorbed in his work as to appear both selfish and egotistical. It is characteristic of people born with intensely vivid imaginations to live in a world of their own while creating and to exhibit impatience with whatever interferes with their intense work. All this is clearly indicated by the author and strongly interpreted by Robert McKim. This striking characterization heightens the intense mental revelations of Hart by contrast. Hart portrays the ruffian gambler whose environment and training have provided an alligator-like insensibility. He is impervious to the very things on which refined people set great store, but there is an unsounded depth within which is finally reached, as it usually is where a man has lost faith in humanity, by the great power of womanly purity, probably the most convincing argument ever made on earth of God's presence there.

Scene from "The Devil's Double" (Triangle).

Enid Markey very tenderly impersonates the artist's wife, very consistently and with a delicate appreciation of what is required in her role. Aside from these inspiring characterizations the whole story moves with the grace and ease of high craftsmanship, a strong and delightful contribution to the best screen stories of the year.

"Haystacks and Steeples."

"Haystacks and Steeples" provides amusement in the usual Keystone manner, but in relief to those of pure melodramatic farce. A touch of naturalness not ordinarily observable in this kind of release makes the action entirely possible and the effect quite plausible. There is a tendency toward higher comedy in these little stories which does not trangress in any way, but which gives a little piquancy now and then to the regulation thing. The farce is more human that usual.

Mutual Program

"Pearl of Paradise," Featuring Margarita Fischer, and "East Is East," Starring Florence Turner.

Reviewed by Louis Reeves Harrison.

"Pearl of Paradise."

"PEARL of Paradise" is principally distinguished by an unusual artistry in the selection of exteriors, many of which are chosen with exceptional taste and appreciation of the beautiful, appealing powerfully to the imagination, and general fine sense of appropriateness in the settings and costumes. Miss Fischer is a natural beauty who seems to be fired with enthusiasm for her work. She gives herself without stint to the role she enacts, that of an open-air girl brought up on a sequestered island far removed from the demoralizing influences of the world most of us know, innocent yet ardent, a fountain of boundless energy, who falls madly in love with a man who is saved from a shipwreck, more or less of a nonentity as far as characterization is concerned.

Margarita is in constant activity throughout the story, swimming, shooting, struggling in the hands of villains, exhibiting an abundance of physical strength in every movement, but there is failure to reveal that the beautiful young creature has either a mind or a heart—the play is mechanical, melodramatic and a concession to the demand that every release shall contain a mortal combat, a fire, an explosion, or other theatrical effect whether or not the natural course of the story demands it or not. This causes the events to appear forced and helps to dispose of human interest. It is all beautifully pictured, but it is as emotionless as a painted ship on a painted sea. Margarita of lovely eyes and impassioned face has the makings of a fine actress, but she is such a brimming tide of energy that she loses the powerful effects of suppressed emotion. It is not the woman who cries on the screen who makes us aware of her grief, any more than the man who laughs on the screen excites a laugh in the audience. The great pathos of disappointed love can be intensely shown without a movement.

"East Is East."

"East is East" is very disappointing to those who appreciate what Florence Turner can do when she has the opportunity. The story is a wretched old affair of the kind barred in theaters of today, one dependent upon an eccentric will forcing characters into an unwilling relation. This situation has done service so long that it is worn to a frazzle. It has gained nothing in the picturing, and some of the subtitles are so raw that they will get a laugh where the laugh was not intended. Miss Turner carries her role with her customary good taste and fine appreciation of what is appropriate, with occasional flashes of intensity, but she is so obviously at a disadvantage in a part where mental and emotional revelation are sacrificed to meaningless action that she merely holds the eye through her strong personality. She deserves a better play.

"The Libertine"

A Strong Six-Reel Production by the Triumph Film Co., Starring John Mason and Alma Hanlon.

Reviewed by W. Stephen Bush.

BY FAR the larger part of this feature visualizes the dream of a young woman who is tempted to make a great mistake, but who recovers her moral dignity just before it is too late. Up to the point where the play turns into a dream the action moved with dramatic swiftness, arousing the interest of the spectator and holding it every inch of the way.

Early in the feature three things impressed themselves on me: An absolute fidelity to life, a total absence of high colors and melodramatic exaggeration and splendid acting. John Mason lived up to a great reputation and Alma Hanlon's work abounded in artistic skill, force and magnetism. Indeed, the entire cast deserves unstinted praise. The direction by Julius Steger and Joseph A. Goldin showed uncommon ability. Perhaps we are rushed into the dream too suddenly; most spectators, I fear, will be puzzled by the unexpected and unprepared transmutation, but the vividness of the "dream" leaves them little time to wonder, and they are hurried on to new sensations, to constant surprises, to quite a number of shocks and thrills. We all breathe a sigh of happy relief when the libertine is balked of his prey and the dear little working girl wakes from her dreadful imaginings to rush into her mother's arms to precipitate herself a minute later into the arms of her honest, hard-working sweetheart. There could not be a happier ending than an engagement party drinking sarsaparilla (or was it ginger ale?) to the health of the doting lovers.

Scene from "The Libertine" (Triumph).

Let the exhibitor be advised that there was a good deal of absinthe before the sarsaparilla. The theme of the story deals without exaggeration but with the utmost frankness of the efforts of an old rounder to break down the scruples and the decent impulses of a young girl. There was to me something satanic in the skill with which the net was woven. Not only was nothing left to the imagination, but the imagination, it seemed to me, was at times overwhelmed. The lure of wealth and luxury to the young girls of a big city, the crafty designs and machinations of an old roue, the complete moral disintegration of womanhood after the first false step are depicted with such amplitude of realistic detail as to invite (perhaps) the attention of the censors.

I speak as one knowing the folly and narrowness of some censors. Personally I feel that the scenes which might lead to criticism are well connected with the story; indeed they come as a natural development of the plot and of the characterization in the play. The contrast between the sweet and honest simplicity of plain folks and their clean lives, and the false splendor, the fictitious happiness and hollow pretense of a gay and fast life is drawn with incomparable skill and is distinctly in favor of the old home.

The scenes in the underworld while always realistic are never offensive. Some eliminations might be made in the early part of the dream, though even here it must be said that a powerful and legitimate dramatic purpose is served which could not be attained better by any other means. The special musical score by Charles Lutz greatly heightened the effectiveness of the play and was a very clever piece of work. The Triumph Film Company is a new concern of which F. M. Backer is the head.

"The Cossack Whip"

Viola Dana Featured in Acceptable Five-Reel Russian Revolutionist Picture, Produced by Edison, for Release Through K-E-S-E.

Reviewed by Ben H. Grimm.

IT IS not often that a motion picture visually telling of Russian revolutionists and of oppression by the Russian police diverges from a rather tiresome sameness, but this is done to a considerable extent in "The Cossack Whip," a five-reel picture produced by Thomas A. Edison, Inc., for release through K-E-S-E. Good entertainment is furnished by the five reels of this production, and the work of Viola Dana in the leading role is flawless. She plays the part of the youngest member of a Russian household, which is crashed by the police, with a finesse of understanding and sympathy. As the plot develops, Miss Dana's screen characterization develops with it, but so gradually and so subtly does she change from a simple lass into a revengeful woman that the spectator is forced to feel for her.

The story has been superbly screened, and no little amount of credit is due Director John Collins. Many unusual and novel settings are seen in the film—especially the ballet scenes. Photographically, the production is excellent, and it is evident from a showing of the finished product that director and company worked in harmony.

The players appearing in support of Miss Dana make the story convincing. Richard Tucker pleases in the leading male role. Frank Farrington does commendable work as the superintendent of police, and Sally Crute makes a lovable Mme. Pojeska. Grace Williams, as the sister of the girl, and Bob Walker, as Alexis, both do good work.

Darya, the girl, keeps the scourge with which her sister has been flogged to death. She swears to avenge her sister and her father, and becomes a ballet dancer. She becomes famous in London and, returning to Russia, is entertained by the chief of police. By a clever ruse she gets him to put his hands in the handcuffs which held her sister. She flogs him with the whip used on her sister. The despot is killed by a brother-revolutionist.

Scene from "The Cossack Whip" (Edison).

"Soul Bondage" is the title of a two-reel drama written by Grace Lytton and prepared for the screen by Maie Havey of the Universal staff which is under production by Director Burton George at Universal City. The story features Roberta Wilson supported by Charles Perley and Charles H. Mailes.

"Jimmy Dale, Alias The Grey Seal"

New Novelty Series in 16 Episodes—Each a Complete Story of a "Grey Seal" Adventure.

ADMIRERS of E. K. Lincoln, Paul Panzer, Edna Hunter and Doris Mitchell—and they are multitudinous—have a brand new set of thrills in store for them at an early date. The first of the "Jimmie Dale, Alias The Grey Seal" series, made by the Monmouth Film Corporation, will be released November 27, 1916, and the succeeding episodoes will appear weekly thereafter. The above mentioned quartet of stars openly proclaim that "Jimmie Dale" enables each and every one of them to display every atom of ability they possess. This is quite a statement for a star to make.

"Jimmie Dale, Alias The Grey Seal," is a story of New York—not as writers of fiction would have the great metropolis—but New York as it really is, with its high spots and its low spots. Joy is intermingled with misery; wealth and poverty rub elbows; respectability and vice—well, the line of demarcation is visible only as life itself is visible.

As the name implies, the stories concern themselves with the adventures of Jimmie Dale, a popular young multi-millionaire, society and clubman. Jimmie is the son of a famous inventor of safes. He has inherited his father's mechanical gifts. With it all, Jimmie has a romantic turn of eccentricity. Being very warmhearted, he takes the wrongs of others to heart, and in his own way seeks to right them. In his attempt to right the wrongs of others he is often forced to commit what is generally considered crime. In short, he is a combination of Sherlock Holmes, Arsene Lupin and Robin Hood. He takes his life in his hands by trailing a desperate criminal to his lair; he forces his way into an office and cracks a safe with equal daring; he stops at nothing that will save a deserving human being a cruel injustice. His adventures are replete with tense situations. He runs the gaunt of everything that is romantic, exciting and gripping to the human eye, heart and mind.

"The Vampires"

Episode One, "The Detective's Head," Will Reach the Screen November 23 from Gaumont.

THE first episode of Gaumont's long heralded "The Vampires" will reach the screen through Mutual November 23. This is called "The Detective's Head," and is a complete story in three reels. Were the story of the voyage of the film to America told in detail it would prove as entertaining as the most exciting chapter of this photoplay novel. Being the story of the great French crime trust, the pictures were made in Paris and wherever throughout France the mysterious bandits had operated. The film was sent to America through the war zone, and narrowly escaped the celebrated U-53, which was in its path off Nantucket. However, every episode is safely in America now and will be released weekly.

The first episode is called "The Detective's Head." A detective sent from Paris to St. Clement to investigate a crime supposed to be the work of the Vampires mysteriously disappears. His headless body is found and Philip Guard—the hero of the screen novel—undertakes to solve the puzzle of the missing head. He is a reporter for a prominent Parisian daily, and brings to his work a reportorial nose for news and youthful enthusiasm. The part is played by Edmond Mathe, one of the matinee idols of France.

Another important character destined to appear in the entire novel is Normandin, a member of the outer circle of the Vampires, who joins Philip Guard in attempting to bring them to justice. Through him a pleasing comedy element is introduced, something spectators are coming more and more to appreciate no matter how tense the drama.

Still Searching for Material

Famous Players-Lasky Corporation Purchasing Scripts from Well Known Authors.

IN ACCORDANCE with the recent announcement that the termination of the Famous Players Film Company's $100,000 scenario offer does not mean the cessation of the purchasing activities of the various producers on the Paramount Program, there comes the news of the purchase of several scripts from well known authors by the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation. Among these is "As Men Love," which was bought from Lois Zellner. The work of Miss Zellner is already well known to the motion picture public, as she is the author of "The Innocent Lie," which was produced by the Famous Players some time ago.

Two photoplays have been purchased from Paul West, well-known magazine writer, playwright, and scenarioist. They are, "The Deliverance," and "Each to His Kind." From Charles Tenney Jackson there was purchased "Golden Fetters," and "Making a Name" has been bought from Shirley Burns. Roswell Dague has sold "The Turning Point" to Famous Players-Lasky, making six scripts purchased by the producers since the termination of Famous Players' record-breaking offer.

Advertising for Exhibitors

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

The Standard.

EVIDENTLY some managers think that it is the amount of advertising they do that counts. If they have an eight page program they feel they are doing more than with a program of only four pages. If they use a sixteen sheet they think it better advertising than two eights. This is the wrong standard. The best advertising is not always the most plentiful. One man can do more with a cheap news throwaway than another man can do with a sixteen page program with coated paper and a two color impression. It is not what you do, but what you do plus how you do it. You can get a sixteen sheet and stick it up in front of your house and make less money than you can with eight one sheets put out in good locations around town. It is less trouble to hang the sixteen in front of the house, but the only reason why you take any trouble at all is that you want to make money, so take a little more trouble and do it right. It is more trouble to write a program than to paste one up, yet the paragraph it takes you an hour to write may do you more good than four pages of gossip of the players. It is worth doing well if it is worth doing at all.

That Monticello House.

Several times we have asked for a picture of the Lyceum, Monticello, N. Y., and at last L. F. Guimond has sent one in. This is the house billed as "Behind the cobble wall," and it was because of this unique trade slogan that we wanted the print. Here it is. Mr. Guimond writes that the trees shown in an earlier photograph have been cut down. The location was originally a residence estate and a mighty pretty one. The theater was built on the lot and stands up rather bleakly in a cut, though Mr. Guimond explains that the stucco is tinted to tone it down. Monticello is a well-liked summer resort and Mr. Guimond planned the house to suit the town and drew up the rough plans himself. He writes:

> Building is 60x110 feet, alleys in the basement and a complete lighting plant (Brush), in the sub-basement. This plant is only used in emergency as we have a Transverter accommodating two arcs and it is some mechanism, believe me. Current here is so miserable that the motor driving the Transverter plays a regular concert, but you cannot detect the slightest variation in the D. C. current delivered. Nor is it possible to detect when the second arc is cut in. Brother Richardson egged me onto the Transverter and I have mentioned him in my will.
>
> The first six months we were open we staged fourteen big productions, booked here by K. & E. and then quit disgusted. Now our shows come in in a box and "go out the same way." We are spared the vagaries of temper-mental, tank-town hamfats and what money we get stays with us. With shows we would split a gross of perhaps $250 and then starve to death for a week thereafter. Stage opening is 30x18 feet. Stage is twenty-five feet deep by sixty wide, forty-two feet in the clear to the grid, where we have $1,500 worth of perfectly useless scenery swung. Rent four or five times a year to aspiring amateurs and that's about all we ever use scenery. Have a complete stage switchboard, including full dimmer equipment, 300 lights on stage; wiring of entire building cost about $1,800. Small snap shows our place before I built and explains the peculiar location. We have 220 feet fronting on Broadway and I simply used up seventy-five of it for the theater. The cobble wall I had already built a year previous. As you look at the map the theater now stands to the right of the house. The enclosed "Souvenir" I got out my second year and shows several trees which I have since cut down. The large photo shows the front as it is today. We believe in electric advertising and I have two signs, one swung over the center of street (eighty lamps), reading "LYCEUM," and another weighing 1,200 pounds I bought recently from the house at 31 Park Row N. Y., (276 lamps) reading "PHOTO-PLAYS." The small photo is of my deceased opposition. How'd you like to take your wife and youngsters in a dump like that? He offered $5 for the best name and in "Motophotograms" I named no names but simply put in this paragraph: "Our suggestion for a name is 'Hole o' Cost' or 'Holocaust,' depending upon whether you feel humorous or serious." He is said to have spent nearly $4,000 and stayed open eight weeks.

The cut shows the opposition house. It certainly is unlovely. Some two or three years ago Mr. Guimond wrote that though he had the town to himself he was preparing against opposition by giving the best without waiting for the other man to come along, and probably he'll have the town to himself again for a while. It's hard to see how anyone can drop $500 a week in a hole in the wall but it was done and stands an object lesson to others. Mr. Guimond writes that at least he has been able to get his bi-weekly program saddle-stitched and sends one in to prove it. The sheet is still a pretty poor job typographically, but the printer is a friend of the town and you can't go into one of those country shops and spank the printer with his proof press roller. If you do he goes out and tells all his friends how rude you were, and forms a cabal against you, but this particular printer could be prosecuted under the Pure Food act for using the stuff he calls ink. The object of printing ink is to print on one side of the paper only, and only a Chinaman plans to use but one side of the paper and the celestials are improving. But even the handicap Mr. Guimond makes the eight pager work for him, for he can write in a chatty, fluent style, and he makes his stuff a message and not merely something with which to fill in the spaces between advertisements. He takes all he needs before he sells space outside and he makes the sheet pay even for the high price he has to pay for an inferior job. And you'll notice that Mr. Guimond makes his place the amusement center; not merely a theater, but a place to go whatever you wish to do for amusement. This is not always possible, but it pays where it can be done. If you want entertainment you turn instinctively to the Lyceum and make up your mind when you get there.

Something New.

Lately a lot of horses have been working in with the local merchants on their discount checks. Several give "free admissions" to the first installment of a serial. Now the Theater Louisiana, Baton Rouge, La., has a new one on its admirable program. It ran

Get This Signed by The Farrnbacher Dry Goods Co.
On The Line Below
A rubber stamp will do, and it will be Good for 5c in Admission at this Theatre—The whole proceeds must be presented.

We do not know just how the scheme is worked but probably the dry goods people want to get people into their store and pay a part of the admission price, the house profiting to the extent of the remainder through the new people brought in.

Has Another.

The Lehigh-Orpheum management, South Bethlehem, Pa., has taken on a third house the Broad to run with the Lehigh-Orpheum and Lorenz Good advertising seems to pay.

A Catchline.

"We watch your car while you watch our show" is the substance of an announcement by Frank Stanton that patrons of the Fenway Boston, can leave their cars with untroubled spirit. A slogan like that will drive home the fact far better than the most elaborate but prosy announcement. This is one of the real secrets of copy writing. Tell your facts in a way to make them stick. A line like that will linger where a formal announcement would be forgotten. National advertisers do not spend hundreds of dollars for a catchline just because they like to hear it. They get something that will be remembered Mr. Stanton's line is the best we've seen in this connection. Mr. Stanton has also started a series of letters in his programs on the Udell scheme.

Several Ideas.

Creque and Webster are opening the old Lyric at Dunsmuir, Cal., as the Strand. Their opening announcement is a four-page folder of merit. The pages are 4¼ by 5, cream paper and brown ink. The front page carries but the single line "The Play's the thing, Shakespeare" in the upper two-thirds and a twelve-point "To the public" and an eight-point announcement of six lines in the lower third. It gives a neat looking cover. On the second page is an explanation of their aims and policy with side heads and the third page gives the Celluloid Soliloquy with a four-frame piece of film. The back page gives the initial program, showing the doors will swing open on "Hell's Hinges," which is rather heated hardware. The anouncement is above the average in preparation and completion and gets the house off to a good start. A person seeing the announcement instinctively feels that this will be the right sort of house, run the right sort of way, since they evidently know how to do things well.

Won a Prize.

B. A. Cook, of the Quality Picture House, Wilmington, Vt., sends along a print of the float that brought the house first prize in the Labor Day parade. He says the film was light struck, but it looks to us like the shadow of the 340-pound man just in front of it. The skinny man at the other end only runs 290, Mr. Cook says. The men are more unusual than the float but the picture shows what can be done even in a small town to boom things and we take it that Wilmington is a small town, even though it does grow large inhabitants. Mr Cook shows a very pretty combination in his letterhead of pink green on brown paper. It works very nicely.

Bettered.

Ross D. Rogers, of the Ruby and Olympic, Plainview, Texas, sends in a program altered to meet the suggestions recently made in this department. It is a much better looking sheet, with one page for each house, and the front page split in such a fashion that you know it is a dual program and which is which. Now we wish he would change the back page and use that to tell how good the houses are. That means more to the house than the facts that an artist has sketched Mae Murray and that Dustin Farnum is a fisherman. He gets a very orderly arrangement of program now with the dates in italic, the titles in bold face and the description in Roman. It is clear, easy to read and eye-inviting. He has an odd slogan which runs "The Best Shows for the Best People in the Best Town in Texas."

To Save Envelopes.

Here is another envelope saving scheme. This one is devised by Alyn H. Barrett, of the Palace, Petersburg, Va. It will be seen that the address page is a part of the program, which is folded so that this comes outside. It is fastened with a cheap clip. The page next the address is a general advertisement for the house and these two pages show in the mail With the price of envelopes constantly rising, the mailing proposition has become a serious matter and Exhibitors are rapidly turning to the self contained program. The paper clip seems to be the favorite seal, but these are apt to come off in the mail, are hard to handle when many programs are in one "pack" or letters, because they give undue bulk at one point, and are not as satisfactory as gummed seals which are as cheap or cheaper and almost as easy to affix. It will be noticed that in the cut the stamp has been inked out. It is against the strict letter of the law to photograph stamps; a fact it might be well to remember.

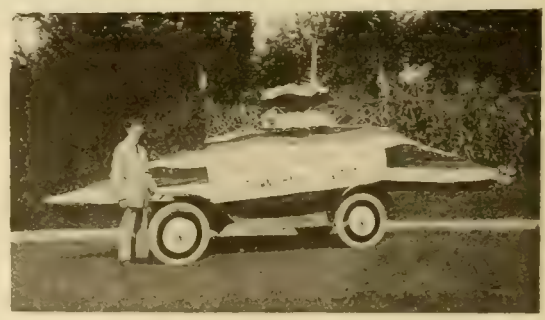
Paramount Pittsburgh.

J. S. King, of the publicity end of the Famous Players Film Service, Pittsburgh, sends in some interesting samples. We do not know whether these programs he sends are a local idea or part of the general Paramount service, but they print a four, eight or twelve-page program to suit the exhibitor's bookings at inviting prices. The four pagers, for instance, cost $3.50 a thousand, or 500 for $2 and $1.25 for 250. Eights cost $6 a thousand and twelves $8.40, which is cheaper than any local job can be printed. Printed envelopes of the proper size are $1.50 a thousand. The offer is limited to Paramount pictures only, other than the back page, which will be left blank on request for local printing. All programs carry a stock drawn design with the name, town and showing period in a mortise. Each page is a plate with the date and day added as is required. In ordering the exhibitor merely indicates his bookings by title and date on a blank with numbered lines and adds his underline, the quantity and house name. The exchange does the rest. Where Paramounts are not the full program the intervening days are skipped. Mr. King also gets out a special press notice for each release which he sends out to exhibitors to show them how to bet press stuff in the papers free. They merely fill in the blanks and send in better copy than any but a trained pressman can write. Mr. King gets this up himself with the assistance of the pages of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD. Another service is a set of advertisements that can be sent over to the printer as a guide. This is really more useful than a mat ready-set service. The Paramount scheme is good, but it is good only when locally handled by a trained advertising man who can add to the general stuff the special material his locality requires, and this Mr. King seems to have done.

Small Town, But——.

Here is a float that was gotten out for a parade in a fifteen hundred town. It is sent in by H. Burr Eldredge of the Majestic, Antrim, N. H.



Mr. Eldredge's letter makes the matter plain and gives a set of directions that any exhibitor can follow. Many theaters have used submarine floats for this serial, but they have nothing on this one.

Although I have read and enjoyed your department for a long time, this is my first attempt to "butt in," to your columns. Antrim is a small town of some 1,500 inhabitants but we pride ourselves on presenting one of the best picture and feel reasonably certain that our projection will compare favorably with that produced by other exhibitors in this immediate vicinity.

I am sending you a photo of a "float" which I had in the parade here on Town Fair Day—Labor Day. The Board of Trade have held three of these fairs and they always attract a large crowd from neighboring towns. For our attraction that evening we had booked the V-L-S-E production entitled "The Hero of Submarine D-2," so we utilized the golden opportunity of advertising it via the parade.

Taking a Universal (Ford) car as a base, we built on a framework of hoops and covered it with red, white and blue bunting, taking care to have the forward and rear shaped as nearly like a submarine as possible. The conning tower was surmounted by a "periscope" for which a piece of eavespout did duty. An observation deck was built around the tower and painted red, with flags on each end. The propeller or wheel on the extreme rear end was made of red, white and blue feathers and kept constantly turning while the car was in motion. On both sides of the "submarine" we had 8-ft. signs announcing "Hero of Submarine D-2, Town Hall, To-night."

It is hardly necessary to state that the float was a big hit, winning a first prize and as an advertising stunt it worked to perfection, securing for us the largest crowd in two years—and the picture was satisfactory, too!

Standing near the "submarine" is yours truly, and peering out of the conning tower is my brother, Cranston Eldredge, who manipulated the "boat" around town, and to whom much of the credit for the success of the undertaking is due.

The wheels were covered with white cardboard, painted with red and blue circles. "D-2" was painted in blue on fore and aft.

A Bluebird Theater.

An unusual opening announcement comes from the Bluebird, Orangeburg, S. C. It is a sheet 7½ by 8½ inches, plain white printed in black. At the top is the line "Attend the opening of the Bluebird theater, Friday and Saturday, September 29 and 30." Below this is a cut for one of the opening attractions, and to the right of this is a list of shows each running an hour and a quarter. Below this is a white space for the greeting, printed in by an addressograph and then a straight type announcement of the usual Bluebird, "The Play's the Thing." On the reverse the sheet is divided into two parts, an announcement of the opening bill, flanked by a list of officers and stockholders, and below some house talk. It is all plain, almost ostentatiously plain, yet it carries its message simply and solidly. Two heralds back up the bare announcement. It seems to have been done by a business man rather than a manager, but it reads well and is in no way confusing, which is a common fault when ornateness is aimed at. It is mailed out with the top of the front page for the address, which explains the division of the sheet into halves. It is generally a good plan to spend a little money on the opening announcement, but we do not know but that this is about as good. It tells the facts and tells them well, and that always is the important part.

Bluebird Helps.

Five years ago this department was about the only regular and consistent help in advertising the Exhibitor had at his command. To-day nearly every concern gives some aid to its clients, and some of them even go down to the newspaper office and put the ads in for them. It is a marvelous change, and to-day there is probably no business in the country in which the retailer receives such ample help from the wholesaler in direct and indirect manner. We have just been looking over some Bluebird publicity sent in by M. H. Hoffman. Each week his "merchandising department" sends to the exchanges an idea sheet which each exchange, in turn, duplicates for the Bluebird Exhibitors in its territory, and mostly these are new stunts or at least new kinks to old stunts. The salient advertising features are recited to suggest street stunts with floats or pedestrians, and always there is some bit of matter to be sent to the mailing list, and in the Universal Weekly one of the staff gives some good suggestions for getting names. One of these is to send out the ushers in the morning to take off the names on letter boxes. The nearby territory is portioned out, and each boy is given a district to look after. The mailing list is valuable, if worked properly, and in the cities the ushers can be made to help more than a little, though we think that the names thus gained should not be made permanent until they have been tested out. But mail matter, unless it is the regular program, which comes to be regarded as an old friend, should be unusual in some manner, and the Bluebird aims to get something different for each week. Mr. Hoffman has just gotten out a booklet for salesmen on the stars and no-stars that should interest managers. But the whole attitude of the Bluebird is summed up on a slip that is attached to one of the ideas sheets. It reads "Send a copy of the attached letter to every Bluebird Exhibitor. If you are doing what you should do in regard to teaching them the value of a mailing list, every one of our productions should prove a money-maker for them." Note that "for them" and not for us, for the up to date men know that to help themselves they must first help the exhibitor to realize on his investment.

Carpenter Gets a New One.

George Editor Carpenter has found a brand new, home-grown stunt, and says: "At the risk of getting a peevish retort from Gotham we arise to ask 'Did the Mailing List Contest originate in the east?'" So we did get that goat, yes. Anyhow the Mailing List Contest seems to have originated precisely where George Editor says it did, to wit—Moab, Utah, which we take it is a pretty small town off the railroad with a full grown thinking man running a picture theater. He is R. C. Clark, who runs the Ides, and when George Editor, as editor for Real Reels, asked for some mailing lists for Paramount special service, he got one from Mr Clark that led him to write and ask the how, and this is the reply:

> You ask me how I conducted my mailing list contest. I will explain. I simply advertised in the local weekly paper that I would give the Central School students a chance to get some free tickets to the Ides, and gave for the first prize a ticket to the show good for the entire school year; second prize, 20 tickets; third prize 10 tickets, and the next five best, 5 tickets each.
>
> Conditions were the most complete list, that is, heads of families, and persons who lived at hotels, etc., so that there would not be several persons in the same family receiving the same announcements.
>
> Lists were to be arranged alphabetically and neatness would also count, and a stated time was allowed.
>
> I had about 75 students enter, and there was a great deal of interest shown, and I considered the contest a success.
>
> I find that if the children are given extra consideration and a chance to win prizes that it has a very good effect on the adults (let that sink in, Mr. Exhibitor), also I have set apart the last Saturday in every month as Widows' Night, when all widows and their families are invited free. My experience has been that it has made friends of all of these widows, and they take every chance to say a good word for the show. Also it is true in my case that these poor people are very good patrons when they have money and spend all they can afford for tickets, so I don't lose any way.
>
> These stunts together with running a story of each feature in the local paper have given me the best results.

It's a scheme so simple and so entirely practical that we can all wonder now why we did not think of it first, and it is as good for the five thousand town as for the five hundred if you go through the lists and merge them. And then Carpenter adds:

> If Moab can have a mailing list and believe in it, the pessimist in the 5,000 town should wake up.
>
> Summed up, the secret of Mr. Clark's success is that he advertises—and in a hamlet like Moab everybody knows where the Ides theater is.
>
> Some exhibitors we could name would promptly retort, "If everybody knows where the theater is what is the use of advertising?"
>
> When we hear a remark like that we feel like committing mayhem.

And we'll bite off the other ear. Everyone knows where the theater is, but the idea is not to stop there, but to keep them keeping on knowing that it is there and not only there but all "there." And advertising, steady, intelligent and persistent advertising is the only thing that does it.

And the same issue of Real Reels has a report on the Fashion Show from R. T. Hurtt, of the Huree, Caldwell, Idaho, who says that his first show was such a success that the next is already booked, and that the men's furnishing houses want to get in, too. And in its last analysis the Fashion Show is merely some good advertising, some noise, and the showing on living models of what the dry goods store generally puts in its show windows—and the store pays you most of the extra cost and you get all of the extra money.

And with a local cameraman George Editor has been making his own motion cartoon announcements for the screen of the Paramount-Empress, Salt Lake. That is going some.

Poetry.

It's been a long time since we let poetry creep into this department, but a jingle now and then helps programs along, and we take this from the program of The Censor, Albion, Mich. It works with most two syllable words accented on the first syllable.

> There was a dame in our town
> And she was wondrous wise,
> She read The Censor programs through
> Because they told no lies.
>
> She knew 'twas worth the price,
> And some she liked so very well
> She came to see them twice.
> Whene're they said a play was good
> But isn't "censor" an atrocious name for a picture theatre?

A NEW HELP FOR MANAGERS

Picture Theatre Advertising

By EPES WINTHROP SARGENT (Conductor of Advertising for Exhibitors in the Moving Picture World)

A TEXT BOOK AND A HAND BOOK, a compendium and a guide. It tells all about advertising, about type and type-setting, printing and paper, how to run a house program, how to frame your newspaper advertisements, how to write form letters, posters or throwaways, how to make your house an advertisement, how to get matinee business, special schemes for hot weather and rainy days. All practical because it has helped others. It will help you. By mail, postpaid, $2.00. Order from nearest office.

Moving Picture World, 17 Madison Ave., New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Photoplaywright

Conducted by EPES WINTHROP SARGENT

INQUIRIES.

Questions concerning photoplay writing addressed to this department will be replied to by mail if a fully addressed and stamped envelope accompanies the letter, which should be addressed to this department. Questions should be stated clearly and should be typewritten or written with pen and ink. Under no circumstances will manuscripts or synopses be criticised, whether or not a fee is sent therefor.

A list of companies will be sent if the request is made to the paper direct and not to this department, and a return stamped envelope is inclosed.

Self Criticism.

INVARIABLY the young writer wants to be helped and he feels that he cannot be helped too much. He wants to have his hands held and his feet placed at every step. Without aid he feels that he cannot advance. This is largely a mistake.

We know how it is, because we were there once. We spent about four years floundering more or less in the dark. Possibly a year of this could have be cut off through competent aid, but looking back, we are not sorry that aid was not forthcoming at that time. This may be cold comfort to those just starting and who want to be successful at once. Words of advice such as these do not help to remove the sting from a rejection slip, and we are not writing with the intention of trying to take that sting out, and we do not believe that any part of this story is going to be comforting or reassuring save, perhaps, to the few. But it is comment that is based on twenty-five years of experience, and if it does not soothe it may at least enlighten a little.

To begin with, every man and woman who starts in to write must; positively must, go through a certain apprenticeship. To some proficiency comes earlier than others, but there is always the period of training, long or short, according to one's aptitude. This period cannot be shortened by so much as a single day by any outside aid whatever. You can be helped along certain lines, through personal instruction or advice or the study and assimilation of text books, and this aid will be helpful in the precise degree in which you are able to assimilate and fully understand what you are told or read, but all of this is absolutely without predjudice to the statement above. You may get all the help in the world and yet be required to gain a certain mechanical proficiency, through practise, and this holds good of any work, whether it be chopping wood or creating masterpieces. An expert woodchopper may be able to give you practical hints, but you must wield the axe until you learn the "feel" of it before you can chop a tree down with the least effort. If you have it in you to be a woodchopper you can become equally expert without assistance, but it will take a little longer for experimenting. Suggestion can help you, but there is a certain amount of mechanical practice that cannot be done for you by another. And you'll probably be a better woodchooper or a better author if you learn in the hard school of experience.

Some day you MUST go over the bumps. If you are helped over at the start they will come later on and hurt more because less to be expected then. The real, practical knowledge comes from experience and not through expert aid. No doubt you know someone who has studied painting, not in a school or art but with a private teacher. And you know that those fine landscapes that Mamie painted when she had had only ten lessons are mostly the work of teacher dear. She has to encourage Mamie and Mamie's mother by progress, or the lessons will be discontinued. And after the lessons are concluded Mamie will spoil a lot of canvas and waste a lot of paint trying to do for herself the things the teacher did for her so well. She has to waste just so much paint and spoil just so many yards of canvas before she can paint, and so far as results are concerned, it does not matter whether the spoiling is done before or after the alleged graduation.

In precisely the same way, you must do your 'prentice work in writing, and you cannot abridge the time. You must learn through your own mistakes and not through the advice of others. You must work past the point where you can see your faults for yourself. That is something that no one else can teach you. We gave up criticizing manuscript for three reasons. The most important, to be honest, was that we could not afford enough for the time we had to spend upon a script and do a decent job. The second reason was that we found too many persons leaning up against us. The third was that criticism is no real help at best.

Most criticism tells you that you should say "Sub-title" instead of "Leader," or "Leader" instead of "Sub-title." It all depends upon the critic's point of view. He tells you you should not have used a close-up here, and that you should have used one there. It is nine tenths form and one part plotting, because he can lay down general rules of form, and there is little to be said about only one plot. You can be told that it is old or that it is not properly motivated, and you can be told what motivation is, but that helps not at all. Until you go over all your plots and apply that same comment on motivation to all of them, and not only see that they are wrongly motivated, but why, the criticism is doing you no good. And if you have the right sort of a text book you'll know about motivation, and if you have the right sort of a brain you can study the motivation from your text as well as from a criticism.

There is only one criticism you can profit from, and that is your own. It is foolish to say that you could correct your faults if someone told you. You cannot. You cannot correct your faults until you yourself, unaided, can recognize them to be faults. To do that you must write a certain number of stories that you may have the material to practise on. By that time you'll have a better idea of what is meant by motivation, suspense, struggle, and all the other components of plot. You'll know from experience and you will remember because it was your own experience, because something in your own head tells you that this is to be avoided and that to be observed. Once you get your groundwork of practise you'll find that others will drop hints that are helpful because now you are able to understand and assimilate them, but first you must learn to be your own critic. You must do your own thinking. You cannot, no matter how long you may work, accurately gauge the exact value of any of your own stories, because you have a natural prejudice for your own work; for that matter most authors of experience are apt to be afraid of stories they like too well. But you can, if you study, get to the point where you can appraise, in a general way, the value of any particular story you have written.

If a man with a broken leg starts in to walk with a crutch and dares not try to walk unaided, he'll be a cripple for life, for presently his legs will become atrophied through disuse. Really intelligent and painstaking criticism from others may be helpful to a certain degree, for a time, but criticism is no more than a crutch, and it is unfortunate that most criticism is followed by a "get a copy of our book," or "we will revise this for $3.25," and that sort of criticism is worse than your own unaided effort.

A story must have a start and a definite object or aim, the attainment or loss of which is the end of the story. It must have a struggle or it will lack interest, and it must have suspense or there will be no doubt as to the outcome, and therefore no interest in the story. These are the essentials to any plot. These your plots must have. If they have these requirements, the rest is merely a matttr of practise and study, and this you must do. Study other plots. See wherein they succeed or fail, and you may more quickly gain proficiency in criticizing your own, but before you can really write stories you must know what stories are through personal dissection of your own efforts. You cannot succeed upon the experience of others. You must stand upon your own foundation. Start in right now and stop yelling for help.

Columbia Opens.

The Photoplay Class of Columbia University opened with fifty pupils on the roster, and the probabilities are that fifteen or twenty more students will be added before the course gets fully under way. Now lets all pull together and help Dr. Freeburg make the museum an accomplished fact. Is Vachel Lindsay in the audience?

Writing for the Magazines.

With so many photoplay writers looking to other enterprises for a means of augmenting their incomes, Writing for the Magazines, by J. Berg Esenwein, is particularly timely. This is, so far as we know, the first volume of its sort. Much has been said on the subject of selling to magazines, but this is the first volume to give full information in orderly and definite form. Dr. Esenwein was for many years editor for Lippincott's and knows the ground thoroughly, and he tells just what the novice writers wants and needs to know about the marketing of the various forms of magazine material. It is not so much a book on how to write as it is what to write, how to write it and where to sell it when it is written, and the various chapters cover in detail each item of magazine material. To any one wanting to try this broad field the book is worth many times its cost in the prevention of errors alone. It is uniform in style with the other volumes of the Writer's Library. (Writing for the Magazines, Home Correspdonce School, Springfield, Mass. Cloth, 260 pages plus XVI. By mail $1.62.)

Wisdom.

Don't throw up your job because you've sold five scripts. Wait until you've sold fifty and by that time you'll have more sense.

The THIRD Edition of

Technique of the Photoplay

IS NOW READY

This is virtually a new book under the old title. More than double the text and with an arrangement especially adapting it for the student. The most complete book ever written on the subject of scenario or photoplay construction.

By Mail, Postpaid Three Dollars

Address all orders direct to nearest office

THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Ave., New York City

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill. Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Projection Department

Conducted by F. H. RICHARDSON

Manufacturers' Notice.

It is an established rule of this department that no apparatus or other goods will be endorsed or recommended editorially until the excellence of such articles has been demonstrated to its editor.

Important Notice.

Owing to the mass of matter awaiting publication it is impossible to reply through the department in less than two or three weeks. In order to give prompt service, those sending four cents, stamps, (less than actual cost) will receive carbon copy of the department reply, by mail, without delay. Special replies by mail on matters which cannot be replied to in the department, one dollar.

Both the first and second set of questions are now ready and printed in neat booklet form, the second half being seventy-six in number. Either booklet may be had by remitting 25 cents, money or stamps, to the editor, or both for 40 cents. Cannot use Canadian stamps. Every Live, progressive operation should get a copy of these questions. You may be surprised at the number you cannot answer without a lot of study

Question No. 163.

If there are 100 turns in the transformer primary coil and twenty in the secondard coil and the primary pulls amperes how may amperes will we get at the arc?

Roll of Honor on Question No. 152.

The Roll of Honor on Question 152 consists of Wilson Hays, Barton, Md.; G. A. Yager, Anadarko, Okla.; C. E. Linstruth, Carthage, N. Y.; D. A. Snyder, Bangor, Pa.; F. F. Bell, Palestine, Texas.

The reply of Brother Hays covers the matter more completely than does any other, therefore I have selected his for publication.

Reply to Question No. 152.

By Wilson Hays, Barton, Md.

The Question.

What would you regard as an extreme practical distance from screen to back row of seats? Why?

The Answer:

I would regard 200 feet as the extreme practical distance from screen to back row of seats. In a house where this distance is necessary, however, a large picture would be required. In fact a picture large enough to appear normal to a person 200 feet away would appear gigantic to one forced to take a front seat, and if made to suit the eye of the patron who is seated in the front of the house, the picture will then be too small for that portion of the audience in the rear seats. Some managers seem to think this can be remedied by extra brilliant illumination, but that is not the fact. A small very brilliantly illuminated picture has a sort of hypnotic effect on the rear seat patrons, while the ones in front generally complain of flicker, particularly where the shutter cannot be properly adjusted to meet the local conditions. Another thing against extreme length of throw is that it is a hard matter to eliminate floor and other machine vibrations so that all movement of the picture will be done away with on a long throw. This fault of course increases as the length of throw increases, whereas defects in photography and perforation increase with the size of the picture only. Long distance projection is costly, both at the time of its installation and afterwards, the only saving feature being that long focal length lenses produce better results than do short focal length lenses; also as the throw is increased the evil effect of projecting at an angle is decreased

All of which is very good, except that I don't quite agree with the natural conclusion one will reach from Brother Hays' statement that he regards 200 feet as the extreme. In my judgment 125 feet should be regarded as the maximum, though it is quite possible to project a good picture at as much as 300 or even 400 feet but that was not the question. As a matter of fact, now that I come to think of it, Friend Hays has mixed up two very separate propositions and whereas he has answered the question, he has put in a lot of extraneous matter regarding throw. It does not follow that because the distance to the rear row of seats is great, the throw is also long. I know of one house where the back row of seats is 175 feet from the screen, but the lens is only 50 feet therefrom. Taking everything into consideration, I believe that after all, Brother Yager says a whole lot in very few words. Here is his reply to Question 152.

I would suggest that the extreme practical distance from the screen to the back row of seats would be not over 125 feet, since with anything above that you would lose the use of the front seats as fast as you would gain the back ones, owing to the fact that the picture would have to be very large, and for that reason would lose definition very fast, and would be very trying to the eyes of those in the front rows.

The Oratoragraph.

A new machine has recenty been invented by George P. McDonnell, chief engineer of the St. Louis Public Library, St. Louis, Mo. It is primarily designed to enable a lecturer who is delivering a lecture illustrated by motion pictures to keep his lecture in exact synchronism with the action of the film. It may, however, also be used to keep "talking pictures" in synchronism. It is, in effect, a reading machine which is, as far as the writer knows, entirely new, both in this country and abroad. It is described by the inventor as "designed to furnish better means of introducing speech to motion pictures used in photoplays, educational work, campaign speeches and lectures." It operates in synchronism with the motion picture machine, and by its use the claim is made that practical talking pictures are produced. Certainly this little device is a distinct improvement over anything we know of, at least as applied to lecture films and things of that kind. Mr. McDonnell says:

> In conjunction with this machine my camera prompting process enables a motion picture to be taken of an actor speaking his lines, a candidate delivering his speech or a professor giving his lecture, which, being previously prepared and reduced to writing, retain all the advantages of the careful wording and logic necessary to make the same effective.
>
> While the machine is projecting the picture to the screen the "Oratoragraph" is exposing the appropriate words to the reader or orator, who merely reads the lines as the words appear in the opening, the reader being, of course, out of sight of the audience, preferably behind the screen. It is not at all necessary that the orator see the pictures. He is concerned only with reading the matter, and is necessarily always reading in precise synchronism with the pictorial matter. He cannot read either too fast or too slow, since the reading space absolutely controls, and there is no limit to the time or length of the performance. In case more than one orator is desired with any picture, an additional reading machine is used for each additional character in the cast.
>
> The Oratoragraph is very simple in construction, weighing approximately four pounds. It consists of an electrical escapement which advances a typewritten roll at a predetermined speed. Electric wires connect the electric escapement on the Oratoragraph with the projection machine, and at each revolution of the projection machine crank an electric circuit is completed, and the Oratoragraph clicks off the words suited to the respective section of the picture being projected at the time. This machine is the result of more than eight years of hard work, careful research and study by the inventor, who is thoroughly conversant with previous attempts to produce talking machines and applying speech to pictures.
>
> If for any reason the reading matter is not in synchronism with the picture, it may be retarded or accelerated by opening or closing switches on the base of the machine until synchronism is reestablished. The Oratoragraph is especially designed for public schools, universities, colleges and commercial houes.

This little instrument, as I said in the beginning, is entirely new, and I have no doubt will prove of very distinct benefit in lecture work. I must, however, take the same position that I took with the Edison and other attempts at synchronizing the motion picture with speech, viz., in a motion picture in order for the thing to be effective the synchronizing must be absolutely perfect, and in this machine, as in others, this item is left in the hands of the operator. The action in motion pictures is very rapid, being sixteen pictures to the second, and as a matter of fact, if the synchronism be out even as much as an ⅛ of a second it is plainly discernible to the audience. The inventor say it is not necessary for the talker to see the picture, and then admits it is possible for the machine to get out of time with the picture. Brother McDonnell, so far as theatrical motion pictures be concerned those two statements don't fit together at all. For lecture purposes I can commend your machine to careful consideration, but as applied to "talking pictures" for the theatre, honesty compels me to voice the same objections I set forth the moment I saw how Mr. Edison's machine was intended to work, concerning which time vindicated my position. In my opinion there will never be an effective mechanical synchronizing of either the phonograph or the human voice with motion pictures which will be sufficiently perfect to prove successful for regular theatrical work. So far as lectures and educational work be concerned that is something else again, and your machine may prove to be precisely the thing.

Condenser Breakage.

Guy Albert, Vinton, Iowa, says:

> This is my first letter to the department, and I come seeking information. I cannot keep a condenser whole for more than 20 minutes after striking the arc. We use a Wotton Revolux, pulling 35 amperes with a 50-volt arc. Use a 6½-7¼-inch condensers with the 7¼ in front. Cannot get my arc more than 3 inches from back condenser. Is it the heat from arc that breaks the lens? If so, would a different length condenser stop my trouble?

First, my brother, if you have a Handbook, I would recommend that you turn to page 266, and read it and the following pages up to page 273 carefully. But in case you haven't a copy of the Handbook I will answer you as completely as space in the department will allow. First, your arc ought not to be more than 3 inches from the condenser, second the trouble may be caused by: (a) lack of proper ventilation in lamphouse, which sets up unnecessarily high interior temperature, (b) poor condenser holder or improper adjustment thereof; (c) improper ventilation of the condenser holder; (d) what you very evidently need is one of the improved types of condenser holder described on pages 266 and 267 of the Handbook. I would suggest that you have your supply dealer get you either a Preddy or Elbert condenser holder, which will, I think, stop your trouble. As to the focal length of condensers, why I simply cannot enter into a discussion on that kind in the department, because in order to give anything like a comprehensive understanding of the principles involved, I would be obliged to consume pages. The thing for you to do, and the only thing for you to do, is get a Handbook and study "Matching Up the Lens System." To give you some idea of why I cannot answer questions of that kind intelligently in the department, this subject alone consumes 33 pages of the Handbook, with two tables and more than a dozen illustrations; whereas, the subject of lenses consumes more than 20 pages, with many illustrations and one table. And in any event I could not answer your question intelligently from the data you have sent. I would have to know the back focus at which the objective works also its diameter. Now please don't jump to the conclusion that I am trying to induce you to buy a Handbook simply in order to make a sale. I want you to get the Handbook because you NEED IT, and because I simply cannot, as I said in the first place, give you any comprehensive understanding of the underlying principles of the question you ask, without taking up literally the entire space for two or three weeks of the department, whereas it is fully and comprehensively treated in the Handbook.

He Is Right.

Texas sends in a list of questions for answers to certain questions by mail, and says:

> I get value received for a full year's subscription from every copy of the World. I would not be without it for many times its price. I also have the third edition of the Handbook, but some of the drawings are to me quite complicated, therefore I prefer to pay for advice rather than experiment at the expense of the patrons of theater, and also most likely at my own expense.

The brother has precisely the right idea about not experimenting at the expense of his patrons, and also at his own expense. There are altogether too many trying to save a little money that way.

From New Brunswick.

After asking that his name be suppressed, this correspondent writes:

> Allow me to thank you, at this late date, for the personal benefit derived from your lecture in St. John. I have only one regret, viz., that you did not have time to give us more of it and that you could not see my work, for I was counting very much on your criticism. Am enclosing postage for carbon copy of reply. (Canadian postage stamps are of no value here. Canadian operators should enclose five cents, Canadian money, in lieu of stamps.—Ed.) to the following questions: (a) Have you ever received complaint that it is hard to fit repair parts to Simplex machines? (b) Do the Gundlach people put out a lens costing about $40 or $50, and would they allow price of the lens that is part of the equipment of the machine in exchange for the higher priced one? (c) Our throw is about 100 feet, using 60 cycle, 110 volt A. C. My idea is that a suitable picture under these conditions is about 17 feet, and that 70 amperes on a Mirroroide screen would be good illumination. (d) What size meniscus-bi-convex condensers would I require, and do you think I ought to have a Preddy mount for same? (e) Have been using a motor drive on my present job and realize the benefits of same. My new employer does not favor motor drives. What is your opinion on this matter? In closing, I want to thank you for what you have done for me in the past, through the medium of our wonderful department in the World.

(a) No, I have had no complaints of that kind. As a matter of fact Simplex parts are very well made, and while they fit closely, there should be no trouble in the matter of duplication. It must be remembered, however, that parts that fit closely must be wiped perfectly clean and thoroughly lubricated before they are inserted, otherwise they may stick. The framing cam, see 107 B, plate 4, page 522 of the Handbook, which carries the fly wheel and intermittent is particularly an example of this kind. It fits very, very close, must be started in just right, and must be thoroughly cleaned and well lubricated before it is inserted. If any of these things are overlooked you will certainly have trouble in getting the framing cam in, but if you go about it right you won't have any trouble at all. In this connection I would call your attention to Instruction No. 8, page 516, and Instruction No. 10, page 517 of the Handbook. I would also suggest to the brother that inasmuch as he is going to take charge of mechanisms which evidently are new to him, he ought to get a Handbook without delay and study up on the Simplex. (b) I don't know. Would suggest that you write the Gundlach-Manhattan Optical Company direct, addressing them at Rochester, N. Y. The Gundlach people have, up to date, taken no pains to keep this department posted as to their goods. (c) Sixteen foot is large enough, and for a 16-foot picture, in order to secure a brilliant illumination I would recommend between 70 and 80 amperes A. C. I would, however, suggest the installation of a current rectifying device, and the use of D. C. at the arc. In the long run it will pay your manager to do it. (d) Try it out first, and if you find you break lenses get either a Preddy or Elbert mount. As to the lens, I would refer you to Table I, page 141 of the Handbook, with the suggestion that after lining up your optical system and finding out what plano-convex you need, per the table, you order a meniscus-bi-convex having the same E. F. (e) The motor drive is a thing I opposed for a long time, but there is no use in butting one's head against a stone wall. There are two things in favor of the crank drive, and two things only, viz., the operator is compelled to stay beside his machine, where he belongs, which, as experience has taught in thousands of cases, he simply won't do when he has a motor drive, consequently he is more likely to watch the screen closer and change his speed to suit the action of the film by crank than he is by motor drive. On the other hand, the motor drive gives a steadier, more uniform speed. It relieves the operator of a lot of drudgery, and it is the modern way of doing things; therefore, your manager might as well do as I did, viz., fall in with the line of march of progress. I would suggest, however, that if you get a motor drive you do not do as thousands of operators do and abuse it by wandering around the operating room when you ought to be right there at your machine, with your eyes glued to the screen; also that you keep your hand on the machine control lever and use it as occasion demands.

A Criticism.

John Solar, Watertown, N. Y., writes:

> Criticising friend Martin's article in the September 23 issue, he compares his article with Mr. Armstrong's in the February 12 issue. The principal difference between the two is that Armstrong understood the subject he was discussing, whereas it seems that Martin does not. First, I will take up optical center: A normal lens does not have an optical center. In calculating a lens, measurements are made from the principal points. In viewing a lens from one side, the first principal point may be considered as the optical center, but if we view it from the opposite side the other principal point must be considered as the optical center. These principal points do not coincide, therefore we cannot have one fixed optical center. In a thin biconvex lens of which both surfaces have equal curvature, the principal point will not vary much from the center of the lens. We can, however, have a lens in which both principal points coincide, or, in other words, a lens having a fixed optical center; but to have this the lens must be a true sphere. Say we have a sphere with 2-inch radius, index of refraction 1.5. The focal length of any surface would be 4 inches, the thickness reduced to an equivalent air space $\frac{t}{u}$, in which t is the thickness of the lens (4 inches) and u the index of refraction (1.5). We then have $\frac{4}{1.5} = 2.66$, and the E.F. of two surfaces would be $\frac{4 \times 4}{4 + 4 - 2.66} = 3$, and the principal points $\frac{2.66 \times 4}{4 + 4 - 2.66} =$ 2 inches, the center of the 4-inch sphere, and as all points of a sphere are equal, the principal points would always be at the center of the sphere. Consequently in this abnormal lens we have an optical center. And it is the only shape in which the principal points coincide.
>
> Next I will take his plano combination, which he gives as 6½ and 6-inch lenses. The E.F. for these two lenses is 3.2

inches. The first principal point for the first lens is .58 of an inch from the plano surface. He says the distance from this surface to the arc as 3 inches than 1 .58 = 3.58 the first conjugate distance. If we represent this by U then its formulae for conjugate distance $\frac{I}{F} - \frac{I}{U} = \frac{I}{V}$ in which V equals the second conjugate distance. We found F to be 3.2 and U to be 3.58, then we have $\frac{3.12}{1} - \frac{3.58}{1} = \frac{24.09}{1}$.

V = 24.09 inches. The second principal point for the second condenser is .67 of an inch, then 24.09 - .67 = 23.42 the second conjugate distance from the surface of the lens which Martin gave this as 14¼ inches. Martin should give his figures for locating his positions.

And now let us consider the meniscus biconvex system: The first principal point is 1.375 inches from the first surface to the right within the combination. The back focus he gave as 3 inches the same as in the last case. We have here 3 - 1.375 = 4.375, the first conjugate distance. The lens in this combination he gave as 6½ and 7 inches, and the E.F. for these is 3.37 inches. Again we represent 4.375 by U and 3.37 by F, we have $\frac{1}{3.37} - \frac{1}{4.375} = \frac{1}{13.53}$; in this case V equals 13.53 inches, and this minus the second principal point for the second lens (.375) equals 12.15 inches. Martin gave this distance as 16.5 inches, a greater distance then for the plano combination, whereas it is much less, with a smaller spot.

By simular angles, or proportion, we have for the spot of the plano combination $3.75 : 3.58 :: \times : 24.09$ $\frac{3.75 \times 24.09}{3.58}$ = 2.52 inches. For the meniscus biconvex set we have $.375 : 4.375 :: \times : 13.53$ $\frac{13.53 \times .375}{4.375}$ = 1.16 inch at diameter of spot for second combination.

Telephoto Combination: This he shows as focusing a 1.5-inch spot 32.5 inches from the combination, which is absurd. The positive power of the combination is two meniscus lenses 5.5 and 9-inch focal length. The E.F. of these two lenses is 3.41 inches. He gives the power of the negative lens as 2.14 inches. The negative power is greater than the positive, and must prevail; hence, the whole combination is negative, and could not focus a real image. The focal point would be back of the lenses, and virtual. The E.F. of the positive and negative powers is $\frac{(-2.14) \times (-3.41)}{-2.14 + (+3.41)} = \frac{-7.2974}{+1.27}$ (−5.74). The result is a minus quantity, which indicates a negative power. And the image is virtual and 5.74 inches back of the lenses. This calculation is for illustration, and is approximate only. I have not considered the separation or thickness of the lenses.

Martin should learn to calculate the E.F. of a combination of positive and negative lenses before attempting to explain the action of light through them or designing a combination.

Brother Solar seems to understand pretty thoroughly what he is talking about, and possibly Friend Martin has tackled some things which he should not have undertaken until he had given the matter more thought and study. However, regardless of any errors Martin may have made, I am going to defend him by saying that his articles have brought out a great many valuable points which in all human probability might have remained in hiding for a long time if he had not shied his hat into the ring. I feel very grateful, and I am sure the fraternity at large is very grateful to both Martin and Solar, as well as Griffiths [illegible] for their very able discussions on the lens matter. The worst trouble with Solar's articles is that they are very difficult for the layman to understand; but this, I presume, cannot be avoided. He certainly keeps the editor touching the high spots all right, and I guess it is that way with some of the rest of you.

Improving An Old Lamp.

William Call, Moroni, Utah, sends in description of his method of improving an old style lamp so that the bottom carbon may be moved sideways. He suggest it publication in the department, and asks if it is worth a patent.

No, Brother Call, it would not pay you to patent it, and while I thank you for the good intent in sending it in, still I am not going to publish it, for two reasons. First, I cannot quite grasp your idea from the description; second, I don't believe in attempting to improve an old style lamp. The moving picture business has become too large to indulge in the tinkering up of old, more or less worn and out of date equipment. The lamp which you might patch up in this way will be used to project photoplays which cost many thousands of dollars, and I thoroughly disagree with the idea of attempting to save perhaps ten or fifteen dollars, or even fifty dollars for that matter, in a way which cannot help but be at the expense of perfect projection, and therefore at the expense of costly photoplays.

Your intention, Friend Call, was all right, and I thank you for submitting the description, but I am nevertheless bound to take issue with the idea as per the foregoing.

Old Time Reader.

R. A. Root, Jasper, Ala., sends money order for Handbook and subscription, and says:

> I have been a reader of the World almost ever since it began publication; also I well remember the old Film Index. Have been operating for the past seven or eight years, and enjoy the projection department very much. I think no one gets too old to learn, although there are still a great many operators who think they know it all. But that type of man is usually the one who does not really know much of anything; also he he does not want to, or cannot learn. This is my first letter to the department, as I have been pretty busy holding down my job. And when you talk about big town projection in a small town, why, this is the place, and I will put mine up against any in Birmingham, Memphis or New Orleans. I say this after having worked in some of the best houses in the above named cities. I have been a member of Local 236, I. A. T. S. E., Birmingham, Ala., for the past four years. I have been in two strikes, one in Birmingham and one in New Orleans, and I am not hankering for any more, thank you, if it can be avoided. With regard to Brother Howe's article, September 9th issue, on "Slide Projection," why he certainly

WELL, THE OLD MOTOR WOULDN'T SCRATCH FILM IN LESS THAN SIX MINUTES SO I INVENTED THIS LITTLE ONE MAN FILM EATER
THIS LITTLE DEVICE WAS INVENTED BY SPEEDEMOB MELLY A MOTOR CYCLE CAM AL USED BUT IN TRIALS IT WAS FOUND TO GET UP SUCH A REMARKABLE SPEED, IT TOOK FOUR MINUTES TO STOP THE PROJECTION SO WE ADVISE THE BICYCLE DRIVE.
COME ON, DON'T TURN THAT CRANK SO FAST DO YOU WANT THIS COMEDY TO MOVE LIKE A FUNERAL ON THE SCREEN, WE WANT ACTION
I GOTTA TURN IT FAST SO AS WHEN THEM OPERATORS SHOOT IT THRU IN SIX MINUTES THEY MOVE NATURAL DON'T WORRY ABOUT ACTION, LEAVE THAT TO THE SPEED MANIACS IN THE BOOTH, I GET ME
HELLO MOFFIT WHATS THE IDEA OF ALL THE BANDAGES, BEEN TO WAR
NO, I AINT BEEN TO WAR I JUST CRANKED TEN REELS IN SIXTY MINUTES THATS ENOUGH TO PUT A GUY ON CRUTCHES
WHEN THE EXTRA REMINDER THE LEADER MOVE
I DUNNO, THEY'RE MOVIN SO FAST I CANT RECOGNIZE EVEN A TALL ONE
LOOK, IF THEY MOVE MUCH FASTER THEY'RE MOVE RIGHT OFF THE SCREEN
UP IN FRONT, WHERE ITS ALWAYS DARK
LISTEN — YOU MANAGERS AND OPERATERS, LET THIS AND LET IT SINK IN, YOU'VE GIVEN THIS SHEET AS SARCASM THE ONCE OVER—KNOW ITS FAULTS
P.W. GRIFFITH AND THOMAS INCE AND A LOT OF OTHERS LAY AWAKE NIGHTS AND LABOR DAY, OVER THOSE BEAUTIFUL FIVE AND SIX REEL MASTERPIECES YOU GET FROM YOUR EXCHANGE—
AFTER YOU GET THEM, WHAT DO YOU DO WITH THEM?
WHY, YOU SHOOT 'EM THRU AT SO ALMIGHTY FAST AINT'S YOUR AUDIENCE GOES HOME THEY DONT KNOW WHETHER THEY'VE SEEN A COMEDY OR DRAMA
THE OTHER FELLOWS DOING HIS PART RIGHT ITS UP TO YOU, YES YOU TO PRESENT THEM RIGHT
IF YOU DONT WELL ALL I'M LOOKING FOR DIFFERENT JOBS BEFORE LONG—AND BY THE WAY
DID YOU EVER HEAR OF ANY GUY EVER GETTING A MEDAL FOR SPEEDING—BARNEY OLDFIELD GOT ONE ONCE BUT HE WORKS ON OFFICIALS

is right with regard to moisture collecting inside the slide. When I get a new slide I put it on top of my Powers' Six A lamphouse for a matter of fifteen minutes before running it, which heats it up and expels the moisture; also it will not crack so easily. My experience has been that if I run a slide without first drying it out the slide will crack nine times out of ten if exposed to the light for any length of time; also the glass farthest away from the arc breaks first. After drying the slides out I keep them in an ordinary cigar box I have attached to my Power's Six A between the lamp and the bottom magazine. This can only be done provided the lamphouse is back the width of a cigar box. I have two partitions in the box and keep certain kinds of slides in each compartment, therefore I know just where to get a slide, and am not all the time knocking them off and breaking them, also the position near the lamphouse keeps them dry.

All of which is of interest The Handbook has gone forward and the subscription has been entered. Speaking of the Handbook, I was amused on my last trip An operator in a certain town absolutely insisted that I go with him for a "drink," and along with us went, by his invitation, four or five others. The round of drinks cost him sixty cents. He had hardly paid the barkeep when he started in to explain to me that he needed a Handbook, but really had not been able to spare the money yet. You are quite right, Brother Root, with regard to the "know it alls." There is a surprising number of them, too. But some of them who came to my lecture doubtless got a tremendous jolt when I asked the assembled operators one or two perfectly simply, but highly important questions, and not one of them could give an intelligent, or even halfway intelligent answer. Really, I have watched some of the "know it alls" get pretty red in the face, and it tickled me to a considerable extent. I expect to be in Birmingham, New Orleans and Memphis during the winter trip Hope I shall have the pleasure of meeting you. I agree with you that strikes are not pleasant things, though unfortunately they are still sometimes a necessary evil. The slide glass most distant from the light cracks because it carries the emulsion.

New Theater.

A. C Hartman, manager of the Omaha Film, Machine and Supply Company, has opened another theater in Dundee, a restricted residence district of Omaha. This theater is a model suburban house, 30x114 feet in size. The construction is of brick and concrete. The lobby 28x30 feet, has a tile floor. Walls and ticket office are finished in tapestry brick and stucco. The windows are of leaded glass and the woodwork is mahogany finish. Seating capacity 410. Tiffany finished walls, varying from a brown to a light tan ceiling, overlaid with conventional designs in hand work, constitutes the interior decoration. Twenty-inch chairs, finished in French grey (waxed), are used, with thirty-two inches knee room. The screen is a 12x16 Gold Fibre, recessed in a four-foot black shadow box. The lighting is ten 20-inch baskets covered with gold silk and wistaria. There are twenty side lights finished in similar fashion. There is at all times sufficient illumination in the auditorium to enable one to read a newspaper. Both the Sturtevant and Vacuum Ventilation systems are installed, changing the air completely every threee minutes. There is a specially built Watson Picture Player. Baird projectors are used, taking current through a Hertner Electric transvertor. The remarkable thing, however, is the amperage used. The distance of projection is 97 feet with a 16-foot picture A Marlux lens and a 6½ and a 7½ inch meniscus-bi-convex condenser are used. The upper carbon is ½-inch cored with a ⅝-inch solid below, the amperage varying between 15 and 18 The picture is perfectly illuminated

The foregoing is the description sent in, and, accepting it at face value, the theater must be a beauty. However, whereas I do not for a moment doubt the possibility of illuminating a 16-foot picture with 15 to 18 amperes of current, still I most emphatically do doubt, not only the probability but the possibility of securing what I would call satisfactory illumination with that amount of current. Your revolving shutter cuts approximately 50 per cent. of the light, and there is an unavoidable loss at the spot, so that you are really telling me that you get a good 16-foot picture with about the equivalent of from 6 to 8 amperes effective light energy whereas it takes 15 to 18 amperes to produce really satisfactory stereopticon illumination, with almost no light loss at all. Sorry, old man, but I can't see it.

I expect to be in Omaha some time next spring, and at that time I certainly would like to see this particular thing.

From Texas.

J. W. Brown, Big Springs, Texas, contributes the following:

Having followed the department for some time with considerable interest, especially as to the letters from operators, I will try my hand at it. We have a modern, fireproof building, seating 800, with balcony and small stage. Gold fibre screen and a $10,000 "Fotoplayer" orchestra. The operating room is 10x15 feet, lined with black tin, and has a 16-inch vent flue. We have a Motiograph and a Powers' Six A, both motor driven; also motor driven rewind. I run on a G. E. mercury arc rectifier and warm up with a Fort Wayne compensarc, using an automatic switch for the change-over. Will describe the switch later if you wish, as it might be of some help to other operators. I use a miniature base 110 volt, 4 C. P., globe on each machine and over the rewind, which is all the light I ever have while the performance is going on. Will put one in each lamphouse later. As to the punch marks: It certainly is a shame the way some of the pictures are mutilated. It seems as if each operator who has handled them has punched his own private mark, and some guy has the habit of cutting holes, two or three to the reel, about an inch long and nearly one wide. In fact the last three or four feet of each reel is ruined, and the operator who is careful of results on the screen has to leave out this part, or else treat his audience to a fireworks display at the end of each reel. I have found that an operator can, after running a picture the first time, easily remember where to change-over, and I do not see why something can't be done to stop this practice of putting punch holes in. Your Handbook is my "bible." To be perfect in any line of work, one must follow the teachings of others and must accept all the advice he can get from one who knows. I have had my share of projection troubles, but the Handbook and department have always helped me to remedy them. "The best" is our motto, and although we have no competition we run the show as if we were fighting half a dozen others. In closing, I send best wishes for you and our department.

All right, Brother Brown, we will be glad to examine into the chronometer balance and cylinder escapement of that switch; shoot it along. As to the 4 C. P. globes, why I don't agree with that while the show is running. My system is black walls in the operating room, and no light at all except such as comes from the machine itself, and I don't want any from the machine which can possibly be avoided. The avoiding of the "fireworks" is something of a proposition. I am doing all I can to get action, but it is a slow process. I am particularly well pleased with your statement that although you have no competition you run the show as though you were fighting half a dozen others. That, my brothers, is the way to avoid competition. That is the mistake all too many small town men make. They get careless, put on a rotten show, and then the first thing they know there is competition They get busy then, and do what they should have done in the first place, but it is too late. I would particularly call attention to the sentence in question to all theater managers who are similarly situated.

In Returning Screens.

The J. H. Genter Company, Inc., Newburgh, N. Y., manufacturer of the Mirroroid Screen, voices a very valid complaint, as follows:

We have received a few screens in the past year in which the exhibitor claimed that spots or other faults had developed. We went to the trouble of either replacing their screen or offering to treat the same to a new surface gratis. Imagine our surprise, however, when the exhibitor returned the screen rolled up, in some instances, on ordinary square furring strips. In some cases they were even uncrated, and if crated, carelessness in making the shipping crates caused the total ruin of the screen. Also we have frequently found that the screen was packed in such a manner that great injury was done, and this entirely through the carelessness of the exhibitor.

This is certainly a legitimate complaint. To the best of my knowledge and belief there is no make of metallic surface screen which will not, in some instances, develop faults. Now if the manufacturer, under his five-year guarantee, offers to make this good, he is doing his whole and entire duty in the matter, and it certainly is up to the exhibitor to see to it that the screen is properly rolled on a round, NOT SQUARE, core and properly crated, so no injury will occur to it in shipment back to the factory. THE MIRROROID, OR ANY OTHER SCREEN COMPANY WOULD BE FULLY JUSTIFIED IN REFUSING TO MAKE ANY ADJUSTMENT WHATEVER WHERE THE SCREEN IS DAMAGED IN SHIPMENT THROUGH CARELESSNESS ON THE PART OF THE EXHIBITOR IN PACKING IT.

And while I am on the subject here is another thing: The hanging of a modern metallic surface screen is not properly a job for the stage carpenter. If it is left in the hands of such a one more than likely the result will not be the best, and quite possibly it will be highly unsatisfactory. Most, if not all, the recognized screen manufacturers either provide a frame or provide proper directions for building a frame for hanging and stretching their screens. And if the frame provided by the screen manufacturer is not used, then most emphatically at least the directions for making the frame and mounting the screen must be followed implicitly, otherwise the guarantee made by the manufacturer would very naturally become null and void.

The Genter Company sends a list of their intallations, giving name and address of the theater, during the past two weeks. This list shows fifteen screens to have been installed in theaters within fourteen days—a very good record. Most of them were good sized screens, too.

Richardson's

MOTION PICTURE HANDBOOK

For Managers and Operators

Over 700 pages and over 300 illustrations help to make a book that will be a lasting monument to its author's knowledge, ability and diligence. No such work on Projection has ever before been attempted, nor likely to be for many years to come. Price is $4.00 per copy, postpaid.

Address All Orders and Remittances to Nearest Office

MOVING PICTURE WORLD

17 Madison Avenue, New York

Schiller Building, Chicago, Ill.

Haas Building, Los Angeles, Cal.

Music for the Picture

Conducted by CLARENCE E. SINN and S. M. BERG

Musical Setting for "The Devil's Prize."

Released by The Greater Vitagraph

Musical Suggestions by S. M. Berg.

THIS Musical Suggestion Cue Sheet" is not designed to solve every possible musical requirement of the film, but is intended as a partial solution of the problem—what to play for the picture. It has proven to be of great assistance to the leader, not only by relieving to a degree the tedium of rehearsals, but by assisting materially in overcoming those conditions encountered when the film is not available until the hour of performance.

Musical Suggestion Cue Sheets can be obtained (free of charge) by managers from their local exchange in advance of the date of release, and a sufficient number should be secured to provide one for each member of the orchestra. This will afford to the progressive leader an opportunity to acquaint himself with the general character of the film drama he is to portray with his orchestra.

Together with the suggested music at the title or descriptive cues where it is to be played, the tempo or characteristic is given so that the leader can select or substitute any or all of the numbers from his own library, thereby avoiding any financial outlay though still carrying out the interpretation.

The timing of the picture is based on a speed of 15 minutes to a thousand feet. The time indications will help the leader to anticipate the various cues which may consist of the printed sub-title (marked T) or a described action (marked D). For instance: 38½ T "The day of the sale" is a sub-title and is printed reading matter on the screen. But 69 D, "When Arnold dies," is a description of action.

Arnold St. Clair, brilliant and wealthy through his marriage to Adeline Stratton, sacrifices everything to obtain his own ends. Forced by his wife's uncle, he persuades Hugh Rowland, a newspaper owner, to boost some mining stock, which results in the poor miners losing their investments. In further scheming to cover his misdeeds, he murders Mark Stratton, then trying to place the blame on another. After a series of dramatic incidents, just as he is about to be arrested, death overtakes him..

The character of this picture is an intensely dramatic modern Society Drama. The music for this picture should be subdued at all times so as to enhance the dramatic and tense situations.

Note particularly: Piano only according to action at 6.

The required THEME to interpret this picture must be dramatic in character, so Irenee Berge's "Dramatic Andante No. 32" is suggested.

Time schedule—71 minutes (5 reels—about 4,750 feet).

Time		Sub-titles or descriptive cues.	Music
0	D	Opening.	Joy of Youth—Raymond (Moderato [illegible])
2	T	"See what Uncle Jonny—"
3	T	"It is St. Clair and his—"	Dream Chimes—Wyatt (Andante moderato)
4½	T	"Mark Stratton, Mrs. St. Clair's—"
6	D	Rowlands call on the St. Clairs. (Piano only according to action)	Dramatic Andante No. 32—Berge. Repeat: THEME
8	T	"It's too late now to be sorry."
9½	T	When Emmy came.	Cradle Song—Mendelssohn (Andante sostenuto)
13	T	"I've heard so much about your—"
14¼	T	Mark Stratton faces a weighty—	Reverie—Macdowell (Andante)
16	T	And determine to use this—
19	T	"Are you sure you haven't—"	Impromptu in E flat (Poco Allegro, con affeto)
22	T	"How he loves children."
24	T	"You know St. Clair's ever fallen—"	Andante Pathetique No. 23—Borch
25½	T	"So you've converted Stratton."
27½	T	"See here, Stratton, if this deal—"	Dramatic Andante No. 24—Borch (a Work of Love—Pandix) (Andante sostenuto)
30½	D	Adeline enters child's room.
31¼	T	St. Clair feels that he can't—
32½	T	The booming of the Westfield—	Lyonis Allegro No. 25—Borch
35	T	"You backed out of this scheme."	Repeat: THEME
38½	T	The day of the sale.	Pizzicato No. 28—Berge (Petite Ballet)
41	T	Westfield News Panic—
42½	D	When miners congregate.	Allegro Agitato No. 1—Kiefert
43¾	T	"They'll believe I was—"
45¾	D	When miners leave office.	Repeat: THEME.
47¼	T	In the months that followed.
49	D	Stratton embraces Myra.	Can I Forget?—De Koven (Andante con moto)
50¼	T	"You're afraid she'll tell."
53	T	"Watch your chance to give—"	Misterioso Dramatico No. 22—Boreh
55	T	"Come, Baldwin, don't put it—"
56	T	"I'll give you your last chance."	Andante Dramatic No. 15—Herbert
57	T	Stratton has just been murdered.
58	T	"It was Baldwin who did it."	Dramatic Tension No. 9—Andino
61¾	D	Clock-face—10:30
62	T	"John, you can't push this case."	Dolorosa—Tobani (Moderato con expressione)
64½	D	Rowland puts out light
66	D	When child wakes up	Repeat: THEME.
69	D	When Arnold dies.	Misterioso Dramatico No. 22—Borch
70	D	When Rowland embraces child	Repeat: THEME.
71	T	The End.

For Special Prices of the above Musical Suggestions, see Berg's advertisement.

Tempo.

By S. M. Berg

Every musical composition is always marked in some form or other with the speed at which it should be performed. When a composer writes a number he has in mind the way he desires it to be rendered. Musicians, however, do not always give a serious thought to this problem, or note with sufficient care, the marked tempo.

The word Tempo is Italian. In German, Zeitmass, meaning rate of speed, movement, time, measure or beat. A Tempo or Tempo Primo—return to the original tempo; Tempo alla breve—half tempo; Tempo comodo—at a convenient pace; Tempo debole—weak beat; Tempo forte—strong beat; Tempo giusto—strict tempo; Tempo perduto—irregular, unsteady tempo; Tempo primo—as first tempo; Tempo ternario—triple time.

Tempo-mark. A word or phrase indicating the pace or speed of a movement and thus establishing the absolute time-value of the notes—Generally accepted tempo-marks were hardly known before the beginning of the 17th century, and were used sparingly until the 18th.—There are 3 classes; (1) indicating a steady rate of speed, (2) indicating acceleration; (3) indicating a slackening of the pace.—They do not in themselves indicate a fixed and positive rate of speed, but only the general character of the movement; consequently, for the sake of precision, a metronome mark is often added to the tempo-mark. Furthermore, various qualifying words are added

CLASS I.

(Indicating a steady rate of speed.)

Group I General Signification of terms is SLOW

- Larghissimo, Molto largo
- LARGO (broad, stately)
- Largamente
- Larghetto
- GRAVE (heavy, dragging)
- Lento (slow)
- Adagissimo
- ADAGIO (slow, tranquil)
- Adagietto

Group II General Signification of terms is FAST

- Andantino
- ANDANTE (moving along)
- Moderato
- Allegretto
- Allegramente
- ALLEGRO (brisk, lively), (conmoto, vivace) agitato, appassionato
- PRESTO (rapid), (con fuoco veloce)
- Prestissimo

CLASS II.

(Indicating acceleration.)

- Accelerando (gradually accelerating)
- Stringendo, Affrettando, Incalzando (suddenly accelerating, usually with a crescendo)
- Doppio movimento (twice as fast)
- Piu mosso, Veloce (a steady rate of speed, faster than preceding movement)

CLASS III.

(Indicating a slackening in speed.)

Rallentando, Ritardando, Largando, Tardando, Slentando, Strascinando — (gradually growing slower)

Ritenuto, Meno mosso — (a sudden drop to a lower rate of speed)

Calando, Diminuendo, Morendo, Sminuendo, Smorzando — (growing slower and softer)

This question of tempo is of more importance to the Moving Picture Player, than to any other class of musician. I have always advocated in these columns that license should be allowed in the broadness of the interpretation of tempo, so as to carefully follow the action of the picture. But it is in the rendering of compositions suggested in what might be aptly described as the neutral scenes that more care of tempo should be taken.

As an instance of carelessness on behalf of the leader, a few nights ago, at a theater, the scene called for a Misterioso which the leader started to play. It happened to be the Pizzicato Misterioso No. 30 from Berg's Incidental Series, composed by Adolf Minot. The tempo-marking being Moderato 2/4, Strings, of course being Pizzicato. The leader, however, took it at allegro, the consequences being that the strings were unable to play the number at such a rapid speed, so that the whole desired effect of mystery was lost.

Take, for example, that well-known composition by Victor Herbert, "Badinage." Here is a composition which, under my impression, is a test of any orchestra's or director's ability, because so much can be added to the composition by carefully following the composer's markings and tempos.

Characteristic numbers are another stumbling block for musicians. A Metronome is not a very expensive outlay, and a little study given to one will doubly repay any musician in grasping by a momentary glance the tempo markings on music, and he will also find that his ability to read at first sight will be greatly improved.

Careful attention to marks of expression and tempo is but a further requirement in the make-up of a musician, earnestly striving to interpret the emotions of the film.

Increased Demand for Our Productions

Fully 60 Per Cent. of Productions Shown in Great Britain Are of American Make—Higher Import Duties Fail to Affect Market.

CONSUL C. M. HITCH, Nottingham, England, writes in "Commerce Reports" that American photoplays are popular throughout the United Kingdom. Fully 60 per cent. of the pictures shown here are of American manufacture, and the demand appears to be steadily increasing. The balance of the films shown appear to be chiefly British, French and Italian.

The prices on films released for the open market—those which may be shown at more than one place at the same time—range from $30 per 1,000 feet for the first three days of their release to $1.25 per 1,000 feet after they have been in use for a few months. Those for which exclusive rights to exhibit have been granted bring from $25 to $250 per week, a fair average being $30 per 1,000 feet for three days.

There has been considerable agitation in the press in favor of limiting film imports into this country. It was thought for a time that the recent imposition of a customs duty of two-thirds cent per foot on blank films, 2 cents per foot on positive films, and 10 cents per foot on negative films would have a tendency to lessen the imports, but so far there has been no apparent diminution in the demand for foreign films.

Picture houses are well patronized in all sections of Great Britain, although the average price of admission is somewhat higher than in the United States. The prices outside of London generally range from 3d. (6 cents) to 1s. (24 cents), with an additional war tax, which came into force on May 15, 1916, and which varies according to the price of admission. Where the admission exceeds 2d (4 cents), but does not exceed 6d. (12 cents), the tax is 1d. (2 cents). Where it exceeds 6d. (12 cents), but does not exceed 2s. 6d. (60 cents), the tax is 2d (4 cents). This tax is always added to the cost of the ticket, and is paid by the public.

American films are usually imported through Liverpool or Southampton, and prices are quoted f. o. b. New York. The usual terms of sale, when American firms are selling to agents in London, are cash against documents, with a discount varying from 2½ to 10 per cent. The common terms between English distributers and renters are cash against weekly invoices. To secure a footing in this market it is advisable to open a branch, or grant agency rights to some established firm. All the American film companies doing business in Great Britain have recognized this requirement. As London is the chief distributing center, it would be advisable to establish a branch or agency there, for the amount of business to be done in Nottingham and district would hardly warrant the location of a general agency here.

The present demand appears to be chiefly for films produced from the stories of prominent writers, particularly one-reel and two-reel dramas, with a leaning toward romance. This is attributed to the fact that most of the picture houses throughout this country are a present patronized largely by women and children. Apparently there is a good opening for the production of films illustrating American cities and life and reviews of current events, but there is no demand for war dramas, nor is any expected for some time.

Honduras Theaters Show Foreign Films

But American Subjects Are Popular—High Cost of Rental Precludes Use of Our Pictures.

THERE is not a playhouse for the spoken drama on the north coast of Honduras, and in the Ceiba consular district the only public amusements are motion picture shows, of which there are two, one in Ceiba, the other in Tela, says Consul Francis J. Dyer at Ceiba in "Commerce Reports." The house in Ceiba gives three shows a week—Thursday, Saturday and Sundays.

Both of these houses secure their films from Guatemala City. The Ceiba theater presents from 5,000 to 8,000 feet of film at each performance—French and Italian, and occasionally one from the United States; in the latter case usually a "wild west" film with cowboys and Indians, always popular with local audiences and provocative of boisterous applause. All comic and western films go well here. The foreign films are frequently of the society-drama type, which are less favored.

The Tivoli theater in Ceiba seats 1,000. The entire front of the frame structure is occupied by the "cantina," where soft drinks, beer, wines and liquors are served, as well as sandwiches. On the first presentation of a film the admission prices are 1.25, 1 and 0.50 pesos, local currency, equivalent in United States gold to 51.25, 41 and 20.5 cents. On the second presentation of a film the scale of admission is 1, 0.75 and 0.25 peso (41, 30.75 and 10.25 cents). When the lower scale prevails the house is often filled to capacity.

Usually the show begins at 8 o'clock and lasts until 11, with an intermission, which gives an opportunity to visit the "cantina," although drinks are served to patrons in their seats. Outside several little carts dispense popcorn, which meets with a ready sale, and the street venders also sell native cakes and sweetmeats and "frescoes," or cool drinks, consisting mostly of shaved ice and fruit syrup. The local American population contributes but little to the attendance.

Expenses are comparatively heavy. Frequently the box office receipts do not meet them, but the bar makes up the deficiency. The cost of the films is $18 gold a night. The proprietor (J. Figols) says that if he obtained his films from the United States they would cost him $23 a night, but he has had an offer from the Cuban office of an American concern to supply him with films for a period of three months at 1 cents per foot. As his contract for the Guatemala films has six months to run, he has not been able to close with this offer.

Dr. R. H. Wilson is lessee of the theater in Tela, which seats 400 persons and does a good business one night a week. Formerly it gave four shows a week, but now it is open only on Sundays. Like the Tivoli theater, in Ceiba, it is on the Guatemala circuit, and therefore it has to use French and Italian films, although the American films are more popular. The price paid is $4 per 1,000 feet for 30 days.

Dr. Wilson has been in negotiation with the manager of the cinematograph in San Pedro Sula for the use of that theater's films, which are procured from the United States, but the best terms offered him, he says, are 50 per cent. of the gross receipts. The Tela theater presents 8,000 feet of film at a performance which lasts an hour and a half, and the admission price is 1, 0.50 and 0.25 peso (41, 20.5 and 10.25 cents). There is no duty on rented films.

"LUMBERLANDS" OPENS IN THE CHIEF CITIES.

In many of the best theaters of the large cities of the country Helen Holmes' new fifteen chapter thrill picture, "A Lass of the Lumberlands," had its first chapter showing Monday, October 23, and managers report it was given "a critical and flattering reception." The Pantages Circuit of vaudeville and moving picture houses opened its Minneapolis theater Saturday, October 28, with "A Lass of the Lumberlands." This opening marks "the farthest East" movement of Pantages entertainment.

Motion Picture Educator

Conducted by REV. W. H. JACKSON and MARGARET I. MACDONALD

TO IMPROVE FILMS FOR THE YOUNG.

Movement for Stimulating Interest in This Important Subject Steadily Growing.

THE most hopeful note in the present movement for better films for young people is the practical and systematic manner in which the work of stimulating interest is being pursued. The growth of a children's theater has been astonishingly slow. As far back as 1909 we find the Kalem Company trying to form a precedent in the manufacture of films designed to meet a condition that was not yet formally recognized.

In 1910 a western publication interested itself to the extent of soliciting and printing letters from children varying in age from eleven to fifteen years. These letters were intensely interesting, and in almost every case a preference was shown for the best that the market had to offer. Subjects that helped them in their studies found favor; and the boys, boy-like, did not forget to remind the reader of their devotion to Wild West pictures. About the same time the children's matinee was being advocated by staff writers of the Moving Picture World, following which the question of the moving picture in the school began to stir itself.

Nineteen hundred and thirteen found the American Museum of Safety requesting the New York exhibitors to give afternoon exhibitions of pictures bearing on the dangers of the streets of the metropolis. In the same year Mrs. Laura Cogswell, known at the time as the "Moving Picture Mother," advocated through the Children's Moving Picture League an appropriation of $12,000 a year for the establishment of Saturday exhibitions for children, to be held in certain theaters and aduitoriums in Greater New York. The first exhibition for children following this movement occurred in July, 1913. The program started at 9 o'clock and lasted until noon. Crippled children were admitted free of charge. It is also recorded that a couple of clean vaudeville numbers were included in the program, which consisted largely of pictures of a patriotic order, winding up with a portrayal of Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg.

What is usually referred to as the commencement of the present movement occurred in 1914 when the Parent-Teacher League of Louisville, Ky., busied itself with the subject and succeeded in instituting a Saturday morning performance for children at the Mary Anderson theater. In 1915 the movement toward the establishment of the children's theater as a more permanent thing spread rapidly, until at the present time the centers where the children's theater has become an established fact number in the neighborhood of three hundred; and an increasing demand for information as to how to make these exhibitions a success bears witness to the fact that the exhibitor is alive to the situation.

The residuum of what has gone before can now be summed up in the well organized effort which is being put forth by the National Committee on Films for Young People (affiliated with the National Board of Review) in co-operation with the Motion Picture Committee of the General Federation of Women's Clubs. The speaking tour throughout the Middle West arranged by these organizations for Miss Mary Gray Peck is proving eminently successful in that she has aroused great enthusiasm in the subject of the better film in those cities which she has visited.

On October 9 Miss Peck addressed the club women in the Court House at Erie, Pa. On October 10 she delivered an address at a dinner of the Social Workers' Club of Toledo, Ohio, and also at a meeting in the Commerce Building. In both cities arrangements are being made for special children's performances. At Grand Rapids, Mich., October 13, Miss Peck conferred with a committee of women and with the exhibitors, the exact result of which will be made known at a later date. In the same city she addressed an audience which filled the auditorium of the Ladies' Literary Club house to the doors, and which included the Mayor and many prominent women of the city. On October 16 she visited South Bend, Ind., and at Indianapolis she conferred with a committee of prominent women interested in a city-wide movement for better films. In Springfield, Ill., she addressed the women's clubs, and gave practical suggestions to women interested in the use of selected films in central Illinois, and on October 20 the Children's Section of the State Conference of Charities then being held at Alton, Ill., claimed her attention.

In addition to the work of Miss Peck, similar efforts are being put forth by other members of these committees. Dr. Cranston Brenton has addressed the women's clubs of Macon, Ga.; Miss Kate Oglebay has spoken on the subject of better films at Wheeling, W. Va.; Miss Louise Connolly delivered an address on the same subject at Philadelphia. Miss Mary Newell Eaton addressed a meeting at Jackson, Mich., and Miss Millie Trumbull, of Portland, Ore., at Seaside, Ore.

At the invitation of Mrs. Daniel Van Winker of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs, Mr. Orrin G. Cocks, advisory secretary of the National Board of Review, addressed a large meeting of representative club women of New Jersey on October 17 in the parlors of the Y. W. C. A., Newark, N. J. The subject chosen by Mr. Cocks was the use of better pictures. Mr. Cocks' remarks were received with enthusiasm by those present, who went away thoroughly convinced that legal censorship by the state or by officials at Washington was no solution of the problem of the use of better pictures. All agreed that the weight of influence of the New Jersey Federation should be thrown in favor of the emphasis on better films, and films which were adapted for entertainment for boys and girls.

Other addresses that are scheduled to be delivered in the near future will be given by Dr. Cranston Brenton before the City Club of Boston, and Miss Helen Duey, who speaks before the Federation of Women's Clubs in Buffalo in November.

According to present statistics and whispered rumors of other developments of an interesting nature scheduled to take place in the near future the problem of better films for young people is nearer a solution than ever before.

MARGARET I. MACDONALD.

"THE CRISIS."

When a picture is founded upon a well known book, written by a well and favorably known author, the foundation is laid for a successful film. "The Crisis" is a widely known and read book. To all who have read it the picture will come with increased interest, an interest which will detract from the value of the picture if the book has not been read. In conjunction with other well known pictures along the line of this same story this picture might almost be called "The Saving of a Nation."

As an addition to pictures dealing with great events in American history, schools will welcome this film, which truthfully portrays the times from 1861 to 1865, and deals with the problems of the South, as well as the rise and rule of the great Lincoln. It might be suggested that this picture and that of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" show distinctly two sides of a great movement, both of which should be seen to broaden the knowledge which the respective books convey. "The Crisis" also gives an opportunity to study the political atmosphere of those days, and there are places where the student can find occasion to parallel events with those of today.

A general review of this film having appeared in the Moving Picture World it would seem more educative here to look at the picture along lines more distinctly advantageous to the student. Antedating his debate with Douglass, Lincoln is found in that semi-obscurity from which his famous debate rescued him for all time. The presentation of his question to Douglass is made an important event in the story and so on through meetings of the cabinet, and being interviewed in the white house, a very careful study of his manner in general is a commendable feature of the film.

Strong Southern characters are seen in Col. Carvel and Judge Whipple, while the North is most characteristically represented by young Brice, who eventually becomes a leader, both in the army and in those paths which find favor with the great President. The author of the book tells us why he laid the foundation when and where he did. The picture reveals the wisdom of this more than the book could ever do. In this the picture is exceptional, in that it improves the idea of the book by giving a larger life, introducing more realism, so that not only do the characters stand out in greater prominence and faithfulness, but the people and problems of the times are borne in upon the mind of the student with a power which gives greater truth to and a deeper conception of those great events which the nation was called upon to solve.

The love story with Virginia Carvel as the central figure affords an opportunity for an easy and pleasant way to introduce home, social and political customs as they were so interwoven in the South of that time. The picture is full of interest from beginning to end, there is not a lost moment or a scene without its lesson, as a portrayal of life it is supreme and we have nothing yet which will give an immortal purpose to the life of Lincoln than is found here.

"The Crisis" may be classified under many heads according to the object of the user, but it will without doubt be always placed upon the educational columns, and that under many classes; but, whether it be as a Lincoln picture, or as illustrating the most important crisis in American history, or whether it deals with North or South, slavery or the war, it will be found always acceptable; as a story in which fiction is founded upon, and interwoven with fact, it will interest first and then thrill, it will always be successful. The credit for producing this picture must not be withheld from the Selig Polyscope Co., while the rights have been secured by Messrs. Sherman Elliot Co., of Chicago. W. H. JACKSON.

EDUCATIONALS SEEN IN NEW YORK.

Among educationals seen this week in New York are "Striking Scenes from America's Big Workshops." This seems to be the beginning of a series of pictures depicting the leading industries and will prove interesting from any standpoint. An addition to good scenics is "A Visit to Honolulu." This is an unusually picturesque city abounding in good views of beauty as well as interest and will be much admired.

"To the Rainbow," a trip to the Rainbow Falls, Northern Washington, photographed by Jesse G. Sills, under the direction of Robert C. Bruce, shows a series of the world's most varied and beautiful waterfalls. Extraordinary difficulties must have been encountered to secure these most beautiful views and great credit is due to those who have been so successful in doing so, while increasing one's knowledge of America they add to the rapidly growing list of Picturesque pictures.

In two new pictures, "The Lash" and "Witchcraft," the theme of intolerance is given a place in very similar ways and in a manner justifying the theme of the larger picture now so well known. Serving an educational purpose these pictures will together bring before the public various instances of applied intolerance which cannot fail to bear fruit in the condemnation of that spirit which has so long held many otherwise worthy people under a prejudicial spell.

W. H. JACKSON.

NEW IVAN PUBLICITY MAN.

L. Lawrence Baren, formerly publicity manager for the "To-Day" Company, which had quite a run at 48th Street theater, New York, about two years ago, and who has since been connected with film companies in New York and Chicago, has become director of the publicity department for the Ivan Film Productions, Inc. Mr. Baren has been connected with theatricals for the past twenty years, and has directed the fortunes of such stars as Blanche Walsh, Bertha Kalish, Jacob P. Adler and David Kessler. For the past year he has had an independent exchange in Boston, Mass., handling independent films.

HECTOR SARNO JOINS FOX.

Hector V. Sarno, has jointed the Fox forces and has been assigned to a forthcoming production. Mr. Sarno was born in Naples, and spent the first years of his adult life in the Italian army. Before going into motion pictures he played in stock with Novelli and other Italian stock companies.

Prize Contest Decided

Eleven Authors Win Awards in Traveler-Atlas Contest—Winner to Be Produced at Once.

WINNERS in the prize script contest conducted by the Boston Traveler in conjunction with the Atlas Film Company, of Boston, has been decided and eleven authors have been made happy by prizes ranging from $500 to $25. The list follows:

First—"Polly Pretend," by Eliot H. Robinson, 330 Tremont Building, Boston. $500.
Second—"Travers or the Cipher Code," by Theodore Sheldon, 40 Gramercy Park, New York City. $250.
Third—"The Dream Girl," by E. L. Leavitt, 74 Bloomingdale street, Chelsea. $100.
Fourth—"Santa Claus's Little Joke," by Mrs. Thomas Jefferson, 5 Summit Road, Natick. $50.
Fifth—"Billy's Breakfast," by Miss Helen Minshal Young, 509 East Seventy-seventh street, New York City. $25.
Sixth—"When the Dawn Came Up," by Miss Clara M. Carraher, 9 Homes avenue, Dorchester. $25.
Seventh—"The Pledge of Love," by Antone Rose, 129 Division street, New Bedford. $25.
Eighth—"The Fleet One," by E. W. Bodge, Bar Mills, Me. $25.
Ninth—"The Shop Window Orgy," by Addie F. Norcross, 582 Newbury street, Boston. $25.
Tenth—"The Dread Spectre," by Eliot H. Robinson, 330 Tremont Building, Boston. $25.
Eleventh—"In Her Father's Footsteps," by Mrs. Edward Pells, Windsor Hills, Baltimore, Md. $25.

Checks for the fifth to the eleventh prize have already been sent and the winners of the first four prizes will receive their awards at the Movie Ball in the Boston Arena, November 22. The judges were Winthrop Ames, of the Little theater; Prof. Hugo Munsterberg, Salito Salino, of the Traveler; Leon E. Dadmun, of the Atlas, and Epes Winthrop Sargent. The prize script will be given early production at the company's plant at Newton Highlands.

PATHE WINS CASE AGAINST DEALER.

The suit of Pathe Exchange, Inc., against the A. F. T. Corporation for the recovery of a complete set of "Who Pays?" which was found in the possession of the defendant, was tried before a jury in the Supreme Court in New York County on the 16th and 17th of October. The defendant claimed to have bought the films in good faith in ignorance of the fact that they had been stolen. In fact, it contended that it had been induced to buy them by a detective employed by the Pathe Company, who represented that he was acting for "a friend in Cuba" who wanted to buy. The judge instructed the jury that good faith was not an element in the case. In fact, there was no evidence in any way suggesting anything else than good faith on the part of the defendant. Yet Pathe won. The moral is: be sure the man who offers to sell is the owner of his goods.

GLOBE-TROTTER TALKS ON TRADE PROSPECTS.

Charles H. Bancroft, for several years a resident of St. Petersburg, Russia, and who has made several tours of the world, was a visitor at the Triangle-Ince studios in Culver City last week. He is deeply interested in the moving picture industry, and upon coming to Los Angeles for the winter decided to visit the studio where he could meet personally his favorite screen stars.

"I am certain," said Bancroft, "that the American motion picture producers will reap a harvest, at the conclusion of the European war, in every country on the continent. For that matter Russia, Australia, New Zealand and practically all of the foreign nations will patronize the American picture, as they far exceed in point of excellence the European output."

UNIVERSAL PLAYERS IN GRAND CANYON.

Director Lynn Reynolds and his company of Universal players have gone to the Grand Canyon, where at least ten days will be spent filming scenes for Reynolds' own story, "The Man with the Peanut Soul." George Hernandez, character actor in Reynolds' company, will play the feature lead, with Myrtle Gonzalez in his support.

PARAMOUNT'S MANAGER IN NEW POSITION.

P. K. Johnson, former manager of the Syracuse branch of the William L. Sherry Feature Film Co. of New York, distributors of Paramount pictures in that section, has accepted a position as assistant to Manager W. C. Bachmeyer of the Paramount Cincinati office. Mr. Johnson is well known and had a successful career as road man for Sherry.

Spokes from the Hub

By Marion Howard.

HERE in the Hub we have a motion picture house converted into a church on Sunday morning. It is our effete Fenway, managed by Frank Stanton. This theater, you know, is the one to show the skill of Mr. Rothapfel of New York. Therefore the stage and its settings take high rank, as well as the music kept up to the same standard for which he set the pace. Mr. Stanton introduced an innovation recently in having a flock of pigeons, differing in color and breed, fly from the wings to a rustic fence fronting the pictured back drop. There they picked at bites of bread crumbs and behaved remarkably well during the orchestral number. There are no gaudy decorations about this stage, simply a row of potted plants of gay hue just below the border lights. The use of colored arc lights is effectively managed. About that church? Well, it is used by the Second Universalist parish, the Rev. Stephen H. Roblin, pastor, and distinguished for its choir, made up of four big soloists. Mr. Roblin does not exactly preach, but talks from the heart in an informal manner. The organist, Harris Shaw, is enthusiastic over the fine organ at this theater. I happen to know that nine-tenths of that congregation are attendants at the picture houses and find much enjoyment. In passing, let me say that the Fenway resumes its activity in the evening and gives excellent picture plays to a large following. A marked feature of this theater is the air of hospitality which confronts one on entering the lobby and foyer, where a comely matron is on duty and a staff of well-trained ushers gowned in white. This also prevails on the balcony floor.

* * *

Pathe's two fine plays "The Shine Girl" and "The Light That Failed" went strong here and were "repeated" at various theaters. It was the consensus of opinion that "Bob" Edeson has done nothing quite so well as in the Kipling play. At the Boston theater, showing it first, I saw scores of business men, to say nothing of many members of the Boston Authors' Club, including one of its leaders, Nathan Haskell Dole, a frequent visitor to picture houses and one of the most critical of all the literary lights here. I was much amused at the remarks of a chatterbox in front who deplored the unhappy ending and said: "The idea of letting such a hero die!" Her companion volunteered the statement that Kipling killed him, whereupon she remarked, "Nonsense, one of those Arabs did." There you are!

* * *

"Romeo and Juliet," with Bushman and Bayne, made no end of a hit here, put on at the Globe theater, which is building up a growing patronage despite its location in a not overfascinating part of our busy thoroughfare named for George Washington. It is under able management and some features of this house are in pleasant contrast to others. For instance, the orchestra is on the floor, so that when the musicians move about they do not distract attention from the picture as they do when on the stage. The screen is hung low and there is no eyestrain experienced. The back set pictures an Italian city at night with lighted windows. This theater shows the Mary Pickford pictures first here, and we have "Less Than the Dust" early in November. "The Return of Eve," was seen here, and we get Herbert Brenon's "War Brides," a most interesting announcement in the Hub, as the author, Marion Craig Wentworth, wrote the little play and she hails from this village. Furthermore it was first put on at Keiths under her direction. Mrs. Wentworth is a member of the Professional Women's Club, which gave quite an affair in honor of Nazimova now in the pictures—happily.

* * *

It was not my intention to dismiss "Romeo and Juliet" so summarily, neither is it my province to review any play in these columns. New York critics have ably voiced the sentimens of Hub devotees of this classic. Unlike other cities, we have no regular critics sent to see the best pictures, evidently, therefore, the floating public is unaware of the great merits in this offering, but I venture to say that all who saw it (on at three theaters), became walking advertisements, as they should. At the Modern we have another "Romeo and Juliet" with Theda Bara as Juliet, put on, I hear, with much lavishness.

* * *

Among the best pictures with the Morosco brand seen here is "The House of Lies," featuring Edna Goodrich (Mrs. Nat Goodwin No. 4) doing her best work. Much has been said and favorably in print, about this play, but what we liked best was the surprise ending, when the fair Edna appeared in bridal robes minus the scar. "Home," with Bessie Barriscale, proved quite the cleverest satire on snobbery ever seen our way, and reflected great credit on the Triangle director, Raymond West. Here we had George Fisher, the Christus in "Civilization," in a part dear to the young things in front—the manly lover in modern dress. The story never lagged once and a marked feature was the good titling.

* * *

When the Metros put on "Henry's Thanksgiving," as a member of the Sunset Club of New York City I am going to make up a party of women past sixty and take it in. Why? Because several of my sister members take part, as pictured in recent issues of this publication. The Drews, for whom it was written, are enthusiastic over their new extras. The last three Drew pictures have perpetrated the impossible word "alright" despite private protests galore. Another picture by these producers featuring Mabel Taliaferro had this "Baloon."

* * *

Here are a few pictures seen of late to merit approval of our patrons: "The Daughter of Macgregor," with the reliable brand Famous Players; "Friday the 13th," "Ashes of Embers," strong in spots but weak elsewhere, though Pauline Frederick and Earle Foxe make it a go; "Little Miss Happiness," charmingly human, a play for young and old to enjoy, a good Fox play showing up the village gossips, and minus the sex stuff too common in their pictures; "The Combat," featuring Anita Stewart, whom fans have a weakness for; "The Wheel of the Law," with Emily Stevens after a long absence from the screen. Here we had a look at Harry Davenport and that dependable leading man Frank Mills, last seen here in "The House of Mirrors," a Mutual picture with Lillian Kemble and those dear kiddies; "Through the Wall," one of the best detective mystery plays offered us—better even than Sherlock Holmes (some of our lawyers say). The wreck scene in mid-ocean was some thriller.

* * *

"The Eye of God" was put on at a suburban theater and so I went again to see it, as it features Tyrone Power, whom all Greater Boston saw in "Where Are My Children?" In referring to this play earlier I inadvertently called it "The Eye of the Night," that strong Triangle play and bearing no resemblance to the Universal one, though quite as good.

* * *

"The Quest of Life" ought to appeal to believers in mind over matter such as C. S. teaches, for its lesson appears in this picture very appealingly. Maurice and Florence Walton's dancing is not so familiar to us here as that of the Castles, but I quite agree with the man behind us who said "Vernon hasn't anything on this chap." It was a good entertainment all through and the house applauded.

* * *

Two very strong offerings at the Park were "The Chattel," with Sothern and "Jaffery." At the Exeter I saw W. S. Hart in "The Patriot" and commend this to all managers for its lesson in patriotism and for the finished work of Hart and that dear little chap. "The Unwelcome Mother," a Fox film was seen at the Fenway, which is playing Fox and Paramount pictures and giving us Mary Pickford matinees.

* * *

Among short subjects put on by Mrs. Ayer at her select theater, the Exeter, "Blind Man's Bluff" and "Ashamed of the Old Folks," with Matt Moore and Jane Gail of the Universal, aroused enthusiasm owing to the fact that Mr. Moore directed them and they play doubles not disclosed until the end.

* * *

"The Yellow Girl," seen at the Globe, had one big unique feature, though well acted. It was a futurist picture arranged by that clever artist Edgar Keller, who designed and painted the sets and directed the costuming. It was not well advertised, else my word for it all the artists in town would have gone to see it.

* * *

Mary Pickford has left us after rehearsing her new play at Marblehead, where also a part of "The Heart of a Hero" was filmed by the World Film and which we are to see here at the Park, the home of first runs of that company. Miss Pickford's manager for New England, Sam Bernfield, became a benedict Friday, the 27th, when he married dainty Elizabeth Snyder of Somerville. They will live in Cambridge.

* * *

The Film Club has a meeting Sunday, November 5, when Mrs. Fiske, seen in "Vanity Fair"; Donald Brian in "The Smugglers," and Sir Beerbohm Tree in "The Old Folks at Home," are bidden as guests of honor as they are playing here. A special program is being arranged by the club president.

Among the Picture Theaters

NEWS AND VIEWS OF PHOTOPLAY HOUSES EVERYWHERE

CIRCLE THEATER, INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Dedication of Imposing Photoplay House An Event in Municipal Life of City—Patrons Mystified at Beauty of Interior—Lounge on Mezzanine Floor Delightful in Its Architecture and Decorations—Prominent Local Business Men Identified With Enterprise—Auditorium Seats 3,000 —Structure Represents Investment of $200,000.

THE circle was to the ancients the symbol of perfection. Likewise to the modern Indianapolis moving piciture theater goer the Circle, the latest and newest, as well as the most imposing of the cluster of new theaters in Indianapolis, is perfection. It was the wonder of wonders in Indianapolis when moving picture magnates dared build a theater which for size, beauty and excellence of service rivals the peer of "legitimate" theaters as they are known here.

It was with a great display of oratory, doled out by the best known of local orators, that the beautiful Circle threw open its doors to the public in the latter part of August. It was an event in the municipal life of the city and one deservingly commemorated. A crowd much too large to be accommodated tried to get into the big auditorium. The crowd came sightseeing, for the venture of the owners of the theater was a thing which had aroused the admiration of the citizens of the city. They came, they saw, and were satisfied. They are still coming. The house is sold out night after night in advance and the two weeks of Centennial celebration saw more seats sold than any other theater ever sold here in a similar length of time.

Circle Theater, Indianapolis, Ind.

The officers of the Circle Theater Company are well known in the business life of the city, although their names have not been prominent in the development of the moving picture theater. A. L. Block, president of L. Strauss & Co., clothiers, is president of the Circle Theater Company; Robert Lieber, a big figure in the business world, is vice-president; Meyer Efroymson is treasurer, and Ralph S. Norwood is secretary.

The board of directors consists of Arthur Strauss, A. G. Gillingham, of Detroit; Maurice Cohen and Isadore Fiebleman. Mark Gates, a theater man of long experience, was the first manager, resigning to enter business for himself, and being succeeded by S. Barrett McCormick, formerly manager of the Princes theater of Denver.

The theater is situated on the southeast sector of Monument Place, otherwise known as the circle. A brilliantly lighted marquee of heavy copper juts out from the terra cotta facade and is itself a compelling invitation to enter. Above the marquee is a panel, crossing the theater building, showing a Grecian pastoral scene. Above this is the Circle clock, a huge timekeeper, thirty feet across the dial, and capable of adjustment to one-tenth of a second per month, despite its size. The hands and numerals, as is also the border, are illuminated with electricity.

The lobby of the theater is one of its chief beauties. Lurid lithographs are eliminated and in their stead are handsome and life-like oil paintings, done by artists of ability. They are set in gilt frames, draped in green. Handsomely lettered posters tell of present and coming attractions. The color scheme of the lobby is ivory and gold, the ceiling decorated in the Adam period, showing groupings of conventional Grecian figures and other designs. The wainscoting is of white marble and the floors covered with "battleship" linoleum in squares of grey and white.

Four double doors hung with curtains of deep rose silk open from the lobby into the main promenade. These doors can not be locked on the inside—one of the precautions taken by the management for the safety of its patrons. The main promenade swings in a semi-circle behind the seats of the main floor and is as wide as many city streets. It is covered with heavy carpet of deep rose. The walls are of Caen stone in ashlar blocks. The ceiling is done in ivory. Along the walls are hung mirrors of quaint design and frames of gilt.

Looking Across the Auditorium from the Mezzanine Floor.

The furniture is of mahogany, with upholstery of deep rose. Sanitary drinking fountains and a telephone booth for use of patrons are features. Patrons occupying the rear seats of the theater are protected from draughts by a glass wall hung with deep rose curtains. The office of the management opens onto the promenade. A curved staircase divided by a mahogany rail with gilt posts leads to the lounge on the mezzanine floor. The lounge is the showplace of the theater and rivals those of the most luxurious hotel.

On this floor there is a wide oval balcony, in it are wide and richly upholstered divans and deep lounging chairs of the same rich and comfortable material. Rose color prevails again with a back ground of ivory and gold. Around the edge of the mezzanine rail are growing plants and tall lamps of varied colors. Pictures hung in this beautiful gallery are one of the real wonders of the theater. They are twenty in number and were lent to the Circle by one of the stockholders, Mr. Lieber. They are valued at $20,000. Each painting is individually lighted. The management plans to obtain the loan of collections from time to time. A Grecian frieze graces the top of the wall. To the right is the parlor for women patrons. Ivory walls are there, too, and ivory ceilings, ivory dressing table, writing desk and ivory inlaid in other pieces of the splendid furnishings. At the opposite end of the room is the men's smoking room. It has green wicker furniture, and is modern and complete.

The theater seats three thousand persons, 1,500 on each floor. Some of the choicest of the seats are on the upper floor, which merges into the gallery. Each step leading upward has its own light, carefully concealed beneath red glass, which enables patrons coming in from the lighted streets to walk without danger of a fall. A beautiful view of the auditorium is obtainable from the mezzanine floor. The ivory and gold setting prevails on every side, broken here and there by panels with the prevailing Grecian designs, those on the upper side of the boxes being set in relief against a back ground of pink that makes them stand out distinctly. The boxes are hung with rose colored curtains and are equipped with wicker chairs, with rose colored cushions. Above each is a huge mirror, gilt framed and with odd Greek figures on each side. A procession of Greek revelers wends its way across the proscenium arch.

The Beautiful Lounge on the Mezzanine Floor of the Circle Theater, Indianapolis, Ind.

The illumination is unique in that not a single light is exposed to view. All the lamps are concealed in semi-indirect lighting fixtures. From the center of the ceiling hangs a magnificent chandelier of bronze and amber glass, while numerous small globes illuminate every corner of the theater. Plenty of exits are provided along the sidewalks, both on the upper and lower floors.

Each light is equipped with four sets of globes, one of blue, one of amber, another of red, and one of white. The lighting is designed to be changed in color with changing scenes as they appear on the screen. There is nothing to obstruct the view of the patron in any part of the house.

The stage set shows an Italian garden with a flight of wide steps leading to a terrace. On each side of the stage are large gold urns filled with pink flowers and on each side of the terrace is a fountain with running water, under the play of multi-colored lights. Trees and trellises make up the back ground for the set.

The screen when not in use is lowered beneath the stage A regular stage crew is employed to manipulate the complicated machinery and switchboard used in the house. Underneath the stage there are dressing rooms for the singers and musical director. The "laundried air" system is in use. The incoming air is washed, dried and tempered before it reaches the auditorium. The outgoing air ducts are set in the ceiling and sidewalls and under each seat on the lower floor

The Circle employs a twenty-piece orchestra, clad in Bohemian uniforms, consisting of a rose colored jacket, black trousers and a black flowing tie. The orchestra is under the direction of H. L. Spitalny of Cleveland. Each program has its special features. The best singers obtainable are employed in the daily performances. The theater is equipped also with a pipe organ. There is a specially trained corps of eighteen ushers under the direction of W. C. Wulff. An emergency medicine chest is handy for their use—and they know what to do with it.

The theater opens its doors each day at 11 o'clock. They remain open until 11.30 at night, including Sunday. The price of admission is fifteen cents for the lower floor seats; boxes, loges and mezzanine floor twenty-five cents, and balcony and gallery sections ten cents. These prices prevail at night Afternoon prices are ten and fifteen cents. It is estimated that the Circle represents an investment of $200,000.

Among the guests of the theater at the opening night celebration were S. L. Rothapfel, managing director of the New York Rialto; Morris and Ben Cohen, Denver; C. J. Conhain of Chicago; Harry Rubens of Joliet, Ill.; E. Manrelbaum of Cleveland; A. J. Gillingham of Detroit; Oscar Meyer of Chicago; W. C. Both of Chicago and H. J. Conhain of Chicago. All of these men are prominent in moving picture affairs.

PRETTY LOBBY DECORATIONS.

The Alhambra, Milwaukee, and the New Garrick in Minneapolis Change Their Exterior Embellishments at Regular Intervals—The New Majestic in St. Paul Has Recently Installed a Japanese Stage Setting.

DECORATING the lobby with draperies, artistic trellis work, potted and cut flowers, framed pictures and posters and the like is becoming more and more a matter of concern with moving picture theater owners and managers. The word of mouth advertising which is created by the use of such embellishments more than pays for the outlay necessary in installing them. When this means of beautifying the outside of the house is used moderately it is a plan worthy of encouragement. The uninviting appearance of the front of many a photoplay house which puts on an excellent program is often the cause of keeping the box office receipts small.

As can be seen from the accompanying illustrations of lobby decorations, the managers of these houses have exercsied care and good judgment in their effort to make the lobbies of their theaters look as homelike as possible. The embellishments have been employed in such a manner that no necessary space has been taken away from the patrons. Which, of course, is one of the main points to be taken into consideration in decorating the lobby—in fact, in any other part of the house for that matter. Another point is the depth and width of the lobby. Fortunately, the lobbies of the theaters mentioned here are spacious enough to permit of the use of decorations.

These theaters the Alhambra in Milwaukee, Wis., the New Garrick in Minneapolis, Minn., and the New Majestic in St. Paul, Minn., are as representative of the cities in which they are located as the Strand Theater is of New York.

The manager of the Alhambra, George Fischer, tells us that the decorations in his lobby are changed every month or six weeks. Mr. Fischer makes it a point to have the decorations not only in the lobby, but on the stage, conform with the different seasons of the year. The decorations at the Alhambra now consist of flowers which bloom in the fall, such as Golden Rod, Gladioilas, Asters, etc. During the winter months the interior decorations of the Alhambra consist of heavy rose-colored plush draperies which, as soon as the spring days come, are removed and hung in their place are draperies of pretty cretonne. The seats are covered with white cloth, and the impression created by these hangings and coverings on a hot day is one of coolness. Even the clothes of the attaches of the theater conform with the seasons, for in winter all are dressed in dark broadcloth uniforms, while in summer uniforms, shoes and stockings of white are used.

Lobby of Alhambra Theater, Milwaukee, Wis.

The Alhambra, which is one of the largest picture houses in the Northwest, has a seating capacity of 2816. Music is rendered by an orchestra of twelve pieces and a mammoth pipe organ. Paramount pictures form the greater part of the programs at this magnificent photoplay house.

The New Garrick Theater, which is probably the largest exclusive photoplay house in the Twin Cities (Minneapolis and St. Paul), and which has a seating capacity of 2400, changes its decorations in the lobby and in the interior four times a year. G. V. Calvert, the manager, always strives to have the decorations through the entire house the same. That is to say, if the stage setting represents a Japanese garden scene, the decorations in the lobby and other parts of the house would be on the Japanese order. Paramount pictures are shown at the New Garrick four days of the week. An orchestra of ten renders an appropriate musical accompaniment to each picture on the program. The orchestra is under the direction of Oscar Baum. In addition to this, there is a three manuel, forty-two stop Kilgen pipe organ, which is presided over by Julius K. Johnson. The New Garrick is operated by the Miles Theater Company, of which D. L. Bell is president, and S. Blumenthal is secretary.

Lobby of New Garrick Theater, Minneapolis, Minn.

Lobby of New Majestic Theater, St. Paul, Minn.

The New Majestic Theater, St. Paul, Minn., is one of the six photoplay houses operated by Finkelstein & Ruben. It is under the guidance of Bert Goldman, who has recently installed a Japanese stage setting which cost in the neighborhood of $2000. Another change which has recently been made in the New Garrick is the installation of a $7000 organ. This is in addition to a large orchestra which is permanently employed. The seating capacity is 800, and Mr. Goldman has managed to earn for the theater by hard and diligent work the distinction that it is one of the most popular in St. Paul. Like the other theaters mentioned in this story, the New Garrick features Paramount pictures.

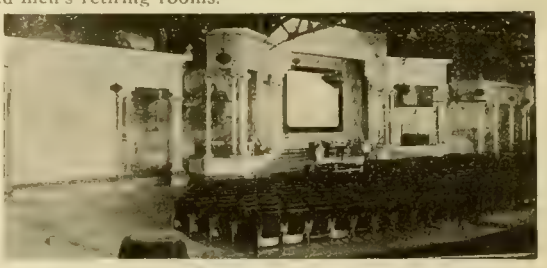
LOEW'S NEW YORK ROOF THEATER.

Opens Nightly at 8 P. M. and Runs Continually to 1 A. M.—Seats 1,200 and Changes Program Daily.

ONE of the most unique motion picture theaters in the country is Loew's New York Roof, on top of his New York theater, in the heart of New York, at 44th street and Broadway. It is open only at night, with the show starting at eight o'clock, and remains open until 1 A. M. The place is a converted dance hall, and, in spite of the fact that very few changes were made in the interior when motion pictures were installed, it adapts itself ideally to the needs of exhibiting photoplays. The program is changed daily. The seating arrangement of the "aerial" photoplay theater is ideal.

The roof is much wider than it is deep, and there is plenty of room on both sides of the seats, where comfortable big lounges have been provided. Back of the orchestra chairs, along the entire width of the big hall, are boxes, uniquely arranged with plenty of room, a promenade in front, between the boxes and the last row of the orchestra.

Behind the last row of orchestra seats is a row of boxes, the ten chairs in which are so arranged that they can be grouped as the occupants of the boxes wish. There are twenty boxes, making room for two hundred persons. The orchestra seats an additional 1,000. The main lounging space is to the left of the elevators as one enters the roof theater. There is a space large enough in which to dance. Smoking is permitted in all parts of the theatre. To the left also are beautifully appointed women's and men's retiring rooms.



Interior of Loew's New York Roof Theater.

The decorations of the roof are most fascinating. Entering from the elevators the curtain faces one. Stretching far to the left and right are softly lighted nooks, with a fountain playing in each, with gorgeous lights playing on the water, and a background for each, beautifully painted. In each picturesque nook also a bird cage swings with a feathered warbler in each, their songs mingling with the gentle splash of the fountain and the music of the big orchestra.

Overhead the steel girders of the roof are concealed by streamers of silver decorations, while huge silver globes hang down, containing the lights. The silver scheme of decorations is carried out further in the trimmings of the nooks on both sides of the curtain, in the frame of the curtain itself, and in the decorations of the posts supporting the top of the boxes.

One cold night in November, 1915, the roof theater was opened for the first time. It had been extensively advertised, but the public didn't seem to take to the idea at all. As they bought tickets they streamed into the New York theater, in spite of the fact that a man in the lobby directed them toward the elevators and the "aerial" theater. Even when the theater was jammed to capacity, patrons waited rather than to go on the roof. It was too cold on Broadway, and "roof" sounded even colder than the street to them; so the name was changed to "Annex," but still they came slowly. The same show was presented in both places, but patrons were skeptical. Gradually, however, patronage increased, until during the summer the roof was crowded nightly when the theater showed a falling off during the hot months. It is always cool and comfortable on the roof in summer, with the sides all open to the breezes, and well heated in winter.

The prices of admission to the New York theater are 10, 15 and 25 cents, and 25 cents to the roof, which includes either boxes or orchestra chairs. A big symphony orchestra of sixteen pieces furnishes music on the roof.

Chicago News Letter

By JAS. S. McQUADE

H. W. Hill Is Responsible for a Novel Innovation.

The November issue of Popular Mechanics has devoted considerable space to a descriptive article on a recent invention of conducting an orchestra from the screen, devised by Manager Hill, of Orchestra Hall, with the assistance of Arthur Dunham.

While the regular moving picture programs were being exhibited at Orchestra Hall last summer, Manager Hill concocted a scheme of photographing the musical conductor in the act of directing his orchestra. Following his idea, Mr. Hill arranged for the filming of Arthur Dunham, director of the famous Dunham symphony orchestra, as he was directing the rendition of William Tell and Mendelssohn's Spring Song. The films were later projected on the screen in full view of the orchestra, with the result that after a few rehearsals the musicians were able to follow Mr. Dunham's directions in picture form the same as if he were before them in person, the only change from the usual practice being that it was necessary for the musicians to shift their positions so that they faced the screen instead of having their backs to it.

As an illustration of the merits of the simple invention, it is explained that it makes possible the preservation of the interpretation of our greatest musical directors, just as the voices of the world's foremost singers are perpetuated by the phonograph.

Furthermore, the invention makes it possible for small orchestras anywhere to have the advantage of being directed by our greatest directors.

Chicago Film Brevities.

Max Linder, the famous old Pathe comedian, who was recently engaged by the Essanay Company, at a salary of $260,000 a year, left France for this country on Oct. 28. According to information received from the offices of the Essanay Company, Mr. Linder will arrive in New York on Monday, Nov. 6, where he will be met by George K. Spoor, who is leaving this city for New York on Sunday. Upon his arrival in Chicago Mr. Linder will begin work at once on a series of twelve two-reel comedies.

* * *

Sol L. Lesser, president of the Golden Gate Film Exchange and the All-Star Features Distributors, of San Francisco, made a pleasant call at the World office during a stop-over in this city on his way to New York. Mr. Lesser intends to spend about a week in New York City looking over the film market, and will return to California about Nov. 15.

* * *

Aaron J. Jones, president of the Central Film Corporation, returned to this city from New York on Saturday, Oct. 28, after an absence of two weeks. During his visit to New York Mr. Jones closed a contract with the new Norma Talmadge Film Corporation, which provides for the release of all Talmadge productions through the Central Film Corporation in the states of Illinois, Indiana, southern Wisconsin and the western half of Kentucky. The first release will be "Panthea," or "A Woman's Sacrifice."

The next Clara Kimball Young picture to be released through the Central Film Corporation will be "The Foolish Virgin," which will begin a run at the La Salle theater on Nov. 20.

* * *

"Uncle Sam's Babies," the Woman's Club's infant welfare film, was exhibited in private at the Woman's City clubrooms, on Monday, Oct. 30. The picture was produced under the supervision of G. F. Ernshaw, president of the Ernshaw Knitting Co., of this city, and is intended to encourage larger federal appropriations for infant welfare. The film has received the approbation of the members of the club, and will be distributed by them among the various women's clubs throughout the United States.

* * *

The Elmendorf Travel Talks are proving to be great business stimulators, according to reports from exhibitors throughout the country. The subject of the first release is "Yellowstone Park," which is presented in moving pictures of geysers in action and a number of colored slides portraying the beauties of the park. The travel talks are being exploited in rather an unusual way, according to Dr. A. E. Lowenthal, secretary and treasurer of the Elmendorf Bureau. In the first place, the co-operation of the schools and churches is sought by the management far in advance of all engagement dates. As the travel talks have decided educational value, it has been found that the school heads are eager to co-operate in every way, and sometimes as many as three and four performances are given during the day for children only. Reports from Spoor's Academy theater in Waukegan, Ill.; the Orpheum of Oshkosh, Wis., and the Grand, of Green Bay, Wis., are all very favorable. The management of the Elmendorf institution is prepared to rent outright for one day any moving picture theater in towns with populations over 6,000.

* * *

The Foreman's Club of the Pullman Car Co., of Pullman, Ill., were guests at an entertainment given by the Rothacker Film Manufacturing Co., on Saturday, Oct. 28. The members of the club motored from Pullman to the Rothacker plant, and spent the afternoon witnessing a demonstration of how moving pictures are made. A number of scenes selected from some recent advertising films produced by the Rothacker Company were shown to the members, and were explained in detail by the vice-president of the company, N. J. Baumer. One of the features of the entertainment was the showing of a film illustrating the "safety first" methods employed by the Eastman Kodak Co., of Rochester. All the members of the Foreman's Club were filmed at the time of their visit. Among those present were F. H. Hampton, C. T. Bayn, F. N. Gunn and M. E. Arkills.

* * *

H. A. Sherman, of the firm of Sherman & Elliott, distributors of the Selig production, "The Crisis," left this city for New York on Thursday, Nov. 2. Mr. Sherman intends to return to Chicago in about 10 days, at which time he expects to close negotiations with one of the Loop theaters for the first public showing in Chicago of "The Crisis."

* * *

The Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce, representing nearly 100 moving picture houses, met on Tuesday, October. 31, at Weilert's Cafe, and decided to organize a campaign for raising a portion of a subscription fund of $125,000, which will be used to preserve the Cincinnati Zoological Gardens, the second largest reservation of its kind in America. The exhibitors have adopted a plan to run slides in their theater calling attention to the campaign and urging contributions. They propose also to have special performances and to collect money at their theaters for the fund. The following committee has been appointed to handle the matter: L. W. Foster, I. W. McMahon, Charles Weigel, A. G. Hettesheimer, F. L. Emmert, and H. Serkwoich. The election of officers for the league will occur in December. A nominating committee has been appointed to report at the November meeting, as follows: Herman Bley, Thomas Reilly, Charles Weigel, Otto Luedeking, and Otto Bieckman.

* * *

Frank Rutledge, who succeeded F. M. Brockell on October 30 as manager of the Chicago Paramount exchange, has had a varied career as a showman. He made his first appearance as an actor with the famous Jacob Litt stock company, of Minneapolis, playing juvenile parts, and later became treasurer of the Bijou Dream theater, Minneapolis, and acting manager of the Grand theater in St. Paul. Mr. Rutledge has managed and owned several companies on the road. He first entered the film business three years ago as manager of the Playhouse in Oak Park, Ill. Leaving that position he joined the George Kleine forces as special representative in the Middle West, and was later promoted to manager of the Kleine exchange in Detroit.

* * *

George Fawcett, the veteran actor who scored a big success in the Selig productions "The Crisis" and "The Country That God Forgot," left Chicago last week for the Pacific Coast, where he will again join the Selig company at Edendale as a leading man.

* * *

Thomas Meighan passed through this city Tuesday, October 31, on his way to New York, where he will appear opposite Pauline Frederick in a Famous Players production which will be produced in the near future. Mr. Meighan stated that he is still connected with the Lasky Feature Play Co., and is just filling a temporary engagement with the Famous Players Co., as arranged between that concern and the Lasky company.

* * *

E. M. Newman, with a series of five entirely new travel talks, will begin his annual season in Chicago November 15 at Orchestra Hall. During five months spent in the Far East Mr. Newman secured some fine pictures of little-known life in the countries visited which he will reveal this year. Following is the series in the order in which they will be given: "Japan Today," "The New China," "Peking," including a trip through the imperial palace; "Korea" and "Hawaii," with a stop-over at Manila.

* * *

A special ladies' night meeting of the Chicago Reel Fellows' Club was held at the Hotel Morrison on Thursday evening, November 2. Unusual enthusiasm was in evidence over the forthcoming Reel Fellows' Club reception and ball, which will take place at the La Salle Hotel on November 10.

* * *

The Frank Powell production, "Charity," in seven reels, shortly to be released by Mutual, will be submitted for the approval of the Chicago ministers at a private showing next week. Following that, a press review will be given at one of the Loop theaters.

The entire fifth floor of the Consumers Building will be given over to the publicity department of the Mutual Film Corporation, beginning Monday, November 6, under the management of Terry Ramsaye.

* * *

Omer F. Doud, long identified with the advertising and publicity end of the moving picture industry, and until quite recently in charge of the publicity department of the George Kleine Company in New York, has organized a service bureau in this city for the purpose of supplying out-of-town exhibitors and state rights buyers with any needed information. Mr. Doud will also submit original ideas for conducting publicity campaigns. He will leave for a visit to New York within a few days, where he will endeavor to close with some of the Independent Feature manufacturers for representation in this territory.

* * *

Merle Smith, general branch manager of the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service, returned to this city on Monday, October 30, from a visit to the exchanges under his jurisdiction. Mr. Smith has been spending some time inaugurating a special advertising service, which is given to all exhibitors booking the Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay service. Whenever a contract is signed for service, representatives of the organization immediately get in touch with the exhibitor to show him the best way to use newspaper cuts and publicity, and also poster advertising to the best advantage.

PAUL C. HINZ.

KLIEGL BROTHERS ISSUE BULLETIN.

Kliegl Brothers of 240 West Fiftieth Street, New York, have issued a bulletin descriptive of their Disappearing Footlights. These are designed for high schools, auditoriums, halls, churches, theaters, etc. They are made up and furnished in complete finished sections, three to five feet in length and may either be mitered to fit any curvature of the stage or made in longer sections for straight footlights. They can also be provided for a single or double row of lamps with two or more color combinations.

The structural simplicity of these footlight units is noticeable. Each section as furnished consists of a top, frame and door made of one-inch hardwood to match the flooring so that for installing all that is required is to provide a space in the floor of sufficient depth and width to receive the unit, and the top of the footlights is inserted flush and floored in to form a part of the stage floor.

Colonial Theater, Milledgeville, Ga.

Adams, Once an Operator, Now Part Owner of Profitable Picture House—Also Established a Show of His Own—His Wife Still an Invaluable Assistant—W. T. Hines, Other Member of the Firm—Installs Soda Fountain in Lobby—Releases Program Called "The Colonial Daily."

UNUSUAL for a town of 5,000 population, is the pretty and thoroughly established motion picture theater located in Milledgeville, Ga. The development of this staunch institution dates back to the period when the photoplay was in its infancy, and credit for its success and prestige is due to the far-sightedness and alert management of F. D. Adams, and the co-operation of his wife, in keeping pace with the advancement and refinement of the photoplay.

Beginning as a seven-dollar-a-week operator, in the employ of what was at that time a mere "picture show," Mr. Adams saw the possibilities in this broad field, and, with little capital, but much enthusiasm and energy, supplemented by the practical assistance and encouragement of Mrs. Adams, he launched out into the sea of filmdom for himself, establishing a second theatorium in Millegdeville.

His patrons, recognizing the superiority of the class of films being projected in the new "picture show," soon manifested their appreciation in a substantial manner, and ere long the Star was taxed to its utmost seating capacity every day in the week. Soon the old house where Mr. Adams began his career closed its doors, leaving the "Star" alone in the field. Then, realizing that the seating capacity of his theater was utterly inadequate, Mr. Adams convinced his present business partner, W. T. Hines, of the possibility of establishing a paying business. Mr. Hines fortunately owned an ideally located and adaptable building, so together they formed a new firm and built an elaborate little photoplay house, which represents an investment of over $10,000.

Lobby of Colonial Theater, Milledgeville, Ga., Showing Soda Fountain, Tables and Chairs.

The new theater was given the name of the "Colonial." In the lobby of this new structure, which extends back 30 feet in the front of the building, they have installed a 12-foot soda fountain and the entire entrance has been artistically finished with plaster paris panel work. Eight opal top tables with four nickel-plated chairs to each table are placed about among the plams, ferns, and potted plants, which transform the lobby into a palm garden, with the white and green color motif predominating.

In equipping the Colonial every modern and approved appliance for convenience, luxury, and safety was kept in mind. The operating room forms an annex to the main building in the rear, and is entirely fireproof, the equipment consisting of two motor-driven Power's 6-A projection machines, motor-driven re-winding equipment, and other conveniences for the operator, J. A. McCann, a proficient man. In the auditorium opera chairs for 350 persons are comfortably spaced on the inclined floor, the audiences facing the front of the building. Just beneath the screen is a $3,500 Seeburg electric photoplayer.

There being no newspaper in the town in which the advertising of the Colonial could be placed, and no convenient billboards, the obstacle to bringing the program to the eyes of the populace of Milledgeville was overcome by the establishment of what is known as the "Colonial Daily Program," which is printed in the form of a regular newspaper page. It gives current news of local interest, and incidentally carries enough local advertising outside of a liberal space devoted to the program at the Colonial, to defray the expense of the publication. This scheme has long since become an institution of the town and the people look forward each morning to their copy of "The Colonial Daily." Supplementing this advertising, the Colonial now owns eight 3-sheet and four 24-sheet billboards. Mrs. Adams presides over the ticket office.

News of Los Angeles and Vicinity

By G. P. VON HARLEMAN and CLARKE IRVINE

WITH THE SIGNAL PLAYERS.

Company Now at Work at Local Studio Secures Realistic Pictures of Train Wreck.

UNDER the direction of J. P. McGowan, the Helen Holmes Company this week is making the last scenes at the Signal studios of the fifth episode of the serial feature, "The Lass of the Lumberlands."

For these scenes more than 200 extra players were employed. This is one of the largest mobs of extras to have worked at one time at the Signal studios.

Director McGowan has built a set, an exact duplicate of a portion of the main street of Merced Falls. The set was constructed by technical director Bert Gould, from photographs of the original, made for that purpose while the company was at work along the Yosemite Valley Railroad.

In order to save light in the making of exterior scenes at night Director Paul C. Hurst has constructed a reflector for the electric lights which increases their efficiency by thirty-five per cent. The average studio light is arranged in such a way that a large portion of the rays are thrown up over the scene being staged. Hurst built a reflector of compo-board which was painted white and covered with an aluminum paint. This reflector works on horizontal hinges changing the angle to reflect the light wherever desired. It is estimated that by its use as much light can be thrown by three lights as formerly was thrown by four.

By a peculiar coincidence the Signal Film Corporation last week was able to secure motion pictures of a real railroad wreck which it intends to incorporate in this serial.

The company was at work near Verdugo Park when a construction train on the Glendale and Montrose railway plunged down grade at a speed of thirty-five miles an hour, striking another work train and electric tractor and telescoping both trains.

The Signal Company was in the middle of a scene when its attention was called to the runaway train. The cameraman caught the train before the crash came and followed it to the end.

UNIQUE ADVERTISING STUNT.

How Los Angeles Jewelers Utilized Miniature Reproductions of Triangle Stars to Attract Attention to Their Window Display.

In one of the most important jewelry stores of Los Angeles there has been recently a unique and effective display of the Triangle stars. These charming little figures shown in the accompanying photograph were cut from heavily mounted photographs colored in oils, and with a little strip of cardboard arranged easel fashion in the back so they would stand upright.

This sample of skillful and attractive window dressing was maintained for two weeks by Feagans & Company, and attracted a great deal of attention, as it is the first of its kind that has been seen on the coast.

The photographs were made from the various plays in which the Triangle stars appeared during the past few months.

Conspicuous on the left will be noted in the upper row the figure of Louise Glaum in her remarkable peacock dress composed entirely of shimmering taffeta and real peacock feathers for headdress and train. Below her is Bessie Barriscale as she appeared in "Home." Other Triangle stars can be readily recognized, Mabel Normand, Fay Tincher, Clara Williams, Dorcas Matthews, and the whole list of screen favorites.

The same studio has been making quite a specialty of these, and it was the attention that they attracted in the photograph gallery that suggested the idea to the jeweler that a complete collection of the popular Triangle stars would make an excellent background for new designs in fall jewelry with which to open the great autumn shopping season that is initiated by the fashion show week.

The second photograph shows how these figures were cut out with a sharp knife following the edges of the photgraphs, and how it was mounted so as to stand upright. The delicate effects of the oils and tinting and colors unfortunately is lost in the reproduction.

Triangle Show in Jewelry Window.

Hollywoodsmen Trying to Stop Night Picture Making.

As association of Hollywood people have banded together to endeavor to stop the picture men from making noises in their city. They want the studio clatter stopped. Running machinery, bright lights flaring incessantly; music and dancing; loud talk, yelling and bawling; shooting guns and burning red fire; incessant hammering and tapping are on the list. They also object to the unsightly board fences and several other so-called menaces. They think that a fire could start at any studio and completely wipe out the city. This association wants the city to stop all this industry. Over a hundred thousand dollars a week goes away when the noise stops. Several business men say that if it were not for the film people, Hollywood would be dead, and one man said that the pictures have been the only salvation of every business in town. This association wants D. W. Griffith to tear down the big "Intolerance" sets, which have stood for over a year, without doing any harm to anyone. The set looks like the World's Fair, and is the tallest structure in town. If the people are not careful there will be a real migration of studio workers.

LOS ANGELES FILM BREVITIES.

An action involving the title and right to the motion picture production. "The Daughter of the Don," was filed in the United States District Court Thursday, October 26, by the Rand-McNally Company of Chicago, against the Monrovia Feature Film Company, McClurg Francisco, Winfield Hogaboom and Henry Kabierske. The plaintiff alleges that "The Dons of the Old Pueblo," which was printed and issued by the plaintiff corporation, has been illegally appropriated for motion picture purposes.

It is claimed that the book is the work of Percival J. Coonet, who sold the copyright to the Chicago firm in 1913 and that in the following year the copyright was registered in the name of the Rand-McNally Company of Chicago. The prayer of the petition is an injunction to prevent the exhibition of the films and for an accounting.

* * *

Charlie Chaplin, whose contract with the Mutual expires in January, we are informed, has been offered a renewal on the old terms. But Chaplin, it is said, is holding to the idea of being given more time for the production of his pictures, claiming he cannot do his best on the present time limit.

* * *

John Emerson, who lately finished Mary Pickford's picture, "Less Than the Dust," at the Famous Players studio in New York, has arrived in Los Angeles and will make Douglas Fairbanks pictures for the Fine Arts Film Company.

* * *

Henry Otto, formerly director with the American Film Company, Universal and recently with the Yorke-Metro, has joined the Pollard Picture Players in San Diego. Mr. Otto severed his connections last week with the Metro, where he directed Harold Lockwood and May Allison in the production of their recent feature picture, "Big Tremaine."

* * *

For quick time in constructing stages, the Lasky holds the record. A stage 75 feet by 250 feet was built at the Lasky studios in the record time of 12 hours. Last Saturday night Director Reicher finished "shooting" a heavy set built in the Lasky Company's back yard. Immediately upon finishing the set was struck, the ground leveled off and smoothed, and at 6 o'clock Sunday morning a force of 150 carpenters and other workmen appeared on the scene. Foundations were laid, uprights put in and the majority of the flooring was put down before 6 o'clock that evening. So well had the plans been laid that not a moment's confusion occurred and there was not a second's delay. The men went to their meals, which were served on the grounds, in shifts. The stage is now complete except for the iron diffuser supports which will be in a few days. A new administration building will shortly be erected at the Lasky studios, work on which is expected to be started next week.

* * *

Jackie Saunders after an extended tour around the country is back again at the Balboa studios. Miss Saunders visited among other cities, Chicago, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Atlantic City, New Orleans, San Antonio, El Paso, and Havana, Cuba. The popular Balboa girl received not less than 103 invitations to appear at picture theaters during her trip, but her engagements were such that she could only accept about a dozen. When in El Paso, Miss Saunders, in spite of the persuasions of her friends, went across the border and ventured 10 miles into Old Mexico. She reports the most heart-breaking poverty among the Mexicans and claimed that most of the people were actually starving. Miss Saunders was most courteously treated by the Mexican authorities, but she said the horror of poverty and suffering all about her was beyond endurance to one who could not help them at all.

* * *

Production is rapidly progressing on the Yorke-Metro picturization of "Pidgin Island." There are approximately 35 acting parts in the photo dramatic version of Harold MacGrath's story, in addition to the stellar roles that are being characterized by Harold Lockwood and May Allison. The part of the heavy is being played by Lester Cuneo, who rendered an excellent performance in "Big Tremaine." the last Yorke-Metro release. Prominently in the supporting cast appear Lillian Hayward, Phillip Gastrock, Virginia Corbin, Steve Barton, Yukio Aoymes, Elizah Zerr and Yon Foune.

A thrilling police raid on an opium joint located in Chinatown was one of the exciting scenes filmed this week by Producer and General Manager Fred J. Balshofer. For the raid, 50 members of the Los Angeles police force had been secured, and a number of supernumeraries, including 25 real types of the underworld. Harold Lockwood, in the part of a secret service agent, put up a hand-to-hand fight with this mob and after the big scene was over his clothes were practically torn in ribbons. Three cameras were stationed in different angles while the big fight scene was in action.

* * *

The Screamers are going to have another joy fest Saturday, this week at Cafe Nat Goodwin. Invitations have been issued by Kenneth O'Hara, official dopester of Thomas H. Ince enterprises, who is in charge of the arrangements, assisted by Arthur Statter. We have the solemn promise from Mr. O'Hara that Peggy will not be executed during the evening.

Fred Kley, business manager of the Lasky studio, visited the Morosco plant after the merger was put through. He wanted to see Manager Eyton, and at the gate a young be-goggled and be-putteed youth accosted him with: "Hey, there, where are you going?" Fred answered: "Why, into the yard," and the youth of the goggles came up in front of him and said. "Well, if it's a job yer after you better see Mr. Eyton about that." Kley took out his card case and handed a slip of bristol to the boy and he nearly fainted from the shock. In the next two minutes Fred was politely escorted to the office of the general manager.

* * *

The Christie Brothers, ever alert and on the qui vive for something new, have put out postal cards featuring Betty Compson and Billie Rhodes, the two charming stars of their comedy features. Here is a new picture of Billie Rhodes, the charming little comedy actress who appears in many of their releases. Business is very good with this concern, which releases its own pictures.

Billie Rhodes.

* * *

R. S. Sturgeon is vacationing at Santa Monica before accepting a position as director with some concern. He has had several offers, but so far has not decided to go to work. He made some of the Vitagraph's best pictures from the West, including "The Chalice of Courage," with Myrtle Gonzalez featured with William Duncan, "Through the Wall," and many others.

* * *

Charles Christie, of the firm that bears his name, is on a business trip to New York in the interests of his firm. Meanwhile Al Christie is busy at Hollywood producing their well-known comedies.

* * *

Big Bill Russell, his director Ted Sloman, and others of the Russell players from the American, are spending the week-end in Los Angeles and Riverside, taking the last few scenes for "Lone Star," a Mutual feature.

* * *

Mabel Normand was this week chosen queen of the San Diego Exposition and one whole day was given over in honor of the charming girl of the screen who is loved by the millions. Mabel is busy on a big picture, but somehow found time to accept the honors bestowed upon her.

* * *

Phillips Smalley, director and actor of the Universal company, was taken suddenly ill with pneumonia this week. Several physicians have been in constant attendance on him, but he is still in a critical condition.

* * *

Owing to the illness of Director Jacques Jaccard, Director Henry McRae has taken over the production of the Universal serial, "Liberty, a Daughter of the U. S. A.," featuring Marie Walcamp with Eddie Polo, Jack Holt, Neal Hart and Maude Emery.

* * *

His many friends at Universal City are delighted to receive mail advices from Marshall Stedman, that he is rapidly regaining his health and expects to return to his desk and resume his duties as engaging director for the film company November 15.

Stedman has worked steadily for over thirteen years without a vacation and he suffered a breakdown under the strain of keeping many different picture companies supplied with casts and each individual actor and actress in good humor.

Stedman's physician directed that he seek an entirely different atmosphere, so he went to Denver for a visit with his father. He writes that the snow of Colorado has proven wonderfully beneficial, but he is homesick for Southern California.

* * *

Director Lynn Reynolds of Universal City and his company of players have returned from the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, where they secured some wonderful scenes for his feature, "The Man With the Peanut Soul," featuring George Hernandez.

Hereafter it will not be necessary to stain a number of the stages at Universal City for special elaborate sets, as has been the case in the past. H. H. Barter, head of the Technical Department, has devised a process whereby the painting of the stages is eliminated, making them always ready for use, smooth as a ballroom floor and completely colored.

Barter is using an electric machine which sandpapers and thoroughly scrapes the floors after which they are treated by a secret process, giving an absolutely smooth and permanent surface.

In addition, one of the large stages has been entirely covered with canvas which has been treated with paraffine for the wet weather. Under this covering a large number of companies can work with the aid of mercury or carbon lights during the heaviest rains and the properties and scenery will remain dry. This stage will be used in addition to the two electric light studios during inclement weather.

* * *

Among visitors at Universal City this week were former United States Senator Albert J. Beveridge, the noted "hoosier," who is touring the United States in the interests of Charles Evan Hughes. The Senator visited the film capital in company with John Francis Neylan, of San Francisco, chairman of the State Board of Control and a party of politicians and newspaper men.

* * *

It's getting to be quite a habit with us to drop in the Palace theater at Seventh and Broadway every week to see the latest Keystone or whatever feature may be advertised. Our enjoyment of an otherwise excellently projected picture is considerably marred by the simply unbearable musical noise executed on an organ or similar instrument by somebody trying to play popular music. Quite a treat to the contrary is the real splendid accompaniment at the Superba, another downtown house. This theater has an excellent 12-piece orchestra which plays to the pictures in a really pleasing manner. The musical program accompaning "The Light at Dusk," a Lubin production presented at this theater a few weeks ago was about as satisfactory as we have ever heard. It was a genuine pleasure to see this well produced and by Orrin Johnson's superbly acted photoplay accompanied by truly appropriate and well executed music.

MARIE REICHARDT IN METRO PRODUCTION.

Prominent in the support of Julius Steger in "The Stolen Triumph," a five-act Metro-Rolfe feature now being produced under the direction of David Thompson, is Marie Reichardt, one of the best known character women of the legitimate stage.

Miss Reichardt began her stage career in Europe as a child and came to this country from Germany twenty-five years ago to play ingenue roles at the Irving Place theater. She remained with the stock company there for eighteen years, playing every sort of role from maids to grande dames and from girls to old women.

Her debut on the English speaking stage was with David Warfield in "The Return of Peter Grimm," in which she had an important character role. She remained in the support of Mr. Warfield for four seasons and last year was with Elsie Ferguson in "Margaret Schiller." In "The Stolen Triumph," Miss Reichardt has a role which brings into play all her talents for natural character portrayal.

NEW VICTORIA THEATER IN ELMHURST, N. Y.

Some time between the 10th and 15th of November a new theater will be opened in Elmhurst, N. Y., by Samuel Sheer, Jr. The house will be known as the Victoria. It will seat between five and six hundred people and be furnished in the very latest style. Mr. Sheer and his brother are now proprietors of Sheer's Hyperion and Sheer's Palace theaters, both in Corona, L. I. These are moderately new houses. All three houses are of the same design.

GRACE WYNDEN-VAIL PARAMOUNT PUBLICIST.

Grace Wynden-Vail was recently added to the publicity department of the Southern Paramount Picture Company, Atlanta, Georgia, distributors of Paramount Pictures in that section. She is one of the best known publicity women in the United States. She was born in Madison, Wisconsin, and educated in the public schools in that city, and later, in the State University of Wisconsin.

"Garden of Allah" Is Great

Col. Selig Admits It and Director Campbell Says It's True—Many Realistic Scenes.

A CAST of star players headed by Helen Ware, thousands of supernumeraries, several hundred Arabs, caravans of camels, and entire streets built of stone in exact imitation of desert towns of the Sahara, are but items in the most massive motion picture spectacle the Selig Polyscope Company ever made, namely "The Garden of Allah."

William N. Selig, who supervised all plans for the filming of Robert Hitchens' novel, has stated that "The Garden of Allah" is the very last word in motion picture production. His assertion is supported by Colin Campbell, the director, who has stated that "The Garden of Allah" represents his very best and most artistic efforts.

Scene from "The Garden of Allah" (Selig).

According to Mr. Campbell, there is not a scene and not a subtitle in the Selig production that cannot be found in Robert Hitchens' novel. From beginning to ending the wonderful atmosphere and plot is retained in every detail.

Helen Ware takes the role of "Domini," and Thomas Santschi enacts the part of "Boris." They are well supported by a cast of players who include Al W. Filson and Eugenie Besserer as Lord and Lady Rens; Harry Lonsdale as Father Roubier; Cecil Holland as Hadj; James Bradbury as the Sand Diviner; Frank Clark as Father Beret; Will Machin as Captain de Trevignac; Little Billy Jacobs as the Child; and many others.

There are many wonderful lighting effects, many colorful scenes, and the photography is said to be clear-cut and beautiful. Among the more thrilling situations in the drama can be named the desert sandstorm; the charge of the Bedouins upon a defenseless caravan; the fight at night in the Street of the Dancers; the meeting between Boris and Captain de Trevignac; the forecast of the Sand Diviner, etc.

The scenes in the garden of Allah proper are very beautiful, for exclusive permission was granted the Selig Company to film the gardens of Santa Barbara mission, which are startling in their beauty and grandeur. The story of "The Garden of Allah," it will be recalled, is a particularly strong one. The novel is considered a classic and Mary Anderson scored a triumph in a stage version of the novel before the screen version was written by Gilson Willets, for the Selig Company.

Domini Enfilden, when her mother eloped and her father died cursing religion, went to Beni-Mora, an oasis near the African desert of Sahara in an endeavor to find peace—to forget her many sorrows. There the woman of thirty-two years meets a stranger—a man of mystery. Their friendship finally ripens into love and they are married. Finally Domini finds out who her husband really is. Then comes her sacrifice, a wonderful one, and the return of conscience to her husband. The ensuing scenes are indeed gripping.

Helen Ware is given every opportunity for strong emotional work and she is ably supported by Mr. Santschi. Their love scenes together have been termed powerful in every respect.

"The Garden of Allah" will be released in ten reels, before the first of the year. There will be a special musical score and elaborate exploitation.

AITKEN GOES TO COAST.

H. E. Aitken, Triangle president, has gone to the coast for an extended stay, during which he will review the activities of the Kay Bee, Fine Arts and Keystone studios in detail.

"Stingaree" on Screen Again

E. W. Hornung to Write New Series of "Stingaree" Stories for Kalem—True Boardman Again Featured.

"STINGAREE," the picturesque Australian gentleman-outlaw whose screened adventures proved one of the most popular motion picture series ever produced, will again return to Filmland. E. W. Hornung, the famous English author who created "Stingaree" and "Raffles," has been signed by the Kalem Company to write a new series of fifteen two-reel original stories depicting the further adventures of his character creation.

True Boardman as "Stingaree."

Of equal importance to exhibitors and picture followers is the announcement by the Kalem Company that True Boardman will again portray "Stingaree." Boardman gained nation-wide popularity by his intepretation of the title role in the original series.

"This is the first time that an internationally known writer of Mr. Hornung's standing has undertaken to furnish original stories for a motion picture series," declared Mr. Wright, of the Kalem Company, in commenting on the company's big announcement. "I feel that the facts speak for themselves and it is not necessary for us to indulge in extravagant adjectives to impress the importance of our achievement on picture people. To exhibitors we know that it will be sufficient to say that they will get another 'Stingaree'—that is the answer to their hundreds of letters. But we feel that they will also appreciate the tremendous efforts which we had to put forth to induce so prominent a writer to take one of his most famous characters and write new stories of his adventures originally for motion pictures.

"Kalem makes this announcement as another evidence of our policy of placing no limit on expense or effort in securing the highest quality of material for our one and two-reel productions. The day of the hack writer has ended, the screen must offer the work of real authors, and it is to the best of the literary field that Kalem has gone in search of its stories. Our 'Girl from Frisco' series by Robert Welles Ritchie is an example of the success that such a policy brings. The costly 'Grant, Police Reporter' stories, by the same author, give further proof that Kalem's deeds match with its words. And now comes 'Stingaree' to cap the climax."

Kalem officials have been striving to put through plans for another "Stingaree" series ever since the completion of the original series of twelve two-act episodes, for the flood of letters of praise from exhibitors that started during the life of the series have continued without a let-up to the present day. But long cable negotiations with London were necessary before success finally crowned their efforts.

The difficult task confronting Kalem in inducing the prominent author to write a new series of "Stingaree" stories may well be imagined. Mr. Hornung's plans for the coming year had all been laid out and allowed no opportunity to take the pen in hand again to weave new adventures of the picturesque Australian outlaw. In fact, the first cabled inquiries to Kalem's English representative, made at the conclusion of the releases in this country, brought a reply that made the project seem hopeless.

Then, a month ago, the following letter was received from the English representative: "'Stingaree' is now ready for release in this country and we have just completed the advance showing of the pictures to buyers. We have also held a special series of exhibitions for Mr. Hornung and a number of his prominent literary friends. I now think we have a ray of hope in seeking to have Mr. Hornung write new stories. His enthusiasm over the picturizations of his stories and especially the faithful portrayal of 'Stingaree' given by True Boardman is unbounded. I have promised another showing for him next week of several of the episodes. If any one thing prevails on him to give us more stories of 'Stingaree' it will be the pictures themselves. I can't describe his praise and enthusiasm."

In the final moment it was the screen productions that caused Mr. Hornung to lay aside his important plans to take up the further career of "Stingaree." The original stories were published in short story and book form by Scribner's, but by the payment of a considerable price Kalem has induced Mr. Hornung to take up the writing of the new plots with the screen alone in mind.

"'Stingaree' is probably the first motion picture series ever planned the success of which was guaranteed from the start," continued Mr. Wright. "Why, we have only to secure the first run bookings promised by those exhibitors who have been urging us to produce more 'Stingaree' adventures to have an assured success. This is an enviable position for the motion picture manufacturer to be in, and we are taking advantage of it by planning our productions on a more elaborate scale then ever before attempted. This certain success enables us to face expenditures unflinchingly that would ordinarily be deemed too precarious by a picture manufacturer."

It was "Stingaree," written on his return from Australia, where he had been engaged in newspaper work, that established E. W. Hornung in the front rank of the fiction workers. In many points similar to "Raffles," his other well-known creation, "Stingaree" is a gentleman-outlaw, living alone in the Australian wilderness with his picturesque companion, Howie, and meeting with the most entertaining adventures in exacting from mankind the justice that he feels has been denied him.

True Boardman brought to the role of "Stingaree" the experience gained by many years of prominence on the stage, being especially widely known on the Pacific Coast. He also became well known on the screen in western roles. But following his work in the Hornung series his identity will always be linked with "Stingaree." At present Boardman is gaining new laurels in "The Girl from Frisco" series, in which he divides the honors with Marin Sais. He is a daring horseback rider and an artist as a player, a combination that well befitted him to earn the praise of the author of the stories for his interpretation of the exacting role of "Stingaree."

Week's Work in Fox Studios

Nine Productions in the Making—Strong List of Star Players in Various Casts.

NINE different productions, five in the East and four in the West, are being filmed now by William Fox's large directorial staff. The stars acting in the New Jersey studios are Theda Bara, June Caprice, Virginia Pearson, Valeska Suratt and Gladys Coburn; across the continent, William Farnum, Gladys Brockwell, George Walsh, and Alan Hale and Gretchen Hartman, who will be featured together in a forthcoming photoplay.

Miss Bara's picture, one of the most dramatic in which she has yet appeared, will present an extraordinary capable cast. Chief among her supporting players are Walter Law, Einar Linden, Glen White, John Webb Dillion and Alice Gale, all of whom had prominent roles in William Fox's picturization of "Romeo and Juliet."

Valeska Suratt's photoplay, under the direction of Will S. Davis, is proceeding rapidly. Herbert Heyes has the part opposite the fashion plate of the screen. Others in the cast are Claire Whitney, John Charles, Joseph Granby, Charles Edwards and Oscar Nye. Mr. Charles and Mr. Edwards are acting in their first William Fox film. Mr. Nye is the assistant director with the Davis company.

"Jealousy," a recently completed Suratt screen play, is released by William Fox on November 20.

William Sheer, remembered, among other things, for his splendid portrayal of Skinny, the Rat, in William Fox's "The Regeneration." Mr. Sheer has a character part in the new Gladys Coburn picture and will do several of the daring stunts for which he has become noted.

Virginia Pearson is doing a film which deals in part with prison life. One of the novel studio sets erected for it last week showed the girls' workshop on Blackwell's Island. The news has come from the West Coast studios that Alan Hale, featured with Gretchen Hartman in an international picture-play, was president of the 1912 Class of Osteopathy in Philadelphia. The versatile Hale was once a protege of Mike Murphy, the famous athletic trainer, and later a protege of Andreas Dippel.

Several well-known United States Army officers and hundreds of privates, on duty along the Mexican border, appear in many scenes of the Hale-Hartman photoplay.

Reed Heustis, publicity representative for the Fox Film Corporation on the Pacific Coast, is the author of the scenario which Frank Lloyd has in work for Gladys Brockwell.

Kolb and Dill Head Mutuals

Comedians Appear in "A Peck o' Pickles"—Many Other Good Things on Program for Week of November 12.

THE famous comedians, Max M. Dill and William C. Kolb, and Frank Borzage with Anna Little, the headliners in five-part features, top the Mutual schedule for the week of November 12. Both productions are from the American Studios. Kolb and Dill, who were noted on the speaking stage before their debut in motion pictures under the Mutual banner, will appear in a five-reel Mutual Star Production, "A Peck o' Pickles." This vehicle served the celebrated comedy duo in their most recent appearances on the stage. This is the fourth Kolb and Dill production filmed by the Mutual Company. It was directed by T. N. Heffron. The supporting cast in "A Peck o' Pickles" includes May Cloy, the dainty comedienne, Josephine Clark, Marie Van Tassel, Purcell Jacobs and Frank Thompson. There are also several companies of coast artillerymen in the battle scenes.

Frank Borzage and Anna Little, a combination which promises a mighty well acted and most interesting picture, are starred in the five-reel Mutual Master picture "Immediate Lee." Both Borzage and Anna Little have won laurels for their splendid portrayals of Western characters. Borzage directed his newest picture.

One of the notable characters appearing in "Immediate Lee" is Old Jim, "Big Bill" Russell's Chinese cook. He has proven himself to be a true comedian, in the part of the cook for the cowboy's camp. Frank Borzage is cast as "Immediate Lee," noted as a terrible gunman of Arizona. In his early years he is scarred for life in a fight with a gambler. He vows vengeance, and at last his efforts are rewarded when he is brought face to face with the gambler and his animosity is satisfied. Among the noteworthy scenes in this production are the big Western dance hall, turned into a church for the marriage of "Immediate Lee" and his dance hall sweetheart, great stockyard scenes and the vast Arizona ranch. Jack Richardson, noted for his "villainy," is the heavy villain. Others in the cast are William Stowell and "Chick" Morrison.

A two-reel Mutual drama, "The Turn of the Wheel," will be released on Monday, November 6. This is a story of love and the "eternal triangle." It is of the "sure fire" type.

The second release of "Tours Around the World," from Gaumont, is scheduled for Tuesday of this week and there are many beautiful bits of scenics shown in it. The cameraman succeeded in getting some of the best pictures of battle-scarred countries ever filmed.

A four-reel Film D'Art production, chock full of thrilling romance and splendid emotional characterizations by the well chosen cast, will be released on Thursday.

"Her Sun Kissed Hero," a one-reel Cub Comedy featuring Neal Burns and Betty Compson, is the mirth provoker scheduled for Friday. This is a most clever production and Burns, as the love sick youth, and Betty Compson, as the cause of his illness, do some very satisfying work.

Edna Payne, the dark-eyed beauty, and Norbert Myles, the virile young Eclair star, are cast in the leading role of the two-reel production "The Bad Samaritan," to be released on Saturday. Both of these stars do exceptionally good work in this production. Edna Payne is cast as the Nona Gunter, the ward of Leo Ballinger's (Norbert Myles) uncle, with whom young Ballinger is in love.

The Mutual Weekly, which has secured scenes of all important events happening the world over, "See America First," the beautiful scenic, on the same reel with Kartoon Komics and Reel Life, the one-reel magazine film, are all "up to the minute."

Paddy McQuire, that bungling, stumbling, but far from grumbling comedian, supported by the regular comedy cast, including Arthur Moon, Gypsy Abbott, the versatile dark-haired comedienne, and Margaret Templeton, are cast in the two-reel Vogue comedy, "Lost, Strayed or Stolen," to be released on Sunday. The story of this hilarious production deals with a disappearing thousand dollar bank note. This note given to the broker's wife by her husband is first stolen by the butler, then thrown out in a tin can. Naturally the can is tied to the end of a boy's kite string. Finally, after many ludicrous situations the bill finds its way back into the original owner's purse. Paddy McQuire takes the part of the new butler, Arthur Moon is the broker and Gypsy Abbott is happily cast as the receiver of the thousand dollar note, or the broker's wife.

SELIG NEWS' FASHION DEPARTMENT.

The Selig news weekly has instituted a fashion department showing the latest creations from London, Paris and New York City.

Brady Returns from West

Says Prosperity Is Everywhere and That Pictures Are Making Patrons for Spoken Play.

WILLIAM A. BRADY, whose interests in both spoken and silent drama are more extensive than those of any other amusement producer, has returned from a brief tour of observation through the Middle West. These tours, which are undertaken whenever Mr. Brady can absent himself for a short space from his two New York theaters and the World Film Corporation, are designed to provide him with first hand information regarding general conditions and their bearing upon the public at playtime.

"The prosperity which is everywhere," said Mr. Brady yesterday, "has become so well known that we may pass it over as fully established for a considerable time to come. Of course it has helped both the moving pictures and the theaters, but the matter that attracted my attention more than any other during my recent trip was the unmistakable fact that the theaters are helping the pictures and the pictures are helping the theaters.

"Formerly we thought the movies were injuring the spoken plays, and they probably were. But this condition has been reversed, and the motion pictures are making playgoers. Take foreigners, for illustration. In Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Chicago and other cities whose great industrial development has attracted hosts of workmen unfamiliar with our language, the pictures naturally were first to secure great patronage. In due course a large percentage of these seekers for recreation were drawn into the regular theaters.

"Ask any of the 'regular' house managers who watch their business, in any of the cities I have named, and they will tell you the foreign born element of their patronage is very much larger than it was formerly. This was a readily perceptible condition to me as a spectator, and I took the pains to go into it to some extent—sufficiently to convince me that the pictures were primarily responsible for it.

"On the other hand, we know that practically all of the patrons of the speaking stage are at least occasional visitors to the picture houses. Here and there you will find an individual who scorns this form of entertainment, but not often.

"For the small places the pictures are a special boon. As an example, neither 'The Whip' nor 'Life,' the two biggest spectacular dramas ever staged, could be played excepting in the very largest theaters, of which there are not many. In the case of the former the country could not be half covered, while with the latter the stages large enough to hold it were so far apart that a week must be lost between times, and the play never was seen outside of the Manhattan Opera House, New York; the Auditorium, Chicago, and two or three other theaters.

"At the present time the Paragon studio is just completing 'The Whip,' which in fact is finished excepting for the railroad collision, which I believe is about to be 'pulled off,' with real trains on a real railroad. This, however, is not the main point. Both 'The Whip' and 'Life,' on a far bigger scale than they could have been built for any regular stage in the world, will now be open to showing not alone in the cities but every tank town on earth.

"All this makes a sure thing of a prediction I made months ago—that the one-nighters in the near future will derive their amusements almost exclusively from the pictures.

"The screen drama will soon pass through another phase—the educational phase—and the sooner the better. Modern plays and stories of genuine worth are beginning to run low, and if we cannot at some time before long interest the public in the great stories of Sir Walter Scott, Wilkie Collins, Charles Reade and the other old masters, I do not know what we are going to do."

NATIONAL ORGANIZER HERRINGTON PLANS WESTERN TRIP.

The Moving Picture World is in receipt of a letter from former President Herrington, now national organizer. Mr. Herrington says that within the next week or so he expects to make a tour of some of the Western states. Full details of his itinerary will be published later. Mr. Herrington asks us to give this initial notice to prepare the exhibitor and once more bring to his mind the absolute necessity of a strong and nation-wide organization.

HOLUBAR PRODUCING "THE MESSENGER OF PEACE."

Director Allen J. Holubar is producing at Universal City "The Messenger of Peace" in one reel, with a cast including Agnes Vernon, Jane Bernoudy, Hazel Page and Jack Mulhall. Holubar also plays the lead.

Adam Leads Off for General Film

First Man in Any Land Featured in Initial Subject for Week of November 13-18.

IT is perhaps fitting that the first man in the world appears in the first picture offered on the first day of General Film Service for the week November 13-18 inclusive. "The Temptation of Adam" in three parts, by Selig, will usher in the program for that week. In this drama Kathlyn Williams and Guy Oliver have the leading parts. "A Second Story Ringer," a Vitagraph comedy in one part, will follow, and then will come a reel of Selig-Tribune dealing with all the important news of the world. This will be followed by a Biograph one-part drama, "Near to Earth," featuring Lionel Barrymore.

A two-part Essanay drama "Not in the News," presenting Marguerite Clayton and Sydney Ainsworth, will be the first picture thrown on the screen Tuesday. This will be followed by Kalem's one-reel comedy, "The New Salesman," featuring Ham, Bud, Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch.

For the following day an Essanay split reel of Canimated Nooz Pictorial and a scenic will be first shown. Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby will get the spot light in a Vim one-reel comedy, "His Wedding Promise." "The Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest," the fifteenth episode of "The Girl From Frisco," will be screened then, and in this Marin Sais and True Boardman have the titular roles. Biograph will close the day with a three-part drama, "Lord Chumley," presenting Lillian Gish and Henry Walthall.

Selig-Tribune with all big events will usher in the program for Thursday, sharing honors with a Vim one-reel comedy, "Pipe Dreams," in which Kate Price and Babe Hardy provide the fun.

A Knickerbocker Star Feature, a drama in two parts, "The Target of Dreams," presenting Frank Mayo, will be the first picture seen Friday. Then will come Kalem's "Grant, Police Reporter," under the caption "The Rogue's Pawn," with George Larkin and Ollie Kirkby in the feature roles. "The Luck of Jane," a Vitagraph one reel comedy, will be next, followed by a Vim comedy of equal length, "Good and Proper," presenting Pokes and Jabbs.

"His Moral Code," a three-part drama in which Lillian Drew and E. H. Calvert have the leads, will usher in the final day of the week. This will be followed by a Vitagraph three-part drama featuring Donald Hall in "The Man Who Went Sane." Then will be seen an episode of the Hazards of Helen Series with venturesome Helen Gibson in some daring feats. The week's program will close with a Selig one-part drama, "The Girl Detective," presenting Robyn Adair and Victoria Forde.

JOHN H. COLLINS WINS NEW LAURELS.

John H. Collins, one of the youngest and most successful motion picture men in the country, is winning new laurels as the director for Mabel Taliaferro, Metro star, who now is at work in the Rolfe studios on a play in which she appears as an Irish lass in New York society.

Mr. Collins, because of his suave bearing, has won the title of "the diplomatic director." Nothing ever flusters him. Recently, when he was directing Viola Dana, the Cooper-Hewitts suddenly failed, several important "props" were lost, and everyone concerned in the production seemed to be at sixes and sevens. Collins, instead of showing anxiety, smiled broadly, stretched his arms as though bored, sat down and said:

"There is one grand time for a rest, eh?" His good nature soon banished the "hoodoo" spirit that seemed to prevail and within a few minutes the production was proceeding as smoothly as though nothing untoward had happened.

Mr. Collins has signed a long-time contract to produce Metro wonderplays. He is only 23 years old, but before he was out of his teens he was general stage manager for seven directors in the Edison studio, where he supervised the construction of more than 5,000 studio sets during the two years he held that important position. He has written more than 100 scenarios.

ORTH RETURNS TO NEW YORK.

George Orth, director of comedies, who completed several one and two reel subjects for the Atlas Film Company, of Detroit, has returned to New York, and is considering several offers emanating from responsible film concerns, one of which is said to come from the Crescent Film Company, of Washington, D. C., who will release on the International Program. Jack Young, who helped to photograph the "Fall of a Nation" will grind the camera for Director Orth.

Simultaneous Showing for "Crisis"

Sherman-Elliott Plans to Introduce Big Subject to Public in Large Cities in Week of November 19.

SELIG'S pretentious photoplay drama, "The Crisis," of which the selling rights for the entire United States and Canada have been acquired by Sherman-Elliott, Inc., will be given simultaneous presentations in many of the most important cities of the country according to plans which have just been perfected for the various premiers.

The Sherman-Elliott Company has arranged with territorial buyers for the simultaneous openings of the ten-reel feature in San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, New Orleans, Memphis, St. Louis and Jackson, Mississippi, as well as in the principal cities of the East, possibly including New York and Philadelphia and Boston on or about November 19-24. Each of these openings will be exploited "the Sherman way," exceptional facilities having been provided the exhibitor in the way of a most complete line of paper, photos, heralds, lobby displays, and other advertising matter with numerous selections to choose from.

In addition to these metropolitan or big town showings, a number of the state right buyers contemplate sending out road companies, a conservative estimate placing the number of "Crisis" prints actually in use by December 1 at fifty. Territorial rights to "The Crisis" are being disposed of rapidly, practically all of the various sections of the United States having been either sold or in negotiation.

The territories already disposed of or for which negotiations are being carried on follow: California, Nevada and Arizona, to Warner Film Attractions, San Francisco; Tennessee, Louisiana and Mississippi, to the States Rights Company, Jackson, Miss.; New Jersey to the Master Photoplay Company, of Newark; Missouri to William Sievers, of St. Louis. A deal is pending for the rights for Ohio and Michigan. A combination of exhibitors is negotiating for New York state and possibly New England territory and Pennsylvania.

Costello Came Back Strong

CHARACTERIZED by his old time vim, dash, and fire, Maurice Costello, the distinguished star in Consolidated Film Corporation's masterful superserial, has made the biggest hit of his entire film career. When Mr. Costello returned to the screen world last summer after an absence of several months, there were some who declared that his popularity had suffered by his absence, and that he would not be the same drawing card again. But evidently these wiseacres did not believe in the old adage that "absence makes the heart grow fonder." When the announcement was made that Mr. Costello was returning to the fold, he was deluged with letters and telegrams of congratulation from countless fans all over the world.

Maurice Costello.

The first screen star to be so designated, Maurice Costello is a most popular actor. For seven years a great Vitagraph asset, Mr. Costello has acquired a following of admirers and well-wishers second to none. There is not any doubt but what the great success enjoyed by Consolidated Film Corporation with its first production, "The Crimson Stain Mystery," is due in a great measure to Mr. Costello, for from the moment it was announced that Mr. Costello was to star in "The Crimson Stain Mystery," contracts began to pour into the main offices of Consolidated at 1482 Broadway, New York, even before exhibitors had seen a screening of the first episode.

Mr. Costello's role in "The Crimson Stain Mystery," that of Harold Stanley, a young newspaper owner, who has dedicated his entire efforts to the apprehension of the mysterious Crimson Stain gang who are perpetrating atrocities, unhindered, in the great city, is precisely the sort of role which has made Mr. Costello popular.

Stars Scintillate for Universal

Program for the Week of November 13 Includes a List of Popular Players.

The roster of Universal stars who appear on the Big U program for the week of November 13 includes such well-known names as J. Warren Kerrigan, Roberta Wilson, Eddie Lyons, Lee Moran, Neva Gerber, Charles Perley, Fritzi Brunette, Betty Schade, Lloyd Whitlock, Murdock MacQuarrie, Edyth Sterling, Harry Carey, Edith Johnston, Wallace Beery, Belle Bennet, William V. Mong, Gale Henry, William Franey, M. K. Wilson, Edith Roberts, Harry Carter, Lois Wilson, Lee Hill, Ben Wilson, Frances Nelson, Marie Walcamp, Jack Holt and Eddie Polo.

The feature of the week, of course, is "Liberty," the fourteenth two-reel episode of which, "A Modern Joan of Arc," will be released with Marie Walcamp, Jack Holt and Eddie Polo in the cast. This most timely of Universal serials, dealing with events on the Mexican border, was written and produced by Jacques Jaccard. Besides the principals, it includes Neal Hart, Maud Emory, Bertram Grassby, G. Raymond Nye and L. M. Wells. The story of "Liberty," novelized by H. H. Van Loan, is running in the N. Y. Evening Mail, San Francisco Chronicle, Boston Traveler, Salt Lake City Herald-Republican, Montreal Herald and in more than 300 large town newspapers throughout the country. Wright Patterson, general manager of the Western Newspaper Union, in a letter to the Universal Film Mfg. Co., said recently: "'Liberty' in its novelized form is the most popular serial we have ever released."

On November 13 Roberta Wilson will appear in "The Heritage of Hate," a five-reel Red Feather drama, written by Walter Woods, scenarioized by E. J. Clawson and produced by Burton George. William Quinn, Lillian Concord, Eileen Sedgwick, Alfred Wertz, Betty Schade, Paul Byron and Betty Harte appear in support of Miss Wilson. On the same date Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran co-star in "Knights of the Bath Tub," a one-reel Nestor comedy, scenarioized by Charles J. Wilson from the story by Dorothy Barrett and produced by L. W. Chaudet. Fred Gamble and Priscilla Dean appear in support of the Nestor stars.

November 14 is the release date of "Honor Thy Country," a Gold Seal three-reel patriotic drama, featuring Neva Gerber and Charles Perley. There will no regular Victor release this week, although a special Victor release, "A Case of Beans," a comedy, featuring Fritzi Brunette, will more than offset this omission.

The L-Ko two-reel comedy, "A Million Dollar Smash," will be released on November 15, together with No. 46 of the Universal Animated Weekly. There will be no Laemmle release on this date. Lucille Hutton plays the lead in the L-Ko. On this date J. Warren Kerrigan plays the lead in "The Torment," a Special Big U drama, with an unusual theme.

Murdock MacQuarrie and Edyth Sterling are featured on November 16 in "Life's Maelstrom," a Big U two-reel human interest drama, written by Murdock MacQuarrie and produced by Jay Hunt. Bud Chase, Harry Ham, G. A. Williams, W. L. Rodgers and Mrs. Jay Hunt appear in support of the principals. On the same date Betty Schade and Lloyd Whitlock co-star in "The Diamond Lure," a Rex drama, written and produced by John McDermott. Rex Rosselli plays an important role in the production. The Powers split reel release of this date consists of "Motor Mat and His Fliv," a comedy cartoon, and "Ceylon," another of the famous $250,000 Dr. Dorsey educationals.

On November 17 Harry Carey and Edith Johnston co-star in "Guilty," a two-reel Imp slum drama, scenarioized by William Parker from the story by Ben Cohn and produced by Henry McRae. E. N. Walleck, L. C. Shumway, Peggy Coudray, Lee Hill and Marc Fenton enact the other principal roles.

"Kewpie" Morgan appears in person on the same date in the Nestor comedy, "A Capable Lady Cook," written by Harry Wulze and produced by Wallace Beery, who takes a principal role with Belle Bennet. T. Moreno appears in support of the triumvirate of stars. There will be no Rex release on November 17; instead the Special Big U, "The Long Search," an Indian and Western drama, will be put on the program.

"The Son of a Rebel Chief," a two-reel Civil War drama, written and produced by William V. Mong, will be released on November 18, under the Bison brand. Mr. Mong takes the principal part, supported by Nellie Allen, Marc Fenton and Harry Holden. On the same date Gale Henry and William Franey co-star in "Their First Arrest," a Joker comedy, produced by W. W. Beaudine, from the story by Smythe Addison. Milburn Moranti, Charles Conklin and Lillian Peacock also appear in the picture. There will be no Laemmle release on this date.

On Sunday, November 19, Millard K. Wilson and Edith Roberts co-star in "Lost in Babylon," a Rex drama written by Harvey Gates and produced by Mr. Wilson. Malcolm Blevine appears in support of the principals. On the same date Harry Carter, Lois Wilson and Lee Hill appear in the Victor comedy-drama, "Her Chance," which was written by Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude. Wilbur Higby, Velta White and Lillian Concord appear in support. "The Thread of Life," a Special Imp two-reel melodrama written by Joseph Gollomb and produced by Ben Wilson, also will be released on this date. Frances Nelson appears with Mr. Wilson. This feature contains a fire scene which should make it of great interest to exhibitors and fans alike.

Jeanne Eagels—Thanhouser Star

JEANNE EAGELS, Thanhouser star, who is soon to appear in "The World and the Woman," a Pathe Gold Rooster play, made her first appearance on the stage in Kansas City, her home city, as a member of the Woodward Stock Company. She was given her first speaking part when she was twelve years old—which was not so very long ago.

Miss Eagels played in many stock companies and finally attacked New York and captured a part in "Mind the Paint," with Billie Burke. After a successful season with Miss Burke, Miss Eagels became Julian Eltinge's leading woman in "The Crinoline Girl." Later she was engaged to succeed Elsie Ferguson in "Outcast."

Jeanne Eagels.

Joseph Brooks saw Miss Eagels in "Outcast" in New York and immediately signed her to a long time contract. She was a member of the all-star cast in "The Great Pursuit" and soon is to be featured in a Broadway production.

In "The World and the Woman," Philip Lonergan, the author, has given Miss Eagels a most difficult part, one of those so prized by great actors who love to "run the gamut of human emotions." Miss Eagels plays a woman of the streets who, through the influence of a little child, is spiritually reborn and becomes a faith healer.

The scenes taken on Broadway, New York, and in the Adirondack mountains are especially fine.

ENID BENNETT IN STAR PART.

Among this week's announcements from Culver City is the interesting news that Enid Bennett, the new Kay Bee star, has commenced work before the camera in the vehicle in which she will make her Triangle debut. Under the direction of Charles Miller, this bright little luminary is now giving daily care to her portrayal of a blind girl in Lenier Bartlett's unusual drama of the mining country, and report has it that she is creating a sensation among the studio folk by her excellent work. Her supporting cast consists of Jack Gilbert, Charles K. French, Fanny Midgley, Will H. Bray, Walt Whitman, J. Frank Burke and George Elwell.

HEYES PLAYS OPPOSITE SURATT.

Valeska Suratt's new production for William Fox, under the direction of Will S. Davis, is progressing rapidly. Herbert Heyes has the leading role opposite the fashion plate of the screen. Others in the cast are Claire Whitney, John Charles, Josephy Granby, Charles Edwards and Oscar Nye. Mr. Nye is the assistant director of the Davis company, and acted before the camera for many months previous to his beginning executive work.

The Big Newspaper Advertisement

By S. J. Anderson

A Costly Phase of Local Competition—Also a Suggested Remedy for the Evil

IN a recent Sunday issue of the Seattle Times, of Seattle, Wash., there appeared a full page advertisement of a motion picture play at one of the local theaters. There was a photograph of the star and about twelve words on the page. That was all. What the management evidently depended upon to bring an unusual attendance was the amount of space used. They must have expected a large crowd, else surely they would not have spent so much money on one advertisement. Yet Seattle motion picture fans paid no more attention to that "ad" than if it had occupied a modest little five or ten inches; because they are so used to half-page and quarter-page announcements that a few inches or a half-page more means nothing to them so far as the picture is concerned.

This statement is not merely theoretical. It is based upon the testimony of a number of Seattle people, some movie fans, others infrequent patrons of the theaters. When asked if they went to the show referred to and why, some answered that they went because they liked the star, others because they liked the theater, or the service, or the music. Not one of them mentioned the big newspaper advertisemnt, and when it was brought to their attention some remembered seeing an "ad" in the paper, but did not know just what size it was; others remembered that it was a full page, but seemed not the least impressed by it; while still others did not even remember having seen it.

There are advantages in this form of advertising for the new theater in a town where it has not been used. The new manager can "knock 'em dead" with it for a while. But after his competitors are "onto it," what's the use? After that it is just like a little boy who, seeing his playmate with a big marble, buys a bigger one, whereupon a rivalry in buying big marbles goes on between the two, until finally all their money is spent, and both have such big ones that they can't shoot them straight. Then along comes another youngster with a marble of sensible size who, by good shooting, wins all the other two possess.

Seattle has gained a widespread reputation for big advertising. Film men in other parts of the country, when urging exhibitors to advertise on a larger scale, will say, "Look at what Seattle is doing!" Yet it is hardly probable that Seattle exhibitors are going on with such an expensive advertising program just to keep up this reputation. That would be a flagrant case of the boys and the big marbles, and we have greater respect for the exhibitors of that city than to suspect them of such childish ideas. Certainly one must search for a more adequate reason for exhibitors and exchange men joining in making gifts or from twenty-five to two hundred and fifty dollars each week to the newspapers. Yes, the exchanges often have to help in this donation. The exhibitor comes to him with this line of talk:

"Let me have this picture for a hundred less than the regular price, then I'll spend a hundred and fifty dollars advertising it. That will be worth more than two hundred to your business."

But the exchange men have awakened to the fact that it is not worth even fifty dollars to their business, and most of the exhibitors admit that their patronage is not affected in proportion to the amount of space used in newspaper advertising.

"But," explains one of the latter, "if one of us cuts down his advertising space the papers will kill his show."

And therein lies the difficulty, which may not at first, perhaps, seem so clear; but if one has read the reviews of photoplays in the Seattle Times or in either of the other Seattle papers one understands. The shows at the houses where the managers have advertised heavily are boosted all alike, while those houses whose advertising space is small receive a sort of half-hearted recommendation, and generally no mention whatever is made of a theater that carries no "ad" in that issue. The bigger Seattle exhibitor is afraid that if he does not pay for a lot of space his show will be severely criticised, or, more likely still and more deadly, it will not be mentioned at all in the reviews.

Now we think in the first place that the exhibitors exaggerate the importance of these columns in the Seattle papers. In other cities where the papers' reviews are really criticisms the people often follow them in deciding what show to attend, but with such a review as the Seattle papers give that can hardly be expected. Certainly it is not the case. Whether or not Seattle exhibitors can hurt them, the way out of this difficulty for all of them is in co-operation, in getting together and agreeing on a certain number of inches—say, three, five, or ten, or perhaps some of them would only want one—for each theater to use daily. Let it be simply an announcement of the play, the producer and the star. If all would enter this agreement, there would be nothing to fear along this line from either papers or competitors, and most of the thousands that exhibitors and exchange managers are now giving to the papers will go into their own pockets. And if exhibitors in any other cities are contemplating following Seattle's lead, let them call a halt before each of them begins spending from fifteen to thirty thousand a year on advertising.

Grace Valentine

GRACE VALENTINE, one of the most charming and popular of the younger Metro stars, and whose latest offering on the Metro program is "The Brand of Cowardice," with Lionel Barrymore, was born in Indianapolis, Ind. After attending grammar and high school in that city she appeared in amateur theatricals and conducted an orchestra in a summer park near Greenfield, Ind. This, she considers, was her first professional engagement.

After playing ingenue roles in a stock company in Indianapolis, Miss Valentine attracted the attention of a traveling representative of Oliver Morosco, who made her an attractive offer to go to Los Angeles. There she played ingenue leads in the Morosco stock company, and soon became the pet of all Los Angeles. Mr. Morosco then sent Miss Valentine to Chicago at the head of a company with a notable cast in "Help Wanted." From that time on success attended her on a big scale. She came to Broadway as the star of "Yosemite," Charles A. Taylor's famous play, which had a brief run at Daly's Theater.

Grace Valentine.

The next season Miss Valentine was the understudy for Irene Fenwick, who was then playing "The Song of Songs." She was then starred in "See My Lawyer," and played a summer engagement in Atlantic City and Philadelphia in "Brother Masons," with Frank McIntyre.

Miss Valentine made her debut on motion pictures in "Black Fear," with Grace Elliston and Edward Brennan on the Metro program. She made a decided hit in this feature and Metro arranged for her to appear with Julius Steger in "The Blindness of Love." Next she was starred with Lionel Barrymore in "Dorian's Divorce," on the Metro program. Her real name is Snow.

NEW MAN IN PARAMOUNT OFFICE.

John R. Simpson, Jr., formerly connected with the Central Bank and Trust Company of Atlanta, Ga., has joined the Southern Paramount Pictures Company, and will act in the capacity of manager in the Strand Film Company, which handles the special features booked in that vicinity through the Paramount Atlanta office. Mr. Simpson is well known in the South, and has exceptional and marked ability for his new position.

American Studio Activities

Numerous Productions Under Way at the Santa Barbara Plant.

THREE productions are under way at the American studios. Director James Kirkwood is completing Mary Miles Minter's fourth picture "A Dream or Two Ago," and will begin next week on "The Innocence of Lizette." The former story was written by Henry Albert Phillips, the scenario by Arthur H. Gooden. The supporting cast includes Lizette Thorne, Gertrude Le Brandt, William Carroll, Orral Humphrey, Clarence Burton and John Gough. Principal scenes are laid in Chinatown and tenement districts.

William Russell is at work on "Lone Star," in which he plays an Indian role. The story was written by Kenneth B. Clarke. Edward Sloman is the director. Charlotte Burton, Harry Von Meter and Ashton Dearholt are in the supporting cast. The company has just returned to the Hupa reservation where they made many of their scenes. This play gives William Russell the biggest opportunities of his life.

C. William Kolb and Max Dill, under the direction of Thomas N. Heffron, are completing "Lonesome Town" and will soon begin on "Beloved Rogues." "Lonesome Town" is taken from one of their popular plays, put into scenario form by Al Santell. The scenes are well set, and Kolb and Dill are extremely amusing as tramps. In the cast are Harvey Clarke, in excellent make-up as "Fresno Phil," Henry Edmondson, Charles F. Spencer, May Cloy and Eugenie Forde.

The fourth Richard Bennett picture, formerly titled "The Highest Good," is in the cutting room. The title has been changed to "The Valley of Decision."

At Vogue studios, Rube Miller is directing his own productions, and Robin Williamson, recently acquired from Vim, is directing Paddy McQuire and Ben Turpin, now playing together.

Rube Miller has just completed "Pure Hearts and Black Hands."

Lillian Hamilton appears as ingenue lead in a very difficult role. She was hurt the other day, but is recovering.

Frederick Palmer, an old time newspaper man, is managing editor of the scenario department, and Hugh Saxon and Al Ray are assistant editors.

Robin E. Williamson is completing a comedy by Mr. Palmer not yet titled with McQuire and Turpin.

Director J. P. McGowan and his company of Signal Players have gone back to El Portal to finish filming exteriors of "The Lass of the Lumberlands," after a brief visit in Los Angeles. Rainy weather in the lumber country has seriously interfered with work. McGowan brought his company to Los Angeles to save time by taking interiors while it was impossible to work outdoors.

Paul C. Hurst will alternate with McGowan in directing the Helen Holmes series picture.

The Pollard Picture Plays Company has one of the finest studios today. It is located at the San Diego Exposition Grounds with remarkable scenic facilities.

Director Harry Pollard has completed Margarita Fischer's production "Miss Jackie of the Navy," and is preparing for "A Night at Tarquizzi," while Henry Otto is directing Miss Fischer in her third production "The Butterfly Girl," a pretentious production full of unusual color. Miss Fischer is supported by Jack Mower, John Steppling, Joseph Harris and J. Gordon Russell.

Nine Two-Week Pickford Showings

Ohio and Massachusetts Head Artcraft's Honor Roll on "Less Than the Dust."

SPREADING out from New York City, where five theaters are this week presenting Mary Pickford's newest production, "Less Than the Dust," Artcraft Pictures Corporation points to a total of nearly eighty theaters which have booked the new superior Mary Pickford pictures for runs of from one to three weeks. In nine cities at least one theater has arranged for engagements of two weeks each. In others two theaters under the same management will have "Less Than the Dust" and its successors one week apiece. Ohio and Massachusetts lead their sister states in a tie for first honors, each having nine theaters on the honor roll.

The Strand, Broadway and Academy of Music in Manhattan, Keeney's and the Century in Brooklyn set the pace for New York State that is followed by the Gordon houses in Rochester, the Regent and Garden, the Strand in Syracuse and the Strand in Buffalo. Worthy of comment is the fact that there are nine Strand theaters on the Artcraft "big" list.

Both the La Salle and Bijou Dream in Chicago will run "Less Than the Dust" for two weeks. The other 14-day houses are the Stillman, Cleveland; Majestic, Detroit; Strand, Denver; Columbia, Portland, Ore.; Coliseum, Seattle, and Portola, San Francisco.

Thrillers on the Kalem List

George Larkin Provides Dare-Devil Feats for November Releases with Plenty of Action in Other Issues.

DARE-DEVIL George Larkin, featured in the "Grant, Police Reporter" series with Ollie Kirkby, is now dividing attention in the Kalem list of releases with the "Girl from Frisco" series presenting Marin Sais and True Boardman in the leading roles. Kalem announces that two late November releases in the newspaper series are now in final shape.

"The Rogue's Pawn," fourth of the "Grant" episodes, is scheduled for Friday, November 17th, on the General Film program. Ollie Kirkby is seen in this one reeler as the daughter of the police commissioner. She is the innocent tool of Chitsworth, a well known gambler, and becomes trapped in the gambling place when fire breaks out almost at the moment that the police are raiding it.

One of the thrilling scenes finds Larkin, in an effort to rescue Miss Kirby, swinging hand over hand across the telephone wires stretched between the roof tops. In mid-air, the wires snap under his weight, and Larkin is catapulted into the flaming building. Later, Ollie Kirkby slides down a rope from the roof to the ground while Larkin makes his escape by a seven-story leap to the fire net.

This "Grant" thriller is followed on the Kalem schedule by "The House of Three Deuces," released Friday, November 24th. In this, the fifth episode of the one-reel series by Robert Welles Ritchie, one of the sensational moments comes when Larkin and Robert Ellis, the latter in the "heavy" role, are seen struggling on a fire escape which collapses under their weight. Larkin, by his work in this series, seems certain to eclipse his past record for dare-devil screen performances.

"The Girl from Frisco" episodes released in mid-November also contain their quota of thrills. "The Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest," issued on Wednesday, November 15th, finds Barbara Brent, portrayed by Marin Sais, enmeshed in the activities of an Armenian secret society. It is preceded in "The Girl from Frisco" list by "The Witch of the Dark House," in which a counterfeiting gang is the center of the activity.

"Rival Fakers" and "The New Salesmen" are two novel "Ham Comedies" found on the November schedule. Ham, Bud, Ethel Teare and Henry Murdoch are seen in the principal parts in these subjects. "Rival Fakers" finds Ethel and Henry as rival sellers of a miraculous syrup, while Ham and Bud as hotel bell-hops play an active part in their schemes. Ham and Bud as salesmen in a department store furnish a surplus of comedy for "The New Salesmen."

The two-year-old "Hazard of Helen" series celebrates anniversary month with the release of "The Runaway Sleeper" on Saturday, November 18th, and "The Forgotten Trail Order" on Saturday, November 25th.

Fontana Opens Offices Here

Located in the Longacre Building with Joseph M. Gaites in Charge—Bookings for "Civilization" Coming Fast.

LAST week's announcement that A. G. Fontana had secured the rights to Thomas H. Ince's "Civilization" for the states of Pennsylvania, Ohio, Maryland, West Virginia and Delaware aroused no little interest among the exhibitors of those states and the trade in general. To handle this extensive territory the A. G. Fontana Productions Company has opened offices in the Longacre Building, Broadway and Forty-second street, New York, and Joseph M. Gaites, well known as a theatrical promoter and motion picture man, has been engaged to handle the general business of booking and distributing.

The territory covered by the Fontana deal is a rich one for the state right man, and it is said that the mails are already burdened with requests for bookings from the numerous enterprising exhibitors in the states named.

It is also announced that branch offices to facilitate the work of distributing will be opened in Philadelphia (1225 Vine street), Pittsburg, Cleveland, Cincinnati and Baltimore.

Hiller & Wilk, the brokers who conducted the negotiations which lead up to the consumation of this deal, feel immensely pleased with the success of their planning.

Important Bluebirds Coming

Several Exceptional Features Will Appear During the Next Three Months.

DURING the nine months that Bluebird Photoplays have been distributed many exceptionally clever features have been numbered among their productions. This fact has been demonstrated by the comments of the trade press critics in advance showings, to be later confirmed by public approval. There is assurance offered by the management that the next three months will disclose numerous releases of an uncommon variety—pictures that will further establish the Bluebird program in favor with exhibitors and their public.

Two of these exceptional features are scheduled for the last two weeks of November and upon "The Measure of a Man" and "The Bugler of Algiers" the exploiters of Bluebird pride themselves. Entirely different in the nature of their theme, they represent the leading spirit of different elements of mankind. "The Measure of a Man" represents the pacifists and "The Bugler of Algiers" voices the ideas of the militants.

J. Warren Kerrigan and Louise Lovely will be the featured players in "The Measure of a Man" to be released November 20. Both of these leaders have been lone stars in the earlier Bluebirds, who lately joined forces to portray "The Social Buccaneer" for Bluebird. In the second feature in which they will unite their artistry, Kerrigan plays a rugged type of hero who could preach the gospel and at the same time hold his own in fistic argument. Miss Lovely represents the belle of a lumber camp, who is the cause of action during most of the excitement.

Norman Duncan wrote the story of "The Measure of a Man" and Maude Grange prepared the scenario from which Jack Conway directed the feature. The redwood forests of California provide most of the locations, and in picturesque scenes, among the giant trees, most of the action takes place. Katherine Campbell, Ivor MacFadden, Marion Emmons, Harry Carter and Marc Robbins are in the supporting company.

On November 27 "The Bugler of Algiers" will be released with Ella Hall, Rupert Julian and Kingsley Benedict playing the three characters that practically dominate the action. Little Zoe Rae, who is featured in "Gloriana," the current Bluebird, will also play an important role. This feature is depended upon by Bluebird to create more comment and awaken greater interest in the series than any feature they have ever released.

Robert H. Davis, editor of Munsey's Magazine, wrote the story in collaboration with Perley Poore Sheehan, and under the title of "We Are French" it originated in the All-Story Magazine. It has now been done in book form by the George Doran Company, under its original title. The screen caption comes from a stirring incident which dominates the picture and makes "The Bugler of Algiers" an especially appropriate title for the photoplay.

"The Sign of the Poppy," to be released December 4, is a picture entirely different than either of its immediate predecessors. Hobart Henley will play a "double" as the featured one and Gertrude Selby will be leading woman in presenting the melodrama. This will be Mr. Henley's second appearance in Bluebirds, but the first time that he will be featured. He played the juvenile role in "The Evil Women Do," released several weeks ago. In the supporting company will be Mina Cunard, Robert Clark, Garland Briden and Wilber Higby. Charles Swickard directed the production from J. Grubb Alexander.

Greetings by Aeroplane from Chicago

George K. Spoor, Tom North and F. E. Kleinschmidt Send Messages to World by Carlstrom's History-Making Machine.

AFTER a flight through the air at the record-making speed of 110 miles an hour, three messages from Chicago were delivered by Uncle Sam at the office of the Moving Picture World on the morning of November 3. They were conveyed by Victor Carlstrom in his sensational aeroplane trip from Chicago to New York under the auspices of the New York Times. The postcards were from George K. Spoor, president of the Essanay Company; Tom North, well-known theatrical and exchange man, and F. E. Kleinschmidt, the photographer of big things, whether these be in the Arctic or on the firing line in Europe.

The message from Mr. Spoor read: "Greetings by aeroplane from Essanay."

Mr. North, who for over a year had lived in Seattle, unconsciously reflected in his note his joy at his escape from the newly declared dry belt of the Northwest.

Essanay to Make Natural Length Films

President Spoor Announces Hereafter the Story Itself Will Dictate Length of Subject.

THE Essanay Company has ceased to make photoplays by reels. George K. Spoor, president, has inaugurated the system of putting out photoplays according to the time they take to run on the screen. In the future Essanay plays will not be announced in reels or acts, but by their screen time. As the average reel takes about sixteen and a half minutes to be thrown on the screen at a normal rate of speed, the exhibitor can readily judge the footage of the picture if he cares to know. It is Mr. Spoor's idea that the spectators at the theater care nothing about the number of reels, but are anxious to know what is the length of time a picture will run.

There is still another and more fundamental reason why Mr. Spoor decided to disregard the reel lengths and to adopt the system of screen time. "Since the advent of the feature into the motion picture business the public has been differentiating between pictures by length rather than by quality," said Mr. Spoor. "There are short films that are just as much entitled to the name of feature as the long ones. I have seen three-reel photoplays which were as strong as any longer feature and much stronger than many.

"It has been a question of chopping down a story to make it in two or three reels or padding it out for five or more to make a feature out of it. Essanay will not do this. The story will run for just what it is worth and no more. If the plot can be carried out in three reels and a half it will run that long and not longer. If it is necessary to carry a footage of five thousand and five hundred feet or more it will get that footage.

"The exhibitor and the public can judge its length by our announcement of its screen time, the length of time it takes to project it. I think the sooner the manufacturers realize the public is not entirely feature mad the better it will be for the exhibitor's business and for the manufacturer. I believe exhibitors are anxious for the shorter stories of real merit, and it is up to the manufacturer to supply them.

"In my opinion there is a large percentage of the public that would welcome shorter photoplays. The motion picture business was built up very largely on its informality. If a man and his wife wanted an hour or a half hour's entertainment they would drop into a motion picture theater. If they see the screen time of a play marked at thirty-six minutes, or whatever it is, they will drop in for that time.

"This does not mean that I am opposed to the five or more reel feature, because I am not. Essanay will continue to get out features of five thousand feet and more."

Play Bandits Were the Real Thing

Paul G. Melies Learns from C. C. Ezell of How in 1911 Guests Were Separated from $40.

THE visit of C. C. Ezell, formerly manager of the Dallas branch of the General Film and now manager of the Atlanta branch, recalled an interesting incident of early film days to Paul G. Melies, whose Knickerbocker Star Features and Vim Comedies are released on the General Film program. Back in 1911 Mr. Ezell, who was assistant manager of the Dallas branch, visited San Antonio, where the Melies Company was producing its famous western thrillers. He was accompanied by several exhibitors who were interestedly watching the production of the pictures.

One of the scenes that was scheduled was the hold-up of an old-fashioned stage coach and Mr. Melies invited Mr. Ezell and the exhibitors to represent the passengers in the coach. With a good deal of banter to and fro the visitors piled into the coach, which went tearing down the road to where the bandits were hidden and the stage coach was held up in realistic fashion.

In fact, it was so realistic that the bandits went through everybody's clothes and removed about $40 in small bills and change, charged into town with the proceeds of the haul and immediately proceeded to distribute it to various bartenders. And not until the other day did Mr. Melies learn that it cost those men $40 to have their photographs taken as "movie stars."

LARIMER BROS. BUY JACKSON THEATER.

Monday, November 6, marked the opening of the Jackson theater, Heber Springs, Ark., under the management of Larimer Brothers, who have purchased the house from Clay Callicott. The theater was thoroughly renovated before it was opened.

Paramount Program

Mae Murray and Fannie Ward Stars on Paramount Program Week of November 13—Other Interesting Features.

THE beautiful Mae Murray and the versatile Fannie Ward will hold sway on the Paramount Program the week of November 13, in the two feature productions for that week, "The Plow Girl" and "The Years of the Locust," respectively, both from the Lasky studios. "The Plow Girl" is the first production Miss Murray has made since she left the East some weeks ago, after having appeared in the productions of the Famous Players. It is particularly well suited for Miss Murray, and the advance showings have proven that it is undoubtedly the best work she has ever accomplished on the screen.

Not since the time of "The Cheat" has Fannie Ward had a production, in which her wonderful capabilities have been given such sway as in "The Years of the Locust." She conclusively demonstrates that she is undoubtedly one of the greatest emotional actresses appearing in photoplays.

Surrounding the program for the week of November 13, Paramount will release four short reel features, the 40th edition of the "Magazine-on-the-screen," the Paramount Pictographs, in which the leading subjects are "Self Defense Without Weapons," "People of the Alaskan Wilderness," "Frenzied Frocks and Frills" and "Have You a Little Heifer in Your Home?" The 41st of the series of Weekly Trips Around the World, conducted by Burton Holmes, in which he takes his fellow tourists "In Modern Athens": the funniest Paramount-Bray cartoon that J. R. Bray has ever contributed to the screen, in "Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo," and the fourth Black Diamond single reel comedy, to be released by Paramount, called "A Villainous Pursuit."

Paramount Pictographs is particularly interesting in that, the four subjects that are dwelt upon in this magazine-on-the-screen, this week, have never been seen on the screen before. The leading subject shows that the art of "Self Defense Without Weapons" depends fundamentally upon your ability to startle an assailant before he has the opportunity to do you bodily harm. This method of defense has been brought to a high standard of perfection in this country, and compares in principle with the jiu jitsu practiced in Japan. The picture shows a number of methods that can easily be used for a variety of malicious actions perpetrated against any peaceful citizens, this being so simple that they are very easily learned from the screen showing. Simple enough, however, but extremely useful to everyone.

In this edition also of the magazine-on-the-screen, there will be shown the second installment of Prof. George Burbank Shattuck's pictures taken on a geological tour of Alaska and shows the conditions that now exist in the Klondike region, proving that the prevailing idea that the gold resources of Alaska have been entirely exhausted, is far from the actual facts, and picturing in vivid details the unusually hard methods that miners are compelled to undergo in mining the precious minerals, and forcibly portrays the terrible struggle for wealth for which some men endure every imaginary hardship.

The secrets of the designing rooms of the Parisian modistes are exposed in a series of pictures, posed exclusively for Paramount Pictures by Mons. Cne, one of the foremost of America's fashion artists, while a great deal of comedy is obtained in another section in the picture, "Have You a Little Heifer in Your Home?" which "back to the land" movement contemplates the keeping of a cow in every home, thereby having your individual milk supply fresh for all meals.

Burton Holmes, the world's greatest traveler, in his 41st "Weekly Trips Around the World," which is conducted for Paramount, goes this week to "Modern Athens, which still maintains its Olympian games and where much excitement is to be found, a remainder of wonderful events in the days when Greece was not only the most cultivated and artistic city of the world, but was also famous for its athletes. The picture shows a series of these games which are witnessed by over 70,000 people, after which Mr. Holmes takes you to witness the superb exhibition drill given by the Greek Gymnastic Societies, who by perpetuating the customs and athletic spirit of their ancestors, establish and maintain in the younger generation the manhood and incentive to clean living worthy the memory of those valiant Greeks who fought and conquered at Marathon, twenty-five hundred years ago.

"Colonel Heeza Liar," the funniest of all the comedy cartoon characters that are being portrayed on the screen today, has at last lost his home and happiness, and has been compelled to turn hobo. J. R. Bray, the creator of this character, has injected into this animated cartoon, more real laughs than has ever been found in a single reel of this type before. To say there is a laugh every second, would be describing this reel very meagerly, for it is a continuous uproarious laughfest from beginning to end.

Paramount's fourth single reel comedy will be "A Villainous Pursuit," a Black Diamond comedy, produced by the United States Picture Corporation, and having earned the reputation of making the whole nation "hold its sides for laughter." These comedies have been creating a great deal of favorable comment by exhibitors throughout the country, and this one is particularly meritorious, in which there is a great deal of comedy acting, a dash of heart interest, sufficient comedy suspense to make it doubly interesting, and with that ever ultimate justification that makes it an ideal release.

Special music has been prepared for the program pictures, and Paramount is distributing to its exhibitors through its exchanges, thousands of dollars' worth of accessories as advertising aids and exhibitors' helps to put this week's program of pictures "across" in a way that is up to the standard set for Paramount Pictures during the past year.

Hanover Buys Biograph Prints

Film Company Will Put on Market Five Hundred Subjects Ranging in Age Back to 1910.

THE Hanover Film Company, under the management of Captain Charles E. Kimball and Samuel Grant, 904 Columbia Theater Building, has acquired by purchase all the library copies of the Biograph Company, including the period from 1910 to date. This includes all lengths, split reels, single reels, two reels, and one four-reel feature. Altogether there are five hundred subjects and a half million feet of film. These will be disposed of on the principle of first come first served.

The list contains the names of many famous single reel subjects which used to be the exhibitors' joy when they were first released and none of which have ever grown stale. One thing which will make a good many of these single reels possess uncommon interest is the nature of the cast. In many cases these casts show the greatest moving picture actors and actresses now enjoying fabulous salaries. The revival of such names as Marion Leonard, Florence Lawrence and Arthur Johnson will recall a thousand memories of old-time moving picture skill. Mary Pickford, Lillian and Dorothy Gish, Owen Moore and many others are seen in minor roles when their art was new and their salaries small. Some of these reissues have been shown recently and have made good in every sense of the word.

Here are just a few of the names that will be remembered by old time exhibitors as first class box office attractions. "The Rose of Kentucky," "The Lucky Horseshoe," "The Revenue Man and the Girl," "Through His Wife's Picture," "Their First Divorce Case," "Resourceful Lovers," "With the Aid of Phrenology," "Never Known to Smile," "The Winning Punch," "No Place for Father," "Mrs. Casey's Gorilla," "Jinks' Vacation," "In the Elemental World," "Highbrow Love," "Under the Shadow of the Law," "All on Account of the Cheese," "The House of Silence," "The Borrowed Necklace," "The Broken Cross."

WILLIAM SHEER, OF "THE REGENERATION" FAME, AGAIN WITH FOX.

William M. Sheer, actor, vaudevillian, jockey and casting director, who did such notable work as Skinny, the rat, the character lead in "The Regeneration," has rejoined the William Fox photoplayers.

Mr. Sheer is cast for a leading role in the Gladys Coburn film now in work. It was Mr. Sheer who gained the plaudits of thousands of movie fans by swinging hand over hand in "The Regeneration" on a clothesline a hundred feet in the air—and then hurdled downward bouncing off one line and another as he fell.

Mr. Sheer will also be recalled for his feat in setting fire to the excursion barge, Andrew M. Church, which William Fox had purchased for destruction in the picture.

$25,000 THEATER FOR PRESCOTT.

The De Luxe Theater Company, Inc., of Prescott, Ariz., is building in that city a $25,000 photoplay house. The theater will be devoted exclusively to the exploitation of feature pictures. The dimensions of the new house are 50 by 100 feet, and it will have a seating capacity of 1,000 persons.

Observations

BY OUR MAN ABOUT TOWN

ONE of the most frequently used terms in the great political campaign just closed was "Watchful waiting," and singularly enough it was used by each of the two great parties in the contest with equal diligence and confidence in impressing the voters. One used it in justification, the other used it derisively. Few have attached to the phrase anything other than political significance, yet its import is almost without limitation. Nine-tenths of the people in the United States believe that the term applies wholly to the policy of the present national administration with regard to the Mexican situation. That it applies to any other condition of affairs has probably never occurred to them. They perhaps have never thought that the attitude of the neutral countries of the world in connection with the great European war has been one of "watchful waiting." The attitude of the business interests of this country is the same, for it is of vital importance to them to get some inkling of where they will stand and what their future foreign policies and privileges are to be when the great war is ended. The middle and poorer classes of this country are watchful waiters. They are anxiously scanning the horizon for some hope of a cessation in the sky-rocketing of commodities in price, and just as anxiously waiting to see how long after the great war is ended it will be used as an excuse for the maintenance of the prices. "Watchful waiting" is as old as the hills. It is an old form in a new dress. In the old homestead we have seen it demonstrated by the old family cat as she patiently watched at a hole in the floor for the appearance of the mouse.

* * *

As old as it is and as common as the new-formed phrase has become during the great political campaign just closed "Watchful Waiting" would be an excellent motto for the motion picture industry to adopt. Every one connected with every branch of the great industry should be inspired to watchfully await any move on the part of those who are continually scheming to hamper and injure their interests.

* * *

For the first time in the history of the motion picture industry those connected with it have this fall openly taken an interest in State and National politics. A few years ago the industry maintained a conservative stand and refused to identify itself with politics in any form. Its position then was as it is today, that the motion picture industry was and is a perfectly legitimate business proposition and was not dependent upon, and did not cater to, any political movement. Its peculiar commercial conditions made it independent of even tariff laws to an extent that it did not feel called upon to enter into politics. The great bulk of its products were of American manufacture on American stock. At times the industry was sorely tried on account of duties imposed upon certain chemicals which it was necessary to import and duties imposed upon foreign films imported by American agents. But these conditions were chiefly due to the motion picture industry—the motion picture films—being a new proposition for the Government, which for some time was in a quandry as to how moving picture films should be classified. In time the Government and motion picture interests got together and solved the problem amicably, so that the latter continued its policy to conduct their business on a purely commercial basis.

* * *

The entrance of the motion picture industry into the political arena was in no measure due to any dissatisfaction with the Government, or its laws. The industry was forced into the field for protection against groups of schemers who, while parading as moralists and reformers, have been trying to use every form of political device chiefly to further their own interests. To accomplish this they have endeavored to have passed every form of local, state and national law imaginable, regardless of fairness, reason or justice. With a horde of fanatical moralists and reformers in front the grafters and political office seekers have put the motion picture industry to an enormous expense of time and money to fight schemes that were absolutely without merit.

* * *

The past few years have indeed been a period of watchful waiting on the part of the motion picture people, and it is gratifying that they at last became aroused to a duty they owed to themselves. They have been urged for some time to stand up and fight their enemies with the same weapons used against them, and it is hoped that the counting of the votes on November 7 will show that they have not been deaf to the call. The churches, religious societies and reform organizations have practically resolved themselves into political organizations in order to secure the selection of people inimical to the interests of the motion picture industry. For a long time they did it secretly, but latterly they became so openly aggressive that the more far-seeing people in the motion picture ranks felt justified in calling the industry to fight fire with fire. The first call, it is believed, has received a hearty response.

* * *

Perhaps those of the motion picture people who have worked industriously in the first political campaign will not realize all they have hoped to gain. None of them expected to elect a motion picture legislature in each state, nor similar bodies at Washington. Much less will be entirely satisfactory to them. There are some very intelligent and fair-minded men in the motion picture industry. They know that they have as much chance of securing complete control of the law-making bodies of the country as the child who cries to be given the moon has of getting it. But they do know that there are enough sensible and thoughtful people in the country who will stand by them when they ask for a fair chance to fight radical and fanatical legislation. That is all the motion picture people have asked for in the campaign just closed—a fighting chance.

* * *

The writer knows of some reformers who have severely criticized the motion picture people for trying to induce the respective candidates for President to commit themselves on the censorship question. This is in keeping with most of the views of a majority of reformers. They set examples of action and those opposed to their ideas are condemned for following them. It has not been unusual for candidates for President to be urged to express themselves on the question of national prohibition, votes for women, and on the subsidizing of certain industries. There is just as much involved in the question of censorship for motion pictures, so far as constitutional rights are concerned, as there is in the questions of national prohibition and woman suffrage.

* * *

The writer cannot recall that any of the candidates for President turned the motion picture delegations down, or committed themselves to the contrary; so the reformers have no occasion for going into hysterics. Personally, the writer does not think the overtures to the Presidential candidates amounted to a hill of beans, aside from the effect it had as a notice to the country that the motion picture people were in the fight for equal rights. The true value of ante-election work of this character lies in its direction towards candidates for the state and national bodies that frame the laws. A President of the United States, or the Governor of a state, may personally be unfavorably disposed towards a certain measure, but if the state or national bodies adopt a measure in good faith and justifiably, it is doubtful that the Executive will turn it down. So we may expect the situation to be when the censorship question comes up. If the motion picture people have a fair chance and representation to make good their claims and fail to do so, and those opposed to them make a presentation that is sound in reason and law, the picture people will be obliged to bow gracefully to the inevitable, and they will. Past history will not justify a similar prediction as to the conduct of the reform element.

* * *

Whatever the final results of the National election may be, the motion picture people are confident that there will be sent to the Legislatures, Senates and Congress enough intelligent and fair-minded people to see that the motion picture people are given a fair opportunity to present their claims and that no iniquitous measure will be allowed to go unchallenged. In other words, they have hopes that in the censorship battles the reformers are planning the watchful waiting will not be entirely upon the shoulders of the motion picture industry as it has in the past.

MARSHALL STEDMAN VISITS DENVER.

H. O. Davis, Vice President of the Universal, has granted Marshall Stedman, engaging director at Universal City, a month's leave of absence, and Stedman is spending it with his father, Captain E. M. Stedman, of the United States Navy, retired. Captain Stedman lives in Denver, and with his son will visit Apex, Col., where Marshall Stedman has mining interests. It is Stedman's first vacation in thirteen years.

Comments on the Films

EXCLUSIVELY BY OUR OWN STAFF

General Film Company

BETTY'S AFFAIR (Vitagraph), Oct. 27. A comedy reel in which an old idea is given a few unusual and humorous touches. The girl is in love with a man that her father doesn't like. The father wants his daughter to marry Ferdinand, but the hero puts a crimp in that proposition by dressing as a cook and dealing out a dinner that disgusts Ferdinand. Everything turns out happily.

A CLOSE CALL (Selig), Oct. 28.—Tom Mix and his supporting cast offer some unusual and daring cowboy stunts in this one-reel Western. There is not much to the story, but the action is enough to get it over. A ranch foreman is attacked on his way to a bank by robbers. He pursues them, obtains his money and, through his bravery, wins the hand of the ranchero's daughter. In the cast are Tom Mix, Victoria Forde, Joe Ryan, Pat Chrisman and Sid Jordan.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 87, 1916 (Selig), Oct. 30.—Hughes Woman's Special at San Francisco; Miss Maud Howe addresses ten thousand people at San Diego; troops from Mexican border arrive at Fort Sheridan, Ill.; British East Africa troops at Nairobi, about to enter German territory; auto plunges into river, Chicago; Rose Tree Fox Hunt Club hold meet at Media, Pa.; fashions in furs; New Haven, Yale College pageant.

THE MERRY MOTOR MENDERS (Kalem), Oct. 31.—A number of the Ham and Bud comedies that is not quite up to standard. The action is rather slow. Henry Murdoch and Ethel Teare support Ham and Bud, who become the owners of a garage, and resort to all sorts of tricks to cause punctures to autoists' tires. Reviewed in the issue of November 4, page 690.

CANIMATED NOOZ PICTORIAL, NO. 19 (Essanay), Nov. 1.—Wallace Carlson's animated cartoons burlesqueing news events are as humorous as usual in this number. The drawings and the animation of them are good. The reel contains 500 feet of beautiful scenic, showing Crater Lake, Oregon, which body of water lies in the hollow base of a volcanic cone.

GERTIE'S GARTERS (Vim), Nov. 1.—This number of the Vim Feature Comedies, in which Harry Myers and Rosemary Theby are featured, is only average. The film is helped somewhat by a few novel sets, and several rather humorous police station scenes. The story is not much, and tells how Harry gets in trouble when a female crook slips a pair of pilfered, jewelled garters in his overcoat pocket. His troubles commence when his wife finds them there.

THE SELIG-TRIBUNE, NO. 88, 1916 (Selig) Nov. 2.—Submarine built for Spain tested at Provincetown, Mass.; members of famous French Band inspect ruins of Zeppelin, London; Miss Irene Kelynack is flesh-and-blood Venus, New York; Artist McCutcheon makes flight with Victor Carlstrom, Chicago; with the French north of the Somme; ten thousand greet Roosevelt in Chicago.

THE PENCIL CLUE (Kalem), Nov. 3.—In this episode of the "Grant, Police Reporter" series, George Larkin indulges in a daring feat when he jumps from a canopy on a level with the first floor of an office building into an automobile. A good fight between Mr. Larkin and Director Ellis, who plays the villain, occurs in the automobile. The story tells on the screen how Grant unravels the suspicious death of an aged lawyer. Ollie Kirkby plays opposite Mr. Larkin. A review was printed in the issue of November 4, page 690.

THE GATE OF DEATH (Kalem), Nov. 4.—Helen Gibson, in this number of the "Hazards of Helen" railroad series, slides down a construction-camp chute in a small carrier and catapults over the top of a moving freight train. Several good fighting scenes are contained in the reel. The reel is up to standard. Review in the issue of November 11, page 843.

General Film Company Specials

IT NEVER COULD HAPPEN (Essanay), Oct. 28. A quite entertaining three-reeler. The story is impossible, but there are a number of lightening situations in which real humor is found, and, although the picture becomes farcial at times, it is acceptable. A wealthy youth gets a job as butler and tries to escape the attentions of the daughter of his employer. He falls out of a window and, while his injuries are healing, becomes enamored of his nurse. He is accused of forgery, but his father comes to his rescue. Included in the cast are Richard C. Travers, John Cossar, Anna Mae Walthall, Thomas Commerford and Frances Benedict.

SMALL TOWN STUFF (Selig), Oct. 30.—A three-reel character comedy belonging to the series of village life, written by Mabelle Justice, this picture deals with the efforts of a faker to swindle the entire town. He gets up a theatrical performance with local talent, and the show they give is something awful to behold. His attempt to make off with the receipts is frustrated by the sheriff. Some of Miss Justice's material is rather ancient but amusing. The cast and production are excellent.

THE BEACHCOMBER Essanay), Oct. 31.—Harry Dunkinson is the leading member of the cast in this two-reel comedy. He plays the part of a lively travelling man who drops in at a seaside resort and wins the hearts of all the ladies by claiming to be a great life saver. After securing the position of lifeguard, it is discovered that he cannot swim a stroke, and he makes a hasty exit from the place. The comedy is entertaining, a number of pretty girls in Pacific coast bathing dresses helping to attract the eye.

THE POWER OF THE PRESS (Biograph), Nov. 1.—A three-reel Biograph reissue, featuring Lionel Barrymore and William Russell. The film teems with old-fashioned melodrama, with the villain persecuting the heroine all the way through. The story follows the lines of old-time melodrama, but is, nevertheless, interesting. Vivian Prescott, William Jefferson and A. C. Marston are also in the cast. A review was printed on page 220 of the issue of October 14.

THE SON OF CAIN (Kalem), Nov. 1.—An absorbing two-reel number of Robert Welles Ritchie's "The Girl from 'Frisco" series. Unfolded on the screen is the mystery of a hermit beekeeper. Action is fast. Marin Sais furnishes several thrills when she falls from a horse and rolls down a cliffside. She jumps from a moving train into a river, as does also Ronald Bradbury. An exciting film. True Boardman, Frank Jonasson, Edward Clisbee and Hart Hoxie are also in the cast. The picture was reviewed in the issue of November 11, page 843.

Bluebird Photoplays, Inc.

A STRANGER FROM SOMEWHERE, Nov. 13.—Franklyn Farnum is the leading actor in this five-reel picture and plays a dual role, a Western millionaire and a pickpocket. The story has been written for entertaining purposes only, and its complications are more intricate than real. The locations are excellent. A lively fight brings the picture to a finish. An extended review is printed on another page of this issue.

Greater Vitagraph V-L-S-E-Inc

THE DEVIL'S PRIZE (Vitagraph-Blue Ribbon Feature), Nov. 6.—A five-reel picture in which character delineation is uppermost. There is little action, and the characters of Marguerite Bertsch's story are most all of them more or less repellant. Antonio Moreno and Naomi Childers are featured. The picture has dramatic strength, but the story is rather vague at times. It tells of how the devil finally wins the man who was always putting the blame for his many misdeeds on others. The picture was reviewed in the issue of November 11, page 846.

THE PRICE OF FAME (Vitagraph-V-L-S-E), Nov. 13.—A good five-part story, featuring Marc MacDermott, supported by Naomi Childers, L. Rogers Lytton and Mary Maurice. It is reviewed in another column.

International Film Service, Inc.

THE JOCKEY OF DEATH, Nov. 13.—Made in Italy by the Milano Film Company, this five-reel picture is filled with sensational circus feats. The story opens in England and follows the career of an heiress who is stolen when a child and trained as an acrobat. There is no end of brisk movement, and the scenes in an indoor circus are realistic. The picture is given a longer review on another page of this issue.

Mutual Film Corporation

MUTUAL WEEKLY, NO. 96 (Mutual), Nov. 1.—Interesting items of this issue are the Yale pageant, New Haven, Conn.; a new floating station house for New York harbor police; at Buffalo, N. Y., powerful magnets employed in lifting a cargo of pig iron; the return of the first New Jersey field company from the border, and at Chicago, Ill., the Maroons defeated at football by Northwestern.

BUNGLING BILL'S BOW-WOW (Vogue), Nov. 5.—An unusually entertaining farce comedy in which a clever little dog plays a prominent part. The plot of the story deals with the simple fact that a certain young lady's father insists that, in order to win his consent to marriage with his daughter, her sweetheart must catch him a wampus. A toy dog, mistaken for a wampus, is brought in, then stolen, and the detective employed leads a merry chase after the offenders. Children will enjoy this comedy which contains no harmful element.

MUTUAL WORLD TOURS, NO. 1 (Gaumont), Nov. 7.—"In the Heart of Egypt" is the first subject of this excellent series. This opens with scenes on the Nile at Assouan, following with the baths of Cleopatra, a Kamenez-Podolsk, a Galician town, in war time, Philae, showing the temples of Isis and Hathor, the Assouan Dam completed Dec. 10, 1902, and many interesting Egyptian types at their various occupations. The second part of the reel shows some interesting scenes in and about La Rochelle, France, its harbor in the Bay of Biscay, its wharves, its fish market, and its fishing fleet on the bay in the moonlight. An unusually interesting travel film.

SEE AMERICA FIRST, NO. 61 (Gaumont), Nov. 8.—The beautiful Columbia River is the subject of this film entitled "Oregon's Famous River," seen from the Columbia River Highway. The views presented in this film are of unusual beauty and clearness of photography. Some of the scenes it encompasses are Eagle Creek Bridge, catching the salmon in Eagle Creek, Eagle Point, Horse Tail Falls, the Devil's Punch Bowl, beautiful Lo Tourell Falls, La Tourell Bridge, and the Falls Villa, closing with a beautiful sunset scene. "Babbling Bess," a comic cartoon, completes the reel.

THE FIGHT ON THE DAM (American), Nov. 9.—A western melodrama, featuring J. Warren Kerrigan. In the cast are also Jack Richardson and Pauline Bush. The production is of ordinary merit and visualizes a fight between the cowmen and a construction company who were putting in a dam.

HIS BLUSHING BRIDE (Cub), Nov. 10.—A moderately entertaining comedy, based on an oldtype of story in which two young men in distressing financial circumstances try to get a week's free board which is offered the first bride and groom to take lodging at a certain new hotel, by posing as bride and groom. Considerable comedy is extracted from circumstances attending the makeup of the bride. The comedy element of this picture is not overly strong.

Mutual Film Corporation Specials.

THE PEARL OF PARADISE (Mutual Star Production), Nov. 2.—A six-part production, made by Harry Pollard. Margarita Fisher plays the feminine lead in a pleasing manner. The picture is based on an adaptation of a novel by Andrew Soutar and deals with the experience of a young man who was shipwrecked and thrown on an island in the South Seas. The pretty, unsophisticated daughter of the only white inhabitant falls in love with him and rescues him from the vengeance of the natives. A dream takes up several hundred feet of the film and draws the picture out rather past its natural length. The production is on the whole artistic, and will be pleasing to many audiences.

THE LASS OF THE LUMBERLANDS, NO. 3 (Signal), Nov. 6.—"First Blood" is the title of this number of the serial which opens with scenes in the Yosemite Valley with Helen and Little Bear paddling a canoe down the river on their way to the recorder's office. After arriving in time to record the homestead ahead of Holmes' men, it is discovered by them that Helen was not eighteen when she recorded it, and a fight for supremacy ensues. A thrilling scene takes place when Helen and Little Bear follow the trainload of logs in a locomotive and avert an accident with an express train. A good number.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

FLORENCE ROSE FASHIONS, NO. 8 (Pathe), Nov. 12.—"A Day in New York With Betty" is the title of this fashion review. The fashion display is limited to ladies' frocks. Many of the gowns were pronounced "beauties" by competent authorities who were at the showing.

LUKE, THE GLADIATOR (Rolin), Nov. 12.—This one-reel comedy is a broadlgauge burlesque on the Roman drama. The fun is frequent and of good quality. The grotesque makeups and the general production are handled with skill.

Pathe Exchange, Inc., Specials

THE SHIELDING SHADOW, NO. 7 (Astra), Nov. 12.—This chapter of the Pathe serial is called "The Awakening." Most of the action takes place in the air a balloon, ascension and a parachute jump by Leontine being the principal thrills. One Lamp Louie attempts to have the girl destroyed by setting fire to the balloon after Leontine has accepted an invitation to take part in a balloon race, but Ravengar saves her life in a sensational manner. The picture is reviewed at length on another page of this issue.

SHADOWS AND SUNSHINE (Gold Rooster), Nov. 12.—Marie Osborne, the remarkable child actress, who is the creator of "Little Mary Sunshine," is starred in this five-reel comedy. The work of this small person is delightful, and the picture will please grownups and children alike. A review of "Shadows and Sunshine" is printed in the present issue.

Triangle Film Corporation.

AMERICAN ARISTOCRACY (Fine Arts), Nov. 12.—A nondescript vehicle for Mr. Douglas Fairbanks, in which he does some of his acrobatic stunts and looks quite as cheerful as usual, but that is the full measure of the release. Its acceptance will depend entirely upon his name and personality.

JIM GRIMSBY'S BOY (Ince), Nov. 12.—A very strong and interesting story of primitive character with Frank Keenan at his best and Enid Markey in a marked impersonation.

Universal Film Mfg. Company

SHADOWS OF SUSPICION (Laemmle), Nov. 12.—A dramatic number, by Arthur Maude and Constance Crawley, featuring Maude George, Lee Hill and Clyde Benson. This tells of a young married woman, made unreasonably jealous of her husband by a rival for her affections. The situation in which she gets the rival out of the room while her husband is blindfolded is original and pleasing. This is stronger than the average one reel number.

ANY OLD DUKE I'LL DO (Victor), Nov. 12.—Erine Shields and Harry Depp play a nobleman and a tramp, who exchange places as the result of a bet. The resulting comedy situations are quite funny and bring several laughs.

KNIGHTS OF THE BATH TUB (Nestor), Nov. 13.—An amusing comedy number, b yDorothy Barrett, featuring Eddie Lyons and Lee Moran. Eddie, the son of a rich man, undertakes to learn the plumbing trade at his father's bidding. The dinner party makes a laughable occasion, with Eddie under the table manipulating the fountain. An enjoyable light subject.

A CAPABLE LADY COOK (Nestor), Nov. 17.—This is a nonsensical subject, by Harry Wulze, featuring Wallace Beery as a "cook lady." She hires out at an employment agency and is taken to the home of a young married couple, where she falls in love with the ice man. The humor is not very strong, though this will bring some laughter. It closes with an auto chase.

THE DIAMOND LURE (Rex), Nov. 16.—This is the story of a young gem collector, who calls at the home of his sweetheart and shows her his jewels. The girl's father, who is financially short, yields to a sudden temptation to steal a large diamond, but the young man discovers the attempt. The situation is unfortunately practically all there is to the story. It could have been used as an incident of a longer production, but standing alone it seems rather weak, particularly at the close. Lloyd Whitlock, Betty Schade and Rex De Roselli are in the cast.

THEIR FIRST ARREST (Joker), Nov. 18.—A character comedy of the knockabout type, by Smythe Addison, featuring Gale Henry, Wm. Franey and others. An old maid, a constable, a village belle and a tramp thief appear. Several amateur sleuths try to catch the thief, but their book rules prove of no avail. This contains funny moments and makes quite an amusing offering in its way.

HER CHANCE (Victor), Nov. 19.—A society comedy, by Constance Crawley and Arthur Maude, featuring Lois Wilson, Melta White, Lillian Concord, Lee Hill, Wilbur Higby and Harry Carter. This presents the familiar situation in which the nobleman and his secretary exchange places, and the poor relation wins the title. In spite of the old theme the story is made interesting by good settings and an attractive cast. This is well above the average.

Universal Film Mfg. Co. Specials

THE HERITAGE OF HATE (Red Feather), Nov. 13.—A five-reel number, by Walter Woods, featuring Wm. Quinn, Roberta Wilson, Betty Schade and Paul Byron. The plot concerns a business man who sows his wild oats both during his youth and in later years. His illegitimate daughter, whom he does not know, becomes his stenographer and brings about his financial and social ruin. There is a good deal of theatricalism in this production and certain scenes are lacking in conviction. It contains strong plot material, but has not been handled effectively in places. A fair subject.

HONOR THY COUNTRY (Gold Seal), Nov. 14.—A three-reel story of a South American republic, featuring Edward Cecil, Joseph Gerard, Rhea Haines, Neva Gerber and Chas. Perley. The girl and her fatherland in the republic and attend a ball given by the dictator. The latter is a villainous fellow, who rules with an iron hand. He has the girl's father thrown into prison and makes advances to her. Two Americans, one with the regular army and the other a soldier of fortune, have a chance to show their colors. A well-rounded story, pleasing in setting and quite stirring in its sentiment. An enjoyable offering.

A MILLION DOLLAR SMASH (L-KO), Nov. 15.—A two-reel eccentric comedy, with the principal scenes located at a railroad station. The girl's father is agent and her lover the telegraph operator. Two crooks appear at the station and one of them makes love to the daughter. The telegraph operator intervenes and is locked in the safe. The safe is blown out of the station into a passing train. There is not much humor in the opening situations. The runaway freight car furnishes considerable excitement and these scenes are all well handled. The number is one of average interest.

LIFE'S MAELSTROM (Big U), Nov. 16.—In this number Murdock MacQuarrie appears as an old time actor. He faints after a production of Richelieu and loses his place. His daughter separates from her husband, who has turned out to be a crook. She meets her father long afterward by accident. This production has a rather ordinary plot. The photography and settings are not of the best. It makes on the whole only an average offering.

GUILTY (Imp), Nov. 17.—A two-reel number, featuring Charles Ogle and Marie Weirman. This is the story of a young doctor, addicted to the drug habit, who kills a man and throws the crime upon his friend. The friend escapes from prison, is cleared later by a confession, and marries the judge's daughter. This is conventional and contains considerable unpleasantness, but succeeds in holding the interest throughout. It makes a fair offering as a whole.

THE SON OF A REBEL CHIEF (Bison), Nov. 18.—A two-reel story of civil war days, written by Wm. V. Mong, who also plays the leading role. He is supported by Nellie Allen, Mark Fenton, Harry Holden and Jane Harris. The opening scenes, depicting the old plantation and freeing of the slaves, are interesting. The son of the family goes to fight with the northern soldiers, and the chief episode is a tragic one in which he shoots his own father while on sentry duty. The number as a whole has no great novelty in plot, but is well up to the average.

World-Pictures.

BOUGHT AND PAID FOR (Peerless), Nov. 13.—A five-reel screen version of the successful stage play by George W. Broadhurst, this picture contains a powerful climax. Alice Brady and Montagu Love are the leading actors. A longer review is printed on another page.

Miscellaneous.

THE MASQUE OF LIFE (Count de Cippico), October. A seven reel, foreign made motion picture melodrama full of thrills. Pete Monte bello, a monkey, takes a leading part in the picture. Spectacular fire scenes in a circus and occurances on a chimney-top, high above the ground, furnish real excitement. The picture should go well with American audiences. A full review was printed on page 841 of the issue of November 11.

THE SEX LURE (Ivan), Nov. 1.—A good drama, especially notable for the work of Louise Vale in the role of a wronged wife. Others in the cast are Donald Hall, James Morrison, Frankie Mann and George Henry. The subject was reviewed in the issue of November 11, on page 841.

LESS THAN THE DUST (Artcraft), Nov. 6.—This strong production marks the introduction of Mary Pickford supported by her own company. The subject is reviewed on another page.

Vivian Martin in "The Wax Model"

Pallas Studios at Work on G. Vere Tyler Subject for Paramount Program—Thomas Holding Appearing Opposite Star.

CLOSELY following the completion of Vivian Martin's forthcoming Pallas Pictures vehicle, "The Right Direction," which will be released on the Paramount Program in the near future, the popular star commenced activities on her newest production, "The Wax Model."

This story by the well known fictionist, G. Vere Tyler, created considerable attention in "The Smart Set" about a year ago, and offers an admirable subject for Miss Martin in the characterization of petite Julie Davenant, the vivacious little daughter of a Parisian dancer. The character also provides the star with various opportunities to display her dramatic talent in several tense scenes which call for unusual emotional ability in contrast to the usual capricious nature of the flirtatious Julie. Fourteen gowns are being used by Miss Martin in this picture.

A feature of the new Martin photoplay is the unusual number of elaborate sets required by the story, the most pretentious of which is an immense view of the fashionable shop of the Frenchman Hermineux with its mirror paneled walls, rich furnishings, and large plate glass show cases containing costly gowns. Another exceptional set representing a large drawing room and conservatory occupies the entire floor space of stage number two at the Pallas studios. Various artistic scenic and lighting effects are also being staged.

Thomas Holding, who recently became affiliated with the Pallas organization, and has gained much prominence in the photoplay world under the Famous Players' banner, appears opposite Miss Martin in the role of Melville Ilchester, the handsome Englishman, who falls in love with Julie. Particular care has been evidenced in selecting each member of the cast which includes Helen Jerome Eddy, as Helen Ilchester, Pietro Buzzi, as Hermineux, and Marion Sievers, as Julie's mother. The production is being staged under the chief direction of E. Mason Hopper with James Van Trees in charge of the camera work.

MARY NASH IN PATHE'S "ARMS AND THE WOMAN."

In "Arms and the Woman," the Gold Rooster Play for November 26th, Mary Nash is seen for the first time in a Pathe picture. Miss Nash, who is now starring on Broadway in "The Man Who Came Back," is recognized as being one of the most talented leading women of the day. Under the able direction of George Fitzmaurice, she proves herself to be a screen star of unusual merit.

Miss Nash is an Albany girl, and though young in years, her natural dramatic ability has been ripened by experience in some of the best plays and with some of the best theatrical companies of recent years. She was leading woman with Andrew Mack in "Arrah Na Pogue"; she played the "girl" in "The Lure," and had the title role in "The Woman"; she was in "The Truant," and starred in "The Ohio Lady." She made her big hit in "The City." She also played a season in repertoire with Grace George at "The Playhouse."

"Arms and the Woman" is a story of to-day, tense and timely. It is based upon the manufacture of munitions in this country for the European nations at war, and tells of a young Hungarian girl who emigrates to this country and through the kindness of a wealthy manufacturer lifts herself out of her sordid surroundings and becomes a talented, charming woman. Falling in love with her benefactor, she marries him and then comes to realize that his business is that of furnishing guns to the enemies of her country. Her brother Carl, a man of anarchistic tendencies, is delegated by his countrymen to kill his sister's husband. From then on the girl is the prey of conflicting emotions. How she finds herself at last and wins happiness is most dramatically told.

Mr. Fitzmaurice has, as an Astra director, made a picture which ranks well with his previous successes, "Via Wireless," "New York," "At Bay," and "The Test."

First Release From Art Dramas

High-Grade Productions at Moderate Rentals, Policy of New Distributing Organization, to Commence Business About November 27.

THE first release of the newly-organized Art Dramas Company, which will distribute the productions of the William L. Sherrill Feature Corp., the U. S. Amusement Corp., the Erbograph Company and the Van Dyke Film Productions Corp., has been announced for November 27. It is understood, however, that this date is only tentative, and will not be made absolute until the four producing companies have enough pictures completed to ensure the meeting of their weekly release obligations.

The releasing arrangements in the New York territory have been rather complicated; two well-known independent exchanges having met the requirements of Art Dramas in the shape of deposits and guarantees, at the same time. Neither wished to relinquish its claim to distribute the pictures. It was finally adjusted, however, and the Art Dramas Service of New York, at 729 Seventh avenue, will distribute the pictures.

One of the officials of the Art Dramas Company, in speaking of their policy of making high-grade productions to be rented at moderate prices, said:

"I have been asked by several exhibitors whether we actually could make pictures of excellent quality, and still ask less for them than the other programs do. My answer is 'Yes,' most emphatically. We intend to go further than that. We intend to give our exhibitors better pictures than they get on some of the other programs. And there is no reason why we should not be able to do so."

The producers of Art Dramas have not undertaken to make more pictures than they can do well. That means that every production will be made carefully, and that sufficient time will be given to the making of each one. There will be no pictures on our program rushed out in a hurry whether it is ready or not. Every picture must measure up to our standard of quality, and also to the standard of our distributors. We can easily afford to do this, because of the two big savings that we shall effect. For one, we shall employ no "stars" at prohibitive salaries. This does not mean, though, that our players will not be good. They will. But they will not get more than they can earn, as is the case with a number of companies.

"Our other great saving will be made in our method of distribution. Eliminating the middleman, as we have done, we have reduced the charge against a picture from 20 per cent. to 35 per cent. This saving, together with our saving on the player's salaries, will without a doubt, enable us to sell good pictures at a price that will enable the exhibitor to make a profit every time he shows an Art Dramas production.

THE MAKING OF "THE MASQUE OF LIFE."

Making as big a picture as "The Masque of Life" usually has its cost in death as well as money. Not only did it take seven months of strenuous directing to complete the spectacular offering, which is now being shown at the Park theater, but twelve lives were lost in it, three of them human, five horses and four full grown lions being burnt to death in the terrific fire which was one of many striking scenes. The story of "The Masque of Life" is woven around a beautiful circus girl who meets a young prince; a romance ensues, and through the death of the youth's father and his ascension to the throne, his love is lost to him. With extraordinary cleverness the story is brought to a higher pitch as it advances. Starting simply as a love story and first getting the characters firmly set in the onlooker's mind, its plot progresses so tremendously that it is fairly staggering, and in one part of the film the suspense is so great that it has not been unusual for women to scream or faint during the performance. Certaintly no producer has ever before gone to such lengths to create excitement—the capture of a real live baby by an extremely clever chimpanzee actor was one of the features in the scenario. According to the story the chimpanzee was to take a baby up a 350-foot chimney—but of course they intended to use a dummy. The chimpanzee, pursued by the crowds taking part in the film ran up the chimney as per rehearsal, but he carried the real baby with him. The fact that the director tried to commit suicide after the end of this day's work—even though the baby's life was saved, at awful peril, is an example of the energy put into the creation of this picture. It is released by Signet Films, 220 West 42d street, New York.

IT'S NOT A DULL TALE.

"The World and the Woman," a Thanhouser-made Pathe Gold Rooster play, starring Jeanne Eagels, is the story of a woman of the streets, who becomes a faith healer. It has a strong religious theme, but it is by no means a dull story. It opens wtih a big cabaret scene, and included in the five reels are two really fine battles. In one Miss Eagels knocks out Thomas A. Curran. In the other Boyd Marshall and Wayne Arey wrestle desperately on the edge of a precipice. Other exciting moments also are calculated to keep the spectators on the edge of their seats.

Manufacturers' Advance Notes

"THE TEMPTATION OF ADAM" (Selig).

"The Temptation of Adam," produced by Al. Green, from the story written by Louis V. Jefferson, and featuring Kathlyn Williams, will be released in General Film service, on Monday, November 13. "The Temptation of Adam," while in reality an unusual feature production in every detail, will be released through regular service, continuing Mr. Selig's policy.

The drama is the story of a woman loyal to her husband, but the husband becomes a prisoner through the machinations of his wicked partner. The woman suspicions her husband's partner of being the real thief. She resolves to clear his name, and in order to do so, she enacts the role of a worldly woman and entices the crook through feminine wiles to finally confess his crime.

Scene from "The Temptation of Adam" (Selig).

There are many novel effects and gripping climaxes in this drama. Kathlyn Williams, in the role of "Rose Addison," who becomes a "vampire," so-called, in order to clear away the stain from her husband's name, has unusual opportunities for emotional work. She is supported in the presentation of this play by such stars as Guy Oliver, Eugenie Besserer, Vivian Reed and Al. W. Filson.

"THE SUNBEAM" (Metro).

The Metro wonderplay, "The Sunbeam," with Mabel Taliaferro as star, will be released Nov. 27. Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., is the company producing this gem of motion picture art for the Metro program. Edwin Carewe directed "The Sunbeam." The photography was done by A. A. Cadwell.

"The Sunbeam" is Miss Taliaferro's first photoplay since her successful feature, "The Dawn of Love." It is the joint product of Shannon Fife and June Mathis, who provided the artist with that other brilliant photodrama, "God's Half Acre," Mr. Fife writing the original story of "The Sunbeam," and Miss Mathis adapting it for the screen.

The play is a beautiful one of love, poverty and riches. The part of Prue Mason, "the sunbeam," is taken by Miss Taliaferro. Prue lives with her old grandmother in a crowded tenement district. Working with her in a candy factory, and living with her and "Granny" in the tenement is Danny O'Maddigan, a product of the reformatory. "Biff the Brute" and other characters of the underworld, who have known Danny in the reformatory, attempt to lure him from the path of honesty, and it is due to Prue's wholesome influence that he keeps to the right path.

Miss Taliaferro, as Prue, is supported by a distinguished cast including Gerald Griffin, the veteran "globe-trotting actor," who plays Rutherford; Raymond McKee, who plays Prue's youthful sweetheart, Danny; Gladys Alexandria, a recruit from the dramatic stage, formerly leading woman in "The Miracle Man," and Mrs. Breyer, who plays Granny. Mrs. Breyer was for ten years associated with Denman Thompson's "Old Homestead" company. Underworld characters are played by Louis Wolheim, Eddie Reddway, and Daniel Bertona. "The Sunbeam" has been given a lavish and careful production.

FAMOUS CAST IN "KING LEAR" (Thanhouser).

Edwin Thanhouser has announced the cast that will support Frederick Warde in the Thanhouser production of "King Lear," that will be released through the Pathe exchanges on December 17. Every effort was made by Mr. Thanhouser, Mr. Warde and Ernest Warde, his son, who directed the production, to make "King Lear" a notable Shakespearian event, and the cast was selected with great care.

J. H. Gilmour, who plays the Earl of Kent, is a famous Shakespearian actor whose early career—as did Mr. Warde's—included engagements in Shakespearian productions of Edmund Booth and Lawrence Barrett.

Ernest Warde, the director, is the "King's Fool," a part he played with his father on the speaking stage.

These three men, lovers of Shakespeare, scholars who understood every detail of "King Lear," were the leaders in the task of seeing that the Thanhouser production was just the sort of a play Shakespeare himself would want it to be. They made it Shakespeare's "King Lear," not a modern version of the play.

The remainder of the cast includes Ina Hammer as Goneril, Wayne Arey as the Duke of Albany, Edith Diestal as Regan, Charles Brooks as the Duke of Cornwall, Lorraine Huling as Cordelia, Boyd Marshall as the King of France, Hector Dion as Edmund, Edwin Stanley as Edgar, and Robert Whittier as Oswald.

HE MAKES 'EM.

Harry Watson, Jr., starred by George Kleine in his comedy series "The Mishaps of Musty Suffer," is one of the few residents of New York who doesn't play the ukelele. Mr. Watson makes them. His Long Island home is fitted with a cozy workshop, where the comedian spends his leisure hours making musical instruments and fancy hooks for snaring unwary bass. He has not yet tackled the manufacture of a grand piano but has ambitions.

"THE THREAD OF LIFE" (Universal).

An unusually exciting Imp two-reel melodrama, "The Thread of Life," will be released by the Universal on November 19. Ben Wilson and Frances Nelson play the leads in the story, which was written by Joseph Gollomb.

The cast includes the following characters: Dr. Carl Richard, Mayme Carter, Spider Carter and Lena Peyton.

In one of the scenes a house is burned to the ground. Ben Wilson (Dr. Richard) in disguise, attempts to chloroform a gang of crooks. He steals up the steps of a house where they are quartered, makes his way to the fire escape and, upon noticing that a lighted gas jet is close to a curtain, opens a switch, which blows the curtain against the gas jet.

Scene from "The Thread of Life" (Universal).

The house is on fire in a few minutes and the crooks escape, leaving Dr. Richard's fiancee in the room. The Doctor carries her out through the flames in a thrilling scene, which ends when the timbers and beams of the burning house tumble to the ground.

"The Eagle's Wing"

Bluebird Production Extraordinary on National Preparedness for State Right Market.

EARLY in November, Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., will release a special issue, independent of the regular program to be marketed along "State right" plans by the various Bluebird exchanges throughout the country. Because of the particular nature of the subject, Bluebird has determined that "The Eagle's Wing" would not logically become a program feature, even if the expense involved in its production would admit of considering the subject as a regular release.

Scene from "The Eagle's Wing" (Bluebird Extraordinary).

"The Eagle's Wing" is a non-political, strictly American reflection of economical and industrial preparedness for military emergency in time of sudden and unexpected attack by any other nation. While the world war and its effect upon the great nations involved was instrumental in prompting the production, there is no specific reference to any particular nation as opposed to the United States—the subject is strictly neutral, and absolutely pro-American.

The basis of the feature is an interesting love story, with plot and inner-plot to complicate the situation and keep the outcome in suspense. The main artery of interest is in the idea advanced by the foreman of a great industrial plant, that every factory, mill and workshop in the country should be canvassed with a view to ascertaining what each concern could contribute in munitions or supplies for the army and navy in time of war. This done the Government could proceed understandingly to the discussion of any problem of international importance.

As a matter of fact the United States Government has done just this. The Naval Consulting Board, an organization for industrial preparedness, is doing exactly the things pictured by Bluebird in its extraordinary release, "The Eagle's Wing." It might be better said that the photoplay is an exact illustration, in its scientific details, of what the Naval Consulting Board was organized and empowered to do. Thomas A. Edison is Chairman of the Board, and the original membership has been augmented by State organizations that feed directly into the headquarters at Washington the information that is thus gathered throughout the country.

Every manufacturing plant, factory, mill, foundry or shop has been provided by the Naval Construction Board with blanks upon which they are urged to give details that, when tabulated, will show at a glance just what Uncle Sam may expect his subjects to do for him in time of need through industrial co-operation. "The Eagle's Wing" gives pictorial answer to a great many of these questions.

Rufus Steele wrote the story that links industry with heart interest. Maud Grange prepared the scenario, Robert Leonard produced, and R. E. Irish photographed. Herbert Rawlinson and Grace Carlyle lead a large company of players, and the matters of scenic presentation has been elaborately provided for. Considered among the average of best moving pictures, "The Eagle's Wing" would be regarded as a corking fine picture—and when the industrial features are added a "Bluebird extraordinary" results.

Mr. Steele spent months in arranging to take the photographs that reflect actual operations in the manufacture of munitions, guns, shells, shrapnel, fuse, armor plate, castings, and every element that enters into modern warfare as conducted by civilized nations. Lathes and wheels whirl before one's eyes carrying steel and iron while the finished product is followed from its earliest stages until it is racked and stacked ready for shipment. And the remarkable part of most of the pictures comes in consideration of the fact that everything is being done in mills and factories originally built and operated for the peaceful pursuit of mercantile manufacture.

MARIE DORO TO STAR AS "OLIVER TWIST."

The Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Co. announces December 11th as the release date for its elaborate adaptation of Charles Dickens' famous novel, "Oliver Twist," in which Marie Doro is starring. Not only is "Oliver Twist" one of the most successful and most popular works of England's greatest novelist, but the fact that Miss Doro is to play the title role of this Paramount Picture gains added significance from the fact that she scored one of the most distinguished triumphs of her stage career in the Liebler all-star presentation of the play during the Dickens Centenary in 1912.

Though Marie Doro is the star of the production, an announcement emanating from any other source than that of the Lasky Company, whose casts are normally notable, would undoubtedly term the adaptation an "all-star" presentation, as the names of such great stars as Hobart Bosworth, Tully Marshall, James Neill, and Raymond Hatton are found among the supporting cast. Bosworth will play the great role of Bill Sykes, the morose, hard-headed, brutal animal. The Artful Dodger will be played by Raymond Hatton; James Neill is Mr. Brownlow; Jack Sacker is Charles Bates; Robert McKenzie is Fangs, and Elsie Jane Wilson is Nancy Sykes. Other equally well known players have been assigned to the other roles which are dear to the hearts of all lovers of Dickens.

The adaptation of the novel was prepared by James Young, who also directed the production for the Lasky Company.

SELIG'S GENERAL FILM RELEASES.

"The Sheriff's Blunder," is the name of the Selig feature play to be released in General Film service on Monday, November 20. The play features Tom Mix in a most unusual plot, a story giving him opportunities for many hazardous exploits. "The Sheriff's Blunder" also carries an unusual ending, something that is noteworthy in this day and age, when the endings of many film productions are stereotyped. Mr. Mix is supported by an all-star cast of Western players. On Saturday, November 25, "The Hedge of Heart's Desire," a one-reel drama of true appeal, will be released in General Film service.

A very interesting release is announced for Monday, November 27, entitled "Following the Flag," a three-reel production. "Following the Flag" is a series of spectacular motion pictures of Uncle Sam's soldier boys in action on the Mexican border and in old Mexico. Not only the infantry and artillery, but the cavalry is shown in real and mimic warfare. A view of this picture play will make the spectators proud of the United States forces and will foster feelings of patriotism in the hearts of everyone. "Following the Flag" will be released in General Film Company's regular service.

"Mistakes Will Happen" is the title of an unusually excellent one-reel comedy, scheduled for release in General Film Company's regular service on Saturday, December 2. There is fun in almost every inch of this film.

"HIS MORAL CODE" (Essanay).

The constancy of woman, her sacrifices for love, frequently make up the film plot, but it is rare that man is credited with affection of equal intensity. Here, however, is a three-act drama in which the man gives up the woman he loves—quitting her under a stain to make it the more easy—in order to leave her free to marry a far wealthier man with whom he believes she will find greater happiness. The play is replete with intense scenes, and the ending where the lovers meet after years for a belated wedding has been well worked out. The greater part of the story's setting is in a hospital and the scenes are true to type. Three well-known stars are presented, Lillian Drew, E. H. Calvert and Edward Arnold appearing as principals.

Scene from "His Moral Code" (Essanay).

"THE MEASURE OF A MAN" (Bluebird).

J. Warren Kerrigan and Louise Lovely will be the leading players in "The Measure of a Man," the Bluebird release for Nov. 20. This will be the second appearance of these former single stars of Bluebird in the same release. They were recently featured in "The Social Buccaneer," and the result was so satisfactory that the Bluebird management decided to have Mr. Kerrigan and Miss Lovely join in acting "The Measure of a Man."

In this feature director Jack Conway took his company to Scene from "The Measure of a Man" (Bluebird).

the redwood forests of California to get the proper exteriors for the reason that incidents in a lumber camp comprise the essence of the plot. With very few exceptions the settings are all out-of-doors, and are accordingly attractive in the natural picturesqueness of California scenery.

Norman Duncan wrote the story, and it has had considerable circulation in published form. Maud Grange prepared the scenario. Supporting Mr. Kerrigan and Miss Lovely will be Katherine Campbell, Ivor MacFadden, and other members of Jack Conway's company.

"MISS GEORGE WASHINGTON" POSTPONED.

"Miss George Washington," the story of a girl who could not tell the truth, in which Marguerite Clark is to star, has been designated by the Famous Players Film Company for release on the Paramount Program November 20. Though originally intended for the program in the latter part of October, when work on the production was actually begun it was found that several elaborate settings which had not been included in the schedule would be required and the picture was necessarily delayed.

Scene from "Miss George Washington" (Famous Players).

This is the photoplay which marks the first appearance of Marguerite Clark since her renewal of contract with the Famous Players, in the face of repeated reports that she was to desert the screen and return to the stage.

NINTH EPISODE OF "YELLOW MENACE" THIS WEEK.

The Unity Sales Corporation will release the ninth episode of "The Yellow Menace" serial this week, under the title of "The Crystal Globe." A new turn in the thrilling events of this picture takes place in this episode, since the action revolves more around a battle of wits than actual hand-to-hand conflicts and their murderous results which have characterized many of the earlier episodes. This naturally adds increased interest and sustains the attention of those who are following the serial.

In this episode we see Ali Singh revealed in his role as Master of Mysticism, to which he resorts with telling force, Najla being his victim. Because of her anxiety for the safety of Manning and his associates, Ali Singh believes that by applying his knowledge of the mysterious power of mysticism he can force her to disclose the secret of Manning's new abode. The treatment of this subject is handled in a very novel manner in this episode and its introduction is sure to appeal to moving picture devotees.

SYMPHONY ORGANS INSTALLED.

The Signal Amusement Co., of Chattanooga, Tenn., has recently installed four Symphony Organs in different theaters, namely, Bonita, Fine Arts, Alhambra and Theato, and a large Symphony Electric $10,000 Organ in the Alcazar theater in that city. The Symphony Player Co., of Covington, Ky., have installed a large $8,000 Electric Organ in the Champion theater at Birmingham, Ala., operated by the Hury Amusement Company, and one at Hopewell, Va., in a new picture house operated by the Tri-City Amusement Company.

"YELLOW PAWN" FOR "RIDGELY AND REID."

Cleo Ridgely and Wallace Reid, the popular pair which have won such great success in the Lasky productions, "The House of the Golden Windows," "The Selfish Woman," "The Love Mask," and "The Golden Chance," are to be co-starred on the Paramount program in "The Yellow Pawn," which is scheduled for release on November 23. It is seldom that two stars who appear jointly achieve such remarkable success as these two youthful players have won in the very short time that they have been appearing together.

In the "Yellow Pawn," Mr. Reid plays the role of a young artist, and Miss Ridgely is a girl, whom though in love with the artist, marries a lawyer at the instance of her father who represents himself as being penniless. Believing that Allen Perry, a prosperous district attorney, will be an ideal match for his daughter Kate, old Mr. Turner persuades the girl to marry him, despite the fact that she has lost her heart to James Weldon, a young artist whom she has met quite by accident.

Perry soon develops an insane jealousy of his wife, and she is wretched. Weldon becomes famous, and Perry takes her to the artist to have her portrait painted. Tom Weldon, an impecunious brother of the artist, discovers that Kate and James are old friends, and sells the information to Perry.

Scene from "The Yellow Pawn" (Lasky).

Perry, however, fails to discover any irregularity in his wife's conduct.

Weldon's servant, Sen Yat, catches Tom in the act of robbing his master's desk and stabs him in the struggle which follows. Circumstantial evidence points to the guilt of either Kate or her sister Marian, and Perry determines to employ a ruse in order to ascertain whether or not the artist is really in love with his wife. Sure in his own mind that such is the case, Perry is on the point of shooting

PATHE ISSUING BEAUTIFUL ART PORTRAITS.

Pathe is issuing a series of art portraits that take rank with the best that have ever been produced. Hamilton King, the well known artist, is painting the series which will include the best known stars appearing in Pathe productions.

It will be remembered that a year ago, Alonzo Kimball made for Pathe a similar series which was much admired. The portraits were so beautiful, many of them being in nine and ten colors, that exhibitors framed them and hung them in their lobbies where they were kept as being worthy of a permanent place.

As Mr. King's services command a high price, and as the lithographing is being done on very heavy coated paper, the portraits will cost a large sum, but it is confidently expected the results will warrant the extra expense. E. J. O'Connor, the Pathe poster man, is planning the series under the supervision of Mr. Berst.

The first portrait to be finished is one of Pearl White, star of "Pearl of the Army," the new serial to be released December 3.

FOUR SINGLE-REELS A WEEK FROM GAUMONT.

The second week that Gaumont releases four single-reels through Mutual opens with "Reel Life" No. 28, Sunday, November 12. The leading subjects for this issue include pictures of the routine life of our coast guards as well as their activities when a storm has wrecked a vessel near the shore. A second section shows how the cost of living has advanced in recent years. The diagrams are based upon government data.

The second single-reel of the week brings to the screen the second number of the new release, "Tours Around the World," November 14. These pictures of peoples and places under foreign flags are most timely. The third release, November 15, shows Hot Springs, Ark., in the "See America First" series. The fourth Gaumont single-reel is The Mutual Weekly.

PATHE'S "LUKE" COMEDIES HAVE SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The "Lonesome Luke" comedies on the Pathe program are making an enviable reputation. It is only about a year ago that the first one made, "Just Nuts," played to remarkable business and established a record for repeat bookings. Harold Lloyd, the star, "Snub" Pollard, his able assistant, and Bebe Daniels, the charming sixteen year old ingenue, were at that time unknown, but under the able direction of Hal Roach, of the Rolin Company, they have developed into what many persons consider is the ablest comedy cast of the day. As to Harold Lloyd, the exhibitors themselves call him one of the two greatest comedians in the business.

WRITES SCORE FOR "LESS THAN THE DUST."

Edward J. Howe has completed the elaborate musical score which Mary Pickford insisted should be a feature of "Less Than the Dust," the first production made by her own company and announced for release November 6 by Artcraft Pictures Corporation. Those who have heard Mr. Howe's music declare that his "Less Than the Dust" composition is appropriate in every detail to the mysticism and superstition of the far East, and portrays beyond criticism the atmosphere of a small village of modern India.

PATHE NEWS SHOWS MEN'S FASHIONS.

The Pathe News believes in being impartial, and in consequence the men have their innings in No. 88. Latest styles in men's business and street clothing are shown in this number for the first time. Years ago the News started the fashions film, but until now the subjects have always been taken from the feminine wardrobe.

Picture Theaters Projected

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Knickerbocker Theater Company has plans by Reginald W. Geare, 327 Woodward building, for $150,000 theater and concert building at Eighteenth street and Columbia road, to be known as Crandall's Knickerbocker. It will be a four-story reinforced concrete structure, stone-trimmed, brick front; marquise over main entrance; seating capacity, 1,800.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—C. A. Barker, Curay building, has the contract to build a one-story addition, 48 by 100 feet, to a local moving picture house, to cost $7,000.

ORLANDO, FLA.—P. Philips is reported planning to erect a $50,000 theater.

CHICAGO, ILL.—West End Amusement Company, W. E. and James B. Heaney, managers, 2719 Logan boulevard, have plans by H. L. Newhouse, 4630 Prairie avenue, for a two-story theater and store building, 125 by 180 feet, to cost $250,000.

CHICAGO, ILL.—The Grand Oak theater at Thirty-ninth street and Grand boulevard, has been acquired by Alfred Hamberger. The house has seating capacity for 3,000 persons.

HIGHLAND PARK, ILL.—William Pearl has plans by W. D. Mann, 155 N. Clark street, for a two-story moving picture theater, 50 by 132 feet, to cost $12,000.

MILLARD, IA.—A number of improvements are being made to the Opera House, owned and operated by Kress & Bu[illegible].

SHANNON CITY, IA.—The Star theater has been purchased by W. H. Cooks.

WELLMAN, IA.—The Majestic theater has been taken over by F. C. Schroeder.

GREENUP, KY.—Leslie F. Womack, Grayson, Ky., has the contract to erect a one-story moving picture theater, 26 by 80 feet, for C. F. Taylor, to cost $4,000.

O'NEILL, NEB.—The Star theater has been leased by Jordan & Simonson.

PENNSGROVE, N. J.—L. N. Cook and Joseph Workman have plans by Moffett & Stewart, 30 North Third street, for a one-story moving picture theater, to cost $25,000.

BROOKLYN, N. Y.—Plans have been completed for a one-story addition to the theater and store building of the Ditmas Theater Company, 32 Nassau street, New York City.

FORT RECOVERY, O.—M. L. Warner has plans by A. C. De Curtins, 503 Opera House block, Lima, O., for a one-story moving picture theater, 82 by 85 feet, to cost $6,000.

CLEVELAND, O.—Reubin Shapiro and Louis Flautu, real estate brokers, 429 Society for Savings building, contemplate building a four-story moving picture theater, lodge, store and office structure, to cost $75,000.

CLEVELAND, O.—Extensive improvements have been made to the Manhattan theater, located on Superior avenue.

COLUMBUS, O.—The De Luxe Theater Company, of Lima, O., has leased the Northern theater at 584 North High street.

PORTSMOUTH, O.—Architects De Voss & Donaldson, 38 First National Bank building, are preparing plans for a two-story moving picture theater and lodge building, 22 by 135 feet.

CARRICK, PA.—M. Bluestone, grocer, Elizabeth and Lythie streets, Pittsburgh, Pa., has plans by Edwin A. Roth, 303 Wabash building, Pittsburgh, Pa., for a three-story moving picture theater and apartment building, 33 by 107 feet, to cost $15,000.

ERIE, PA.—H. V. and E. B. Ashby will shortly start work on the construction of a three-story fireproof, steel, brick and tile moving picture theater at the northwest corner of Fifth and State streets.

LANSFORD, PA.—P. F. Sharpe contemplates erecting a modern moving picture theater.

PITTSBURGH, PA.—Enterprise Amusement Company have plans by Louis O. Broise, Highland building, for a two-story moving picture theater and store building, 60 by 95 feet, to cost $35,000.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The Lebanon Building & Loan Association has disposed of the moving picture theater at the southeast corner of Sixty-first and Vine streets, to Hettie E. Bustard for a nominal sum, subject to a mortgage of $7,000. The building occupies a lot 45 by 110 feet, and is assessed at $12,500.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—James Egnal has taken title to the moving picture theater at the southwest corner of Fifty-second street and Wyalusing avenue, for a nominal consideration, subject to a mortgage of $33,000. The structure is situated on a lot 100 by 151 feet and is assessed at $35,000.

TARENTUM, PA.—Extensive improvements have been made to the Nixon theater. The house was recently taken over by Jacob York and F. J. Nalley.

WOODLAWN, PA.—Panopolis & Lambrus have purchased a building site here, upon which they contemplate erecting a modern fireproof moving picture theater.

GREENVILLE, S. C.—Dr. W. W. Dodson has acquired building on Laurens street, and is reported planning to convert it into an opera house.

ATHENS, TENN.—The old Palace theater recently taken over by Manning & Wink, has been remodeled and renamed the Strand.

FAIRMONT, W. VA.—The Grand theater, owned by Charles Miller, has been remodeled, the interior redecorated and a new $4,000 pipe organ installed.

PORT ANGELES, WASH.—A new moving picture theater has been opened here by Hopkins & Hallberg.

WANWATOSA, WIS.—Architect F. W. Andrae, 77 Cawker building, Milwaukee, Wis., is preparing plans for a two-story moving picture theater, 100 by 100 feet, to be erected by a corporation now in process of organization.

Trade News of the Week

GATHERED BY OUR OWN CORRESPONDENTS

St. John Manager Got Publicity

Gave Big Daily Newspaper a Full Page of Advertising and Took the First 1,000 of Its Copies—These Were Given Away with a Very Noticeable Change on the First Page that Boosted the Theater.

By F. F. Sully, 68 Lansdowne Ave., St. John, N. B.

ST. JOHN, N. B.—"Billy" Smith, manager of the Empress theater in West St. John, recently "pulled off" an advertising feat that made the other moving picture theater managers in this section "sit up and take notice." "Billy" made arrangements with the management of the Evening Times, the most widely read paper in the city, for a full page ad with the understanding that the first 1,000 copies that came off the press were to be turned over to him at once. The papers were delivered to Mr. Smiths' representatives, fresh off the press, and rushed to a West St. John printer's. Here another press was all inked and waiting to give a finishing touch. The 1,000 copies were rushed through and were on the street even before the newsboys with the copies from the home office were on the streets. Across the whole front page and just over the news items of the 1,000 Times that were distributed gratis in big red letters were the words, "See the Grip of Evil" at the Empress tonight." Newsboys were stationed at the exits of mills and factories and handed out the papers to the working people before the youngsters who were asking for their usuall price of a cent a copy were on the field. The venture proved a great success and more than paid for itself that evening.

C. H. Pierce Visits.

St. John, N. B.—C. H. Pierce, a director of the Paramount Pictures Corporation, was a visitor in St. John this week, arriving with Mrs. Pierce on the Maritime Express at midday. Mr. Pierce is on a transcontinental tour for the purpose of studying conditions in the moving picture field throughout the continent. At noon he entertained the St. John men who are interested in the business at a luncheon at the Royal hotel. Another leader in moving picture circles, who was also a visitor on the same day, was Joseph Partridge, traveling general manager for the V-L-S-E.

New Theater Opens in Newcastle.

Newcastle, N. B.—W. Richards, who has had this field without opposition for several years, and has played to capacity houses in the Newcastle opera house for several months, now has as a competitor J. B. Johnson, who has just opened the New Empress, a snugly built little theater with a seating capacity of 500. The theater was opened during the past week, and is using the Mutual program, supplied by the St. John exchange. Mr. Johnson is by no means a newcomer in the business, having been manager for some time of "Happy Half Hour" theater, in Chatham, N. B. Judging from the attendance at both theaters since the field has become competitive, there is enough business in Newcastle for both to display the S. R. O. signs every night.

New Pictou House Early in December.

Pictou, N. B.—Solomon Soffe is making his debut into the moving picture and theatrical field with the erection and opening of his new $25,000 theater on Main street. The house, which has not yet been named, is said to embody all the features of a modern auditorium. The front of the house is to be very elaborately designed. The interior appointments are to provide every comfort and convenience for the patrons. Mr. Soffe has closed negotiations with Jules H. Wolfe of St. John for the complete Metro service. No date has been set for the opening of the house, but it will probably be ready by early December.

Rebuilding Sussex Opera House.

Sussex, N. B.—Dr. J. J. Daley, formerly in partnership with Charles F. Givan, who recently opened the Lyric theater, has started to rebuild the opera house. Dr. Daley and Mr. Givan ran this house successfully for several years. Following the fire, which completely gutted the building, they opened temporary quarters in the Hippodrome. Mr. Givan withdrew from the firm and opened the Lyric, which is now doing a thriving business. Dr. Daley will spend about $15,000 putting the new building in condition. He will install leather-backed chairs and the best of equipment. Fox service features will be shown. It is expected that the opera house will be ready for occupancy by Christmas.

Books Three Big Features.

St. John, N. B.—Fred G. Spencer, who has the largest chain of theaters in this section of the Dominion, has booked the three big features, "Britain Prepared," "The Battle Cry of Peace" and "The Battle of the Somme," for his houses in Amherst, N. S., Truro, N. B., and Charlottetown, P. E. I.

Worth a Passing Glance.

St. John, N. B.—Manager T. R. Marks of the Specialty Film expects a heavy season for the Gold Rooster plays, which are to be shown in Canada for the first time on Nov. 13. Already there are numerous demands for them. Two St. John houses have applied.

St. John, N. B.—H. H. McCarthur, manager of the St. John Branch of the General Film, has a long list of houses in the three provinces to supply the two special features, "The Girl from 'Frisco" and "Grant, the Police Reporter," which are to be released in this section at an early date.

St. John, N. B.—Three hundred boys of teen age from the three Maritime Provinces witnessed a screening of "Thomas Jefferson Morgan, P. J. G., during the boys' conference recently held here, as guests of the Imperial theater management. A special show for the boys and their leaders was run at 5 p. m. The picture, which is well put together and well acted advertising scheme of the Curtis Publishing Company of Philadeuphia, sent home lessons of thrift and industry to the Canadian lads, for whose special benefit the picture was brought here.

During the course of the conference Rev. P. R. Hayward of Fairville, N. B., paid a tribute to the moving picture exhibitors of St. John. He said that mothers and fathers could well allow their boys to attend the shows here without fear of having them see anything that was vulgar or suggestive.

IN MINNEAPOLIS.

"Purity" Does Big Week's Business.

St. Paul, Minn.—After drawing only a fair house at the initial performance, "Purity," featuring Audrey Munson, wound up a week of great success at the Strand theater here, last Saturday. Manager Maitland set the admission price at 15 and 25 cents, and the film, which met with favor at the hands of the censors, press and clergy, proved a valuable attraction for the large "open" house.

Metro "Romeo and Juliet" a Hit.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Strand theater played the Metro "Romeo and Juliet" all of last week to good houses at a quarter admission. A fifteen-piece orchestra furnishing special music for the big production, and some attractive advertising did much to make the feature a valuable one from the box office standpoint. High school classes from St. Paul and Minneapolis, studying Shakespeare, attended several performances.

Young Features Doing Well.

St. Paul, Minn.—The popularity of Clara Kimball Young was evident at the Starland theater here last week. Miss Young's appearance was in the World feature, "The Dark Silence," and Manager Morton Nathan was forced to use the S. R. O. sign several times. Although none of the downtown theaters have as yet booked "The Common Law," Selznick's feature with Miss Young, the houses that do seem assured some good patronage. The Starland theater, located on Wabasha and Eighth streets, is one of the most beautiful theaters in the city, seating about 650 people, and is one of the best ventilated houses in the West. Manager Nathan, by careful advertising and appealing program has built up an excellent business in the few months he has been in charge.

Westcott Film Officers.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager E. A. Westcott of the newly organized Westcott Film Corporation Film Exchange, has returned from Chicago. The officers of the new corporation are: R. Dougherty, president; George Granstrom, vice-president, and Mr. Westcott, general manager.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The National Film Co., 818 McKnight building, here, has secured state rights on the Kulee feature, "The Unborn," which has been played at each of the Twin City Metropolitan theaters on two different occasions.

[illegible] Manager [illegible] Kansas City, [illegible] Nebraska City, Motion Picture Enterprises Co., [illegible] returned Thursday from a two weeks trip through the Dakotas and Montana and declares that he finds business booming everywhere he has been.

St. Paul, Minn.—The Mercantile Slide Co. will be [illegible] to handle all slides for the Unity Features Corp., also of the Flour City.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager Mendel Gottlieb of the Favorite Feature Film Co., Film Exchange, returned to his desk last week after a short visit to New York.

Minneapolis, Minn.—Manager F. S. Meyer of the Universal exchange has returned from Chicago, where he viewed "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea" and "Idle Wives," both of which are wonderful pictures, he declares.

MORE KANSAS CITY NOTES.

Dale P. Hill Will Go to Oklahoma.

Kansas City, Mo.—Richard Robertson, manager of the World Film service in Kansas City, Mo., reports that Dale P. Hill, formerly booker in the Kansas City office, will go to Oklahoma as the traveling representative of the Kansas City office. The placing of the Oklahoma territory under the jurisdiction of the Kansas City became effective October thirtieth. Mrs. Julia Woodard will succeed Mr. Hill as booker in Kansas City.

Maze Begins Big Features Policy.

Kansas City, Mo.—W. O. Clarke, proprietor and manager of the Maze on West Twelfth street, Kansas City, Mo., believes the best business is for big features, and has changed the policy of his house to that. He started "The Unwritten Law" Sunday, October 29, advancing prices to 15 cents from 10 cents, and his house of 610 seating capacity was crowded from noon until nearly midnight. He opened at 9 Sunday morning, but the early attendance was very light.

Bowles Sends "L" Out.

G. H. Bowles, publicity agent for the Universal Film & Supply Co., of Kansas City, recently put out a very neat little advertising stunt for the feature production, "Liberty," in this territory. The advertisement was on "L" shaped cardboard, and on the one side was printed, "Something on the square that comes from "L." On the back of the cardboard at the top of the "L" was printed "L" stands for "Liberty," and here are some exhibitors who do too. Below this were ten small testimonies by various exhibitors in the territory.

Big Features Booked.

Kansas City, Mo.—The Rialto, at Twelfth and Grand Ave., Kansas City, recently booked the Universal Feature, "Shoes," which will be shown the entire week beginning November 5. This five-reel picture has already been shown at a number of suburban theaters in Kansas City, and at one downtown theater.

The Rialto, of Kansas City, Mo., recently booked the eight reel feature "Ramona," which will be shown the entire week beginning October 1. This picture was shown to a good crowd on the opening night, despite the fact that the admission price is twenty-five cents.

The Metro Romeo and Juliet picture was booked to the Strand theater, at Thirty-sixth and Troost avenue, and will run the entire week beginning November 5. E. A. Finch, proprietor of the Strand, has made arrangements to have a special twelve piece orchestra for the entire week.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN NOTES.

Children's Matinee at Salt Lake.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—Manager George D. Carpenter of the Paramount Empress theater, has inaugurated a weekly "Children's Matinee" which is given every Saturday morning at his theater.

The innovation in motion picture affairs in Salt Lake has proved to be a huge success and in his endeavor Mr. Carpenter is assisted by the club women of Salt Lake who arranged with him for the performances.

When the first matinee was given two weeks ago it was necessary to call for the services of every house attache and several patrolmen to marshal the long line of children who sought admission, and by the time the performance began the theater was jammed with laughing, chattering children.

Marguerite Clark in "The Prince and the Pauper" was the first special bill for the kids, and the second was "Hearts of Men." The children's performance at the Paramount-Empress is one of the most progressive moves made in this city for the entertainment of the little ones since the motion pictures became a big part of the social life of Salt Lake City.

Liberty Theater Reopens.

Salt Lake City, Utah.—After being dark for several weeks, during which extensive renovation and re-decoration was accomplished, the Liberty theater reopened Friday, October 27.

ON PACIFIC COAST.

San Francisco Notes.

It is estimated that no less than 10,000 persons have been turned away from the Columbia during the first three weeks of the showing of "Intolerance." The first twenty presentations of the film were viewed by 32,573 persons.

The Empire theater on Market street has installed a new front and lobby that is a material improvement over the former one.

Work on the Strand, at Ellis and Mason streets, is progressing rapidly, and this house will be opened early in the spring.

Pictures of the recent Exposition have been one of the attractions of late at the Theater St. Francis.

Northern California News.

Eureka, Cal.—Joseph Turcio has fitted up one of the older houses of this place, and has opened it as the Portola theater.

South San Francisco, Cal.—The Royal has changed hands and is now being conducted by Eschelbach & Taylor.

Salinas, Cal.—The White theater has been reopened under the management of R. F. Shinn.

Watsonville, Cal.—J. R. Wilson, formerly manager of the local T. & D. theater, has been transferred to Reno, Nev., and E. A. Miller, of the Reno house, has been sent to Watsonville.

Fresno, Cal.—M. R. Parra is preparing to erect a theater at an estimated cost of $50,000.

Sacramento, Cal.—The Actography theater has been reopened by Mr. Morris, of the Sequoia.

Oakland, Cal.—The Piedmont theater has been sold to H. Schwatka.

Dunsmuir, Cal.—W. S. Webster, of Woodland, has opened a theater here as a link in a chain of houses planned for this section.

Many Exhibitors Visit City.

San Francisco, Cal.—A large number of out-of-town exhibitors have been here of late selecting theater supplies and arranging for winter service. The general report is that conditions are very favorable for a heavy volume of business during the next few months.

K. A. Adelberg, of the Liberty theater, Marysville, made the trip to this city by automobile.

P. W. Brubeck, of the Union theater of Fort Bragg, Mendocino county, has been here looking over service. Business here [illegible] as lumbering is the mainstay of the community.

[illegible] that the proximity of this town to Fresno, and the cheap automobile transportation service are factors which he has to contend [illegible]

Mr. and Mrs. N. I. Throckmorten, of Oak Park, spent some time here a short [illegible] ago.

[illegible] president and general manager of the New York Amusement Company of Sonora, Cal., spent several [illegible] recently.

IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Local Operators Give Banquet.

Regina, Sask.—A banquet was held recently at a local cafe by the local members of the I. A. T. S. E. and Moving Picture Operators' Union, and about forty were in attendance. The guests of honor were H. L. Gage, manager of the Rex theatre; O. W. Powell, manager of the Regina theater, and B. S. Courtney, head of the Basil corporation, owners of the Canadian rights for "The Birth of a Nation," which was filling a week's engagement at the Regina.

Speechmaking was indulged in, and a large time was had by all, so to speak.

J. M. Maxwell Will Steer Publicity.

Vancouver, B. C.—James M. Maxwell has returned from Colorado to take charge of the publicity department of the National Film Service, Limited (Triangle program). Mr. Maxwell's headquarters will be at the Rex theater, where Manager W. P. Dewees keeps the business of the company going smoothly, and where there has been fitted up the neatest and most compact little film exchange it has ever been our pleasure to see.

Mr. Maxwell was formerly in charge of the photoplay department of the Vancouver Daily Province, and during that time was the biggest and best picture department carried by any Canadian paper.

Operator Made a Manager.

Victoria, B. C.—Operator Thoreau of the Majestic theater is now also manager of the house, having recently been placed in charge by B. S. Heisterman, the proprietor of the Majestic.

Patriotic Dance at the Gem.

Ladysmith, B. C.—The ladies of the I. O. D. E. recently gave a patriotic dance at the Gem theater, the seats being removed for the occasion. Many people living in other nearby towns attended.

S. J. Hackney Runs Star.

Rossland, B. C.—E. J. Cann, who recently opened the Star theater, has given up the house, which is now being conducted by S. J. Hackney, the owner.

IN PORTLAND, OREGON.

Al. Bloom, new manager of the Reel Play feature film company, is in Portland looking after his interests in and around that city.

Manager Kerr of Metro's Northwest exchange is also in Portland spending a week attending to the booking of Metro's "Romeo and Juliet."

Visitors to the exchanges this week were: A. H. Hilton, Grand theater, Lewiston, Idaho; W. C. Hopkins, Lincoln and Dream theaters, Port Angeles; W. S. Quinby, Liberty and Bell theaters, Bellingham; H. T. Moore, Colonia, Tacoma.

Ralph Earle, Pathe cameraman, Mrs. Earle and Dr. Abbott of Portland, were in the city on a 10,000-mile automobile tour of the northwestern national parks. Mr. Earle is securing film topics for the Pathe service. They have just spent three weeks in Glacier National Park.

W. Potter, manager of the Universal Film & Supply Company exchange, has just returned from a trip into the wheat-growing sections of Montana.

Pennsylvania Censor's Complaint

Dr. Oberholtzer Says That Pictures Are Mostly Bad—Claims That the Board Is Fighting with Its Back to the Wall Against Efforts of Producers to Put Across Impossible Films.

By F. V. Armato, 144 No. Salford St., West Philadelphia, Pa.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—Ellis Paxson Oberholtzer of the Pennsylvania State Board of Censorship, embodied the fruits of his observations as a member of that bugaboo of picture progress in a speech before the State Federation of Pennsylvania Women here on October 26th.

Dr. Oberholtzer is quoted as follows:

"The tendency of the moving picture today is toward the melodramatic," he said, "and fully seventy-five per cent. of them are of this character, compared to a pitiful five per cent. that are educational. The remaining twenty per cent. are of the slap-stick comedy type.

"There is a glut of pictures depicting immorality, scenes of dens of vice, drunkenness and other phases that have no place in a public place of amusement. The board of censors has a continual fight to prevent these pictures being shown. Even the titles are often an insult to public morals, and on one occasion a film company had to change a suggestive title three times before it met our requirements.

"We are literally fighting all the time with our backs to the wall against the efforts of film producers to put across impossible pictures. But we are in this fight to stay."

Local men of prominence in the motion picture industry, while privately expressing their surprise and chagrin that service on the board should not have opened the speaker's eyes to the real methods and purposes of the producers, seemed inclined to think no special denial or answer to the charges was necessary. It appeared to be the consensus of opinion that a statement so manifestly exaggerated and unsupported by what public opinion knew to be the facts in the case could only recoil on its maker, and that a few more such unwise statements from the same source would do more to awaken public consciousness to the manifest absurdity of censorship than much campaigning against "Breitingerism."

Good Business With Higher Rate.

Ashland, Pa.—J. V. Schreck of the Temple theater here reports excellent business with Paramount, Triangle, World and K. E. S. E. pictures. The theater was formerly a five-cent house, but the admission has been raised to ten cents, with entire success, in spite of strong five-cent competition from another house. It is Mr. Schreck's belief that any house of ordinary size that shows a five or six reel feature in addition to a serial at a five-cent admission is headed to failure full speed ahead. He is an ardent advocate of attractive lobby display and because small posters are becoming more and more general he suggests that film companies should pay more attention to the one and three sheet sizes and endeavor to make them more effective and attractive.

John F. Hays Improves the Brunswick.

Philadelphia, Pa.—John F. Hays has recently taken over the Brunswick theater, on Frankford avenue, in this city, and has made extensive improvements to the house. George S. Miller, who actively cooperated with Mr. Hays in the enterprise, has taken active charge of the house, and is meeting apparently with good results. The York Street Palace, which is under Mr. Hays' personal management, is doing capacity business nightly. Mr. Hays has booked Roy Farrell's "The Next Do Well" for five days, and it will be presented at both his theaters. An orchestra has recently been added to the attractions at the York Street Palace.

Marguerite's in French, Pauline's in American.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Oscar Morgan, publicity manager of the local Paramount, had a rather clever inspiration recently, for which he has great hopes. It is his thought to introduce an original design in millinery under the name of the Marguerite Clark chapeau or the Pauline Frederick hat, and have it offered for sale at leading department stores and specialty shops.

J. D. Cummings Narrowly Escaped Blindness.

Philadelphia Pa.—J. D. Cummings, of the Globe theater, 60th and Market streets, West Philadelphia, recently returned from the Medico-Chirurgical Hospital, where he had been receiving treatment for an affection of the eyes. It is reported that he narrowly escaped blindness

H. G. Fontana Productions Get Big Picture.

Philadelphia, Pa.—"Civilization," Thomas Ince's latest photospectacle, has been released for Pennsylvania, Ohio, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia by A. G. Fontana Productions. It will be marketed through the offices of Messrs. Newman and Marcue, 1225 Vine street, Philadelphia.

Frank D. Hill's New Improvements.

Reading, Pa.—Though there are twenty-two motion picture theaters in this city, Frank D. Hill of the Lyric theater, is satisfied with his share of the business. The Lyric is one of the handsomest of local theaters. Mr. Hill believes in keeping his theater up to date, and has recently completed quite extensive improvements. A very pretty stage setting is in evidence, consisting of an artistic lattice work grille, covered with creeping vines and gay with artificial flowers. Small vari-colored electric lights are half concealed in the flowers and permit of a wide variety of beautiful effects. A large pipe organ, with many special attachments and a three-piece orchestra, combine to furnish an excellent musical program.

Bluebird Advertising Campaign.

Philadelphia, Pa.—V. R. Carrick has completed plans for an extensive advertising campaign for Bluebird photoplays. The chief object of the campaign is to co-operate with the exhibitor and to promote new business for him.

The campaign has been started in the columns of The Philadelphia Evening Telegraph and Evening Ledger, supplemented by advertising in the trolley cars, and in the trains of the elevated and subway systems. Throughout the state the campaign has begun in the Wilkes-Barre Times-Leader, the Harrisburg Telegraph, the Williamsport Journal.

McKeesport's Fine New Picture Theater

H. A. Victor & Sons Have Opened Their Splendid Picture Theater—City Officials Attend the Premier Show—Interesting Details.

M'KEESPORT, PA.—The Victor theater opened its doors here on Monday, Oct. 3, introducing to the public its handsome and commodious auditorium, with its lavish display of rich and tasteful furnishings, for the first time.

Its opening was honored by the presence of Mayor Lysle and the city officials of McKeesport, and, together with the splendid and large attendance, witnessed the ceremony of the christening of the Victor by Mrs. Rae Nuance Victor.

H. A. Victor & Sons, the owners, have planned the arrangement of the chairs, eliminating any cause for dead seats. There are 600 seats and individual boxes for which 20c. is charged. One of the notable features is the handsome large organ which was played to accompany the Vitagraph feature, "The Tarantula," during the first half of the week. A double page advertisement announced the opening of the Victor in one of the McKeesport newspapers.

R. S. Vandergrift to Manage Serial Dept.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Robt. S. Vandergrift has joined the Mutual office as manager of their serial department.

"Grant, Police Reporter" Pleases.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The first episode of "Grant, the Police Reporter," was shown at the Family theater with considerable satisfaction. C. L. Bradfield, the manager, is pleased with the future prospects of his new serial and positive that the popularity of this serial will grow with each succeeding chapter.

Picture Employees' Ball a Big Succcess

Eagle Hall, Philadelphia, Scene of Brilliant Dance—Nets $2,000—Some of the Prominent People Among Those Present.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—The mask motion picture party given by the employes of the local theaters was a decided success to the extent of $2,000. Eagel's Hall, where the affair was held on last Tuesday night, was jammed full of masqueraders of all sorts. Charlie Chaplins were in droves, while Pierrettes and Harlequin were much in evidence. Dancing, merry-making and refreshments were freely indulged in. The prominent employes present were S. Kaplin, Chas. Boone, R. Madden, B. Katz, J. Carter and a delegation from Baltimore and Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Sausage led the grand march, followed by the chorus girls who are now appearing in "The Breakers" here at the Gaiety theater. Kitty Dougherty sang several songs and made a big hit.

Nelson Edwards Now Local Cameraman.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Nelson Edwards, the International cameraman, who, until recently, was with the Austro-German forces, on the French and Russian battle fronts, as official photographer for the Teutons, is now making his headquarters here. He will go after local news pictures for the Hearst-International News Pictorial.

A. G. Steen Shows Billy West Comedies.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A. G. Steel, of the Philadelphia branch of the Unicorn, gave a private showing of the Billy West comedies to a number of exhibitors and newspapermen, who expressed themselves as delighted with the pictures. Bookings of these comedies will be accepted on November 6th.

New Ardmore Theater.

Ardmore, Pa.—Hassinger and Kettering, two live picture men, recently opened the doors of the attractive and up-to-date theater here to the suburbanites.

Lancaster's New Hippodrome.

Lancaster, Pa.—George Krupa, president of the Hamilton amusement company, has recently opened the new, modern and handsomely equipped Hippodrome theater. The architecture of the house is both novel and beautiful and possesses much of the classic beauty of a Grecian temple. Mr. Krupa takes a most optimistic view [illegible] the business and believes that present prosperous conditions will continue.

P. Glenn's "Crimson Stain" Campaign.

Philadelphia, Pa.—P. Glenn, having accomplished some remarkable results in booking "The Yellow Menace" for the Electric theater supply company, is starting a whirlwind campaign on "The Crimson Stain" mystery, backed by splendid local advertising in the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

Five Kings in One Hand.

Philadelphia, Pa.—A casual visitor to the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel grill room in Philadelphia one night last week, would have been surprised if they had known that around one of the tables sat a group of some of the most powerful motion picture magnates. Investigation proved that it was only a social meeting, although such a gathering would at most times lead one to expect that a big deal was being put over. In the group were William E. Smith, president of the Famous Players, distributing Paramount in eight states, having offices in New York, Philadelphia and Washington; Louis J. Selznick, Hiram Abrams, Carl Laemmle and Stanley V. Mastbaum, owner and operator of the biggest chain of high-class motion picture houses in the country.

I. A. Farrah Heads Harrisburg Universal.

Harrisburg, Pa.—I. A. Farrah, formerly of the General Film, will manage the new Harrisburg branch exchange for the Universal Program to be distributed here. This new branch was recently opened by V. R. Carrick as a distributing point for his Philadelphia office. The exchange is located at No. 5 South 4th St., Harrisburg, Pa.

Buy West Allegheny Theater.

Philadelphia, Pa.—Wm. F. Boogar and John S. Evans have taken over the West Allegheny theater, previously owned by B. Amsterdam. The transaction was made on Monday, Oct. 3rd, the house being in a very prosperous condition.

New Ticket Booth at the Logan.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The Logan theater, located at 4900 North Broad street, has recently installed a handsome new ticket booth, which adds materially to the attractiveness of the entrance and lobby. The management of the house take special pride in their children's matinees held every Saturday morning. Special educational and comedy features suitable for juvenile eyes are shown and the kiddies join with gusto in the singing of patriotic songs.

IN BUFFALO.

His Theater Not a Shoe Store.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Harold B. Franklin, general manager of the Lyric and Family theaters, Buffalo, humorously announced that he wasn't advertising a "shoe sale" in his publicity of "Shoes." Franklin's later attractions were Bertha Kalish in "Love and Hate" and Theda Bara in "Romeo and Juliet."

"Fall of a Nation" Fills Shea's.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Manager Moses of Shea's Hippodrome, Buffalo, took care of capacity business at his recent performances of Thomas Dixon's "Fall of a Nation." The accompanying music, written by Victor Herbert, was flawlessly handled by the Hippodrome's complete orchestra.

Express Deliveries in Buffalo

Screen Club Discusses a Trying State of Affairs—Houses Have Remained Dark on Account of the Non-Delivery of Their Shows—Screen Club to Make Effort for a Larger Membership—The Coming Screen Ball.

By Joseph A. McGuire, 5 Lewis Block, Buffalo, N. Y.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 1.—Increased membership of the Buffalo Screen Club is desired so that [illegible] organization. This subject was discussed at a meeting in the clubrooms Monday evening, October 30. President Christoffers presided. A vigorous campaign will be conducted and each member has agreed to bring a new member into the club. Messrs. Marsey and Becker were appointed a committee to arrange for the Screen Club ball, to be held some time in January. Various screen stars will be invited to be present and the 1917 ball promises to eclipse the successful one held last spring.

The club held open house on election night. Returns were read and good fellowship marked the evening. Among the visitors were performers from local theaters.

Discussion of Express Deliveries.

Members of the Screen Club, exchange men and exhibitors alike are impressed with the situation in connection with the unsatisfactory service offered by the various express companies operating in and out of Buffalo. Some of the out-of-town exhibitors get their shows two or more days late, and their paper is often held up three days. Houses are often dark as a result of the delay, and the irate exhibitors blame the exchange men for the non-delivery.

When the shows and paper ought to be at the theaters they are sometimes lying comfortably at the express offices. In reply to criticisms regarding the delay the express companies state that they cannot get enough men to handle their goods. They state that the shortage of reliable labor is likely to continue through the winter and no improvement of present conditions is in sight. The words of the express managers are in effect: "We agree to deliver your shows, but we do not agree to deliver on time." The exhibitors whose shows do not arrive promptly put the blame on the exchange men for loss of patronage. The exchange men in turn find that their hands are tied in their efforts to recover on their losses through dilatory express shipments.

"I wish to invite all the exhibitors of this territory to the Mutual office," said President Christoffers of the Buffalo Screen Club, "so they can study this acute express situation. I would like the exhibitors to go with me to the express offices and hear for themselves the reasons given by the express managers for the delays, which mean a heavy loss to both the exchanges and theaters. The exhibitors will then realize the unusual handicaps under which we are operating. They will also make the proper allowance for the delayed shows and realize that all the exchanges in Buffalo are doing their level best to give their patrons as prompt service as the present conditions will permit."

Manager Hyman Pleases Mothers.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Edward L. Hyman, manager of the New Victoria theater, Buffalo, is making a bid for the patronage of children. Special attention is given to their safety and entertainment. Every Saturday afternoon, from 2 to 4:30 o'clock, he gives a special matinee for the youngsters. His efforts in this line are endorsed by the parents and teachers of public school No. 18 of his neighborhood, and the Mothers' League of this city. Members of the League chaperone the children at each performance. A special section is reserved for the kiddies and there are educational, comedy and drama reels for their benefit. That Mr. Hyman has worked up the enthusiasm of his little patrons is proven by the crowds at his matinees.

Edward A. Lark a Bankrupt.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Edward A. Lark, who, according to printed reports, is "a film maker of Irondequoit, N. Y.," recently filed a petition in bankruptcy in United States District Court, Buffalo. His debts amount to $4,[illegible]72 and his assets total $1,[illegible]05.

Lobby for "Lass of the Lumberland."

Buffalo, N. Y.—Miniature logs arranged so they spelt the name "Helen Holmes" were recently placed in the lobby of the Linden moving picture theater, Buffalo, by L. E. Barger, manager. Other touches were added to the lobby so it had a forest effect. The purpose was to attract attention to the new serial, "The Lass of the Lumberland." Mr. Barger showed the first run of this production. He also obtained the permission of the police captain and public school principal of his district to give a free matinee, at which the film was enjoyed by 800 school children. A two-reel comedy was an extra attraction. Mr. Barger is a stickler in handling a crowd of children, so at the end of the show he asked them to stand and sing "The Star-Spangled Banner." While singing they left the theater without the slightest confusion. Those at the front of the house filed out first and each row departed in their proper succession. Of course the 800 children advertised the show and the good treatment they had received from the manager, and in the evening the grown-ups of the neighborhood crowded the Linden to witness the serial.

"We are gradually working the Linden into a ten-cent house," said Mr. Barger. "Formerly we had a ten-cent performance only one day a week, but now we have four ten-cent days. On the other days the admission is five cents."

A Run for Their Money.

Buffalo, N. Y.—H. H. Ziems, manager of the Happy Hour theater, Buffalo, a five-cent house, offers his patrons a different feature each day.

"I want to give my audiences a run for their money," he said.

Jamestown's "Movie" Goes Back.

Jamestown, N. Y.—H. C. Sandstrom of Warren, Pa., writes that he has given up the Movie theater, Jamestown, N. Y. He says the theater has reverted to its original owner.

PRAIRIE STATE NOTES.

Iowa Theater Changes.

Washington, Ia.—W. M. Griffin, who took over the Star theater, is now operating at the Garden theater.

Colo, Ia.—Fred C. Perry is erecting a motion picture theater here.

Mason City, Ia.—The Regent theater has a new policy of three acts of vaudeville with changes on Sundays and Thursdays with photoplays.

Clinton, Ia.—"The Birth of a Nation" returned to the Clinton theater, November 5, for a week.

Des Moines, Ia.—A home talent society film, "Unto the Least of These," was shown at the Auditorium for three days for the benefit of the new Women's and Children's Hospital.

Davenport, Ia.—"The Birth of a Nation" returned to the Burtis theater for the week of Oct. 29.

Marshalltown, Ia.—The city physician

Court Quashes "Nation" Injunction

Censor Board of Ohio Can Now Continue Banning "The Birth of a Nation" in the State—Supreme Court Finds No Law by Which It Can Act in the Matter—No Announcement from Epoch Company.

By Hubert Persons, 410 Standard Theater Building, Cleveland, O.

CLEVELAND, O.—The fight to permit the showing of the motion picture play "The Birth of a Nation," in Ohio, has been lost—for a time at least. The Supreme Court on October 24 dismissed the petition for an injunction against the Ohio Board of Censors to prevent them from interfering with the production of the play in theaters throughout the state.

The court held that there is no law by which it can decide whether the order of the Board of Censors, restraining the producers from showing the picture, is reasonable or unreasonable.

This action has the effect of a ruling defeating the producers, for the decision leaves the power of the Board of Censors unmodified. What action might be taken in any possible effort to break down the power of the board, in spite of this setback, was not immediately made known by those fighting for the right to let the people of Ohio see the play.

Film Shows Steel Making.

Massillion, O.—The Columbia Film Company recently completed the taking of pictures showing the entire process of manufacturing steel by the open hearth method. The pictures were taken at the mills of the Central Steel Company at Massillon, O

Is a Player-Piano Unfair to Labor?

Cleveland, O.—Whether use of an automatic piano in a motion picture theater, instead of hiring a union musician, constitutes unfairness to labor, is one of the questions to be decided when a suit, filed October 23 in the Cuyahoga county court of common pleas, against three labor organizations, comes to trial.

Charles Papp and Joseph Maros, proprietors of the Milo theater, are asking an injunction against the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, the Cleveland Federation of Labor and the Musical Mutual Protective Association. They allege their theater has been picketed as unfair to labor because Maros operates the motion picture machine and because an automatic piano furnishes the music during the shows.

Suit Over Tangle in Dates.

Cleveland, O.—A mix-up occurred here during the week of October 23 when two motion picture theaters, for the first time in Cleveland, sought to use the same photoplay feature. The upshot was an injunction suit, started a few days previously, by the States Film Company against the Alhambra theater.

The States Film Company own the Ohio state rights to the Thomas H. Ince film "War's Women" and they brought suit in the court of common pleas for an injunction restraining the Alhambra from running their picture.

Some time ago the Alhambra is said to have contracted with the company to have "War's Women" at any date to be decided upon later. The Alhambra management decided to run it the same week the Orpheum theater—which is in the downtown section, while the Alhambra is in the East End section—was running it. So the States Film Company sued for the return of the print of the photoplay.

Screeners to Hold Smoker Nov. 14.

Cleveland, O.—The Cleveland Screen Club will hold a smoker for members at the Elks' Club on Tuesday night, November 14, when a number of stars of the legitimate stage will be invited to attend.

Favors Standardization of Film Laws.

Cleveland, O.—Director of Public Safety A. B. Sprosty, of Cleveland, has offered his assistance in company with other public safety directors of the large cities throughout the country in the plan of the National Association of the Motion Picture Industry to standardize the fire protection laws of the country. The object is to provide greater safety for the patrons of motion picture and legitimate theaters.

A Beautiful New Cleveland House.

Cleveland, O.—One of the finest motion pictures in Cleveland was opened on October 28, on the south side of the city. The new house is called "The Jennings," and has a capacity of 1,000 persons. It is located at West 14th street and Fairfield avenue, and is owned by Thomas Urbansky.

Club Woman Gives Pictures High Place.

Dayton, O.—Motion pictures played a part in the twenty-first annual convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, which held its convention here beginning October 17. Miss Bertelle M. Lyttle spoke on the "Better Motion Picture Movement." In her address she grouped the motion picture theater with the pulpit, the state and the press in forming public opinion.

"Nobody is trying to reform the motion picture business, but we want the very best for the children and the younger people," Miss Lyttle said, in presenting the family program idea as worked out in Cleveland.

"The exhibitors are not philanthropists, but are willing to help the club women to promote worth-while programs. Don't expect the exhibitors to show the family program unless you are willing to build up audiences."

A Chain of 1,000 Picture Shows Proposed

Rumored Plan of Men in The American Tobacco Company to Build Great Chain of Interlocked Theaters Interests Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O.—A local newspaper has published what is said to be the "inside" story of the plan recently announced to start a chain of 1,000 five-cent motion picture theaters throughout the United States. The story has now been published here that Cleveland and other Ohio towns are to be included in the chain, which is said to have the backing of several principals of the American Tobacco Company.

The story runs that the picture houses are to accept United Cigar Store coupons as admission tickets. The value of the coupons will average, it is estimated, two cents against the admission price. It is said the corporation back of the unique enterprise is capitalized at $25,000,000.

According to the story, the promoters figure that each house will return a profit of $5 a day, giving them a profit from all the houses of $1,000 a day. But it is said they will be satisfied with $2.50 daily average profit. With 1,000 picture theaters to buy film for, the men behind the deal think the manufacturers will cut prices materially to get the solid business of the combine.

Opening of Youngstown's New Strand Theater

Picked the Same Evening for Its Premiere as Did a Big Local Hotel That Occupies the Same Building—Seats 1,000 Persons.

By Kenneth C. Crain, 610 First National Bank, Cincinnati, O.

YOUNGSTOWN, O.—The Strand, Youngstown's newest moving picture theater, opened recently on the same evening as the opening of the new Tod hotel, a very handsome house, and the festive air lent by the occasion resulted in big business for the opening night. The house occupies the northeast wing of the hotel building, and seats over 1,000 persons, the arrangement of the seats being such that there is a perfect view of the screen from every one. The decoration is unusually rich, and the ventilation is a feature, the house being connected up with the ventilating system of the hotel, by means of which washed air is furnished. Triangle films will be shown at the new house, which was designed by architects Knox & Elliott, who handled the hotel building proper and who are also the architects of the Hippodrome, Youngstown's largest theater.

Romeo and Juliet for Second Week.

Cincinnati, O.—So successful as a drawing card did the Metro production of "Romeo and Juliet" prove, at the Walnut theater, that the management arranged for a second week, and the engagement was filled with the same large houses that were noted during the first week. This formed a record for the Walnut, as heretofore there has neither been a run of two weeks for any picture in that house, nor of any picture for as much as one week at the prices received for the Metro film, 25 cents for the lower floor and 15 cents for the balcony. Following the second week's engagement, the first exhibition in Cincinnati of one of the new Mary Pickford Artcraft films, "Less Than the Dust," was scheduled for the Walnut.

Films Stirring Finish of Latonia Race.

Cincinnati, O.—Realizing the high value of a fair amount of sporting interest in new films, Clarence Runey, of the Cincinnati Motion Picture Co., secured at Latonia on the closing day of the fall race meeting one of the best pictures which he has been able to get of the races. The hair-raising finish, the winner in front of the judges' stand, with the floral horseshoe about his neck, and the exhibition of the beautiful silver service given as a trophy to the owner of the winning horse, were all shown in the picture, giving several hundred feet of first-class stuff.

"As good as gold." "As white as snow." "As fine as silk." Why do other papers in this field invariably try to compare with the standard of the MOVING PICTURE WORLD? There's a reason.

Gang of Swindlers at Work.

Dayton, O.—The police have been active in the investigation of reports that several men have been engaged in swindling girls by representing themselves as connected with leading film concerns. A pair recently arrested had been calling themselves representatives of the Triangle Film Corporation, but a telephone call to the Triangle office at Cincinnati showed that this was not the case, and the arrests followed. It seems that the men had been engaged in similar work in other cities, and an effort is to be made to break up the operations of the gang.

Tennessee Topics.

[illegible] of the Majestic [illegible] has [illegible] for [illegible] weeks, having [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

Lobby Made Like Juliet Balcony Set

Perace's Tudor Theater in New Orleans Has Particularly Effective Lobby Display for Shakespearean Picture.

By N. E. Thatcher, Times-Picayune, New Orleans, La.

NEW ORLEANS, LA.—The last full week in October was marked by the exhibition in New Orleans photoplay theaters of number of special features which again proves the contention that the picture-loving public will pack the show houses when they have a production that is worth while. The most pretentious feature was the Metro Romeo and Juliet, shown in Pearce's Tudor theater. This show was released on October 22, and the original intention was to have exhibited on October 29, but the Fox production of the same Shakespearean subject was released on regular program for October 22, and Manager Bugbee of the local Metro exchange, rearranged his bookings so as to give the Pearce theater an even break. Then the war was on—a dignified war, as becomes exhibitors who stand for the best in the business, but none the less earnest. From early in the afternoon the Tudor was jammed with patrons and the laws were taxed to the limit in providing standing room. This condition prevailed until late at night.

The Pearce interests conducted the entire exhibition in keeping with the high character of the production. A liberal and comprehensive advertising campaign had prepared the people to expect a good show. A special musical program was arranged for the exhibition and "Jack" Clark, who watches all the points in the Pearce offices, had turned the lobby of the theater into a thing of beauty by producing a replica of the famous balcony scene in native trailing vines and turned the entrance into a bower of beauty with palms and blooming plants. From the pavement to the curtain, and back again, the atmosphere was Shakesperean.

At the Empire theater the Fox version of Romeo and Juliet was shown as a regular program attraction. These simultaneous showings awakened close attention from the competent critics and stimulated the interest in the shows.

Work to Begin on New Theater.

New Orleans, La.—The buildings on the site of the new Liberty theater have been razed and the lot is about ready for excavation to begin. Work is being pushed with all possible speed. Manager Boehringer has returned from a trip to New York, where he had been arranging features for his theaters under the control of the Boehringer Amusement Company. He was accompanied to New York by Architect A. Drennan, who is building the Liberty, and who was under instructions to visit all of the most successful theaters and to incorporate into the finishings of the Liberty every innovation that will add to the beauty or service of the new house.

Exhibitor J. W. Woods Dies.

Meridian, Miss.—The death of John W. Woods, which occurred on October 22, was a distinct loss to the motion picture industry in this section of the country. He had done more to put the business of the exhibitor on a high plane than any other man in this city, and to his untiring efforts is due the fact that this is one of the best exhibition towns outside of the larger cities. While Mr. Woods was not directly identified with the details of local exhibition, he was the moving spirit in the Tri-State Amusement company and its recognized head. He had recently secured control of the Sugarman interests here and had announced that he was now in a position to give the people of Meridian such a motion picture service as he considered they deserved, and at the same time he expected to reap a suitable reward from both the Strand and the Princess theaters, the only ones in operation in the city. His death came suddenly. He had finished writing business letters to New Orleans exchange men and had gone to the cemetery with Mrs. Woods to place flowers upon the tomb of their deceased daughter. Returning to the automobile he was stricken and died before a hospital was reached. New Orleans exchange men sent condolences and appropriate floral offerings.

Local World Film Manager.

New Orleans, La.—Anna H. Sessions, manager of the World Film exchange here, has just returned from a successful trip to Memphis, where she had been called to close some deals for film service. Miss Sessions has been making a most enviable record in this territory since she took over the management of the World's affairs last May. She enjoys the distinction of being the only woman film exchange manager in the entire South, but her chief concern as regards distinction is to secure a position well toward the top of the list of managers who are showing results. And she has much to encourage her on that score. When she took charge of the office, the World was releasing two feature productions a week. Shortly after her appointment these releases were reduced to but one a week, which was equivalent to cutting her sales opportunities squarely in two. Notwithstanding this handicap, she resolutely went to work and soon had the weekly receipts of the office above the minimum mark which had been set by the home office. She systematized the work in the office; cut down the overhead expenses and increased the efficiency of each member of the force and at the same time secured his loyalty and esteem as well. She is a tireless and intelligent worker and measures her service by no other standard save results. She has increased the office receipts over $400 weekly up to the present, and her efforts have not diminished. She has the happy faculty of making and retaining friends among exhibitors and in business circles, and her friends are all proud of her success because she deserves it.

Anna H. Sessions.

New Jacobs Theater Coming Along.

McComb, Miss.—Work on the new Jacobs theater is progressing with despatch and it is expected that the house will be ready for business by Dec. 15. Every necessary appliance to make this one of the cosiest motion picture theaters in this section is being installed by Manager J. E. Alford. The contract for 700 modern opera chairs has just been awarded and the purchase of other fittings is being completed. It is the intention to provide stage room for some of the regular theatrical productions and occasional shows of this character will be put on, although the Jacobs is primarily a photoplay house. McComb is a division point on the Illinois Central Railroad and most convenient point for filling of open dates in the long jump from Memphis to New Orleans.

New House for Brookhaven.

Brookhaven, Miss.—Manager Grady Ford is making contracts and arranging all of the details for the erection of one of the finest motion picture houses to be found in any Southern city of like size of Brookhaven, which has 8,000 population and is counted one of the smartest cities in the Gulf States. The new theater is to have all of the modern features and is to be complete and substantial in every detail. It is far enough along to predict its completion close around the New Year.

"The Crisis" Coming as Road Show.

New Orleans, La.—The exhibition rights to the visualization of Winston Churchill's novel, "The Crisis," have been purchased by Mississippi parties for the states of Louisiana, Mississippi and Tennessee, and it is the intention to send the ten-reeler en toure with all of the theatrical adjuncts that characterize a road show.

Local Film Progress.

New Orleans, La.—November is ushered in with marked activity in film circles in the Crescent City. Not since the inception of the motion picture has there been so much interest of the tangible kind displayed in all quarters. With the building of two new and up-to-the-minute photoplay theaters in the most populous and expensive business sections of the city outside of Canal street, and with men of affairs behind each project, the motion picture situation here has found an abiding place in real estate, banking and speculative circles. Work on the Strand theater is going forward with all haste. The Sanger interests are missing no detail to make their new house attractive, and they are financed sufficiently. Not a minute is allowed to go to waste in the preparation for the building of the new Liberty theater on St. Charles street, and it is promised to be quite the best place of amusement of this sort that the people down here have seen. Manager Boehringer of the Boehringer Amusement Company has just returned from another trip to New York upon which he was accompanied by his architect. A Doubting Thomas asked, the other day:

"Mr. Boehringer, are you really going to build as fine a theater as you claim in the Liberty?'

"If I don't, I'm going to leave an awful hole in St. Charles street," was the answer.

Already these two enterprises are producing a realignment of the film service. Exchange men are watching for advantageous contracts and the leading exhibitors are casting about for service to their liking. It is anybody's race up to the present time. Meanwhile the second run exhibitors are getting some very good shows at prices that enable them to make more money than they thought was in the world.

Newspaper Dines Exchange Men.

New Orleans, La.—A few days ago Manager Thompson of the New Orleans Item, gave a dinner to the exchange managers and laid before them a plan to induce the suburban exhibitors to become more liberal and consistent theater advertisers. There are over sixty suburban picture shows in this city and few of the managers allow themselves to be annoyed with advertising unless they can get it free and they pay no attention to the quality. A few of them, however, have built up exceptionally strong patronage by using intelligent publicity. It was the purpose of the gathering to induce the exchange managers to stand sponser for a system of newspaper advertising that had been evolved and which would amount to an assessment on each exchange. The matter was taken under advisement by the exchange men.

Atlanta News Letter

By A. M. Beatty, 13 Copenhill Avenue, Atlanta Ga.

Local Film Nears Completion.

ATLANTA, GA.—Under the direction of Robert Hastings Goodman, a number of scenes have been taken of the Players Clubs film "The Fight on Stone Mountain." Scenes now necessary to complete the picture include Mrs. U. S. Ellis' house and grounds, Mrs. R. F. Maddox's grounds, showing her pretty sunken garden, a tea dance at the Piedmont Driving Club, a view of the Georgian terrace, Capital city club, a block of traffic at Five Points, State Capitol, road to Stone mountain, and many scenes on Stone mountain. One important one will be the place where Borglum is working on his monument to the Confederacy. Goodman is going to have a painted miniature made and double exposed on the face of the mountain, showing in an idealistic manner Borglum's immortal work. Hoey Lawlor, art director of the Scenic Film Company, who is doing the technical work, is working on the miniature, and expects to have it completed in two weeks. It is a labor of love with Mr. Lawlor, who is familiar with Gutzon Borglum's idea and will try to reproduce it with his own brush.

Fayetteville's New House to Open.

Fayetteville, N. C.—The new Strand at Fayetteville, N. C., will open about November 15.

Competition in Juliets Pays Managers

In Louisville the Two Shakespearean Pictures as Rivals Stir Up Enough Interest Among Local Patrons to Fill Both Houses.

Ohio Valley News Service, 1101 Starks Building, Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Booking and showing of two films, by two different houses, of the same subject and at the same time has its advantages and disadvantages, according to local exhibitors. During the first half of the week of October 30 "Romeo and Juliet" were to be seen at both the Mary Anderson and Walnut theaters, the former being a Fox, while the latter was a Metro production. Either picture was good, and in many cases the public took a shot at both, largely for the purpose of drawing private conclusions and making comparisons. The run at the Walnut lasted through Thursday, while that of the Mary Anderson wound up on Wednesday. In both cases the houses handled excellent businesses. The Mary Anderson sold all of its seats at ten cents, while the Walnut featured its lower floor at twenty cents. A little feeling was to be seen in some of the newspaper advertising, but those on the inside were of the opinion that this was designed to attract interest, and also to make people see both shows in order to find out if one show was so much superior to the other, as was claimed in both cases.

That the combined advertising attracts far more interest, and has its beneficial results is also claimed, the Mary Anderson and Majestic having had among the best runs in their careers just one year ago while both theaters were showing "Carmen" productions. In that case, however, both houses charged the same admission price, that being one dime, and the public paid its dime and took its choice. Placing pictures on a competitive basis, where plenty of good advertising is thrown in, generally results in the public coming out well.

Population of Louisville Grows.

Louisville, Ky.—Reports, claimed to have been circulated through political activity, and to the effect that people of Louisville were moving away from the city to points in the North and West where factories were busy with war orders, have been proven false by statements issued by the Louisville real estate board, which has announced that instead of there being a lot of vacant property in Louisville, the census shows that there is less available empty property than in some time. Including shacks and untenable property of all kinds, there are but 2,308 empty buildings in the city, as against a usual average of 2,500. In addition small residence building has been going along at a rapid rate all summer and for the past two years, and the population of Louisville today is probably larger than ever before.

Joe Goldberg Busy.

Louisville, Ky.—Joe Goldberg, manager of the Big Feature Rights corporation, is now working six men in ten states and is getting good results. The company has taken state rights on several good features during the past few months.

New Bowling Green Theater.

Bowling Green, Ky.—Manager Tom Masters, of the Crescent Amusement company's Bowling Green interests, has announced that the Nashville company will erect a new theater in the spring, the theater to have a seating capacity of 500 and to operate as a five-cent house. The company recently gave up its Elite theater and has reopened the Strand. The new house if erected will take the place of the Strand, giving the company two large theaters in Bowling Green, the other being the Crescent, a ten-cent house.

F. A. Ogden Takes Over the Cozy.

Winchester, Ky.—F. A. Ogden, who for several months managed the Cozy theater for a local syndicate, recently resigned as manager, but a day or two later purchased the business, which in the future he will operate personally. In addition to the Cozy Mr. Ogden has leased the Rex theater, of Lancaster, and has closed a deal with Hays Foster, of Stanford, Ky., for the Stanford opera house, which will be converted into a moving picture theater.

Harry R. Miller to Open Horse Cave Theater.

Horse Cave, Ky.—The Thomas opera house has been leased by Mr. H. B. Thomas to Harry R. Miller of Grand Haven, Mich., who will open the theater shortly. Mr Miller is preparing to show Paramount pictures, minstrel shows, stock company productions and some vaudeville. Admission prices will be held at ten cents.

Lancaster, Ky.—The Lancaster opera house has been opened under the management of W. J. Romans, a live wire, who expects to make a big showing.

Pikeville, Ky.—On account of small patronage in the winter months the Star theater of Mossy Bottom closed for the season with the end of October and will remain down until spring.

Empress Theater at Nashville Sold

Important Suburban House Taken Over by Irvine Roberts of Local Supply Company—Will Continue Its High Class Policy.

By J. L. Ray, 1011 Stahlman Building, Nashville, Tenn.

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—The Empress theater, located at Twelfth and Woodland streets, has been sold by Carson Bradford to Irvine Roberts of the Roberts & Carter Theater Film Supply Company. The Empress is one of the city's leading suburban houses, and was the first to be constructed outside the central theater district. Mr. Bradford only recently acquired control of the Strand, one of the large uptown houses, and for that reason found his time would not permit the operation of the Empress also. Mr. Roberts has been connected with the local film industry for a number of years, both as theater man and supply agent, and is well known to local moving picture men.

Krech Changes His Plans.

Nashville, Tenn.—John C. Krech, owner of the new theater on South Fifth avenue, has decided to convert his house into an exclusive negro theater. As announced in the November 4th issue of the World, the house was constructed to be used jointly for white and colored patronage. It was pointed out at the time that the plan hardly seemed feasible, in that both races would be seated on the same floor, even though the color line would be drawn through the middle. The new theater will be open in about two weeks, and will be known as the Liberty.

Kaufman's Big Trip South.

Memphis, Tenn.—Manager A. H. Kaufman of the United made a flying trip to New Orleans during the last week in October, and during the two days spent in that city closed contracts with seventeen suburban houses for his Mutt and Jeff cartoons, besides the first run date on St. Charles street with the Lyceum theater. In addition to this the Fichtenberg enterprises, the largest exhibiting medium in the state, are using each release ten days. United has also secured Rudolph Dirks' Katzenjammer cartoons, and beginning November 15th will release one subject each week.

Improvements at Strand.

Nashville, Tenn.—Included in the list of recent improvements at the Strand is an electric fountain placed inside the front door, directly behind the musicians' pit. Softly shaded incandescents are placed in the center of the fountain, around which the water sprays, lending an artistic effect to the front part of the auditorium. The lobby has been made larger by cutting away a partition wall adjoining a stairway leading up over the house, which not only furnished more room for the patrons' use, but also provides additional space for poster display.

Billy Arnold With Strand.

Nashville, Tenn.—W. R. Arnold, known in theatrical circles as Billy, has been appointed by Manager Carson Bradford as advertising and publicity agent for the Strand theater. Mr. Arnold is an old newspaper man, and is also representative of several theatrical trade papers. He is well fitted for the work, and the Strand may expect some high-class publicity work through his affiliation.

United Seeks Larger Quarters.

Memphis, Tenn.—The local branch of United Film Service has found it necessary to lease more spacious quarters. On November 20th the Memphis offices will remove from 153 Union avenue to the new address, 52 South Fourth street, where the building is at present being remodeled in accordance with their specifications.

They Went Right By.

Nashville, Tenn.—Having learned from past experiences the danger to a theater of an over enthusiastic bunch of college students after a football victory, Manager Harry Sudekum proceeded to put this knowledge into practical use by stationing a squad of police reserves in front of the Princess after the Vanderbilt-Virginia game. It has been the custom of the rah-rah crowd in past years to march through the theater district and storm the houses one by one, with much resultant damage, but Manager Harry anticipated the move on this occasion. Consequently the nightshirt parade filed placidly by the wall of bluecoats without so much as pausing to look in.

Federation and Minor Operators

Illinois State Federation of Labor in Convention Adopts a Resolution Favoring New State Law on Licensing Operators—Would Prohibit Men Under Age of Twenty-one Being Left in Charge of Booths.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

QUINCY, ILL.—At the convention of the Illinois State Federation of Labor here, a petition was presented from moving picture operators, local No. 288 of East St. Louis, asking for changes in the law regarding operators. A resolution introduced by Delegate Weston of East St. Louis providing for a state law requiring examination to determine fitness as a condition precedent to being permitted to operate a film machine in a theater and that no person under the age of 21 years be permitted to fill the position of such operator. The resolution was favored.

In connection with the introduction of the resolution, a delegate said that since he had been in Quincy a fire had occurred in the Colonial theater and the lives of several hundred spectators had been in danger. He said the blaze was caused by a youth operating the machine.

The Value of Popular Amusement.

Alton, Ill.—Moving pictures will save our present civilization from the destruction that overwhelmed every civilization of the past, according to Miss Mary Gray Peck, who spoke before the state charities and correction here. "They provide," she said, "what every previous civilization has lacked—namely, a means of relief, happiness and mental inspiration of the people at the bottom."

Rev. G. C. Dunlop of Springfield advocated motion pictures in the parish houses of the churches.

Strike of Musicians and Operators in Peoria.

Peoria, Ill.—Difficulties between the musicians' and the stage hands' unions at the Hippodrome theater here has resulted in a strike. Louis Ellsworth, operator, joined the strikers at the order of the local operators' union. There is said to be no possibility of the strike extending to other houses.

New Illinois Incorporations.

Springfield, Ill.—Secretary of State has issued certificates of incorporations to the following:

Chateau Theater Co., Chicago; capital, $35,000; incorporators, Nathan Ascher, Harry Ascher, Lewis F. Jacobson.

Civilization Film Co. of Cook County, Chicago; capital, $20,000; incorporators, Joseph R. Burres, Edward Horschler, Seymour Koven.

Difficulty in Getting Shows for Children.

Upper Alton, Ill.—According to a local paper Mrs. W. A. Clark, manager of the Ouatoga theater, has difficulty in securing the programs which have been selected by the Women's School Patrons' association for the Friday matinee for school children.

Manager W. E. Boyington Dead.

Freeport, Ill.—William Ensign Boyington, 61 years old, for one and one-half years manager of the Strand moving picture theater here, is dead. His wife and three children survive.

New Theaters and Changes.

Anchor, Ill.—The Photo Pla theater has discontinued its show.

Oakland, Ill.—H. R. Barricklaw, a former exhibitor here, has purchased the Grand theater.

Creal Springs, Ill.—A moving picture show will be opened in the opera house here.

North Henderson, Ill.—The moving picture theater has been closed here, but special features will be given from time to time.

Vermont, Ill.—Edward Brown has leased the opera house here and will conduct a moving picture theater here.

Niantic, Ill.—A moving picture theater has been opened in the Hall building here.

East St. Louis, Ill.—The Criterion theater at Fourteenth and State streets is under new management.

Among Illinois Managers.

Springfield, Ill.—The Gaiety theater had "Civilization" for a six-day run.

Champaign, Ill.—The Champaign High Schol has booked a series of semi-educational films and will use the proceeds of the shows for paying for moving picture equipment.

Waukegan, Ill.—Carl Muller, manager and owner of the Elite theater, and Chas. Quiggle, his brother-in-law and associate, left for Iowa to spend three or four weeks hunting ducks.

Ottawa, Ill.—Manager Lewis, of the Gayety, had a 2,000-foot film of local news made as a special attraction for his patrons.

Rockford, Ill.—The Grand theater will book a return date of "The Birth of a Nation." It also will have winter dates for "The Fall of a Nation" and "Civilzation."

Moline, Ill.—Moline has a large Swedish population, therefore the sixteen reels of Swedish pictures, which were taken under the instructions of the Swedish government, proved a profitable attraction at the Avoy theater.

Davis, Ill.—Thirty-eight children were admitted to the local moving picture show because they did not miss school for a month.

Theater Changes in Michigan.

Battle Creek, Mich.—W. C. Dyer has opened a moving picture theater on West Main street.

Laurium, Mich.—William Steffens, of Hancock, has assumed the management of the Lyric theater, succeeding Walter Sanders.

Holly, Mich.—James B. Starker has sold the Gem theater to Charles Baird.

Iron River, Mich.—The New Caspian theater has been opened.

Ironwood, Mich.—The Rex theater, which was built last summer by Con Geary, will be under the management of Chester Kitzman. The new house has a seating capacity of 700.

Menomonie, Mich.—"Aschers," the new theater erected here by Ascher Brothers of Chicago opened with Clara Kimball Young in "The Dark Silence." The house, which seats 700, is thoroughly modern and has a $3,000 pipe organ, at which Mr. Reger, regular organist in one of the Ascher's Chicago houses, presided.

Grand Rapids, Mich.—Manager Kline of the Majestic Gardens had a Hallowe'en night, surprising his patrons with witches, jack o' lanterns and other Hallowe'en decorations.

Manistee, Mich.—Manager Lauer of the Lyric theater showed "Molly-Make Believe," for the benefit of the women of the Congregational church.

Decatur's New Avon Theater to Open Soon

Thanksgiving Set for Premier of J. F. Allman's Beautiful New Theater—A Few Interesting Notes About Its Decorations.

DECATUR, ILL.—J. F. Allman of the new Avon theater will open the house Thanksgiving evening with "The Fall of a Nation." Among the early attractions booked by this house are "Sherlock Holmes," "Secret Service," "An Enemy to the King," "The Man of Mystery" and "The Chattel."

The Avon has a beautiful white stone front. Two seven-foot statues, gracefully draped women in white cast, have arrived and will be placed on the top of the building, surmounting the pillars at each side of the entrance. Directly over the curtain is a third statue, a woman in the nude, reclining at full length. On a parallel with this figure extending completely around the theater figures of women's heads in white are placed. Below, on another parallel, lion heads circle the interior. The eyes of the lions are green lights.

The ceiling is finished in clouded blue. The balcony and boxes are in white with a tint of cream. The lighting system is indirect and is so arranged that all lights may be left burning while a picture is being shown.

The giant pipe organ will be another feature of the theater. It will be electrically controlled and will be located in three parts of the building. To the left of the curtain will be the great organ, to the right the swell organ and in the extreme rear the echo organ.

A Marriage on Theater's Stage.

Lincoln, Ill.—Allen Ganson and Miss Evelyn Elliott, both of Havana, Ill., and both members of the orchestra of the Star theater of this city, were married before an audience. The stage was decorated for the event, and as they stood under a big wedding bell of electric lights, the clergyman pronounced them man and wife.

A number of present were given them by Lincoln merchants.

South Dakota Appeal Against Sunday Law

Preparations Are On to Have Initiative Appeal Made to Revoke Present Puritanical Sabbath Blue Laws.

By Frank H. Madison, 623 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

PIERRE, S. D.—It is not unlikely that a petition will be initiated to repeal the puritanical Sunday law, which is causing so much trouble for moving picture exhibitors and moving picture patrons in South Dakota. It is hoped the legislature will repeal the law without further action. However, if the results cannot be obtained in this manner there will be a referendum by voters at the 1918 election.

The South Dakota law against Sunday theaters has been a constant source of controversy. It is not enforced for the very simple reason that it is not backed by public sentiment. Every effort made to secure conviction for violation of this law has resulted in failure. Jurors simply ignore the existence of the law and register their opinion of whether the restriction is right or wrong. Many people of good moral and religious standing do not hesitate to attend a clean entertainment on Sunday. They decide for themselves whether any act is moral or immoral.

State University Film Service.

[illegible] State University of [illegible] has been created by [illegible] which is intended to give [illegible] weekly, will be of [illegible] class. [illegible] Each film [illegible] except that the [illegible] pays the [illegible]

New Theaters and Changes in Dakota.

Fryburg, N. D.—The Fryburg local of the Farmers' Union contemplates the erection of an opera house.

Edgeley, N. D.—The Iris theater has been opened here.

Garrison, N. D.—The opera house here is now under the management of E. L. Voracher.

Rutland, N. D.—Stricker & Cameron have purchased the Olson Brothers' amusement parlors.

Willow Lakes, S. D.—H. J. Sneider has purchased the moving picture show at this place.

Iowa Theater Notes.

Burlington, Ia.—The Grand opera house has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Martin Bruhl.

Dyersville, Ia.—The Nemo theater has been opened by A. E. Bennett.

Centerville, Ia.—The Orpheum theater has been sold to Ted Lane and Jacob Ritter.

Osage, Ia.—Katz & Gauss have leased the Sprague theater to Fred Birum, owner of the Lyric theater.

Clarinda, Ia.—The Bon Ton theater has been sold to Ira Cummings, of Shenandoah.

Minneapolis as Film Center

List of Local Exchanges Shows Thirty-eight Doing Business in Twin Cities—Minneapolis Claimed as Third Distributing City in Country—St. Paul Has Forty-seven Picture Shows—Minneapolis Has Ninety-one.

By John L. Johnston, 814 Produce Exchange, Minneapolis, Minn.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—Checking over the list of film companies in St. Paul shows that there are now thirty-eight doing business within the two cities, all but four of them being in Minneapolis. The list of exchanges, locations and managers follows:

In the Film Exchange Building: Minneapolis Artcraft Picture Corp., Ben E. Drum, manager; Supreme Feature Film Co., Harry Rathner, manager; Unity Features Corp., Harry Rathner, manager; Lochren Film Corp., William A. Lochren, president; Westcott Film Corp., E. A. Westcott, manager; Federal Features Corp., E. O. and S. Freedman, managers; Friedman Film Corp., Benjamin Friedman, general manager; Triangle Film Corp., Ralph Bradford, manager; Kleine-Edison-Selig-Essanay exchange, Harry Graham, manager; Pyramid Film Co., E. F. Meyers, producing director; Favorite Features Film Corp., Mendel Gottlieb, manager; Selznick Pictures exchange, Phillip Lewis, manager; E. L. K. Film Co., Benjamin Rosenberg, manager.

In the Produce Exchange Building, Minneapolis.—Greater Vitagraph, W. K. Howard, manager; M. R. Dick Film Co., M. R. Dick, manager; Harry Rowe Film Co, Harry Rowe, manager; Minnesota Metro Corp., Otto N. Davies, manager; Unicorn Film Service, R. L. Hewitt, manager; Independent Film Corp., A. R. Nelson and J. E. Moor, managers; Famous Players Star Feature Film Co., Bert Barnett, Sr., manager; Pathe Exchange, Inc., H. E. Friedman, manager; Zenith Feature Film Co., Inc., J. F. Cubberley, general manager; International Film Service, Inc., H. C. Andres, manager; W. [illegible] Co., Mr. Levy, manager; [illegible] Film Corp., J. A. Brehaney, general manager.

Other Minneapolis exchanges.—Fox Film Corp., Jewelers' Exchange, S. N. Robinson, manager; Kayancee Film Corp., Jewelers' Exchange, D. H. Naylor, Jr., president; Mutual Film Corp., 22 North 6th street, W. H. Stafford, manager; Universal Film Corp., 731 Hennepin avenue, F. S. Meyer, manager; Bluebird Photoplays, Inc., 721 Hennepin avenue, Harry Muir, manager; Brandon-Crandall Co., Metropolitan theater, W. R. Brandon, manager; General Film Co., Inc., 909 Hennepin avenue, C. C. Knapp, manager W. R. Frank, Vista theater.

St. Paul.—Raths-Seavolt Film Mfg. Co., 821 University avenue, O. N. Raths, manager; Great West Film Co, Inc., Merchants' Bank Building, W. F. Tobin, general manager, J. G. Gilosky, president; M. E. T. Film Co., Metropolitan theater, E. S. Tunstall, manager; Feature Film Co., 27 East 7th street, S. R. Thompson, manager.

Supply Houses, Minneapolis.—Rialto Theater Supply Co., 733 Hennepin avenue, S. A. Louis, manager; Northwestern M. P. Equipment Co., Pantages theater, J. V. Bryson, manager; Theater Equipment Co., Film Exchange, J. G. Feinberg, manager; Mutual Film Corp., 22 North 6th street, W. H. Stafford, manager; Universal Film Co., 721 Hennepin avenue; C. C. Knapp; Twin City Film Renovating Co., Produce Exchange, S. R. Dworsky, manager; St. Paul Feature Film Co., 27 East 7th street, S. R. Thompson, manager.

The above list of exchanges well proves Minneapolis' claim to be the third largest film distributing city of the country. The Mill City exchanges' territories reach as far West as Idaho, as far east as northern Michigan, as far north as the Canadian border, and as far south as Missouri and Kansas. As a supply center, Minneapolis has no equal west of Chicago. There are five producing companies in the Twin Cities. St. Paul has forty-seven picture theaters and Minneapolis ninety-one. The New Garrick, Minneapolis, with a seating capacity of 2,400, is the largest exclusive picture theater in either St. Paul or Minneapolis. All of the Twin City theaters have admission prices of five and ten cents; fifteen, twenty and twenty-five cents being charged only for mammoth productions.

Great West Film Plans Local Studio

Has Just Completed "The Golden Goddess" and Technical Staff Has Returned to the City—Is Looking About for Studio Site.

ST. PAUL, MINN.—The Great West Film Co., here, has completed its first production, a five-reeler, entitled "The Golden Goddess," and with the return of the technical force from Malta, Mont., this week, plans for the erection of a local studio will be made. Several good locations for studios have been offered the company and regardless of which one is accepted, the Great West is assured some very picturesque and handy headquarters. The Great West is featuring in its initial release Miss Marjorie Daw, formerly with the Lasky Co., Wallace D. Coburn and C. M. Giffen, Westerners with ability that is well known. Miss Daw, it is said, has displayed some rare actors in "The Golden Goddess" and will take leading parts in the future five reelers to be commenced at once. The Great West will release its features through one of the six largest distributing companies of the country, an official announcement of this company being forthcoming shortly. The Great West plans to produce comedies and other short reel subjects as soon as studios are completed and scenario contests have been begun in the states of Montana and Minnesota for the purpose of getting some stories to picturize. "The Indians' Tale of Christ" will be the Great West's second five reeler.

Marjory Daw.

Pantages Minneapolis House Opens.

Minneapolis, Minn.—The Pantages theater, showing vaudeville and pictures, and expected to open October 15, was opened to the public Sunday, October 29. The new theater is a beautiful one, managed by H. A. Cornell, formerly of Oakland, Cal., and the short-reel pictures the theater has arranged for showing have been well chosen. The theater is located at Seventh and Hennepin, one door from the Lyric.

New Palace to Open.

St. Paul, Minn.—The New Palace, the new Ruben & Finkelstein vaudeville and picture theater at Seventh and Wabasha streets, will be opened to the public next week if present plans carry. The new theater, with a seating capacity of about 3,000, will be the largest vaudeville or picture theater in this territory. It is the seventh Twin City theater either erected or controlled by Messrs. Ruben and Finkelstein.

Northwest Brevities.

Aitkin, Minn.—Manager J. C. Heywood of the Moveum theater here has announced he will sell his theater in the near future owing to ill health.

Havre, Mont.—C. W. Keerner has sold his interest in the New Lyric theater here to his partner, F. D. Needham.

Crookston, Minn.—The new Bijou theater here opened last week with "The Miracle of Life" and a two-reel Chaplin comedy.

Grand Rapids, Minn.—Jesse Madson of Hibbing, Minn., is building a new theater. The dimensions of the building, which will be strictly modern, are 25 by 125 feet.

Chippewa Falls, Wis.—N. A. Anderson of Duluth, Minn., purchased the Victor theater here last week at a sheriff's sale. The price paid is said to be $19,000.

Strawberry Point, Ia.—A. A. Berguhn has bought out the interest of B. A. Smith in the Lyric theater.

Clarinda, Ia.—Ira J. Cummings has leased the Bon Ton theater here.

Edgeley, N. D.—Shields & Weaver opened the new Isis theater here last week with Clara Kimball Young in "The Dark Silence," a World feature.

Pictures Make Mankind Bigger

Significance of the Moving Picture Business Shown in a Report by Kansas City Investigator—It Brings to the Doors of Modern Man What in Former Times He Had to Travel Far to Get—Influence on Expositions.

By Kansas City News Service, 206 Corn Belt Building, Kansas City, Mo.

KANSAS CITY, Mo.—The significance of the moving picture show has recently been brought home to Kansas City most emphatically, and many men who have noticed the popularity for the first time, are wondering what the answer is. Here's the way it happened.

Kansas City has been the home of the American Royal Live Stock show for nearly 20 years—a national event. Hundreds of Kansas Citians fondly hoped that some day this show would be made a great exposition that would attract the whole world as the Royal now attracts the pure bred beef cattle men. But the dream of an exposition gets nowhere now. And one man who has studied the subject carefully, answers: "The moving picture." This man cannot be quoted directly; but he is an official of one of the great organizations, and he has by special request made a study of the benefits to merchants and communities of expositions. He said:

Makes Mankind Bigger.

"There was a time when people had to go long distances to annual fairs to see the developments in art, science and business—and they took the trips because they wanted to see other cities, the market places, and the various scenes that help them to understand what is going on in the world.

"It's different now. The large majority of people get exactly this touch with their fellows, this insight into the movement of the world, through the moving pictures. And they get thrills there, which are far beyond what they could get in actual experience on any excursions. They have not the same need nor desire to travel or to see how it was that they had once.

"Of course there are other factors in this situation too. Many agencies are carrying information direct to the citizen that takes the place of what he learns at the fairs. The automobile is enabling the farmer and small-town dweller to get about more, and keep in closer touch with progress.

"It is evident that the moving picture is carrying information and a distinct message to hundreds of thousands more than ever could attend the events. And so it seems to me a duty devolves on the producers to fill the need that the people are unconsciously allowing them to satisfy."

Visitors in the City.

Kansas City, Mo.—Jack Johnson, proprietor of the Echo theater at Great Bend, spent two days in Kansas City visiting the Universal Film & Supply Co. in Kansas City. Mr. Johnson was very enthusiastic about the service he had been receiving.

R. C. Cropper, manager of the Universal Film & Supply Co. in Kansas City, and P. L. Ryan, who has charge of the sales promotion department, recently returned from a weeks visit to St. Louis, where they made a special effort in the promotion of sales. They report a big business there.

J. R. Rider, proprietor of the Rex theater at Bevier, Missouri, spent two days in Kansas City recently visiting the Kansas City exchanges.

Other recent visitors to the Kansas City exchanges were: E. T. Burgan, Grant theater, Beloit, Kansas; Roy Heffner, Princess theater, Nowata, Oklahoma; W. A. Millington, Crystal theater, Ottowa, Kansas; Forest Kerrens, Starr theater, Butler, Mo.; A. E. Oelrich, Casino theater, McPherson, Kansas; C. E. Neeswanger, Crystal theater, Osburn, Mo.; Joe Fox, Holland theater, Wichita, Kansas; D. F. Cook, LaHarpe, Kansas; J. I. Wright, Rex theater, Bevier, Mo.; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Holmes, Royal theater, Emporia, Kansas, were in Kansas City recently taking the Grand Opera, and visiting the various exchanges; Mr. Schaffer, Strand theater, Sedalia, Mo.; and Frank Warren, Hippodrome theater, Elevenworth.

Plenty of Money and Good Weather.

Kansas City, Mo.—N. S. Quade, representative of the Unicorn, the Kansas City territory including Oklahoma, Kansas and Missouri, reports good conditions in the territory. Mr. Quade says people seem to have plenty of money and the weather has been fine so that the motion picture houses in the territory are enjoying a good business and full houses.

United to Add to Its Forces.

Kansas City, Mo.—Joe Levy, manager of the United Film Service of Kansas City, reports that he expects to add two new men to his sales forces in the near future. A number of applications have already been received, but none have been selected yet.

J. E. Storey Getting Lined up.

Kansas City, Mo.—J. E. Storey, the new manager of the K-L-S-E service in Kansas City, reports that he is beginning to get the office work lined up, and good results are already beginning to promise a still better year's business. Many inquiries are being turned in regarding the Selig baseball picture, which is the only detail film on the market showing the worlds series.

Exhibitor T. E. Pusby Dies.

Wakito, Okla.—T. E. Pusby, proprietor of the theater at Wakito, Oklahoma, died recently after a short illness. George Pasby, a brother to the diseased man, will run the theater.

Present from Grateful Exhibitor.

Kansas City, Mo.—F. L. Kiltz, manager of the local Mutual, had a very pleasant surprise a few days ago. A pair of his very good customers, a man and his wife, owners of a theater in Kansas City, recently presented him with a fine twelve piece desk set, and a dozen solid silver pens.

Swanson's Theater Party for Old Folks

Salt Lake City Magnate Gives a Birthday Party to Neighbor People Over Seventy Years and to Children.

By H. W. Pickering, Deseret News, Salt Lake City.

SALT LAKE CITY, UTAH.—William H. Swanson, president of the Swanson Circuit and owner of the American, Rex and Liberty theaters in Salt Lake City, has again demonstrated his capacity as host. Wednesday, October 25, was Mr. Swanson's birthday and, in celebration of the event, he and Mrs. Swanson entertained on that day the old folks and orphans of this city and county at a special performance of "The Old Folks at Home" at the American theater.

The plans of Mr. Swanson were heartily entered into by the old folks central committee, an organization of this county which has in charge the welfare of the citizens more than 70 years of age and annually provides entertainments for them.

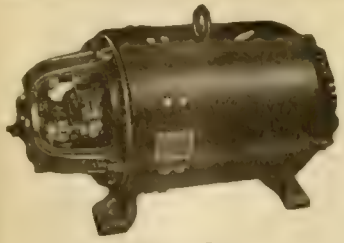
This committee sent out a circular letter to the old folks stating that Mr. Swanson desired their presence at his theater on the occasion of his birthday. This communication was read from every pulpit in the city last Sunday. The result was the largest audience of old folks and children that ever attended a performance of the sort in this city.

Mr. Swanson was assisted by a corps of young women ushers who were directed by Mrs. W. Mont. Ferry, wife of the mayor of Salt Lake, and by a special committee from the old folks organization. Flowers were presented to every guest and a large flashlight photograph was taken of the audience. Professor J. J. McClellan, organist at the famous "Mormon" Tabernacle, who is also organist at the American theater, played a program of old-time melodies, including several request numbers.

The musical program and the picture were greatly enjoyed by the old folks and the orphans. The former occupied the body of the house and the latter were seated in the balcony.

Mr. Swanson has announced that he intends setting aside October 25 of each year as a special day for the old folks and orphans to attend the American as his guests. If the property passes out of his hands, he says, he intends to include a stipulation that the old folks shall be entertained on October 25 as a part of the transaction.

Old People, Neighbors of American Theater, Invited Guests.



This HALLBERG
20th CENTURY Motor-Generator

$239 and up.
Gives best light at lowest cost.
Ask for Free Bulletin No. 1.
Gasoline Engine Generators save 2/3 on cost of power. Free Bulletin No. 2.

IS THE RESULT OF MORE THAN

10 YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

In Designing, Constructing and Operating Electric Economizers and Motor-Generators for M. P. Machines—It Is the Last Word in Perfect Projection Light—Is Recommended by All Users!

DON'T DELAY! WRITE ABOUT IT NOW!

I am distributor of all makes of moving picture machines and furnish everything complete for the theatre and studio, new and used apparatus. Complete stock of "SPEER" and other carbons.
Send for Free Circulars and Catalogues, but for Hallberg's Big 100-page Catalogue send 25 cents.
Keep your moving picture machine in first class condition. Let me overhaul your mechanisms once a year. Repair parts on rush or telegraph order shipped at once.
Send for prices on miniature Portable and Advertising Projectors.

Send $2.50 for latest Operator's Book, "MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY"

Send $4.00 for Richardson's M. P. Handbook

Send $1.50 for Hallberg's Carbon Saver

J. H. HALLBERG, The House of Quality Established 1904 7th Avenue at 49th St., NEW YORK

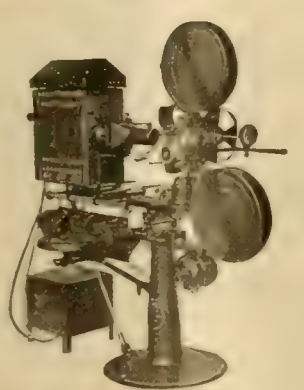
Member National Association of the Motion Picture Industry, Inc.

MOTIOGRAPH



$285.00 F. O. B. Chicago Motor-drive Complete.

BE PARTICULAR, EXAMINE THE SEEMINGLY LITTLE THINGS ABOUT THE PROJECTOR YOU BUY.

It's the "little" things that make a projection machine give perfect results.

The Projector You Have Been Thinking About—Does it have parts that received a special heat treatment and were ground to insure accuracy? Can you remove the framing device in a second if necessary? Are the gears made of solid, high grade, cold rolled steel?

Does it have, as the MOTIOGRAPH has, all these important points of merit, an enviable reputation and an unequalled record for endurance and economy?

This is a matter of vital importance to you. MAKE SURE.

Write for Literature.

THE ENTERPRISE OPTICAL MFG. COMPANY

574 W. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill. Western Office: 833 Market St., San Francisco, Cal.

Non-Breakable and Sanitary STEEL
HIGH Quality
and
LOW Price
CAST IRON
Opera Chairs
immediate shipment on many styles; Second Hand Chairs; out-of-door seating. Send measurements for FREE SEATING PLAN. Mention this paper.

STEEL FURNITURE CO.
Grand Rapids, Mich.; New York, 15 East 40th Ave.

FLORAL THEATRE DECORATIONS
Give Artistic Atmosphere. They delight your patrons
Artificial flowers are practically everlasting and need no care—the effect is the same as natural ones.
Our expert decorators are at your service—ready to give you ideas and estimates.
Write for beautifully colored catalogue—mailed free to you. We quote absolutely the lowest prices ever offered on reliable goods.
BOTANICAL DECORATING CO., Dept. 7, 208 W. Adams Street, Chicago, Ill.
Manufacturers of Artificial Flowers and Plants

STAR CARBONS
Jones & Cammack
Sole Distributers for the U. S.
Corner Bridge and Whitehall Sts., New York

PATENTS
Manufacturers want me to send them patents on useful inventions. Send me at once drawing and description of your invention and I will give you an honest report as to securing a patent and whether I can assist you in selling the patent. Highest references. Established 25 years. Personal attention in all cases. WM. N. MOORE, Loan and Trust Building, Washington, D. C.

OPERA CHAIRS
American Seating Company
1010 Lytton Bldg., Chicago
SALES OFFICES IN ALL PRINCIPAL CITIES

TANKS and RACKS
that give satisfaction
Write for Folder No. 14
Pacific Tank & Pipe Co.
Los Angeles—San Francisco, Cal

RADIUM GOLD FIBRE SCREEN, INC.
220 W. 42d Street
New York City
"Ask the Exhibitor Who Owns One."

Quality means EVANS means Perfection
We do PARTICULAR Work for PARTICULAR People
Developing and Printing ONLY
EVANS FILM MANUFACTURING COMPANY
Telephone—6881 Audubon
416-418-420-422 West 216th Street, New York City

ADVANCED PROJECTION OF INTOLERANCE
D. W. GRIFFITH'S COLOSSAL SPECTACLE at the LIBERTY THEATRE, NEW YORK, introduces NEW IDEAS in the ART of PROJECTION. The WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS are equipped with SPECIAL SPEED CONTROLS and TIME REGISTERING DEVICES so that the Musical Director has absolute control of the SPEED, thereby SYNCHRONIZING the MUSIC perfectly with the PICTURE. For the WORLD'S BEST PROJECTORS equipped with TIME REGISTERING Devices and Perfect Arc Control Rheostats, consult the Exclusive Distributor
B. F. PORTER, 1482 BROADWAY, AT TIMES SQUARE, NEW YORK

CINE-MUNDIAL
A monthly publication, printed in Spanish and devoted exclusively to the interests of the moving picture industry throughout South America and Spanish-speaking countries

MORE than 5,000 exhibitors and film buyers in Latin America receive our publication monthly. Is it possible that you are not interested in this new market?
ADVERTISING RATES: $50 A PAGE
CINE-MUNDIAL
17 Madison Avenue New York

SAVE THE INTEREST ON $100.00
EVERY YEAR—AND BEGIN NOW
On account of the greatly increased cost of paper, engraving, etc., we have been compelled to make the single copy price fifteen cents. For the present direct subscription prices will remain the same. This means a saving of four dollars and eighty cents yearly on direct subscriptions. In addition you get your paper earlier.
It will pay you to fill out this blank and mail at once with your remittance.
ONE YEAR.....$3.00
SIX MONTHS.....$1.50
See title page for rates Canada and Foreign
MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue, New York
.....
.....
.....
Cut out and mail Theatre.....

All Eyes on a Line

A NEW CHAIR

That Enables Everybody to See and Be Comfortable

Press Catch

Tilt Forward

Push Back

Can be changed from an adult's chair to a child's chair by pressing the catch and raising as illustrated. Returns to adult's position and locks just as easily.

It provides a child with a seat proportioned to his body, a foot rest the right height and puts the child's eyes on a line with those of adults, enabling him to see without annoyance to others or discomfort to himself. The

"All eyes on a line"

FOCO

Adjustable Chair

offers theatre owners something for which there is a real need. Fortunately it is not an extra expense but an added source of profit because it—

Does away with the free kids.

Increases the patronage of children; also the adults who come with children.

Attracts patronage of adults who won't now attend because of discomfort of holding children on their laps.

Attracts patronage from theatres not equipped with Foco chairs.

FOCO Chairs cost new only a few cents more than ordinary chairs. Made in all sizes and finishes, both veneered and upholstered. Old chairs can be converted into Foco Chairs at considerably less than the cost of new chairs.

Write for booklet showing reel of actual chairs in use.

Family Opera Chair Organization

317 N. 10th Street, St. Louis, Mo

Upholstered Chair in Child's Position.

Upholstered Chair in Adult's Position.

BARGAINS IN MACHINES

Twenty-two machines slightly used, first class condition, Simplex, Power's 6 A's, Power's 6's, Edison B's, and Edison D's, low prices, quick sales.

CHAS. A. CALEHUFF, 1301 Race Street, Philadelphia

BOOST YOUR SALES IN CANADA

Use the

"BULLETIN"

"Canada's Premier Motion Picture Journal"

Sample Copy and Rates Free

106 West Richmond Street TORONTO

DO YOU KNOW

That the LARGEST THEATRES in the country buy from us on the EASY PAYMENT PLAN? We will sell you any make M. P. Machine, Converters, Rectifiers, etc., on our EASY PAYMENT PLAN; prices the same as for cash. INVESTIGATE TODAY.

Amusement Supply Company

Dealers in Motiograph, Simplex, Powers, Edison and Standard Machines, Transverters, Motor Generators, Rectifiers and everything pertaining to the Moving Picture Theatres.

3rd Floor, Mallers Bldg.

Cor. Madison St. and Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill.

For the fullest and latest news of the moving picture industry in Great Britain and Europe.

For authoritative articles by leading British technical men.

For brilliant and strictly impartial criticisms of all films, read

THE BIOSCOPE

The Leading British Trade Journal with an International Circulation

American Correspondence by W. Stephen Bush

of

"Moving Picture World"

85 Shaftesbury Avenue, London, W.

Specimen on Application

FREE to all SOUTHERN EXHIBITORS, if you will cut this out and mail to us with the name of your theatre—one year's subscription to THE COSIKI the liveliest, classiest, and most up-to-date monthly humor paper in existence, will be sent to you free each month.

LUCAS THEATRE SUPPLY CO.

ATLANTA GEORGIA

HILL MOTOR GENERATOR

For Motion Picture Arc Lamps

Delivers true direct current from alternating lines.

PRODUCING STEADY WHITE LIGHT PROJECTION OF TRUE COLOR VALUE, WITHOUT FLICKER OR FLARE.

It delivers 12,000 candle power on a standard sized screen up to 120 ft. throw, or 3 times more light than is obtained from the alternating current arc for the same current. It also eliminates all current wasting balancing and voltage reduction resistances, hence will pay for itself in this saving alone. Built in capacities sufficient to carry two machines during dissolve, this is accomplished without a break. Covering but 18x15 inches of floor space, it may be installed in the booth under the direct control of the operator. Running in ball bearings, it is quiet and free from vibration.

Write for Bulletin MW.

C & C Electric & Mfg. Co.

Garwood, N. J. 218

G. W. BRADENBURGH

802 Vine Street Philadelphia, Pa.

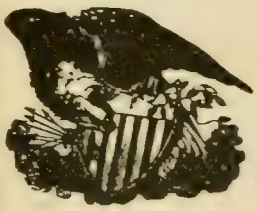
NAME.	STAR	LENGTH	CONDITION.	PRICE.
For $5,000 a Year	Louise Huff	5000	Brand New	$200
Sealed Orders	Chas. Mason	7000	As New	200
The Butterfly	Barbara Tennant	5000	Good	80
From Gutter to Footlights	Leah Allen	5000	Good	100
Dancer and the King	Cecil Spooner	5000	Good	75
Littlest Rebel	Dustin Farnum	5000	Good	125
World, Flesh and the Devil	Chas. Mason	5000	Good	100
The Chimes	Tom Terriss	5000	Good	100
An American Gentleman	Wm. Bonelli	5000	As New	150
Hearts United	Wm Bonelli	5000	Brand New	120
One of Millions	Laura Sawyer	4000	Good	80
Sapho	L. Borrelli	4000	Good	80
Last Days of Pompeii	Massive Production	7000	Very Good	120
Should a Woman Tell	Louise Jacobini	4000	Good	75
Her Husband	Clara Kimball Young	2000	Good	50
David Garrick	Clara Kimball Young	2000	Good	40
Cupid Versus Woman's Rights	Clara Kimball Young	1000	Good Comic	15
Goodness Gracious	Clara Kimball Young	3000	Good	45

All the above are supplied with one, three and six sheet posters and photos; everything high-class. Single and two reel comedies, Chaplins and others at moderate prices. Single commercials with posters at $3.00. Write for Fall bargain list.



Peace Pictures

Beautifully Colored

Also

European War Pictures

(Neutral)

Illustrated Poems

On our own country.

Terms Moderate Accompanied by Violinist, Pianist, Operator, Lantern, etc., for Theatres, Lyceums and Clubs, in or out of town. Music for dances.

LOUISE M. MARION

445 W. 23rd Street, New York

Phone: 10306 Chelsea

Complete Laboratory and Studio Service

Moving Pictures Made To Order

Quality titles
Animated cartoons
Eastman raw stock
Prompt deliveries

Factory description and quotations promptly sent at your request

Rothacker Film Mfg. Co.

1331-59 Diversey Parkway, Chicago, U. S. A.

Ornamental Theatres

Plaster Relief Decorations

Theatres Designed Everywhere

Write for Illustrated Theatre Catalog. Send us Sizes of Theatre for Special Designs

THE DECORATORS SUPPLY CO.

Archer Avenue and Lee Street
CHICAGO, ILL.

EXPERIENCE

IS THE BEST TEACHER

A SINGLE TRIAL OF

SPEER CARBONS

IS ALL THE EXPERIENCE YOU NEED

THE RESULTS SECURE ORDERS

Trade Mark

SPEER CARBON CO.

DEPT. "W"

St. Mary's, Pa.

For Sale by Leading Motion Picture Supply Dealers, Including the Following

J. H. HALLBERG - - - 727 7th Ave., New York, N.Y.
KLEINE OPTICAL CO. - - - 166 N. State St., Chicago, Ill.
SOUTHERN THEATRE EQUIPMENT CO., 74 Marietta St., Atlanta, Ga. 1815 Main Street, Dallas, Tex.
E. E. FULTON CO., - - 154 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.
KANSAS CITY MACHINE & SUPPLY CO. 813 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo.
G. A. METCALFE - 117 Golden Gate Ave., San Francisco, Cal.

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1056, 1058).

IVAN FILM PRODUCTIONS.

October—Her Surrender (Drama).
November—The Sex Lure (Six parts—Drama).

KLEINE-EDISON-SELIG-ESSANAY.

Oct. 2—The Country That God Forgot (Selig—Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Return of Eve (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
October—World Series Baseball Film (Selig—Topical).
Oct. 30—The Heart of the Hills (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Prince of Graustark (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Cossack Whip (Edison—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Chaperon (Essanay—Five parts—Drama).

MORTIMER D. METCALFE.

Oct.—A Reunited Party (Two parts—Topical).

THE MOTION PICTURE FORUM.

Oct. 2—Motion Picture Portrait Studies of President Wilson and His Cabinet—the U. S. Government in Action.

SUNBEAM MOTION PICTURE CORPORATION.

Oct.—Somewhere in Georgia (Drama).

SELZNICK PICTURES.

October—The Price She Paid (Drama).
November—War Brides (Herbert Brenon—Dr.).
Nov.—The Foolish Virgin (Drama).
Nov.—Panthea (Drama).

WORLD PICTURES.

Nov. 6—The Heart of a Hero (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—Bought and Paid For (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Madness of Helen (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Men She Married (Five parts—Drama).

States Right Features

CALIFORNIA MOTION PICTURE CORP.

Nov.—The Woman Who Dared (Seven parts—Drama).

EUROPEAN FILM CO.

November Fighting for Verdun (Five parts—Topical).

GRAFTON PUBLISHING CO.

Oct.—Argonauts of California (Ten parts—Drama).

G. M. BAYNES.

Nov.—Kitchener's Great Army in the Battle of the Somme (Five parts—Dr.).

B. S. MOSS MOTION PICTURE COR.

Oct.—The Power of Evil (Drama).
November—Boots and Saddles (Drama).

MONARCH PHOTO-PLAY CO., INC.

October—Common Sense Brackett (Six parts—Drama).

PIONEER FEATURE FILM CORPORATION.

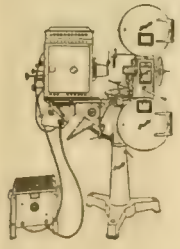
October—The Soul of a Child (Five parts—Dr.).

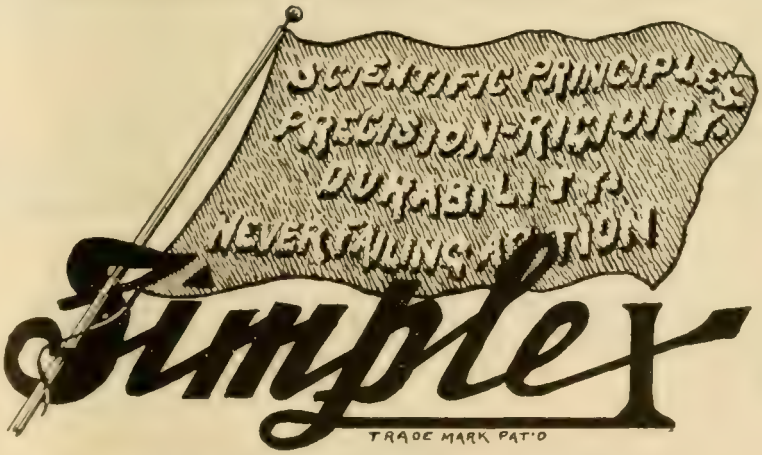
SHERMAN ELLIOTT, INC.

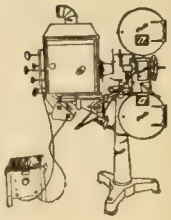
October—The Crisis (Selig—Seven parts—Dr.).

UNITY SALES CORPORATION.

Oct. 16—The Yellow Menace, No. 7, "Drops of Blood" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—A Scrambled Honeymoon (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Land Just Over Yonder (Six parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—The Yellow Menace, No. 8, "The Time Clock" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—Tweedledum's Busy Night (Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 30—The Yellow Menace, No. 9, "The Time Clock Bomb" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Yellow Menace, No. 10, "A Message from the Sky" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Humanizing Mr. Winsby (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Yellow Menace, No. 11, "The Half Breed's Hatred" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Yellow Menace, No. 12, "The Aeroplane Accident" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Yellow Menace, No. 13, "The Sky and the Submarine" (Two parts—Drama).
Dec. 4—The Yellow Menace, No. 14, "The Interrupted Nuptials" (Two parts—Drama).







"THE STANDARD"

Under which the SIMPLEX PROJECTOR was initiated and has been maintained

EMBRACES EVERYTHING NECESSARY TO PRODUCE PERFECT RESULTS

Send for Catalog "A"

Weekly Announcement
NEW SUN THEATRE
OMAHA, NEB.
SELECTS SIMPLEX

THE PRECISION MACHINE CO. INC.
317 East 34th St. New York

MEMBER
NATIONAL ASSOCIATION
MOTION PICTURE
INDUSTRY

It's the screen without name or character that some dealers sell because it pays them better

MIRROROID Installations to Date 9678 The World Over, the World's Best Theatres

Recommended and endorsed by the President of the NATIONAL EXHIBITORS' LEAGUE OF AMERICA (Mr. Lee A. Ochs) and the 9678 MIRROROID INSTALLATIONS.

FREE--Get Our Large Demonstration Samples--FREE

Test — Compare with any screen on earth — Use the brains God gave you — and the evidence of your own eyes.
Price, 33 1/3 Cents a Square Foot, $3.00 a Square Yard, the world over.
Mirroroid has been tried, and proven THE SCREEN SUPREME.
Why pay more for an unknown product?

If your dealer cannot supply you with MIRROROID, and tries to tell you any other screen is better, realize he is making a greater sales profit. None are as good — naturally, none can be better.
If you buy, you should insist upon that same Five-Year Guarantee that we give with every MIRROROID screen installed.
Think it over. Write

The J. H. GENTER COMPANY, Inc. Newburgh, N. Y.

THE WORLD'S OLDEST AND LARGEST PROJECTION SCREEN MANUFACTURER

Projection Engineer

Is your screen result unsatisfactory?
Is your projection current costing too much?
Are you planning a new theatre?
Are you contemplating the purchase of new Equipment?

Theatre plans examined and suggestions made as to operating room location. Operating rooms planned, etc., etc. Will personally visit theatres in New York City or within 300 miles thereof. Fees moderate.

(YOU ALL KNOW HIM) F. H. RICHARDSON (YOU ALL KNOW HIM)

Room 1434, 22 E. 17th St., New York City

Perfect Developing and Printing

Negatives Delevoped . 1c ft.
Positive Printing . . . 4c ft.

TITLES in any language 5c complete per foot
Cards Free Tinting Free

Satisfaction guaranteed by our fifteen years' experience Special price on quantity orders

GUNBY BROS., Inc., 145 West 45th Street, New York City

The Universal Camera For Motion Photography

Write for Illustrated Catalogue

The UNIVERSAL CAMERA CO.
548 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago

Branches { 1697 Times Bldg., New York
831 Market St., San Francisco

Developing and Printing

Fireproof Laboratory

Expert and efficient service. Titles a specialty. In the heart of the business section. Finest indoor studio on the coast, equipped with indirect lighting, giving no glare or shadows. Rented by the day, week or month.

Superior Films Company
ROBERT A. BRACKETT, Manager
Entire 10th Floor
643 So. Olive Street, Los Angeles.

A Dependable Mailing List Service

Saves you from 30% to 50% in postage, etc. Reaches all or selected list of theatres in any territory. Includes name of exhibitor as well as the theatre in address. A list of publicity mediums desiring motion picture news. Unaffiliated exchanges looking for features. Supply houses that are properly characterized as such. Producers with address of studios, laboratories and offices. Information in advance of theatres being or to be built.
W74.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTORY COMPANY
80 Fifth Avenue, New York Phone 3227 Chelsea
425 Ashland Block, Chicago Phone 2003 Randolph
Addressing Multigraphing Printing Typewriting

HYDROQUINONE

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY

NEW YORK PHILADELPHIA CHICAGO

COOL & VENTILATE BY TYPHOONS

1544 BWAY. TYPHOON FAN COMPANY NEW YORK CITY

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON FEATURES AND MISCELLANEOUS PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1056, 1058)

(Mutual Releases continued from page 1074.)

SIGNAL FILM CORPORATION.
Oct. 30—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 2, "The Wreck in the Fog" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—A Lass of the Lumberlands, No. 3, "First Blood" (Two parts—Drama).

VOGUE.
Oct. 29—He Died and He Didn't (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov 5—Bungling Bill's Bow-Wow (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 12—Picture Pirates (Two parts—Com.).
Nov 19—Lost Strayed or Stolen (Two parts—Comedy).

Metro Pictures Corporation.

COLUMBIA.
Oct. 30—The Gates of Eden (Five parts—Dr.).

POPULAR PLAYS AND PLAYERS.
Oct. 26—The Iron Woman (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—Extravagance (Five parts—Drama).

QUALITY.
Oct. 16—In the Diplomatic Service (Five parts—Drama).
October—Romeo and Juliet (Five Parts—Dr.) (Special Release).

ROLFE.
Oct. 23—The Brand of Cowardice (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Wager (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 27—Sunbeam (Five parts—Drama).

YORKE.
Nov. 20—Big Tremaine (Five parts—Dr.).

Paramount Pictures Corp.

BLACK DIAMOND COMEDIES.
Oct. 16—Bridget's Blunder (Comedy).
Oct. 30—A Troublesome Trip (Comedy).

FAMOUS PLAYERS.
Nov. 2—Seventeen (Five parts—Comedy-Dr.).
Nov. 20—Miss George Washington (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—Nanette of the Wilds (Five parts—Drama).

LASKY.
Oct. 26—The Heir to the Hoorah (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Soul of Kurl San (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Unprotected (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Plow Girl (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 16—The Years of the Locust (Five parts—Drama).

PALLAS.
Oct. 9—The Intrigue (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Son of Erin (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT.
Nov. 30—Martyrdom of Phillip Strong (Five parts—Drama).

PARAMOUNT-BRAY CARTOONS.
Nov. 1—Greenland's Icy Mountains (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 8—Farmer Al Falfa Sees New York (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 15—Colonel Heeza Liar Hobo (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 22—Bobby Bumps Queers the Choir (Cartoon—Comedy).

PARAMOUNT-BURTON HOLMES.
Oct. 30—Vesuvius in Eruption (Scenic).
Nov. 6—In Classic Greece (Scenic).
Nov. 13—In Modern Athens (Scenic).
Nov 20—British Egypt (Scenic).
Nov 27—The Real Streets of Cairo (Scenic).

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

ASTRA.
Nov. 5—The Shielding Shadow No. 6 "The Disappearing Prisoners" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—The Shielding Shadow, No. 7, "The Awakening" (Two parts—Dr.)
Nov. 19—The Shielding Shadow No. 8, "The Haunting Hand" (Two parts—Dr.).

GOLD ROOSTER PLAYS.
July 17—The Shadow of Her Past (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 29—The Sultana (Five parts—Comedy-Drama) (Colored).
Nov. 5—The Hidden Valley (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—Shadows and Sunshine (Five parts—Comedy—Drama).
Nov 19—The World and the Woman (Five parts—Drama).

PATHE.
Oct. 29—The Moth and the Flame (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Scratch of the Pen (Two parts—Drama).
Historic New Orleans (Scenic).
Nov. 5—Fowls and Game Birds (Educational—Colored).
Nov. 12—Florence Rose Fashions, No. 8, "A Day in New York with Betty" (Fashion).
Nov. 12—Baseball's Peerless Leader (Two parts—Drama) (Reissue).
Nov. 19—The Warning (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—A City's Milk Supply (Industry).
—Here and There in Spain (Scenic—Colored).

PATHE NEWS.
Nov. 4—Number 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 90, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 11—Number 91, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 15—Number 92, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 18—Number 93, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 22—Number 94, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 25—Number 95, 1916 (Topical).

ROLIN.
Oct. 29—Luke, the Chauffeur (Comedy).
Nov. 5—Luke's Preparedness Preparation (Comedy).
Nov. 12—Luke—Gladiator (Comedy).
Nov. 19—Luke Patient Provider (Comedy).

Triangle Film Corporation.

FINE ARTS.
Oct. 29—A Sister of Six (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—Atta Boy's Last Race (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—American Aristocracy (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—The Microscopic Mystery (Five parts—Drama).

INCE.
Oct. 29—Somewhere in France (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—A Corner in Colleens (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 12—Jim Grimsby's Boy (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 19—The Honorable Algy (Five parts—Drama).

Unicorn Film Service.

BUFFALO.
Oct. 16—The Slumbering Memory (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 22—The Honor of the Tribe (Two parts—Drama).

HIAWATHA.
Oct. 18—Fear (Three parts—Drama).

GAYETY.
Oct. 17—Wife's Frame-Up (Comedy).

JOCKEY.
Oct. 17—The Foolish Romance (Two parts—Comedy).

JUDY.
Oct. 7—The Model (Comedy).
Oct. 16—The Lost Ring (Comedy).
—U. S. Fighting Craft (Educational).
Oct. 19—Over the Hills (Comedy).
Oct. 22—Disposing of a Lover (Comedy).

LILY.
Oct. 3—Thru the Wall (Drama).
Oct. 8—The Web (Three parts—Drama).

PURITAN.
Oct. 6—The Live Corpse (Comedy).
Oct. 19—The Honor of the Gardells (Two parts—Drama).

SUNSET.
Oct. 5—A Daring Mission (Drama).

SUPREME.
Oct. 2—Pen and Sword (Two parts—Drama)
Oct. 6—The Guilty One (Two parts—Drama).

UTAH.
Oct. 21—When Hands are Idle (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 21—The Vengeance of Dan McGrew (Drama).

Feature Releases

ARTCRAFT PICTURES CORP.
Nov. 6—Less Than the Dust (Mary Pickford—Six parts—Drama).

CHRISTIE FILM CO.
Oct. 16—The Making Over of Mother (Comedy).
Oct 23—He Loved the Ladies (Comedy).
Nov. 13—His Friend, the Elephant (Comedy).

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORPORATION.
Oct. 30—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 11 Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 12 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Crimson Stain Mystery, No. 13 (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Crimson Stain Mystery No. 14 (Two parts—Drama).

EXCLUSIVE FEATURES INC.
October—La Tosca (Two parts—Drama).

FOX FILM CORPORATION.
Oct. 23—Romeo and Juliet (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—Sins of Her Parent (Five parts—Dr.).
Nov. 13—The Mediator (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—Jealousy (Five parts—Drama).

FROHMAN AMUSEMENT CORP.
October—The Conquest of Canaan (Drama)
November—The Witching Hour (Seven parts—Drama).

GREATER VITAGRAPH (V-L-S-E, INC.).
Oct. 30—Scarlet Runner, No. 5, "The Jacobean House" Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Last Man (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Scarlet Runner, No. 6, "The Mysterious Motor Car" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Devil's Prize (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Scarlet Runner No. 7 "The Red Whiskered Man" Vitagraph (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Price of Fame (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Second Mrs. Tanqueray (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Scarlet Runner, No. 8, "The Glove and the King" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—An Enemy to the King (Vitagraph—Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Scarlet Runner, No. 9, "The Gold Cigarette Case" (Vitagraph—Two parts—Drama).

HERALD FILM CORPORATION.
October.—Prima Donna's Husband (Five parts—Drama).

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE, INC.
Oct. 30—Beatrice Fairfax, No. 13, "The Ringer" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 87, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 2—Hearst-International News Pictorial No. 88, 1916. (Topical).
Nov. 2—The Ocean Waif (Golden Eagle—Five parts—Comedy-Drama).
Nov 6—Beatrice Fairfax No. 14 "The Hidden Menace" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 7—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 9—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 90, 1916 (Topical).
Nov 13—Beatrice Fairfax No. 15 (Two parts—Drama
Nov 13—The Jockey of Death. (Milano Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 14—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 91, 1916 (Topical).
Nov 16—Hearst-International News Pictorial, No. 92, 1916 (Topical).

It Isn't Too Late to Install A TRANSVERTER

IF your projection light is not what it should be—if your pictures are blurred, dim and flickering—if you're not getting your full share of the immense fall business, you still have time to bring your equipment up to date by installing the

TransVerteR
TRADE MARK

The Transverter is a motor generator and the most practical device on the market for producing a superior projection light. All modern theatres, old and new, are installing the Transverter because it insures a strong, brilliant, steady light that is always under perfect control of the operator.

We are prepared to make deliveries in two or three weeks' time. If you order at once you can have it installed in time to get the cream of the business in your section.

Write today for September Bulletin, which gives information and net prices.

The Hertner Electric & Mfg. Company
1908 West 114th Street, Cleveland, Ohio

A Lens That Pays Big Profits

The quality of your lens has a very direct effect on the quantity of your profits. Get the utmost value from the footage you pay for—give your patrons the sharp, clear, interesting pictures they want—and your profit follows naturally.

Bausch and Lomb Projection Lenses

are an investment certainly worth while—as has been proved by every owner who has installed them. Operators, too, will tell you that Bausch & Lomb objectives and condensers give superior results with lens troubles all cut out.

Edison and Nicholas Power machines are regularly equipped with Bausch & Lomb Lenses. Your film exchange can get them for you.

Bausch & Lomb Optical Co.
566 ST. PAUL STREET ROCHESTER, N.Y.

New York Washington Chicago San Francisco

Leading American Makers of Photographic and Ophthalmic Lenses, Microscopes, Projection Lanterns (Balopticons) and other high grade optical products.

WE ARE CRANKS

On Good Service--and WE HAVE THE GOODS

If it's in the line of

Motion Picture Supplies

NOW--IT'S UP TO YOU to write our nearest office for

THAT CATALOG

ERKER'S

35 East Grand River, DETROIT, MICH. | 608 Olive Street, ST. LOUIS, MO.

MOTION PICTURE ELECTRICITY

By J. H. HALLBERG

THIS WORK COVERS

ELECTRICITY
ELECTRIC SERVICE
ELECTRICAL EQUIPMENT
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS
REFERENCE TABLES, ETC.

An up-to-date treatment of Moving Picture Theater Electric Installation and Projection, by a practical, experienced, electrical expert.

Illustrated and Substantially Bound. 280 Pages. $2.50 per Copy. Postage Paid.

MOVING PICTURE WORLD
17 Madison Avenue New York

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON UNIVERSAL AND MUTUAL PROGRAMS

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1056, 1058)

Universal Film Mfg. Co.

ANIMATED WEEKLY.

Nov. 8—Number 45 (Topical).
Nov. 15—Number 46 (Topical).
Nov. 22—Number 47 (Topical).

BIG U.

Nov. 5—The Bandit's Wager (Comedy—Dr.).
Nov. 10—The Evidence, (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 12—The Powder Trail (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).
Nov. 15—The Torment (Drama) (Special).
Nov. 16—Life's Maelstrom (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 17—The Long Search (Drama) (Special)
Nov. 23—No release this day.
Nov. 23—Accusing Evidence (Drama) (Special).
Nov. 26—The Heroine of San Juan (Two parts—Drama) (Special).

BISON.

Nov. 4—For Love and Gold (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 11—The Quitter, (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Son of a Rebel Chief (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 25—The Lost Lode (Two parts—Drama).

GOLD SEAL.

Oct. 31—The Masked Woman (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 8—The Cry of Conscience, (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 14—Honor Thy Country (Thre parts—Drama).
Nov. 21—The Woman He Feared (Three parts—Drama).

IMP.

Nov. 3—Stumbling (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 5—The Secret Cellar (Two parts—Dr.) (Special release).
Nov. 7—The Voice Upstairs, (Drama).
Nov. 10—The Eel (Two parts—Drama).
Nov 17—Guilty (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 19—No release this day.
Nov. 19—The Thread of Life (Two parts—Drama) (Special).
Nov. 22—When He Came Back (Drama.
Nov. 24—Circumstantial Guilt (Two parts—Drama.)
Nov. 26—No release this day.

JOKER.

Nov. 4—A Shadowed Shadow (Comedy).
Nov. 11—In Love With a Fireman (Comedy).
Nov. 18—Their First Arrest (Comedy).
Nov. 25—A Janitor's Vendetta (Comedy).

LAEMMLE

Oct. 28—(No release this day).
Nov. 1—The Midnight Toll (Drama) (Special Release).
Nov. 2—Her Wedding Day (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov 4—No release this day.
Nov. 11—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Shadows of Suspicion (Drama).
Nov. 15—No release this day.
Nov 18—No release this day
Nov 23—The Emerald Pin (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov 25—No release this day.
Nov. 25—Her Message to Heaven (Drama).

L-KO.

Oct. 25—A Rural Romance (Two parts—Com.).—An Alligator Hunt (Dittmar's Educational).
Nov. 1—Terrors of a Turkish Bath (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 5—No release this day.
Nov. 7—Alice in Society (Three parts—Comedy).
Nov. 8—No release this day.
Nov. 12—No release this day.
Nov. 15—A Million Dollar Smash (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 22—Where Is My Wife? (Two parts—Comedy).

NESTOR.

Oct. 30—Love and a Liar (Comedy).
Nov. 6—A Political Tramp (Comedy).
Nov. 10—Sweedy, The Janitor (Comedy).
Nov. 13—Knights of the Bath Tub (Comedy).
Nov. 17—A Capable Lady Cook (Comedy).
Nov. 20—How Do You Feel? (Comedy).
Nov. 24—Married a Year (Comedy).

POWERS.

Nov. 3—Us Kids (Comedy).
Nov. 9—High Life on a Farm with Hy Mayer (Cartoon—Educational).
Nov. 16—Motor Mat and his Flivver (Com.-Cartoon).—Modernizing Ceylon (Educational).
Nov. 23—Irma in Wonderland (Comedy—Drama).
Nov. 26—Sammy Johnson at the Sea Side (Cartoon—Comedy).—In and Around Ancient Japan (Educational).

RED FEATHER.

Oct. 23—The Black Sheep of the Family (Five parts—Drama).
Oct. 30—The Isle of Life (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—The Place Beyond the Winds (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—The Heritage of Hate (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Devil's Bondwoman (Five parts—Drama).

REX.

Oct. 15—No release this day.
Oct. 20—The Gold Band (Drama).
Oct. 29—The Moving Finger (Drama).
Nov. 3—No release this day.
Nov. 5—Her Vanished Youth (Drama).
Nov. 9—The Mantle of Deceit (Two parts—Society—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Pen Trip to Palestine (Educ.).
Nov. 10—The Eyes of Love (Drama).
Nov. 16—The Diamond Lure (Drama).
Nov. 17—No release this day.
Nov. 18—Lost in Babylon (Drama).
Nov. 26—No release this day.

VICTOR.

Oct. 24—Kitty from the City (Drama) (Special Release).
Oct. 27—A Plumber's Waterloo (Comedy).
Oct. 29—The Burglar (Comedy).
Oct. 31—Felix on the Job (Comedy) (Special Release).
Nov. 7—No release this day.
Nov. 9—No release this day.
Nov. 12—Any Old Duke'll Do (Comedy).
Nov. 14—No release this day.
Nov. 14—A Case of Beans (Comedy) (Special).
Nov. 19—Her Chance (Comedy).
Nov. 21—No release this day.
Nov. 21—Felix Gets in Wrong (Comedy) (Special).

UNIVERSAL SCREEN MAGAZINE.

Nov. 24—Number 1.

UNIVERSAL SPECIAL FEATURE.

Oct. 9—Liberty No. 9, "Trapped," (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 12—Behind Life's Stage (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 16—Fame at Last (No. 10 of "Timothy Dobbs, That's Me"—Two parts—Comedy).
Oct. 16—Liberty No. 10, "The Human Targets" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Liberty No. 11, "A Daughter of Mars" (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 24—Society Hypocrites (Three parts—Dr.).
Oct. 30—Liberty No. 12, "For the Flag" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Liberty No. 13 "Strife and Sorrow" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—Liberty No. 14, "A Modern Joan of Arc" (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 14—Honor Thy Country (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—Liberty No. 15, "The Flag of Truce" (Two parts—Drama).

UNIVERSAL (STATE RIGHTS).

October—Idle Wives (Seven parts—Drama).

Bluebird Photoplay, Inc.

Oct. 30—The End of the Rainbow (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 6—Gloriana (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 13—A Stranger from Somewhere (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 20—The Measure of a Man (Five parts—Drama).
Nov. 27—The Bugler of Algiers (Five parts—Drama).

Mutual Film Corp.

AMERICAN.

Oct. 9—Citizens, All (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 16—The Franchise (Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 23—Professor Jeremey's Experiment (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—The Fight on the Dam (Drama).

BEAUTY.

Oct. 10—That Sharp Note (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Last Thrust (Comedy).
Oct. 31—The Spartan Spleen (Comedy).

CUB.

Oct. 20—He Wouldn't Tip (Comedy).
Oct. 21—That Doggone Baby (Comedy).
Oct. 21—The Deacon's Widow (Comedy).
Oct. 27—Lovers and Lunatics (Comedy).
Oct. 28—Dad's Masterpiece (Comedy).
Oct. 28—When Clubs Were Trumps (Comedy).
Nov. 3—Nearly a Hero (Comedy).
Nov. 10—His Blushing Bride (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Her Sun-Kissed Hero (Comedy).

ECLAIR.

Nov. 4—The Eternal Challenge (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 11—The Unpardonable Sin (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Bad Samaritan (Two parts—Drama).

FILM D-ART.

Nov. 6—The Ten O'clock Mystery (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 16—Title to be announced later.

GAUMONT.

Oct. 18—See America First, No. 58 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Oct. 19—Stepping Westward (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 22—Reel Life No. 25 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Oct. 25—See America First, No. 59 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).
Oct. 29—Reel Life, No. 26 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 1—See America First No. 60 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 5—Reel Life No. 27 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 7—Mutual World Tours (Travel).
Nov. 8—See America First, No. 61 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon-Comedy).
Nov. 12—Reel Life, No. 28 (Mutual Film Magazine).
Nov. 14—Mutual Tours of the World (Travel).
Nov. 15—See America First, No 62 (Scenic).—Kartoon Komics (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 19—Reel Life No. 29 (Mutual Film Magazine).

MUTUAL.

Oct. 24—The Folly of Fear (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 26—At Twelve O'clock (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct 30—The Frame-Up (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 9—A Mountain Daisy (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 13—His Guardian Angel (Two parts—Drama).

MUTUAL WEEKLY.

Oct. 18—Number 94 (Topical).
Oct. 25—Number 95 (Topical).
Nov. 1—Number 96 (Topical).
Nov. 8—Number 97 (Topical).
Nov. 15—Number 98 (Topical).

MUTUAL CHAPLIN.

The Vagabond (Two parts—Comedy).
One A. M. (Two parts—Comedy).
The Pawnshop (Two parts—Comedy).

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURES DE LUXE.

Oct. 23—The Undertow (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 146).
Nov. 6—And the Law Says? (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 150).
Nov. 9—East Is East (Turner—Five parts—Drama) (No. 151).
Nov. 16—Immediate Lee (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 153).

MUTUAL STAR PRODUCTIONS.

Oct. 30—Faith (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 148).
Nov. 2—The Pearl of Paradise (Five parts—Drama) (No. 149).
Nov. 13—Peck o' Pickles (American—Five parts—Drama) (No. 152).

(Mutual Releases continued on page 1076.)

Fine Clothes

won't keep your friends. There must be something back of it. A fancy front on a theatre will attract customers. But steady patrons depend on the quality of pictures you give them. Good pictures require good light.

The Wagner Converter

is the best medium of good light and steady patrons. Bulletin 10923.

Wagner Electric Manufacturing Company.
Saint Louis, Missouri

359 for sale—

or rent—

A first class complete moving picture laboratory, consisting of perforating, printing, positive and negative developing, washing, drying, assembling, inspection and projection rooms; shipping department, vaults, offices, etc.

The plant is equipped with air conditioning and ventilating apparatus; developing and washing tanks are installed complete. The drying-room is equipped with five 10-feet drying drums. In fact, the plant can be made ready within 12 hours to turn out a half million feet of film per week. Address William V. Saxe, Stanchfield & Levy, 120 Broadway, New York.

India, Burma and Ceylon
Notice to All Cinema Showmen

We, the Undersigned, have received exclusive rights to exhibit and deal in general in the following films in INDIA, BURMA and CEYLON:

THE GIRL FROM FRISCO	A serial film from Kalem Co.
DIANA	From the Varion Films Inc.

Notice is therefore given to all whomsoever it may concern that immediate proceedings will be taken against any person or persons found dealing or exhibiting new or second copies of the said films in the said territories, on their entire account and risk as to all cost and consequences; as also they will be held responsible for any loss we may sustain through their dealings or efforts to deal or exhibit the same.

K. D. & BROTHERS.

This communication is published according to instructions from THE HAWK FILM COMPANY, 145 W. 45th St., New York City

List of Current Film Release Dates

ON GENERAL FILM COMPANY PROGRAM

(For Daily Calendar of Program Releases See Pages 1056, 1058)

General Film Company

RELEASE DAYS.

Monday—Biograph, Selig, Vitagraph.

Tuesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem

Wednesday—Biograph, Essanay, Kalem, Vim Feature Comedy.

Thursday—Selig, Vim.

Friday—Kalem, Knickerbocker, Vim, Vitagraph

Saturday—Essanay, Kalem, Selig, Vitagraph.

BIOGRAPH.

Nov. 6—The New York Hat (Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 95).
Nov. 7—The Science of Crime (Two parts—Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 96).
Nov. 13—Near to Earth (Drama) (Biograph Reissue No. 97).
Nov. 15—Lord Chumley (Three parts—Dr.) (Biograph Reissue No. 98).
Nov. 20—Fish (Comedy)
Nov. 21—Oil and Water (Two parts Drama) (Biograph—Reissue No. 99).

ESSANAY.

Oct. 21—Essanay-Chaplin Revue of 1916, arranged from "The Tramp," "His New Job," "A Night Out" (Five parts—Comedy).
Oct. 24—Borrowed Sunshine (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 25—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 18 (Cartoon—Comedy).
—A scenic subject on the same reel.
Oct. 28—It Never Could Happen (Three parts—Drama).
Oct. 31—The Beach Comber (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 1—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 19 (Cartoon—Comedy).
Nov. 4—The Heart of Virginia Keep (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 7—Easy Ed (Two parts—Comedy).
Nov. 8—A Safe Proposition (Comedy).
Nov. 11—What I Said Goes (Three parts—Dr.).
Nov 14 Not In the News (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 15—Canimated Nooz Pictorial No. 20 (Cartoon Comedy)—A Scenic Subject on the same reel
Nov 18 His Moral Code (Three parts—Drama).

KALEM.

Oct. 24—The Bogus Booking Agents (Comedy).
Oct. 25—The Harvest of Gold (No 12 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Drama).
Oct. 27—The Missing Heiress (No. 2 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Oct. 28—Hazards of Helen Railroad Series No. 103, "The Lost Messenger" (Dr.).
Oct. 31—The Merry Motor Menders (Com.).
Nov. 1—The Son of Cain (No. 13 of the "Girl from 'Frisco"—Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 3—The Pencil Clue (No 3 of "Grant, Police Reporter"—Drama).
Nov. 4—"Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series No. 104, "The Gate of Death" (Drama).
Nov. 7—A Desperate Duel (Comedy).
Nov. 8—The Witch of the Dark House (No. 14 of the Girl from Frisco) (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 10—The Man from Yukon (No. 4 of Grant, Police Reporter) (Drama).
Nov. 11—Hazards of Helen railroad series No. 105 "The Lone Point Mystery."
Nov 14 The New Salesman (Comedy).
Nov. 15—The Mystery of the Brass Bound Chest (No. 15 of "The Girl From Frisco") (Two parts—Drama).
Nov 17—The Rogues Pawn (No 5 of "Grant, Police Reporter") (Drama).
Nov. 18 The Runaway Sleeper, No. 106 of the "Hazards of Helen" Railroad Series) (Drama).

SELIG.

Oct. 19—The Selig-Tribune, No. 84, 1916 (Topical).
Oct. 21—An Eventful Evening (Comedy).
Oct. 23—Out of the Shadows (Two parts—Dr.).
Oct. 23—The Selig-Tribune, No. 85, 1916 (Top.).
Oct. 26—The Selig-Tribune, No. 86, 1916 (Top.).
Oct. 28—A Close Call (Drama).
Oct. 30—Small Town Stuff (Three parts—Com.).
Oct. 30—The Selig-Tribune, No. 87, 1916 (Top.).
Nov. 2—The Selig-Tribune, No. 88, 1916 (Top.).
Nov. 5—Tom's Sacrifice (Drama).
Nov. 6—So Shall Ye Reap (Two parts—Dr.).
Nov. 6—The Selig-Tribune No. 89, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 9—The Selig-Tribune No. 90, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 11—When Cupid Slipped (Comedy).
Nov. 13—The Temptation of Adam (Three parts—Drama)
Nov. 13—The Selig-Tribune No. 91, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 16—The Selig-Tribune No. 92, 1916 (Topical).
Nov. 18—The Girl Detective (Drama).

VIM FEATURE COMEDY.

Oct. 11—Their Installment Furniture (Com.).
Oct. 18—A Persistent Wooing (Comedy).
Oct. 25—Green Eyes (Comedy).
Nov. 1—Gertie's Garters (Comedy)
Nov 8 Marked No Funds (Comedy)
Nov. 15—His Wedding Promise (Comedy).

VIM.

Oct. 26—A Maid to Order (Comedy).
Oct. 27—The Frame-Up (Comedy).
Nov. 2—Twin Flats (Comedy).
Nov. 3—In the Ranks (Comedy).
Nov. 9—A Warm Reception (Comedy).
Nov. 10—Hot Dogs (Comedy).
Nov. 16 Pipe Dreams (Comedy).
Nov. 17—Good and Proper (Comedy).

VITAGRAPH.

Oct. 23—Trouble for Four (Comedy).
Oct. 27—Betty's Affair (Comedy).
Oct. 30—The New Porter (Comedy).
Nov. 3—The Game that Failed (Comedy).
Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).
Nov. 6—New York Rapid Transit (Comedy).
Nov. 10—Weary Willie's Birthday (Comedy).
Nov. 13—The Second Story Ringer (Comedy).
Nov. 17—The Luck of Jane (Comedy).
Nov. 18—The Man Who Went Sane (Three parts—Drama) (Broadway Star Feature).
Nov. 20—The Fasters (Comemdy).
Nov. 24—Justice A La Carte (Comedy).

General Film Company Features

BROADWAY STAR FEATURES.

Nov. 4—The Heart of a Fool (Vitagraph—Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 18—The Who Went Sane (Vitagraph—Three parts—Drama).

KNICKERBOCKER STAR FEATURES.

Oct. 27—The Chorus Girl and the Kid (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 3—Jess of the Hill Country (Two parts—Drama).
Nov. 10—The Question Mark (Three parts—Drama).
Nov. 17—Target of Dreams (Two parts—Drama).

A Welcome Visitor Each Week in Every Business Home Where Moving Pictures Are of Interest

The Moving Picture World

Is Admirably Adapted to Carry Any Little Message Which You May Wish to Send

Our Classified Advertisements at Five Cents Per Word
Will Produce Remarkable Results —One Dollar for Twenty Words or Less.

Send Copy, with remittance, to CHALMERS PUBLISHING CO., 17 Madison Avenue, New York City

Classified Advertisements

NOTE OUR NEW RATES!

Remittances must accompany all orders as follows: One dollar per insertion for copy containing twenty words or less. Five cents per word on copy containing over twenty words. Each word to be counted including names and addresses.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

SITUATIONS WANTED.

DIRECTOR—Experienced actor-director at liberty shortly. No dreamer, but capable with new ideas. Will play small parts and assist director until ability is proven. References. Ability, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

CAMERAMAN at liberty, equipped with finest camera and lenses money can buy. Reliable Cameraman, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

REMARKABLE OPPORTUNITY—A manager, very successful, and his assistant, an expert organist, Photoplayer or Wurlitzer operator, music composer and improviser, are looking for a change. Both men are now employed, are of the best class and references, of serious mind and complete business training and experience. We guarantee results but will only consider first-class house. Will consider any part of the U. S., but Pacific Coast preferred. Full particulars sent on request. Address H., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

MOTION PICTURE DIRECTOR invites offers. Four years' experience. At present working on five-reel features. Director, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

HELP WANTED.

A LARGE MANUFACTURER desires to get in touch with motion picture camera men in all sections of the country at once. Write full details, with evidence of high-class work. B., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES.

PARTNER WANTED—Investigate. An exceptional opportunity for a live wire manager to buy an interest and manage a big combination picture and stock theater in a good show town. Small cash payment down, balance easy payments. Seating capacity seven hundred. City population, ten thousand; county, twenty-five thousand. Larger investments demanding my time and attention. Address H. R. J., Jr., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

WILL RENT OR SELL, for a moving picture theater room sixty by one hudred and fifty, Philipsburg, Pa. Population, four thousand, no picture house in town. Address C. B. Gleckler, Punxsutawney, Pa.

THEATERS WANTED.

CASH FOR YOUR MOVIE—I am a practical successful moving picture broker. Seventeen years of continuous success. Selling upwards of one million dollars' worth annually, sales, exchanges and leases. Lewis, the Moving Picture Broker, Est. 1896. Office, 578-80 Ellicott Sq., Buffalo, N. Y.

WANTED, TO RENT, ONE DAY MONTHLY, FIRST-CLASS PICTURE THEATER SEATING OVER SIX HUNDRED IN CITIES OVER FIVE THOUSAND, FOR CELEBRATED ELMENDORF TRAVEL TALKS, WORLD'S GREATEST PICTURES WITH LECTURER, GIVEN UNDER AUSPICES OF CHURCHES OF YOUR CITY. STATE RENTAL AND FULL PARTICULARS. WILL DRAW THE BEST PEOPLE OF YOUR CITY TO YOUR THEATER. ELMENDORF TRAVEL TALKS, INC., SCHILLER BLDG., CHICAGO, ILL.

THEATERS FOR SALE OR RENT.

FOR A QUICK SALE will sell at a sacrifice, a modern new theater and office building. The prettiest building of its kind in Florida. Unless you can raise ten thousand save stamps. For full particulars, write B. D. Robinson, Sarasota, Florida.

FOR SALE—Picture show, best town Southern Illinois, 500 seats, 13,000 population, brick building. Everything bear inspection. A., care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—First-class moving picture theater, modernly equipped. Good location in the city of Louisville. If interested, address E. D. Bennett, 1103 Inter-Southern Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

SPLENDID CHANCE to purchase moving picture and vaudeville theater. (Brick building) seats 800, large stage, only house in town of 6,000 inhabitants. Fully equipped. Now in operation. Free & Brannigan, Tarrytown, N. Y.

FOR SALE—A new theater in city 70,000, with best equipment money can buy, on reasonable terms. Address Fogarty, care M. P. World, N. Y. City.

FOR SALE—Two 40 ampere type No. 115,672 General Electric Mercury Arc Rectifiers complete with extra relays, hand regulators and enclosed fuses. Full 50 amps. D. C. at arc guaranteed. Price $125 each. Collins & Hill, 10 S. La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR SALE—Slightly used Simplex projectors, guaranteed perfect and good as new at reasonable prices. Second-hand Motiograph in good condition, cheap. Room 206, 1482 Broadway, N. Y. City.

BARGAINS Slightly used Simplex, Power's and Motiograph machines. Lowest prices—fully guaranteed. Hallberg, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

EQUIPMENT WANTED.

WANTED—Power's 6A motor driven moving picture machine, with inductor, slightly used, must be cheap. Chas. F. Behr, Roosevelt, L. I., N. Y.

EQUIPMENT FOR SALE.

3,000 OPERA CHAIRS, steel and cast frames, 60c. up. All serviceable goods, cut prices on new chairs. 6 standard asbestos booths. Send for weekly list of close outs and save half. J. P. Redington, Scranton, Pa.

FOR SALE—One Edison Home Kinetoscope with several film subjects and book of exchange coupons, $50, one model 2-E Victor portable stereopticon electric equipment, $20; one Victor cinematograph projector, $60. All of above shop worn only. Only cash considered. F. E. Slocum, 401 Main St., Peoria, Ill.

OPERA CHAIRS, 3,500 slightly used, 40c. up. 600 upholstered $1.00 each. New opera and maple folding at direct factory prices. Atlas Seating Co., 10 East 43d St., N. Y. City.

CAMERAS, ETC., FOR SALE.

PROFESSIONAL CAMERAS, tripods, perforators, printers, developing outfits, rewinders, tessars, effect devices, novelties, experimental workshop, repair, expert film work, titles. Eberhard Schneider, 14th St. & Second Ave., N. Y. City.

PRESTWICH, 200 ft., Carl Zeiss lens, 50 MM. F:3.5, tripod with tilt and panorama. R. W. Burke, 1616 So. M., Tacoma, Wash.

PRESTWICK MODEL 5. Precision Tripod tilting and pamorama; two aluminum, two wood magazines, cases complete. Tom Phillips, 5728 S. State St., Chicago, Ill.

THE MOTION PICTURE CAMERA Clearing House offers the biggest values possible in high-grade tested Cinematograph Cameras. Read this list carefully, then act at once. 1st: 100 ft. Ernemann M. P. Camera, equipped with Ernemann F:3.5 Anastigmat lens, $50.00. 2d: 100 ft. Ensign M. P. Camera, equipped with Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 Anastigmat lens, carrying case and tripod, complete $75.00. 3d: 150 ft. Vista M. P. Camera, equipped with F:6 lens and extra magazine, price $32.50. 4th: 200 ft. Kinograph De Luxe model, regular and trick crank, side focusing device, direct finder, teakwood case, equipped with Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens and 2 extra magazines, complete $85.00. 5th: 200 ft. Ernemann model A Professional M. P. Camera, leather covered, regular and trick crank, equipped with Ernemann F:3.5 lens, price, $110.00. 6th: 400 ft. capacity, Ernemann model B Professional, finest mechanism, all adjustments, forward or reverse, trick crank, film punch, magnifying focusing device, magnifying direct finder equipped with Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, price $225.00. 7th: 400 ft. Pathe M. P. Camera, Heliar F:4.5 lens, extra magazine, genuine Pathe Freres movement, price $125.00. 8th: 400 ft. Pathe Studio model, outside magazine, equipped with Genuine Carl Zeiss Tessar F:3.5 lens, outside diaphragm adjustment and dissolve, rear focusing device, film punch, regular and trick crank in back of camera, magnifying direct view finder, extra magazine and Studio tripod. An ideal Studio outfit. Price complete $450.00. 9th: 400 ft capacity Ernemann model B Professional, finest mechanism, all adjustments, forward or reverse, trick crank, film punch, magnifying focusing device, magnifying direct finder, equipped with 2" Ernemann F:3.5, 3" Helomar F:3.5, 4" Dallmeyer Telephoto F:4.5, with hand made panoram and tilt tripod, complete $325.00. 10th: 200 ft. capacity DAVSCO Professional Kino, the most compact and efficient camera on the market, aluminum magazines, very accurate movement, Tessar F:3.5 lens, price $110.00. Panoram and tilting tripods at $14.00, $25.00, $35.00 and $45.00. Detailed descriptions and specifications on request. Telegraphic orders shipped as soon as received. Motion picture camera users are taking advantage of our excellent service and exceptional values. Write or wire today. David Stern Company, The National Camera Exchange, 1047 R Madison St., Chicago.

MOTION PICTURE CAMERAS and tripods for sale and for rent. Cameramen furnished anywhere. H. R. Hoover & Co., 229 West 42nd St., N. Y. City.

FILMS WANTED.

WANTED for export, used films in good condition. Especially series. State price, etc., to F. Thomander, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

HIGHEST PRICES PAID for film scrap, discarded reels of films and perforations. Ship to and write The Nickelsburg Brothers Company, Meadow St., Newark, N. J. Checks mailed on receipt of goods.

WANTED—Four, five and six-reel features in first-class shape, with or without paper, also negatives. Federal Film Co., 145 W. 45th St., N. Y. C.

WANTED—Films depicting Alaskan scenery, hunting, mining, whaling; especially salmon industries and fishing. Quote price and describe fully. Address Leffingwell's Travel Talks, 931 Monadnock Block, Chicago, Ill.

WANTED—Developed negatives of educational and scientific subjects. Must be exceptional. State price, etc. Educational Films Corporation of America, 729 Seventh Ave., N. Y. City.

FILMS FOR SALE OR RENT.

OVER SEAS BUYERS should communicate with me, second-hand American pictures at European prices. Donald Campbell, 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

WE SPECIALIZE in used educational, industrial, scientific and scenic films. Good subjects at 1½c. per foot and up. We have what you want. Send for our lists and terms. New York Film Laboratories, Film Sales Dept., 145 West 45th St., N. Y. City.

ONE AND TWO-REEL subjects (Kriterion Brand), plenty posters, also features, first-class condition, full lobby displays. Bargains. Queen City Feature Film Co., 123½ Opera Pl., Cincinnati, Ohio.

FOR SALE—Largest and finest stock of film in this country, consisting of single reel comedies, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 reel features, totaling over five thousand reels. Splendid paper. These films are not old program releases. First come, first served. Act Quick. This is also wonderful opportunity for foreign buyers. Chicago Film Trading & Exporting Co., Shops Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS FOR SALE.

PIPE ORGAN FOR SALE — Three-manual, thirty-stop Karn-Warren pipe organ, with echo organ, harp, chimes, Vox Humana, electric action and detached console. This organ has roll attachment and would be just the thing for a picture house. The owner, finding the organ too powerful for his residence, is willing to dispose of it at a great sacrifice, in order to make room for a residence organ. For full information, specification, price, etc., address Pipe Organ, care M. P. World, Schiller Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

A RUDOLPH WURLITZER automatic piano-band orchestrion, 8 ft. by 6 ft. 6 diameter, 8 ft. high, used five years, good as new; cost, $5,100.00, sell for $2,000.00 cash. D. B., 491 State St., Bridgeport, Conn.

NOTICE TO ADVERTISERS:—The Publishers expect that all statements made in every advertisement will bear the strictest investigation.

on William, however, and sets out a dance with him during which he agrees to elope with him just for the fun of the thing. William takes the appointment seriously and gets a roadster by telling the salesman that he wants to test it out for his father. Miss Pratt meanwhile decides to elope with George Cooper at his car. When they reach the prearranged house they discover that George has forgotten the license and their relations is shattered by the quarrel which follows.

William while hastening in his new car to keep the appointment runs a tree and wrecks the machine. Running ahead on foot, he arrives at the designated spot only to find May Parcher there with the news of Miss Pratt's elopement. There is nothing left for William but suicide and he prepares to do it at home by the gas method planning to save his good name by willing his dear body to the Medical college. The proceeds to go to pay for the damage to the automobile. The timely arrival of May Parcher with fifty dollars received by the sale of her pet pony, saves William from the terrible consequences of his despair, and we find in his gratitude to May for her devotion the seeds of a new romance.

INTERNATIONAL FILM SERVICE.

HEARST INTERNATIONAL NEWS PICTORIAL, NO. 87 (Oct. 21).

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.—German authorities distribute soup to French families in public kitchen. The German armies, operating in the mountains, are compelled to move supplies from one base to another by means of donkey trains. General von Mackensen has become military idol of the German people.

SHADOW LAWN, N. J.—Women's Day is celebrated here by 12,000 persons who make a pilgrimage to the summer White House to hear the President speak and to see him shake hands with women and children of New York's East Side who called to congratulate the Executive on the passage of the Child Labor Law.

FORT SHERIDAN, Ill.—U. S. troops just back from the Mexican border camps when compelled to sleep in tents with cold breezes from Lake Michigan cause discomfort. Secretary of War Baker arrives at the post to settle with the mutineers.

FOOTLIGHTS AND FASHIONS.—Miss Mary Boland, of "Backfire," Lyceum Theatre, appears in gowns of her own recent creation.

SALONIKI, Greece.—Exclusive pictures by Arch L. Varges showing the Greek motorboat patrol questioning Greek fishermen. British wounded convalescing on board a hospital lighter. Allied troops attend a solemn religious service in the field. A field bakery turns out hundreds of loaves of bread to feed the soldiers of the allied forces.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt, campaigning for the Republican presidential ticket is given a rousing reception here by rough riders and cowboys.

NEW YORK CITY.—Nearly $500,000,000.00 in gold is received in this country on account of war munitions. Exclusive pictures demonstrate the methods of assaying the gold before it is accepted by American bankers.

THE JOCKEY OF DEATH.—Milano Five Parts. Nov. 13.—The cast: Elda (Mlle. Lydia), Henry (M. Arturo). Director, M. Lat.

Robert Thorne has illegally seized an ancestral castle and estate. Fifteen years later he is visited by Henry Claremont, a nephew of the man he poisoned, a cousin of the little countess whom Thorne has had abducted by a gypsy circus manager, and co-heir with the countess to the estate.

Thorne, represented in the picture as "The Masked Man," successfully plots to have Henry fall over a cliff while riding horseback. Henry is not killed, and while recovering from his injuries discovers a note which tells him that his uncle has been poisoned and that Thorne is a usurper. With the aid of a trusted servant, he sets out to find the missing countess and restore the estate to her. They take with them an ivory skeleton which is the family mascot.

As Henry and the servant sit in their room one night a jockey's cap falls from the top of a cupboard onto the head of the skeleton. This gives Henry an idea. He resolves to use his ability as a horseman and do an act with the big circuses the country over, billing himself as "The Jockey of Death." He hopes to encounter the gypsy circus manager and through him find the countess.

Six months later, the girl, now grown to womanhood, is recognized by the servant in the person of a little high wire performer named Elda then appearing on the same bill in the circus with "The Jockey." The gypsy circus manager, under the assumed name of Frank, is posing as her father.

Henry communicates with Elda, who is closely guarded by the gypsies, and tells her that she is really a countess and his cousin. Frank prevents her escape, but one night, at the close of her act, the jockey lowers a rope to the pedestal leading to her tight-rope. In view of the audience, she climbs the rope to the dome of the circus building and she and the jockey then start on a wild flight. Frank has informed the police that the jockey is an international spy, which, in reality, is the true role of the gypsy. The police join in the chase.

In the flight Elda and the jockey perform many daring feats to escape. They dive from a high railroad bridge, crawl onto a passing barge over the propeller, scale the trusses of another bridge, and, as a thrilling climax, ride a bicycle on a wire across a wide river. They finally get away and inform the authorities of the real plotters. The masked man encounters the skeleton and is frightened to death, and Frank, the gypsy, is imprisoned as a spy. The story ends with Elda and Henry taking possession of their estate.

CONSOLIDATED FILM CORP.

THE CRIMSON STAIN MYSTERY (Episode No. 11—"The Tortured Soul"—Two parts—Oct. 30).—More and more as the Crimson Stain gang perpetrate atrocities to the absolute discomfiture of the police, Dr. Montrose, considering himself as the fundamental cause, finds himself tortured by a guilty conscience. Asleep or awake there come to mock him visions of his victims—the Crimson Stain gang. Angered by Stanley's attacks in his newspaper, Parrish the detective complains to Dr. Montrose. His method of making his complaint creates suspicion in Florence's mind, and she resolves thereafter to watch him.

Shortly after, Robert Clayton calls to take Florence out for a ride in his new automobile. As he sits in the library waiting for them to return, Dr. Montrose is suddenly disturbed by an insidious thought. Something, perhaps it is mental telepathy, whispers to him that all is not well with Florence. As he goes outside to the porch he sees Clayton and Florence returning in their automobile. Suddenly a street urchin dashes in front of the machine and is knocked down. The child is brought into the house and Dr. Montrose finds his relief, after an examination that the boy is more scared than hurt.

Later Dr. Montrose goes out for a walk. As he is about to cross the street a taxicab whirls by him and he sees in it Pierre La Rue, Tanner and Kiel. Hailing a second taxi he gives chase. They arrive before a notorious dance hall. Dr. Montrose follows the gangsters in and sees them enter a private dining room.

For a long time the Doctor waits, and his patience finally becoming exhausted, he breaks down the door and enters. Pierre La Rue jumps out of the window, and Dr. Montrose shoving Tanner and Kiel aside chases after him. Pierre jumps into a taxicab and Dr. Montrose entering another gives chase. They are joined by two policemen, and regardless of the speed laws, this procession flies through the streets.

Reaching the Montrose home in Riverdale, Pierre flings some bills at his driver and jumps into the house colliding with Florence. Surprised, Florence screams. Pierre hesitates, and just as he is about to make good his escape the Doctor pounces upon him and tearing off his disguise reveals a startling development in "The Crimson Stain Mystery."

The police are at the door. Perhaps it is a desire on the Doctor's part to solve the mystery on his own account that prompts him to save this man. Pushing him behind some furniture, Dr. Montrose breaks a window, and as the police enter points to it and says Pierre escaped that way. After they are gone, the man disguised as Pierre goes up stairs while the Doctor and Florence gaze at him in astonishment.

UNITY SALES CORP.

THE YELLOW MENACE (Episode No. 12—"The Aeroplane Accident"—Two Parts—Nov. 20).—Seeing that Najla, beyond mercifully relieving his suffering, will have nothing more to do with him, the half-breed becomes madly jealous of Manning and the rest of Najla's cultured friends, and, though hating Ali Singh with all his soul, he resolves to betray Manning and Najla and warns Ali Singh of a plot which would have meant the Demon's death. Manning and the military authorities, upon learning that Ali Singh means to steal an army plane with a stabilizing device, resolve to let him succeed, as he must surely break his neck, owing to certain known defects in the machine. Hong Kong Harry, however, treacherously betrays this plan to Ali Singh, who manages to escape and save himself, though two of his trusted helpers are dashed to pieces as the aeroplane falls to the ground.

Powers 6B

We Equip Motion Picture Theatres Completely

Transverter

Your Projection Difficulties Solved

We Have Suggested Little Remedies to Hundreds of Exhibitors, Managers and Operators—We Do It for 10 Hours a Day Every Day—and It Is Through These Consultations and the Benefits Our Customers Have Derived from Them That We Have Established the Reputation as Foremost in the Art of

PROJECTION ENGINEERING

Write — Wire — Phone — Today To Our Engineering Department for Our Free Advice.

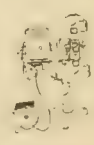
WE ARE DISTRIBUTORS FOR

NATIONAL AND SILVERTIP CARBONS

Send for Prices

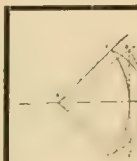
Picture Theatre Equipment Co., At 49th Street, 1604 Broadway

Member of the Society of Motion Picture Engineers



Simplex

Piteco Condensers
$5.00
Per Set



Piteco Condenser

in the sifting melting-pot of life. William looms brilliantly, a success, while John is deep in the discouraging shadows, a failure. Another span of fleeting years, and William attains the summit of a meteoric career; he is a candidate for the United States Senate. John (under an assumed name so that his brother is spared the relationship of the black sheep) holds a modest newspaper position in the same city where William's campaign is centered.

William falls sick and John, taking advantage of their resemblance, addresses an important meeting and sweeps the audience into frenzied enthusiasm. Sensing in John that which she has always missed in William, the latter's sweetheart confesses her love—thinking, of course, that she is speaking to William. Soon John finds himself facing the fact that he loves his brother's sweetheart. Fate's law is Heaven's justice—William is found dead by John—and what would have been his brother's now becomes John's, as a reward to his genius.

FOX FILM CORP.

SINS OF HER PARENT (Five Parts—Nov. 6).—The picture opens with the meeting between Richard Carver and Adrian Courtney in an art gallery. Adrian is standing before a portrait, whose subject resembles her so strikingly that Richard comments on it. After they have grown to know and love each other, Adrian confesses that the woman might have been her mother, of whom she knows little. Carver, Sr., will not sanction his son's marriage until he learns who her mother is, so Richard goes in search of her.

A clue brings him to Alaska, and he discovers the woman is Valerie Marchmont, a worthless dance hall habitue. McNeil, the saloon owner, does not like the growing friendship between Valerie and Richard, so he provokes a quarrel with the latter and shoots him. Shorty, a pal of Richard's, telegraphs Adrian and Robert Carver of the accident, and the two arrive in Alaska. The elder Carver recognizes Valerie as the secret wife of one of his friends, Arthur Heatherway, and knows that her maudlin condition has been brought on by neglect and abuse from Heatherway. Carver gives his consent to Adrian's marriage with Richard.

Then the party learns that Adrian has been imprisoned by McNeil in his cabin. They pursue and reach the place just as the girl is fighting off McNeil's attentions. A hand-to-hand combat follows. Valerie is wounded fatally, but with her last effort, she kills McNeil as he is overcoming Richard. Carver and his posse leave the cabin, with Adrian weeping softly by her dead mother, and Richard sitting by her side, comforting her.

THE MEDIATOR (Five Parts—Nov. 13).—The story concerns Lish Henley, an Arizona prospector, called the mediator, who shoots and wounds Higgins, the village bully. Higgins showed resentment when Lish ordered sody-pop at the bar. Lish learns of a town called Peaceful Hill, Cal., and decides that it will be an ideal home for him. En route to the place, he encounters a mob of strikers at Keswick, a mining settlement, and is forced to knock Big Bill, the leader, senseless.

Big Bill and his gang follow Lish to Peaceful Hill and try to pay back the man for old scores. Maggie, the waitress at the hotel where the mediator stops, saves Lish by serving him a revolver on a platter just as the mob enters. In the fight which ensues, the mediator trounces the striker and his gang again. Lish's victory is the beginning of a love affair between Maggie and himself.

Big Bill is enraged at having been beaten twice by the mediator and attempts to get him out of the way so that a shipment of rich ore may be stolen from a mine next Henley's own. Bill and his strong-arm crew capture Lish but he escapes from them in the mountains and returns to camp by the short, if desperately dangerous, route of a log flume.

He arrives in time to thwart the robbers' plans but is wounded in the combat which follows. Maggie nurses him back to health. The bully's gang is rounded up and the mediator and his bride Maggie, of course—find peace with the world at Peaceful Hill.

WORLD PICTURES.

THE HEART OF A HERO (Five Parts—Nov 6).—During the trying days for the Colonists just before the declaration of war with England, Nathan Hale, a splendid young man, conducts a small school in New London, Conn. In the midst of his school duties he finds time to fall in love with one of his pupils, Alice Adams. His affections are reciprocated.

Hale is distinctly revolutionary in his sentiments and urges his pupils on to enthusiasm for the Colonies and love of George Washington. Guy Fitzroy, a cousin of Alice and an unwelcome suitor for her hand, is an officer in the British army, and is hated and feared for his cruelty. Alice joins in the general dislike for him and spurns his proposal of marriage.

Have You Seen
ROMEO and JULIET
The Instantaneous Success?

If so, you should be interested in the mammoth production of

MACBETH

IN 5 PARTS

A vivid picturization of Shakespeare's immortal drama, introducing the great tragedian,

MR. ARTHUR BOUCHIER
As MACBETH

supported by an all star cast.

This paramount feature is now ready for State Rights buyers.

WIRE FOR YOUR TERRITORY TO

BIG A FILM CORP.
1547 Broadway, N. Y.

EXHIBITORS BOOKING GREATER NEW YORK AND NEW JERSEY APPLY BRANCH OFFICE, 145 W. 45th STREET

Hale's schoolhouse is seized by the Revolutionists for a meeting place, and Hale devotes his time to organizing a company from among the volunteers and instructing them in the art of war. After twelve months of privation and hard fighting, Hale and his companions are almost exhausted, but they struggle on. For his splendid work, Hale is honored with a captain's commission, and Alice is prouder than ever of her soldier lover.

The crucial point in the war is reached and the fate of the American nation depends upon their obtaining intelligence of the methods of the British. To do this, it is necessary for some man to act as a spy, and at the risk of his life go into the enemy's quarters and learn their secrets. Despite the plea of Colonel Knowlton, Alice's guardian, for volunteers, none of the soldiers respond, until Nathan Hale's voice rings out, "I will go." Alice rushes to her lover and begs him for her sake to desist, but Hale is obdurate and he leaves for the British camp.

In the British quarters, Hale's identity is unsuspected, until in defending a woman against a soldier's insult, he attracts to himself the attention of Fitzroy. Fitzroy has a vague recollection of having seen Beacon (as Hale now calls himself) at some previous date and he finally remembers that this is the schoolmaster who had won his cousin's love and had spoken harshly against the king. He feels sure that Hale is a spy and endeavors to get him drunk, believing that then he would reveal his identity. This plan fails, so he sends one of his lieutenants to Alice's home with a note that Nathan Hale is wounded and wishes to see her before he dies. He then accuses Hale of being a spy and tells him that his sweetheart has been sent for and that her recognition and surprise when she faces him will convict him. Hale thinks quickly and by a ruse manages to get word to Alice to be on her guard. Alice pretends she does not know Hale. Fitzroy is taken somewhat aback but watches the couple from behind a closed shutter. For a few moments Hale and Alice talk guardedly, feeling themselves watched, but at last unable to resist his love, he seizes her in his arms.

Fitzroy calls "spy," and soldiers rush on the scene. Overcoming those nearest, Hale seizes Alice and dashes off on his horse. They are, however, overtaken by the pursuing soldiers and Hale is brought back a prisoner while Alice continues on to headquarters with the valuable notes he had made. Hale is condemned as a spy and sentenced to be hanged.

Through all his imprisonment he bears himself with a manly nobility that wins for him even the enemy's love. On the eve before the execution Alice bids her beloved a last goodby. At sunrise Nathan Hale is led to the scene of the hanging. When asked if he has anything to say for himself, he answers, "I only regret that I have but one life to give to my country," and nobly ascends to his death.

PARAMOUNT PICTURE CORP.

SEVENTEEN (Famous Players— Five parts —Nov. 2).—The cast: Lola Pratt (Louise Huff); William Sylvanus Baxter (Jack Pickford); May Parcher (Winifred Allen); Jane Baxter (Madge Evans); George Cooper (Walter Hiers); Genesis (Dick Lee); Johnny Watson (Richard Rosson); Joe Bullit (Julian Dillon); Mrs. Baxter Helen Lindroth); Mr. Baxter (Anthony Merlo). Directed by Robert G. Vignola.

William Sylvanus Baxter, who has reached the age of seventeen, has deluded himself into believing that he really ought to shave and has renounced "women" for all time. But the arrival of Lola Pratt and her toy dog, Floppit, reduce him to the final stages of adoration and subjugation. Having become Miss Pratt's abject slave, William becomes conscious of the defects of his small sister, Jane, aged ten, who persists in trying to eat all the apple sauce and bread in the world, who dresses too scantily in hot weather to suit his rigorous code—and who comports herself in a manner that is trying to a young man in love.

William's first humiliation comes when he encounters Miss Pratt and Floppit while assisting the hired man, Genesis, to carry home a second-hand wash boiler. William flees in horror. At the first party given by his old, and somewhat scorned friend, May Parcher, in honor of Miss Pratt, William surreptiously dons his father's dress suit in order to counteract the effect of George Cooper's handsome new roadster, which seems to have greatly impressed Miss Pratt. But he is doomed to humiliation by the arrival of Genesis who announces that Mr. Baxter wants William to bring his clothes back at once.

There is another party at the Parcher's in anticipation of which Mrs. Baxter has hidden her husband's dress clothes against the depredations of William. As a result, the youth finds himself without suitable apparel to wear and is only relieved by the relenting of his mother. But he arrives so late that Miss Pratt's dance card is completely filled. She takes pity first Illinois Cavalry when they return from the border. Subtitle: Judge K. M. Landis delivers the official speech of welcome.

Denver, Col.—Citizens turn out in large numbers to welcome Col. Roosevelt when he arrives here.

San Diego, Cal.—(Los Angeles and San Francisco only)—The members of the Women's Hughes Trans-Continental Special receive a warm welcome when they arrive in the city. Subtitle: Many thousand orphans gather in the exposition grounds to hear their addresses. After the campaign oratory, the suffragettes seize some Fair space.

New York City.—Many dignitaries attend services commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the chapel of St. Paul. Subtitle: The Society of the Sons of the Revolution participate in the ceremonies.

Miscellaneous Subjects

BLUEBIRD PHOTOPLAYS, INC.

GLORIANA (Five Parts—Nov. 6).—The cast: Gloriana (Zoe Rae); her mother (Virginia Foltz), Dr. Manning (Wm. Canfield), Mrs. Manning (Clarissa Selwyn), Blake Manning (Gordon Griffith); Miriam (Irene Hunt); her mother (Mary Talbot), her father (John J. Cook). Written and directed by E. Mason Hopper.

Gloriana, a child of the stage, supports her mother while her father is in the trenches "somewhere in France." One day while Gloriana is giving her performance, a cable is handed to the mother informing her that the husband and father has been killed. The shock is more than the woman's weak heart can resist. There is a call for a physician from the audience. Dr. Manning is the physician who goes to the aid of the stricken woman. Gloriana's mother, fatally stricken, begs Dr. Manning to promise that he will see that the little girl is protected through life. The doctor promises and the woman expires. Turning from the death scene, Dr. Manning discovers that his little boy, whom he had taken to the show, and Gloriana have already become friends, and when the little boy adds his request that Gloriana may go home with them, Dr. Manning consents. The little girl is finally adopted by Dr. Manning.

Mrs. Manning is not at all pleased with the arrangement, although Gloriana's ways and cleverness soon win the woman's heart. Mrs. Manning is an aristocrat with a hobby for charitable work, but in foreign countries. She is an ardent worker in the cause of suspenders for Fiji Islanders, but fails to see the need of aid and clothing for the poor of her own city.

Gloriana has taken much interest in Mrs. Manning's charity. The child has found plenty of subjects for her charity, although her deeds have all been in small measure because of her limited means. But when, one day, she finds an especially needy case she sets about finding the way. Her course is to rob Mrs. Manning's writing desk of a considerable amount of money the woman had collected for her foreign charities.

When the robbery is discovered and the servants are all called in and questioned or accused, Gloriana is moved to compassion. She explains that the money has been stolen by a man who has compelled Gloriana, who witnessed the act, to keep silent under pain of death. This story sounds very well, as Gloriana rattles it off, but in getting down to details the child becomes entangled in her statements and finally confesses that she has herself stolen the money and invented the burglar tale. Gloriana tells that she has spent the money in charity, basing her act upon a remark Mrs. Manning had made in a speech, and that she thought the poor who surrounded her need help more than the foreigners. Mrs. Manning sees the light and Gloriana has been the cause of an awakening for the aristocratic woman with her haughty theories on charity.

SELZNICK PICTURES.

WAR BRIDES (November Release)—The cast: Joan (Nazimova); George (Chas. Hutchinson), Franz (Chas. Bryant); Eric (William Bailey); Arno (Richard S. Barthelmess); Amelia, their sister (Nila Mack); their mother (Gertrude Berkeley); the king (Alexander K. Shannon); Lieutenant Hoffman (Robert Whitworth); Captain Bragg (Ned Burton); Minna (Theodora Warfield); a financier (Chas. Chailles).

The story first shows the life of the peasants of the mythical kingdom in which the scenes take place. The poor people have been oppressed by a grasping owner of a factory, and in a strike which ensues the workers are led by Joan. The workers win, and celebrate their victory at a picnic, where Joan meets Franz, a young farmer, one of four brothers, who live with their widowed mother, and their sister, Amelia. Franz and Joan become lovers and are betrothed, when the shadow of war is seen on the horizon of the country. Franz is eager to fight for his country, but Joan is filled with apprehension. They cease working on the little home they had begun to build, but before Franz leaves with the troops they are married.

As the brief honeymoon passes Joan becomes more and more depressed by a sense of impending tragedy, and at length the young husband leaves with his regiment. One by one the other brothers are drafted into the ranks, until at last the bride, the sister and the mother are left alone to weep and hope against fear for the return of the loved ones. Then comes news of a great battle, and with it information that Franz has been killed. Joan, in her desperation, first thinks only of her bereavement, and is determined to end her own life as well. But the aged mother of the dead husband reminds her of a new duty which confronts her. A sewing basket filled with baby garments in the making brings Joan back to a realization of her responsibility to a child which will be born, fatherless. So she sadly takes up the thread of her existence once more.

Meanwhile soldiers are falling by thousands in the battles, and the military authorities conceive the idea of compelling the young, unmarried women to marry soldiers on the eve of their departure for the war, so that in the years to come there may be more soldiers to carry out the imperial ideas of power. To Joan, in her grief-burdened state, the idea is revoting. Her old talents for leadership, developed in the strike, come to the surface, and she goes among the women, arguing against permitting themselves to be made victims and tools of the ruling powers.

This action brings Joan under the displeasure of the military authorities, and when she persuades her sister-in-law, Amelia, not to become the war bride of the commander in the village, Lieutenant Hoffman, Joan is ordered shot. When it is learned that she is to be a mother, however, the order is rescinded, and she is sent to jail.

In her cell Joan learns that the king is to pass through the village, and working upon the sympathies of the woman jailer she escapes and spreads the news. Mourning has been forbidden by royal edict, but Joan persuades the women to disobey, and in deepest black they go to meet the monarch, carrying their babes in their arms, as a protest against the war. She promises to deliver a message to the king that may perhaps bring their loved ones back from the trenches.

The king approaches, and the women go to meet him. Without using violence the civil and military authorities are unable to stem the tide of distressed humanity, and as women are now held immune from punishment for purposes of state the women march on. As they near the royal entourage the soldiers make a desperate effort to stop them by threatening to shoot their leader, Joan. But the fearless woman darts to where the king is watching the strange scene and there delivers a message—her own message, in her own way, typifying the revolt of the women of the country against the oppression under which they have suffered.

Steadier Light

The alternations of the current in an alternating-current arc cause the light to flicker. This flickering is made more noticeable on the screen if the shutter is not operating properly, causing fatigue to the patrons' eyes and making them dissatisfied. The current in a direct-current arc flows continuously in the same direction so that its light is steady and restful.

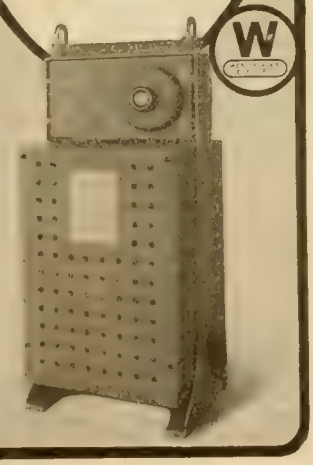
If your electric service is only alternating current, a

Westinghouse-Cooper Hewitt Rectifier Outfit

will convert it into the direct current you need. These outfits are automatic, they regulate the current to produce the steady pictures your patrons like so well. Write for folder 4205-C for more particulars.

Westinghouse Electric & Mfg. Co.

East Pittsburgh, Pa.



GREATER VITAGRAPH.

THE SCARLET RUNNER (Episode No. 8—"The Glove and the Ring"—Two Parts—Nov. 20).—Christopher Race, in Italy, after bringing a party there in his car, Scarlet Runner, meets and becomes quite intimate with the Marchese Baria, a young man who has been in love with a young woman, but who has been turned down because of his failing health. Since then, Baria has had no desire to live. Christopher takes a liking to Baria and is amused by his story. He suggests that Baria accompany him on part of the return trip, knowing that the out-of-door life will benefit him. The Marchese sees a chance to become fatally ill through exposure to the cold air and accepts.

On the trip, Baria improves annoyingly, but Race assures him that it is a mere flash of life before the end. One evening on a mountainous road, they come across a cart drawn by two horses with no driver. Women's articles, a glove and a ring among them, lead them to suspect that murder has been committed. They follow the horses to a small farmhouse. After being taken prisoners by the farmers, Baria and Christopher explain their position, and learn that the mysterious girl was a friend of the farmer's country, from which she was a political refugee.

By means of Scarlet Runner, they follow and catch another auto bearing the girl and her abductors. A rescue is effected after a fight. Baria takes the girl and her father home with him, the girl to pose as his fiancee. On his return to England, Christopher receives a letter from the Marchese, saying that the girl is no longer posing as his fiancee—she is his wife.

THE PRICE OF FAME (Five parts—Nov. 13). The cast: John Thatcher and William Thatcher (Marc Macdermott); Constance Preston (Naomi Childers); Metz (L. Rogers Lytton); Mr. Thatcher (Logan Paul); Mrs. Thatcher (Mary Maurice); Butler (Mr. Quinn). Written and directed by Charles J. Brabin.

They were twins, and the passing years had

ECLAIR.

THE BAD SAMARITAN (Two parts—Nov. 18).—The cast: Fite (Fred G. Hearn); Simon Hibler, lawyer (Hal Wilson); Leo Ballinger, his nephew (Harry Schenck); Straw Hat (Lindsey J. Hall); Derby (Henry Alrich); Jeff Brandsford (Norbert Myles); Nona Gunter, Hibler's ward (Edna Payne).

Fite, a workingman, who has saved money to send for his wife and daughter, falls in with a couple of crooks. They decide to rob him, but upon learning his story they decide not to. Jeff Brandsford, cowboy and adventurer, has lost all his money and falls in with Ballinger, nephew of a rich man who will not advance him money. Jeff saves Fite from hanging himself and then he meets Ballinger and they decide to help Fite out, he having lost all of his money. Fite gets back his money and some time later, after working hard, Ballinger returns to his uncle's house where he claims Nona, his uncle's ward, as his wife.

MUTUAL MASTERPICTURE.

IMMEDIATE LEE (American—Five parts—Nov. 13).—The cast: Immediate Lee (Frank Borzago); Beulah (Anna Little); John Masters (Chick Morrison); Kentucky Hurley (Jack Richardson.

Immediate Lee, employed on the ranch owned by one Masters, is discharged by the manager through the influence of one of his men, who is in the brand blotting game with Masters. Beulah, a dance-hall girl, has attracted the attention of Hurley, a brand blotter, but prefers Lee. Hurley entraps Lee and cuts his mouth open with a wide gash, which leaves a permanent scar. Lee vows vengeance and follows the man all over the country. He at last meets him face to face, but Hurley is saved by the intercession of Beulah. He later is killed in a fierce encounter. The brand blotters are discovered and punished by the aid of Immediate Lee, and Beulah receives the reward of loyalty and devotion by becoming Lee's wife.

VOGUE.

LOST, STRAYED OR STOLEN (Two parts—Nov. 19).—The cast: The butler (Ed Laurie); The broker (Arthur Moon); The new butler (Paddy McQuire); The new broker's wife (Gypsy Abbott); The Chicken (Margaret Templeton).

This is all about a thousand-dollar bank note that the broker presented to his wife. She drops it, the butler picks it up and fearing discovery hides it in a can, which he throws into the alley. Later the can is tied to a dog's tail, it comes off and is picked up by a motorist and the bill drops onto the grass. A little boy ties it onto the end of his kite, and the kite breaks off and the bill is left dangling before the eyes of Paddy, the new butler in the broker's house. The broker has been carrying on a flirtation with a "chicken," so his wife gets the new broker to dress up and take her out for dinner. He has the broker's wife's purse and here she finds it. It is the reason for her attacking the chicken, with whom her husband is dining and then nestling in the broker's arms.

Pathe Exchange, Inc.

PATHE NEWS, NO. 87—(Oct. 28).—

Long Branch, N. J.—James W. Gerard, American Ambassador to Germany, visits President Wilson at Shadow Lawn to report personally the real possibilities of peace in Europe.

Provincetown, Mass.—A new Spanish submarine, built in American shipyards, undergoes successful trials before being taken abroad. Sub-titles: Submerging. The crew is made up of Spanish sailors.

New York City.—A new floating police station, the first of its kind to be used in the country, is put in commission to aid in capturing river pirates. Sub-titles: All of the police boats gather to greet their new companion. Commissioner Woods has also recruited a corps of Junior Police to aid him in keeping the city's youngsters from mischief.

The Courtship of Miss Vote.—(Magazine Section).—An Animated Cartoon by Leighton Budd.

Akron, Ohio.—Tired of waiting until grow folks offer to take them out for a ride in their automobiles, little Bob Jones and his sweetheart decide to go autoing in their own car. Sub-titles: "Gas twenty cents a gallon? Give me a dime's worth for my car."

Younkers, N. Y.—Trouble between the striking carmen and traction companies is not yet ended, and policemen guard each car as it is put in operation after a lapse of seven weeks. Sub-titles: A dynamite explosion of suspicious origin also occurs in the New York City subway, tearing a big hole in the street.

El Paso, Texas.—The Elephant Butte Dam, the largest irrigation project in the world, is formally dedicated by Mr. A. A. Jones, personal representative of President Wilson. Sub-titles: Eight hundred and sixty-two million gallons of water are now stored in the huge dam, ready to irrigate the southwestern fields.

Hoboken, N. J.—Field Artillery regiments also return from the border as the need for the full force of the country's National Guard to protect the boundary line gradually disappears. Sub-titles: Their wagons rumbling through the streets make Hoboken resemble a town on the European battle fronts.

Barcelona, Spain. Charitable women give an outing to many orphaned children in their care, who have lost parents and homes in the remorseless struggle that grips the Old World. Sub-title: Little do they realize the terrible effects of the war on their future career.

New Orleans, La.—(New Orleans only).—Mr. - rthur, a local inventor, tries out his new gun camera, with which he is able to photograph wild animals at a distance. Sub-title: A successful picture.

PATHE NEWS NO. 88 (Nov. 1).

New York City.—The Freshmen prove too strong for the Sophomores of the City College in their annual rush and they capture the much-coveted flag. Subtitles: The Freshmen of New York University, however, do not fare so successfully, and have to submit to a Hallowe'en ducking by the Sophomores.

Athens, Greece.—Immense crowds favoring their country's entrance into the war on the Entente Powers, hold a great demonstration at the home of ex-Premier Venizelos. Subtitles: Mr. Venizelos thanks his followers for their warm support of his cause.

On the Eastern Front.—The Russians have again taken the offensive in Galicia and large numbers of new troops are ready for a supreme effort to clear the enemy off their soil. Subtitles: The regiment's priest blesses the troops before they leave for the front. Endless lines of soldiers pass through the city of Nisco on their way towards the advanced positions of the Germans.

Most advanced styles in men's smart clothes for fall and winter.—Subtitles: Correct formal attire for morning and afternoon wear. Courtesy of Stein-Bloch Company. A semi-formal overcoat showing the style influence of European trench warfare. Another adaption of the army overcoat for the young civilian. A belted back model for sport or informal wear. Courtesy of Stein-Bloch Company.

Shellmound, Tenn.—Tourists make a trip through the picturesque Great Smoky Mountains to explore the wonders of the famous Nickajack Cave. Subtitles: The entrance of the cave. Some of the formations of stalactites and stalagmites which abound in this subterreanean cavern. A backwoodsman waiting patiently for stray game.

Albuquerque, N. M.—Many old-time members of his famous Rough Rider Division welcome Colonel Roosevelt when he invades the Southwest in the interests of the Republican campaign. Subtitles: His audience of ranchmen and cowboys approves his statement that America should not be too proud to fight. He is presented with bouquets by the Misses Louden, heroines of many Mexican raids. His popularity in Chicago has not waned, as is evidenced by the tumultuous reception accorded him by thousands of staunch admirers.

West Point, N. Y.—The Plebes of the United States Military Academy are quick to learn the Famous West Point marching step as they drill in their field uniforms.

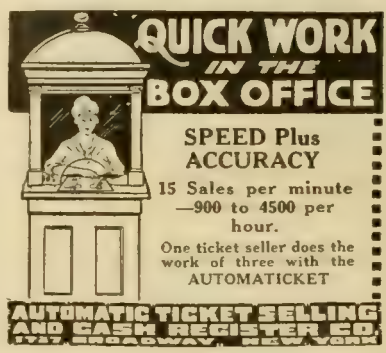
Salem, Ill.—The closing days of the campaign are marked by great activity in both parties and the Democrats recruit William Jennings Bryan to aid the President's re-election. Subtitles: The great orator still retains his former campaign vigor. The Empire State's delegation to Shadow Lawn is the largest of the season.

Washington, D. C.—Mrs. Belva Lockwood, the noted international peace advocate who was the only woman ever nominated for the Presidency, celebrates her eighty-sixth birthday.

Fort Sheridan, Ill.—(Chicago only)—Several thousand people from the Windy City participate in a rousing welcome to the boys of the

WATCH FOR
E. & R.
Jungle Film Comedies
E. & R. JUNGLE FILM CO.
Los Angeles, Cal.

For Perfect Laboratory Results
INSTALL
CORCORAN TANKS
A. J. CORCORAN, Inc. 11½ JOHN STREET NEW YORK CITY



Willis & Inglis
Wright and Callender Building
LOS ANGELES, CAL.
AFFILIATIONS
Roehm & Richards, Strand Bldg., New York
Edward A. Wheeler, Schiller Bldg., Chicago
Lyall Willis, London, England
MANAGEMENT
ENGAGEMENTS
FINANCING
BOOKS AND PLAYS
STUDIO LIGHTING
PUBLICITY

The Original and Leading Moving Picture Journal in Europe
The Kinematograph Weekly
The reliable Trade organ of Great Britain; covering the whole of the British Film market, including the American imported films. Read by everyone in the industry. Specialist writers for Finance, Technical Matters, Legal, Musical, Foreign Trading (correspondents throughout the world)—and every section devoted to the Kinematograph. Specimen copy on application to:—
The Kinematograph Weekly, Ltd.
9-11 Tottenham Street, London, W., Eng.

THE CATALOGUE OF
Brush Electric Lighting Sets
contains much that is valuable about electric lighting in general, and moving picture work in particular. Send for it.
THE CHAS. A. STRELINGER CO.,
Box MP-2, Detroit, Mich., U. S. A.

CONDENSER
BREAKAGE STOPPED
by using the Preddey Mount: fits any lamp in a moment. Very simple and rugged. Pays for itself in a week. Lasts forever. Get circular. Positively stops breaking. Price $4.50. Used everywhere. Condenser expenses ended or money back.
W. G. PREDDEY
669 Haight Street
San Francisco, Cal.

spises Dick as he sells his services for gold, and nor Scott. Then follows a romance between the two as Betty thinks that she loves the man. When Dorothy tells her uncle that her honor demands that he leave Scott the Count is furious. He asks an explanation of Scott and when the other refuses to make good the wrong that he has done the Count swears revenge.

One day Thomas gets drunk and insults some natives. As a result he is put in prison. Betty is much worried when her escort does not return and tells Scott of her fears. He decides that he can get her father out and goes to the Count to demand an explanation. The result is that the Count lets Thomas go but imprisons Scott. He has the American chained in the torture room and whipped. When Dick is going on Dick comes in and the Count shows him the torture that a spoiled American can endure. It so angers Dick to think that an American citizen should be treated this way that he makes the Count sign Scott's release at the point of a gun. He also has the Count to have him hold the boat so that he can make his escape and gives him a note to Betty saying what he has done.

Dick is captured and is unable to give the note to Betty until the [illegible] to sail. She is indignant at the thought that they are going away and leaves her note to his fate. She goes to an American warship that is lying in the harbor and with the aid of the men that they furnish goes to rescue Dick from the torture that they are putting him through. At last she realizes that it is Dick whom she loves.

RED FEATHER.

THE HERITAGE OF HATE (Five Parts, Nov 13).—The cast: Roberta (Roberta Wilson); Bradley (William Quinn); Mrs. Bradley (Lillian Concord); Ellen (Ethel Sedgwick); Richard Brockton (Alfred Wellesley); Christine (Betty Schade); Orloaf (Paul Byron); Myra (Betty Hart). Scenario by E. J. Clawson. Produced by Burton George.

Bradley, who had been living with Myra for some time, was also making love to Florence and finally won her consent to their marriage. And so in poverty and without a name Roberta was born, and as she grew older she watched her mother die from a broken heart. Within her grew a desire for revenge upon the man who was her father and who had caused her mother's death.

Bradley has become wealthy and is living happily with his wife and daughter, Ellen. Ellen is affianced to Richard Brockton. Bradley is anxious for the marriage to take place, as he might need Brockton's financial aid. Bradley is carrying on his business loosely and stakes his all in a venture which will either mean ruin or immense wealth for him.

Orloaf, a hunchback, is Bradley's closest friend. Roberta obtains a position as his confidential secretary and plans to ruin him. Before Bradley's secret commands can be carried out they are common knowledge and so his plans are frustrated. A friendship ripens between Roberta and Orloaf, who lives at the same apartment house, but he being a cripple thinks he cannot show his love and she living without a name, thinks love is not for her.

Bradley is carrying on an affair with Christine, who does not know of his married life. Roberta discovers this and so tells Christine about Mrs. Bradley and Ellen, and also tells her that she is his daughter. Christine seeks him out at his home during the progress of a big ball. Christine causes quite a commotion and in spite of Bradley's endeavor to make her keep still she tells everything. At this moment the wharf and the ship all of [illegible]'s fortune—are burned.

Later Roberta and Orloaf meet at the Mission, where Hoffman's picture of Christ is hanging and Roberta realizes how shallow and selfish is the havoc she has wrought. Orloaf tries to cheer her, tries to bring out the best that is in her but when she realizes what she has done life holds no charms for her and she tries to kill herself after writing a note to Orloaf telling him of her love for him. This note he reads and reseals and after reviving Roberta tells her of his love.

UNIVERSAL.

ANIMATED WEEKLY, No. 81.—Nov. 14. Sleeps Eighty-five Days.—Recovering new sleeping drug. American doctor tries it on himself, planning to slumber till end of war. Arit/o. Italy. Sub-title: Doctors making test on eight-fifth day.

College Boys Frolic.—1,000 students make merry at University of Kentucky, Lexington, Ky. Sub-title: "Who said rats."

Harvesting Help at Wholesale.—Women join farmers in annual round-up of rabbits that destroy crops. Palmdale, Cal. Sub-titles: One of the victims. To be sold for charity.

Safety First at Sea.—In new lifesaving device, men, women and children dare dangerous sea. Sandy Hook, N. J. Sub-title: Overboard.

Mass Recruiting Record.—Takes only fifteen days to enlist 1,000 men for coast artillery regiment. Los Angeles, Cal. Sub-title: Col. Light (left) congratulated on recruiting speed.

Music for Lunch.—Guarde Republicaine, France's famous band, march to eat with Lord Mayor.—London, England.

Scrambled Eggs for Freshmen.—Sophomores at Dental School welcome new class in battle of eggs.—Philadelphia, Pa.

Villa Still Gets Arms in U. S.—Machine guns on way to murderous bandit seized by Federal Marshal.—Los Angeles, Cal.

Here's a Fine Job!—How'd you like to wriggle out of strait-jacket while hanging by legs in air?—Chicago, Ill. Sub-title: "Going up."

Tempts Death Too Often.—Of the four airmen, who thrilled thousands at San Francisco Fair, Pettirossi is third to be killed.—La Plata, Argentina. Sub-titles: With wife, before making flight at fair. Playing with death, he loops-the-loop five times. After a fall. Chas. F. Niles, sole survivor, now in hospital after fall in Japan.

World's Greatest Guns.—The Pennsylvania, new U. S. sea terror, is now at first gun practice off Virginia.—Brooklyn Navy Yard, N. Y. Sub-titles: Giant guns, three to each turret, can fire in any direction. One salvo from these monsters could level city, twenty miles distant. View of mighty dreadnought from her fighting top.

Can't Go Fast Enough.—Fifty miles an hour used to be fast, but it takes nearly 120 miles now to win.—Sheepshead Bay Speedway, N. Y. Sub-titles: "Here he comes, there he goes." Fighting for the lead. The winner.

Hughes' Boosters.—Crowd greet Women's Special from East on arrival at Los Angeles, Cal.

Cartoons by Hy. Mayer.

Mutual Film Corporation

CUB.

HER SUN KISSER HERO (Nov. 17).—The cast: The boys (Neal Burns and Harry Ham); the peach (Betty Compson); the lifeguard (Dave Morris).

Harry and Neal are financially hard pressed and decide to spend the summer at the beach. They gain employment as clerks at the Seabright Hotel. Days pass and still no pretty girls come to the hotel and the boys are getting discouraged. Finally one day a peach arrives with her mother and at once the boys attempt to get in solid.

Neal succeeds in making a date with her, and she promises to meet him on the beach in the afternoon. Here Neal's hopes are wrecked, for the peach meets the sun-kissed hero of the beach, the lifeguard, and immdiately she loses interest in Neal. Harry, although he sees no chance of winning the peach himself, is not willing to resign in favor of the lifeguard. He learns that the hero of the beach is married, and going to his house tells his wife of his attentions to the fair sex on the beach. She, accompanied by her four children, are very indignant and go with Harry to see her husband's behavior for herself.

Arriving at the beach, Neal frames with an old fisherman for a false rescue and shows up the phoney lifeguard, who refuses to go after the fisherman. Neal makes the rescue and at once becomes the center of attraction for all the girls.

Harry and the lifeguard's family arrive just as a fitting climax to the day's happenings, and while the disconsolate guard is taken away by the wife and numerous progeny, Neal attempts to force his attention on Betty, whose interest is now centered in the half-drowned Joe. She exists with him, leaving both her erstwhile lovers disconsolate.

FILM TITLES
English and Foreign
Economical and Satisfactory Work
F. THOMANDER
145 West 45th Street
Phone, Bryant 6836

L. A. MOTION PICTURE CO.
Manufacturers of high grade studio equipment
215-217 E. Washington Street
LOS ANGELES, CAL.

"ARGONAUTS OF CALIFORNIA"
DAYS OF '49
A Thrilling Historical Masterpiece in 10 Reels
Grafton Publishing Film Company
LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA
STATE RIGHTS NOW SELLING.

Are You Tired
of playing waltzes and popular songs for all your pictures? Try "bringing out" the dramatic scenes with dramatic music. The Orpheum Collection
contains the best music of this kind published. Issued in Three Series.
No. 1, No. 2 and No. 3.
Piano (24 pages each), 58 cts. for each series; $1.15 for any two; $1.70 for all three. Violin, 40 cts. each; 75 cts. for any two; $1.05 for all three. Cornet, 35 cts. each; 65 cts. any two; 95 cts. all three. First and second series have parts for Cello, Flute, Clarinet, Trombone and Drums. Practical for Piano alone, or in combination with any above instruments. Discounts on orders for four or more parts. Send for free sample pages. Note new address.
CLARENCE E. SINN
1103 Grace Street Chicago, Ill.

Will you give one family
A MERRY XMAS DINNER?

We are but your agents—you are the host.
31,000 poor people cheered last Xmas in the U. S. by The Salvation Army.
Help us in this way to get close to these people. Give them at least one happy day in the year.
$2.00 Feeds a Family of Five
Send Donations to Commander Miss Booth
118 West Fourteenth Street, New York City
Western Dept., Comm. Estill, 108 N. Dearborn St., Chicago

In answering advertisements, please mention The Moving Picture World

AMERICAN STANDARD MOTION PICTURE MACHINE
FLICKERLESS
110 W. 40TH STREET, NEW YORK

AMERICAN
Fotoplayer
(Trade Mark Registered)
The Musical Marvel Write for Catalogue
AMERICAN PHOTO PLAYER CO.
62 West 45th St. New York City

